Mrs. John Green has our thanks for a box of the largest strawberries we ever saw. Some of them were 4x4x4 inches in circumference, and deliciously flavored. We sent part of them to Michigan, to show the Michiganders what we can do out here in the mountains, in the way of fruit raising. —Williamsburg (Ky.) Times.

Saginaw Evening News: A western editor has recently discharged all his compositors because he thinks the wages demanded an imposition, and therefore intends doing his own type setting. In the next issue of his paper he says: "owing to the exorbitant wages demanded by printers we have concluded to do our type setting in the future; and although we never learned the business! we do not see any great mastery in the art."

Patrick Chne died Thursday, May 28, of encephaloid tumor, at the residence of John Monks. His sickness began about a year ago and had been looked upon by many as quite a singular case. A post mortem examination was held on Friday morning by Dr. H. F. Sigler, of this place, assisted by Dr. DuBois, of Unadilla, by which it was learned that directly under and attached to the right wing of the liver was a tumor which would weigh at least ten pounds; another about four inches in diameter was attached to the intestines on the same side, and a small one protruded from the top side of the left wing of the liver, while numerous other small lumps were found about the body. An irregular shaped tumor had also grown from the left side of his face and neck which extended outward about four inches and upon the shoulder another was found. Deceased was 52 years of age and a bachelor. The funeral services were held at the Catholic church Saturday morning and the remains were taken to Bunkerhill for interment.

The Eagle will Scream

And The Flag Will Wave

AT PINCKNEY!

ON SATURDAY, JULY 4TH, 1885.

As per previous announcement a Fourth of July meeting was held at the Monitor House on Friday evening last, a soliciting committee was appointed and the meeting adjourned to last evening, when the committee announced that $136.50 had been subscribed and there was hopes of making it $150. Adding to this amount the licenses that will be received the total will probably be pretty close to $200—enough to make a celebration of interest to all. An executive committee of five, consisting of W. P. Van Winkle, L. A. Richards, J. Winchell, J. McGuiness and J. L. Newkirk, was appointed. W. P. Van Winkle was elected president of the day, and J. H. Hoag marshal.

It was thought best to give some good prizes in base ball and other sports that will induce good clubs to come here and make it a day of interest to visitors. The executive committee will meet on Friday evening to appoint further officers and committees and make such other arrangements as may come before them and in the meantime will be glad to receive suggestions from any who are interested.

Now, there is no reason why we can not have a glorious old celebration here on Saturday, July 4th, 1885, and show to all that true patriotism exists in our midst; that we do not forget the hardships and bloodshed endured by our forefathers to buy for us this glorious boon of independence and freedom. Let us all work in harmony and strive with a will to make the 109th anniversary of the dawning of our Republic a day not soon to be forgotten. To this end we extend a hearty invitation to all in the neighboring country, villages and cities to come and sojourn in Pinckney on this great National Holiday and enjoy it as a true American citizen should.

MICHIGAN NEWS.

Happy Molony.

Among other presidential appointments made a few days ago was that of John P. Molony of Detroit, as collector of internal revenues for the first district of Michigan, vice J. H. Stone removed.

Caged at Last.

A correspondent of the Detroit Post writes from East Tawas, May 30 as follows: The notorious Hank Farrington was arrested by the sheriff and his deputies this morning on Charity island and is now occupying the cell which was built for him eight years ago in Tawas city jail. He and another man, supposed by some to be Wilson, who is wanted in Detroit for killing a policeman, have been skulking around the lake for the last few days in a skiff, using a blanket for a sail. When they saw the officers making for the island the supposed Wilson took to the woods; old "Hank" stood his ground, but offered no resistance. They were camped one night on the Dead Sable near Au Sable. The citizens were very much excited when it became known that Farrington was around, and every person who met Judge Tuttle, who happened to be up there—wanted him to cause the man's arrest, as they were afraid he intended to carry out his threat of killing some of them. Yesterday the judge ordered the sheriff to arrest him on the charge of assaulting with intent to kill Henry Nye, when Farrington was in jail waiting his trial for murdering Steward. Nye was jailed for Smith. Farrington made an attack on him with a knife and came near killing him. Farrington was tried in a justice court and convicted. If he should be released on the charge of murdering the authorities will give him a dose of that. The old charge has been hanging ever since.

Daring Desperados.

Word was received at the Central Station in Detroit a few days ago that a Grand Trunk freight train bound for Detroit had been taken possession of by a gang of five men who were running it to suit themselves. The assistance of the police was asked, and Sergt. High, accompanied by ten patrolmen, immediately went to the Detroit, Grand Haven & Milwaukee railroad depot at the foot of Brush street, where an engine and a caboose were ready for them. They started at once to meet the train, but were too late to be of any assistance. The freight left Port Huron about 11:30 o'clock and the five men boarded it between that place and Mt. Clemens. They told the conductor not to interfere with them, threatening his life if he did. The latter, however, managed to telegraph to Mt. Clemens asking the sheriff to meet the train there. That officer was on hand with another and an attempt was made to arrest the gang. While one of the officers drew a revolver which he placed at the head of the ringleader, the latter pulled a pistol from his pocket and put the officer to flight. The gang ordered the train to proceed to Detroit, and in the meantime the engineer, brakeman and conductor were kept apart. The former was guarded by two of the men in the engine and the other three took care of the conductor and brakeman. Communication between them was forbidden, and they were told not to move. At one time the engineer was on the point of seizing a wrench when one of the men who kept his eye on him put a revolver to his head and threatened to shoot him if he moved. At Fraser station the conductor was compelled to leave the train, and when about two miles from the junction the men got off and walked along the track. They are unknown and are reported to have been well dressed.

Clinton Doane, an apicalist of note in this state, reports that a large number of his trees were destroyed. He owned about 100 colonies last fall. Mr. Hutchinson, prominently connected with the State Bee-keepers' association, however, has saved nearly all of his, he having covered them with about two or three feet of earth last fall.

The Honduras tropical fruit company held its annual meeting at Grand Rapids recently. This company owns 150 acres of banana trees near Tela, Honduras, where 100,000 cocoanuts have been gathered since March 1. The company has a lease of 12,000 acres of government land for 30 years, which is known as the National Coca.

The southeastern soldiers' and sailors' association, embracing Lenawee, Hillsdale, Washtenaw, Monroe and Branch counties, will have its annual encampment at Devil's lake, Lenawee county, for three days, beginning Aug. 28. O. A. James of Hillsdale G. A. R. post, is president of the association.

A short time ago Chas. G. Gay, auditor of the Marquette, Houghton & Ontonagon railroad disappeared. A few days ago his body was found north of the Protestant cemetery in Marquette, with a bullet hole in his temple, and a pistol clutched in his hand. The coroner's jury returned a verdict of suicide while temporarily insane.

Doctors Ranney and Post of Lansing, who offered their services to the Russian government at the time of the threatened war, have received word that to be eligible to such service they who have a diploma from the Russian college; that their ignorance of the Russian language would be a serious drawback, and that owing to the large number of Russian surgeons available their chances of acceptance would be very meager anyway.

