MRS. RUBY SNELL ACQUITTED

The trial of Mrs. Ruby Snell for the murder of her small son by drowning at her home near Fowlerville started at Howell Monday. She was represented by Frank Shields and Don VanWinkle and Hiram Smith is handling the case for the people. The following men composed the jury George Clark, Putnam, Arthur Shehan Hamburg, Roy Shellhart, Unadilla, Charles Gauthrow, Genoa, James Allen, Green Oak, Fred Crippen Brighton, J. Morgan, Tyrone, Ray Harwood, Marion, Martin George Oceola, Burt Wakeman, Tyrone, Adam Webber, Brighton and Francis Murningham Marion. One woman Hazel Hinchey of Unadilla was accused.

Most of the witnesses called so far have testified to her mental condition. The defense contends that she was mentally unbalanced at the time of the murder and the prosecution disputes this.

Tuesday she was found not guilty on account of insanity at the time of the deed. The jury was only out 39 minutes. As she was just declared sane by a sanity commission of three doctors, no further action is possible. Her husband, John Snell, was not in court during the trial. It is announced that she will visit a sister in Pennsylvania.

PAVEMENT COMPLETED at LAST

The last bit of concrete on the pavement of the Pinckney Main St. was poured Monday. There remains to be completed a little curbing in the west end of town and some grading where the curbing was put in It was thrown open for traffic from the eastern end to the residence of Dr. C. L. Sigler last week and it is expected that it will all be open for traffic this week Saturday. It was hoped that the concrete work would be finished last Friday but the cement supply became exhausted and none arrived until Saturday afternoon. The people of Pinckney will be heartily glad when the main thorofare is once more available for traffic. Since the 9th of last July when the street was closed and the paving work started, the town has resembled Goldsmith's Deserted Village. All of the traffic which formerly passed through the village was forced to detour around it. However this was but a necessary annoyance and the amount of travel on the road when it is again open will undoubtedly be greatly increased. The paving gang has been much handicaped by lack of labor lack of supplies and lack of equipment. There were fears at one time that the work would not be completed this fall and that it would be necessary to travel the rough detours all winter. However these fears proved to be unfounded.

In line with the spirit of progress manifested here of late, we are informed that boulevard lights will be installed in the business section in the spring. This was the reason that the strip between the curbing and the sidewalk in the business section was not cemented. The Edison Co. asked that this be left in it's present state to enable them to lay their pipes for the light wires. The entire cost of the new lights and the installing of them will be paid for by the Edison Co. They will also cement the strip from the curb to the sidewalk. Several people have requested that the council have three stop lights installed. One at Weddige's Oil Station, one at Lavey's Oil Station and another at Barry's Drug Store. Of course the cross traffic on M-49 does not need these lights but it would put a damper on speed demons who drive through here at a 40 mile an hour clip or better. Whether there will be a celebration in honor of the opening of the pavement here is not known. Most towns give a free dance on the pavement with a brass band. Manchester pulled off one of those last week when their new paved street was opened.

LAST DANCE OF THE SEASON

Met Chalker will close his dance hall at Patterson Lake with a big farewell dance Saturday evening, November 3. Music will be furnished by the Wheeler & Taylor orchestra of Lansing. Dances part old and part new. Everybody invited.

Ninety couple attended the masquerade dance given there Saturday evening and a very enjoyable time was had. The first prize for the best men's costume was awarded to Bert VanBlaricum Jr. who was made up as Rudolph Valentino. His brother, Will, in the guise of a hobo received second. For the ladies the same family were likewise successful Bernice VanBlaricum dressed as Fauntelroy getting first and her sister, Ruth, as a gypsy maid, second.

NOTICE

There will be a free clinic held at the Cong'l. church for the examination of children from 2to 6 years old It will be conducted by the county nurse under the auspices of the Pinckney P. T. A. Dr. Harvey of Pontiac, children's specialist will be the physician in charge. Date will be announced later.

NOTICE

Residents along main street must not burn leaves or rubbish on the pavement, as heat is very injurious to same and will cause it to chip.

PINCKNEY TAKES 2 GAMES

The Pinckney high school foot ball team added two more victories to their list last week where they won from the Howell high school reserves at Howell last Wednesday by a score of 31 to 6 and defeated Dexter here Friday 14 to 12.

The game with the Howell Reserves was too one sided to be interesting. Pinckney was able to penetrate the Howell line at will and would have doubled the score if they had not made several fumbles and a few blunders. Nash and Graves made all the Pinckney touchdowns on line plunges and end runs. Gerald Kennedy got one extra point. Pinckney kept her hand hidden in this game using no trick plays and only one forward pass that failed.

Howell's touchdown was in the nature of a gift from Pinckney. H. Hall caught a Howell punt on the five yard line where he was downed. Pinckney instead of punting tried to rush the ball, fumbled on the second attempt and Howell got the oval and went over for a touchdown on the second try.

The game with Dexter Friday was hard fought and although the visitors were greatly outweighed they gave the locals the hardest battle they have had this year. Dexter showed a couple of speedy backs and a nice forward passing attack. Smith and Herrick made 30 and 40 yards gains repeatedly and were on the ends of the forward passing attack. Gerald Kennedy scored both of Pinckney's touchdowns on line plunges, getting one in each the first and second quarters. Dexter got one in the third when Steeb returned a kickoff 30 yards. A forward pass carried it to the five yard line and Smith took it over for a touchdown. In the last quarter Pinckney reached the five yard line but lost the ball on a fumble, here Smith was pushed over the line for a touchback In the closing moments Dexter again turned loose her forward passing attack and Herrick receiving the last one ran 40 yards for a touchdown.

WINS BRONZE TROPHY

Some time ago Lee Lavey, local Goodyear Tire Dealer won a base ball autographed by Babe Ruth and an engraved bronze plaque for selling the most tires in a salesmanship contest that the Goodyear Tire Co. put on. He received the baseball at the time and was presented with the plaque at a banquet given by the company at the Pleasant Lake country club near Ann Arbor last Thursday evening. The plaque is engraved with Mr. Lavey's name and states that he was awarded first prize in the Goodyear Salesmanship contest in 1928.

FOOTBALL HERE FRIDAY

The Pinckney high school football team will play the Ypsilanti Central high school reserves at Pinckney Friday afternoon at 4:00 p. m. The local team expect to have their regular line-up in the game and a good game should result. The record of the team so far is not bad at all. Starting the season with seven green men in the lineup they have won 5 games tied one and lost one up-to-date.

Cowards and Heroes

By JOHN BLAKE

ONE of the interesting fictions which bad literature nourishes and supports is that a noisy, boisterous man is necessarily a coward.

The blustering bad man and the quiet, modest hero are two of the favorite characters of authors and readers of popular adventure stories. In the inevitable clash between these two characters the poor bad man never has a Chinaman's chance.

He is always proved an arrant coward. The quiet one, usually flicking a speck of dust from his coat invariably emerges victorious from every encounter with his rival.

Everybody likes to think of an insolent, domineering bully getting his just deserts. If he gets them through an apparently weak, quiet little fellow, the picture is just that much more enjoyable.

Unfortunately, we cannot make a thing so merely by thinking of it. The things we imagine do not always exist in real life.

It is not always wise to assume that a loud talking, boastful ruffian is a poltroon, pleasing as the thought may be. Any such assumption is quite likely to lead one into a very embarrassing situation.

* * * * * * *

O. Henry once said that when it came to a choice between tackling a swaggering bully and a quiet stranger he would pick on the latter every time.

Nobody ever proved that John L. Sullivan was a coward. Yet it was Sullivan's habit to bring his fist down on the table and emphatically declare that he could lick every so and so in the world.

It was felt at the time that he did not exaggerate very much. At least few quiet strangers stepped noiselessly out of their obscure corners to prove that he was a liar.

It is, of course, a fact that fighting words do not make a fighting man.

* * * * * * *

Noise itself means little. The noisiest person may have far less ability than the person who does not loudly broadcast his merits and abilities.

But neither does noise prove that a man lacks courage or ability.

In fact, some of our most successful citizens are those who have shouted their own praises the loudest.

I do not say that this is meritorious. It would probably become them better to be more modest when referring to themselves.

But modesty pays few dividends. The world usually takes a man at his own valuation—at least until it finds him out.

Insolence is often a mask for cowardice and boastfulness is often a mask for incompetence. But not always.

The domineering bully may be an obnoxious nuisance. But that does not make him a coward by several jumps.

So if you decide to mix it with him be prepared for a real scrap. For it is about an even chance that you will find yourself engaged in one.

Getting "Fit;" Keeping "Fit"

By F. A. WALKER

THERE is a great deal being said these days on the interesting subject of getting "fit" and keeping "fit." We are told every little while how persons of note prepare themselves for their onerous duties, come breezily in their offices in the morning, settle themselves before their desks and without any apparent effort do a real man's job before the laggards get fairly in harness.

To the average young man or woman, the matter of getting "fit" and keeping "fit" is a more or less serious business.

It interferes with evening diversions, frivolous pleasures and silly social engagements, which in most cases are responsible for a very large percentage of the world's sorrows.

If you are observant as you loiter from play house to palatial restaurant, you will find that the men and women who are doing the really big things in life, are not to be seen in the gilded boxes or at the snowy clothed tables.

They are at home, storing their minds with something useful or snoring peacefully in bed getting natural sleep, resting, taking care of their bodies and conserving their energies for the work of the morrow.

They are getting "fit" and keeping "fit" in the correct way.

And you have only to look these men and women over in the morning to see that they are "fit" to grapple with any stubborn problem that may confront them confident of mastery.

Their minds are as clear as a bell, their hands as firm as the roots of an oak.

How then, seeing these successful men and women becoming more successful each passing day, stronger and richer at the end of each year, can you take note of their achievements and accomplishments without practicing their virtues and imitating their examples?

They have learned how to get "fit" and keep "fit."

And the methods they have adopted are so simple that you can embrace them as your own, become strong where you are weak, capable where you are inefficient and qualified to shoulder similar responsibilities with the same ease.

Get "fit" and keep "fit," ought to be the motto for everybody.

Fireproofing Paradox

Selenium of itself is very combustible, but when a dilute solution is applied to the insulation of braided telephone wires it makes the fine quite flame-proof. The paradox is not very clearly explained, but there are a few other chemicals which behave in the same manner.

