LOCAL JOTTINGS.

Dr. W. R. Rainey, of Pontiac, smiled upon Pinckney friends Monday.

Some of our young men are talking of supplying themselves with bicycles.

Mrs. F. L. Brown and Miss Kate Brown go to Chicago to-day, to visit friends.

A large number of our citizens will go to see the "sojers" at Island Lake, during the next few days.

Dr. T. H. Turner removed to Pontiac Saturday. He will be associated with Dr. Fuller, of that city.

Mr. H. S. Mann and family, of East Saginaw, are the guests of Pinckney friends and relatives.

The State Militia go into camp at Brighton to-day.

Northern Michigan offers plenty of land for safer farming than the plains of Dakota afford.

Miss Mary Herrington, of Howell, is the guest of Pinckney friends this week.

On account of her absence, Mrs. Brown's Dress Making Shop will be closed for about three weeks.

A large number of Pinckney ladies went picnicking and bathing at Silver Lake, yesterday.

Rev. and Mrs. K. H. Crane returned yesterday, after a pleasant visit of three weeks among friends and relatives.

Mr. N. Coleman has purchased from Dr. Haze some lots just east of the Dr.'s residence, on Unadilla street, and will at once build thereon a neat and substantial dwelling.

Mr. Devereaux runs his meat wagon over a territory of eight or ten miles each way from Pinckney and has a fine trade with it. He visits Unadilla, Hamburg, Birkett's and Chubb's Corners.

The Air Line Road was completed to South Lyon Tuesday, and a very generous reception was accorded to the iron gang and other railroad employees on the arrival of the first train.

Dr. Reeves, recently graduated from the Homeopathic department of the State University, visited Pinckney last week, with a view of locating here, but afterwards concluded that the town was not large enough for him.

We are requested to call attention to the fact that there is an ordinance forbidding bathing in the millpond or streams within the village of Pinckney, until after 8 p. m. This ordinance is being continually violated by some of our village youth, a practice which should be discontinued.

Miss Fannie, oldest daughter of Benjamin Allen, of the Pinckney and Dexter Stage line, died Monday, of diphtheria. She was ill only a few days.

Since writing above we learn that Mr. Allen's people feel certain the disease was not diphtheria, and that the physician made a great mistake in his treatment of the case.

Bro. Hurst of the Bancroft Advertiser has joined the bicycle club, and now he mourneth because the Autumn days approach and the wintry days when he can have no pleasure in them, and tearfully implores some Yankee genius to invent a "cycle" that can be run on ice. Evidently, Bro. H., a bicycle would be "a big thing on ice," and if you should take a header on the pond you could skate a mile or two on your nose instead of that other surface which in boyhood's days was so familiar with the temperature of the congealed liquid. Let us have a winter cycle—be it a bicycle, a try-cycle or even a cry-cycle. The safety of the nation demands it.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Clark, of Nebraska, are visiting friends in the neighborhood of Pinckney.

Whooping Cough prevails in the neighborhood of Hudson, on the Dexter road.

Railroad contractors are offering $4.00 per day for teams and $1.75 for shovellers.

A Prohibition convention will be held at the Court House, on Saturday, Aug. 11, to select delegates to the State Convention.

Mr. Howard is hauling from Dexter several tons of iron bolts for Air Line bridges in this locality.

Rev. M. O'Reilly was greeted by a very large audience at the Catholic Church, Sunday last.

N. B. Mann after a brief business trip, is home to rest up for a week or two.

Mr. Jas. Marble has just purchased a new Birdsall Separator of the latest pattern.

Of course the boys will all remember the harvest party at the Monitor to-morrow night.

Mrs. P. L. Page and two sons, of Ann Arbor, are visiting at Christian Brown's this week.

The brick-work on Pearson's block is nearly completed.

Mr. Julius Hesse, Howell's popular meat market man, was in the village Monday.

Several carloads of bridge timber marked "J. T. Eaman," arrived at Howell Monday, and will be used on some of the bridges west of Pinckney.

A railroad meeting in the interest of the Toledo, Ann Arbor & Grand Trunk Railroad will be held at the Monitor House, Pinckney, on Friday evening, Aug. 17th. Mr. Ashley has promised to be present and address the meeting. A general attendance is requested.

Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Mann visited Whitmore Lake the other day, and report the hotels crowded to their utmost capacity.

Mr. and Mrs. John Jackson will start in a few days on a visit to relatives and old-time acquaintances in New York and New Jersey. They expect to be absent several months.

Mr. D. W. Murta departed Monday morning for McBrides, a village on the Stanton Branch of D. L. & N. R. R., where he is to be principal of the public school for the coming year.

Some very nice green corn added to the enjoyment of a Sunday dinner for the Editor's family. It was a sample from the garden of Mr. J. Swarthout of this village.

Mr. Sanford Jenkins, of Mason, brought to Pinckney, a few days ago, a load of very handsome cabbages grown on his farm. They were sold out very readily to our townspeople. The one sent, with Mr. Jenkins compliments, to the DISPATCH office weighed over 5½ lbs.

The use of firearms within the corporate limits is prohibited but the ordinance is being carelessly violated, and some of our village officials begin to think it is time to "let up on the racket."

Mr. Sterling and his corps of Engineers arrived in town last night, and are now working on the survey through the eastern part of the village. The line will cross the Grand Trunk near Mr. A. S. Campbell's residence.

Some of the "boys" in this locality tried a few days since to see what they could do at binding wheat. And the score stands as follows: Johnny Myers, 19 bundles in 1 minute.

James Harris, 20 " "
Frank Tiplady, 22 " "
Chas. Ellis, 24 " "

Last summer James Durkee bound 21 bundles in a minute, and thought he deserved the ribbon. Charlie feels very much elated to think that he has beaten "the old man."

One of the Pioneers of this township and the last survivor of the original settlers of the "Burr-Oak Plains," of West Putnam, is Mrs. Harriet Grieve, who now resides with her daughter Maggie, at Wood's Corners, Unadilla. Mrs. G. attained her 75th birth-day on the 4th of July last, and on that day she completed a patch-work quilt containing 2,116 different pieces. She is still hale and hearty, a great reader, takes all the local papers, and is thoroughly posted on all the important events both past and present, and with the merry twinkle of her eye, and a peculiar faculty of narration, few can be found to give a more pleasing story of the "days of auld lang syne."

There was a beautiful display of meteors Monday evening last.

Usual services at the Congregational Church resumed Sunday next.

Mr. J. M. Ashley, Jr., is in town to-day, talking up railroad matters and looking the ground over with Mr. Sterling.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Hause will spend a few weeks with friends in the vicinity of Williamston.

Owosso's $20,000, voted by the city, for the T. A. A. & G. T., is a bonus to be paid on the completion of the road, not for investment in bonds, as stated.

Mr. Sterling visited Portage Lake this morning, in company with Mr. Van Winkle, and is confident he can find a good line by way of the "isthmus."

Mr. Birkett, we are informed has taken $20,000 in the bonds of the Toledo, Ann Arbor & Grand Trunk Road.

Butter 14cts lb; Eggs 15cts doz; Lard 11cts lb; Potatoes 50cts per bushel, is about the condition of the Pinckney market as we go to press.

Mr. Birkett was in town this morning, and is quite enthusiastic in his hopes for the Toledo and Ann Arbor Road.

Joseph Leece of Henrietta had twenty or thirty hens carried away by the cyclone. Nothing has been heard from them since, but the editor of the Pinckney Dispatch has been having chicken-pie lately.—Stockbridge Sentinel.

If we wait for a cyclone to supply us with chickens, it is only because we are too honest to take advantage of a "dark night" to supply our larder, as some of our editorial neighbors have the reputation of doing.

The Engineer Corps of the Toledo, Ann Arbor & Grand Trunk Railway Co. are on their way from Howell to Ann Arbor via Pinckney, Birkett's and Dexter. The following letter will explain Mr. Ashley's proposition to the people of Pinckney. Having had our say on the bond question, we publish this letter without comment:

TOLEDO, ANN ARBOR & G. T. R. Y. Co.,
Ann Arbor Station, Aug. 6, '83.

DR. HAZE:

Dear Sir:—As you probably are aware, the company's engineers are now at work between Howell and Ann Arbor, via Pinckney and Dexter—please help them what you can. The proportion allotted to Pinckney and the adjacent tributary country is $20,000 of the bonds on the terms and conditions of those taken at Howell—and the right of way through the same territory, to-wit: say five miles north and four miles south of the village. Provided the engineer's report is favorable, and the amount of bonds offered are taken and the right of way is secured to the company free, the road will be built from Ann Arbor via Dexter, Pinckney to Howell. Please consult your people and let me know what can be done. Address me care Russell House, Detroit, Mich., unless you meet me within a day or two.

