To the World's Exposition.

Arrangements have been made with the Grand Trunk company for a very cheap and pleasant excursion to the New Orleans Exposition, starting on or about the 18th of this month. The beauty of this excursion is that the company furnish a dining and sleeping car for the use of the party along the line. It also sidetracks at the grounds for 10 days and is at the exclusive use of the party for eating and sleeping while there at the small cost of about 25 cents per day. The fare for the round trip is only $25.10, and anyone going on this excursion can be sure of a good time and of going in company with those from near home, which will make it much more enjoyable. To insure a passage you should deposit $10 immediately with F. A. Sigler, Mann Bros. or the Station agent, E. McGarigle.

The Executive Board of the Horticul ucal Society have organized for business and they propose to take measures that will maintain Michigan's reputation as a truit growing state. She has already taken medals on several occasions, notably at Richmond, Va., Chicago, Ill., and Boston, Mass., upon collections of fruit shown in competition with other tates. A party seated in A. J. Pierce's cigar store one evening not long since, figured out what a blacksmith would receive to shoe a horse at one cent for the first nail, and double every nail, eight nails to a shoe. The conclusion reached was that he would receive the nice sum of $42,949,673 95. This reminded Bill Burch, who was present, that thuty years ago he let a farmer have eight chickens to double every year, and he previlds thought it was about time to have a settlement. The matter was figured up, and it olutiand was found that Bill had 17,179,867,264 chick- ury and ens coming, and he says they were worth at least 30 cents each. Figure this up, and Bill owns the whole United States, or $5,153,960,-179 20. Mr. Burch relates this for a fact, and says he has four living witnesses to the transaction.-Coldwater Republican.

The Saginaw Courier has the following curious bit of history: In 1836 Robert G. McKee, who now lives at Eaton Rapids. bought a surveyor's compass of Meneely Oothout, of West Troy, N. Y. He used it resenity from 1836 to 1840 in Cinton Shiawasses, trang on and Ingham counties, in the time surveying and platting part of the city of Lansing with nd made good.

Wolsely says he has no information legal or moral obligation to redeem the regarding the fate of Gen. Gordon, and does trade dellar. Mr. McPherson of New Jersey, not know whether he is dead or alive.

A later dispatch says: There is no longer of Khartoum. Some hopes are entertained that Gen. Gordon may still be holding out in the citadel of the tewn.

Native reports are that the Mahdi had 60.-000 men in the vicinity of Khartoum, and he introduced a number of his emissaries into the city. These emissaries mingled freely with the native troops under Gen. Gordon, and by bribes, threats and working their religious feelings, induced them to mutiny. Beven thousand of the garrison deserted to the rebels, leaving Gordon only 2,500 faithful soldiers. With this small force he attempted to hold the city against the Mahdi's great army, but after severe fighting, in which a large number of rebels were killed, he was compelled to surrender.

Rumors concerning the fate of Gen. Gordon are many and varied, but all agree that the Mahdi has captured Khartoum by treachery. The most reliable reports point to one Faraz Pasha as the traitor. It is said that he, being left in charge of the ramparts, opened the gates January 26 and admitted the enemy. Some rumors state that Gordon. together with a sew Levantines, were cooped up in a church. Others say the Mahdi was seen wearing Gordon's uniterm. A majority agree, however, that Gen. Gordon was killed. A Cairo dispatch says: Rumors have reached here that 2,000 men were massacred at Khartoum. The news of the disaster has cast a gloom gloom over the entire European colony in Egypt. The English garrison now consists of 1,200 men at Alexandria, 3,850 at Cairo, and 150 marines at Suez. There are no forces at Port Said excepting one gun-boat.

The man-of war Monarch is at Alexandria. The council at the War Office late on the evening of Feb. 5, decided to advise the dispatch of 8,000 treops to Saakin immediately. Gen. Stephenson telegraphs that 5,000 men will be needed to clear the road to Barber, as central tribes to join Usman Digma Gen. Stephenson also advises that the present strength of the troops in upper and lower Egypt be maintained and reintorcements drawn from England and India.

Gen. Wolseley has renewed his demand for an expedition to Suakin of 3,000 men under Gen. Greaves.

THE WOOD CHOPPER' CHILD.

The smoke of the Indian Summer Darkened and doubled the rills, And the ripe corn, like a sunset, Shimmered along the hills; Like a gracious glowing spinset Interfaced with the rainbow light Of vanishing wings a trailing And trembling out of sight;

As, with the briar-buds gleaming In her darling, dimpled hands, Toddling slow adown the sheep paths Of the yellow stubble-lands-Her sweet eyes full of the shadows Of the woodland, darkly brown-Came the chopper's little daughter, In her simple hood and gown.