Some Recipes Worth Trying

By NELLIE MAXWELL

ALMOST delightful salad and one which "will be enjoyed by all" is:

Rice Salad.

Cook three tablespoonfuls of rice in boiling salted water for ten minutes; drain and add one cupful of orange juice in a double boiler; cook until the rice is tender; cool, add one half cupful of blanched and shredded almonds, sprinkle with salt, arrange on slices of pineapple with balls of cottage cheese. Serve with French dressing. This is a salad appropriate to serve with a duck dinner.

Onions Stuffed With Ham.

Peel eight good-sized onions; cover with boiling water and boil until nearly tender; drain, rinse in cold water and drain again. Cut out the center of each onion to leave a cup. Sprinkle the inside with salt and pepper. Take one cupful of cooked ham chopped, one cupful of breadcrumbs, salt and teaspoonful of minced parsley, the onion taken from the centers chopped. Fill the onions, adding butter to season. Place them in a pan, add cream and cook until the onions are tender, basting often. Just before serving sprinkle generously with buttered crumbs and brown in a hot oven.

Vegetable Salad.

Arrange on a platter a mound of finely shredded lettuce and cucumber slices moistened with mayonnaise to which a few capers have been added. Cover with grated carrot and surround with slices of hard-cooked egg against which stand a tiny tree of cauliflower.

Cabbage Imperial.

Fold back three or four leaves from a firm head of cabbage. With a sharp knife cut out the center, leaving a thick wall. Take one cupful of cold cooked meat, one cupful of thinly sliced tomatoes, one cupful of sliced carrots, and enough of the cabbage chopped to fill the head. Season well and tie up in a cloth and steam until the cabbage is tender. Serve on a chop plate cut into pie-shaped pieces.

Concordia Salad.

Mix together two parts of shredded Chinese cabbage and one part of diced pineapple, one part of orange pulp and one part of seeded grapes. Lay on blanched lettuce and served with mayonnaise.

Proper Freedom

There are two freedoms—the false where a man is free to do what he likes; the true, where a man is free to do what he ought.—Charles Kingsley.

Brownie and the Loon

BILLIE BROWNIE had always wanted to talk to the bird known as the Loon or Great Northern Diver.

He had heard the expression "as crazy as a loon" and he knew it was always used when people did silly, crazy things.

He wondered if there was any truth in the expression or how it had started in the first place.

So he decided he would call upon a loon.

On his way there he wondered just how he would talk to the loon.

It was rather a difficult thing to go to a creature and say:

"Look here, old chap, they say a person is as crazy as a loon when that person has been behaving foolishly. Is it true? Are you about as crazy and foolish as a creature can be?"

Yes, it would be extremely difficult to say that, and yet that was just exactly what Billie Brownie wanted to find out.

He puzzled and he puzzled as to the way he would begin the conversation.

Perhaps he would start in by saying something about foolishness and then say, as though it had just occurred to him:

"By the way, they tell me you're a bit foolish yourself."

He was afraid, though, that he would not be able to say this in such a way as to make it sound as though he had just thought of it.

Then he wondered if he could talk about crazy things people had done and add:

"I don't suppose you've ever done anything silly, have you?"

But he was afraid that might not do. That might sound as though he had meant the conversation to lead up to that very subject—as was really the truth!

He didn't know what to do. And even after he saw the loon he did not know what to say. He decided to himself he would wait awhile and see whether the loon seemed sensitive or "touchy" or whether he appeared as though he would not mind what was talked of between them.

The loon did seem very nervous. He was, Billie Brownie soon saw, a most marvelous diver and he did his marketing with great ease and masterfulness.

He Did Not Know What to Say.

"You'll forgive me if I'm a bit restless," the loon said. "It's my disposition."

Billie Brownie was delighted. Here was the loon introducing the subject himself!

Billie needn't have spent so much time worrying and puzzling over what he might say.

"Are you so restless, then?" Billie Brownie returned. "I suppose your family all have the same kind of a disposition?"

Billie had long ago discovered that once a creature was started in talking about himself there was no effort about making him continue.

"Yes, we have much the same disposition divided up among the members of the family," the loon said.

Billie smiled to himself. The loon spoke as though dispositions were divided up as homes and gardens might be divided.

"You see we have always been restless. But we're not crazy when we're free.

"We're pretty foolish at times, now and again. But it is when we're put in close quarters that we go crazy.

"Yes, we go plain crazy—or fancy crazy if you'd prefer to speak of it in that way.

"They do not keep us in the zoos because we go crazy, lose our appetites and all our energy.

"We wouldn't mind, perhaps, if we had quantities of room, but quantities of room means to be free.

"It is when we have been in zoos and when we have gone crazy that people have seen us and have said:

"'See those crazy loons. How very, very crazy they are.'

"So we have the reputation of being crazy. 'Crazy as a loon' has become quite an expression.

"But I must go for a dive and swim now, Billie Brownie. Glad you called as the signs of either end of the town say to the automobile people who've come a-visiting."

And Billie Brownie went home with his question answered without having had to ask the question.

It May Be Urgent

When your Children Cry for It

Castoria is a comfort when Baby is fretful. No sooner taken than the little one is at ease. If restless, a few drops soon bring contentment. No harm done, for Castoria is a baby remedy, meant for babies. Perfectly safe to give the youngest infant; you have the doctors' word for that! It is a vegetable product and you could use it every day. But it's in an emergency that Castoria means most. Some night when constipation must be relieved—or colic pains—or other suffering. Never be without it; some mothers keep an extra bottle, unopened, to make sure there will always be Castoria in the house. It is effective for older children, too; read the book that comes with it.

When Food Sours

Lots of folks who think they have "indigestion" have only an acid condition which could be corrected in five or ten minutes. An effective anti-acid like Phillips Milk of Magnesia soon restores digestion to normal.

Phillips does away with all that sourness and gas right after meals. It prevents the distress so apt to occur two hours after eating. What a pleasant preparation to take! And how good it is for the system! Unlike a burning dose of soda—which is but temporary relief at best—Phillips Milk of Magnesia neutralizes many times its volume in acid.

Next time a hearty meal, or too rich a diet has brought on the least discomfort, try—

Touches that Add Style to Dresses

By MAE MARTIN

It's amazing to see how faded, out-of-style dresses can be transformed by a few buttons, a little braid and the quick magic of home dyeing or tinting. You don't need any experience to tint or dye successfully if you are sure to use true, fadeless Diamond Dyes. Tinting with them is easy as bluing, and dyeing takes just a little more time to "set" the colors. They never give things that re-dyed look which comes from using inferior dyes. Insist on Diamond Dyes and save disappointment. Over 20 million packages used a year.

My new 64-page illustrated book, "Color Craft," gives hundreds of money-saving hints for renewing clothes and draperies. It's Free. Write for it, now, to Mae Martin, Dept. G-143, Diamond Dyes, Burlington Vermont.

ONLY A POOL

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

THE heart must be
A crystal pool,
Through all life's turmoil
Calm and cool,
The things around
To know, to love,
And still reflect
The things above.

No argosies
Will plough its deep,
No passions o'er
Its waters sweep,
No gilded ships
Their pennons show,
But, oh, the peace
The heart will know!

For I care more
For peace than power,
And know no beauty
Like a flower.
I thank the God
Who made of me
Only a pool
And not the sea.

NEW YORK NEEDS NO MAYORS, NOW HAS 12

Locality Bosses Take Their Jobs Seriously.

New York.—Mayor Walker's many visits to other cities have inspired the rather satiric suggestion that the city charter be rewritten to provide New York with two chief executives—one to travel and develop new friends for the city, the other to remain at home and tend to the municipal knitting.

In truth, New York is abundantly equipped with mayors. Even with Mr. Walker away, the town is still blessed with the guidance of a dozen mayors. None of these others, true enough, may fill the mayoral chair at city hall or stand on the steps with Grover Whalen to pass out golden keys. Each, however, is a potentate of no mean standing and influence in his own community.

Inquire on Grand street for the mayor and people will point out "Stitch" McCarthy. On Allen street they will point you to Max Dick's office, not the city hall, when asked how to get to the mayor's.

Winning the Position.

New York takes its "locality mayors" quite seriously, and they take their titular honors with earnestness. Years of effort are sometimes necessary before the post is achieved—years of philanthropy and good fellowship.

One of the most strangely intrenched is Max Dick. The title "Mayor of Allen street" was given by popular acclaim. Along Allen street they bow gratefully before Max Dick, and small wonder. Even when the war sent rents soaring, Dick continued in his tenements his long established schedule of five dollars a room. This alone was a big enough factor in his popularity. For years, moreover, he has given substantial sums to parents—$50 at the birth of each child and $150 if a ninth enters a family. Race suicide is unknown in his tenements.

Two years ago Louis Zeltner, a former alderman, conceived the idea of organizing the "Locality Mayors of New York, Imperial Metropolis of the World." Though the organization banquet of the mayors at the Astor was threatened with disruption when each presented himself as a candidate for the post of chief mayor, harmony finally prevailed, and Jake Spero, mayor of Washington Heights, was elected as chief mayor, with "Stitch" McCarthy as deputy. None at the banquet could formulate a set of functions for the two offices, but the incumbents desired no duties; the titles were enough.

"Stitch" McCarthy, born Sam Rothenberg, a bondsman by vocation, later confided that he feared at the meeting that his recent removal to a home on St. Nicholas avenue would be disclosed. He felt that his constituents would consider St. Nicholas avenue too close to Riverside drive for the mayor of Grand street.

Has Record Wardrobe.

No little annoyance came into Joe Levy's life when he moved to Riverside drive. As mayor of Second avenue and Duke of Essex street, this picturesque lawyer of the Essex Market court, resplendent in silk hat, cutaway coat, malacca cane, spats, and diamond stickpin, might be seen at an Easter parade on the East side. His magnificence of dress, together with his boast of a record wardrobe, his ownership of an expensive car, his removal to Riverside drive, and his acquisition of a valet, inspired other aspirants for his honors to urge his deposition or abdication. But a busy few days among his constituents quelled the rebellion. As a special concession he removed the stick pin and tossed aside his Palm beach suit.

A few years ago a rival sought Levy's title as mayor of Second avenue. Polls were opened in the kitchen of a Second avenue restaurant and Levy won, 67 to 64.