William Sussex was shot by Sylvester Cochran near the county house, four miles northeast of Jackson. Sussex, in company with several others, was trying to frighten Cochran, who lived alone, and is an old miser. That made Cochran believe they were going to rob him and he fired Sussex's body full of lead. Sussex lay all night in a clover field and was found half dead the next morning. A physician was sent for. The officers are investigating the matter.

The ten miles of track running between Buchanan and Berrien Springs, constituting what is known as the St. Joe valley narrow gauge railroad, has been sold to Walworth D. Cray who made the purchase in the interest of Baltimore parties. The company will be thoroughly reorganized immediately, and the work of changing the road from a narrow to a standard gauge, also of extending its limits south to South Bend, Ind., and north to Lake Michigan, will be in full blast inside of the next 30 days.

James Way, the 12-year old son of James Way, a millwright, was drowned while bathing near Grand Rapids, on a raft, on a recent afternoon. He was with a number of smaller boys and was taken with cramps in three feet of water. His companions were so scared that they made attempt to rescue him except by reaching sticks to him, although they could easily have waded to him. His body was recovered forty-five minutes later by some men who were called, but life was extinct.

A bed of solid salt thirty-four feet thick at a depth of 2,027 feet yielding one percent of brine has been struck in Manistee. This is the largest salt well in the world, being nine inches from the first 600 feet to caving rock, then a seven-inch hole through caving rock a distance of 1,000 feet, then a five-inch hole to the bed of salt. This well in twenty-four hours will produce sufficient brine to make 200 barrels of salt, which will net the firm about thirty-five cents per barrel. This makes eight salt wells completed and three more are being put down.

A nest of thieves has been discovered in Monroe which accounts for the many burglaries and depredations on freight cars which have been committed for the past year or more. Stories told by school children led to the search of a house occupied by James E. Navarro, situated in the Third ward where there was discovered all kinds of stolen property, some of which was missed upwards of a year ago. Navarro has been arrested but was released on bonds of $1,000. One Thomas J. Armstrong, who haunts from Montreal, has also been arrested and is now in jail. It is hoped this will break up the gang.

Upper peninsula miners and mine owners intimate that the passage of the Brant bill, making it unlawful to employ persons in a mine unless the underground workings are connected by at least two shafts not less than 100 feet apart (an exception being made for miners working by open pits), would shut out of every ten copper and iron mines now at work in Michigan. They claim that the Calumet & Hecla is at the back of the bill, the introducer of which knows nothing whatever about mines, and who, as an alleged labor representative, should not lend himself to a measure which would throw so many men out of employment.

The affairs of the bankrupt firm of ex-senator Thomas W. Ferry and his brother E. P. Ferry are almost settled. E. P. Ferry says: "I have turned over to the eastern banks all the real estate and property held by us in the state, outside of the E. P. Ferry lumber company at a valuation of $100,000—just the figures I proposed. The property includes timber lands in Oshtemo, Ottawa, Muskegon and Newaygo counties, timber on White river and Black creek, the city property in Grand Haven and village property in Montague. This wipes out most of our indebtedness to the eastern banks. For the rest they are willing to wait without security. They offered to accept this amount in receipt for their claims in full, but I do not care to take advantage of their professed kindness, as I intend to pay up everything at 100 cents in the dollar and will do so if given time. The creditors are very well satisfied, and it gives me great satisfaction to be able to straighten out matters."

England and Russia Agree Upon the Boundary Question.

Foreign News in General.

The Daily News of London announces on the highest authority that Russia's reply to England's counter-proposal has been received in London. The reply, it says, involves the acceptance of the proposals and practically settles in a satisfactory manner the whole question of the Afghan boundary. Both Maruchak and Zulfikar remain the possession of the ameer. The main features of the work of delimitation have been finally fixed and the boundary commission will settle details. Negotiations have been conducted in a most friendly spirit on both sides.

The London Standard's St. Petersburg correspondent says the following is the exact state of the Afghan frontier negotiations at the present time. The Ameer surrenders Pendjeh for Zulfikar. The question is unsettled as to whether the Zulfikar pass shall form a part of the boundary or remain wholly in Afghanistan. Russia insists that Meruchak belongs to Pendjeh. England objects and makes the retention of Meruchak a sine qua non. This difference of opinion is now the main difficulty.

In the house of commons on the 11th inst., Lord Harrington, minister for war, stated that the government had definitely decided to abandon the plan of advance on Khartoum. The British troops would be concentrated at Wady Halfa and Assouan. Suakim could not be evacuated, and an arrangement could be made to garrison the place by the troops of some civilized power. These changes in the original plan of operations in the Soudan would make it unnecessary to push forward the railway from Suakim toward Berber.

WITNESSED AGAINST.

A brave baritone voice was heard among the roses and syringas at the Lilies; and the tall, handsome girl, pulling pearly clusters of the Baltimore Belle from its vine, could not but listen:

"Tis well to be gallant and gay,
Tis well to be tender and true,
But you'd better be off with the old love
Before you are on with the new."

Leslie Darrell curled her red lips with a heightened color, but did not turn her beautiful head one inch, although she knew John Maddern was waiting for a glance; and she carried from the vine as many roses as her slender fingers could close around, yet never once turned her face toward the spot under the locust tree, where the young man leaned and watched her.

Was it mere caprice? John Maddern knew that his sweetheart was a little capricious; but beauties were always spoiled, he argued, with a tender smile.

To-day there was a lurking uneasiness in his heart. Leslie's rich old uncle and his adopted son had come from Florida the day before. Did handsome Adrian Delafield see how beautiful Leslie was? Her cousin, she called him. Cousin, forsooth! That graceful, Spanish-looking fellow, of seven-and-twenty, was no kin to the aged, eccentric, misshapen dwarf, who, rolling in riches, had taken a whim to adopt him as his heir.

One would think there would be a ruffling of feathers in the dove cot of the Lilies at the intruder, since Leslie had always been considered Luther Delafield's heiress, and Leslie was her grandmother's idol; but how the intruder had disarmed all resentment with his smooth tongue and charming manners!

"Who was the good looking fellow?" he had heard him ask Leslie.

With that air of quiet indifference, Leslie had replied, without a tinge of tell-tale color:

"Mr. Maddern is one of our old neighbors."

Old neighbor, indeed! He had been wild about her ever since the Darrells had come to the Lilies. There had only been stately Madam Darrell and the sweet, dying girl, Aida, at first—these two and their servants.

He had never known what ailed Aida Darrell, but she was fading, like a flower from day to day. Before the year ended the young sister was called from school to the funeral.

He had been commissioned by Madam Darrell, with whom he was a favorite, to meet her at the train.

What a flashing, impetuous, dazzling young creature she was! They had softened the blow for her. He did not know that her lovely sister, Aida, needed no anxious thought of her young heart—was beyond pain, in a casket of lilies—but her pitiful ignorance made his heart ache while he wondered at her beauty.

