Arbor Railroad to some point on the Lake Michigan shore has been for some time in contemplation and various points are working hard to secure the location of the line. It is quite generally conceded that there is a fair prospect that this extension can be secured by way of Dexter, Birkett, etc. It has been the opinion of many that two branches would be built, one striking Owosso, and the other making Lansing its objective point. In any event, if the road is built through Livingston county, it would be well for the interests of Pinckney to secure it, and, with this in view, an informal meeting was held, Friday evening last, at E. A. Mann's store, and a committee appointed to meet Gov. Ashley at any at work on the new village lock-up, it point he may designate, and also to confer with delegates from other towns in reference to the matter. Pearce—the remainder | Whenever she attends a funeral she gets a giggling fit, and brings disgrace on herself and confusion on everybody. Not long since, accompanied by her husband, Col. Milo Stephens, she attended the last obsequies of a prominent Texas official, having solemnly promised not to emit a single giggle until she got back home, but she was hardly in the house of mourning before she saw something to excite her risibility. "For Heaven's sake, Mirandy, wait until the funeral is over before you begin your infernal giggling." He! he! he!" giggled Mrs. Stephens. "Think of something serious. Think of your uncle whom Governor Roberts refused to pardon out of the penitentiary. The only response was a partially-suppressed giggle that attracted the attention of nearly everybody in the room. "I hope none of the children will go near the cistern while we are away, as I left the trap-door open," whispered poor Col. Stephens in despair. The only response was another suppressed spasm of laughter. Finally a happy thought struck Col. Stephens He whispered in her ear. "The milliner on Austin avenue told me to tell you that she could not get your bonnet trimmed. in time for you to wear it on Sunday." The look of unutterable woe with which she responded scared him. During the rest of the funeral ceremonies strangers who were present supposed Mrs. Mile Stephens was the widow, such an appropriately sad expression was there on her countenance. She even shed tears. —Texas Siftings.

Rev. Josiah Henson, as the original "Uncle Tom," has for many vears been known, was born at Port Tobacco, Charles county, Md., on the 15th of June, 1789, of a slave woman, the property of Josiah Mc-Pherson, a young physician. At the age of seven years he was sold to Adam Robb, a planter. Under this master he lived only two years, and was then bought by Isaac Riley, under whom he grew up to be a man and commenced preaching. slave days, said he to the reporter, "the negroes had a horror of being sold by the sheriff, Well, Massah Riley had a big law suit at Annapolist and one night he came to my cabin—we lived some miles below Montgomery court house—and said: 'Si, it's gone agin' me; I am ruined, and you will all have to be sold by the sheriff." And then he told me that he wanted me to run away clar to Kentucky. So I took my wife and children and 18 good slaves and went to Kentucky, to Mr. Anios Riley, a brother of my master.

MASSA ST. CEXIR.

The plantation of Amos Riley and that of Mr. St. Clair were separated by Blackford's creek, a small stream in Davis county, Kentucky. Riley's plantation was a small one, and the POWER OF SUNSHINE. From an acorn care about it she said: "If they disrepresents.

Burial of a Greek Patriarch.

We found the deceased patriarch clothed in the robes of his office, silk gold richly embroidered, seated/upon a throne facing the altar in the Constantine church of the Greek Convent. Although he was only 65 years of age, he looked very venerable with his long flowing gray beard. He had a golden crown upon his head, with enameled settings on four sides, representing the Virgin, the nativity, the Insurrection, and ascension, and surmounted by an elegant diamond cross. His breast was covered with golden crosses and precious stones. He had a crozier or sceptre of gold and silver leaning against the throne, while in his right hand was a Testament, and in his left a picture of the Virgin and child-Behind the throne was standing a priest reading continuously, in Greek, appropriate passages for the dead. And from early morning till brothock in the evening a perfect stream of people were passing back and fourth, who would kneel, kiss the patriarch's hand, then the Testament which he held in it, and afterward cross themselves and pass out. The patriarch was buried the same day he died. Just before the funeral a motley crowd of Turks, Arabs, Bedouins, Nubians, Jews, and representatives of almost every nation, in almost every imaginable costume, gathered on Mount Zion. First in the procession came a band of clarionets, then a band of brass instruments, playing what I would consider a lively air, and not the least novel, was an enormous brass frum. Following the band were quite a number of students, with very long hair, preparing for the priesthood; then came the ordained priests, then the bishops, dressed in elegant cloaks. All, except the soldiers who followed, carried candles draped with black crape. After the soldiers came the Janissaries of all the consuls, and of the different convents, in what seemed to be very wild costumes, something like our American Indians. Then came bishops bearing a kind of lanterns, and crosses of silver and gold. An old man, in a very gorgeous dress, who, as I was informed, was next to the patriarch himself, was bearing the deceased patriarch's silver and gold sceptre. Then came the body, in full dress as I had seen it in the morning, with the crown on his head, and seated on his throne; as if he were alive. The procession made a strange impression upon my mind, as I watched it slowly move stoward the Zion gate, and I listened to the weird chanting of the priests. He was buried in a sitting posture, along with about two bushels of incense and myrrh.

