Various localities in the state were treated to a sight of an aerolite on the 21st inst. The light of the aerolite was immediately followed by a tremendous noise resembling thusder. The display was of extraordinary brightness and beauty.

Another one: Gov. Begole pardoned Timothy Lynch, sent from Bay County in 1874 for attempted rape. Lynca was out on bail pending a decision of the Supreme Court | between the cities of Batavia and Samarand when the finding of the lower court was austrined skipped to Canada.

Rev. Sam. G. Bettes, the peripatetic and acquatic preacher who left Cass City, Mich , last spring on a boat voyage around the world, has reached New Orleans, having sailed 3,500 miles, preached 162 times and converted 376 persons. He comes home by rail.

A fire originated from a defective chimney headway that the city's limited fire protection was unable to check it until about $25,-000 worth of valuable property, was destroyed.

The jury in the case of Wm. G. Emory, on trial in the circuit court of Berrien county for attempting to kill one Ketchum, of Benton township, whom he suspected of seducing his wife, brought in a veroict of guilty, and Emory was sentenced to three years at Jackson.

Private letters received from Michigan people in New Crieaus advise persons to wait awhile before vinting the exposition. Everything is in a disorderly condition now and it will be some time yet before order has been sufficiently re tored as to make a visit at all satisfactory.

-Adrian Times. Tiny Hill, the little infant on exhibition for so long in a Detroit museum died in that city, December 26. Tiny was the smallest child for herage that ever lived, at the time of her death weighing but five rounds and four ounces. The child was born in East Saginaw, and was stolen from its mother by some showmen when but a sew weeks old. The mother atterward regained it, and has since been exhibiting it.

December 25 Gov. Begole has added three more to his hat or pardons. The names of recipients of Executive elemency are: n O. Bemir, convicted at Ionia Fetranty 15, 1881, of murder in the first degree, and rentenced to prison for life; Encs T. Merritt, sent from Newaygo county March 28, 1859, for life for murder in the first degree, and Eddie Caster, who was serving a two years' sentence at lonia for larceny, having been sent from Ottawa county, August 4, 1881. Specimens of mineral slate from the Smith Moore gold find in the northern part of this city were sent to the Chicago smelting and refining company recently, but without any expectation that the result would show that the samples carried gold and silver in paying quantities. The owners of the property were as much surprised as gratified by the returns. An assay made by the assayer of the company shows that the slate carries gold at the rate of $6.18 to the ton, silver twenty-two cents, a total of $6.40 to the ton in these metals. This is, of course, not so richly charged as the quartz rock, but that it can be treated with profit appears from the result of the analysis, and the showing adds considerably to the promising outlook for the find. Some samples of mineral bearinggranite from the same opening gave $2 06 in gold, with no silver .- Marquette

Daniel 8. Peterson saw Judd pick up two shells. Witness had paste tover the spot where the shells were picked up by Judd, but did not see them till Judd started to pick them up. Witnesswore at the examinuation that Holcomb gotthere about noon. To-day he thought it was at 10 o'clock.

Enoch Soucker an attorney of Jackson were driving into town the morning after 8:30 to 9 o'clock, but would no: be positive, as he did not look at his watch.

Delatos Goldsmith told Judd to bave something spread over the carpets to protect them. He also went up stairs and saw a pile of books in the center of, and a pasteboard box in the north end of, the trunk that the boy Bolles claimed to have got into.

Alexander Turner, the Sheriff of Ogemaw county, was the next witness. He went with Sheriff Winney, of Jackson, to Wm. Holcomb's, in Ogemaw county; and found a bullet in a stump. Witness thought it was a 38-calibre, but found afterwards that it was a 32. The detense bay they will prove that it was shot from Dan Holcomb's pistol and thus show it was a 32.

On cross examination witness said the over and the hole looked rather treah and he could not tell whether it had been fired in a year before or not.

