The Grand Trunk Company having put on a corps of engineers from the Great Western road to make final estimate of work on the Air Line contract, Messrs. Brooks & Co. refuse to receipt for payment on their estimate, believing it to be unfair. As a result the Grand Trunk folks have sent back to Montreal the money intended for last month's pay. The contractors, however, are paying off the men with their own money. Mr. Brooks was here on Tuesday, and with his assistants, worked all night paying off the men in this locality. He informs us that the work will go right on without interruption. They have employed Mr. Biggar and Mr. Briggs as contractors' engineers, will complete their work and present their estimates to the company for settlement.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

THE King of Siam, who is only a boy of twenty years, has allowed his finger nails, it is said, to grow until they are more than a foot in length. This deformity reduces the monarch to a state of absolute helplessness, and for that reason, probably, the Siamese regard long nails as one of the peculiar attributes of sovereignty.

THE bill granting the right of suffrage in Washington Territory appears to be in a fair way to become a law. - Wyoming and Utah now have woman suffrage, but the operation of the law in those Territories has not been such as to make it desirable to extend the act elsewhere. Washington Territory willbe knocking at the doors of Congress next winter for admission as a State, its population now being about five fimes greater than that of Oregon when it was organized as a State.

THE trustees of the Garfield National Monument Association invite an international competion, open to all artists, for a design for a monument in honor of the late President Gartield. For the design possessing the highest merit $1,-000 will be paid; for the second, $750, and for the third, $500. The amount is not to exceed in cost when completed the sum of $150,000. It will be erected In Lake View Cemetery, Cleveland, on a commanding eminence. The monument is to be of granite, of approved -quality and color, with emblems and statuary of bronze.

THE mystery of the whereabouts of Mary Churchill, the sixteen-year-old daughter of Colonel Churchill, of St. Louis, is still unsolved, and the father is issuing circulars yet to different parts of the country giving a description of the girl, with her portrait, The case is a pathetic on ;, in every respect. The thought you might a knowed me down girl has been missing now for two months. Unless she is in the power of unscrupulous persons, or is dead, she can end the suspense of her parents at any time. She is not so completely helpless as a child would be, even in the hands of abductors, and the supposition which her parents seem to indulge, that she has gone on the stage or is trying to get there, and still conceals herself from them, is one that could be welcome only to an agonized father and mother whose overwhelming desire is simply to find her alive. To others such coldhearted indifference will seem almost incredible, and they will be inclined to believe that it is not in her power to communicate with her parents.

MISS JENNIE COLLINS, so well known in connection with Bottin's Bower, in Boston, has just sent out her thirteenth annual report. She gives many pitiful instances of the straits to which working women are reduced by the keen competition of trade, which keep wages down. In the course of the past year, she says, five young women in whom she was particularly interested died of consumption, and one committed [sujeide by drowning—all under twentyfive years of age. "They could earn from three to four dollars per week. It would be impossible for them to get twenty-one of the plainest meals for less than three dollars, consequently they had to resort to one meal, or a meal and a half, a day." Exhaustion and consumption soon followed. One item in the work of Boffin's Bower shows its usefulness to this unfortunate class. For nine years it has furnished free dinners to women out of employment during the hard part of the winter. During the past year 3,150 meals were furnished, and in many cases this dinner was the only meal they had during the day.

An intimate personal friend of Senator Anthony visited Washington recently. He said that the Senator was looking forward with some impatience to the reassembling of Congress, when he hopes to be able to take his seat in the Senate Chamber, where for a quarter of a century he has been a familiar figure. "I want to go to Washington and die in the harness," it is said, has been a frequent remark of Mr. Anthony since he rallied from his severe illness of last summer. "While Senator Anthony is likely to die suddenly any day," said his friend, 'it is fairly probable that his desire to some to Washington and enter formally upon his fifth term of service will be gratified. His friends all hope so and he seems to expect it. There is no man in the Senate now who was a member of it when he was sworn. March 4, 1859, and of the eight Senators who began their first term of service on that day, he and Willard Saulsbury, of Deleware, are the only survivors. Robert Toombs and James Chesnut, jr., of South Carolina, who are both living, were sworn in on the same day, but Toombs had served one term of six years and Chesnut had already served one year under an appointment from the Governor of South Carolina. Judah P. Benjamin also is yet living and he began a new term in the Senate, March 4, 1859, but was not sworn until the following day. He was first elected for the term which he began March 4, 1853. Simon Cameron, Daniel Clark of New Hampshire, Clingman of North Carolina, Jefferson Davis, Lyman Trumbull, Hannibal Hamlin, Yulce, Harlan, Doolittle, Gwin and Henry M. Rice. of Minnesota are, the only other survivors of that Senate, which numbered sixty-two members.