Yours Truly,
J. M. ASHLEY, JR.,
Gen'l Manager.

Common Council Proceedings.

PINCKNEY, MICH., July 2d, 1883.

Council convened and was called to order by President Grimes. Present: Trustees Sykes, Mann, Rose, Jackson, Haze and Richards.

Bill presented by C. N. Plimpton for repairing the village jail, amt. $5.81. On motion the bill was allowed and an order drawn for same vote: Yea, Haze, Rose, Sykes, Jackson, Richards and Mann.

Bills presented by Jas. Eaman, F. G. Rose, Marble & Coleman, J. J. Teeples, for lumber used on streets, amounting to $20.13. On motion the bills were allowed and orders drawn to pay same vote: Yea, Haze, Rose, Sykes, Richards, Jackson and Mann.

Report of committee on liquor books of druggists was then received. Motion made to reduce the liquor bonds to $3,000, and raise the tax to $100. Motion lost by vote: Yea, Sykes and Richards. Nay, Haze, Rose and Jackson.

On motion council adjourned for two weeks.

F. A. Sigler, Clerk.

MICHIGAN NEWS.

The Marquette Mining Journal thus voices its complaints: Word comes to us that deer are being slain right along at points on the Detroit, Mackinac & Marquette railroad, in disregard of the legal prohibition designed for their protection. This is an outrage, and one which residents in that section can put a stop to if they will. The law is operative—all they have to do is to see that it is enforced. If they will not use the weapon placed in their hands to preserve from destruction by "pothunters" the chief attraction of "their forest" the fault is theirs, and they will be the chief losers eventually. The State has done its share by giving the law, whose enforcement will keep this district a favorite resort for sportsmen for years to come. Let them do theirs or hold their peace.

The Oscoda Salt and Lumber Company's iron mill at Oscoda burned recently. It is a total loss. Two hundred men are thrown out of employment. The mill was partly insured. The cause of the fire is unknown. The mill was one of the best in the State, and its destruction is a great loss to the place as well as the company. The mill was built in 1879, and cost $750,000. The insurance amounts to $45,000, divided among sixteen companies.

The family of a widow, Mrs. Anna Dilts, of Victor, were poisoned last week from eating what were supposed to be mushrooms. The mother was away from home at the time but looked over the mushrooms before she went and considered them all right. The aged grandmother was laid in bed at the time and did not partake of the fatal dinner. Two little boys, aged 9 and 11, died and were buried July 29th. One daughter, about 15 years old, lies at the point of death.

An unknown laborer, evidently crazy, was run over by the Toledo & Mansfield construction train, consisting of eleven cars of ties and iron, two miles west of Battle Creek. The man was killed instantly. The head, arms and legs were cut off.

Harry T. Bush, of Monterey, was killed by the caving in of a well which he was digging. It took over two hours to dig him out.

James F. Chambers, a farmer of Odessa, Iowa county, committed suicide by taking morphine at the residence of McDale Shaw, Lowell. He told Mr. Shaw he had traded farms with a neighbor, making thereby $400, and that the papers were all made out and signed by everybody but his wife. She not only refused to sign the deed, but shut the door in his face and locked it, thus preventing his entrance to his own dwelling house except by violence. He then hitched up his team and drove to Lowell. A bottle containing morphine was found in his pocket. Drs. Peck and Purple were summoned soon after discovering his condition. They did all they could to save his life.

Prof. A. S. Welch, president of the Iowa agricultural college, formerly principal of the Michigan State normal school, has been back to the scenes of his former labors at Ypsilanti, and visited with Prof. George A. Welch, a well-known hunter, the notorious pickpocket who was under arrest at Kalamazoo, and secured $1,000 and left town, and Kalamazoo people are very indignant. The bail was originally $3,500, but Judge Sherwood reduced the amount to $1,000, which was easily secured, and now the worst thief in North America is at large again.

December 12, 1882, Ellen L. Huntington was thrown from a stage while crossing the Grand Haven and Indiana railroad track on a highway running north and south on the town lines of Solon and Nelson and quite badly hurt. She has commenced suit against the railroad company to recover damages claimed at $10,000, alleging that the company failed at the point where the accident occurred, to plank the space between the rails, and thus made possible an accident which crippled her for life.

A little son of Hon. E. T. Popoff of Eaton Rapids was bitten by a rattlesnake, while returning from school the other day, and died the next morning.

A. S. Newberry, of Detroit, has donated the Presbyterian society at Newberry, four good lots and will build a three or four thousand dollar church thereon.

The Chicago & West Michigan railway company's buildings at Montague were burned the other day.

Oscar McIntosh, a farmer living at Wat son five miles from Allegan, was found the other morning hanging by a strap to a fall tree. He left the house about dark on the evening before, and was not seen again until his family, alarmed at his continued absence, searched after him. He was tracked to the woods and discovered about 400 yards from his house. He was about 60 years of age, and had become morose and gloomy at brooding over property troubles.

Lewis E. Eddy of Gaines township, Kent county, has been appointed to the West Point cadetship from the fifth district.

George Hartell, an insane man, hung himself in a barn in Dowagiac the other day. From the Adrian Times: A well-known farmer, living near Monroe, having been so cruel to his wife that she was obliged to leave him and take refuge with a daughter, thereupon forbade his children visiting her. The youngest daughter, a girl of 16, went to see her mother. On her return she brought company. He waited until the company had left, and the two daughters were in their bedroom, when he took a horse-whip, went up stairs into the room and cruelly beat the daughter, giving her over twenty lashes with the heavy whip. Such an offense is too cruel to go unpunished in a civilized community, but it is understood the family are unwilling to seek redress.

One hundred and fifty thousand pounds of wool were purchased at Owosso this season.

Campmeeting of spiritualists begins at Orion Aug. 10.

Prof. C. W. Stone, of Battle Creek, who was killed in the Carleton disaster, was a cousin of President Arthur.

Hon. George L. Brown, who represented the Battle Creek district in the state house of representatives in the session of '71-2, was accidentally killed at Hamilton, Mo., July 27. He fell from his barn.

A very fine piece of copper, weighing two pounds and taken from a mine, was found on the farm of Mr. Sackett, in Calhoun county, recently. It has been taken to Battle Creek, where it attracts much attention, as it is supposed to have come from the upper lake region in the drift period.

There were 530 prisoners in the state prison at the end of the month of July. Hallmaster Drake says there were only four received during the month, one being sent for larceny and three for bigamy. There were 20 released, 10 by reason of expiration of term, and one by order of the supreme court.

A generous Charlotte justice presents a chromo to every couple whom he marries.

Sportsmen are at liberty to shoot woodcocks now, if they want.

Grand Rapids authorities are jubilant because they have secured several convictions under the liquor law. Jasper is right. "The world do move."

Buchanan rejoiceth because the wheat yield in that section, both as to quantity and quality, is good. It is freely marketed at prices ranging from $1.00 to $1.02.

Mrs. Ames, who shot her husband Leonard Ames at Alpena, because he hung around places distasteful to her, has been held for trial. Ames was formerly a resident of Port Huron.

A brilliant citizen of Ontonagon county, holding the responsible position of deputy sheriff, put a loaded revolver in his hip pocket, and sat down. The revolver went off, and the man can't sit down for several weeks to come.

Gilmore Enig, a lad living near Fowlerfield, met with a painful accident Wednesday. He was told to hand a whip to a man who was driving a mowing machine. Instead of handing the whip as directed, he foolishly ran in front of the mowing machine and gave a horse a cut with a whip, causing the team to start. The boy's leg was caught between the knife and nearly cut off above the ankle joint.

John Boyle, for a number of years foreman at Eagle Fox & Co's mill in Flint, was taken ill with cholera morbus the other day, and died in a few hours.

Nearly 400 children attended the funeral of Prof. Stone at Battle Creek, the other day.

Bears and whortleberries are an immense crop in Oscoda county.

The funeral of Mrs. LeFever and her son Frankie at Bay City, was the largest procession which ever followed the remains of any deceased citizen in the Saginaw Valley, evincing the respect for the lady and her son, who were the victims of the Carleton horror in New York State, as well as the outburst of regret at the tragic ending of what was hidden from the public eye for those who started out with joyous anticipations, but were returned mangled and lifeless to their homes of sadness and sorrow.