Gen. Alex. Ogle's Use of "1." When Gen. Alex. Ogle served Somerset's "frosty sons of thunder" in the Pennsylvania Legislature, it fell to him to write in behalf of the Democratic members, a letter to Gen. Jackson, then stepping across the Presidential threshhold. Such work of the scribe was a labor of love, and in submitting to the caucus what he had written, Gen. Ogle said: "Gentlemen and members of the Democratic party, I hold in my hand a letter addressed by Gen. Alex. Ogle to Gen. Andrew Jackson, and I have no hesitation in saying that it is a - able paper." The members gathered around, agreed that the letter was just the thing to make Old Hickory's heart thump with satisfaction, and except one a dapper little Philadelphian, spoke words of praise. The dandy of the House, fixing his glasses and scanning the page with the critic's smirk, ventured to remark: "Pardon me, General; I do not wish to assume to make a suggestion to so distinguished a gentleman as yourself, but I cannot refrain from saying it is customary in the East, and I may say in almost all the civilized countries of Europe, to write with the capital Linstead of the little "i" in using the personal pronoun in apistolary correspondence." Gen. Ogle drew down his heavy brows, piercing the dandy's marrow with the fierce shaft of scorn that shot from his eye. "sir," he said, beginning with a hiss and ending with a roar, "when I write to such a great, such a towerin' man as Gen. Andrew Jackson, Democratic President of the United States, I abase myself, sir. I use as small an 'I' as I can put on paper; but, sir, if I should ever get to such a low-down pitch as to have to write to such a -- little snipe Myon, I'd use an 'I,' sir, that would fill two sheets of foolscap, so help me, God?

Dodge City is one of the termini of the cattle trail where cattle are put on the cars for shipment East. It is a hard place. When the cowbovs congregate here after their long ride from Toxas they raise hades. They commit all varieties of sin. "Dodge," as it is called, is the only place in the State where the Prohibition law is openly defied, and where its enforcement would do the most good. It is said that when the law first took effect the saloon keepers and gamblers made up "a pot" of $500 and deposited it in a bank with the cans come on over in Mexico? Do her little girl and wanted to buy a suit they have much intercourse with each for her. "We have suits for boys," benefit of the widows and orphuis of - who informed on the sellers of rett. liquor in Dodge City." The money is still in the bank and the unfortunate cowboy gets horribly drunk and squanders in bar-rooms and gambling hells the hard-earned wages that has been accumulating for months. If he does not get killed, or what is worse, kill somebody else, he is a lucky cowboy. So far "Dodge" seems to be "a biger the Mexicans can't speak English, so was explored a distance of some five man" than the State of Kansas. A.b.

The Sun.

In any reference to the physical history of the sun, the stupendous magnitude of its sphere must, be kept vividly, present to the mind. With a diameter 105 times longer than that of the earth's, the solar orb looks out into space from a surface that is twelve thousand times larger than the one which the earth enjoys. The bulk of the sun is one million three hundred thousand times that of the earth. If the surface of the sun were a thin external rind, or shell, and the earth were placed in the middle of this hollow sphere, not only would the moon have space to circle in its usual night. The houses seemed to be turned orbit without ever getting outside of the solar shell, but there, would be room also for a second satellite, nearly as far again as the moon, to accomplish a similar course. The weight of the sun is three hundred thousand times the weight of the earth, or, in round numbers, two thousand millions of millions of millions of millions of tons. The mean distance of the sun from the, earth is now so well ascertained, through investigations which have been made in several distinct ways, that there can searcely be in the estimate an error of 500,000 miles. The distance, at the present time given, is 92,885,000 miles. This measure is in itself so vast that, if any traveler were to move at 'the rate of four miles an hour for ten hours a day, it would take him 6,300 years to reach the sun. Sound would traverse the interval if there were anything in space capable of transmitting sonorous vibrations, in fourteen years, and a cannon ball sustaining its "Initial velocitythroughout, would do the same thing in nine years. A curious illustration, attributed to Prof. Mendenhall, is to the effect that an infant, with an arm long enough when stretched out from the earth to reach the sun, would die of old age before it could be conscious, through the transmission of the nervous impression-from the hand to the brain, that it had burned its fingers. In order that saw the very type of face he required.