Behind her streamed the splendors Of the oaks and elms so grand, Before her gleamed the gardens Of the rich man of the land; Gardens about whose gateways The gloumy ivy swayed, Setting all her heart a tremble As she struck within their spade.

Now the chopper's lowly cabin It lay nestled in the wood, And the dwelling of the rich man By the open high way stood, With its pleasant porches facing. All against the morning hills, And each separate window shining. Like a bed of daffodils.

Up above the tallest poplars In its stateliness it rose, With its carved and curious gables, And its marble porticoes; But she did not see the grandeur, And she thought her father's oaks Were finer than the cedara Clipt so close along the walks.

So, in that full confiding The unworldly only know, Through the gateway, down the garden, Up the marble portico. Her bare feet brown as bee's wings, And her hands of brier-buds full, On, along the fleecy crimson Of the carpets of dyed wool.

With a modest glance uplifted Through the lashes drooping down, Came the chopper's little daughter In her simple hood and gown; Still and steady, like a shadow, Sliding inward from the wood, Till before the lady-mistress Of the house, at last, she stood.

Oh, as sweet as summer sunshine Was that lady-dame to see, With the chopper's little daughter, Like a shadow at her kuce! Oh, green as leaves of clover Were the broideries of her train, And her hand it shone with jewels Like a lily with the train.

And the priest before the altar, As she swam along the isle, Reading out the sacred lesson, Read it consciously, the while; The long roll of the organ Drew across a silken stir, And when he named a saint, it was As if he named but her.

But the chopper's child undazzled In her lady's presence stood— She was born amid the splendors Of the glorious autumn wood-And so aweetly and serenely Met the cold and careless face. Her own alive with blushes, E'en as who gives a grace;

As she said, the accents falling In a pretty childish way: "To-morrow, then to-morrow Will have brought Thanksgiving day, And my mother will be happy, And be honored, so she said To have the landlord's lady Taste her honey and her bread."

Then slowly spake the lady, As disdainfully she smiled, "Live you not in yonder cabin? Are you not the chopper's child? And your foolish mother bids me To Thanksgiving, do you say? What is it, little starveling, That you give your thanks for, pray

One bashful moment's silence-Then hushing up her pain, And sweetness growing out of it As the rose does out of rain-She stript the woolen kerchief From off her shining head, As one might strip the outer husk From the golden ear, and said:

What have we to give thanks for Why, just for daily bread!" And then, with all her little pride A-blushing out so red-" "Perhaps, too, that the sunshine Can come and lie on our floor, With none of your icy column, To shut it from the door!"

"What have we to give thanks for!" And a smile illumined her tears, As a star the broken vapors. When it suddenly appears; And she answered, all her bosom Throbbing up and down so fast: "Recause my poor sick brother Is askeep at last, at last.

"Asleep beneath the daisies: But when the drenching rain --Has put them out, we know the dew Will light them up again: And we make and keep Thanksgiving With the best the house affords, Since, if we live, or if we die, We know we are the Lord's.

"That out His hands of mercy Not the least of us can fall; But we have ten thousand blessings, And I cannot name them all Oh, see them yourself, good madam-I will come and show you the way-After the morrow, the morrow again Will be the great, glad day.'

And, tucking up her tresses In the kerchief of gray wool, Where they gleamed like golden woodlights In the autumn mists so dull. She crossed the crimson carpets. With her rose-buds in her hands, And, climbing up the sheer-paths Of the yellow stubble-lands.

Passed the march wherein the starlings Shut so close their horny bills, And lighted with her loveliness The gate way of the hills, And his way is grand an I still; But the lark can turn the cloud into A temple when she will!

That evening, when the corn fields
Had lost the rainbow light
Of vanishing wings a trating And trembling out of sight. Apart from her great possessions And from all the world spart, Knelt the lady wife and mistress of the richman's house and heart.

Knelt she, all her spirit broken, And the shame she could not speak, Burning out upon the darkness Erom the fires upon her cheek; And prayed the Lord of the harvest To make her meek and mild, And as faithful in Thanksgiving As the chapper's little child.

"Has she said 'no' to you, John?" she asked presently, wondering how any woman could find it in her heart to refuse the love of so noble a heart.

"I have not asked her," he answered, thut I saw enough to tell me she is not to be mine."

Se Leonard Bryant bade them all good-bye and went his way to prepare a home for his bride.

Margie was very busy after her lover's departure making ready all the garments belitting the adornment of a bride-elect.