The Ottawa Iron works at Ferrysburg, belonging to Ferry Bros., was sold at auction the other day to satisfy the mortgage of $50,000, given by T. W. Ferry, at the time of their failure some months ago.

Hogan's Ride in the Air

Hogan, the Jackson balloonist, who was to have made an ascension at Hillsdale on the Fourth of July, but failed to get off, tried it again a few days ago with thrilling success. He started from in front of Wolf & Crane's drug store at 2:30 p. m., a large crowd being present. As he cleared the earth he shouted "Good bye, boys," and instantly the balloon shot up like a rocket. Hogan waved his handkerchief a few moments, then began performing on the trapeze that he had been seated upon, and kept it up until he was hidden from view by the clouds. He was then blowing very hard up there and the valve cord broke and he fell out over Lake Erie. He drifted over the lake towards Toledo and about 6 o'clock he came down in Maumee river near Waterville. Hogan got a good ducking, but the balloon rebounded and struck a tree and burst. Hogan hung to the tree until assistance came and he reached terra firma without mishap. He reached Hillsdale at 10 o'clock the following morning. Hogan's objective point was Adrian, and he went a deal further than he had intended.

The Freedman's Holiday.

Emancipation Day was right royally observed in Lansing by the colored people of the State. The celebration was under the auspices of the local colored citizens and was in every particular an eminent success. The day was all that could be desired, and consequently a large crowd was present. Excursion trains were run by all the roads centering in this city, even Toledo sending a large delegation. The city presented a holiday appearance and the visitors were heartily welcomed by all. A more orderly and well behaved lot of people never visited the Capital city. The celebration was not participated in by colored people alone, however, as each excursion train bore a good sprinkling of whites, who were assisted by their brethren in this city and the surrounding country in making the occasion a memorable one. Speeches were made by Gov. Bagole, Hon. John R. Lynch, and others. Music, processions and games filled up the day. In the evening Hon. John R. Lynch delivered an eloquent address to an immense crowd in the opera house.

A Strange Phenomenon in Lake Michigan.

From the Grand Traverse Herald. In Grand Traverse bay recently, at some distance out in deep water, between Traverse City and Marlon Island, the water began to boil and surge, and presently rose in vast jets to the height of from 10 to 20 feet. Being observed from the shore no details could be given on account of the distance, but the same thing has taken place years before and some two years ago, according to an account given by the Herald at that time, parties in a boat were so nearly on the spot that they were obliged to hasten out of the water. They described the water as apparently boiling up from the very bottom of the bay, which in that place was nearly or quite one hundred feet deep, bringing up with it, quantities of mud and other substances and emitting an intensely unpleasant and sulphurous smell. The area of the eruption, if it may be so called, was about 50 feet in diameter and the time about half an hour. At intervals the water would subside into calmness and then the commotion would begin again. It is said by old settlers that the same thing has occurred in other years. The disturbance is always in a line between Traverse City and the Island. It is well known by old residents that there are places in the bay where salt springs bubble up through the water, in the neighborhood of the Island. It is possible that there are submarine openings of other descriptions, either volcanic or otherwise. It is known to scientists men that there is a tract of country on the eastern shore of Michigan, in the neighborhood of Thander bay directly across the state from Grand Traverse bay, where slight earthquakes are frequent, and in fact the bay was named by the Indians from the rumbling noise that from time to time was heard in the interior of the earth. It is possible that these tidal waves, as well as the Traverse bay disturbances, may arise from volcanic action as a common cause, and all newspaper readers are well aware that there has never been a time within the memory of the present generation when the earth seemed to be in such a state of internal agitation as at the present time. The known volcanoes of the world being in active eruption, new ones breaking out where none were known before, and earthquake shocks, both slight and severe, frequent in every part of the world.

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

WASHINGTON.
TO COMMAND THE PRESIDENT.
Capt. S. S. Warner, who has been in command of the revenue cutter Ewing, at Baltimore, has been ordered to the command of the Essex. The latter will be ready for service in a short time and will be stationed at Detroit.

WILL NOT DEVIDE.
There has been before the land office a case involving the title to a large tract of the city of St. Louis, Mo., brought by the heirs of one Joseph Calve, through his attorneys. The commissioner of the land office decides against the claimants.

ANOTHER MICHIGAN MAN IN.
Postmaster Cramer has appointed Capt. Harry Sherwood of Kalamazoo, assistant postmaster for Washington. Sherwood has acted as postmaster of the House of Representatives for several sessions, and filled that office very creditably. His appointment gives universal satisfaction to all.

NO FOOT AND MOUTH DISEASE.
It has been reported to the Treasury Department that the British Parliament is considering measures looking to the interdiction of cattle from foreign countries whence the foot and mouth disease prevails, and that an attempt will probably be made to have it apply to importations from the United States. It was stated at the Treasury Department that such application would be unwarranted, as a thorough investigation of the subject, just concluded, has shown that the foot and mouth disease does not prevail among cattle in this country. Steps will be taken to bring this fact to the attention of the British Government to the end that orders in council on the subject may not be made applicable to the importation of cattle from this country.

BURSTING WITH SILVER DOLLARS.
The vaults and sub-treasuries of the United States are fairly bursting with silver dollars, so great has been the accumulation. Additional storage room is an imperative necessity. The last Congress appropriated $10,000 for the purpose of defraying the cost of additional storage room, and the matter is being agitated with a good deal of fervor.

CONSOLIDATION.
The executive order consolidating the internal revenue districts so far as it applies to the following named newly consolidated districts, went into effect August 1st: Nineteenth Pennsylvania, First Missouri, Eighth Ohio, Tenth Ohio, Sixth Indiana, Second Illinois and the eighth of Wisconsin. Arrangements have been made for transfer in the following named offices on the 7th inst: First Michigan, Fourth Michigan, Eleventh Indiana, First Minnesota, Sixth Missouri, Seventh Kentucky and Eighth Kentucky.

CATTLE TO BE QUARANTINED.
All neat cattle arriving in the United States from any part of the world except North and South America will be subjected to quarantine twenty days, counting from the date of shipment. As the Dominion of Canada maintains a quarantine for all imported cattle, no quarantine for cattle imported from Canada is provided.

ROCKWELL'S RECOMMENDATION.
Colonel A. F. Rockwell, in charge of public buildings and grounds in his annual report recommends that $25,000 be appropriated for improvements at the White House. The total of appropriations asked for the next fiscal year for the expenses of improvements and care of the public buildings and grounds in the District is $216,960.

VIRGINIA'S CHECK.
The state of Virginia has presented a claim to Uncle Sam of $732,500. This claim involves a question of deposits with other states, amounting to over $9,000,000.

A SEASONABLE HINT.
The secretary of the treasury has been warned that a large quantity of wool of low grade, are frequently sent from Egypt to other countries and eventually find their way to this country. In view of the epidemic now raging in the eastern Mediterranean it is well to be cautious.

NO HOPE FOR HILL.
The Hill investigating committee has held its last session, and is now engaged in summing up the evidence, which is said to be very damaging to the supervising architect.

SUGAR PHAUCES.
The special committee appointed to investigate the charge made by Representative Belmont of fraud in sugar duties, called by the title of sugar phauces, and Portland, will have concluded their investigation in the course of a week or ten days. They will meet in New York to confer with the sugar importers before making their report.

NEWS NOTES.

SUICIDE OF THE SPANISH MINISTER.

Francis Barce, Spanish envoy and minister plenipotentiary to the United States, committed suicide with a revolver in his room at the Albemarle hotel, New York. On the day on which he committed the deed he called on the consul-general and spent some time with him, speaking pleasantly of an early visit to Europe which he contemplated, and of his expected meeting with old friends. He spent the afternoon writing letters and dined in his room alone. About 3 p. m. M. S. Suarez, a Spanish commission agent, called by request, and two remained together till 2 o'clock Sunday morning. The time was occupied in conversation, but when Suarez was about to leave Barce was much agitated, pacing the floor nervously and bursting into tears. He explained his emotion by saying it was caused by his approaching separation from his family. When Suarez finally left, Barce called to call and go with him to early mass. When he called Barce was dead on his knees, the upper portion of his body resting on the bed, he having shot himself through the head. He left about 20 letters on his table addressed to members of his family, his wife being at Seabright N. J., and others. In one to the consul-general he said he intended to kill himself, as he was unable to describe them. They were probably of a financial nature, as he had been living beyond his means and speculating in Wall street. He was 52 years old.

