DIED.

In Unadilla, Monday afternoon, July 23rd, 1883, Mrs. Archibald Marshall. Funeral occurred on Wednesday, at 10:30 A. M.

Near Pinckney, Tuesday morning, July 24th 1883, of crysipelas, Benny, oldest child of Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Bunning.

Benny's dead! How like a dream To my heart those sad words seem To-day I clasped his little hand— To-night he's in the spirit-land. Benny's dead! where'er I go, Those words follow, sad and low; Every breeze, to sorrow wed, Whispers sadly, "Benny's dead!" Benny's dead! Each cherished toy Sadly waits the absent boy; And little Carlie seems to say, "I wonder at his long delay." Benny's dead! will I ne'er see Bennie run to welcome me? Yes, when pallid death shall come,

Ir General Butler were General of Texas he might perhaps find a legitimate object of attack in the Dallas County Poor-Farm, the alleged brutal management of which is said to be creating intense excitement and indignation. Already there are reports of a man clubbed to death and a little girl beaten with a fence-rail, not to mention one death through neglect, constant cruelty and insufficient food. An official investigation, with sensational results, is expected.

It is claimed with a show of reason. that England is to a certain extent responsible for the presence of cholera in Egypt. The putrid carcasses of animals that have choked the canals, and the general prevalence of filth to which to do until you have done it?" the epidemic is ascribed were the direct results of the war precipitated by England. If Great Britain had the well, being of that unhappy country at heart why did she not set her soldiers to its sanitary condition.

On the 1st of August the Parcels Post becomes operative throughout the United Kingdom. By this system parcels not exceeding 7 pounds in weight and three feet in length can be carried by mail for a charge of three pence on a package not exceeding one pound, weights ranging between one and three -pounds, six-pence, and between five and seven pounds, a shilling. Of course all matter of a combustible nature, and liquids which would injure other matter in the course of transmission will be rigidly excluded, as will also all obseene prints, books and articles.

Some time ago it was stated that a novel experiment was about to be tried in the Nebraska Institute for the Deaf and Dumb, at Omaha. The semi-deaf children of the institution were to be taught to hear by the use of audiphone. Recent reports show that the experiment has been a complete success. The method consists mainly of object-teaching and an exaggerated plain progunciation of words by the teacher, whose pupils gradually become accustomed to the sounds or words used to designate various objects; and in time they succeed in hearing and pronouncing these words themselves. Now that this interesting experiment has succeeded, there is no reason why it should not be tried in other similar institutions.

It is a noteworthy fact in connection with the present agitation against pauper immigrants that the strongest opposition to the landing of people of this class comes from representatives of their own nationality who are already here and are well to do. The outery against the assisted Irish came first and having an exceptionally fine baritone loudest from the Irish. And now it is the Hebrews who do not want their pauper brethren sent over. Several families of Polish Jews arrived in New York a few days ago on the Lydian Monarch. They had been helped across the ocean by the Hebrew Society of London, and although they had a little morey in their possession the Emigration Commissioners decided that they were likely to become a public charge: so the Polish Jews will be returned without thanks to the London society. This is in accordance with the wishes of President Allen, of the United Hebrew Charities of New York. He requested that these people should not be allowed to land. Evidently some of our Irish and Hebrew citizens are guided by an enlightened self-interest.

Studying the Time-Table.

"My dear," said Mr. Spoopendyke, running his thumb down the list of towns on the time-table and glaring President Arthur is credited with helplessly at the columns of figures, "my dear, the man must have given me the wrong business. We can never get anywhere with this."

"Let's see, " muttered Mrs. Spoopendyke, laying her hand on his arm and drawing the time-table toward her. "There's Boston Lv. and Albany Ar. 2:30 to 2:40, That's plain enough."