The logs were floated down the river to Muskegon by the booming company and disposed of to J. H. Skeels & Co., of Chicago. Norton admits all the premises but the ownership of the land. He claims to hold tax titles on it that were sufficient to give him the right to cut the timber. The result of the suit will fall upon Skeels & Co., who gave an indemnity bond to the booming company when that corporation delivered to them the logs, which were at once cut and put upon the market.

Iron Mining Notes.

W. F. Swift, of Ishpeming, returned-from-a four weeks' examination of the Vermillion (Minnrsota) iron district on Thursday. During his absence Mr. Swift traveled the entire length of the range, and brought with him specimens taken from all the located mining properties. To a reporter of the Mining Jour-nal he expressed the opinion that the Minnesota Iron Company will find it impossible to make a harbor at Agata Bay, owing to the great depth of water, and thinks that Duluth will be the most available shipping point for the ore from this district—thus making a railroad haul of ninety-five miles. The railroad company already has grading one for thirty miles and iron has been laid on six miles of this distance. Here was a little woman that I could whip, if worse came to worse, who had a husband who was sick, and I regained confidence and told her she was a daisy. I said to her that it pained me to see a woman like her. endowed with all the charms of her sex doomed to wear her life out on a sandy farm, in a God-forsaken country, when she was calculated to adorn a mansion. I told her her hands were made for playing the piano, instead of working in a bread foundry, or washing red flannel shirts for harvest hands, or frying pork for threshing machine pirates, and then I chucked her under the chin and told her she reminded me of the Princess Louise. I thought I heard a bedroom door squeak, as I had my hand on her chin, and she looked around and said, loud enough to be heard in the next room, 'Nathan, here is a man you want to 'tend to,' and just then the door opened and Nathan came out in his stocking feet, with a blue wamus on. Well, he was the healthiest invalid I ever saw. He was about nineteen feet high, and had a foot like a fiddle box. PINCKNEY DISPATCH

THURSDAY, OCT. 25, 1883.

Monsignor Capel lectures at the De. troit Opera House, Sunday evening, November 4th, subject: "The Catholic Church and Christian Art."

We hope the Monsignor will give a better picture of modern Catholicism than the one sent by the Pope to the Detroit Art Loan. If so, he may suc. ceed in removing, to some extent, the unfavorable impression that contribution has made on the minds of many who were inclined to believe that Catholicism was sharing equally with From the Review Protestantism the beneficent influence of modern common-sense, as applied to art symbols of its faith. While there is nothing offensive in the picture representing "The Spiritual Retrothal of St. Catherine with the Infant Jesus," yet the subject and its manner of treatment in the 16th century were not as well calculated to stregthen the impression of the Pope's modern way of thinking as some other that must have been at his disposal in that renowned home of art where his pontifical seat is located.

The liberal element is rapidly grow ing in the Catholic church, and Leo XIII is said to favor its development. but while he may be the most liberal of all in the long line of pontifical succession, he might be benefitted by a whiff of free American air if he would only come over here and take it in.

The Detroit Democratic city ticket has at its head, as candidate for mayor Marvin H. Chamberlain, a wholesale liquor dealer. Personally, Mr. Chamberlain is a respectable citizen of some busines capacity to say the least, but ests of the city of Detroit, he should about the face and head. be signally defeated, for whatever may be said of the whiskey traffic in general'it is an undoubted fact that Detroit ing lecture in this year's course will correction. Mr. Chamberlain is an apologis! for that class, and associates with the very worst of them, and if elected is undoubtedly pledged to allow them the utmost privileges which can be secured by the use of his municipal office. The present Mayor, Mr. Thompson, though not a model of temperance and morality, has done much to restrain the liquor traffic and has completely done away with many of the evils thereof. The gentlemen who have had the pluck to complain of the saloon keepers, and bring them before the bar of justice, will earn a double knighthood if they continue the good work and bring those other offenders into the courts for trial. Their offence is doubly rank because it was perpetrated under the cloak of respectability, and over the seal of State authority.