E. H. EcGowan said he was at Sammit, Ogemaw county, Oct. 29, 1883, and let Dan Holcomb have a horse to ride out to Murphy's camp to look at some horses he thought of buying. Henry Mitchell saw Dan at the Crouch

William is now living on the Crouch farm. The 8-year old Mabei was put on the stand and told how her paps held Uncle Dan's pistol, and she pulled it off. She had never seen it since, and heard Dan say he had lost it. She went back up north with her rapa ney and Mr. Mollain there After they went away witness showed Baker the stump and where she stood when she fire Dan's pistel, Before they came away the next day her paps and Mr. Baker said that they found some shells down by the lake.

Elmer Terry, the first witness fir the defense December 27th, said two men stayed at the Chapman house, Lansing, on March 30, 1883 One of the men was Hull, a cigar maker He didn't know the other. They registered as Kit Carson and C. M. Allen. Taey came at midnight and went away before witness

Datective James H. Baker swore he had lived in Lansing 35 years. He made the search at William Holcomb's last July for the shells, where Dan had fired his revolver in the preceeding October. "Turn out the gas," said the naturalist and I will show you the latest thing in light: that is,'' he added, "the latest thing in that line in British Columbia.' As the gas went out the speaker unrolled several objects that had an 'ancient and fish-like smell," and striking a match touched one. A moment later a clear, yellow light appeared, issuing from what looked like the mouth of a fish, the candle end of which was thrust into a large bronze candlestick.

"Yes," said the naturalist, "it is a fish and nothing else, no tube nor oil within, only the fish just as it came from the water. Take this paper and read a line and become one of the very few who can boast that they have read by the light of a dead herring "

The light was found equal to that of a candle, and reading by fish light was an easy matter.

"It is curious," resumed the student of nature, "but I have got so that if I should see a man use himself as a candle I shouldn't be much surprised. The use of a fish as a candle I first observed when on the north shore of British Columbia. I made a trip all through the country for the purpose of obtaining a skeleton of the rare rhytina, that was killed off about a hundred years ago, and I ran across other curious things well worth knowing. I had lived in an Indian village nearly a week before I heard anything about the candlefish, and one beautiful moonlight night I was standing on the beach when I saw something that appeared exactly like the reflection of the moon, only it was in the wrong direction. I called the attention of a native to it and it seemed to throw him into the greatest excitement. He cried out "Eulachon!" as hard as he could, and in a few minutes fifteen men were on the shore launching their canoes. There was so much confusion that I couldn't learn what was the matter; so I jumped into one of the boats and off we went. There were two men in each of the canoes but ours. One sat in the stern and paddled, while the other stood in the bow with a curious-looking instrument in his hand that I had not seen before. It locked like an enormous rake or comb, made of a piece of pine at least eight feet long, with a hole for a hand grip at the top, the lower part | God, believe also in the gun-boats."," thinning off to an edge, into which were driven sharp iron or bone teeth from three to four inches apart. The boats were rapidly filled, however, and in an hour the excitement was over, and the canoes were hauled up on the beach by the exhausted fishermen. The next morning early the boats were emptied on the the squaws, who took the entire matter of curing in hand. They seated themselves about their respective piles, and, taking sticks pointed at the ends, rapidly strung the fish upon them by piercing them through the eyes. Admiral Foote and the Gun-Boats. James B. Ea is in the Century.

"In the railway train a gentleman who sat in front of me, learning that I had constructed Foote's vessels, introduced himself as Judge Foote of Cleveland, a brother of the admiral. Among other interesting matters he related an anecdote of one of his little daughters who was just learning to read. After the capture of Fort Henry the squadron was brought back to Cairo for repairs, and, on the Sunday following, the crews, with their gallant flag-officer, attended one of the churches in Cairo. Admiral Foote was a thorough Christian gentlman and excellent impromptu speaker. On this occasion, after the congregation had assembled, some one whispered to him that the minister was ill and would be unable to officiate; whereupon the admiral went up into the pulpit himself, and after the usual prayer and hymn, he selected as the text John xiv. 1, 'Let not your heart be troubled: ye believe in God, believe also ir me.' Upon this text he delivered what was declared to be an excellent sermon, or exhortation, afterwhich he dismissed the congregation. An account of the sermon was widely published in the papers at the time, and came into the hands of the little niece just referred to. After she had read it, she exclaimed to her father:

"'Uncle Foote did not say that right."

