OBITUABY.

Mrs. Margaret Marshall (notice of whose death recently appeared in this paper) was born in Airdrie, Scotland, in the year 1806, making her seventy-seven years old. She was married in 1839, te Archibald Marshall. Very early in life she accepted the Saviour as her guide. Soon after her conversion she united with the Presbyterian church, of which she remained a member until she came to Connecticut, in 1838, with her husband and one flistle son. In 1868 they came to Unadilla, Michigan, and settled in the wild woods, each year making some improvement on their farm, until it was one of the best. They were both faithful workers in the Presbyterian church, of which they became members soon after settling here. It was many years ere death visited their family circle—when he of July last. Said animal was insured young man. Next he took the father. Since then she has been called to mourn the loss of two sons, one daughter, two brothers and one sister-all of which she has borne as no one could who had not the arm of Jesus to sustain them. She was very patient during her long sickness, and was happy in the thought that it could not be long before she would be free from all earthly pain, and meet with her dear ones on that beautiful shore, where there will be no more sorrow nor sighing, "neither will there be any more pain." She leaves two sons to mourn her loss. She died July 23d, and was buried on the 25th. She sleeps in Jesus.

Work has been commenced at the Government Printing Office on the list of pension ers, which was ordered by Congress last session. The work will make about 4,000 octavo pages of nonpariel type, and will comprise 300,000 names. Nineteen hundred copies will be printed.

DUDLEY'S DOINGS. Commissioner of Pensions Dodley is creating quite an unusual stir in that department by the manner in which he is dealing with violators of the law. The latest crookedness which has been brought to light is that of Alpha B Beall, an employe of the government printing office, who is charged with defrauding Mrs. Christine Breamer, a pensioner, of $758 of a pension claim of $1,458 paid her in Augusty 1880. Beall and Mrs. Breamer lived in adjoining houses in Washington and Beall, learning fhat Mrs. Breamer had had a son killed in the Federal service during the war, induced her to apply for a pension. The facts with regard to the person's death having been proved, Mrs. I fail to the depth of five feet in places. Trains Breamer was allowed a pension of $Sper month on the branch of the Rock Island and main line. with arrears from 1865, making the sum of $1.458. Just before the claim was allowed Beall offered to secure the pension for her if she would give him half. This she agreed to do, and after the claim was granted Beall went with her to the bank and draw the entire sum. giving her $700 and keeping the remainder. It was only recently that the matterwas brought to the notice of the Commissioner, who had it overticated. Real was arrested and p under bonds of $1,500 for his appearance before United States Commissioner Bundy. Two a few days, and are being investigated by Dudley. Let the good work go on.

A MAJOR SUICIDES.

Mai. Beebe, who committed suicide the other night in Washington, had a commission in the army during the war and served with Gen. the war, and has since been attached to the office of Chief Signal Officer as a private in the general service. He was a native of Ohio, about 41 years of age and unmarfied. He was a member of the first Greeley relief party, and his health was impaired by the hardships to which he was exposed

A FATHER'S REQUEST.

Gen. Robertson, father of Lieut: Robertson, of the First Cavalry, charged with duplicating pay accounts, has become satisfied through telegraphic reports from his son of the entire integrity of the latter, and has accordingly made a written request to the War Department not to withdraw the charges already preferred. The father feels, owing to the publicity given the case, that the verdict of a court martial alone can render complete justice to his son.

Cabell, and gave her an order to draw the pay, thereby shutting him (Boone) out from the benefits of the contracts. It is asserted that should the Star Route traw bond cases ever reach trial it will be proven that the entire scheme of straw bonds was concocted by Samuel G. Cabell, Flora B. Cabell, and Chas. II. Dickson, a nephew of Flora B. Cabell, who is at present a clerk in the Indian Bureau.

Dick Lindsay, his son, Thomas Lindsay, Ellis Rhodes, Mace Jones and Wm. West members of a gang of railroad car thieves, were arrested at Brooklyn, Ill., opposite St. Louis, a few days ago, by Detective Furlong and six of his men belonging to the secret service of the Missouri Pacific rathroad. These men are all Negroes, and belonged to the same gang several inembers of which werearrested some weeks ago and are now in jail at Belleville, Ill. Fourteen of the gang have now been arrested, and the prospect is that all of the remainder, seven in number, will be captured in a few days, when one of the most desperate bands of road thieves ever organized will be thoroughly brok-

MURDER WILL OUT.