Avenue B recognizes Frank Dostal as its mayor. In the Bronx Max Reich is sponsor for the welfare of Wilkins avenue, Morris Eisenstein looks after Bryant avenue, and Charlie Lynch takes care of Grand Concourse. H. Stuart Morrison is hailed as mayor of the West Midwood section of Brooklyn. Nat Vlodinger lords it over Eldridge street, Ed Rosenstein over Broome street, Herbert Nathan ove. St. Nicholas avenue, Herman Zoller over Forsyth street, and Phil Kardonick over Delancey street.

This incomplete roster should still those who urge that New York needs two mayors. It already has a multitude of them.

Swedish Wild Moose Foe of Match Supply

Stockholm.—The Swedish wild moose is threatening the country's match industry by feeding too generously on the aspen trees from which matches are made. For some years the factory has tried to raise these trees, but the attempts have been frustrated by the "monarch of the Swedish forests."

PALESTINE HIGH IN BIRTH FIGURES

Holy Land Now Leads Even Russia and Egypt.

Jerusalem, Palestine.—According to the latest census returns the holy land stands high on the list of the countries with a large child population.

In 1925 the Palestinian birth rate figure stood at 493 to every 10,000 inhabitants, while Egypt, known for its high birth rate and with a far lower percentage of European population, only registered 428 births for the same year and the same number of inhabitants, and even Russia with its populous families had a birth rate of but 400.

The Palestinian birth figure is almost three times that of Sweden, which only averages 175 births to every 10,000 of the population, and is more than two and a half times that of its mandatory, Great Britain, with its 183 births to every 10,000 of the population.

Moreover, the Palestinian birth rate is over double that of the United States, which stands at 226 per 10,000 of the country's population. But even compared with Italy and Japan, both countries with a high birth rate, the holy land retains its lead.

Nor is the high figure for 1925 merely accidental. The preceding year, as a matter of fact, showed a birth rate of 513 per 10,000 of the population, a figure that was even eclipsed in 1926, when it rose to 534. It was only in 1927 that there was a slight decline to 504 per 10,000.

Principally it is the Moslem section of the population that is responsible for this high birth rate which, in their case, reached the figure of 561 per 10,000 last year, with the Christian and Jewish sections following at a considerable interval with 389 and 351 births respectively to every 10,000.

Inspect Plane, Find Defect While in Air

Washington.—The story of an inspection of a defective airplane in flight by another plane has been reported to the War department from Rockwell field, California.

Lieut. A. C. Strickland, air corps, had taken off from Clover field, Santa Monica, Calif., for Rockwell field, at Coronado. As he took off, Clover field airmen noticed something apparently wrong with the landing gear of his plane.

Headquarters at Clover field immediately wired headquarters at Rockwell field about its misgivings, and another plane bearing a sign, "Do not land until O. K.'d by me" took the air to meet Strickland.

The landing gear of the plane was inspected from the air, and the inspecting plane landed and then flew up bearing a new sign reading "Left wheel several inches lower than right wheel." With this information to guide him, Lieutenant Strickland made a perfect landing in spite of the defect.

Suitor Borrows Ring; Jury Indicts Him

Boston.—Unable to keep up the payments on an engagement ring, it is alleged, Nathan Rosenthal of Roxbury "borrowed" the ring from his fiancee, Miss Diana Richmond of Malden, and returned it to the seller.

The Middlesex county grand jury indicted Rosenthal for larceny of the ring from Miss Richmond.

Rosenthal and Miss Richmond, the authorities allege, became formally engaged and he gave her the ring, said to be worth more than $900. They planned to marry this fall.

It is alleged that on August 26 Rosenthal visited the home of his fiancee and asked for the ring in order that he might have a wedding ring made in the same design. Upon being given the ring, it is charged, he walked out of the house with it.

First Ironclads Were Built in Argentina

Barracas, Argentina.—Iron vessels were being built in a local shipyard even before the battle of the Merrimac and the Monitor on March 9, 1862, old documents here reveal. A Scotsman here started building river craft from iron several years before the outbreak of the Civil war in the United States, and when the famous battle at Hampton Roads was reported to the outside world this pioneer, Thomas Harkness, offered to build a monitor like that of Ericsson for the Argentine government.

His specialty at that time, however, was iron lighters for the transport of cattle. One of these, christened Salud Senora, was 66 feet long, 22 feet wide and 5 feet deep, with a carrying capacity of 180 head of live cattle.

Tatooed Will Is Held Not Valid

Paris.—The will of a sailor tattooed on his chest is not a legal document, in the opinion of the French court.

"I leave my all to Suzanne," a seaman had inscribed in pinks and purples on his bosom, and when he died Suzanne tried to collect. The court ruled that wills, to be valid, must be made in duplicate and a copy filed with the law courts.

PYTHON RAISES CAIN IN HELL'S KITCHEN

Zaza's Pet Gets Loose and Stirs Things Up.

New York.—This much is certain—if Mrs. Peter Olsen, who is thirty-two, and a snake dancer in three-a-day vaudeville, takes that reptile back to her apartment, Mrs. Louis Munno, whose husband works nights, moves out. And who wouldn't?

This domestic impasse was arrived at logically, but amid considerable confusion and five stalwart cops, recently while a goodly assemblage from Hell's Kitchen, where lots of queer things happen, looked, listened and gasped.

Mrs. Olsen, whose dancing name is Alaida Zaza, had made a pet of an eight foot 35 pound brown and white python. Several days ago she went out and after she had returned late at night the python also went out—inexplicably. It may be that Bozo, Mrs. Olsen's pet monkey, loosened the door on the snake's cage—but be that as it is, nobody told Mrs. Munno, who lives on the same floor, about it.

Mrs. Munno Alarmed

Therefore, when a couple of jars crashed to the floor in Mrs. Munno's kitchen she naturally was alarmed. In another room, adjoining the kitchen, slept Joseph, her twelve-year-old son.

She cautiously opened the door for a peek, switching on the lights. She blinked once, for there, behind the stove, was a snake poking its head at her and hissing. One blink was enough. Gathering the loose folds of her dressing gown as best she could, Mrs. Munno dashed for the stairway and bounded down three and four steps at a time, emitting a scream per leap. And such screams! Patrolman Edward Welch says she was audible from Times square to the Hudson river.

Into the clammy morning and the arms of Welch dashed the vociferous Mrs. Munno.

"Oh, officer get your gun! There's a terrible snake or something in my apartment!"

Now, Officer Welch had heard those screams. And so he looked at Mrs. Munno with that pained expression with which any cop might be expected to look at any woman who, clad in a thin wrapper and a loud voice, comes dashing into the street at four o'clock in the morning talking excitedly about snakes.

Nevertheless, he went to investigate. As was to be expected the reptile resented this. Welch whacked at the snake with his night stick and the python defended himself as best he could. Welch ordered and executed a perfect one man retreat, while Mrs. Munno looked into the room of Joseph, by some miracle or other still asleep.

Patrolman Welch considered. This was a battle that already called for reinforcements. So he called the West 47th Street station.

"Say," he shouted. "There's a big snake down here. What'll I do?"

"Well," challenged Lieut. Edward Moran sleepily. "We ain't got no snake charmers up here."

"But I ain't got the D. T.'s," Welch insisted. "This here's a real live snake and it's about fifteen feet long. I gotta have some help."

Lieut. Moran dispatched Sergt. Joseph Stanton and four members of the emergency squad with pinch bars and a body sack to subdue the snake. They arrived, with a large contingent of neighbors attracted by the excitement, and set to work.

During the melee somebody stuck a yard stick down the snake's mouth. An eight foot python with 29 inches of stick rasping against its esophagus is nobody's plaything, as five of New York's finest soon found. They located one of the huge pinchers about its neck and another about its body. Now they had it, but what next?

Somebody brought the body sack normally used to carry corpses. They laid it on the floor in front of the snake. Writhing mightily, the python's head was soon poked inside. Bit by bit they wormed in the rest, yardstick and all, and off went Mrs. Olsen's python to the police station.

There she claimed it, but her claim was held up until experts from the Bronx zoo could determine its relative harmlessness.

Shark Chases Fishermen for Two Days Off Havana

Havana.—Three excited fishermen drove a small motor boat into the harbor, rushed to the port captain and told him they had been chased for two days by a huge shark. A rifle squad of customs guards was sent out to give battle to the fish. The men said they were fishing for sharks when the big specimen reversed the precedure. They said the sea tiger had tried to overturn their craft and had nearly succeeded several times.

Dog Sorrows for Master He Accidentally Killed

Hillsboro, Ore.—A pet dog is sorrowing for his master here, but he does not realize that he was responsible for the man's death. All he knows is that William Ginder does not come home any more. Mr. Ginder and Mrs. Ginder were out shooting squirrels. The dog came sniffing around the rifle which the man had placed in some bushes, and it exploded, killing Mr. Ginder.

IMPORTANT TO MOTHERS OF UNDERWEIGHT CHILDREN

"Two Tablespoons of Karo in a Glass of Milk doubles its Food Value"!

THIS statement is made by one of America's greatest child specialists.

"Karo", says this physician, "is not only a delicious sweet, but the ideal food for the underweight child. Karo can be added to the diet without spoiling the appetite for other foods—and it improves the taste of milk."

Karo has a high energy value—there are 120 calories per ounce in it—almost twice the energy value of eggs and lean beef, weight for weight.

Further—Karo is easily digested—giving children muscular energy immediately.

Serve the kiddies plenty of Karo in milk, on cereals, on sliced bread—and watch their weight improve.

Economy—compare Karo, pound for pound, with the price of other staple foods. Isn't Karo economical?

Never Before Have We Offered Such Values on Reconditioned Cars

—Small Down Payment—Easy Terms!

Never before in our history have we delivered as many new Chevrolets as we have this year. Naturally a large part of this increased business involved the trade-in of the Chevrolet owner's previous car. This enables us to offer some exceptionally fine used cars that have been thoroughly inspected and reconditioned and carry the official red "O. K. That Counts" tag. This tag shows you exactly what has been done to put the car in mechanical condition for thousands of miles of satisfactory service. In buying these reconditioned cars from us you get definite assurance of quality and value—and this week you can buy them at very low prices that make them the greatest values we have ever offered. Make a small down payment and drive away the car of your choice—easy terms for the balance. See these cars today!