"'Say what right?' asked the father,

"Why, when he presched." "What did he say?"

"He said, "Let not your heart be troubled: ye believe in God, believe also in me."

"'Well, what should he have said?" inquired the father.

"Well, he ought to have said "Let not your heart be troubled; ye believe in

May we not describe tact fairly well as the antithesis of clumsiness? Etymologically, as we know, tact is touch, school of fish, called by the natives and it may be called, therefore, the deft way of handling people. Every idle man who is given employment, is given an increased power to purchase merchandise. Thus every idle man who is given employment helps to supply a demand for the labor of some other idle man.

The bread and butter question does not trouble a man with a million or more, though the wheels of labor are cranky. With the man without a dollar it is different. To the one bread comes without labor; to the other labor is bread.

The telegraph reports discoveries of gold and silver in Georgia, a few miles south of Chattanooga. The ore is said to yield $15 in silver and $40 to $50 in gold to the ton, and if the deposits are as extensive as claimed, the production of the precious metals may be brought up to a point to supply all demands for coinage and the manufactures.

The reduction in telegraphic rates has become so marked that the people have virtually been given the adwithout the political manipulation of following diseases: Rheumatism or the lines, to which they would be subjected, if under Government control. With the postal telegraph if is not probable that any lower rates could be given than twenty words between Detroit and New York, for instance, for twenty-five cents, nor is it likely that the service would be any more sufficient. If there were some guarantee that rival lines could be protected against the insatiate appetite of the great monoply, there Notwithstanding the frequent closing of iron mills, and the general dullness, there are here and there signs that the bottom of the depression has been reached, and that we are starting out in a new era of business revival and prosperity. The prices of the various metals, from iron to silver, are steadily growing firmer, and in some of them a slight advance from the lowest point is noted, the only exception being pig iron, which has not recovered from the recent decline. The Burden Steel and Iron works, of Troy, N. Y, have started up again, and several recent suspensions of iron works that were supposed to be of indefinate duration are now announced as only temporary. This is certain, there is no longer an overstock of manufactured goods in important lines, and dealurs are as a general rule carrying light stocks. It is the opinion of many close and experienced observers that only confidence is needed to start the hum of industry and bring prosperity out of depression the country over.

Now comes up a great "kick" from the investors in the scheme who do not make any bones in pronouncing it a snide, and give many different reasons. One prominent man of our village says the promptly done. names of the winner and Joseph Brown, father of the owner, were scientifically stuck in the bottom of the box and that one of these parties could but be successful. CURRENT TOPICS.

B. RAIL, an Adventist prophet of Woohhull, Ill., solemnly announces a general wind-up of the earthly affairs January 5. Persons who have obligations maturing on that day take notice and rest easy.

How much happier we would all be if we only could imitate Gladstone's example, in this one thing at least. He said recently: "I never allow business of any kind to enter my chamber door. In all my political life I have never been kept awake five minutes by any debate in Parliament." 🗼

NEARLY all educators are convinced that the imagination is not sufficiently cultivated in modern school methods. School children know but very few words, have but few ideas, and express themselves with little fluency or grace. To remedy this defect the Life and Adventures of Ribinson Crusoe has just been issued as a school reader by a Boston firm. Notwithstanding its age, this wonderful story still holds its own in the hearts of children, and as a school reader will doubtless be a suc-

FROM New-Lebanon, Columbia county, N. Y., comes the story of the class of a singular and miserly existence of a husband and wife. Mr. and Mrs. Adams both died there recently, their deaths occurring close together. The husband died first. He had for some years kept in the house boards for his coffin. At his death the wife hired a man to make the coffin. He wanted $1.50 for the job, but the economical widow would only pay $1. She died soon after, and then on searching the house $35,000 in government bonds, three bushels of pennies and several bank-books showing thousands of dollars on deposit were found. It is said that for twenty years they had used neither meat nor soap in the house.