George Kellogg, a convict in the Illinois State Penitentiary from Logan County, at State Penitentiary from Logan County, at work at the wire machine, committed suicide the other afternoon by throwing a coil of wire around his neck and suffering himself to be drawn against the machine and the wire imbedded into his neck. Just before committing the deed he went to the boss and said: "I am the man who committed a double murder at Atlanta III." The particulars of this double into deterred by such trifleg and they deterred by such trifleg and they deterred Several more persons perished alive the man who committed a double murder at from the Casamiciola carthquake ruins, and because of the possibility of other living ones being beneath them the use of lime on them is opposed. Another of lime on them is opposed. Another severe shock puts a stop to searching for the victims. It is now intimated that mutilated and decayed human bodies, those of though perished.

Turkish commissioners, however, are bold men not deterred by such trifles, and they determined to reach it. Situated as it was a mong intended in Atlanta, III. Sunday, August 2 of last year. WARDEN, SPARE THOSE QUEUES. . . Five Chinamen who stabbed alfellow countryman at Paterson, N. J., for reducing laundry rates were committed to State Prison, and had their queues cut off. They appraised to the keeper to allow the queues to remain. He explained that the law must be observed.

HEAVY HAIL STORM. A terrible hall storm passed down the Nishnabotna Valley, Iowa, a few nights ago, resulting in the destruction of the growing crops, farm property, and near Odebolt, Mrs. Larson was killed and another person wounded. Hail on the branch of the Rock Island and main line of the Milwaukee road were blockaded. The path of the storm was four miles wide. Everything was literally destroyed. The loss will probably exceed half a million doltars. THE STRIKING OPERATORS. From time to time ever since the telegraph-er's strike began, complaints have been made that the wires were being cut and otherwise tampered with. These complaints are becoming loader. In one night in New York 89 wires were cut, and over 200 disabled. The work was attributed to striking linemen, and other cases of frauds have been alscovered in detectives detailed to ferret the matter out. The suit for damages brought by Chauncey H. Tuder of Philadelphia was accided in favor of the company.

VERY MYSTERIOUS.

At the village of Estelleville, eighteen miles from Trenton, N. J., is a colony of Russian Hazen. He was mustered out at the close of refugees which arrived in this country about a year ago. One of the families was that of Ivan Nilotowski, and consisted of himself, his wife and their two children, a boy and a girl, aged six and eight years respectively. Nilotowski has been ruissing from his home for some time. The family lived in a little but; which eaught fire in some invsterious manner, a few nights ago. The boy was burned to death, the girl was injured so that she died and the woman is lying in a precarious state. No news was had of the fire until thirty-six hours afterwards, when a wagon containing the woman and the girl drove into Trenton. It was in charge of some of the colonists, who said they wanted to send the injured people to a hospital in Philadelphia. When questioned they professed ignorance of the cause of the people's injuries, and the woman refused to say anything about it. The little girl after lying at the station-some hours died, and the woman was taken to the house of a neighbor, where

When the evangelist George O. Barnes condusted meetings in the prison in 1882 Rutherford wasone of the prisoners whom the wife of Gov. Blackburn had brought to the meeting with irons clanking on the floor as he walked into the prison chapel. After attending several services, listening to the powerful exhortations of Barnes, Rutherford, with tears pouring down his cheeks, drauged his managled body to the altar, and grasping the minister's hand said: "God helping me, I will endeavor to be come a better man and a dutiful prisoner.' Since then, with the kindly aid of Mrs. Blackburn and other ladies of the Prison Sunday School, he has been one of the best prisoners within the walls. Subsequent to his conversion he was confirmed within the prison by Bishop Dudley, of the Episcopal Church

CULBERTSON'S DENIAL.