When he saw her again the bright impetuosity was gone, the young face clouded with weeping, but the charm the girl had cast over him stayed. He loved her.

After that she had remained at the Lilies. It was two years ago. He had come to know him well in all the changes of that time. Did she care that he loved her?

There was always a difficulty in getting Leslie to be quite serious, but there was a certain shy uplifting of the dark eyes which he had come to consider quite his own—a smile he believed to be his only—and it is easy at five-and-twenty to hope.

Adrian Delafield did know that Leslie was beautiful, having good eyes and a taste similar to most men's. He surveyed the dark lustrous eyes and peachy cheeks quite at his leisure, and it was he who put it into Luther Delafield's head that Leslie must go to the White Mountains with them in August. Leslie accepted the invitation with a girl's love of novelty, and Madam Darrell consented.

She liked John Maddern, but she was old enough to be wise, she argued. People always needed money whenever they married, and Leslie had better marry where the money was. Compared to Luther Delafield's half a million, John Maddern was poor.

The latter felt all this, though not a word was said; and he was proud, and would not beg for Leslie's love, since she, too, seemed careless and indifferent.

So, one fine summer day, the party departed for the White Mountains, and he held his peace with what grace he might.

The trip was to be made as extensive as possible, and Adrian Delafield was the most delightful of companions, knowing the legend of every waterfall, the best ascents, the loveliest retreats. Such days of enjoyment, such hours of sweet surprises, Leslie had never known.

And one evening by Echo Lake she looked up into Adrian Delafield's face, and out of the fulness of her heart, innocently said:

"Aren't you happy?"
It was enough. The young man watched the white hands.

"I never was so happy in my life,

Leslie! Who would not be, here, with you?"

For one little instant Leslie shrank from the vehement declaration. Every heart knoweth its own secrets, and if there was a bondage all unacknowledged, it was a vague and sweet one, and left the girl unsuspecting that her glad, free way might be perilous to another man.

But her kind heart shrank from the giving of instant pain, and whether Adrian Delafield suspected the truth or not, he was no novice in women's hearts, and pursued his advantage.

Leslie could not be insensible to the gentle deference, the gallant protection constantly offered her; and since the trip gave Adrian Delafield, in the accidents of travel, every advantage, the chances grew fast in his favor.

The lover present hid the lover absent from her view. And at eighteen, perhaps women are apt to be inconstant. Step by step the man of the world advanced, until he believed he needed only her promise to make Leslie his own.

And Leslie—she seemed in a glorified world, where there was neither sorrow nor pain. All the bright surrounding scene glowed in a rose-color. To see beyond the present was impossible.

They stopped, one day, at an old farmhouse, with quaint, diamond paned windows. Leslie fancied the wainscoted rooms and the old garden of hollyhocks and fragrant southern wood, and waited in the sunny sitting room, like one in a pleasant dream, for her dinner.

Her uncle and his adopted son had gone to make sure that their beautiful carriage horses would receive the best of care.

Suddenly the wind blown boughs of the door yard cherry tree parted, and let a shaft of sunshine upon the diamond panes of the window, and Leslie saw writing there, and rose to read it.

Scattered by a diamond were the names "Adrain Airlie" and "Aida Darrell," and a date was added.

The room reeled around, but the evidence was before her eyes. Her host—a garrulous, common place little man—strolled into the room and observed her occupation.

"Wonder if the gentleman'll remember when he wrote them names. Lem-mee; 't was nigh three years ago. I knew him the moment I laid my eyes on him. I'm powerful good at recollectin' faces. You're not like the other one. She was smaller an' fairer, though not any better lookin'." 'Twas a diamond ring he writ 'em with—a mighty fine one."

Two shadows had paused in the doorway, as Leslie turned.

You would not have known the girl she was so white and stern.

"Your name—was it Adrian Airlie?" she demanded.

No answer; but there was guilt in the man's face.

"Yes," said her uncle, "his name was Airlie before he took mine."

For one little moment Leslie looked into the shallow shrinking black eyes. Then she turned away disdainful as a princess, and drew out her watch.

"Will you take me to the station in time for the train, Mr. Mudge? Yes, dear uncle, I must return home. No persuasion would induce me to stay here."

One evening John Maddern strolled sadly into the garden of lilies. A tall girl rose up from a rustic chair.

"John!" she cried gladly.

Soon they were walking arm-in-arm under the locusts in the twilight.

"I never told you, John, but my sister Aida died of a broken heart. Long ago when my mother was estranged from her parents because she married against their will, we lost father and mother, and were left unprotected for."

"Aida was but sixteen. She went into a rich family in New Hampshire as governess, while I was tossed from pillar to post by indifferent friends—a troublesome little imp, they said."

"It was up there that Aida met Adrian Airlie. She was very pretty then, when in health. They were betrothed. She wore his diamond ring. Poor Aida! so lonely, so loving!"

"He was only amusing himself. He left her to break her heart. Grandma did not know when she found us and brought us home at grandpa's death. She needed us as much as we needed her. She had a fine house in the city, but she brought Aida here, seeing her so delicate."

"No, she never knew! Aida wrote it all out in a letter, and left it for me. Oh, I cannot tell you how I have wept over that letter. He was all her world, and she hoped so that he would come back to her."

"I can understand how bright he made life for her for a little while, and then he left her—nothing. Aida would have lived to be happy, but for his selfishness and cruelty. When I think that I might have loved him, it seems as if I should die of shame!"

"Don't blame me too much, dear. I have not seen a great deal of men, and this one had more charms than any other I ever met. Yet to-day I hate him—hate to the core a nature all selfishness and insincerity!"

"Thank God, I found out before too late! John, if I have given you any pain, will you forgive me?"

And John Maddern knew that the girl that he took into his arms was all his own.

The United States produces forty-eight bushels of cereals for each person, as against the raising of eleven bushels for each person in Great Britain and Ireland.

In looking about for help the coming season, bear in mind that poor workmen are apt to ask as big wages as good ones, although they may be not worth half as much. Discriminate between the two classes, and pay according to actual worth.

It is generally best to cut all the wood wanted for each year's fuel from one division of the woodlot, cutting everything close, and protecting the sprouts from cattle. All will then grow up together, thickly, trim and straight. The less valuable can be checked by sprouting off in August. In about fifteen years there will be a strong growth again, fit for many uses.

There is nothing that farming so much needs as more brains and brain-work in studying the necessities and capabilities of the farm, and in systematically planning its work, and then tenacity in intelligently working out these plans. Thought, system and persistence are the foundation pillars of successful farming!

We quote the following remedy for chapped hands from The Boston Journal of Chemistry for J. H.: Eight ounces glycerine, two ounces water, one of starch, one of arnica tincture. Heat the glycerine water and starch until it becomes a transparent mass. When nearly cool add the tincture of arnica, and perfume with oil of rose. If desired, it can be colored with tincture of alkanet.