The owner of the face was seated on the earth, thus moving round the sun with a chasm of 93,000,000 miles of intervening space between them, may not be drawn to the sun by the preponderant attraction of 380,000 times larger mass, it has to shoot forward in its path | was employed, gave satisfaction, and with a momental velocity fifty times more rapid than that of the swiftest rifle ball. But, in moving through twenty miles of this onward path, the earth is drawn out of a straight line by some- came to light. He had been a goldthing less than the eighth part of an inch. This deviation is properly the source from which the amount of the solar attraction has been ascertained. If the earth were suddenly arrested in its onward flight, and its momentum was in that way destroyed, it would be drawn to the sun, by an irresistible force of its attraction, in four months, or in the twenty-seventh part of the time which a cannon ball would take to complete the same journey.—Edinburgh Review.

AGreat Britain's War Expenditures.

It has been calculated that during 127 years, from 1688 to 1815, England spent sixty-five years in war. The war of 1688 lasted nine years. It raised the expenditure to £26,000,000. Then came the war of the Spanish succession, which lasted eleven years. Taxes to the amount of £62,500,000 was the result, and in the war of the Pretender in 1715, this war cost the people £49,000.000. The next was the Spanish war of 1739. which lasted nine years and cost the people £54,000,000. Then come the American war of 1775. This crusade against the liberties of mankind lasted the French revolutionary war in 1793 lasted nine years and cost £464,000,000. 1803, lasted twelve years, and cost £1,of wars the people had to pay £2,333,- Savoy, and there they have the Com-000,000 for the fun of fighting.

Poisonous Plants. " 3%

In gardens poisonous plants are declared by the Gardeners' Magazine to be few in number, and of no great value for decorative purposes. A very large proportion of the plants that are in highest repute for beauty, such as the rose. dahlia, pelargonium, begonia, wall-flower stock, carnation and primula are altogether harmless, although for the most part of no value whatever as articles of food. But as there are so many decorative plants that will not injure, even if eaten, it is easy to exclude from the garden a certain few that are noxious, and that sometimes have been associated with sad fatalities. The rooting-out of the great blue aconite or monk's-hood, the root of which contains a virulent poison, and has yet been many times served on the table as horseradish, is therefore recommended.

Naples.

Naples has half a million inhabitants, such as they are. Naples is quite the proper place to visit, on account of Mt. Vesuvius, and the view of the bay. You will be gladder to get out of it, though, than any place you were in ever in your life, not even excepting the station-house. I do not see how any American can live in comfort in any Italian city, owing to the notions of cleanliness and decency that are peculiar to the country. But Naples is the worst. Squalling children make the streets hideons from daylight to midiuside out, back foremost, and all domestic and toilet operations to be performed upon the street.

The lower classes are no more than half civilized. They repudiate and reject utterly commonly-accepted notions of delicacy. They are primitive in many of their ways as if they had lived in the times of Moses. One of our party saw a woman spinning with a distant precisely as women did in the days of Homer. The lower stories of the houses often have no windows toward-the street. A door furnished the only light and air. Inside of one such room a whole family are supposed to find dwelling place. In brief, they live like rats in a hole. When it is necessary to cook, they set up a sort of little durnace, right out in the street, and broil or bake, as the case may be, before the gaze of all the world. I judge the women comb their hair only on high saints' days. They cannot perform the operation for themselves, either, apparently. Neighbor wives club together, as it were, and comb one another's hair, sitting in the front doors for a friendly, gossip meanwhile -Foreign Letter.

An Artist's Model Who Had Seen Life.