"It is is it?" snorted Mr Spoopendyke, abandening the table and bending his eyes on his wife. "Think that's plain enough, do ye? Show me how you make it. If you got this thing by the tail, wiggle it once for my informa-

Carry swill to the hogs!" roared Spoopendyke, bracing himself in his seat and surveying his wife with marked disapprobation. "That's about as much as you know, anyway. What's Boston got to do with it? What interest has Lv. and Ar. got in this thing? Got some kind of a notion that they own the road haven't ye? P'raps ye think one's a tunnel and the other's a bridge. Well, they ain't, and they're not half-baked females who don't know a time-table from a dog law. Now, you let me figure this thing if you don't want to spend the balance of your precious life on the road.'

"Certainly, my dear," coold Mrs. Spoopendyke, nestling up to her husband and glancing around the car to see if he had been overhead. "You can make it out if anybody can.

"Now we started from New York at 10:30 a. m., continued Mr. Spoopenleave Buffalo at 12:35 and 12:40 for Chicago. What I want to know is, why we leave Buffalo twice.

"I suppose it is to make sure of getting away from there," suggested Mrs. Spoopendyke, fastening her thumb and forefinger upon the margin of the timetable with a death grip. Maybe-44 engine leaves at 12:35 and the last car at 12:40," she added, as the new explanation occurred to her. "Anytrow" it is better to get away from there twice than stay there altogether, don't you think so, dear?" and she looked up at binr confidingly.

"S'pose anybody along the line of this road knows what you are driving at?"-snarfed Spoopendyke hauling at his end of the time-table. Let go, will idea! It took you to hit it! When I go time to fix you up with at cow-eatcher and a schedule of cut rates, I'm going to start an opposition road with you! Now letthis thing alone, I tell ye!

"There it is! exclaimed Mrs. Spoopendyke flushing with another discovery. "I've got it now! Of course welve got to leave Buffalo twice to get to Chicago twice!" and Mrs. Spoopendyke settled herself back and regarded th table with much complacency.

"Oh. you've got it, "roared Spoopen-dyke.—This railroad is twins! Leaves everywhere twice and gets everywhere twice. Nobody would have found it out but you! "Perhaps there are two different trains out of Buffalo," hazarded Mrs Spoopendyke.

Mr. Spoopendyke deliberately tore-the time table into a thousand pieces, dropped them carefully under the seat, buried his hands in his pockets and gazed out of the window.

"I don't care," soliloquized Mrs. Spoopendyke. There can't two trains arrive anywhere without leaving somewhere, and, anyhow, I suppose we'd get to Chicago just as well if we didn't understand about this Buffalo affair.'

With which consoling reflection Mrs. Speopendyke settled herself in her sea and gave herself up to considering how that girl on the other side of the aisle would act if she knew how much her laughing and loud talking with her escort offended the more virtuous-minded

Let it not be understood that what is vulgarly known as "book learn" ing" is to be despised or neglected; it ought not to be and must not be; the more of it the better. But in these days of concentration of wealth and capital, of production by great corporations, the propertion of those who work for wages is constantly growing larger. Agricultural independence is being encroached upon by industrial dependence, and how to use his hands in the coming battle of life is now, more than ever before, becoming the serious question for every American boy.

Industrial or manual education, then, is destined to become a feature of the education afforded by our public schools. Geometry and a jack-plane are no more incompatible than that delightful study and a blackboard. Arithmetic would cease to be stupid if mechanical education enough were sandwiched in between recitations to enable the boys to manufacture—that | Herakl. is, make with their hands, aided by proper tools—the conditions of their problems. Even text books would be doubly interesting if some of the scholars would spend time enough in a printing office to learn how it was made, and be able to describe the process intelligently. There is not a blacksmith shop in the country but should have two or three boys in it a part of the summer vacation, if for nothing more than to consider whether they should like the business; not a carpenter shop but should tolerate a few school boys in it now and then, that they may learn how to drive a nail correctly; and so on throughout the trades. Some dresses of extraordinary beauty were made recently for a widow of thirty who is about to enter the matrimonial state a second time. One was of ivory satin, with long, plain train embroidered in a rich scroll pattern, with pearls, white jet, and heavy silk down the sides and around the bottom, which was edged with a narrow triple plaiting, lined interiorly with a double plaiting of lace. The front was cat out in leaves, in a triple series, embroidered and laid over flowness of pompadour lace, the width diminishing toward the bodice, which formed a very deep point, and the hollows of which, upon the hips, were filled in with embroidered leaves, below which were deep paniers of the lace. The bodies was cut square, embroidered in front, and surrounded with a standing fraise of exquisite lace. The sleeves were formed of a single puff of satta and double fall what I intend to do, and the first man of lace, the lower one descending over who opens his mouth again I'll blow the elbow.