At a meeting in Canada a speaker asked what crop the farmers of the country considered to be the hardest on the land, whereupon the Toronto Globe says, "there were cries of Oats from all parts of the house." Mr. Mills asked if it was not a fact that farmers generally sowed oats at the end of a rotation on land that would not produce other cereal crops; and if it were not true that oats would thrive where most other crops would not. He said it was perhaps true that oats were harder on land than wheat, but not so much so as was generally supposed."

Cookery.

ORANGE PIE.—Grated rind and juice of two oranges, four eggs—save whites for frosting—one cup of sugar, one tablespoon of milk, one teaspoon of corn-starch, butter the size of an egg.

ROAST SPARE-RIB.—Take a nice spare-rib with part of the tenderloin left in; season with salt and a little pepper, sprinkle with sage or summer savory; put it in a pan with a little water; baste often and roast until nicely browned and thoroughly well done.

ROAST LEG OF PORK.—Cut a slit near the knuckle and fill the space with sage and onion, chopped fine, and seasoned with pepper and salt, with or without bread crumbs. Rub sweet oil on the skin to prevent blistering and make the crackling crisp; the rind may be scored about once in half an inch. If the leg weighs seven pounds it will require three hours roasting. Serve with apple sauce.

PREPARING TRIPE.—First have the tripe washed very clean; have ready a kettle of boiling water, cut the tripe up in small pieces, dip for one or two minutes into the boiling water one piece at a time, take out and scrape with a knife. Put a board into the sink so it will be inclined, on which to scrape the tripe. It is very quickly done in this way.

For a good, hot, bread cake, take two tablespoonfuls of Indian meal, two of molasses, one not at all heaping, one of soda, one and a half teaspoons of buttermilk, a good pinch of salt; thicken this until it is about like a thick paste with rye flour; bake in moderate oven for thirty-five minutes. Another way, both recommended by an excellent authority, is to start with a pint of wheat-bread sponge. Mix with this two quarts of Indian meal and water enough to wet it; then stir in half a pint of wheat flour and a tablespoonful of salt; let this rise, then knead it well and put it in tins; when light bake it for an hour and a half.

The Application of Method.

Method is the oil that makes the wheels of the domestic machine run easily. The master and mistress of a house who desire order, must insist on the application of method to every branch and department of household work. To be well done, a thing must be done at the proper time and in the proper way. There must be a time and a place for everything, and everything must be in its proper time and place. Nothing is more fatal to home comfort than the habit of dawdling, of lingering over a little task in a desultory and indolent spirit, of going from one bit of work to another, and finishing neither. Example is better than precept; and if the rulers of the household display a vigorously active spirit, all who serve under them will be animated by it.

House Plants.

Dryness of the air is the chief obstacle to successful window gardening. Plants succeed much better in the kitchen than in the parlors, as the air is charged with moisture from the cooking, etc. If the house is heated by a furnace, there should be a pan for evaporating water in the furnace, kept well supplied. If stoves are used, keep vessels of water on them. Dust is injurious to plants. Much may be prevented from settling on the leaves by covering the plants with a light fabric whenever the rooms are swept. All smooth-leaved plants, like the ivy, camellias, etc., should have a weekly washing with a damp sponge. The others may be placed in a sink or bathtub, and given a thorough showering. Water should be given as needed, whether daily or weekly. Do not water until the soil is somewhat dry. Keeping the earth constantly wet soon makes unhealthy plants. Let the water be of the same temperature as the room. Hanging plants dry out rapidly. Plunge the pots or baskets in a pail or tub of water, and after they have ceased to drip return them to their places. The so-called green fly or plant louse is easily killed by tobacco water. Apply this when of the color of weak tea. Red spider is very minute and works on the lower side of the leaves. When these turn brown the spiders may be suspected. Give frequent showers, laying the pot on the side, and apply water with the syringe. Scale insects and mealy bug are best treated by hand-picking before they become numerous. Chrysanthemums, when through flowering, should have the stems cut away and the pots of roots taken to the cellar. The pots of bulbs which were placed in the cellar or in a pit for roots to form may be brought to the window and as they grow give an abundance of water. If needed, support the heavy flower spikes of hyacinths by a small stake.

The Marriage Life.

The marriage life, says Sir Richard Steele, is always an insipid, a vexatious or a happy condition. The first is when two people of no genius or taste for themselves meet, upon such a settlement as has been thought reasonable by parents and conveyancers, from an exact valuation of the land and cash of both parties. In this case the young lady's person is no more regarded than the house and improvements in purchase of an estate, but she goes with her fortune rather than her fortune with her. These make up the crowd or vulgar of the rich, and fill up the lumber of the human race, without benevolence toward those below them or respect to those above them.

The vexatious life arises from a conjunction of two people of quick taste and resentment, put together for reasons well known to their friends, in which especial care is taken to avoid (what they think the chief of evils) poverty, and insure to them riches, with every evil besides. These good people live in a constant restraint before company and too great familiarity alone. When they are within observation they fret at each other's carriage and behavior; when alone they revile each other's person and conduct.

The happy marriage is where two persons meet and voluntarily make choice of each other without principally regarding or neglecting the circumstances of fortune or beauty. These may still live in spite of adversity or sickness; the former we may in some measure defend ourselves from; the other is the portion of our very make.

How to Cure Beef so it Will Keep Until July.

My plan is to cut my beef into suitable pieces for the cook. Soak all bloody pieces over night in cold water. For 100 pounds of beef I make a brine of eight gallons of water, four quarts rock salt, pour pounds brown sugar, one large spoonful saltpeter. Boil, skim and cool; sprinkle a little salt in the bottom of the barrel; pack the beef edge-wise (but not too tight) sprinkle a little salt and sugar over each layer of beef and turn the cold brine on it. If you do not take from it often give the barrel a shake once a week, as that will keep the brine from becoming stagnant. If any scum should arise remove it before you remove the weight or disturb the beef. In the month of May remove the beef, scald and skim as before, and repack with rock salt and sugar. If you draw from it often enough to keep the brine well stirred up, you will have as mellow, sweet beef at the end of fifteen months as the first week.

For Fair Reform.

Mr. J. W. Newcomb, Kenton, Ohio, uses very plain language in a column and a half of The Farmer, apropos of the annual fair of that State, a subject which is still discussed in the local papers. To say nothing of the saloon business; the licensed boarding-house appears to have been kept "for the privilege of fleecing the public;" at least one of the side-shows was little short of obscene, and on the whole the management was "all wrong." Instead of "promoting husbandry and kindred interests" the exhibition "seems to be the source of evil, and that continually, and few mitigating circumstances. It is the headquarters of roughs, gamblers, pickpockets, confidence men and all who live by their wits from the hard earnings of—well, let me say, fools. Why are they suffered to cumber the grounds, making a Babel of confusion? The fair was not instituted for any such purpose. For a consideration the board licenses them to ply their trade, which is plunder. If the quiet farmers cannot meet and interchange views without being crowded and hustled and their rights invaded, let them stay at home."