A CLERK'S INVENTION.

A. H. Doan, a clerk in the Pension Office, has invented a method of displaying weather signals in the country for the beneat of farmers which may be adopted by the Signal Service Bureau. It provides for a system of the signal Lags to be known as farmers' signal flags, which are to be displayed from the sides of United States mail cars which pass rapidly and continuously over the country on the great network of tracks. The flags will signal information as follows: White, meaning clear weather; blue flag, fair weather; red, doubtful weather, and black stormy weather, or high winds. Signals can be ordered up from Washington by telegraph, and the cost of the entire system, it is said, will be insignificant.

ANNUAL PENSION REPORT. The report of the commissioner of pensions for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1883, shows that there were 303,658 pensioners on the roll at the end of the fiscal year. During the year the names of 76, whose pension had been droppreviously, were restored to the roll makexcess of 10,645 over the preceding year. The pensions $32,245,192, pensions is $6: 064,090. The amount paid for pensions is $6: 064,009, exceeding the annual value by several million dollars. The bulk of this excess was on account of arrears of pensions, covering the period prior to the allowance of claims. The appropriation for salary and fees to pension agents was exhausted, and there is a balance due agents. The whole number of claims filed since 1861 was 856,137, of which 510,938 were allowed. During the same time $621,073,297 was paid for pensions and costs of disbursements. An examination showed that 204 299 cases were delayed by claimants. surgeon general's office, and 23,523 by the pension office, but a large proportion of cases delayed in the pension office at the hands of special examiners or the board of review, leaving but 8,161 in course of examination, most of which have been recently filed. DUDLEY'S REPORT.

Gen. Dudley, commissioner of pensions, in this report, takes up the question of the practices of claim agen's with pensioners, and says that the evils of which complaint has been made have greatly increased, and that the present condition calls for immediate action by Congress. He says the business has attracted to it many ignorant and unscrupulous persons whose only object seems to be to procure applications from pensioners, and then assiduously dun the claimants until a $10 fee is secured, and thereafter practically abandon the case like a squeezed orange.

NEWS NOTES

PHILADELPHÍA STREET-CAR ACCIDENT. The jury in the Philadelphia street car acc dent returned a verdict declaring the Union Passenger Railway censurable for running passenger cars with one person in the capacity. of driver and conductor; Peter Schultz, driver of the car, was criminally consurable. Frank Bird, engineer of the train, was criminally censurable for running the train, and the Philadelphia & Reading Railroad Company for scheduling their time at a faster rate of speed within the city limits than allowed by the ordinance. The railroad company was also censured for employing an incompetent firequan. A CIVIL RIGHTS CASE.

She applied for a mandamus to compel principal-Gallagher to admit her to No. 5. Chief Justice Nelson of the city court, Brooklyn, after full argument, refused the writ. The general term of the city court affirmed that decision and now the court of appeals has affirmed the lower courts. Two points were principally argued, one that the exclusion was in violation of the fourteenth amendment to the constitution of the United States, and the other that it was opposed to the civil rights act of New York passed in 1873. The defendant contended that it was not in violation of either, and that equal facilities for the education of a child were afford in the colored schools, and consequently there was no discrimination against her in assigning her to such colored school.

started a grocery in partnership with McGov-Duluth, and a man named Walters, also put under suspicion, was taken to St. Paul. By earching the grocery all the paraphernalia for carrying on counterfeiting was discovered, and also four copper plates for printing five and ten dollar bills on the bank of Montreal. The latter plates are fine ones, and mortised in such a manner that the check numbers and bank officials' signatures could be changed at any time, Upon making this find McGovern was arrested, and the property seized and turned over to the district attorney at St Paul. Detectives relate that Chambers is a fine penman, and formerly employed in the Canadian Pacific railroad offices. Walters is a native of Onebee where his mother lives. McGovern came fro a Montreal, where he is known to be respectably connected, his brother having held ligh municipal and government positions.