NEWS REVIEW OF CURRENT EVENTS

Smith's Trip Through Border States and to Chicago —Hoover at Boston.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

POLITICALLY speaking, the news of the week centered in Al Smith's tour of the border states, which carried him as far as Sedalia, Mo., whence he passed up through northern Illinois to Chicago for a stop of several days. The trip demonstrated the personal popularity of the Democratic candidate, for everywhere he was greeted by wildly cheering throngs. In Louisville he spoke mainly on the tariff, and the Republicans asserted that he "ditched" the traditional dogma thereon in that speech. Next day the governor paid a reverent visit to the birthplace of Abraham Lincoln at Hodgenville, Ky., and from there passed on to St. Louis, which city gave him what was described as the biggest and loudest ovation he had received since his nomination. He made no set speech there, but moved onward to Sedalia and there delivered an address on the topic of "Coolidge Economy." He declared the Coolidge administration was actually guilty of willful waste, giving facts and figures supposed to support this assertion, and attacking the statements made by Director of the Budget Lord and Secretary of the Treasury Mellon.

Chicago came next on the itinerary, though when Smith's train passed through Springfield he was induced to talk when a loud speaker on wheels was brought alongside the rear platform on which he was displaying himself. A tremendous and noisy crowd welcomed him to Chicago, and after a day of rest and work on his address he made a tour of the city, appeared at banquets and, Friday night, spoke to an enthusiastic crowd that filled the One Hundred and Thirty-first Infantry armory to bursting.

HERBERT Hoover's personal contribution of the week to the campaign was his address in Boston, where before 9,000 friendly listeners in the city arena he told of the country's economic prosperity for which the Republican party claims the credit. Continuance of the protective tariff, he argued, is necessary for the continuance of this prosperity, and he sought to refute Smith's assertions in that connection. In replying to the Democratic attempt to show that changes in tariff would be made by them that would hurt business or labor, Hoover said that eight months ago every Democrat in the senate voted for a resolution designed to reduce the tariff. In Springfield and other Massachusetts' cities through which he passed Hoover made earnest pleas that every citizen should take an active interest in the Presidential campaign and that every Republican should loyally support his party.

Senator Borah, big gun of the Republican-speaking battery, invaded the South last week and delivered two rousing speeches at Salisbury and Charlotte, N. C. In the former he appealed especially to the women voters to help defeat Smith and so prevent the overthrow of prohibition. In Charlotte the senator defended at length the record of Hoover as food administrator during the war, asserting that he always showed himself to be the friend of the farmer and was ever vigilant to do the very best for the protection of the American producers. Reviewing the agricultural situation after the armistice, the senator declared that Hoover opposed the proposal of the agricultural advisory committee in 1918 to fix a minimum price for wheat of $2.46 a bushel because it would not "be just to the consumers." From North Carolina Senator Borah moved into Tennessee, speaking at Chattanooga.

EXCEPT for the stupid and boorish behavior of the customs official detailed to Lakehurst, the arrival of the German dirigible Graf Zeppelin and the reception accorded its commander, crew and passengers, were all that could be asked. Before going to the hangars in New Jersey the huge airship spent an hour circling over New York city, and next day Dr. Hugo Eckener and his men were received formally by the metropolis with the usual accompaniments of parade through streets filled with confetti and ticker tape, speeches at the city hall and a banquet. On Friday Doctor Eckener was the guest of President Coolidge at breakfast in the White House.

Meanwhile the injuries sustained by the Zeppelin just before reaching America were being repaired and the airship was being made ready for a two days' tour of the Midwest which would take it over Chicago, Cleveland, Akron, Cincinnati and Detroit with probable stop at the last named city, which has a mooring mast.

While in New York Doctor Eckener announced tentative plans for the formation of a trans-Atlantic Zeppelin mail and passenger service to be capitalized for $14,000,000 and discussed the details with several financiers. He said to interviewers that he wanted American capitalists to entrust the $14,000,000 to him and his German confreres. The sum would be used to build four new Zeppelins, each bigger than the Graf Zeppelin, and to use them on regular all-year-round voyages between Germany and an American airport near Washington or Baltimore. If the money can be obtained Doctor Eckener said $8,000,000 would be spent on the four new gas bags and $6,000,000 would be paid out for new hangars in Germany and the United States. Two of the dirigibles would be built in Germany and two in America.

Dispatches from Buenos Aires said the Argentine post-office officials had signed a contract with a Spanish Transaerial company for the carrying of mail monthly between Spain and the Argentine, and the company named is reported to have leased the Graf Zeppelin for two years.

Several delegates to the convention of the Investment Bankers' association at Atlantic City started for an airplane ride Thursday. The plane went into a nose dive and crashed and W. O. Chanute, a banker of Denver and grandson of Octave Chanute, "the father of aviation," was killed. Seven other men were injured.

Baron von Huenefeld, who was flying from Germany to Tokyo, made a forced landing in a suburb of the latter city and his plane was badly smashed. The baron and his two companions escaped unhurt. They had lost their way in a rainstorm.

NEW YORK'S big sewer scandal reached its climax with the conviction of Maurice E. Connolly, who resigned under fire as borough president of Queens last April, and Frederick Seely, who was design engineer in the Queens' sewer bureau. They were found guilty by a jury of conspiring with the late John M. Phillips, sewer pipe manufacturer, to defraud the city in contracts for $20,000,000 public sewers. Connolly was given the maximum sentence of one year in prison and $500 fine. The evidence in the trial indicated that Phillips grafted more than $10,000,000 in ten years. It is expected a taxpayers' suit will be started to recover from Connolly and the Phillips estate the money illegally expended.

ANOTHER interesting instance of fundamentalism in the southern border states has arisen. Charles Smith of New York, president of the American Association for the Advancement of Atheism, went down to Arkansas to work against a proposed anti-evolution law to be voted on in the general election next month. He was arrested in Little Rock on a charge of distributing printed material "calculated to provoke a breach of the peace" and was fined $25 and costs, not being permitted to testify in his own behalf because he refused to take the customary oath. Smith decided to serve out his fine in prison as a protest he said against the state laws that prohibit atheists from testifying in courts or holding public office.

ATTORNEY GENERAL SARGENT ruled that the contract of December 20, between the United States government and the Sinclair Crude Oil Purchasing company, for the sale of the government's royalty oil in the Salt Creek field in Wyoming was invalid. Mr. Sargent based his decision on two circumstances: First, that the contract was not let in a manner required by law, and, second, that the secretary of the interior did not have legal power to sign a contract containing an option provision in favor of the Sinclair Oil Purchasing company.

The original award to the Sinclair concern granted a lease for five years with option of renewal for another five years. The option was renewed February 20, 1928, by Hubert Work, secretary of the interior, after consulting departmental counsel. Doctor Work says this renewal was required by the contract and that criticism of his action "is entirely of campaign origin."

COMMERCIAL and municipal activities in the city of Lodz, Poland, were brought to a standstill by a general strike enforced in behalf of striking textile workers. City employees were forced to quit work, street cars and taxis were stopped, theaters were closed, and even the members of the municipal council, most of them Socialists, closed their desks. Printers were out only a few hours, and soldiers kept the telephone exchanges open. Street riots provoked by Communist agitators were numerous, and later the strike spread to other cities.

PREMIER MUSSOLINI of Italy in a radio address informed the farmers of the country that he intended henceforth to devote the major reconstruction efforts of Fascism to agriculture and that the government would place billions of lire at their disposal. Thousands of acres that have lain idle since the days of the old Romans are to be brought under cultivation, and irrigation and reforestation are to receive much attention. The duce then distributed about $85,000 in prizes to grain growers. Already Italy is growing almost enough wheat to support its population.

For the first time since the Italian kingdom was established in 1870 a death sentence for murder was passed and executed the other day in Rome. Capital punishment for certain degrees of murder was introduced in the new Fascist code, and Michele Maggiora, who murdered two Fascists for political reasons only, was the first victim.

STEPHEN BETHLEN, premier of Hungary, has announced that the people of that country will soon be called on to vote for the selection of a king to sit on the throne that has been vacant since the abdication of King Charles in 1918. Bethlen said he was opposed to the choice of Archduke Otto, the sixteen-year-old son of Charles, and it appears that Archduke Albert, son of the Hapsburg Archduke Frederick, is the leading contender. Premier Mussolini of Italy has let it be known that he will oppose the selection of any Hapsburg for the Hungarian throne.

WILLIAM EDWARD HICKMAN, the youth who kidnaped and murdered twelve-year-old Marion Parker, daughter of a Los Angeles banker, paid for his crime with his life on Friday. He was hanged at San Quentin prison, all efforts to save him from the gallows having failed. Hickman confessed to many other crimes "to ease his conscience," and after embracing the Roman Catholic religion said that he was assured of salvation.

DEATHS of the week included those of Dowager Empress Marie of Russia, mother of the last czar; William J. Flynn, former chief of the United States secret service, and Benjamin Strong, governor of the New York Federal Reserve bank.

DID you know that there were any royalists in the United States? Well, there are, for a meeting of the "Royalist League of America" was called for Sunday in the city hall auditorium of Dallas, Texas. Richard Potts, secretary general, who issued the call, said "the time has come to begin active propaganda for the conversion by orderly processes of the United States government into a monarchy."

Making Over Last Season's Clothes

Fabrics Should Harmonize; Rip Before Renovating; Dyes an Aid.

With every shop showing an exquisite line of new fabrics it is hard to take one's self in hand and think of a last year's dress that must be made to do again. But remember the old, old rule, that "a good thing half worn is better than a cheap thing brand new."

There are three pitfalls in using old materials, says Farm and Fireside. One is, combining fabrics that do not harmonize; two, using garments without ripping and renovating completely; three, using out-of-fashion colors. It is always an advantage to buy a new piece of material, a remnant, perhaps, that harmonizes perfectly and can be combined with the material on hand. It should be of a quality, too, that will last through the renovated life of the garment. It is a mistake to buy expensive material to combine with old material unless the old material is exceptional in quality, design and color.

In making over old garments first rip them carefully, saving each piece. Next the pieces are washed or dry cleaned and pressed thoroughly. It is then possible to recut every part and have a really new garment. Many silks and woolens can be washed with mild soaps in water of moderate temperature, dousing them up and down rather than rubbing, squeezing them out, rather than wringing, rinsing them thoroughly in water of the same temperature, rolling them in towels to absorb the moisture, and then ironing them on the wrong side. When such washing is done quickly and skillfully it improves rather than injures the fabric.