The closing sentence of the above suggests the remedy for such condition, if no other is within reach. Let self-respecting farmers, who value the future of their children, and all right-thinking people, refuse to countenance such exhibitions, either in Ohio or any other State, by keeping away from them.

Tobacco Growing in Wisconsin.

From the Country Gentleman.

Few persons have any idea of the huge proportions of the tobacco interests in this portion of Wisconsin. A few years ago the tobacco crop was confined to a very circumscribed locality; now it is an overspreading, constantly increasing crop. A few years ago the revenue was comparatively insignificant, benefiting a few individuals only; now tobacco is the staple crop of this portion of Wisconsin. The 1884 crop was about 7,000 acres, for which we will, in round numbers, receive $2,500,000. The tobacco warehouses in Janesville, and Edgerton, fourteen miles west, built in the past three years, will aggregate $100,000. Besides the warehouses, there have been innumerable tobacco sheds erected on the various tobacco plantations in the neighborhood. The crop of 1884 is nearly all sold; quite a large amount has been already shipped. Most of the crop was cured in good condition, some of the slovens being the only ones who brought ill-conditioned tobacco to market.

Curing Hams and Bacon.

Mr. William Crozier's method of curing hams and bacon is as follows: When the meat has been properly cut up it is well rubbed with salt and left on the benches to drain for 24 hours. This removes the moisture from it. Seven-and-one-half pounds of salt, two-and-one-half pounds of brown sugar, and four ounces of salt-peter, are then put in as much water as will dissolve them completely, and two ounces of Cayenne pepper are added. The liquid is boiled a few minutes, skimmed, and set aside to cool. Meanwhile the meat is rubbed with a dry mixture of the same, and is closely packed in the barrels or tubs, and the pickle is poured over it until it is covered. In six weeks it is cured and ready for smoking. It is smoked with hickory brush-wood or corn-cobs, or both, one hour a day for ten days. The fire is made outside of the smoke-house, and the smoke is carried in by a flue, so that it is cooled and does not warm the meat. After ten days the meat is rubbed with pepper and is ready for sale, or, if to be kept, should be packed in close boxes with wheat chaff or cut straw, and kept in a dry, cool place.

Judge Thomas M. Cooley, for twenty years on the Supreme bench of Michigan, and a well-known writer on legal topics, will retire from the bench at the close of the present year, when his term expires. There is a very general disposition among the legal fraternity and leading men of parties to secure Judge Cooley's renomination by both parties, but he now positively declines to serve longer.

PINCKNEY DISPATCH.

J. L. NEWBERRY, EDITOR AND PUBLISHER.

Pinckney, Michigan, Thursday, June 4, 1885.

Luck attends General Wolseley. He has finally escaped from Egypt. He is now on the sea, headed for England. The troops he left behind him are dying by the score.

Magnanimous treatment of north-western Indians will be both creditable and profitable to the Canadian Government. The half-breeds had just complaints to make. The revolt was a blunder. But these people have already paid dearly for their rashness.

It has been fully shown that Louis Reil is a citizen of the United States. But we do not see how this helps him at the present crisis in his career. He may be hanged, all the same, if the Dominion Government is imprudent enough to take his life in the face of the protest of the French population. But the chances are it will be found convenient to adjudge him crazy.

Immigrants are landing at New York by the thousand every week. Those who have money do wisely to come to America. There are innumerable opportunities for engaging in business, though profits are small. There is plenty of cheap land in the West. But just now the moneyless immigrants strikes the country at a bad time.

History is repeating itself in the Southwest. Savage Apaches are out on a thieving and killing expedition in Arizona and New Mexico. Troops are after them. Cowboys are also on the warpath against the red devils. The passes into Mexico are guarded. Extermination is the cowboy cry. The fighting will be fierce, and a sudden reduction in the Indian population is probable. These annual outbreaks justify the rage of the people of the raided localities. It would seem that only the most extreme measures will meet the case.

The Americans who went to Puerto Barrios, Guatemala, under contract to work on a railroad, fell among ruffians. The testimony of several who were lucky enough to escape is to the effect that the builders of the Puerto Barrios & Guatemala Railroad instituted a system of quasi-slavery. The laborers received worse treatment than cattle deserve. They were forced to work when weak and ill from lack of food. They were left uncared for when prostrated with fever. They were swindled out of their wages. By a rascally scheme of over-charges and false accusations they were kept in the service of the company, bound as with chains. Our Government should investigate this barbarism. American citizens in any other country are supposed to be under the United States Government if they do not voluntarily forfeit their right to the name American. Is this a fact or is it a fiction?

M. de Lesseps predicts the completion of the Panama Canal in 1888. He is one of the most self-reliant and sanguine of men. He has accomplished surprising feats of engineering. Suez Canal, his greatest work, was a wonderful achievement. But it was a trifling affair in comparison with this Panama project. Recent advances from the Isthmus tend to create the impression that M. de Lesseps professes an unwarranted degree of faith in the early success of his enterprise to wed the Atlantic and Pacific. That the canal will be built, now that it has a beginning, no one doubts; but there is reason, perhaps, to seriously doubt if De Lesseps will live to see it completed, even though he may remain in flesh till the dawn of the twentieth century. Immense obstacles have been encountered. Three-fourths of the estimated cost of the canal has already been spent, and yet practically the whole work of construction is still in the future. The surveys and other preliminaries are finished. The dirt has been disturbed along the line to some extent. Quite a deep ditch appears in places. But the mighty difficulties of the jungles, the turbulent changes and the 260-foot summit at Culebra, which can be overcome only by the force of indomitable energy and an enormous expenditure of money, are yet to be touched. For the sake of his reputation, De Lesseps ought to revise his prediction of a wedding of the waters in 1888.

A great change has taken place in the Treasury in the past three years. The immense surplus has dwindled materially. There is no reason to complain now of a plethoric condition or the Nation's finances. The steady process of reduction has brought the surplus to a point below which it will doubtless be dangerous to go. One result of the recent Treasury exhibit is that leading "tariff reformers" have put on their thinking caps. They begin to see the possibility of disaster in the policy of radical "reform." A renewal of the Morrison raid on the tariff, with free trade in view, would be striking a reckless blow at our industries and the Federal finances. During the last fiscal year there has been a vast falling off in the revenues, due to tariff reduction and business depression. It is estimated that when Congress meets, at the beginning of December, the surplus will not exceed $25,000,000—the smallest sum held for many years. This fact contains a warning. It points to the necessity of conservatism and economy. With the exercise of ordinary prudence in appropriations, the danger of an embarrassed Treasury is of course remote. But the situation is such as to forbid any tampering with the tariff in a way to unsettle business and cause further depression. Business interests are sensitive. The finances require delicate manipulation. Any aggressive and radical "reform" operations at this juncture would almost inevitably lead to serious entanglement, involving an indefinite continuance of the industrial paralysis, probably a general financial disturbance, and a worse depression in the business world than now exists. The next Congress will have need to exercise extreme caution. Mr. Carlisle and the entire free trade group understand that. It is believed they do not wish to embarrass the country or the Administration. All will be well if they read the signs of the times correctly. Caution is the word.—Times Star.