Another dress was a very delicate combination of shrimp pink, with a lovely brocade on a tinted ground. A Hold Robbery

A bold bank robbery was committed at the Coldwater National bank a few days ago. The eashier, George Starr, was alone in the bank, when a stranger came in and asked for a blank check. Mr. Starr gave him one, and he stepped walked out. Immediately another stranger stepped in and asked Mr. Starr to count a package of money-about a hundred $1 billswhich Mr. Starr proceeded to do; but soon thought he heard a noise in the vault, and saw yault and asked the man what he was doing there and to put down the package he had in his hand. The man met Mr. Starr with a cocked revolver, and held it on Starr till he backed out of the back door of the bank. All the men had gone. Starr gave an alamn and Marshal Ide started in pursuit on the road tothe three were armed, and Marshal Ide had no weapon. Neather did Dr. Voorbees, who accompanied ide, and the robbers drove the marshal and his aid back towards the city and then continued their journey unmolested. The package taken from the bank contained jewelry belonging to H. C. Lewis, who is president of

A Rather Mixed Affair

In April last one Sturdifant began proceedings for divorce from his wife in the Ottawa county circuit court. His petition alleged that his wife was a woman of feeble mind, living in Kalamazoo; that she had treated him cruelly and threatened to kill him with a butcher knife, etc. Judge Tate heard of the case and informed the court that the woman is in the insane asylum at Kalamazoo; that she was cent there by her husband; that the butcher-knike affair and other such 'performances, we as proofs of her insanity #that the alleged desertion was simply her absence by reason of being in the insane asylum. This revelation upset the proceedings; and Judge Hoyt, Sturaifant's lawyer, was so surprised at the develop-ments, of which he was ignorant, that he declined to continue the case for his client. So

THE GARFIELD CAMPAIGN. Dorsey Writes it up -- liow the Politicians

Raise Money -- Is it true or False?

Ex-Senator (star route) Dorsey has just published an alteged history of the Republican national committee's work during the Garfield campaign. As chairman of that organization had too long been accustomed to excitement, Mr Dorsey discloses how he, with the assistand after a few months' retirement again long-ance of Gen. Garfield, Brady, and others managed to raise a corruption fund for use in Indiana and elsewhere. Jay Gould was induced (the article states) by a written promise from Garfield that Stanley Matthews would be apointed to the supreme court, to give $150,000 The article shows how tien. Gartield manipuing the residue in leisurely viewing such cities lated the stalwarts during his visits to New and portions of the country as they happened York by agreeing to appoint Levi P. Morton to be in. There were stories of a child being secretary of the treasury, and then proceeds: But this was a trifle compared with that which followed. This only secured the active sup port of the stalwarts. That was nothing without money. Whether Garfield made or received first the proposition that men say was made, it is now asserted by those who know that another memorandum was drawn up. In that it is asserted that the 'candidate for the presidency of the republican party agreed funding the government fives and sixes, which 65. must soon take place, should be given to such syndicate of New York bankers as should be designated by the stalwarts, and at such commission as should be fair. Here were millions in prospect. The operation, as has since been shown, was an enormous one, and at an apparently trifling commission would have given the Mexico, says that the published reports of Gen. fortunate syndicate profits such as has not been Crook's victory are grossly incorrect and that realized since the days when the great governinstead of Crook capturing the Indians the ment loans were placed. With such an agree-instead of Crook. According to Sena-instead of Crook. Grant and Conkling took the stumps while Dorsey was busy organizing: for an October victory in Indiana. Every voter was enrolled; and the first canvass showed that the state was hopelessly democratic. So conspic nous was Dorsey's part in this organising and strategic work that Garfield spoke cuthusias-