AFTER MANY DAYS.
Some workmen digging gravel in the vicinity of the Cincinnati Southern Railroad Depot in Cincinnati, discovered the body of young Wefer, who was lost there last February at the time the flood swept away a portion of the depot.

HEAVY FAILURE.
Chas. W. Copeland & Co., shoe manufacturers of Boston, have failed to the amount of $750,000. The failure is said to be due to the sudden pressure of several large obligations, and the firm, in justice to its creditors, decided to suspend operations until an understanding can be arrived at.

AN INHUMAN PARENT.

A young man named William Pratt, 22 years old, died recently at Morgue, Iowa. He was formerly a brakeman on the Illinois Central, and was injured about eight months ago. He was taken to his father's residence, and the latter inhumanly turned the injured lad into the street, from whence he was removed to the hospital. The unnatural father, although in good circumstances, refused to pay one cent of the funeral expenses, or even to allow the body to repose in the family tomb at Linwood. Money to defray the cost of burial was contributed by the railroad boys.

Imprecations are loud and deep against the parent.

SIX MEN KILLED.
Two Troy and Boston freight trains collided the other morning at Troy, N. Y. The locomotives and trains were wrecked. Six persons killed and six injured. The injured persons were taken to the hospital. The conductor of the Troy & Greenfield Railroad, J. Johnson, is blamed for the collision. He had given orders to hold one train at the junction and neglected to transfer his instructions to the day operator, who in his ignorance allowed the train to pass.

LOUISVILLE'S GALAXY.
Never in the history of the city, did Louisville experience such a thrill of excitement and pleasure as on the first of August, when the great exposition was opened. President Arthur opened the exposition in an appropriate speech. Other dignitaries were present, and if the boom given the exposition on its opening day means anything, the success of the enterprise is assured.

A SAD SUICIDE.
Mrs. Geo. Reiserer, of Indianapolis, Ind., committed suicide a few days ago by jumping from the window in the second story of her residence. She had been insane upon religious subjects for some time, and had been confined in the asylum of the city for some time. It was that but half of the world would be saved, and that she was directly accountable to the Lord because the other half was lost.

A DEFAULTER PARDONED.
Gov. Blackburn of Kentucky, has pardoned Day Ferguson, the defaulting tax collector of Louisville, Ky. His deficit was over $20,000, and he has only been in prison since last February. This action of the governor causes great indignation.

POLITICAL.

BINGHAM DROPPED OUT.
In the thirty-eighth joint ballot for United States Senator July 31st Pike gained fifteen over Friday's vote, Burns twelve and Marsten two. Chandler lost fifteen and Tappen two.

KEYSTONE DEMOCRATS.
The Democratic State Convention of Pennsylvania, in session a few days ago at Harrisburg, nominated Joseph Powell for state treasurer and Robert Taggart for auditor-general.

NO CHANGE.
Is apparent in the New Hampshire senatorial contest. The vote taken August 1st, gave Pike a gain of nine, and Chandler lost nine.

MINNESOTA.

Democratic state convention was held in St. Paul the other day. W. W. McNair was nominated for Governor over Burham. The only other candidate, on the first ballot. The only contest worthy of mention was on Governor. Lieutenant Governor—R. L. Frazar. Secretary of State—J. J. Hyrum. State Treasurer—Jno. Ludwig. Attorney General—J. W. Wilds. Railroad Commissioner—P. L. Indholm. Anti-prohibition resolutions were passed. The platform declares for a tariff for revenue only, and calls for a revision of the patent laws.

PIKE'S PRIZE.
On the 42 joint ballot taken in the New Hampshire legislature, Austin F. Pike was elected United States Senator for six years from March 4, 1883. The election of Pike gives universal satisfaction.

CRIME.

DOUBLE TRAGEDY.

George Shepard and wife were found dead in bed in a furnished room in Twenty-second street, New York City, both shot through the head. It is supposed to be a case of murder and suicide. The man was about 30 years of age, his wife 35. The motive for the tragedy is not known. Shepard was a shipping clerk with the firm of Herring & Co., safe manufacturers. His father is a clergyman, Rev. P. L. Shepard, and is the head of a large school in Brooklyn. The latter addressed a letter to his son and written ten days ago, declared his purpose of himself and wife to retire to the country, and added that they be buried in one grave. The letter states that they had been secretly married and had been very happy together, but that it death seemed pleasant to them. The police had been informed that there was some position in Shepard's home to his marriage and that this was the bottom of the tragedy. To his best friends Shepard's marriage was unknown.

GROSS CARELESSNESS.

A suspicious case of poisoning is reported from Williamsburg County, S. C. A young man named Cox was employed as a clerk by merchant named Foxworth. Cox was troubled with chills and fever for which he was using quinine. Foxworth purchased a small quantity of strychnine to poison rats, wrapped it up in white paper without labeling it and placed it in a vase in which Cox had previously placed some quinine powder wrapped in the same kind of paper. When Cox came in he took the strychnine from the vase thinking it was quinine and swallowed it. The next minute he cried out, "My God, am I poisoned?" And before the physician who was summoned reached him he was dead. The coroner's jury rendered a verdict that his death was caused by the gross carelessness of his employer.

FOREIGN AFFAIRS.

INFORMER CAREY SHOT.

Intelligence has been received from South Africa that James Carey, the informer in the Phoenix Park murder trials, was shot while en route from Cape Town to Port Elizabeth. The deed was committed by a fellow-passenger named O'Donnell, who had followed Carey from the time he left Dublin. Carey was traveling with his family under the name of Power. The news of his death caused great rejoicing in Ireland, and meetings were held in several places to express the satisfaction experienced by all.

CAREY'S DEATH.

O'Donnell, who shot James Carey, the informer, was accompanied from England by his wife, who appeared to be on intimate terms with the Carey family during the voyage. The times pronounce the death of Carey a public misfortune, and says he has been the instrument of justice. The murder is calculated to encourage daring and lawless spirits to commit acts of violence. The joy caused in Ireland by the informer's death is proof that many elements of danger still exist there.

IRISH LANDLORDS COMPLAIN.

A statement signed by Lord Dunraven and other landlords of Ireland has been sent to Gladstone pointing out the losses of rent and the distress in the rural districts which has taken place in consequence of the passage of the Land act, and suggesting that the state aid in the shape of a loan for the relief of land owners.

FROM BRITISH COLUMBIA.

Dry hot weather continues in Victoria, B. C. There has been no rain for three months. Forest fires are raging everywhere, and the air is filled with smoke. A few days ago the heat was so great that the powder in Oquossodunk's mill near Yale, which blew up. Every pane of glass in the town of Yale was broken. No one was killed, but several were badly hurt. Three hundred and sixty cases of giant powder and ten cases of black powder exploded. Loss heavy.

FRIDAY, AUGUST 3.

The deaths from cholera in Egypt numbered 702, including 106 at Cairo. It is now believed that the disease is less virulent. The weather is extremely hot, the average temperature being 108 degrees. Alexandria seems to be doomed, as the whole cordon from El Farzoh to Rosetta is infested.

The Plague in Egypt.

STRICKEN EGYPT.
During the twenty-four hours ending July 24, 463 deaths from cholera occurred at Cairo, 23 at Ziftah, 16 at Tanta, 9 at Shibrin, 13 at Mansourah, 117 at Chirbin, 43 at Mehaliet, 98 at Assiut and 7 at Chobar. The disease has been spreading among the British troops stationed at Cairo, several of whom have died. At Cairo it is impossible to walk 100 yards without meeting an ambulance.

THE DEATH ROLL.

Continues to increase in members, 371 being the number reported for the 24 hours ending July 24.

ON JULY TWENTY-SIX.
There were 422 deaths in Cairo, at Damietta, 5 Tanta, 20; Mehalia, 25; Chobar, 6; Samonoud, 7; Ziftah, 55; Ziftah, 21; Mansourah, 12; Ghizeh, 2; Menkash, 1.

NO CHANGE.
There is no change in affairs in Egypt, the death rate still reaching into the hundreds. The statement that the Khedive had the cholera is denied.

THE DEATH ROLL.

for July 28 footed up as follows: Cairo, 277; Chibin, 106; Tanta, 8; Ismaria, 3. Several cases of the scourge were reported at Alexandria on that day, of which two proved fatal.

ON JULY 29.

Almost 800 persons died on this date in the different cities and villages of Egypt.

A LITTLE MORE CHOLERA.

The commander of the British forces at Cairo telegraphs to the War Office that the general health of the troops is good. He says the cholera is less virulent at Cairo, and that the cases under treatment are more hopeful. The death rate on July 31 was about the same, 275 victims being reported from Cairo, and in other cities, exclusive of those at Cairo, 429. Seventeen deaths occurred at Rosetta and eight at Alexandria.