BRIGHTON SAYINGS.

From the Citizen.

Brighton township contains 96 dogs. The twelve-year-old daughter of John Hacker died Sunday. Dogs killed three sheep for Isaac Stanfield a few days ago.

Mr. R. L. Reed, of this village, who has been visiting at Harrisville for some months, died at that place Tuesday morning, at the age of 74 years.

DEXTER CLIPPINGS.

From the Leader.

Wm. Moore and Geo. Adams left for Kansas City last Monday.

Mrs. Olive Howard died at her residence, in the township of Webster, May 15, 1885, aged 21 years.

A new school-house is talked of in fractional district No. 8, townships of Sylvan and Lima.

Joseph streeter, of Lima, lost his residence by fire on Thursday night, but most of the contents were saved.

STOCKBRIDGE NOTES.

From the Sun.

John Flora, our landlord, fell off the platform of the Ryan House Monday, fractured a rib and perhaps the bone of his wrist.

Elihu Rice, an old resident of Stockbridge, died at the residence of his son-in-law, S. O. Irish, on Sunday, aged 83 years.

Great improvements have taken place upon the public square. A petition was given to the town board to remove all obstruction to be removed, and they appointed C. W. VanEtten, L. F. Morgan and C. E. DePuy to act as committee to remove all rubbish, and to request Mr. Kelley to remove his car. The truck and litter being removed, over 100 maples and elms have been set out. Though late in the season, so much original soil was taken up on the roots, it is to be hoped with careful attention many of them will live. Some person ought to be paid for attending to these trees until they get a start. The township board have decided to erect a substantial fence around the public square. This is doing what ought to have been done long ago. The original intention of the donor of this ground was to make it a pleasure spot where people would delight to go and enjoy themselves, and it seems those hopes are to be now realized. Much credit is due the committee for their prompt action in planting the trees, and we must not forget to compliment everybody for their hearty co-operation in the good work.

HOWELL COMMENTS.

From the Republican.

An oleaginous phized peripatetic umbrella mender opened up shop on our sidewalks last Friday to quite a business.

Lyman VanCamp, of Deerfield, takes the cake. He has recently brought out and applied for a patent thereon, a device by which railroad cars can be automatically coupled to each other as well at an angle of forty-five degrees as upon a straight track, or if one car is lower than another the coupling is made the less effectual. The chief merits claimed for this device are that the old link and pin as well as the draw-head that are now in use, need not be thrown aside but can be used with perfect success in connection with this vast importance to railroad men. When the cars are to be uncoupled the operation may be effected either from the sides or top of the car.

From the Democrat.

Richard Morgan will open a meat market in the basement under Hickey & Goodnow's store in a few days. This will give Howell her usual quota of markets—four.

The other day "Dob." Peavey captured a mud turtle with the figures 1866 cut on its top shell, while on its under shell, "R. May—1876" had evidently been cut ten years later. Mr. Peavey also marked the turtle and let it go again.

Edward Runtly appeared before Justice Riddle Monday, on charge of felony, and was bound over to the Circuit Court for trial.

John Gregory, a fine young man, formerly of this place, and son of the late J. B. Gregory, has been ordained Baptist minister, and is now preaching at Parvillion, Ill.

Sermon To My Boy.

My boy, when you desire to commit any wrong in your basement have some one attract attention by proclaiming your virtues from the house-top.

When you make up your mind to call a man a liar, always pick out some fellow you can lick.

When your pail of milk is spilled don't sit down and cry, but go for a fresh cow and refill your pail.

When you decide that the world owes you a living, pull off your coat and take it out of the world's hide.

When you think the world cannot get along without you, pull a hair from your head and see if it makes you bald-headed.—Exchange.

TIMELY TOPICS.

THE universality with which Decoration day was observed this year is evidence enough that the brave boys who lost their lives that the union might be preserved, are not forgotten. All hearts united in paying tribute to our soldier dead, and over their graves was erected a new altar on which the fires of a holy, true patriotism, will burn brighter as the years pass by.

IN Philadelphia, the other day, a man in a warehouse was sprinkling benzine on some furniture to kill moths, when there was a sudden explosion, which wrecked the building. This should be a warning to many families who use benzine for such a purpose. Benzine ought never to be exposed in an open vessel, or sprinkled or poured, inside of any building, especially if there is a fire or a light anywhere in the building. All such operations should be performed in the open air, removed from fire or lights.

HISTORY is repeating itself in the Southwest. Savage Apaches are out on a thieving and killing expedition in Arizona and New Mexico. Troops are after them. Cowboys are also on the warpath against the red devils. The passes into Mexico are guarded. Extermination is the cowboy cry. The fighting will be fierce, and a sudden reduction of the Indian population is probable. These annual outbreaks justify the rage of the people of the raided localities. It would seem that the most extreme measures will meet the case.

PRIE, Pa., is agitated by a singular death. Some time ago one Adam P. Harley, a prominent Odd Fellow and Knight of Pythias, was pronounced by the physicians dying of consumption. He thereupon submitted his case to a faith or prayer cure organization; and, to everybody's astonishment, he got up out of bed and went about the city proclaiming himself cured, and lauding the prayer cure as the cause of his recovery. This gave the faith cure a boom, and many sick people came forward to be treated. A few days ago, however, while Harley was engaged in prayer for the candidates for the prayer test, he suddenly died of his disease, and much excitement followed.

THE war in Egypt having enormously increased the price of gum arabic, so largely used for confectionery, as also used in many of the arts, there is a search for substitutes. It is said that a substitute for confectionery, which is equal to gum arabic in all qualities and superior in flavor, has been found in the gum which exudes from peach and plum trees. This may be cheaply gathered by children. After purification, its native flavor can be readily removed, or enough of it may be left to give a pleasant suggestion to the palate. It is said that confectioners who have tried this substitute are highly satisfied with the results of their experiment, which promises to add a new and increasingly valuable product from American orchards.

A TEST suit has been begun by a body of Sabbatharians in Massachusetts against the Old Colony railroad company, for running trains on Sunday. The suit is based on an ancient statute which prohibits unnecessary travel on Sunday. The company says that it runs no unnecessary trains on Sunday. Travel must go forward on that day to some extent, for many purposes. Their trains carry people to and from cities to attend church; doctors for the sick; sick people going home; and many who for various reasons cannot and will not stop on Sundays. As to freight trains, they say they move none but cattle and stock trains, and perishable goods, on Sunday, both of which they claim to be necessary and merciful. They aver that every railroad company in the country would be glad to stop its trains on Sunday, if it were possible; that the roads run just as few trains as they can on that day. But travel cannot be wholly stopped; the mails cannot be stopped; perishable goods cannot be destroyed by delay; stock cannot be allowed to suffer; and the courts would hold a company responsible for damages caused by a total stoppage. The case will be, it is supposed, carried to the highest court for a decision, and its result will be looked for with much interest.