Even Clarice was aroused enough to forsake her loved books and take part in this romance in real life; and Vi. stitched industriously and vowed in her impulsive manner never to be married if she had to have so many tucks and frills and puffs upon her own wedding

So the autumn weeks passed rapidly and one golden day late in October, when nature was looking royally lovely, giving to the earth a short season of regal beauty before dofling her gold and crimson, Leonard Bryant came to the farmhouse and bore from it the fairest and sweetest of its inmates. The wedding was very quiet, none but the near neighbors and friends being invited. John Maynard received a business call that took him from home at the time, but his mother was present, and none kissed the pretty bride more warmly, or wished her more happiness, than she. So Margie went to her new, strange life in the city, and the old homestead saw her no more for many, many days.

And then she came alone, her pale, beautiful face, with its large, starry eyes gleaming amid the sombre draperies of a widow's garment. Margie's married life was as a sealed book to those left behind at the farm. Brief letters carried the information that she was well and happy, and for two years the loving hearts that waited for news dreamed of no shadow existing in the sweets. bright sky of Margie's life.

The letters grew shorter and less frequent, giving the merest general facts concerning her manner of existence, and then Mr. and Mrs. Bryant had the wandering life of the pair.

Dr. Lee had passed from life; leaving a legacy of blessing and loving farewell for his daughter; and Vi. had married a thriving young farmer, and the young couple lived with Clarice at the homestead. Near the close of the second year of wandering, a letter, deeply edged with black, came to the little circle at the home. So Margie fell into the old habit of going and often down the lane to the old-fashioned house of her friend, and John fell into the habit of coming up to the farm, as he had done in those by-gone days. He had not been idle all those years, and Margie found a new and strange pleasure in hearing him talk of his busy life and his plans for the future and daily the starry eyes grew brighter, and the fresh color grew warmer on the roundest cheek. And thus another year glided by, and John Maynard felt that existence might bold something for him yet in the future. But he told himself to be patient, not to startle by unseemly haste the perfectness of their intercourse, and so he held tight reign over his lips and actions, and waited for the time when his selfimposed probation should be at an end.

people from their slumbers and, attracted by the bright light of the burning cars, they ran to the bridge and attempted to stay the progress of the flames. The enoil, which could not be turned from its course toward the river, and soon Janeway & Son's immense wail paper factory, close to the river, caught fire. The chief of the fire department, recognizing the dangerous straits in which he was placed, owing to his small force, telegraphed to Elizabeth and Jersey City for assistance, but before steamers from that place arrived Janeway's factory burned to the ground. John Dougherty, an employe, entered the office of this build-Brunswick consolidatid jar company which was soon totally consumed. Next the stream of oil reached the row of dwelling houses on Washington street opposite the two factories, and they burned, together with the hotel adjoining. It is believed they were partly insured. Among the cars burned were two each containing 12 horses. The mystery is that the whole town was not burned. The accident is now said to have been due to the carelessness of the telegraph operator on the east bank of the Raritan, who operated the block signals. He

Not Beneficial in its Effects.

The first case under the law by which a convict may be tried for certain offenses committed while in prison was tried in Jackson recently. One Shannon was arranged on charge of assault with intent to kill one of the keepers. The jury found him guilty simply of assault and battery, and he was remanded to the care of the prison authorities. Speaking of the case the Jackson Patroit says:—So far as its effect on discipline at the prison is concerned the verdict of the jury in the case of the convict Shannon, on the charge of assaulting Keeper Howe with intent to kill, must be exceedingly det rimental. It was in evidence that Shannon had threatened to take Howe's life and the fact that he made the assault in a ferocious manner with a hammer was additional evidence that murder was the object he sought to accomplish. The jury, however, rendered a verdict that he was simply guilty of assault and battery. This reached the ears of the convicts in some mysterious way, and when they had been looked up in their cells yesterday afternoon they induised in a triumphant yell that resounded throughout the institution. The probability is that with this verdict before them as an example of what convicts may expect for committing deadly assaults upon keepers, these occurrences will be hereafter be more trequent. Only last Friday a keeper in the wagon blacksmith shop, named Coleman, was brua convict whom he had reported, but no complaint was made in consequence of the pendency of that suit against Shannon, which was decided yesterday. Of course under the circumstances no complaint will now be made in the case of Coleman. Under Gov. Begole's administration the warden has been greatly restricted in the punishment of refractory convicts, but inasmuch as it seems impossible to reach them through the medium of the courts we should think it proper for the warden to exercise his own juogment and inflict just such punishment as in his own opinion the emergency of the case might demand or require.

Herses That Love Their Master.

On a recent afternoon a team stood harnessed to a light wagon in a stable in Fifty-sixth Street, near Seventh Avenue. The stable is said to have country. Its appearance does not belie the statement. The horses were blanketed. They stood on the clean, matted floor, with their feet close together and their heads hanging in a sleepy manner. Three other horses were drowsing in their spacious boxes. An electric bell struck a sharp note. Every horse in the stable pricked his ears and seemed imbued with new life. Two bull-dogs jumped in front of the massive doors that swing on 150-pound hinges. William, better known as Boston, who has charge of the horses, remarked, "Here he is."