In the latter part of September after Dorsey's canvass had been completed, every voter placed; and the influences that could be brought to bear on him had been learned, a special messenger left New York for Indianapolis, taking with him over $400,000 in money and converti-Tork principally inrough the efforteof free Pa Morton. Dorsey was urged to see to its distribution, and to prevent as far as possible dishonesty on the part of those distributing it. When the money reached the local committees it was found to be largely in errap, new $2 bills, and Dorsey suggests that Assistant Tressurer John C. New, could, if he choose, tell how the bills and drafts of large denominations were soquickly converted into small bills. These bills were distributed through the state just as ballots were, in great bunches. The destination of each was perfectly well known, and by noon of election day they had fallen like snowfakes silently all over the state. In the evening waen the polls were counted, it was seen that the $2 bills and the $432,000, combined with Dorsey's plan, had won. The democratic party was snowed under by greenbacks. Garfield, Arthur, James, Wayne MacVeagh, and other republican lewlers knew at the time what had been done, and all yield in doing Dorsey honor. GARFIELD AND THE STAR HOUTE TRIALS. Dorsey hurried to Washington, and with

Col. Ingersoll went to see MacVeagh, who told him bluntly he expected to send him to the peritentiary. He then went to the White House, where he denounced MacVeagh as a personal and malicious exemy who was using his bower in the administration to "rulu him. He asked Garfield to look into the matter himself and if anything was found implicating him, he (Dorsey) was willing to stand the con-sequences. "But," said he. "I do not want to have it done by any man with a personal malice to satisfy:" Garfield heard him through, and then went up to him, put his arm around him, and said: "Steve, old boy, don't worry; go back to your ranch." He also said to him taat he had the whole business thoroughly in his own hands, where he proposed to keep it. Dorsey went away greatly relieved. He had, however, hardly got home before news came that distressed a majer of cases the work went on with very him. He learned that MacVeagh expected soon to get an indictment against him. Back he came to Washington Gartield told Dorsey that not a step was taken without his knowiedge, and he told him that if he would be at his room at a certain hour that evening, he would send him a transcript of all the evidence. This was done. The papers were taken to Dorser 'y a member of the celebrated 'chum cabinet.' In the first report of the progress of the investigation, which was submitted by the investigators, the name of Dorort was given to the press the mame and all allusions to his connection with the star route system had been stricken out by lead pencil crasnres. Dorsey and Brady both had a strong friend in the administration. Mr. Blaine, while moving very circumspectly, felt very bitterly about the treatment they were rectiving. He had, besides his own grievances arising from MacVeigh's almost outspoken hostility, and he early began to preparcette way for the speedy retirement of Macventh and James from the cabinet. Somuch fuss had been made about the star route eases. that it was thought unwise to shut down on all proceedings at once but the whole business was to be slowly strangled and gradually to be illowed to disappear from public sight. Mac-Veagh knew this, and he also had reason to believe that on the morning of July 2, 1881, when Garfield rode to the depot with Blaine, the interesting conversation in which they were engaged had reference to early changes in the offices of attorney general and postmaster general. Guiteau's shot caused-the star route prosecutions to be handed over as a legacy from the old to the new administration.

Strike of Telegraph Operators.

Several days ago the announcement was made that at noon on Wednesday the 15th inst, unless their demands were complied with, all telegraph operators belonging to the telegraph er's brotherhood, would leave their keys. The operators among other things demanded an in crease of salary and fewer hours of labor. Their grievances were laid before the managers of the different companies, who made vain endeavors to effect a compromise with the dissatisited wire-workers. The operators were firm. and would not yield, though they did grant one day's time to the managers, and did not strike until the 19th inst. But prompt at noon of that tay, every operator belonging to the brotherhood left work, only to resume when the companies shall grant their request. The strike is general, both in the United States and Canada. In Michigan, with the exception of Detroit, where all struck, the full force of operators remain at their posts in Jackson, Lansing, Grand Rapids, Port Huron, Ann Arbor, Adrian, Marshall and Batthe Creek. At Bay City all left the office except the manager, and East Suginary telegrapher. also generally struck. A partial force remains nt Kalamrazoo and other cities. In nearly every case the men are orderly and determined, and say that they are prepared to stay out three months. It is impossible to predict the outcome of the strike, thoughts disastrous effects upon business are plain to be seen. Both factions are determined. The managers of the companies are confident that they can easily obtain other operators, while the strikers are equally certain that competent one can not be secured. It is a significant fact that the dissatisfied workers have the sympathy of men whose interests are most feriously affected by