If precautions are taken with benzine or gasoline, fabrics can be cleaned at home satisfactorily. In pressing it is best to use a damp cloth under the iron.

Commercial dyes are great aids in achieving fashionable colors. Fabrics rusty from wear can often take on a new, smart color, particularly so this season when dark reds, navy blues and loam browns are favorites. Such colors are easily obtained in dye and will make a fabric not only look new, but seem new.

Often an old dress can make a slip for a coat dress. Less new material need be purchased for the coat dress, which requires no lining, which means another economy.

Frequently narrow widths can be paneled in a skirt. For instance, use plaited sections in the front or alternating the panels. This gives the material the look of being cut originally and not used merely as an emergency measure. Likewise take care in adding bands or folds or panels anywhere in a dress to fit them in to look as though they really belonged to the original garment.

When a dress is worn at the shoulders and neck, a new yoke may be added. In such a case, cuffs, a belt, and possibly a cascade drape should also be used of the same material. If a new hemline is needed, the new goods can serve as a facing, thus balancing the dress throughout.

If a plain yoke is not becoming, it may be puffed at the shoulders or shirred to narrow it in effect. For the same reason the neckline may be cut V or U in shape.

New Furs

A distinct preference is being shown for the flat furs, most likely because they are most adaptable to the new lines in fur coats. At any rate caracul, broadtail in black and beige; leopard and sheared lapin are widely used in the new models.

Wrap of Brown Velvet; Lynx Collar and Cuffs

Here is an attractive wrap of brown velvet, one of the season's favorite models. This smart coat is trimmed with lynx collar and cuffs and a touch of gold braid.

On Rearing Children
from CRIB to COLLEGE
Compiled by the Editors of "CHILDREN, The Magazine for PARENTS"

It is never too late to learn—and it is never too late to unlearn.

A small flashlight given to one small boy really cured him of his fear of the dark. He feels very proud to snap on the light and go boldly into a dark room.

Parenthood is a dual job. Working out the problems of infancy and early childhood in complete partnership will give father and mother insight and understanding later, when united forces are none too strong to meet some of the turbulent forces of adolescence. If father feels that the children are "mother's job" during the early years, the priceless years of experience which should have been his will be irrecoverably lost. The master's touch that familiarity with the growing problems of his developing might have given him may be gone forever.

The child's self-confidence will depend upon the confidence adults place in him.

A child may be nervous, fidgety, or extremely quiet because his clothes do not fit properly. Garments which are too large and feel as though they are dropping off are a nervous strain. Those which are too small are uncomfortable and physically harmful.

A child is always giving attention to something. He simply cannot cease from attending to a thing because you tell him to do so. It is of little use to say, "Don't touch that," unless at the same time you provide him with an alluring diversion in the shape of, "Here, see the nice toy mother has for you. Look, you can do this and this with it. See if you can do it, too."

Restraint and repression imposed by adults do not teach self-control and consideration for others. It is by learning to make decisions for themselves that children develop judgment and self-reliance.

The need of serving one quart of milk a day for each child and at least half that amount for each parent may be partially met by serving cream cups, scalloped dishes, milk puddings and sauces.

Parents must take up the work of child-rearing at the point which nature reached when the babies came into their hands. And they have to try to continue the work as well as it was begun.

All Fashionable Colors Prove to Be Interesting

Almost to a greater extent than in design does the mode in colors change from year to year. This year fashion has brought us the colors that we love best, reports a fashion expert in Successful Farming Magazine.

"We have," she finds, "a warm, deep red, called by some 'guava red.' Then we have a rich loam brown and a 'rosy tawn,' which is a warm tan. We have bronze gold and bronze shadow, a deep dark red, and copper and sugar cane, all in the red family. Then there are pewter pot and mauve gray, blue green and olive-bronze green, and a new clear blue a little lighter than navy, called 'Davy Jones.'

"Green and gray are subtly used. Black is always considered smart when smartly made. If one can afford several different frocks, she might have a brown dress and a tan one, and then have a green for variety; but if one can have only one very lovely outfit, it is safer to choose it of brown, or red, or blue, according to the individual color."

It is essential that my car should always operate properly and accordingly I use Champion Spark Plugs.

Champion is the better spark plug because it has an exclusive sillimanite insulator specially treated to withstand the much higher temperatures of the modern high-compression engine. Also a new patented solid copper gasket-seal that remains absolutely gas-tight under high compression. Special analysis electrodes which assure a fixed spark-gap under all driving conditions.

Beginning October 4th and every Thursday thereafter the Champion Sparkers will broadcast over the Blue Network of the National Broadcasting Company from 8:30 to 9:00 p. m. Eastern Standard Time.

WILL DO ALL IT CLAIMS TO DO

Mrs. Steele Says of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Pratt, W. Va.—"I was so weak and nervous that I was in bed most all the time and couldn't sit up and I am only 30 years old. I saw your advertising in a magazine and after I had taken three doses of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I could feel that I was better. After taking two bottles I began doing my work and I feel like a new woman. I recommend the Vegetable Compound to my friends and say it will do all it claims to do and more. I will gladly answer all letters I receive."—Mrs. S. E. Steele, Pratt, W. Va.

IF or IS ELECTED—

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON

IF SOME one suddenly demanded that you name the fourteenth President of the United States, could you do it? Or if they said, "Who was President just before Millard Fillmore and who just after him?" could you answer promptly?

If you were one of those persons who, as a schoolboy or girl, had to learn "The Presidents in Rhyme," perhaps you could. Don't you remember it—that long string of couplets which listed the Presidents in order and to which some one added another couplet whenever a new Chief Executive was elected? If you didn't, here it is:

First stands the lofty Washington,
That noble, great, immortal one.
The elder Adams next we see,
And Jefferson comes number three.
The fourth is Madison, you know,
The fifth on the list, Monroe.
The sixth an Adams comes again,
And Jackson seventh in the train.
Van Buren eighth upon the line,
And Harrison counts number nine.
The tenth is Tyler, in his turn,
And Polk the eleventh, as we learn.
The twelfth is Taylor that appears,
The thirteenth Fillmore fills his years.
Then Pierce comes fourteenth into view,
Buchanan is the fifteenth due.
Now Lincoln comes two terms to fill,
But God o'errules the people's will,
And Johnson fills the appointed time
Cut short by an assassin's crime.
Next Grant assumes the lofty seat,
The man who never knew defeat.
Two terms to him; then Hayes succeeds,
And quietly the nation leads.

Garfield comes next, the people's choice
But soon ascends a mourning voice
From every hamlet in the land
A brutal wretch with murderous hand
Strikes down the country's chosen chief,
And anxious millions mourn in grief.

Arthur's term was then begun,
Which made the number twenty-one.

Then came the "Man of Destiny,"
Honest and strong in policy,
Grover Cleveland, whose first term
Made the politicians squirm.
But when election day rolled round
Harrison was more popular found—

A man of intellectual mold,
In action cautious, manner cold
So when his single term was over
There followed four years more of Grover

McKinley then, the well-beloved,
A most efficient pilot proved.
A crazed assassin laid him low—
Again the nation voiced its woe.

To fill the interrupted term,
"Our Teddy" followed, staunch and firm,
A fighting statesman, forceful, true,
And brilliant as a scholar, too.
He taught the nation strenuous life,
Yet kept it from internal strife.

Next Taft, the jurist, reached the goal,
Four quiet years he held control.

Then Woodrow Wilson, Princeton man,
Eight fateful years of rule began,
For under him our armies brave
Went forth a whole world's peace to save.

The war was won, but at what cost—
The nation soon this leader lost.

In peace was Harding's term begun,
But death claimed him 'ere it was done
Then Calvin Coolidge, calm and cool,
Gave to our states a cautious rule.

But what couplet will be added next? Will it be something like this:

Now Herbert Hoover of Belgian fame
Adds to the list the thirtieth name.

Or will it read something like this:

And now the roll call here ends with Democracy's champion, Alfred Smith.

The answer will be written on November 6. But whichever it is, some new items will be added to the record of what may be called "Interesting Facts About Our Presidents." First of all, consider the "historical firsts" which will be written into the annals of the nation, no matter whether the next occupant of the White House is Herbert C. Hoover or Alfred E. Smith.

If Hoover is elected President he will be

The first bearing the name of Herbert.
The first who was a native of Iowa.
The first born west of the Mississippi.
The first who was a citizen of California.
The first elected from the trans-Mississippi West.
The first who was a Quaker in religion.
The first secretary of commerce to be elevated to the Presidency.
The first mining engineer to occupy the White House.

If Smith is elected President he will be

The first bearing the name of Alfred.
The first who was a Catholic in religion.
The first market man to become Chief Executive.

Although Hoover, if elected, will bring more "firsts," as shown above, Smith, if elected, will be a better example of "history repeating itself." Hoover as cabinet member becoming President will be the tenth to do that. Jefferson, Madison, Monroe, John Quincy Adams, Martin Van Buren and James Buchanan all served as secretary of state before they became President, and Monroe, Grant and Taft served terms as secretary of war. So the promotion from the cabinet to the White House will be Hoover's only example of following precedent.

Should Smith be elected he will be the fourth President born in New York and elected from that state, Martin Van Buren, Millard Fillmore and Theodore Roosevelt being the other three. He will be the sixth President elected from the Empire state, however, since Chester A. Arthur and Grover Cleveland, though born in Vermont and New Jersey respectively were residents of New York when elected. Smith will also be the second President to have been a New York sheriff, Cleveland being the first. If Smith is elected, it will be the third time that a governor of New York has gone from the executive mansion in Albany to the White House. The other two were Van Buren and Roosevelt.

If Smith is elected, it will place New York on almost an even basis with Virginia and Ohio as a training ground for Presidents. The Old Dominion still rightfully retains her title of "Mother of Presidents" with seven men born on her soil who became President. They were Washington, Jefferson, Madison, Monroe, Harrison, Tyler and Wilson, although Harrison and Wilson were elected from Ohio and New Jersey respectively.

Ohio's record is six native sons elected to the Presidency. They were Grant (who was elected from Illinois, however), Hayes, Garfield, McKinley, Taft and Harding.