Mr. Charles A. Culbertson, a son of Congressman Culbertson, of Texas, has written a letter for publication regarding the killing of dead man but refers to the fact that the wife of the murdered man said that a colored man and says that the charge that the night sessions of the courts were held for the purpose of givand untrue. He shows that this was a common of business in the courts. The charge that the murder was committed for the pur pose of preventing his being a witness in an election case, is also denial. Ho says the citizens against whom the cases were brought were men of standing in the community and had no need to fear the attack of any man. On the contrary they had courted investigation and urged that the cases against them be promptly tried. The charge that the defendants had threatened to kill court and jury if it convicted them he pronounces false and a slander upon the good citizens of the county and state; while the statement that a citizens committee, whose duty it is to decide who shall be killed next is a part of the social system of the community, he brands as "brutal and unconscionable, but worthy of the accuser, who would waste no time in an ordinary falsehood and has no taste destroyed many of their houses and business for common slander."

A REMARKARLE CAVE.

Explorations have recently discovered a cave at the base of Lookout Mountain, Tenn., opening at a low water mark into the Tennessee River, and developed a wonderful cave of upknown depth. At the extreme point of the exploration a very large lake was encountered, into which a fall 150 feer high poured its water with a noise of thunder. Other waterfalls and other interesting phenomena were discovered. HOW SIX LIVES WERE LOST.

PRACTICALLY ENDED.

The Western Union telegraph company considers the operators' strike practically ended, although the strikers still express themselves as confident. The railroad operators struck as ordered, but their places were promptly filled, and no delays are reported.

THE APACHES AGAIN." Startling intelligence comes from the Apache country. August 1, a band of thirty Apaches made an attack upon Opulet and killed four men. Col. Bandola, who was at Husavas with sixty of his regiment, upon receipt of information started immediately to the scene of the murder. Going through a canon Bandola, a bold and fearless man, was riding some distance ahead of his command in company with two men, when they were fired upon from ambush and the Colonel fell, two bullets piercing his breast, killing him instantly. One of his companions was also mortally wounded. Troops came quickly on, but the savages had disappeared. Next day three Mexicans were killed in the neighborhood, and the following day twenty-three horses stolen. _____ "STRUCK OIL."

The oil excitement at Rich Hill, Mo., coufinges unabated. It is given out that the best grade of petroleum is found there in abundance. Old oil men are taking the county and land is being bought at fabulous prices. Thousands of acres are being leased and options taken for thousands of acres more, and many large and small tracts have been purchased at from $50 to $100 that a menth ago could have been bought for from $20 to $40. Several gas wells have been found, and more oil wells. Oil rock abound over considerable territory, and the extent is unknown. The number of wells under contract continues increasing, and machinery is being shipped from Chicago and Pennsylvaria.

AN INSANE WIFE SHOOTS HER-HUSBAND. At Bhomfield, Worthington Homestead Worthington Valley, two miles from Riestertown, Md., one of the most frightful tragedies was enacted a few nights ago that ever shocked a community. The invalid wife of Lewis Lawrence Conrad, a well known Baltimore lawyer, in a fit of insanity caused by disease, shot her husband, sleeping by her side, through the head killing him instantly. The affair in all its details is sad and sheeking. Mrs. Conrad is a cousin of Samuel Hanson, who recently killed Chas. Ridgely White in Howard County. She is also a cousin of John Tolly Jours and Richard Johns, brothers, who committed swicide, all suffering from insanity at the time of the tragedies.

JESETVILLE; Ill., April 25, 1882. DR. PENGELLY:

Dear Sir:- I am more than pleased with the effect of your Zoa-Phora in our daughter's ease. I am surprised to see how she has improved. She is gaining in weight and color, and I think feels better than she ever did; her nerves are steady, and the distress she suffered in her chest is entirely gone. I firmly believe that Zoa-Phora is all that has eaved her life. I am willing you should use my letter, for ain not afraid to tell what a wonderful cure your medicine is, and I would like all who suf-Yours respectfully, Mrs. Sarah Randolph. fer to try it.

I shall always remember gratefully the good health your medicine has brought my daughter.

A farmer's lad, slowly wading through a little stream, looks down into the water, and there, brought into view by the sparkling rays of the sun, he sees something glistening and shimmering so believely that, seized by sudden curiosity, he runs his hand through the bed of the brook and brings up a handful of sand interspersed with shining yellow specks, and, behold, he has found gold! Just as you take a piece of ground when you make a town and divide it into lots and the report is quickly sent to some expert, and mines, or anything that requires like consolidations of money. Just as you take a piece of ground when you make a town and divide it into lots and his castle in the air rises higher and parcel those lots out among the incorporators, so the stock is parceled out among the numerous people, often strangers to each other who unite to own a railroad. the mistake has often been made, not of imagining the pyrites to cont a in gold, but that it is gold.