AN AMUSING COLLEGE STORY.

Hazing Freshman Solberg.

Youth's Companion.

Solberg was effeminate in appearance and not more than five feet four inheight, with slight form and a pale face. Notwithstanding this, he acquired and retained, all through his Freshman year, the reputation of being the most expert boxer, and withal the "heaviest" man in a melee that ever entered our college.

This disproportionate reputation was gained by a single not, or adventure, but the facts in the cases were not known until Solberg was in his senior year. He then gave the true version of the story at one of our class dinners. At Commencement, the class historian incorporated a humorous account of it in the class annals, which was read, to the great amusement of the audience.

Up to that time there had been a good deal of "hazing" at P The first week after our class entered. Solberg was marked as a "victim" by the Sophomores of the class above us. For though so small and slight of build, he had an independent bearing, and had already committed the indiscretion of appearing on the campus with a cane in his hand. It was whispered, too, that to had a stall hat' in his room, which he designed to wear on Sundays.

Canes and "stove-pipe hats" were then the undisputed prerogatives of the Sophomores. They allowed no Freshman to sport these supposed emblems of manly dignity, and various were the penalties which they indicted on the "Freshies" who ventured to make a display of them.

There was the "Thompsonian treats ment' which consisted in introducing the nozzle of a hose, connected with the pump, down the back of the Freshman's neck, or up a leg of his pantaloons, and then vigorously using the pump handle for two or three minutes.

There was the "plain duck." which was the simple inversion of a water-bucket-two or three perhaps-from the second or third story window upon the head of the unsuspecting Freshman who was walking below.

There was also the unidnight vigil, or the keeping of which the newly-arfyed undergraduate was first seized in his bed, blindfolded, and then "lost" by devious windings through a neighboring grove, to be subsequently bound to a tree and left to confer with the owls during the remainder of the night. Somewhat similar to this last method of ill-treatment was the "gathered-tohis-fathers" method, which consisted in to be bewildered victim of sophomorie displeasure, at dead of nicht, to a remote old grave-vard. where he was first stretched on his back upon one of the sarcophagus-shaped tombs, and then bound fast to the memorial slab which served as a lid to the stone chest. Here he was left to "count the stars" and commune with silent nature for the rest of the night, or until his cries and struggles brought relief from some chance source. then, too, there was the "barber's "during which the devoted Freshmish's head was either wholly or half shaved. These are but a few of the ways of "hazing" then in vogue, but they will serve to convey some idea of man who fell into disfavor with the from its socket, the door flew open, and Sophmores, or who showed any sympton in rushed three Sophs to seize the total for soup. But this was not often, for the brawny, ponderous old bruiser was a rather good-natured animal at heart, rather in the cause of his "science" than out of malice.

To this unsavory personage young developments: Solberg applied, calling upon him not at his saloon, but at his hotel, on private business. He had, I think, good reasons for putting the Sophomores and their coarse tyranny on a level with roughs and prize-fighters and their methods of self-assertion. One was well-matched against the other.

Solberg stated his case to the ex-prize lighter and unfolded a plan of operations. As he was a young gentleman of means, he had no difficulty in securing the offices of the good-natured bully, - all the more readily, perhaps, because the old king of the ring may have been sighing in spirit over the too peaceful life into which public sentiment had latterly forced him.

It was arranged that immediately after durk that evening, "Old Beeze" should go quietly to Solberg's room at the college, and place himself at this dung gentleman's disposal.