Since the religious issue has been so prominent in the present campaign, it is interesting to note the variety of religions which have been represented in the White House. There have been eight different sects and whichever way the election goes this year a ninth is due to be added.

Eight Presidents have been Episcopalians, seven Presbyterians, four Methodists, three Unitarians, two of the Reformed Dutch faith, one Baptist, one a member of the Disciples. President Coolidge is a Congregationalist.

Thomas Jefferson was classed as a Liberal and a noted biographer declares that he was a believer in Christianity, although not a sectarian. While President Johnson was not a church member he was a Christian believer and his wife was a Methodist, resulting in him being accredited to that faith.

The Presidents who were Episcopalians were Washington, Madison, Monroe, Harrison, Tyler, Taylor, Pierce and Arthur. Those claimed as Presbyterians were Jackson, Polk, Buchanan, Lincoln, Cleveland, Harrison and Wilson. The Methodists were Johnson, Grant, Hayes and McKinley. John Quincy Adams, Fillmore and Taft were Unitarians. Van Buren and Roosevelt were of the Reformed Dutch Faith. Harding was a Baptist and Garfield a Disciple.

Seventeen of the Presidents were of English ancestry, six of Scotch-Irish, two were mostly Scotch and two of Dutch descent, one chiefly Welsh and another Scotch and Dutch.

Fifteen Presidents were sons of farmers and planters, four were sons of lawyers, three of merchants, three of clergymen, and one each of a doctor, a constable, a tanner and an iron maker.

Eight Presidents, as well as the present nominees, were born of families not blessed with worldly goods. Others were born in varied circumstances, mostly middle-class. Although born of poor parents, Washington became one of the rich landowners of his day, while none of the others attained riches.

If fate should decree the election of Herbert Hoover, whose wealth is estimated at several million dollars, he will probably enter the White House as the richest President ever to assume office.

There have been twenty Presidents who went to college, some of them by their own efforts. Mr. Hoover is also a college man, but Governor Smith went through the "School of Experience." Fifteen Presidents were soldiers in one or more of the wars in which America has participated. Neither of the two present nominees saw military service.

Both of the candidates this year are a little over the average age of their predecessors on inauguration, which was fifty-four years and four months. Hoover is fifty-six and Smith is fifty-five. The average age of Presidents at their death was sixty-eight years and seven months. Roosevelt was, at forty-two, the youngest President to assume office. Grant, Cleveland, Pierce, Polk and Garfield were Presidents before they were fifty. William Henry Harrison was the oldest, being sixty-eight. Garfield died youngest, forty-nine, the victim of an assassin's bullet. John Adams lived the longest, to ninety.

Three Presidents, Lincoln, Garfield and McKinley have been assassinated. Jackson was fired at while in office and Roosevelt was wounded by a crank, during the campaign in which he was a candidate for a third term.

Ten of the Presidents have been elected twice. They are Washington, Jefferson, Madison, Monroe, Jackson, Lincoln, Grant, Cleveland, McKinley and Wilson. Eight served eight complete years—all of the above except Lincoln and McKinley, the victims of assassins' bullets. William Henry Harrison had the shortest period of service as President, dying after one month in the White House.

Four who served as President were never elected, being Vice Presidents who served out the terms of their Presidents who had died. They were Tyler, Fillmore, Johnson and Arthur. Two Vice Presidents, however, who were elevated to the Presidency, were afterward elected in their own right. They were Roosevelt and Coolidge. Cleveland was a two-term President whose record was unique. He served one term, 1885-1889, was defeated by Benjamin Harrison in 1888 but was elected again in 1892 and served from 1893 to 1897.

All Presidents were married when elected, with the exception of Buchanan, Tyler, Fillmore, Benjamin Harrison. Roosevelt and Wilson married twice. Tyler had the most children, seven by each marriage. Washington, Madison, Jackson, Polk and Harding were childless. John Adams was the father of a President and William Henry Harrison the grandfather of one.

Presidency Hazardous

The President of the United States follows a hazardous occupation, according to statistics compiled by the Metropolitan Life Insurance company. Only one President since the Civil war, Grover Cleveland, lived beyond his normal expectancy at inauguration, and three—Lincoln, Garfield and McKinley—met premature death at the hands of assassins.

Taken as a lot, however the American Presidents by no means have been short lived, according to the life insurance figures. The average age of the 28 now dead is 68.41 years, and the one living ex-President, Chief Justice William H. Taft, is seventy.—Kansas City Star.

Left-Handed President

James A. Garfield, the twentieth President of the United States has been our only President thus far who was left-handed. Harry A. Garfield, president of Williams college, says that his father was naturally left-handed in childhood, but he learned to write with his right hand, and in time became ambidextrous, using both hands with equal ease. There is a story to the effect that President Garfield once demonstrated his ambidexterity by writing in Latin with one hand while he wrote Greek with the other.—Kansas City Star.

An alumnae of a nearby college was entertaining her former history professor at dinner, much to the interest of her three small sons. Jack, the eldest, kept eyeing the professor closely, and finally, after dinner, he asked, "Mother, you say Professor Smith was your history professor?"

"Yes, sonny, and a splendid one, too."

"Well," pronounced the six-year-old observer, "he has a hole in his sock."

Electrical Contractor Gives Advice to Others

"I think Milks Emulsion should be advertised all over the world, so as to help all of the sick.

"In 1912 I had a great deal of trouble with my stomach and bowels. For several years I tried everything that I saw advertised, but I kept getting worse all the time. I got so bad that I was in bed for three months in 1916. While in Philadelphia in 1917 I happened to see one of your ads. I had tried everything that I thought was any good, but concluded to give Milks Emulsion a trial. It could not do any worse than the rest.

"To my surprise it regulated my bowels and I found I did not suffer any more after eating and had no pain at all. I continued the use of Milks Emulsion for six months, until I was in fine health and have been for the past eight years. When I think of the way I suffered night and day for six years, I feel that every person with stomach and bowel trouble should know about Milks Emulsion." Yours truly, S. B. Jelly made with PEXEL turns out like this

MAKING jelly jell is not a new idea—but Pexel is certainly a new idea. It is tasteless, colorless, odorless! It is a 100% pure-fruit product which, in addition to making jelly jell, saving hours of time, and cutting down cost per glass, does not dilute or change the finest flavor or color.

Pexel saves from one to three times the 30c it costs. Eliminates long and tedious boiling. Saves fruit juice, sugar and flavor—and makes more jelly. Get Pexel at your grocer's. Recipe booklet in each package. 30c. The Pexel Company, Chicago, Ill.

Let's Keep This Advantage For Michigan

United States Senator A. H. Vandenberg

Senator Vandenberg is the Republican candidate to succeed himself. He has a powerful place in Washington which Michigan cannot afford to lose. Vice President Dawes says he knows no Senator "who has started so auspiciously or who gives more promise of statesmanship" as Vandenberg. He holds committee places which can be reached only by the seniority which he now enjoys. He has demonstrated that he is a dependable friend to Agriculture and to Labor and Industry. He is Michigan's prime reliance in the fight for the St. Lawrence Waterway which means so much to Michigan. He is a man of unchallenged moral character and of honor and integrity. He is one of the leading Constitutional Authorities in the United States. Michigan cannot afford to lose this advantage. Think of your own welfare when you vote for U. S. Senator. If you do, you will undoubtedly vote for Vandenberg. (You have to vote for him TWICE—Long and Short Terms—because one follows the other.)

SCHOOL NOTES

Two home games of football remain on this years schedule. Ypsilanti comes to Pinckney Friday afternoon, November 2. This game is scheduled at 4:00 o'clock and promises to be one of the best of the year. Ypsilanti has a fast aggregation and feel confident of winning.

Howell Comes to Pinckney Friday November 16.

The home squad won two games last week.

The outside activities of the high school have been organized into four groups. A teacher will supervise each group and be responsible for the success of that group. Mr. Doyle has charge of athletics. Miss Harris will supervise the Declamatory Contest. Miss Sisson will take charge of the Debating team and Mrs. Doyle will coach the Oratory Contestants.

Report cards will be given out this week.

TO THE CITIZENS AND VOTERS LIVINGSTON COUNTY

Since the organization of the Livingston County National Farm Loan Association, in 1919 we have loaned money to 116 farmers of this county, Washtenaw and Oakland Counties amounting to $490,000, 111 of these loans are in Livingston,

In closing a loan itis necessary to have an abstract showing a clear titie, and must be passed upon by the title, and must be passed upon by the Bank of St. Paul.

The present register of deeds and abstractor, Mr. E. J. Drewry, has either made out new abstracts, or posted 108 of these abstracts and I can truthfully state that not one has ever been rejected or returned for correction, where it was found that any transaction was omitted when it was to be found in the records.

Mr. Drewry's abstracts are very neatly arrainged corect and up to date, and cost less than one half what it would cost in adjoining counties.

Mr. Drewry's ability as an official and abstractor are fully appreciated at the Federal Land Bank, and by the officers of the association, and we do not recommend a change in the officials, and do not hesitate to recommend Mr. E. J. Drewry to the voters of this county for the office of Register of Deeds.

CONG'L. CHURCH NOTES

The Jackson Congregational association will convene at Salem Friday. B. F. Esic will conduct the devotional services.

Educating the Junior Child was the subject of Rev. Esie's talk at the District Sunday School Convention at the West Marion Church Sunday afternoon and nine members of the Junior church were present and gave an exhibition of their work.

The violin and piano duets by the Misses Charlotte and Elly Iseler were very much appreciated.

The members of the Junior Church and the Primary Dept. enjoyed a Halloween party in the church parlors Friday afternoon. Each child was presented with a toy balloon the gift of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Myer and a pot-luck supper was served to 75 by Mrs. Esic and the mothers.

FOR

Member of Congress Sixth District

Grant M. Hudson

In all the issues which are prominent in this campaign Mr. Hudson is a leader. His activities both before and since he came into office, have made him a recognized leader. It would be a great loss to the questons which are just now uppermost if he should not be in his place in Congress for just such continued leadership. In every interest special to this district Mr. Hudson is thoroughly conversant and right on the job every minute.

FOR

State Senator

Seymour H. Person

An old Howell boy, descending from two of the reliable families of Livingston County pioneers, Seymour H. Person's boyhood in Howell taught him Livingston County's interests. He proved himself a worthy representative of those interests in the State Senate wo years ago and is entitled to another term in that responsible position.