To the many who observe the very popular custom of sending cards to friends during the holiday season the following will be interesting:

The idea of Christmas cards, now so popular, originated some eight years ago with Mrs. Olive Whitney of Boston. The lady was accustomed to paint a small rose bud or a single spray of flowers upon a cabinet card. She had never taken lessons in painting, but was gifted with so much talent that the designs sold as soon as finished. Mr. Prang, the chromo man, saw some of Mrs. Whitney's work and engaged her as a flower designer at a salary of $5,-000 a year, with the exclusive right to her talents. Mrs. Whitney has for the first few years completed one design

SINCE the election Grover Cleveland has had babies and pug, dogs by the score named after him, but all these little honors have been cast in the shade by a New York Diamond importer, who has named the largest diamond ever cut in the United States, "The Cleveland Gem," in honor of Mr. Cleveland. The diamond was found at the Cape of Good-Hope, and weighed seventy-eight carats. When cut it will weigh between forty and fifty carats, and will be valued at forty thousand dollars. There is only one other man in the United States who has been lucky enough to have a great gem named after him, and although it could never bring forty thousand if put on sale, it has brought happiness and comfort to more than one man. The gentleman in whose bonor it was named bore the cognomen of Graham, and the world renewned Graham gem has probably done more to make people happy than the Cleveland gem ever will.—Peck's

ALBION W. TOURGEE delivered a would rise in rebellion against the whites of the South. He said that at present eight States with 4,000,000 of white people, centained 4,000,000 colored people, and statistics that the blacks were increasing over the whites at the rate of one per cent a year. Emancialave, nor did they possess a migratory Maine, hundreds of years ago.

disposition. They remained at home, subsisting on small fare and small comforts, but multiplied and increased. The nation took from him as race all he could achieve and gave him only the principles of duty. The Negroes were asked to come to the rescue of the Union in the hour of its peril and 220,000 fought in the uniform of Nation's soldiery. In the South 80 per cent of the colored men were unable to read the ballots which they cast and 20 per cent of the whites were in a like condition. Slavery and rebellion were minor questions compared to what was before the country to-day. It required national action to meet the vast requirements of this important question. The colored men of the South were gathering that spirit of determination and resistance which may be controlled for a few years but which can not be controlled for any great length of time without education. The only remedy was exlightenment and that must be diffused among both whites and blacks, not by charity but by the government.

Romance and Romance in Maine

Although the days are now nearly passed when good people speak disapless importance than other kinds of reading, and the time spent in its perusal as little better than wasted. This doubtless, is true, if by fiction is meant that class of books which deal in improbable characters and events, those which hold up vice to be admired and virtue to be ridiculed; but books of this sort, although far too numerous, are not the kind which fill the libraries of the state and are sold over the counters of merchants. The larger part of our knowledge of the manners and customs of any period or people is derived from stories or romances which deal in the little affairs of every day ife. We know how the people of Greece in the time of Homer lived and worked, from the Iliad and Odyssey, and a much clearer idea of life in the middle ages can be gained from Scott's novels than from the pages of Hume or any other historian.

Every nation has had its own local noets and novelists who have gleaned its peculiarities and woven them into a compact form in which they might be given to the world, and many a heroic dend or picturesque incident would have been forgotten but for their labors. Maine has produced her share of the writers but the literature of the state is not so rich as it ought to have heen, one reason being that so many of her sons and daughters have preferred to let their fancy wander in foreign lands rather than in scenes near at home. Mrs. Stowe has, indeed immortalized Orr's island; Whittier, Longfellow and a host of minor peets have sung the praises of some of Maine's lakes, rivers and mountains: Kellogg has graphically depicted life in Harpswell and vicinity in the early days of its settlement; "Sophie May" has charmed the younger people with accounts of every day life so like their own as to seem real, and other writers, more or less famous, have added to the list, but yet the mention of Maine does not call to mind one-half its beauties of field, forest and plain, or a hundredth part of the romantic incidents or deeds of heroism that belong to its | rains.