An artist of my acquaintance was searching for a model in the streets of New York. Crossing Union Square, he one of the benches in an attitude of cheerful expectancy. The artist accosted the old man and asked if he would pose. He readily consented, went to the studio at the appointed time, became a sort of retainer at the studio. His massive white head and large white beard met with favor in resthetic circles. By degrees, items of his personal history digger in California in the early days or the mining excitement. He claimed to have experienced fifteen shipwrecks in the capacity of a sea Captain. Left an orphan at an early age, he had been educated by a physician, and hadacquired some knowledge of medicine. Fate threw him among the Indians of the far West, presumably on his way from the gold-diggings, and he became a medicine-man. He was learned in natural philosophy, and possessed a mineralogical cabinet and also a singular collection of roots, each twisted By nature into the shape of one of the letters of the alphabet. He painted shells skillfully, and had an ambition to go round the world in a canoe. This remarkable nerson also wrote poetry and was a Yankee. It needed only a master-brush to make this same representative Tankee as classic as a Milletpensant.—Charlotte Adams, in the Contury

Jewish congregations, worship with their heads covered; so do the Quakers, seven years war in 1756, which cost the although St. Paul's injunctions on the people £112,000,000. The next was the matter are clearly condemnatory of the practice. The Puritans of the Commonwealth would seem to have kept eight years' and cost £186,000,000. Then their hats on whether preaching or beng preached to, since Pepys notes hearing a simple clergyman exclaiming The war against Bonaparte began in against men wearing their hats in the church, and a year after (1662) 159,000,000. During sixty-three years writes: "To the French church in the mon prayer-book, read in French, and which I never saw before, the minister do preach with his hat off. I suppose in further conformity with our church." William III. rather scandalized his church-going subjects by following Dutch custom, and keeping his head covered in church, and, when it did please him to doff his ponderous hat during the service, he invariably donned it as the preacher mounted the pulpit stairs. When Bossnett, at the age of 14, treated the gay singers of the Hotel de Rambouillet to a midnight sermon, Voltaire sat it out with his hat on, but, uncovering when the boy preacher had finished bowed low before him, saying Sir, I never heard a man preach at once so early and so late."-All the Year Round:

PUBLING PENSIONS.

The commissioner of pensions is disposing of pension cases at the rate of 300 to 400 per day. Attorneys and claimants will shortly be notified that if the evidence called for in suspensions is not furnished within a reasonable time the cases thus neglected will be rejected. There are thousands of claims for pensions "hung un for want of proper evidence, which cannot be passed upon finally, merely because they are not complete in form. When the pension office works up the complete cases it will turn in and reject such as have apparently been abandoned. Such claimants as wish to revive their rejected claims will have to begin de noro.

HOWGATE'S CLAIMS.

The court en bine, through Chief Justice Carter, has delivered a decision in two of the Howgate cases. In the first case, where propto other parties, although a deed was not recorded, the court decided adversely to the government and dismissed the attachment. The second case was an appeal from an adverse decision of the lower court, where the defendant had resisted the attachment of his property by the government, because action had been brought by special counsel instead of the United States District Attorney. The appeal was dismissed and the decision holds that the United States has a legal right to employ such professional aid as it may deem necessary. ILGES' INTENTION.

When the luncheon bell rang Miss Somerville slowly and proudly went down stairs. Most of the people were in-their places. One quick look showed her that the chair next hers was empty.

"Well, France's darling, is your head better," said Aunt Polly kindly. "Do come and keep Mr. Vernon in order; he is comparing some one or other to a wooden caterpillar."

Miss Somerville was very grave and quiet all luncheon time, and she sat by her sister, though she smiled and thanked her friends for their kind inquiries after her headache.

Charlie Vernon had come round and taken Major Herbert's place, but it was not till the luncheon was over, and she was going away, that she asked wif he knew where Major Herbert was?'

Mr. Vernon had replied laughingly 'that he had started off at an unearthly hour that morning for a long walk, and that they needn't expect to see him again till he turned up.'

The afternoon was not and stifling, and Miss Somerville, giving her sister, who is preparing for a good, long, comfortable Sunday nap, a hasty kiss, goes away to her own room, and putting on her hat, turns her steps in the direction of the great Orme. Spite of the heat, she walks quickly along so afraid is she of being overtaken and accompanied the only one wish and desire is how to get away from every one and to find some sheltered, secluded nook, where with a solemn air, "I was divorced with a solemn air, "I was divorced But when she reaches the Hap-

The Safest Theater in the World.

Capt. Shaw, Chief of the London Fire Brigade, and Chief Marshal Swenie went about the city a good deal together lately, visiting all the public buildings and inspecting with minute attention the various public resorts. Their visit to McVioker's Theater Capt. Shaw regarded as a most notable one, as it gave him the opportunity of inspecting place of amusement with a larger number of direct entrances and exits into the street from one theater than he had seen. He expressed his admiration for a theater possessing such remarkably excellent advantages of situation and construction and such superb facilities for entrance and exit, making it the safest theater in the world, an opinion which the Chief Marshal of this city heartily indorsed. "FATHER, you are an awful brave man," said a Detroit youth, as he smoothed down the old man's gray locks. "How do you know that, Willie?" "Oh, I heard some men down at the store say that you killed thousands of soldiers during the war." "Me? Why, I was a beef contractor for the army!" "Yes, that's what they said!" explained young innocence, as he slid for the kitchen.— Detroit Free Press.