FOR

Representative in the State Legislature

Lynn C. Gardner

There are men who are honored by their local communities who perform their duties is such a way that they bring back great honor to the communities who place them in positions of trust. Hon. Lynn C. Gardner has proven just that kind of a man.Sent to the Legislature by Livingston County, his colleagues of the House of Representatives recognized his ability and elected him as thier presiding officer. As Speaker Mr. Gardner's work was so effective that Livingston County was the subject of hearty interest by the whole state. While Mr. Gardner's duies as Speaker made him a guardian of every interest of the whole state, Livingston County was not forgotten for a single minute. His elevation to high position only gave him the more influence for his duties in those matters of county interest. It was Mr. Gardner's idea that he would drop out in this campaign, but people of the county felt that we shuld endanger county projects without him for the coming session as our representative. Always loyal to duty, he consented to run again and should meet the same kind of loyalty in his hearty support.

FOR

Judge of Probate

Willis L. Lyons

Few people realize the daily care which surrounds the judge of probate. When a person dies, there often swarm about his estate, a flood of contending influences. Between them and his loved ones sits the Judge of Probate. Not only in the guarding of every interest as each step of the estate progresses, but a counselor and friend. It is unfortunately true that widows and children seldom know their rights, or the best methods of procedure. Their cares and worries are poured into the ears of the Judge of Probate and it is a regular part of his duties to attend to them. All this is not for one estate, but for all estates in the county.

In addition to this wayward children, too young to be regulally tried in the regular courts are taken to him to do the things judicial which shall be found necessary.

When minds give way and action for the protection of such unfortunates becomes necessary, it is the Probate Court where such proceedings go.

To meet all these problems, take the right action in each peculiar case and secure justice for all requires a man of careful thoughtful temper and peculiar faculties. Willis L. Lyons has executed the duties of that office so that he is a friend of everyone. There has never been a decision of Judge Lyons appealed. Among the voters are the men and women whose estates will go to the Probate Court the coming four years. Perhaps its for your estate you choose. Vote for Willis L. Lyons and choose safely.

FOR

Prosecuting Attorney

Jay P. Sweeney

Soon after coming home from overseas, Lieut. Jay P. Sweeney looked about for a location to settle for the practice of his profession. The death of the late Louis E. Howlett left his great practice for someone. Forming a partnership with Mr. Howlett's son, Mr. Sweeney came to Howell and located in the offices so long occupied by Mr. Howlett. By this arraingement a heavy practice at once developed for the young man HaroldHowlett had already entered law practice in Pontiac, and the practice here went to Mr. Sweeney. He has made good. More than that, these conditions have developed him as an attorney much more rapidly then would have been if he had simply "hung out his shingle" as a young attorney.

Lieut. Sweeney's record over seas attracted attention of his comrades of the American Legion and he rapidly rose to be their County Commander which position he is now holding for the second term. A young man of high character, he associated himself with the church of his choice, the Presbyterian when he first came to Howell and holds a responsible position among the leaders of Sunday School work in that church.

Jay Sweeney has made good as a friend to everyone, in a business way and in social uplift, and he will make good as Prosecuting Attorney. Be sure and vote for him.

For Sheriff

George A. Wimbles

The office of sheriff used to deal only with the arrest. In case of trouble of any kind the first thing to do is to call the sheriff's office. It calls for all kinds of ingenuity to meet every situation and do the right thing. George A. Wimbles the present sheriff, has called to his force, level headed young men who do not hesitate to act. Under his direction, they form a force which has proven sufficient and efficient for every emergency. No more expense than is necessary for good administration of the office, and service which is all that is embraced in that comprehensive word. Kindness with firmnesss when necessary to do what ought to be done in each case when it arises. That's the program of the present sheriff's force from Mr. Wimbles down. That's the thing to be desired and that will be expressed in votes for George A. Wimbles. Business of the office has been so brisque of late that Mr. Wimbles has not been able to get away to make a tour of the county to look after his campaign. Over fifty arrests have been made during the past month. He trusts to his friends to support him at the polls while he attends to duty.

FOR

County Clerk

John A. Hagman

There are few men in this county who have as wide an acquaintance among our people as has John A. Hagman, and everybody he knows is his personal friend. No one has ever gone to the county clerk's office since John Hagman has been there who has not been courteously received. If the information they sought was to be found there, it was forthcoming and no one has failed to find such information if it was among the wide range of subjects of which record is kept in that office.Clerk of the Courts Clerk of the Board of Supervisors; Clerk of the Highway Commission; These are but a few of the wide range which is covered by the records of the office. These records must be kept in such form that they are instantly available and above everything else, they must be accurate. In the years of his official life there, John Hagman has been so efficient that the opposing party offers no opponent. John Hagman, the choice of the whole people, vote for him.

FOR

County Treasurer

Clare F. Burden

A product of Livingston County and Livingston County schools Clare Burden has been a coming young man at every step of his progress. Courteous to everyone; a friend to rich and poor alike, he has made good in his administration of the important office of County Treasurer. Never an audit when there was a lack of balance. Everyone who has had business with the County Treasurer, is a supporter of Clare Burden for re-election. Join the rest and vote for him. For courtesy, efficiency and service, vote for Clare F. Burden.

FOR

Register of Deeds

Frank D. Bush

This worthy son of one of the oldest families of this county comes from a race which have served the county well in every position to which they have been entrusted. His comrades of the American Legion urge his candidacy to the voters of Livingston County. Capable for the office. Neat and accurate in his bookkeeping methods, courteous in all his dealings with the public, Frank Bush is qualified in every way to make a good official, and worthy the support of all Livingston County voters.

FOR

Circuit Court Commissioner

J. B. Munsell Jr.

The peculiar judicial duties of this office often call for the best of legal thinking. In every sense it's a man's job. Dealing as it does largely with the title to real estate its problems are often those which have to do with homesteads. In the discharge of his duties in this important position. Mr. Munsell's acts passed the test in the past. His thinking has been quick and clear, his work efficient. Keep him at it. Give him your votes..

For Coroner

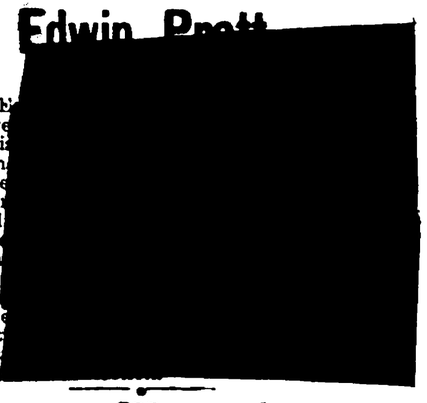
A. Riley Crittenden

While changing the criminal procedure of Michigan, the last legislature enacted new laws governing the Coroner practice in this state and materially changing it in many particulars. In cases of sudden death where there are interest in the estates left without anyone here to look after them, the coroner must protect all interests. Under the new law no one except the coroner are empowered to issue death certificates in any case where there has not been regular medical attendance for the full period of 36 hours previous to death. In every such case physicians and undertakers who fail to notify the coroner before careing for the remains. are liable to $100 fine. These are but a few of the many changes. As a member of the bar for years, Mr. Crittenden has become used to handeling legal questions, and has proven his efficiency in several complicated cases under the new law. our votes will keep him on the job.

FOR

Drain Commissioner

Edwin Pratt



FOR

County Surveyor

Robert E, Long

The death of Grant H. Dunning, choice in the primaries for the nomination for County Surveyor compelled the County Republican Committee to make another selection for that position. Mr. Long has had long experience as a surveyor and knows most of the special problems in that line of work in this county. His work as a surveyor has always been accurate in every way. The commitee feel that in making him a candidate they have chosen, a man in every way fitted for the office.

FOR

School Examiner

Maybelle Hildebrand

Mrs. Hildebrant has proven herself thoroughly conversant with all the school problems of this county and can take them into her considerations in the discharge of her official duties. A friendly lady she goes about her work with friendliness for all, which insures her success.

FOR

Superintendents of the Poor

Wm. R. Whitacre
Charles Itsell
Andrew McKenzie

There are many difficult problems that come in in the discharge of this office. The Superintendents must be endued with a large degree of human sympathy to adequately meet each case and learn its real needs. At the same time they must be able to detect any prevalent attempt to secure something for nothing, at public expense. Between these two extremes there is a consistent call for the best of judgement at all times. In the three gentlemen who were chosen at the primaries for these positions there is an unusually strong combination of all which is required for the positions. They are worthy of your suppert, vote for them.

HOOVER HOUSE IS A HOMELIKE HOME

Palo Alto Neighbors Praise Kindly Hospitality of Their Most Famous Residents.

MRS. HOOVER VERY POPULAR

She Planned Her California House Herself and Superintended the Building of It on Stanford University Campus.

By Ruth Comfort Mitchell

PALO ALTO.—The town of Palo Alto and the campus of Stanford University fairly pulse and glow with the presence of the Hoovers. It isn't only the visible manifestation of flags and banners and flowers and printed placards in the shop windows, but something which is at once less tangible and yet more real and permanent—the genuine warmth of pride and loyalty which radiates from faces and voices everywhere.

The Hoovers are and always have been an integral part of the picture here, and it is interesting and illuminating to see them through the eyes of college mates, old friends, neighbors, and newcomers, proud to share their world eminence.

Men and women of their own generation remember their university days and sketch two fine and vital young people who showed in youth the keenness, the energy, and devotion and balance which have made them what they are today.

It is a community rich in members of the "I-Knew-'Em-When-Club." People like to paint them as they have known them through the years—college students, the young married couple taking the great out-trail of the mining engineer, forging steadily and solidly ahead by reason of grit and endurance and cleverness, coming into professional and material success and taking it simply and sensibly, coming back to build a typical California home on a California hill overlooking the campus where they worked and played and found each other in a community of interests and character.

Herbert Hoover

The Hoover house is reached by a winding, mounting road from the campus, and is built on a hill, with the mountains piling up behind and beyond it, and the red tiled roofs of Stanford just below.

It is a low, rambling edifice of the pueblo type and fits so perfectly into its setting that it seems as component a part of the landscape as the trees and the rolling ridge itself.