The materials for successful romance or song are all here. Village or rural life in New England as depicted by George Eliot, Mrs. Oliphant, or Jean Ingelow is not a whit more interesting than life in a Maine village. The emigrants from Germany, Scandanavia, and other parts of Europe have brought with them to their new homes, their old manners and customs, which have lost none of their homely simplicity or beauty in the removal. The varied industries of the state causes as great a variety in the social life. The early days of the commonwealth furnish incidents enough to fill many a volume; the newspapers of the state, each week, give many an incident that, in the hands of genius, might be developed into a romance. One theme, local wars, we have been happily spared; yet the war of the rebellion came into the state, in everything but bodily presence, and the heroism and endurance of parents who give their sons to their country, and soldiers who left home and all most dear to them to give their lives in the cause, supplies all the virtue and valor without the horrors of war.

An almost unlimited source of poetry is hidden in the Indian names of places in which Maine abounds. Events long past, dimly remembered and half fabulous, have always been favorite themes for song. If the deeds were done by an alien race on home soil, it has only ple glory in the deeds of King Arthur, but they have no better claim on the lecture in Chicago recently in which he British hero than have the Englishmade the prediction that unless the speaking people of Maine on the braves Negroes were speedily enlightened, they of the Penobscots and Tarratines. That vein is seen in Longfellow's "Hiawatha," although that poet chose for his hero a chief of a Western, rather than of an Eastern tribe. The names, which these early residents have left behind them, from Madawaska to Ogunquit will loug serve as memorials of their originators and may, at some future day, serve as a clue to a better knowledge of events, strange, thrilling or pation did not give independence to the pathetic that transpired on the soil of

QUAKING EARTH.

Two Andalusian Cities Badly Thaken.

Many Lives Lost.

The details of an earthquake in Spain on Wednesday night, Dec. 24, have been received and show that it was much more disastrous than at first anticipated. One shock lasted fally 50 seconds, and was 'elt throughout the whole of Spain, tut more especially in Andalusis, where a number of towns suffered se-

At Granada the houses rocked violently and the earth trembled beneath the feet of the inhabitants as they fled panio-stricken form their homes to the fields on the outskirts of the town. Some were wounded while seeing through the streets by falling bricks and cornices, but none have as yet been reported killed. A number of buildings were hadly damaged, and it will require con-aiderable outlay to repair them belove they can be reoccupied with safety.

At Malaga the shock was most disastrously felt. Many houses were wrecked and a number of inmates buried in the ruins. Many persons were killed and large numbers wounded. Those who escaped without injury deserted their homes and camped in the open squares and fields ontside of the town. The resugees were haddled around huge bonfires which were kept burning all night, the weather being colder than usual and all having fled so hastily from their homes that they neglected to provide themselves with heavy clothing. Fainter shocks occurred at intervals during the night which increased the alarm of the people, preventing them from seeking shelter in any of the provingly of fiction, yet a large part of buildings. Large gangs of men are at work mankind continue to consider it as of among the rules of the wrecked buildings, searching for bodies of missing persons. Already a number of bodies have been recovered and many more are known to be sail baried in the debris. The government has sent provisions, clothing, etc., for the relief of the aufferers, and a subscription list has been opened for the same purpose. In Madrid the damage was slight, but the shock was sufficiently selt to trigaten the in habitants. The places of amusement wer quickly emptied of their audiences and th performances brought to an abrupt termination. The scene of the visitation, Granada and Malaga are both large cities in Anualusia, the largest of the ancient divisions of the south of Spain, and now divided into eight provinces, named after their chief tewns, two of which are those above named.

A LATE REPORT.