There is probably no other metalliferous mineral more widely distributed than iron pyrites. It is found in rocks of every age, and almost in all parts of the World. Hardly a State or Territory of the United States but contains it to a greater or less degree, hence the great prevalence of the error concerning it.

To illustrate: A colored man in Missisppi malled me a lump of this mineral, water-worn into a rude resemblance of a gold nugget, and desired me to sell it for him! All I could do was to tell him of its worthlessness, and instead of a piece of gold worth $30 to $50 as he supposed, it was, in fact, not worth the postage paid on it.

stead of a piece of gold worth $30 to $50 as he supposed, it was, in fact, not worth the postage paid on it.

To come nearer home: From two separate places in Michigan and from two different counties in Wisconsin has the same mineral with the same question been sent me, and lately an intelligent-looking gentleman brought me three or four pounds of this same delnsive stuff, picked up on the shores of our lake, twenty miles north. It is needless, perhaps, to say that they were all disappointed in their great expectations.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

THE agitation in England against the importation of American eattle has been based, up to this date, upon the assertion that American cattle were suffering with the foot-and-mouth disease, and that to admit them would imperil the health of the native herds. But since it has been authoritatively stated that this disease does not exist here, our British friends will have to invent another excuse for keeping out our bovines. That disease certainly is to be found in America in some places, but it is carefully watched, and at nortime recently nas it been so prevalent as to make importations from this country dangerous to the English. Out of the 30,000 cattle imported into England in the last six months only six animals were diseased. This is a narrow basis upon which to build an argument against the admision of cattle from America, no matter what the disease was which the six animals had.

CHINA maintains three armies of operation, so-called, having a see ength of 30,000 to 40,000 nien each, and stationed as follows: The first on the Russe-Mantchoorian frontier; the second on the western high roads, leading to and from Turkestan; and the third in the vicinity of Peking, for the special defence of the capital, for which purpose the excellent communications by rivers and canals facilitate an easy and rapid concentration. Besides these three corps for active operations, a fourth army of some 150,000 men is distributed in all the principal ports along the seacoast, the central province of Tchili being again supplied with their strong est garrisons. While the strength of the former Chinese army was estimated at more than a million men, the effect Rijute. RECENTLY a train on the Northern Pacific Railroad found its way apparutly barred by the furious heat of burn ing wood-ricks along the track. The rain stopped, the rails were examined o see if they had warped, and then it was decided to run the gauntlet. A passenger thus described the passage. which was made at the rate of seventy miles an hour, to a reporter of the Portland Oregonian: "We shut down the windows and closed the door tight just sefore we started, but the air inside the car was like the breath from a furnace and the whole train seemed to be on ire. The flames licked the windowglass savagely, and although it lasted only a few moments, it was an experience I shall never forget and never again wish to undergo. I can't helpbut think of the terrible danger we passed through. If one rail of the track heat, had given away, we would every makes me shudder even now."

These figures are given: The total of the estimated cost of the building for which plans were filed in 1882 was $44,778,686. If there is no falling off in the last half of this year, the capital invested will be nearly $10,000,000 more than last year, or $54,000,000. It is said that about 1,500 flats and tenements will be erected. Prominent builders are of opinion that the metropolis will in a few years contain 2,000,000 inhabitants. island will not then be crowded, if the tremendous double-deckers, or tenements arranged to hold half a dozen families on a floor, are to be the rule in the future as at present. PROBABLY the American newspaper reader has by this time become accustomed to the continuous rumors of impending wars that come from across the sea, and is competent to attach to them all the weight they deserve, which is precious little. Not a week passes in Europe without the development of some international difficulty which gives rise to reported military preparations and encourages an expectation of war. But this is all there is of it. Like the foam on a glass of precipitately "jerked" beer, the rumor vanishes quickly, and the expectation becomes thin aic. Upon such stuff as this Europeans are fed. First it is a probable war between France and China, then it is rumored rupture between England and France, and, as the excitement caused by these die out, Russia and Germany and Austria and Italy are dragged in to keep up er believes in a war until he smells burnt pewder.