HER HUSBAND'S APOSTROPHE. Oh, woman! in your hour of ease
Uncertain, coy and hard to please,
Whene'er you go to buy a bonnet,
You're harder yet to please, doggone it. LEAVING TOWN.

He straightened his back, and wiped the sweat From his brow so fiery red; "I would rather travel with Jumbo, dear, Than travel with you," he said.

She darted an angry glance and cried:
"Why, Walter, you must be drunk."
"I'm sober enough," he said, "to know
That Jumbo can pack his own trunk."

On the occasion of Sarah Bernhardt's return to London the Times said she looked "worse and even thinner than before." This reminds us of the German-composer who was conducting-one of his overtures. As the horns played too loud her told fliem repeatedly to play softer; and softer they played each time. At the fourth repetition, with a knowing wink at each other, they put their instruments to their lips, but did not blow at all. The conductor nodded approvingly: "Very good, indeed. Now one shade softer and you'll have

They were sitting in the shadow of face as red as if it had just emerged from a brick-kiln. "And you will take me to Europe on our wedding day, darling?" she said, toying fondly with one of his suspender buttons that had broken loose and fallen into her lap. A very serious look stole over his countenance, and for some moments he was silent. Finally he choked back a rising sigh, and said: "No, deary; we will stick to the dry land. I never could hold a basin under a woman's chin for ten days and love her-afterward."

A young farmer who had been reading a book which stated that "woman is the Sunday of man," thought he would compliment and please his wife by shouting to her one morning: "Daisy, you are my Sunday!" Daisy glared at him as though she imagined he was daft; and then quietly said: "Dan, I may be your Sunday, but I'm not going to give you any rest until you buy me a bonnet that's fit to wear to church." Dan now keeps his quotations to himpasses the affection of a dog or a horse gear. New York Commercial Adver-

> Gus De Smith was ejected violently from a doctor's office on Austin avenue. Gus complained that he felt very much debilitated. "You should eat oat meal for breakfast. I eat oat meal and feel as stout as a jackass," said the doctor. "The oat meal can't have anything to do with your feeling like a jackass," remarked Gus. "I'll kick you out of this office," roared the exasperated doctor, "If you do, doctor, I'll not kick back I'll do like that other fellow who was kicked by a fackass. I'll consider the source." After that Gus stalked out. The affair is much to be regretted, as both parties are respectably connected. -Texas Siftings.

Enormous Subsidy. The extent of the Government aid or subsidy to the Union Pacific railroad exceeds that ever extended by any Government to any undertaking. Congress authorized a land donation of 13,-875,200 acres, to be located in alternate sections on both sides of the line, and subsequently guaranteed the stock of the company to the extent of $16,000 per mile between the Missouri river and the eastern base of the Rocky mountains, $48,000 per mile for 150 miles mountains, and $48,000 per mile for 150 then comtemplates, his work with satisthe entire cost of constructing the road. The Horse and the Man.

The man has cut away the frog because he thinks that the animal will be injured if the frog touches the ground. He has then cut a deep groove at the base of the frog. This is to give a "wellopened heel," as he is pleased to call it. He has scooped away the sole to "give it spring." He has scored a deep notch in the toe for the purpose of receiving the "clip" of the shoe. This is evidently a conservative relic of the time when nails were not used, and the since attached by three-pointed clips hammered over the edge, one in front and one on either side. Then he has improved the whole of the outer surface of the hoof. As the Creator has furnished this part of the hoof with a thin, hard, polished plate forming a sort of varnish which is impervious to wet, the farrier, as a matter of course, rasps it all away up to the crown. And as the Creator has placed round the crown a fringe of hair which acts as a thatch to the line of junction and throws off the rain apon the waterproof varnish, he cuts this away with his scissors. Lastly, the Creator having given to the horny hoof a mottling of soft, and partially translucent, brown, gray-blue, yellow, black and white, never exactly the same in two hoofs, much less in two horses, the farrier takes a across the Rocky mountains, $32,000 per blacking-pot and brush, polishes up the mile between the Rocky mountains and houts thitle they look like patent-leaththe eastern base of the Sierra Nevada er boots, all four exactly alike, and faction. In his own words, he has "turned out a finished job of it."—Good PINCKNE