The details of the disastrous earthquake throughout Spain are arriving slowly and are being gradually published by the order of the government. The accounts received increase the number of fatalities and damages incurred by the Seismic area. The excite men: in Madrid over the news from the south of Spain is intense, as latest reports from Andalusia give harrowing details of death and auffering in that portion of the country. No fewer than in Andalusia were shaken and badly damaged by he prolonged shock which lasted 50 seconds. The sown of Velez, in the province of Malaga, with a population of about 15 000, was half destroyed and many of the inhabitants killed. The work of recovering the bodies preceeds slowly on account of the fright produced by slight shocks which occurred at intervals, and which caused the workmen to move slowly in their undertaking. The village of Albuquero, near Granada, was also half demolished and had time to escape. Arenas del Rey was nearly totally destroyed. Toe number killed is as yet unknown, but 40 bodies have been recovered

Zaforranja was completely wrecked and but few of the villagers escaped unburt. Already the bonies of 12 mer have been recovered from the ruing.

The town of Canillas was also destroyed. The number of persons killed there is at yet unknown, hat it is supposed to be large. Saveral bodies have been taken non the

The town of E tepons also suffered se verely. The dispatches from there mention the fact that the handsome church and municipal and other buildings were cestroyed, ba say that the number of deaths cannot as yet be ascertained. DOINGS IN CONGRESS.

DECEMBER 22. SENATE-Mr. Plumb introduced a bill to establish an additional land district in Dakots. On motion of Mr. Manderson a bil was passed extending to the port of Omaha the provisions of the act relating to the immediate transportation of duti-ble goods. Mr. Blair called up the bill providing for a commission to examine into the liquor traffic. He said it was a bill already passed four times by the Sanate but had not been acted on by the House. The motion was opposed, but the bill was taken up and passed, 24 to 16. Mr. Hale from the committee on appropriations reported with amendments the House bill making a tempo rery provision for the naval service. He explained that the Smate committee had amended the thirty-one day bill by substi tuting for it the provisions of the regular annual appropriation bill for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1885, precisely as the House had passed it last session but modified so as to cover only the remaining half of the fiscal year, the amendments formerly inserted by the Senate relating to monitors and steel crowers being left out. The bill, so far as amounts went, stood precisely on the basis on which the House has passed the original appropriation for the year, in that the Senate maintained its attitude, considering this year's propositions and not those of a former added to the interest. The English peo- | year. He said he would call the bill up tomorrow in executive session. The Senate then adjourned.

DECEMBER 23.

SENATE. -Mr. Vest of Missouri, offered a concurrent resolution providing that the congrassional record shall be an accurate transcript of the debates, and no speech shall be published which was not spoken in the Senate or House of Representatives, and no changes shall be made except verbal corrections by the author, and any speech retained for the correction shall be returned in one week, otherwise it shall be printed from the original notes of the reporter. He stated that in the 46th, 47th and 48th congresses 569 speeches were printed which were never delivered in the House, and 1.183 speeches were withheld for revision and terinied after adjournment. The result was that in some cases 60n.

gress had been compelled to punge from the record speeches making oftensive personal attacks which in fact had never been delivered. The resolution was referred to the committee on printing. Mr. Jonas of Louisiana presented a protest from the commercial exchanges of New Orleans against the ratification of the Spanish treaty. Mr. Hale of Maine called up the House bill making temporary appropriation for the navy, with the Senate amendments as offered by him yesterday. He arain explained that this was substantially the House's own hitl for the balance of the fiscal year. The bill was passed, the title being amended so as to read: "A biel making add.tonel appropriations for the naval service for the final year 1885," and will be sent over to the House for its action to-morrow. Mr. Morgan of Alabama, from the committee on public laude. reported with amen-ments a hill to torfeit lands granted to the New Orleans, Baton Rouge and Vicksburg railroad, In executive session, the House resolution adjourning till the 5th of January was adopted only amending it by changing the date of adjournment from the 20th to the 14th (te-morrow). Tae Senate also in executive seraiou adopted a resolution of investigation into certain Cherokee land sales, and 2 p. m. adjourned until to-morrow. Among other nominations sent in by the President to-day was that of W. B. Thempson of Hudson, Mich., railway mail superintendent, to be second assistant postmaster general. The nomination was confirmed at once without reterence, at the request of Senator Couger and also se a mark of appreciation of Mr. Thempsen's management of the railway mail service.