The horse rubbed his head against his master, also seeming to kiss him, and then, when he turned away, snapped with a little show of jealousy at the mare's neck. Hearing the rattle of the har-ness, the man looked around, remark-ing, "He's full of fun." At the same time he places pieces of sugar in each re the horses' mouths.

"Mr. Work, I hear that you have developed some remarkable traits in your horses."

That mare, Regina, hitched with Edward, is very fast. She is a five-year-old. I shall hold her back until she is six, and then

I will let her show what she can do." "I heard that you had a mare that always joined in the circle around the fire and inhaled tobacco smoke ever your shoulder."

"That was old Kate. Whenever she heard us talking she would pound away in her box, and kick something loose if she was not released. When at liberty she would walk up and poke her head in the circle and listen quiet ly to the conversation."

"Do you believe that she understood anything that was said?"

"She appeared to: I think that horses understand more than most people give them credit for. Now, there is a horse in that box yonder that is very fond of the smoke from a cigar. If you were to light one and go in his box he would place his head over yours and take in all the smoke he possibly could. If you were to leave the box he would follow you as long as he could get a whiff of smoke."

CURRENT TOPICS.

Oregon has had a phenomenal experience this winter in the matter of snow. In Wasco county the last twenty days of the old year were marked by an almost continuous snow storm which made a total of 106 inches, which when it had settled down still gave the enormous depth of 60 inches. Railroad and even mail communication was completely blockaded, the only means of transportation being by carriers on snowshoes. The people in the town whiled away the tedious blockade with social intercourse, but the advent of trains and mail matter was hailed with joy.

THREE new telephones invented by Webster Gillette of Ypsilanti, Mich., in position at New York, Meadville, Pa., and Chicago, have been thoroughly tested. Singing, whistling and talking in New York could be heard through the instrument in Chicago. In the Bell telephone there is but one point of contact, while in this there can be used from two to twenty wires. each with a direct battery of two cells and separate induction coil, acting on a single diaphragm. The sound from the wires concentrates on the coil, where it is condensed and transmitted as one sound.

DR. GRAHAM of Louisville, Ky., has just died at the age of 100. He was one of the pioneers of the state that knew Daniel Boone. He has always been well and strong. He never lost a tooth and had only one filled. He did not use tobacco in any form. Within two or three years he was not afraid to try his skill with any one at shooting the rifle. At ninety-four he was able to repeat three pages of Pope's translation of Homer's Iliad, which he had not seen for thirty years. During the war of 1812 he was present at the attack upon the fort on Mackinac island, was captured on the lake by the British, and, subsequently, went to Malden, just below Detroit on the Canada side, where he was captured by the Indians while gathering fruit in the hazel brush. During the night he rubbed his bark fetters loose and got away. Several years later, being again at Malden in search of his fugitive slaves, he was nabbed, but escaped through the intervention of General Ironsides, a halt-brother of Tecumseh. Dr. Graham owned a band of superior Negro musicians and after the election of Harrison he took them to Cincinnati to welcome Harrison to Kentucky. At Cincinnati, the musicians found their way to Canada. Their owners pursued them but failed to recover them.

THE London Pall Mall Gazette, in speaking of the fall of Khartoum, says: of losing a single moment in their fierce rescue of the garrison of Khartoum. The responsibility rests solely with the ministers who refused to allow the Nile expedition to start, in spite of warnings and entreaties, until too late. The vote of parliament in favor of the appropriation of £300,000 for the relief of Gen. Gordon was deferred until August 5. Even then, if the expedition had been sanctioned forthwith, a precious day would have been gained; but it was not sanctioned until August 12, when the government finally resolved it must relieve Gen Gordon. That period of hesitation sacrificed Khartoum. Islam is now victorious. The revolt and fail of Khartoum will permeate the arch of the world, and unless the ministry display boldness and wariness equal to their former dilatoriness, a catastrophe worse than that of Khartoum will follow. England dare not fly before the Eastern foe. It would mean war and mutiny frome one end of Asia to the other. She must reinforce her garrison every- been going the rounds at night whipping it around with leaves and oil and Little where, including India, even if it shall and otherwise outraging persons who fell Knite recovered. Huntley was adopted, be necessary to call for volunteers to do the work. Gen. Earle must advance rapidly to Berber and Metemneh. The Suakin garrison must be reinforced and the road to Berber cleared. Every nerve must be strained to prove that the Khartoum disaster has stiffened the resolution to hold England's flag aloft in the face of every foe. Our duty is not to flinch, but prepare for eventualities, and relieve Metemneh by water. We have failed to save Gordon. We have now to save Stewart.