BRITISH TROOPS SUFFER.

Thirteen deaths occurred from cholera among British troops in Egypt on the 1st. The disease is spreading among the Sussex regiment at Ismailia, where twenty men, including the captain and doctor, died within three days. At Cairo 320 deaths occurred on the 1st and at other places, including 27 at Rosetta, 65.

AUGUST SECOND.

The death roll from cholera was as follows: Eight hundred and eighty-seven in Egypt, including 273 at Cairo, three being among the British troops. Twelve English doctors arrived at Alexandria on their way to Cairo. The total number of deaths since the first outbreak of the disease is 11,000.

THE AVENGER COMMITTED FOR TRIAL.

O'Donnell, who killed Carey, the informer, has been committed for trial on the charge of willful murder. In the ordinary course of events he will be tried at Port Elizabeth assizes in October. At the first examination of O'Donnell a box was produced belonging to the prisoner, labelled Cape Town, and containing a woodcut of Carey, and a paper of American citizenship, dated Toronto, November, 1876. Carey's son was recalled and denied that Kelley, the Irish passenger on the steamer Kirtaur's Castle, was identical with Kavanagh. He testified that his father was sailing and talking to O'Donnell when he (Kavanagh) saw the latter draw a revolver and fire one shot. He (Kavanagh) then ran to fetch his father's revolver. His mother was holding his father when the third shot was fired. O'Donnell declared that Carey first drew a revolver which he (O'Donnell) seized and fired at Carey in self-defense. He described himself as Patrick O'Donnell, aged 45, a native of Goodssad, County Donegal.

JEWS ACQUITTED.

The trial of ten Jews at Nyregahaga, Hungary, charged with the murder of Esther Solymar, a Christian girl, in the synagogue at Tisza-Essler in order to prevent her from being in possession of bread, has been concluded. A verdict of not guilty was returned. The state was taxed with the costs of the trial. The public prosecutor announced himself satisfied with the result of the trial. The counsel for Esther's relatives will appeal.

Amber was mentioned by Homer, who speaks of it as being esteemed of equal value with gold. It is the fossil resin produced by upward of six kinds of coniferous trees in prehistoric times. Two of these trees, of which immense forests covered the regions now producing amber, have been proven to be nearly related to the existing Waymouth pine and the modern fir tree. While the wood of the trees rotted away the resin which exuded from them has been preserved in the form of the fossil amber. The resin oozed out of the stem of the trees as well as out of the roots, and, and was deposited eventually in immense quantities in the soil. In some of the pieces of the amber bits of the wood and bark of the trees are found imbedded, and through this luck accident have been preserved from decay. On examining this wood with the microscope, it is at once apparent that the trees were, as intimated above, closely related to our modern Conifers but were not absolutely identical with any of the existing species. Ages ago the whole region now covered by the eastern part of the Baltic Sea was covered with these amber producing trees. The industry of amber digging is one of very great importance for Prussia and it is calculated that the amber district of that country still contains a quantity which, at an average value of 50 per pound, is worth no less than £250,000,000.

American Agriculturist for August.

The "Poison Vine," also called "Rough Oak," and in some localities known as "Mercury," is often the cause of distress. The vine is abundant all over the country, one form being low, creeping along on banks and rambling over stone walls. Another form climbs the highest trees, clinging to the bark with many rootlets. It is often confused with the Virginia Creeper; indeed, we have known it to be planted as a ornamental vine, it having been mistaken for that. The two are readily told apart by the Virginia Creeper having its green, shiny leaves five-parted, while the light-green leaves of the poison vine are three-parted. The Poison is so abundant, that were all equally susceptible to its influence, we should be much more of its effects than we are now present. With many, the poison produces only a slight eruption on the skin, and an intense itching. Others are more seriously affected, and the swellings up to such an extent that the features are hardly visible. In every locality has its popular remedy for the poison, and new ones are frequently proposed. As a general rule, most cases are relieved by keeping the bowels open by the use of salts, washing the eruptions with a solution of sugar of lead. The remedy, which is now going the round, is to bathe the affected parts with water, applied as hot as it can be tolerated. This is simple, the remedy is usual, and is worth trying, as our old-fashioned saline washes have been found to have no harm can result.

WHAT WAS WANTED.

She tied the new cravat
Which she so kindly made me;
Then smoothed with care my hair,
And with her arms delayed me.
She brushed my "glossy hair,"
And said it was "so curly,"
While kneeling down the stair
She cried: "Come home, dear, early!"

How happy then was I
With all I ever desired!
I thought I was admired.
While thus I was admired.
We parted at the door—
Her smile deserved a sonnet;

I want—a summer bonnet!"

A DUEL WITH PILLS.

Yesterday, intently gazing into a show-window on Canal street, a feeble, white-haired old gentleman recalled memories of a tragedy which, in the hurly-burly of life, seems to have passed into oblivion.

In 1841, outside of the city proper, there was, perhaps, no more delightful place of resort than at the Bayou Bridge. It was par excellence the great suburban attraction at that time, and between boating parties on the waters of the bayou and card reunions over the tables of old Barleud's gambling saloon out there, the jeunesse-doree of New Orleans of that day managed quite comfortably to while away many a leisure moment. Possibly no two young gentlemen enjoyed the quiet hospitality of Barleud's more than Alphonse Riviere and Henri Delagrave; in fact, most of their afternoons were spent in the dimly lighted saloon of the old gamester, at whose shrine all the card-loving element of the city paid homage.

There was a quiet air about the place that seemed almost religious, and even the parchment faced old man, who mechanically handled the little ivory ball in roulette, called out the numbers in a repressed voice, as if he feared to disturb the quiet. The faint "click" of the "chips" as eager players dabbled with them, was perhaps the loudest sound to be heard there, and even that came to the ear in a subdued way. On the floor a bright covering of matting hushed the footsteps, while at the windows dark yellow curtains let in only just enough light for the illumination of the gaming tables.

Riviere was a dashing fellow of twenty-two, with a large estate in the Parish of St. James and a round account in the old Union Bank. He had passed successfully through the Ecole Polytechnique in France, had taken a bout in Algeria, and returned to Louisiana as an accomplished and companionable gentleman as one could wish to chat with. He was fond of his horses, his wine and a quiet game of cards. Refined in his manner and dignified in his deportment, he was a warm favorite wherever he went, and his entry into old Barleud's establishment was always the signal for a cordial greeting from all who might be present.

On this particular June afternoon Riviere, with the activity of a gymnast, leaped from his buggy in front of the saloon, and throwing the reins to his negro servant, told him to drive the horse into the shade of the pecan trees in the yard. Switching a delicate, ivory-headed cane with a nervous, jerky motion, he crossed the broad gallery and, unannounced, entered the gambling room. Most of the players were wrapped in attention to their game, but one there was who turned his head at the entrance of the last comer. This was Delagrave. He felt that a crisis was at hand, but even with this knowledge he did not strive to elude its coming. That morning he had been accepted as the betrothed lover of Mme. Celestin, one of the most beautiful and wealthy widows of the lower coast, and Riviere, who had been for the past year her most devoted admirer, was left to nurse his disappointment as an unsuccessful suitor. Riviere had had no hesitancy in letting the world know that he wanted to marry the coquettish little widow, and further, he, in a very plain way, gave people the information that he did not want interlopers paying their devoirs at the same shrine. These matters are hard to arrange exactly as one would wish. One finds much difficulty in closing all avenues of approach, for love is not unlike the light which the photographer in his dark room finds so much difficulty in keeping out. It steals in under doors, through nail holes and even down the chimney. At least so it had been the case at Mme. Celestin's, for jealous and watchful rivals as Riviere was, Delagrave had made the conquest under the very eyes of the enemy, and the widow had that day so informed the unsuccessful suitor.

Riviere was very pale as he approached the group of men around the table. What with the yellow light shining through the curtains and his bloodless appearance, he seemed rather a ghastly corpse than a living body, but there was motion and voice in him, which soon dispelled such an illusion. As he neared Delagrave, the latter turned to confront him, when Riviere, with a voice that seemed to come from behind the door of a tomb, said: "Delagrave, we can not live on this globe together; it is not large enough."

Delagrave, quietly puffing his cigarette, in a cold and impressive tone replied: "Yes, you annoy me. It would be better if you were dead."