A FALLING BUILDING.

Four Persons Killed, and Several Seriously Injured.

A three-story frame tenement house in Jersey City, N. J., occupied by five families, collapsed the other morning, and four persons were killed. Barney, Nellie and Mary Anderson, aged 9 years and 7 years and 3 months respectively, were all smothered in bed. Michael Webb, aged 15 years, had his head crushed. John Coyne, aged 38, an insurance agent, was badly injured. Nine other persons, hurt more or less seriously, were cared for by neighbors. The building was known to be insecure and was to be repaired shortly. Fortunately no fire broke out in the ruins. The firemen and police at once engaged on the work of clearing away the debris.

GENERAL NEWS.

TWENTY-TWO LIVES LOST.

The steamship City of Rome, arrived in New York, reports that on May 25, at 4:31 p. m., during a dense fog she collided with and sunk the French bark George John, which was lying at anchor. She rescued two of the crew, but the remaining 22 were lost.

BLOODY APACHES.

The Apaches are on the war path in New Mexico, leaving a bloody trail behind them. More than 50 citizens have been killed in one locality, and everything belonging to settlers is wantonly destroyed. Sheridan thinks the Indians will be subdued soon, but that vigorous methods must be adopted at once.

STORMS IN TEXAS.

Portions of Texas have been visited by another severe storm. A number of lives have been lost. T. A. Deminghoff, German, and his wife and three children, were drowned. Six miles south of the city a family of six Negroes were drowned. A number of houses and five of the eight bridges spanning Waco creek within the city limits, are washed away. The damage to farms and crops along the river and creeks is very great.

DIG BEAR'S BUTCHERY.

Gen. Strange's column reached Fort Pitt, and Inspector Peters, with 20 mounted police, has arrived in Battleford from his command and reports Fort Pitt burned. The body of Policeman Cowan was found there with the heart cut out and impaled on a pole. Inspector Peters discovered at Frog lake the remains of the people massacred there by Big Bear's braves, and one body found in a well is supposed to have been that of Gowanlock. The remains of Mrs. Marchand and Patsford were found much charred in the cellar of a burned house, and in the woods near by were the remains of Delaney, Quinn and Gilchrist.

SUCH HONESTY IS RARE.

A man named Snyder, who belonged to a New York regiment during the late war and who has been drawing a pension of $72 per month, called at the pension office and requested that his name be taken from the rolls and payment stopped. The only reason he gave for his singular request was that the government had already done enough for him. Commissioner Black says a similar case was brought to his attention some time ago. A Kentuckian requested to have his pension stopped and a considerable sum which he had not drawn returned to the treasury, as he believed he had fully recovered from his disability.

A REVENUE REPORT.

The collections of internal revenue for the first ten months of the fiscal year ending June 30, 1885, as compared with the collections during corresponding period of the fiscal year ended June 30, 1884, were as follows: From spirits, 1884, $3,104,740; 1885, $36,129,745; decrease, $33,025,005. From tobacco, 1884, $21,349,893; 1885, $21,417,233; increase, $67,340. From fermented liquors, 1884, $14,327,807; 1885, $14,338,735; increase, $11,735. From miscellaneous, 1884, $519,863; 1885, $226,802; decrease, $293,061. Aggregate receipts, 1884, $9,102,822; 1885, $92,144,417; decrease, $7,937,595. The aggregate receipts for April 1885 were $1,141,837 less than during the same month of 1884.

INDECENT JOURNALISM REWARDED.

Ray S. Hathaway, a reporter on the Toledo Sunday Democrat, was treated to a coat of tar and feathers by C. H. Merry, H. E. Smith and W. H. Peters, three of the most respected citizens of Norwalk. The affair occurred in Norwalk, and was in consequence of a scandalous article reflecting on the character of these gentlemen and other members of the Peek-a-Boo club, published in the Democrat. There was the greatest indignation expressed by the citizens of Norwalk over the article, as the members of the club are of the best representative families. About 9 o'clock Hathaway was escorted into a barn and bound. A coat of warm tar and feathers was then applied and he was ordered to leave town on the first train. He came home this afternoon and threatens to have his victims arrested. Hathaway will lose his eyesight, even if nothing more serious results.

EDMUNDS' ERRAND.

Senator Edmunds goes to England soon for the purpose of testifying before the house of lords committee on privileges touching certain points of American law. The matter before the committee is a civil suit affecting the title to the estate and portion of the earl of Lauderdale, and the title to the estate is the validity of the marriage of Sir Richard Maitland with Mary McAdam by Dr. Ordlyne, of Trinity church, in New York in 1772. The estate is claimed on one hand by Major Frederick Henry Maitland, of the Bengal cavalry, and political agent for central India, who is a direct descendant of Sir Richard Maitland, adjutant general of the North American colonies from 1768 to 1772, and fourth son of the sixth Earl Lauderdale. The other claimant is Sir James Ramsay Maitland, a descendant of the fifth son of the sixth earl. If the decision of the lords' committee is that Mary McAdam was lawfully married to Sir Richard, Sir Frederick will become earl of Lauderdale. If otherwise, Sir James succeeds. It is in regard to the laws and customs in vogue in the colonies at that time Senator Edmunds will testify.

John Elliott & Son's foundry in London, Ont., was burned a few days since, at a loss of $250,000.

It is estimated that the debt statement for the month of May shows a reduction of about $5,000,000.

A break band of a mine in Charleston, W. Va., broke the other morning, instantly killing four miners.

Foundmaker, the half-breed chief, and five of his best men have surrendered unconditionally to Gen. Middleton.

A large furniture factory in New York city burned at an early hour the other morning, involving a total loss of over $500,000.

Charles L. Thomas, whose home is in Burlington, Vt., confirms the reports of ill-treatment of American citizens in Guatemala.

Colorado has had a visitation of grasshoppers which devoured everything in the way of early vegetables and tender shrubs.

Cowboys at Coleridge, N. M., compelled Theodore Thomas' concert troop to entertain them with instrumental and vocal music. No lives were lost.

Willie Prentiss shot his father dead at Orange, Mass. The father, while in a drunken fit, ordered his son to shoot at a cup which he held on his head.

A man about 27 years old, named McComb, of Weland Ont., jumped over the precipice at Niagara, just below the new suspension bridge, and was instantly killed.

CHINESE INCOOPER.

The Exhilarating Beverage Indulged In By the Heathens.

San Francisco Chronicle.

The spectacle of two Chinamen staggering along Smithfield street last night, evidently "three sheets in the wind," was one that excited some curiosity. Whether they had been tanking up after the most approved American style on plain, ordinary lager beer or old Monongahela rye, was the question.