When Mr. Lincoln arrived in Wash-

he brought his inaugural address with state of the new administration, had hoped to draft the production which was so eagerly awaited by the country. Mr. Lincoln had written his inaugural put into type by his friend, the local printer. Four copies were printed on thought that a paragraph would be effective he preceded it with a typographical fist. A carpet-bag, containing these printed copies of the forthcoming inaugwar, who was so taken aback by the enat... Harrisburg, that he permitted a waiter to take it and forget all about it. When asked for it by his father he was forced to confess that he knew not where it was. Mr. Lincoln immediately started for the baggage-room and strid-by a sneer or a vile inuendo. ing over the barrier at the door he began overhauling without ceremony a large pile of carpet-bags until he was fortunate enough to find the one containing the precious document. After arriving at Washington Mr. Lincoln gave one copy of his inaugural to Mr. Seward and an other to the venerable Francis P. Blair asking them to read and criticise. Some changes were made of no great impor fance, which were given to Mr. Nicolay the President's private secretary, to write in a fair hand on one of the printed copies, from which Mr. Lincoln was to read. Mr Nicolay corrected another copy, which was furnished to the press and which I now own. When Mr. Lincoln came out on the platform in front of the capitol, his tall figure rising above those around him, the usual genial smile was on his regular countethe interest. The wisest foreigner nev- nance, but he seemed perplexed toknow what to do with a new silk hat and a gold-headed cane. The cane he put under the table, but the hat appeared THE American Bible Society has re- to be too good to be placed on the rough boards. Senator Douglass saw the embarrassment of his old friend, and rising, took the shining hat from its bothered owner and held it during the delivery of the inaugural address. Mr. Lincoln was listened to with great earnestness, and evidently desired to convince the multitude before him, rather than to bewilder or dazzle them. It was evident to all that he honestly believed every word that he spoke, especially the concluding paragraph, which I copy from the original print:

" I am loth to close. We are not enemies, but friends. We must not be enemies. Though passion may be strained, it must not break our bonds of affection. The mystic cords of memory which stretch from every battle-field and hearthstone all over our broad land will yet swell the chorus of the Union when again touched, as, they surely will be, by the better angels of our nature.

Co-Education of the Sexes.

Writing on this subject some thirty or forty years ago. Mrs. Jameson says. I am convinced from my own recollections, and from all I have learned from experienced teachers in large something that is better for me and my schools, that one of the most fatal mistakes in the training of children has been too early separation of the sexes. I say has been, because I find that everywhere this most dangerous prejudice has been given way before the light of truth and more general acquaintance with that primal law of nature, which ought to teach us that the more we can assimilate on a large scale the public to the domestic training, the better for all. There exists still the impression in the higher classes especially—that in early would tend to make the girls masculine and the boys effeminate, but experience shows us that it is all the other way. Boyslearn a manly and protecting tender ness, and the girls become at once more feminine and more truthful. When this association has begun early enoughthat is, before five years old, and has been continued till about ten or twelve, point the evidence is unanimous and

So long ago as 1812, Francis Horner, in describing a school he visited at workingmen paid fair wages. When I have seen a class of girls stand up together, there has been a sort to show that germ-propagated diseases publication in his magazine, declaring of empty tittering, a vacancy in the faces, an inertness, which made it, as I thought, very up-hill work for the teacher; so when it was a class of boys, there has been often a styggishness—a tendency to ruffian tricks-requiring per petual effort on the part of the master. In teaching a class of boys and girls, accustomed to stand an together, there is ficer; whose house and grounds are aclittle or nothing of this. All very intelligent schoolnjaster assured me that he had more trouble with a class of fifty boys than with a school of three hundred boys and girls together (in the midst of whom i found him). and that there were no inconveniences resulting which a wise and careful and him in print, rather to the annoyance efficient superintendence could not conof Mr. Seward. who, as secretary of trol. ### "Man's Right to Wealth."