A FRIGHTFUL ACCIDENT. Mr. Trougert, a section boss on the Milwaukee & St. Paul Road, his wire and baby accompanied by his daughter, Mrs, Trougert and her husband and child were riding on a hand car near Wankan, Wis. The hat of Mrs. Trougert blew offl, and in attempting to grasp it her baby slipped out of her hands in front of the car. The child caught in the gerr wheels and was instantly killed. The car was thrown from the track, and those upon it hurled some dis-

The regular engineer was not on duty. and the little furnace donkey was being manued by a young man, who seems to have known nothing about his business, and was running at a rapid rate toward the crossing, when he saw a collision would be inevitable unless he checked up. Instead of staying at his post and stopping the engine, as the passengers cav he could have done, he reversed the brakes and leaped off, letting the engine go erashing broadside into the middle of the passenger train There were eighteen persons in the car, and the scene was frightful. Men, women and hildren were knocked out of their seats in every direction, and few escaped being man-gled, bruised or scalded. The car took fire instantly and was wrapped in flames almost before the passengers could be gotten out. It was entirely consumed. Most of the passengers were bespattered with blood and soot, but miraculous as it may seem, no one was killed.

AFTER ONE HUNDRED YEARS.

5The celebration of the centennial of the disbanding of Washington's army was celebrated at Newburg, N. Y. October 18. The city was thronged with visitors, and decked out in her gayest attire. A procession four miles long, paraded the city, and halted in front of Washgron's headquarters, where the exercises of the day took place. Eloquent addresses were delivered by Senator Bayard and William M. Evarts. A hallelujah eborus was given after the oration by a choir of over 500 voices, after which the great crowd scattered to the music

THE RESULT OF AN OPERATOR'S NEGLECT. A terrible accident occurred on the East Tennessee, Virginia & Georgia Railroad. Two freight trains, while running at a high speed collided, four miles west of Cleveland, which resulted in the death of Engineer John Barley. Fireman Wm. Campett and Brakeman Le Gehmen. A telegraph order was sent to await the arrival of the east bound train at Cleveland, but the operator neglected to deliver the order, though the conductor was in the telegraph office. The trains met in a deep cut, and the engines were within a few feet of each other before the terrible fact was known to either engineer. The engines were nearly demolished and several cars were damaged The dead and wounded were taken care of as well as nossible. Ever since the discovery of her body the entire community, aided by detectives, have been in search of her murderer. It was learned that she had been engaged to a young farmer named Dakes, and suspicion pointed somewhat toward him, but a chain of apparently criminating circumstances have been drawn around her former employer: Circenter, which resulted in his arrest. Investigation disclosed that Zora had lett his employ and returned to the home of her father, in a village near Line oln, and on the day preceding her death went to Lincoln, and paid a visit to Carpenter's office, remaining with him an hour far as known. As to the nature of her visit | izen. Carpenter related a story p'ainly denied by the facts subsequently disclosed. It was also discovered that the dead girl was enciente, and the testimony of various parties tended to show that he had supplied the girl with money and had w. Itten her various letters.

AN IMPORTANT CIVIL RIGHTS DECISION.

The Famous "Force Bill" Beclared Unconstitutional.

CIVIL RIGHTS CASES SETTLED.