Riviere's face flushed, and reaching forward he laid the back of his hand gently against Delagrave's cheek. The game was at once interrupted. The slap, which was so light it did not even crimson the young man's cheek, was enough to call for blood, and leaving the house he sought an intimate friend to him he opened his heart. It must be a battle a contraince. Such was the enmity between himself and Riviere, only a life could wipe it out. The old Doctor, who had grown up, it might be said, on the field, shrugged his shoulders and remonstrated, but at last acquiesced and said: "Very well, then; it shall be to the death."

Few people knew what sort of a party it was driving down the shell-road bordering Bayou St. John. Two carriages stopped just on the bridge leading to the island formed there by bifurcation of the bayou, and four gentlemen alighted. Savalle, a well-known character here forty years ago, accompanied Riviere, and old Dr. Rocquet was with Delagrave. The seconds had met previously and arranged everything. Delagrave, as he stepped from the carriage, looked furtively around for the cases of pistols, but, seeing none, he was a little disconcerted. After walking about a hundred yards from the carriages, the party stopped and the doctor motioned them to approach closer. When they had done so, he called them by name and said: "Gentlemen, we have discussed this matter nearly all of last night, and both M. Savalle and myself feel satisfied that there is no solution to the differences between you but the death of one. The world is so formed that both can not live in it at the same time." The two men nodded. "Therefore," the Doctor went on, "we have agreed to make the arbitrament as fair as it is possible, and let Fate decide." He took out a black morocco case, and from it produced a pill-box containing four pellets. "One of these," said he, "contains a positively fatal dose of prussic acid, the other three are harmless. We have agreed that each shall swallow two of the pills, and let Destiny decide." Savalle inclined his head, and said, as the representative of Riviere, he agreed.

The two men were pale, almost bloodless, but not a nerve trembled, or muscle contracted.

"Gentlemen," said the Doctor, "we will toss for the first pill." Savalle called out "tails," as the glittering gold piece revolved in the air. It fell in a bunch of grass, the blades of which, being separated, showed the coin with the reversed head of the goddess of Liberty uppermost. "M. Delagrave, you have the first choice," said the Doctor.

Reposing in the little box the four little globes seemed the counterpart of each other. The closest scrutiny would not develop the slightest difference. Nature alone through the physiological alchemy of the human stomach can tell of their properties. In one there rosts the pall of eternity, the struggle for breath, the falling of sight, the panorama of years rushing in an instant through the mind, the silence and peace of sleep for evermore, the ceremony, the burial case, the solemn cortege and the close, noisome atmosphere of the grave. All these were contained in one of these little pellets. Delagrave having won the first choice, stepped forward and took a pill. With a calmness which was frigid he placed it on his tongue and with a cup of claret, handed him by the Doctor, washed it down.

"And now, M. Riviere," said the Doctor. Riviere extended his hand and took a pill. Like his opponent he swallowed it.

The two men stood looking one another in the face. There was not a quiver to the eyelid, not a twitch to a muscle. Each was thinking of himself as well as watching his adversary. One minute passed. Two minutes passed. Three. Four. Five. "Now, gentlemen," said the Doctor, in solemn tones, "it is time to make the final drawing."

This was the fatal choice. Both men were ready for the cast of the die. Savalle tossed the gold piece aloft, and the Doctor cried out: "Heads." "Heads" it was, and Delagrave took a pill from the box, leaving only one. "Now," said the Doctor, "the remaining one is for you. You will please swallow them together."

The two men raised their hands at the same time and deposited the pills on their tongues and took a draught of claret.

One second passed, and there was no movement. Two seconds, and neither stirred. Then—"Good God!" exclaimed Riviere, his eyes starting from their sockets. He turned half round to the left, raised his hands above his head and shrieked a long wild shriek that belated travelers even to this day say they heard on the shell road, near the island. He fell prone on the earth, and, save a nervous contraction of the muscles of the face, there was no movement.

Delagrave took him by the hand as he lay on the damp grass, and said, in a tender voice: "I regret it, but it was to be."

The funeral was one of the largest ever seen in New Orleans, and for weeks the cafes were agog with the story of the duel. The beautiful widow, horrified at the affair, would never see Delagrave afterward, and is now a happy grandmere on Bayou Lafourche, having married a wealthy planter two years after the fatal event.

Delagrave, weighed down with the trials of an unhappy life, wrinkled and tottering, strolls along Canal street of warm afternoons, assisted by a negro servant. Having a bare competency, he has never actually suffered from want, but he shows evidence of great mental anguish. The sight of a pill-box makes him shudder, and the taste of claret will give him convulsions. —N. O. Times-Democrat.

The year 1713 was a great era in American naval annals, says the Century. In that year Captain Andrew Robinson built the first schooner ever seen. This was at Gloucester. As she glided into the water a bystander cried: "Look how she scoons!" Catching at the word, Captain Robinson replied: "A schooner but her boat." The new rig came at once into wide acceptance.

What the Law Allows a Man to do on Sunday.

From the earliest times there have been laws in England enforcing a proper respect for the Sabbath. The most ancient of these, which is still preserved, was made by Alfred the Great in the ninth century. The second dates from the time of Henry VI. Another was passed under James I. The fourth, which is now the law of England, was made by the Parliament of Charles II. This latter law has been made the model of Sunday laws in all our States except Louisiana, and the decisions made under it now form a part of our common law. The law of Charles II. reads as follows:

"No tradesman, artificer, workman, or laborer, or other person whatsoever, shall do or exercise any worldly labor, business, or work of their ordinary callings—works of necessity or charity alone excepted—on the Lord's Day."

All agreements forbidden by this law are void. If, for example, a horse-trade is made on Sunday and the horse is warranted sound, no action can be sustained by the purchaser, if the horse goes lame.

A note made on Sunday is worthless, in the hands of the first holder, but if sold to an innocent person, it is good.

A stable-keeper can not get his pay for horses let on Sunday, nor can he get damages if his team is destroyed by an accident.

But, where the bargaining is done on Sunday and the contract is finished on a week-day, it is valid. Publishing a newspaper on the Sabbath is against the law. The publisher can not get his pay for advertisements.

Works of necessity and charity are permitted. For example, a will may be made on Sunday. The law considers it a work of necessity to provide against death which may come at any moment.

A marriage contract made on Sunday is also a work of necessity. A barber may bring suit and get his pay for shaving a man on the Lord's Day. A contract to go for a physician on Sunday is valid. Repairing a public road on Sunday is sometimes a work of necessity.

The rule is that the agreement must be to do something which it is not proper and fitting to do on the Sabbath. Driving a meat-cart on Sunday is not valid. Hoeing garden crops, though seriously needed, is not a necessity. Nor is gathering sea-weed on the seashore for manure such a necessity as the law will provide for, though in a few hours it may drift away with the tide.

Clearing out a mill wheel on Sunday is not a necessity, though hundreds of people may be kept out of employment on a week-day if it is not done. A man once broke his leg while doing this for a mill company, and though it was proved that he did it as a favor and not for pay, it was decided that he could not get damages for his injuries.

Besides declaring these agreements void, the Sabbath breaker is punished criminally. Persons present at places of amusement on Sunday may be fined. Hotels and restaurants are forbidden, under a penalty, to entertain anybody except travelers, strangers and lodgers on the Lord's Day. They can not legally permit people to spend their time drinking and lounging in their public houses on Sunday.

Writs and other civil suits can not be served on the Sabbath, but warrants in criminal cases may be, for this is a necessity. Rude and indecent behavior in a church on Sunday is also punished.

Fishing and hunting on Sunday are offenses against the law. Keeping gambling tools to be used for hire on the Sabbath is severely punished.

Railroads, however, may run trains on Sunday, if they have special permission to do so. This exception is made on the ground that the public necessity requires it.

Another exception is made by our law for the benefit of Jews, Seventh-Day Baptists and others who keep Saturday instead of Sunday. They are allowed to attend to their usual work on Sunday, and their contracts are valid.

These acts are not against the law, unless they are done within the hours set apart by law for Sunday. From twelve o'clock on Saturday night till twelve o'clock on Sunday night is the Lord's Day.

These rules as to agreements constantly appear in the courts, but the criminal laws against Sabbath-breaking are seldom enforced.

In the Western States the Sunday laws are neglected, but in New England the law is more carefully observed, and while rarely enforced, its enforcement is rarely needed. It is to our having such laws and occasionally enforcing them, that we owe our quiet, orderly New England Sabbath. Youth's Companion.

The death is announced of King Omoro, one of the petty sovereigns of the African coast. This monarch was, as the saying is, very much married. He had 706 wives and ninety-five children, seventy-seven of the latter being still alive. His eldest son and successor is as polygamous as his father was, having already 412 wives.