ROSSA'S TURN.

The Boss Dynamiter Shot by an English Woman.

The Wound not Dangerous, to the Regret of the Woman,

O'Donovan Rossa, the "Irish Dynamiter." was shot on Chambers St., New York, on the atternoon of the 2d. inst., by a woman who gave her name as Yseult Dudley. The first shot took effect in O'Donovan's body and he fell to the sidewalk. The woman continued to shoot until she had emptied her fivechambered revolver. Only the first shot took effect. City Marshal James McAuley was present at the time, and breaking through the growd that had collected even before the shooting was over, seized the woman, who still held the smoking pistol in her hand, and told her she was under arrest. The woman offered no remonstrance, but allowed herself to be taken through the mass of citisens and to the city hall station house. After the woman had been taken away

Rossa attempted to rise and go to his office, bu; he was unable to walk and was taken to the hospital instead. He walked all the way there, a distance of nearly a quarter of a mile. He bled considerably on the way. Once in the hospital he was undressed and examined by Dr. Dennison. It was femind the bullet had entered the back, directly be-low the left shoulder blade. The doctor pronounced the wound not of a dangerous character, and began to probe for the ball. A great crowd of people had followed the wounded man down Chambers street, and b ocked the roadway in front of the hospital after the door was locked behind O'Donovan and his escort.

The woman was cool and collected in her statements. She expressed great regret that one of the five shots had not killed Rossa, and wished that she could have fired five more at him.

Rossa says:—It was a premeditated affair, and this woman was simply the engine by which the castardly work was accomplished.

GENERAL NEWS.

DYNAMITERS IN NEW YORK.

An attempt was made early Sunday morning Feb. 1, to blow up the dry goods establishments of Garry Bros. and Ridley & Co. on Grand and Allen streets in New York city. Dynamite was used, and the force of the explosion was felt a long distance away. The walls were badly wrecked and glass in the buildings several blocks away was broken. Several slight injuries were received by persons in the immediate vicinity, but no serious injury was received by any one. The have been arrested and lodged in jail. It is not perpetrated by discharged employes of one of the dry-goods firms named.

A HORRIBLE CONFESSION. A Cincinnati Times - Star special from Petersburg W. Va., says: Sunday, Feb. 1st. Elijah Wesse, aged seventy-five, was arrested for the murder of Hiram Ault, in October, 1861. Wease was arrested at the time and confined in jail at Moorefield. He was then removed to Harrisonville, but was released Nobody can accuse our gallant troops | by the Union soldiers. There were only two witnesses to the murder, George Reed and Anne Gun. Reed was race against time in hastening to the killed in the war. Anne Gun disappeared. Wease went to Virginia and stayed till two years ago and then came back. Recently a sister of the murdered man visited in the West. She there met Anna Gun and was told the story of her prother's murder. She came back and had Wease arrested. The fact of his former arrest was proven and he was bound over to the Grand Jury. Later in the day the astounding discovery was made that Wesse was captain of a band of desperadoes, who committed robbery and murder. Twelve murders are charged to the old man. He has conferred to six, among others that of his own son. The method was to take the victim to a place called the "Leap" and throw them over. At the place designated remains of five men were found at one time. Pray were discovered by dogs bringing the leg and arm of a man home. The murderer was not suspected then. The men killed, with two exceptions, were killed because they were Union men. He also confessed burning many houses. The whole country is aroused. Owing to the lack of telegraph facilities names and full details are difficult to get at. The Wheeling Register published nearly a two-column article and says "Wease killed a dozen men. The names of but three are given."

LYNCH LAW NEEDED.

A Louisville Courier-Jourier special tells of the doings of a band of Ku-Klux or reguunder their ban. About 70 of them sur. and last fall when Sitting Rull and troupe or a samuy named Forbes, but the Forbes brothers fired upon them and succeeded in running them away, killing James Shiley, one of the regulators. It is said that the regulators have whipped helpless women, and have by threats run parties out of the country, and not long since whipped an old man named Tom Green nearly to death because he didn't go with his family. Bud Graham was also whipped so that it is thought he will not recover.

STATE MILITIAS.

The secretary of war has transmitted to congress a statement showing the number of ganized militia service is 7,811; the non-commissioned officers, privates, etc., number 85,979; the total number of unorganized militia men, (or men available for military duty) is 6,580,506. New York ranks first in number of organized men with 11,686 men; Pennsylvania second with 8,380; Florida third, with 7,283 and Ohio fourth, with 5,843. In Georgia, Mississippi, Arkansas, Tennessee and Oregon there is no organized militia

QUEEN VICTORIA'S OFFER.