One of the most important decisions rendered by the Supreme court of the United States was that in five cases commonly known as the civil rights cases, which were submitted to the court on printed arguments about a year ago. The titles of these cases and the states from which they came are as follows: No. 1, United States against Murray Stanley, from the United States circuit court for the district of Kansas; No. 2, United States against Michael Ryan, from the United States circuit court for the district of California; No. 3, United States against Samuel Nichols, States against Samuel Nichols, from the United States circuit court for the western district of Missouri; No. 26, United States against Samuel D. Singleton, from the United States circuit course for the southern district of New York, and No. 28, Richardson A. Robinson and wife against. the Memphis and Charleston railroad company, from the United States circuit for the district of Tennessee. The cases were all based on the first and second sections of the civil rights act an obstruction. A large back backed its upper of 1875, and were respectively prescentions under that act for not admitting certain colored persons to equal accommodations and privide eges in inns or hotels, in railroad cars and in theaters. The defense set up in every case forfeit $500 for each offense, to be recovered in civil action, and also to a penalty from $500 to $1,000 fine or imprisonment from 30 days to a year to be enforced in a criminal prosecution. Exclusive jurisdiction is given to district and circuit courts of the United States in cases arising under the law. The rights and privileges claimed by and denied to the persons in these cases were full and equal accommodations in hotels, in ladies' carsor railway trains, and in dress circles in theaters. The court, in a long and carefully prepared opinion by Justice Bradley, holds, first, that congress had no constitutional authority to pass the section in question under the 13th or 14th amendments to the constitution; second that the 14th amendment is prohibitory upon states only, and that legislation authorized to be adopted by congress for forcing the amendment is not direct legislation on matters respecting which states are prohibited from making or enforcing certain laws or doing certain acts, but is corrective legislation necessary or proper for counteracting and redressing the effect of such law or acts; that in forbidding states, for example, to deprive any person of life, liberty or property without due process of law and giving congress power to enforce the prohibition, it was not intended to give congress tower to provide due process of law for the protection of life, liberty and property, which would to provide modes of redress for counteracting the operation and effect of state laws obnexious to prohibition; third, that the 13th amendment gives no power to congress to pass murderer of Carey, held a large meeting at the sections referred to, because that amend-Carpenter's office, remaining with him an hour chicago and a iopted resolutions recognizing ment relates only to slavery and involuntary alone. At the conclusion of the reading of Justice Bradley's opinion, which occupied more than an hour, Justice Harlan said in an ordinary case he should he sitate to set up his individual opinion in opposition to that of his eight colleagues, in view of what he thought the people of this country wished to accomplish, what they tried to accomplish, and what they believed they had accomplished by means of this legisla-tion, he must express his dissent from the opinion of the court. He had not had time since hearing that opinion to prepare a statement of the grounds of his dissent, but he should prepare and file one as soon as possible, and in the meantime desired to put upon record this expression of his individual indument.

A queer case has just come to light in Chicago. - A young man spent an evening with his girl, and during the evening, while the family was present in the parlor, he was as demure and bland and childlike as could be wished. The mother came into the room after the family had retired to get a handker- ly know what they have accomplished.

Longa sofa, and nothing that the mother fellow did not appreciate his own could see in the actions of either led her to think they were more than pass- that one can say with Charles Lamb ing acquaintances. It seemed to her that to read them aright one should beas though the young people had met before, but there was no evidence that they were very well acquainted. All they were very well acquainted. All long to read them right as it did to make them, after he had gone, the girl combined them. Beware of the brandy, the bound that two of the girl's ribs were not those that fill one with bitter and broken. How it was done nobody knew. The girl could not tell for the life of her, though she blushed when asked about it, and the mother looked very wise as she looked at the doctor. The doctor made some inquiries set the ribs and went away, and the girl proceeded to recover.

That evening the young man called and was astonished when informed of the extent of the girl's injuries, and wondered how it could have happened, though the mother watched his face close as he spoke and detected not only a blush but a profuse prespiration on his face. She had been a girl once herself, and though she had never had any | phoid, billious, malarious and gastric. matter had to be explained to him. He | the sysm. was told that the ribs just simply broke themselves and neither the mother nor the girl nor the young man could account for it, and yet all three of them blushed terribly. The father patted his girl on the head, told her she would be better when she got over it and then called the young man into the library. The young men was so weak he could hardly walk, and when he sat down he took out a handkerchief and mopped his brow and wished he was dead. The father looked the young man over and was sorry. Healthy People Sometimes Laugh

At the sufferings of dyspeptics, and say that their pains and distresses are

I his is not meant for cruelty, but it is cruelty, all the same. A person who has a crooked foot, or a wounded hand, or a sightless eye, calls forth sympathy by the exhibition of the defective member. If the dyspeptics sufferer's stomach could be placed on exhibition, the cause of his distress would be apparent.