The Rev. J. M. Pullman, D. D., of New York, in a sermon a few Sundays ago took for his theme the telegrapher's strike. He said:

"Man's right to wealth, begins when he has earned enough to improve himself. No sooner, however, does one begin to accumulate than he becomes an object of covetousness. He is asked to divide with others and it is demanded that he do this pencefully or force will be employed. This manner of wringing out of a man what he has earns ed has become vastly more fashionable nowadays than to earn it oneself by honest labor. All over the world, however, you will line a demand for fair play. For this purpose, ostensibly, the labor associations have been formed. They aim to provide fair play for the workingman. No one who has a true sense of what moral obligation is be-Heves in strikes—up more than he does in war. Everybody believes that it is best to settle difficulties peaceably. A strike ought to be ordered only as last resort—after every other means of reconciliation has been tried. If my advice had been asked in the begining of the telegraphers' trouble I should have said that mere was a mediatory policy which should have been tried. Failing in this, means for crushing the enemy should be adopted. There never can be equality in the ability or pay of a laborer. It is a mistake to dictate who shall come into your profession. It is unjust. It is unwise. It is clear that should you equalize the wages of the classes one or the other must event-ually be excluded from business. On the other hand, any attempt to pay the interest on a capital of $80,000,000 at the expense of reducing the wages of laborers is an act of piracy. A man should have a return for his capital, to be sure. If he attempts, however, to get a return from $20,000,000 on half that amount he is nothing more than a thief. Whenever you see money earning more than 7 per cent. may sare there is stealing going on. In a laborer there is a covetousness discernible: there is a lack of prudence, of self-control. There is a fallacy in the popular cry of the laborer; he proclaims liberty to sell his skill in the highest market of the world. He has liberty of speech, of the press; of assembly and the ballot. What he needs most is liberty from ignorance, from covetousness, from vice. There is no liberty in rescuing yourself from the worst monopoly on earth, unless you free yourself from demagogism. There are two classes of men who own money. One earns what he owns. He is the ally the laborer has, but he doesn't realize it. On the other hand, the speculator is the laborer's bitterest enemy. Who fixes the price of bread? It is the class which is using all our means of traffic to get its everything for noth at Wiing. Such is the speculator. He is the Mich. man the laborer ought to strike, A combination against him is the only remedy for the present evil. There isn't a spot in this country where the law of supply and demand is enforced. If there is to be a governing class which has wealth it must be one which uses wealth righty. It must not water stocks or deal infutures. It is not enough to have the and/should be treated accordingly. They have souls. The man who does

THEORY OF CROP-ROTATION .-- It is now generally admitted that rotation of crops is rendered necessary, not as formerly supposed because the soil becomes exhausted of some necessary element, or becomes unwholesome for that particular plant, owing to poisonous exercta left by the roots, but because insects and diseases accompany the plant which are special to it, the eggs or spores of which are left in the soil to attack the same crop in the next following year with hundred fold increase of numbers and power. Prof. Bossey of the Iowa Agricultural College shows how this is through all the interior of a wheat plant, and finally developes its spores within the bran-easing of the grain, filling it not with flour, but with innumerable black, stinking seeds of the parasite which, when set free, float out and stick fast to sound grains of wheat, and also to particles of the soil, where they lie ready to enter into the circulation of the next year's growth of wheat plants, unas evening approached he gave up the but gave little attention to the practice less killed by steering the polluted seed in blue vitriol solution, and drying off with lime. As to the polluted soil, it is purified from the contamination only by using it for some other crop on which the smut plant cannot take hold.

Many orchards are kept in grass year after year. The grass is cut for hay and no manure is applied to the land. The trees make very little growth and imperfect fruit, and yet the owners wonder why it is that their orchards hear so little fruit. It would be a wonder if such orchards should bear welltheir owners always taking from them and never returning anything to them. Such orchards, if they cannot be ploughed and manured, may be topdressed with manure and sheep turned in. The sheep will eat the grass and leave the manure upon the ground which is much beiter than cutting the grass for hay and carrying it off the land, There are many orchards which are well grafted to valuable market might be made to yield four times the quantity of fruit that they do at present. It is related that a man came to the Journal office to have a fuss with the editor over something that had been said in the paper, and he was pretty mad when he accested the genial business manager, Mike Kraus. He spoke of desiring blood, and expressed a desire to gallop all over the manly Why Orchards are Non-Productive. frame of the editor, and offered to chew a few reporters. Mr. Kraus stood in the door, and pointing to the box on the sidewak he said: "How would that fit you? It may be a little short, but we have larger ones." and calling the undertaker, who was on the sidewalk, Kraus said: "Measure this man. please." The undertaker took out a tape-line and came forward, and the man with the hot box, who was being measured for a cold box, began to feel small. Just then the editor, Neiman, came down stairs. and Mike said: "See here. Neiman, here is a man in a hurry to whip somebody, and I don't know but you will have to let me have that coffin that was made for the South side man, who was going to come in this afternoon to whin us. Say, says Neiman, turning to the man who had come for a fight, "Couldn't you get along without a fight till Saturday? We are a little crowded now," and Neiman rested his cane on the coffin box. The man said, come to think of it, he didn't want to fight anyhow, but he did think that article in the paper was confounded mean. "Of course." says Neiman. ### Clear, the Decks.