The official returns of the marriages solemnized in France during last year show a total of 279,530 for the twelve months. The greatest number in one month took place in February, when there were 34,157. Next come November with 32,074, May with 28,273, January with 27,583, June with 27,246, October with 26,782, July with 22,628, September with 19,833, April with 17,034, August with 16,752, March with 14,211, and last of all December 12,937.

OUR NEIGHBORS.

ANN ARBOR.

From the Courier.

During the past winter the workmen of the Aid Society has paid over $700 in relief of their members and families. That is good work.

A laborer named Michael Felska was hurt on the gravel train of the T. & A. & G. T. road Tuesday afternoon, about two miles north of town. He had a couple of ribs broken.

News reached here the other day that E. B. Prindle, a former resident and merchant in Ann Arbor, had been struck by lightning at his home in Dakota and killed, together with his step-son. He was formerly a Methodist preacher and afterwards for a time was in the grocery business on Huron street.

Company A will have 65 men go into camp at Island Lake this year—an unusually large number. They received their knapsacks Tuesday and these they have to make answer for satchels. The cooks of the companies go out next Tuesday to have everything in readiness for the arrival of the troops on Wednesday. The Ann Arbor boys have neglected to practice rifle shooting to any appreciable extent and their team is not yet selected.

Prof. Frank Hamilton has gone to Dakota.

The Board of Regents have elected Dr. Chas. E. Walton, Professor of Surgery in the Homoeopathic Department, vice Dr. E. C. Franklin resigned. Dr. Walton is a gentleman about thirty-five years old, a literary graduate of Marietta College of Ohio. He has for several years occupied the chair of Anatomy in Pulte Medical College of Cincinnati, and for the past two years has been Professor of Surgery in that school. The doctor is a pleasing speaker, a popular teacher and a skillful operator. His reputation is already well established in the medical profession and he will bring to the University and the Homoeopathic department abilities and experience of a high order.

BRIGHTON.

From the Citizen.

Mr. Grow, of Highland, had a leg amputated recently.

The depot and freight house at Island Lake is completed.

1,500 pounds of cannon powder has been ordered for the encampment at Island Lake.

Mrs. R. C. Rumsey was taken suddenly ill with some brain trouble Tuesday, and died Thursday morning.

A camp-meeting will be held at Pleasant Valley, on the old camp grounds five miles East of Brighton, to begin August 21st, at 7:30 P. M. There will be three regular daily services at the following hours: 10 A. M., at 2 P. M. and 7:30 P. M.

J. N. Brown took 14 grains of morphine, Wednesday afternoon of last week, with the intention of landing himself on the other side of the creek. His wife found out what was the matter with him and summoned a doctor who administered antidotes and saved his life. Brown slipped on the ice last winter and sustained injuries from which he has not yet recovered, and tried thus to end his sufferings.

STOCKBRIDGE.

From the Sentinel.

The sub-contractors here have had hand-bills struck, offering $4 a day for good teams and $1.75 for good hands.

Moses Westfall found a couple of tinctures in his harvest field, supposed to have been left there by the cyclone.

Died: at her home Friday night, Mrs. Iris Marsh. Mrs. Marsh was a young woman highly esteemed by all who knew her. She leaves a husband and three small children to mourn her loss. Thus "He gathereth the golden grain, and the flowers that grow between."

Coulson has broken ground for and is preparing to put up a building, north of A. L. Forbes' residence, to be 60x25 ft., and 20 ft. high. The lower part will be used for restaurant and billiard rooms, the upper as a hall suitable for public meetings, exhibitions, etc. Seems to us, this is a good move, and likely to be profitable.

FOWLerville.

From the Review.

F. G. Bounsville shipped two car loads of new wheat to Middleton mills on Tuesday. One car load was raised on his farm, and the other on the farm S. L. Bignall.

Miss Ella Denson, living about two miles west of Fowlerville died last Sunday. Though only 21 years of age, consumption had fastened itself upon her and soon terminated her life. The funeral was held Tuesday.

Lucian W. Meeker, of Lerdy, while visiting his son Edwin of this village, died on Saturday, 28th inst., aged 67 years. Mr. Meeker was another victim of that remorseless disease, consumption. His funeral was held on Sunday and he was buried at Webberville.

A very happy social event occurred at the residence of Mrs. Geo. Ruel of this village, last Tuesday evening, it being the occasion of the marriage of Miss Mattie, a daughter of Mr. R., to Rev. W. H. Prentice of North Manchester, Ind. The ceremony was performed by Rev. F. W. Warren. Many beautiful and useful presents were made to the happy couple and an elegant repast was served.

SOUTH LYON.

From the Picket.

To Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Toncray, an eight pound girl, Saturday.

Mrs. Shumway left Wednesday morning for her home in Dakota. Miss Dell and Claude Howell accompanied her as far as Jackson.

Frank Ellis came to town Monday and put his horse in Chas. Ellis' barn, and when going out of the yard toward evening to go home, the wheel of his buggy caught on the gate post and threw him out, but Frank still clung to the lines, and was dragged for several rods along the road, fortunately with no damage to himself or rig. Mrs. Chas. Ellis witnessed the scene from her porch, and so overcome by nervous excitement that she swooned and fell to the ground, which caused a severe sickness.

F. D. Johnson, of the flouring firm of Grimes & Johnson, Pinckney, gave us a pleasant call last week. He brought with him to this place a load of their choice flour, which is manufactured by the patent process and gives general satisfaction wherever tried. It is on sale at M. W. Hodge-man's.

HOWELL.

Howell was very largely represented at the Emancipation Celebration.

Dull and dusty is the present condition of the business streets. No sprinkler this year.

Following is the programme for the meeting of the Pioneer Society, the 22nd of August, on County Fair grounds:

10 a. m.—Time of meeting.

11 a. m.—Election of officers at the Grand Stand.

1 p. m.—Dinner and a good time generally.

2:30 p. m.—Address at the Grand Stand by Hon. Wm. Ball, of Hamburg.

Good music will be provided. The Pioneer Ladies of Livingston County, by Dr. Wm. Huntington, Sr., of Howell.

Ten minutes' talk by Marvin Gaston, of Handy.

Paper by J. C. Salisbury, Tyrone.

Paper by Dr. C. W. Haze, of Pinckney.

History of Green Oak, by J. M. Holden, of Green Oak.

The first settlers of Livingston county by Chas. Mercer, Hartland.

Paper by R. H. Person, of Howell.

Saved Money.

The other day a man went into the Merchants' Bank, and, drawing the President aside, said:

"I am the cause, sir, of saving you four dollars. It's a small sum, it is true, but still it amounts to something."

"How have you been the means of my saving money?" the President asked.

"Well, this morning I started out with the intention of borrowing five dollars. Since then I have cut down the amount to one dollar. Let me have the dollar and you may keep the other four."

"You are a generous fellow," the President replied, "and, since you have shown such consideration, I will aid you. I will cause you to save five dollars, for I shall not give you the dollar."

"Then I am to receive no reward?"

"None that I can figure up in this world."

"Well, I reckon I'll have to take my chances in the next world. Very little reward we get here. Good day, sir."

About an hour afterward, when the President arose to go to dinner, he discovered that the kind-hearted visitor had stolen his hat.

A number of men were carousing in Candelaria, Nev., lately, when a doctor named Martin interrupted the half-drunken revelry by telling his audience how he might become somebody. If he could conquer his mania for drink, I fit how he had tried in vain. "Ah," he said, "I'll leave the world; but boys, let me do so to the sound of music." His friends summoned some Italian musicians, and while they played the doctor took morphine. His friends, who did not believe Martin was in earnest, gradually left the saloon, and the saloon-keeper seeing him so sound asleep, looked up the house and retired. In the morning the doctor was found dead. Chicago Tribune.

But it is not said that the man has daughters who persist in having beaux come and stay around the house all the evening until far into the night. There are things in this world that will wear out a man's boots when all ordinary things fail. —Peck's Sun.

Massachusetts papers claim that Ben Butler's mother intended Ben for the ministry, when he was a boy. Butler shot wide of the mark when he became a lawyer and a politician, but if he failed to enter the pulpit and preach upon the subject of a hot hereafter, he has given the people of Massachusetts, if the dispatches are credited, a pretty good idea of a Hades on earth in his disclosures of the Tewksbury business.

University of Notre Dame.