The man with a troublesome stomach often suffers quite as much as the man with a broken leg, but is far less likely to receive sympathy.

Sympathy is good for sufferers, as far as it goes. But Brown's Iron: Bitters is better, for it strikes at the root of these troubles, and cures disease. Disappointed dyspeptics, weary of having tried many experiments in seeking cure, will do well to make one fair trial of Brown's Iron Bitters, and report the result. That this well-tried family medicine will thus diminish the quantity of human suffering is an established fact.

Before I had used five bottles, I was well and at work, as hard as any man could. for over three weeks; but I worked too hard for my strength, and taking a hard cold, I was taken with the most acute and painful rheumatism all through my system that was ever known. I called the dectors again, and after several weeks, they left me a cripple on crutches for lite, as they said. I met a friend and told him my case, and he said Hop Bitters had cured him and would cure me. I poohed at him, but he was so earnest I was induced to use them again. In less than four weeks I threw away my crutches and went to work lightly and kept on using the bitters, for five weeks, until I became as well as any man living, and have been so for six years since. It also cured my wife, who had been so for years; and has kept her and my children, well and hearty with from two to three bottles per year. There is no need to be sick at all if these bitters are used. J. J. BERK. Ex-Supervisor.

MRS. SOUTHWORTH AT HOME.

In Washington everybody receives, from a cabinet minister to a French cook. It is the order of society, from which there is no escape with honor. The season has opened with the reception of Mrs. Sourthworth. She has written fiction enough to fall a Pennsylvania barn, such as it is, and i her readers amount up into the hund- ume, for 7 days. reds and thousands. Her home, called Prospect cottage, is admirably Tocated to deserve the name. It is on the verge of Georgetown, nestling on a bluff that overlooks the Potomac range of hills and river beyond. Mrs. Southworth has been writing a cheap grade of sentimental literature for the library. nearly forty years, and it will easily be taken for granted that she is an old lady; but with almost hospitable to her many friends. How does she look? She is tall and angular, wears a dove colored suit, a dove-colored hat to match, has a dove-colored complexion and dove-colored hair and eyes. To crown all, she is somewhat unkempt. slovenly, as all literary women are. What more can you expect? When Mrs. Southworth, in the seclusion of her home on the banks of the Potomac, is engaged in the thrilling task of dispencing with an inconvenient lover by morphine or some other accepted agency, how can she be expeted to annoy herself with the details of keeping her house or herself in order? She has servants to look after the house and trusts in heaven to look after herself. On the receptions, the night visitor who wants to drop his incense at the shrine of genius will be most cordially welcomed with ice cream and cake and conversation Mrs. Southworth is an exceedingly modest and obliging old, lady, and takes special interest in the young who display any sign of talent. Her house is a queer gabled affair of very antique pattern. with low ceilings and covered with trailing ivy; the rooms are small and Tew of them, but all is exceedingly tasty within, -veritable sanctum for one whose thoughts and life drift naturally into a literary vein.—[St. Louis Spectator.

TOBOGGANING TRHEMPHS.

The Louisville Commercial's reporter got an interview with the city solicitor of Toronto at the exposition. The solicitor said: "Tobogganing is great sport. My friend Smith had a valuable horse that once made a nale in ten seconds on a toboggan. The animal lost its sight, however, the frost needless cut its eyes out of its head as it flew down hill. The horse had ineautiously strayed to a toboggan hill in the night and had accidentally stepped on one of the slippery things and away he went. There was a slender, long necked hoy who was the skillful tobogganer in western Canada; but he met with a puinful accident that winter that put a stop to favorite sport forever. As lie was going down hill one afternoon he carelessly turned his face to one side, and the wind twisted his whole head square round, so that the eyes looked down the back of his neck, and after lingering several years in a retrospective way, he died insane-his brain was turned."

It is said the comforts and splendors of hotel life in New York are in a measure responsible for its degenerate morals. The husband who is not indebted to his wife for the comforts of his home, does not love her as faithfully as he would do were such the case. The wife, whose time is all her own, and who has nothing to do towards rendering home agreeable, is apt to fill up that time with gossip and frivolous pursuits.