DECEMBER 24.

SENATE- After-disposing of the morning business the Senate went into executive nes sion. When the door reopened the chair announced his signature to the concurrent resolution providing for a noliday recess. Adjourned until January 5.

House-About fifty members were present when Speaker Carlis'e called the House to order. Mr. Raudall of Pennsylvania called up the adjournment resolution and moved concurrence in the Senate amendmen', which provides that the S na'e r cass thall begin to-day (Wednesday) and last until January 5, 1885. Probabilities of a Hard Fight.

The upper peninsula this winter will probably furnish three of the most important Michigan cases that will come before congress, viz.: forfeiture of the lands of the Marquette, Houghton & Ontonagon railway, the Ontonagon & Brule railroad lands and the lands of the Lake Superior ship canal company.

These corporations are powerful, and the lands in question are very valuable. Concerning the lands of the Marquette. Houghton & Ontonagon the sentiment which are to conclude with a here where the lands are is strongly in favor of their non-forfeiture.

the land would be nullified by the forfeiture. The road is owned principally and controlled by Boston capitalists, and has made itself unpopular during the past ten years by its almost extortinate rates, which were of course accepted, as it was the only road through the Marquette iron range. The thirty miles of the road were completed in the fall of 1883, from L'Anse to Houghton.

Regarding the grant to the Ontonagon & Brule river road, there is much diversity of opinion, I looks as if each party was striving for the valuable mineral lands of the grant, with chances and rights about equal. The quarrel over this grant was what made possible the nomination of Seth Moffatt of Grand Traverse to congress last September. As a rule the Ontonagon & Brule people are against the ship canal company, and vice

The forfeitute of the grant of the Lake Superior ship canal company's immense and valuable lands is a matter of much greater importance than either of these two. Some of the most valuable mines, mineral lands and timber lands of the peninsula are located upon their grant and the forfeiture question will be hotly contested. A. B. Swineford of Marquette is the originator of this scheme of forfeiture, and has a large and powerful backing. On the other hand the ship canal company has a large backing and an almost unlimited amount of cash. That the company has not fulfilled the conditions requisite to the confirmation of the land parts is well known, yet it is powerful, and unless a land grant forfeiture mania takes possession of congress their fight for the land may very likely be successful.

These three grants and the question of their forfeiture are of great importance to the people of Upper Michigan.

President Cleveland will be accompanied to Washington by his sister, Mrs. Hoyt. Mrs. Hoyt is the wife of a bank cashier in Central New York, whose own home is so happily arranged that she is free to preside over her brother's household. She is a lady of whom nothing but good is spoken, whose manners are frank and charming, and who will preside with dignity and grace at the White House. Her praises are sounded by every one who knows her, and all agree that the governor is most fortunate in having such a relative to aid him in the social duties which will be imposed upon him as president of re United states.

In Northern Siberia when a young man thinks he wants to marry a young woman he arranges to pay a certain sum to her father. Half of this sum he pays down and lives with the family of his lady love for a year. If at the end of that time he still wants her, he pays the other half of the sum agreed upon and gets her. If he doesn't want her he says so and loses the instalment which he first paid.

AN ATTEMPTED BLOW-UP.