Under the above heading "Olive" gives, in the Bural New Yorker, a bit of kindly advice to housekeepers; If you have a rather delicate piece of work to perform, that gives you some per-plexity and anxiety, try first to make all about you as pleasant as possible before you begin. No matter if you have not time to go through the whole establishment, you may yet make your own little nook cheerful and bright. It is surprising how much better the mind acts under such circumstances. A tidy room about you, neatly swept up, the furniture wiped with a damp cloth, a little bouquet, if only a sprig or two of brightness in a cup of fragrant green, has a power to cheer the weary spirit and give it real rest and refreshment, just as wholesale food does the body. Whatever helps to give us composure adds to our working ability, and tends largely to the benefit of our health and happiness. The long-lived people are unusually those of an even mind. If you have a perplexing garment to cut from a scant pattern, where it seems almost a necessity to "make cloth," first clear up everything about you, and spread out the goods and the pattern on a clear table. There is something very confusing to average minds in a jumbled up work-table and a chaos of scraps lying about. Some people make such a litter of shreds, if they have any work to cut out, while others can have a room or two in a house replastered and papered, and yet not have it seem wary bad. Such a difference is there in the way of doing work.

The man has cut away the frog because he thinks that the animal will be injured if the frog touches the ground. He has then cut a deep groove at the base of the frog. This is to give a "wellopened heel," as he is pleased to call it. He has scooped away the sole to "give it spring." He has scored a deep notch in the toe for the purpose of receiving the "clip" of the shoe. This is evidently a conservative relic of the time when nails were not used, and the shoe attached by three-pointed clips hammered over the edge, one in front and one on either side. Then he has improved the whole of the outer surface of the hoof. As the Creator has furnished this part of the hoof with a thin, hard, polished plate forming a sort of varnish which is impervious to wet, the farrier, as a matter of course, rasps it all away up to the crown. And as the Creator has placed round the crown a fringe of hair which acts as a thatch to the line of junction and throws off the rain upon the waterproof varnish, he cuts this away with his scissors. Lastly, the Creator having given to the horny hoof a mottling of soft, and partially translucent, brown, gray-blue, vellow, black and white, never exactly the same in two hoofs, much less in two horses, the farrier takes a blacking-pot and brush, polishes up the hoofs until they look like patent-leather boots, all four exactly alike, and then comtemplates his work with satisfaction. In his own words, he has "turned out a finished job of it."—Good

State Dinners.

In this democratic age few people are ware of the grandeur to be seen in the house of the chief ruler of the nation. Among the stores of mineral wealth which the South is continually discovering, none are more remarkable than the great salt mines of Louisians, a few miles south of New Iberia. The salt is found in a solid rock mass, which assays 99 per cent. of pure material, and the deposit covers 140 acres, which appear inexhaustible. The mines are situated directly upon the Bayou Teche and convenient to the terminus of great railroad lines, and, although they have been systematically worked only three years, the industry has assumed great proportions. Salt from these works can be delivered throughout the South at less than the price either of foreign importations or the product of Northern works; and Mobile, which is the chief distributing point, counts upon soon becoming the great salt market of the Mississippi valley.

Titles Good Only in Massachusetts.

In answer to an inquiry about titles of persons, the Sun says that the practice of distinguishing holders of certain offices with an "Honorable" and the like has grown up by custom, and that "there is no law upon the whole subject." There are two exceptions to this and probably only two. The constitution of Massachusetts provides that the title of the Governor shall be "His Excellency," and that of the Lieutenant Governor, "His Honor,—Springfield Republican.