This institution is located near the corporate limits of the flourishing city of South Bend, Ind. It is now commencing the fourth year of its existence, having become one of the best and most prosperous educational institutions of the country. Its location has many natural attractions, which have been supplemented by the improvements of art. Magnificent edifices, handsome walks and beautiful arbors adorn the ample grounds, embracing several hundred acres, belonging to the institution. In point of health the location is unsurpassed. It is easily accessible from all parts of the Union. Several of the leading trunk lines, and their connecting lines being available for reaching it, its venerable founder, Rev. E. Sorin, had been gifted with the spirit of prophecy when he selected the location for Notre Dame forty years ago. could not have made a wiser or more fortunate choice.

Although Notre Dame is strictly a Catholic institution, yet students of all religious denominations are admitted upon equal footing. The discipline is excellent, and we notice among other wholesome regulations that the use of intoxicating liquors is absolutely prohibited. Students are required to maintain the bearing and deportment of gentlemen toward the faculty, each other, and toward all others. They are carefully trained to recognize and practice the courtesies which characterize the true gentleman. The discipline and the favorable surroundings keep the student free from all vicious associations, while the facilities for acquiring all the knowledge attainable in the best schools of the land, are supplied.

The students of Notre Dame are classified according to age, into three distinct classes or departments—Seniors, Juniors and Minims (boys under thirteen years of age). The Minims have a building exclusively for themselves, and are entirely separate from the others. They are under the most vigilant care of their teachers, Sisters of the Holy Cross, and at all times as safe as they could be at home under the guardianship of their parents. The courses of study embrace all that the name University implies, including the preparatory course, classical, scientific, and the special courses of Law, Civil Engineering, Commercial and Modern Language courses.

One mile west of the University of Notre Dame is situated St. Mary's Academy. This is a school for young ladies, conducted by the Sisters of the Holy Cross. Its courses of study include Preparatory, Academic and Classical departments, as well as modern languages, drawing, painting, vocal, and instrumental music. Parents who place their daughters here may rest assured that the utmost care for their welfare will be taken.

The Jewsharp.

The origin of the jewsharp is lost, and it has hardly ever attracted sufficient notice as a musical instrument to be worth the inquiries of musical antiquaries. This little instrument is in common use in all Europe. In Germany it is called "Maul Harmonica." In Denmark, "Mund-harpe." In Sweden, "Mungga;" in France, "Guinbarde;" in Italy, "Tromba;" and in the Highlands, "Tromp." The Greeks of Smyrna call it, in imitation of its sound, "Bianbo." In the Netherlands and Tyrol it has for a long time been the delight of the peasants, the laborers and their families, and at present it seems to be in exceptionally great favor in America, where an Englishman has established a factory of these vibrating instruments; and so brisk has the business been that another factory has been started recently, where the commonplace jewsharps are turned out in hundreds of thousands. The jewsharp is composed of two parts, the body and the tongue, denominated by the French "the soul." The body has some resemblance to a certain kind of corkscrew; the tongue consists of a little strip of steel, joined to the upper part of the body and bent at its extremity, so that the fingers may touch it more easily. Notwithstanding it looks so simple an instrument, it is not complete until it has been the subject of thirty distinct operations; and yet, as the London Figaro says, the whole price of the cheapest variety is but six shillings a gross.

The first notable performance on this simple instrument is mentioned in the memoirs of Mme. de Genlis, in which is described the astonishing power of a poor German soldier, named Kock, on the jewsharp. This musician was in the service of Frederick the Great, who was, as is well known, a passionate lover of music, and a good amateur player on the flute. One night when Kock was on duty under the windows of the King he began to play different tunes, and did it so skillfully that it attracted the attention of the monarch, who at first thought he heard a distant orchestra. Surprised to learn that such an effect could be produced by a single man with two jewsharps, he ordered him into his presence; but the soldier refused on account that he could only be relieved by his colonel, and that if he obeyed, the King would punish him next day for having failed in his duty. The King, instead of being offended at the answer, called the soldier to the castle the following morning, and having heard Kock perform several pieces, discharged him from his service with a generous gift. Kock's success was entirely due to his natural taste for the art, for he had no knowledge of music. He made a fortune by traveling and playing in private and public. Kock used two harps at once, and produced the harmony of two notes struck at the same moment, which at that time was looked upon as something extraordinary, considering the limited power of the instrument. In order that the illusion produced by his playing should be greater, Kock always required that the light should be extinguished. Kock afterwards settled in Vienna, where he lived to the advanced age of more than eighty years.

It was reserved, however, for a German herdsman and laborer of the name of Eulenstein to acquire great reputation as a player, after ten years' study. He appeared at concerts first in Paris, in January, 1826, and in London, in June, 1826, where he executed Italian, French and German airs to the great admiration of the amateurs and professionals alike. He played with Mr. Stockhausen, who accompanied him on the pedal harp-pianissimo, touching the chords lightly, so that Mr. Eulenstein's part could be perfectly heard. The following is the result of his discoveries concerning the jewsharp, and by which he converted this meager instrument into one of the most elegant harmonious and pleasing character, as a critic of that time writes:

A jewsharp taken singly gives almost any harmonic sound you wish to produce, as a third, a fifth, and an octave. If the grave tonic is not heard in the bass-jewsharp, it must be traced to the player, but not to the defectiveness of the instrument. The jewsharp has three different tones: the bass tones of the first octave bear some resemblance to the flute and clarinet; those of the middle and high to the vox humana stop of some organs; lastly the harmonic sounds are exactly like those of the harmonica. This diversity of tones can always afford a variety in the execution, but as in the extent of these octaves there are a number of spaces which cannot be filled up, the most simple modulation is impossible. Mr. Eulenstein overcame that inconvenience by joining sixteen jewsharps, tuned by sealing-wax, at the extremity of the tongue. Each harp then sounds one of the notes of the scale, diatonic or chromatic, and the performer can fill all the intervals, and pass all the tones by changing the harp. That these mutations may not interrupt the measure, one harp must always be kept in advance, in the same manner as a good reader advances the eye, not upon the word he pronounces, but upon that which follows. The various sounds of the jewsharp are obtained by the attraction and repression of air, the current of which is broken by the tongue of the instrument. The pressure of the lips, with the breath, serves to determine their gravity and acuteness. Consequently this little instrument is very fatiguing to the lungs and pernicious to the teeth, because its application, when the tongue is put in motion, produces nearly the effect of the vibrations of a diaphanous pipe.

In the busy world of to-day, where there is no standing still for those who have something in view, and with the rapid progress and improvements we daily meet with in the manufacture of musical instruments, as well as in every other branch of industry, efforts are likely soon to be made to develop the tone of the jewsharp by combination and enlargement; and more so would such an effort now repay its inventor, when there appears to be such a demand for it. Whatever changes and improvements may take place hereafter concerning the jewsharp, to Mr. Eulenstein, the German herdsman and laborer of Wurttemberg, will always be due the honor of having been the first one who, through continual exercises of skill and attention, made it possible for a musical audience to derive pleasure from listening to the performances on such a humble instrument as the jewsharp.—Boston Transcript.

Carrying a Pistol.

To our mind there is no practice more pernicious in its character than that of carrying concealed weapons upon the person. It is against the laws of the country, a violation of decent society and has no element in it that can be commended. It is to the credit of this city and our citizens that such an outrageous habit is not indulged in now to that extent it was a few years ago, but even now it is too often the case that a man finds it in his heart to buckle a pistol around his waist, or slip it into the hip pocket when he goes out among his fellow men. Civilization is peace; war is a relapse into barbarism and butchery. The constant carrying of weapons of death in times of peace is not civilization; and the practice breeds no good to any community. It is bad enough to find men mingling with their fellow men with a six shooter in their pockets, ready to be used with deadly effect upon the least occasion for an outburst of temper, but when we find them flourishing in crowded cars and indiscriminately shooting among men, women and children, it is high time that the community take steps to abolish the infamous custom. That two of the citizens of Columbus were not buried yesterday is not the fault of the man who held one of these deadly weapons in his hand the previous day. Fortune favored them and the wounds were not fatal, but the principle involved remains the same. We do not know the man who did the shooting, but we do know that any man who carries a pistol habitually upon his person is liable to use it under the least provocation, and the community should see that the law against carrying concealed weapons is enforced to the letter. This young man may regret this, we are told that he does, but regrets would be poor consolation to the friends of those who are the victims of a pistol ball fired in a moment of passion. It should be a lesson that all who engage in this pernicious habit should take to heart and forever abandon it. There is nothing manly, courageous or commendable in it, and to indulge in it is degrading.—Columbus (Ga.) Sun.