A special to the Detroit Post says: A box containing an infernal machine was half opened by one of the sale men in the American tract and Bible sor ety rooms in New York the other day, and it would have exploded but for the bangling way in which the spring had been arranged. Fortunately the men suspected something was wrong about the package and after tearing the pa- tial campaign." per covering from it laid it aside and sent for Anthony Cometock, whose office is in the same building, to examine the package. If he had lifted the lid of the small box within it would undoubtedly have exploded, but his delay in some way disarranged the machinery. Mr. Comstock immediately recognised what the box was designed for and began to tear it apart, prying the bottom off and calmly removing the deadly works within. The box is a square collar box. Complately covering the explosives was a thin piece of picture backing board, on one end of which was a piece of wood one inch square, in the center of which was a fuse surrounded by seven matches. At the bottom was a dever working on a pivot, and a piece of sand paper was so arranged that it would be drawn ever the matches by the pivot and thus ignite them. The fuse ran into a bottle | the artist, the artisan, and the manucontaining about three quarters of a pound of powder, while next to it was an cunce phial of nitric soid. Around all of this stuff was closely packed a quantity of broken glass, mostly in pieces half an inch square. The box was brought tod the store, by a comparative observation. An Exposition for Farmers.

It is proposed by the Southern exposition company to hold at Louisville, Ky., a National agricultural exhibition which shall present all the farming, horticultural, mineral, timber, and live-stock interests in the country. All the great expositions of the world have been devoted to illustrating the progress of the fine arts and the mechanical industries, and the idea of making our agricultural and natural products the chief feature of the proposed exhibition cannot be too highly commended. MR. EDITOR: -- Will you allow me space in your paper to ask whether an important period in the history of our village is not at hand? It is thought by some we had better dis-incorporate, and a petition has been in circulation to that effect, and been quite numerously signed. The principal reason for this action, as I understand, is the expense connected with the corporation proceedings. I am informed we are free from debt, and have in the treasury, in round numbers, about four hundred and fifty dollars. Our lockup and pound are built, and all necessary expenses incident to village regulations paid. We have been in operation less than two years; and I submit, whether, in the favorable of the marriages, births, deaths, and condition of the treasury, we had not better try the experiment a little longer. If it is thought the council has been extravagant elect trustees upon whose purses taxes will draw heavily that they will be more economical, and if some of the officers have not performed their duties, nor lived up to the village ordinance. as we are near another election leave them out, and have elected or appointed those who will live up to their sworn duty. We have in our incorporation act a clause much more the newspaper it is business. People to our advantage than most other villages, providing that the township shall be at most of the expense for bridges within our corporate limits; a provision, which, in all probability, should we surrender our charter and sometime ask for another, we would not be fortunate enough to procure. I have been told by a number who signed the petition that had they ecuted at this office. known the condition of the treasury and understood other things as they do now, they would have done very differently. Individually, in the first place I was opposed to having the village incorporated, and when this petition to repeal the act, was spoken of, thought favorably of it, but upon ascertaining the condition of the treasury, and being satisfied of the very small additional expense it has been in the past, and is likely to be in the future and of the many advantages that may arise from incorporation, I am free to say that dis-incorporation, in my opinion, would be a step in the wrong direction; and I believe many others who favored it at first are of the same opinion, and probably for the same reasons.] have no doubt enterprises have been commenced and capital invested that would not have been done had we not been incorporated. Now, should this subject be presented to the Legislature, and acted upon in accordance with the prayer of the petitioners, how will the $450, the lockup and the pound be disposed of? is a question that should be rationally and satisfactorily answered before so important a matter is allowed to pass beyand our control, hesides will it not be placing our representative in an embarrasing, humiliating and stultified position, to present a petitio to have an act repealed, and that without good reasons, which he labored with so much energy, less than two vears ago, to have enacted?

Did you ever stop to think what a tireless letter writer a good local paper is? Week after week, reaching into year after year, it goes on, telling comings and goings of the people of the town, the business success or failure, accidents, crops, improvements, meetings, revivals, in fact events of all kinds. All is a grist that comes to the hopper of a good local paper. Why, if you were to undertake to write a letter each week to your absent friend and tell half the news that your local paper gives you would soon give up in despair. The supposed pleasure becomes tiresome, the letters grow shorter, farther apart, and finally quit. Why the difference? Because with in a live town recognize this and take pleasure in giving the editor the news items you would never learn of. It you want an absent friend to have all the happenings of the town and vicinity, send him the local paper.-Ex.