Neighborly House

The Hoover house is symbolic of the Hoovers themselves in the way in which it merges into its background. There is nothing aloof about it; it is tucked in cosily between its neighbors. Hoover trees shade neighbors' lawns and neighbors' roses spill over Hoover fences. There is a gate cut into the wall so that the neighbors can come through, without going round to the front, to share the swimming pool. Neighbors come and go, now, in these dramatic days, as they always did, slipping in with baskets of fruit and armfuls of flowers; there is no tension, no sense of strain or impending strain in the atmosphere.

Mrs. Hoover feels strongly that the California out-of-doors is so brilliantly, often harshly bright, that the insides of houses should be cool and restful, and she has attained that effect in her own. In all decoration she is fonder of the beauty of line, or design, rather than color. One steps into a rather small reception hall, round in shape, with stairs leading down from it to sleeping rooms, and the living room and the open roof beyond beckoning from it. Everything is low-toned and restful to the eye which has just come in from emerald lawns and turquoise sky—brown on floor and wall and window, with an Indian basket filled with hearty hued zinnias for the only robust color note.

The guest rooms are below, and they, too, are in the same color scheme. They are delightfully inviting, deliciously comfortable, plain, homey, simple.

Comfortable and Livable

There are generous beds and deep chairs really made to sit in. There is not a stiff, badly angled chair in the Hoover house! There are more of the cheerful zinnias in pottery bowls, and books on the table which are meant to be read. And [illegible] monogrammed

FOR PRESIDENT!

Gov. Alfred E. Smith

PUBLICANS ARE SUPPORTING SMITH

Many Prominent Men Throughout Nation Break Life-Long Party Ties.

Hundreds of life-long Republicans, many of them of national prominence, are swelling each day the vast army of voters who believe that it is the duty of every thinking American to support Governor Smith.

Among the most recent of leading Republicans who have publicly repudiated the Republican candidate is Rudolph Spreckels, widely known banker and business man of San Francisco, owner of huge sugar plantations in Hawaii, and formerly a close friend and adviser of President Roosevelt.

Another influential Republican to declare for Smith is Spencer [illegible] of Colorado, mining engineer and brother of the late Senator Boies Penrose, Republican leader in Pennsylvania.

Prominent Financial Figures

One Republican of considerable consequence who has just declared for Governor Smith is W. B. Hibbs of Washington, president of W. B. Hibbs and Co., bankers, of Washington, D. C.

Two prominent New Jersey Republicans, John J. Stamler, president of the Broad and Market National Bank and Trust Co., of Newark, and Uzal H. McCarter, president of the Fidelity Union Trust Co., of Newark, announced last week that they will support Governor Smith.

Another Republican banker to join the campaign to elect the Democratic candidate is De Lancey Kountz, Chairman of the Board of Devoe and Raynolds Co., of New York.

Western Farm Leaders

Frank W. Murphy, chairman of the Legislative Committee of the Corn Belt Federation of Farm Organizations, and a member of the Minnesota delegation to the Republican Convention, has renounced allegiance to his party and repudiated Hoover as "an enemy of the farmer."

Other farm leaders to bolt the Republican party were Governor Adam McMullen, Republican Executive of Nebraska, and L. F. Shuttleworth, of Indianapolis, former head of the purchasing committee of the Indiana Federation of Farm Bureaus.

"YOUTH ENDANGERED"

PHILADELPHIA.—James F. Lucas, vice president of the Lucas Paint and Brush Company of Philadelphia, a well-known Republican for fifty years, has announced that he is "opposed to hypocrisy" and, accordingly, opposed to the election of Herbert Hoover. He added:

"I shall vote for Governor Smith because I believe his election would end conditions which are endangering the future of the younger generation."

MUSKRAT TRAPPING

Those desiring to trap muskrats this fall must secure a trappers license from the State Conservation dedepartment. Applications are here and may be obtained at the county clerk's office. After the application is made out it must be sent to Lansing so those planning on trapping should get their license at once if they wish to avoid delay.

The muskrat season for trapping is open 30 days from Nov. 15 to Dec. 15, inclusive.The license is $100 and allows the trapper 20 traps. Additional traps up to a total of 100 may be licensed at the rate of 10c each. Every trap must be taged.These tags are furnished with the licenses.

Resident citizens of Michigan and their minor children are exempt from small game license fee and muskrat trapping fee while they hunt on their own lands upon which they are regularly domiciled.

Election Nov. 6, 1928

Democratic County Ticket

A last word! Believing that the voters of Livingston County are entitled to know the reputation, standing and qualifications of the Candidates for office on the county ticket, the Democratic County Committee are furnishing the following facts and information for the benefit of the electors:

EDWARD J. DREWRY FOR REGISTER OF DEEDS

Edward J. Drewry, register of Deeds needs no introduction to the voters of Livingston. His measure of service in this office has been recognized and appreciated by the voters in past years.

There was a time in the earlier history of this county when the duties of the office required a good penman and careful and painestaking care in the copying of records. That is still important but perhaps the least important of the qualifications for this office. Changes in practice and development of a wider market for real estate has made it necessary for every seller of real estate to have an abstract of title. This abstract must be in a form approved in general practce. These are the kind of abstracts that Mr. Drewry has been furnishing and at a very slight cost compared with what they cost in other counties.

It is highly technical work, envelves first hand knowledge of hundreds of books and tens of thousands of enteries. Mr. Drewry, through his years of experience knowns what is required, where to find it and how to produce it.

Men and woman of this county who have had dealing with this office are the persons most strongly endorsing his election. To insure a continuation of the register of deeds office in its present manner, his friends and patrons will rally to his support regardless of party affiilation.

CHARLES J. HOFF FOR SHERIFF

Charles J. Hoff is running for his second term as sheriff. His record is an open book in this county. Born and raised on a farm in the township of Unadilla he there grew to manhood. One of his first occupations was that of manager of the State Sanatorium for ten years. He left that position to go into business with a clean record and the best wishes of his associates.

He is standing squarely on the record that he made during the two years that he held the office of sheriff During that two year term every complaint was quickly investigated and promptly disposed of. With the fewest number of deputies knwn in recent years, he handled this volume of business. The deputies that he appointed were carefully selected and well distributed. The results were shown in the bills presented to the Board of Supervisors. The number was few and the amount reasonable.

Mr. Hoff's administration might well be called a business administration. That is the kind of an administration that he can and will give again. All laws wll be strictly enforced without fear or favor. The office door and the phone will be open twenty-four hours a day and every call promptly attended. If that is the kinds of service that you are looking for VOTE for Charles J. Hoff.

DON VAN W. WINKLE FOR PROSECUTING ATTORNEY

Don W. VanWinkle has been engaged in the practice of law at Howell since 1914. During the 14 years of his practice he has handeled all classes of business over a wide range of this section of Michigan. Cases have been tried by him in all the courts of the state, and in many different judical districts. It is his experience that the Democrats are offering to the people of Livingston County.

During the one term that he held the office of Prosecuting Attorney he gave a vigorous administration. Business was handeled with promptness and dispatch. Long legal training and experience enabled him to quickly classify and sort the problems arising in that office. This in turn made for economy. Then as now his name was coupled with that of Chas. Hoff for sheriff. For the coming two years if elected he will render real service to the community.

The tffice of Prosecuting Attorney is particularly one requiring good judgement. Good judgement comes from experience. Mr. VanWinkle has had the experience and will use good judgement. To the problems of the county, he will devote the same painstaking care and effort as he has to the interests of his private clients. We ask for your consideration well knowing he will merit it.

CHARLES H. COLL FOR COUNTY TREASURER

Charles H. Coll, candidate for County Treasurer, is a life long resident of Livingston county.Brought up in Handy Township, those who know him best have trusted him with their records and their tax money. What he has done faithfully and well for the Township of Handy he can do equally well for all of Livingston County.

Mr. Coll served his country in the late world war. He helped when we all needed help and is now deserving of the vote of the electors. After the World War, Mr. Coll accepted a position on the police force of East Lansing. While in discharge of his duty as such officer, he met with a serious injury. His ability to get around is imparied but this will not effect his ability to perform the duties of the office. He will not be able to get around sufficiently to make a personal canvas and must rely on his record and his friends.

The county committee commend Mr. Coll to the voters. If elected he will be on the job every day with efficient and courtetus service.

GLEN P. WIGGINS FOR DRAIN COMMISSIONER

Glen P. Wiggins was raised on farm in Deerfield township. Attending district school when a boy he took up the pick and shovel and went to work for the betterment of his country .

Early in life was elected road commissioner of which he served several times until he was called to help and defend his country in the the World War. spending nearly a year in the line of duty in France.Returning to the farm again he went to work and since then has been elected Drain Commissioner of Livingston county and great efforts were made by him for the benefit of the tax payers for economy. He only asks the voters of Livingston County, to consider his honest , drain expenditures.

If elected again he will be with the people of Livingston county for honest as before.

W. H. S. WOOD FOR CIRCUIT COURT COMMISSIONER

The office of Circuit Commissioner pays a salary of $400.00 per year. W.H.S.Wood has been a resident of Howell for over thirty years and now that he is in poor health, his many friends say that it would be a nice thing if the people would remember him at this election. He is well qualified to perform the work of this office so Mr. voter regardless of party, remember W.H.SWood on the 6th of November for Circuit Commissioner.

CLAY W. GORDEN FOR COUNTY SURVEYOR

Always lived in Livingston County age 45, and has resided in Howell for the past 5 years.

Graruated in Engineering Department at University of Michigan. Has practiced Surveying in this county for the past 15 years. Has done all Engineering work for the city of Howell for the past three years.

Is licensed by State of Michigan to this kind of work.

CORONERS

Andrew J. Brown of Howell City and Chas. Groucher of Brighton City are making the run for the two offices of Corner. They have both lived for many years in their respective towns .Of the class of citizens from whom our elective officers may be chosen with confidience. The party did well in drafting them and the electors will do well in elelting them.

[illegible] Miles of Deerfield Township, William [illegible] McQuillan of Howell City and [illegible] Pau of Iosco Twnship are party candidates for the office of Superintendents of the Poor.They are men with records that cannot be questioned. They will temper justice with mercy and look after the interests of the poor and unfortunate with sympathy and understanding. An X before their names are votes well cast for able and capable men.

Authorized and published by order of the Democratic County Committee