The Queen has expressed a desire to contribute from her private purse a sum sufficient to supplant and make effective any reward which the government may decide to offer for the arrest and conviction of criminals guilty of the recent dynamite outrages. The announcement of this wish on the part of Her Majesty has so stimulated popular feeling that it is believed the immediate result will be the orginisation of a national fund for the object sugnested by the Queen BAD FOR CUNNINGHAM.

Cunningham, the dynamite suspect, now confined in Clerkenwell prison, was unexpectedly brought into the examination room of the jail the other morning and confronted by a number of persons, some of whom at once identified him as the man seen by them acting in a suspicious manner in the neighborhood of the underground railway explosions. Among those who confronted him were a policeman and brakeman connected with the underground railway. They positively identifled him having traveled on the train from the ear window of which the dynamite package was thrown on Jan. 2 last, between the stations at Gower street and Kings' Cross, which partially wrecked several of the railway carriages and destroyed a part of the wall of the tunnel. Several "socompliees" have been arrested.

The adoption of this course doubles the cost of transportation. To take care of this mass of silver Scoretary McCalloch recommends the appropriation of $500,000.

A PENSION DECISION.

Assistant Secretary Joslyn, of the interior department, has rendered a decision in the case of the application for pension of Martha Lawson, a minor child of a deceased private soldier. The question presented was whether the soldier at the date of his death was in the line of duty, and the decision broadens damage to the buildings is estimated at sensibly the construction heretofore placed about $2,000. Four suspicious characters on the pension laws. Mr. Joslyn says: In this case it appears that the soldier was believed that the explosion was planned, if granted permission by his superior officer to go to his home for the purpose of seeing his wife, who was very ill. After his arrival at his home his wife died and immediately after her death and before her burial the soldier started back to his company, and while on his way back was captured by the enemy and taken to Andersonville prison, where he died, September 13, 1864. His absence from his regiment was authorized: he attempted to return and was prevented by an act of the enemy from doing so. After the expiration of his furlough, which must be considered to have expired at the time when he would have arrived at his company, if he had not been captured, which was within a few days. Certainly, after he had been entered upon the government records as a deserter, he was no longer on a furlough, but was either a deserter or in the line of duty. The evidence shows that he was not a deserter, and therefore he was in the line of duty. The soldier's disease, which resulted in his death, having been received while in captivity, and after the expiration of his furlough, and while it was beyond his power to return to his regiment by reason of such captivity, his disease and death should be treated as incurred in

The horses were killed instantly and the sleigh totally demolished. The injured were conveyed to Oak Harbor with their dead companions. The driver of the team, and in fact the whole party, either failed to hear the rumble and warning whistle of the train or did not see it, for the horses mounted the track just at the moment the train was dashing by. No blame is attached to the rathroad company.

DEFIANT REBELS.

Gen. Wolseley telegraphs from Korti to the Wer Office on the 6th that a courier has arrived from the British camp near Metemneh, who reports that the rebels at Metemneh have become defiant since hearing of the fall of Khartoum. The courier alse says an attack on Gubat-may be looked for at any moment, as the rebels expect reinforcements from Khartoum. Lord Wolseley states that he will remain quiet pending further orders from the government. At a Cabinet meeting on the morning of the 6th, to consider what course should be taken in regard to the present Egyptian amergency, it was de-cided to send telegraphic orders to India for the dispatch of Indian troops to Suskim and meanwhile reinforce the garrison at Suakim by drafts of troops from England and the Mediterranean. The consensus of opinion in the ministry is in favor of a strong, active and vigorous policy. The ministry sanction any demand of Lurd Wolseley which will aid in the defeat of the Gordon, if alive, or wreak vengeance upon the Arabs, if slain. Gen. Wolseley says the necessary operations will be difficult and hazardous, and that it will require five weeks to reach Khartoum.

The Management of Diphtheria Sanitary Engineer.

There are many cases in which at first a skilled physician can not say postively whether it is contagious diphtheria or a simple non-specific inflammation with which he has to deal, and this uncertainty may continue for a considerable time: If Dr. Jacobi's views are correct, and he is certainly very high authority on this subject, diphtheria may exist, especially in the adult, in a chronic form, not greatly disturbing the health, or at all events not preventing the person so affected from going about and performing his or her usual duties, and yet making the secretions from such person capable of conveying the disease.