Moantime our threatened Freshman went about the business of his studies for the rest of the day, but during the atternoon he took occassion-to indulge in a walk about the college campus, and carried his cane as usual. The better to show his contempt of the itsirttinh notice placed on his door, he twisted it after the most Toppish fash.on of

The Sophomores saw him and boiled with indignation: The Freshman was defying them. Word was rapidly passed among the faithful, and a classmeeting was called to take immediate action.

The charge was, that Freshman Solberg had not only been out with a cane, since he had been specially warned, but had flousished it deliantly,

All the Sophs agreed that he must be dealt with sammarily; and the unanimous vote was that he should suffer "Thompsonian treatment" that very night, and then be Tgathered to his fathers.

Solberg felt that the crisis was anproaching. At twilight he retired to his room and locked the door. About half an hour later his heart was gladdened to hear three taps on the panel The pugilist had no sailed him.

A whispered consultation was held all the preliminaries were arranged and the man of the ring was hidden away under the bed, upon a pillow and blánket. Solberg then trimmed his lamp, and fell to work upon his next morning's Odyssev lesson. Old Beeze snored. Ten o'clock struck, and still no move ment on the part of the Sophomores but not very long after, Solberg heard muffled footfalls outside his door, and low voices in the hall.

He blew out his lamp and hastened to shake the slumbering Ajax, under the bed .- The Philistines are upon us, Fogerty -

"Ay, sor, and it's fun we'll have, thin! was the hoarse-whisper-from beneath. A few minutes later they heard a loud and peremptory knock. Solberg threw himself upon the bed; but after a decent pause, called out,

But no further developments came. The wounded were too numerous to make a rally acceptable on the part of the Sophs. They had had enough. Some of them, indeed, had quite too much, and required to be assisted to their rooms, There were no further demonstrations at Solberg's door, and after waiting an hour or two, he dismissed his rough assistant and sent him on his way with a liberal fee.

Ten Sophomores were absent from prayers and early recitation the next morning. The excuses rendered by them were various. It is said that their recitation room, for the ensuing week, presented so' diversified and obtrusive an array of black eyes and bandaged heads, that the matter became the subject of a l'aculty meeting.

He was fairly ceries to last them through harvest: paralyzed at first to see what was going we have everything you need, Sugars, on, but as soon as he recovered his Teas, Coffee, Spices, Pork, Hams, breath he gave as a good rating and Dried Beef, Cheese, and Canned Goods told us if we wanted to be reported we fet all kinds. If you don't feel just like should just open our heads again that night. Novody dared say a word for you don't know the dignity of a castet officer, I tell you. They are very strict about having the rooms kept in order and having everybody in. At taps, which is at ten o'clock, all lights have to Don't forget to come and stock up at be out and everybody in bed. Some-once. The place is at the times there are three cadets/in a room. and one of them is appointed orderly. and held responsible for the others being in bed and everything in order. The DBUG AND GROCERY STORE minute the taps cease a cadet officer comes flying around, bangs open the door and asks:

All in. sir replies the orderly and the door slams and the officer skips on to the next room. If anybody is out, or not in bed, the orderly has to report it. There are no locks on the doors, and a cadet officer is likely to bounce in at any minute, day or night, to see that overything is all right. When he RICHARDS! and a cadet officer is likely to bounce comes in the night without a lantern he challenges the orderly, and the orderly has to answer him. But if he comes with a lantern he goes right up to the beds and flashes the light in your face undress and pile into bed with their a man in bed in his clothes there is music. Every morning a cadet officer and a regular officer go around inspecting the rooms. The cadet throws open the door and the officer marches in as stiff and dignified as a statue. If he finds as much as a scrap of paper on the floor he points to it, the cadet makes a minute of it in a book, and you get so many demerits for it. The officer swings around on his heel, the cadet slams the door, and they go on to the next room. Oh, it's a lovely time of it the boys have. And I'm so sorry I studied too hard and got bounced out." -Ex Cadet, in N. Y.