The precautions to be taken in the management of a well-marked case of diphtheria are, or should be, generally known; they have been published as chill culars by many health boards. through the secular and medical press. and may be summed up as follows: Isolate the patient in an airy room having the least possible amount of furniture. especially that which is upholstered, and having no carpet or curtains. Disinfect all excretions and secretions, and especially those from the throat, nose, and mouth, and all articles soiled by mandi and will secure the release of Gen. them, promptly, while they are yet moist, and thoroughly. A Washington in a Poor-House

The Adairsville correspondent of the Franklin Favorite says: "Robert Washington, a relative of the first president. was accidentally killed by a train on the Memphis branch of the L. & N. railroad some time in the mouth of Feb. ruary, 1883. His administrator sued the corporation for damages, and the matter was compromised last week in the Logan circuit court by the company agreeing to pay $1,000 damages. Mr. Washington was old, decrepit, deaf and almost blind, and at the time of the accident was tresspassing on the company's property, and as he was an inmate of the county poor house it is reasonable to suppose he left no estate on which to administer other than the prospective assets arising from a damage suit. Whether Mr. Washington left any heirs at law to inherit his posthumous estate we are not aware, but the railroad will have to pay the little thousand all the same. The tendency of the judge and jury and all the machinery of our civil courts is now dead against corporations, and oh, don't the lawyers know it? But the saddest part and most disgraceful of the whole Washington affair is the fact that the state government or the federal should suffer any of the name and blood of Washington to go to the poor house or even to remain in decent poverty."

Sleigh Bells.

Popular Science Monthly.

How many boys and girls know how sleigh bells are made? The little iron ball is too big to be put through the holes in the bell, and yet it is inside. How did it get there?

This little iron ball is called "the jinglet." When you shake the sleigh bell it jingles. When the horse tro the bells jingle, jingle, jingle. In make ing the bell this jingle is put inside little ball of mud, just the shape of the inside of the bell. Then a mold is made just the shape of the outside of the bell. This mud ball, with the jingle inside. is placed in the mold of the outside, and the melted metal is poured in,. which fills up the space between the ball and the mold. When the mold is taken off you see a sleigh bell, but it will not ring, as it is full of dirt. The hot metal dries the dirt that the bell is made of, so it can be shaken out. After the dirt is all shaken out of the holes in the bell the little jinglet will still be in the bell, and will ring. It took a good many years to think how to make a

EXCITEMENT IN ROCHESTER.

Widespread Commotion Caused by that Remarkable Statement of a Physici an

The story published in these columns recently, from the Rochester, N. Y., Democrat, created a deal of comment here as it has elsewhere. Apparently it caused even more commotion in same paper shows:

Dr. J. B. Henion, who is well-known not only in Rochester but in nearly every part of America, sent an extended article to this paper a few days ago, which was duly published, detailing his remarkable experience and rescue from what seemed to be certain death. It would be impossible to enumerate the personal enquiries which have been made at our office as to the validity of the article, but they have been so numercus that further investigation of the mbject was deemed an editorial neces-

With this end in view a representative of this paper called on Dr. Henion at his residence on Andrews street, when the following interview occurred: "That article of yours, Doctor, has created quite a whirlwind. Are the statements about the terrible condition you were in, and the way you were rescued.such as you can sustain?"

"Every one of them and many additional ones. I was brought so low by meglecting the first and most simple proptoms. I did not think I was sick. It is true I had frequent headaches; felt tired most of the time; could eat nothing one day and was ravenous the next; felt dull pains and my stomach was out of order, but I did not think it meant anything serious. The medical profession have been treating symptoms instead of diseases for years, and it is high time it ceased. The symptoms I have just mentioned or any unusual action or irritation of the water channels indicate the approach of kidney disease more than a cough announces the coming of consumption. We do not treat the cough, but try to help the lungs. We should not waste our time trying to relieve the headache, pains about the body or other symptoms but go directly to the kidneys, the source of most of these ailments."

"This, then, is what you meant when you said that more than one-half the deaths which occur arise from Bright's disease, is it Doctor?

monster, and the slightest symptom3 should strike terror to every one who has them. I can look back and recall declared at the time were caused by paralysis, apoplexy, heart disease, common complaints which I see now were caused by Bright's disease." "And not all these cases have simple symptoms at first?" "Every one of them might have been cured as I was by the timely use of the same remedy. I am getting my eyes thoroughly opened in this matter, and think I am helping others to see the facts and their possible danger also." Mr. Warner was visited at his establishment on North St. Paul street. At first he was inclined to be reticent, but learning that the information desired was about Bright's disease, his manner changed instantly and he spoke very earnestly. "It is true that Bright's disease had increased wonderfully, and we find, by reliable statistics, that from '70 to '80 its growth was over 250 per cent. Look at the prominent men it has carried off: Everett, Sumner, Chase, Wilson, Carpenter, Bishop Haven, Folger, Colfax and others. Nearly every week the papers record the death of some prominent man from this scourge. Recently however, the increase has been checked and I attribute this to the general use of my remedy." "Do you think many people are afflicted with it to-day who do not realize it. Mr. Warner?"

"A prominent professor in a New Orleans medical college was lecturing before his class on the subject of Bright's disease. He had various fluids under microscopic analysis, and was showing "Brown's Brenchial Troches" have been thorthe students what the indications of oughly tested, and maintain their good reputathe students what the indications of this terrible malady were. And now, centleman,' he said, 'as we have seen whealthy indications I will show you how it appears in a state of perfect health,' and he submitted his own fluid to the usual test. As he watched the results his countenance suddenly changed—his color and command both left him and in a trembling voice he said: Gentleman, I have made a painful discovery; I have Bright's disease of the kidneys.' And in less than a year he was dead. The slightest indications of any kidney difficulty should be enough to strike terror to any one."

"Yes. I have chemically analyzed it and find it pure and harmless." We publish the foregoing statements in view of the commotion which the publicity of Dr. Henion's article has caused and to meet the protestations which have been made. The doctor was cured four years ago and is well and attending to his professional duties today. The standing of Dr. Hanion, Mr. Warner and Dr. Lattimore in the community is beyond question and the statements they make, cannot for a moment be doubted. Dr. Henion's experience shows that Bright's disease of the kidneys is one of the most deceptive and dangerous of all diseases, that it is ceedingly common and that it can

Russian Espionage.

At masquerades in Russia the ladies often venture to give their tongues more freedom than is anywhere else allowed in that despotic country. Pre-suming to be protected by the disguise of their dominoes, some have even found out the Emperor himself on the dancing floor, and pretending not to know him, talked of the affairs of the Government and condemned the abuses Percherons are the most highly prized which the public feel more than they dare to complain. Experience shows that this liberty is very hazardous, and the arm of Russian power has a grim way of terrifying the detected critic whom it does not choose to destroy.

A noble lady of St. Petersburg had been imprudent enough to converse with a foreigner on the institutions of her country, and comment severely on some of the most galling evils of its government.

Retiring from the ball where she had committed this indiscretion, instead of being driven home, she found herself set down at the door of the Bureau of Secret Police. Being ushered into the official presence, she was summarily informed that she was condemned to exile in Siberia, and that she would be taken there without delay.

Without being allowed an interview tunity of exchanging her gay costume for a more suitable traveling dress. she was hurried into another vehicle and driven off to her destination in the innospitable wilds of Russia's penal set-

The carriage in which she was now placed was kept entirely closed, and the officer who accompanied her, while he to the monotony and protracted suffering of hurrying along in a close carriage, abandoned to her own melansholy thoughts, was the stopping at cer-tain stages, where the horses and guard were changed, and where she was allowed to light a few minutes (after being blindfolded) and enter a rude wooden building, or post-house. In one of these, at the end of the first day's jourwas hurried on, during a second and third day, with an ever-widening distance, as she believed, from friends and hope and all that made life supportable. It struck her, however, as she grew more calm. that there was a remarksble similarity between the various posthouses at which they stopped, and blindfolded as she was, she contrived to se bus, diarrhoea, coughs, colds, catarrh, crete a ribbon torn from her dress in a and disorders among children, makes crevice of the wood during one of these it an invaluable remedy to be kept alstoppages. Hope revived in her breast on discovering, at the next stoppage, that they had come back to the same post-house; and pursuing her observations, she at length satisfied herself that she was being driven all the time between two stations.

She kept the discovery to herself, and at the end of the third day, on the bandage | cing removed from her eyes, she found herself once more in the Bureau of this wonderful medicine. of the chief officer of the secret police, having in reality spent the previous three days in driving back and forth on the great post-road within a few miles of St. Petersburg. She was now dismissed with a warning not to give her tongue the same dangerous license again, or she would very likely realize the frightful exile to which, for a time, she had supposed herself to be doomed. -Stories from Russia.

Facts Relating to the Draft Horses of

While some people in America call all horses imported from France Normans, it is a fact that there is no breed in France called by that name by the French people; the name Norman, ot all French races, and all departments of France go to the Perche for stallions to improve their local breeds. The Percheron Stud Book of France is published under the authority of French Government and admits only animals of pure Percheron origin and birth, established by their pedigrees and the pedigree of their ancestors for generations. The fact that no recorded pedigreee can be furnished with any of the more common breeds of France, explains the eagerness of many importers in insisting that all horses imported from France are alike, and that pedigrees are useless.

It is a well known fact that what a man gives for a horse over from $500 to $800—the price of a good grade is paid for purity of blood; and where with a single friend, or even an oppor- the sellers are not able to give the recorded pedigree of the animal sold as evidence of additional value, he has no right to ask it. With these facts before him, no intelligent man will huy a horse imported from France unless he is recorded with his pedigree in full in the stud book in France, and the importer furnishes with his bill of sale prevented communication with any one | the French certificate of registration, without, resolutely declined all conver-sation with her. The only alleviation a large number of horses of unknown blood being imported to this country and sold as pure bred.