"They have a quiet little still of their own," was the remark of a habitue of the City Hall. "Chinamen don't take kindly to beer or whisky. They go to one of their countrymen in town who deals in the article, and get a bottle of liquid distilled from rice. I tell you it's a lively drink, too. Why stone fence and Jersey lightning are like water when put on a level with incooper. That's what the Chinamen call it."

"The Chinese storekeepers in San Francisco import the stuff and ship it to their agents in different parts of the country. It is put up in queer-shaped bottles, and looks something like gin. You can get plenty of it in town if you have a Chinese friend. Just ask John Chinaman the next time he brings your washing to get you a bottle of incooper and give him a dollar. It is surprising how much these Mongols can stand. They will sip incooper all evening and toddle home in single file without varying a shade from a straight line. Sometimes, though, they get more than they can carry, just like those fellows who saw pass by. Why, if an old toper on whisky were to try incooper it would knock him out flat in three rounds. It's a mighty queer liquor and a bad thing to fool with. If you do you will want to whip your mother-in-law and your best friend in half an hour."

A Japanese Girl's Toilet.

M. C. Griffin in St. Nicholas.

When a Japanese girl gets up in the morning she washes her face, but does not have to dress her hair. That is attended to but once a week. The hair dresser comes to the house and arranges her jet black locks in the fashion for little girls of her age. So she has no trouble about her hair, and after her bath the servant assists her to powder her neck with a small white brush. She puts a little red paint on her lower lip and a little gilding in the middle. When she removes her sleeping dress she has on only a short skirt, which is simply a square piece of cloth, crepe or silk, tied around the waist. No other underclothing is worn.

In making her toilet for the day, she first puts on a garment made usually of some coarse material, not very long, and reaching only to the waist, but with long sleeves. On the neck of this garment is sewed a deep fold of scarlet or some other bright-colored crepe or silk. A long, straight skirt of blue or red crepe, silk or wool is tied around the waist, and over all three of these garments is worn the kimono, or dress. This is of some dark color, and made of coarse spun silk or thick crepe.

For festivals and holidays the dresses are of very fine material and very handsome. The outer dress is simply a wrapper reaching to the feet, with very long and wide sleeves hanging nearly to the ground, and used as pockets. On each shoulder a deep tuck is made which extends to the waist, thus making a little fullness for the skirt. But the dress has no gathers, and is straight all the way down. The neck is adorned with a wide piece of black velvet or satin, which reaches nearly to the waist, and the dress is crossed over the bosom and confined by a girdle. Over this is worn a very wide sash; a piece of brocade silk or satin, stiff with embroidery in gold or silver, lined with soft silk, and fastened behind in a very large bow. When these are all on, but bare-footed, or if in cool weather, in white mitten socks, made to reach only to the ankle, and with a place in which to put the great toe (just as mittens have a place for the thumb), she goes out to say "Ghaio," or good morning, to her father.

A Business Woman.

Woman's Journal.

I have twice written something about the women who have held, or are holding, positions in the employ of the Manitoba Railroad company, but I find I had not known it all. The first woman mentioned was Mrs. Carey, who, some years ago, was left with three sisters and a brother to support. She learned to be a telegraph operator, and wherever she went, took her family with her and supported them. She taught two sisters and a brother the business, and was appointed agent at Wayzata, where she had charge of all the business, which in the summer, with short line trains and steamers on Lake Minnetonka, is very heavy. After a time she was allowed to have her brother to help, and one sister was appointed train dispatcher on the same road.

Think of it! a woman, who used to be considered so helpless and impractical, and generally useless and incompetent, given the control of all the life and property involved in the management of the numerous trains on that busy road. And what do they think of her? "I tried again and again," said the superintendent, "to catch the woman off duty, before I gave her the place, on Sundays and all sorts of odd hours, and I never once succeeded."

Crepe-de-laine is a pure wool material, exquisitely light, and drapes in most graceful folds.

An Ex-Congressman's Recollections.

Columbus (O.) Herald.

Mr. Fisher served in the war of 1812, and soon after married, taking his bride to a small house about one mile from the cabin in which the old commander, General Grant was born. He loves to dwell on the life of General Grant, whose birth he remembers, and which happened but a mile or two from his settlement, and he tells of dancing with the general's mother, when she was Miss Hannah Simpson, and before Jesse R. Grant had courted and wedded her.

The old commoner was a warm personal friend of old Tom Corwin and stumped the state during the hard cider campaign in 1840, at which time he was a whig and since a republican. In 1846 he was elected to the 30th congress, serving one term and refusing a re-nomination. The lamented Lincoln was a member of the same congress, and the two became fast friends, rooming together for a considerable time in a boarding house, where they formed relations that were only dissolved by that great man's death.

Of Lincoln's character he says: "He was the most lovable public man I ever met, and, like me, did not return to Congress; but, unlike me, a few years later became the greatest man of the age and the savior of our Union. I strongly advocated his nomination for the presidency at the Chicago convention, and his winning the prize there was perhaps the first step toward the regeneration of our land. Before the war, while traveling in the West, I spent three days as his guest at his home in Springfield, and one evening remarking that I never got the Congressional Director for which I had subscribed and paid, Mr. Lincoln said: 'Take one of mine; I have two, and you will see, Fisher, that it speaks better of you than it does of me.'"

In answer to the question relative to the death of ex-President John Quincy Adams, Mr. Fisher replied, with evident emotion: "Adams was, next to Mr. Lincoln, the grandest man I ever met. His seat was directly opposite mine—only a narrow aisle separating our desks. The ex-president was very aged and for years quite feeble, having a slight touch of paralysis, perhaps just before Washington's birthday, in 1848, Mr. Adams half rose in his seat, suddenly put his hand to his head, whereupon I rose from my desk and caught him in my arms just as he was sinking. The house was in an uproar, but in an instant the word passed around, Adams is dying, and immediately members came to my aid and we carried the fallen statesman into the speaker's room, where three days later, the spirit of 'the old man eloquent' had gone to its Maker. He never spoke after falling into my arms, save that historical ejaculation uttered just previous to his final dissolution."

Mr. Fisher was identified with Salmon P. Chase in the organization of the republican party. He now resides with a married daughter, whose home is a most beautiful one, and not five miles from the place he took his bride so many years ago, and but a short distance from the cabin in which the now nation's patient saw the first light of day. In form he is stately and impressive, but has been blind for twenty years. Speaking of social life in Washington he says the finest entertainment he ever attended was Senator Benton's party to his son-in-law, General Fremont on his return from the Mexican war.

Old Librarians.

April Atlantic.

The old librarian was a peculiar character, as these officials are apt to be. They have a curious kind of knowledge, sometimes immense in its way. They know the backs of books, their title-pages, their popularity or want of it, the class of readers who call for particular works, the value of different editions, and a good deal besides. Their minds catch up hints from all manner of works on all kinds of subjects. They will give a visitor a fact and a reference which they are surprised to find they remember and which the visitor might have hunted for a year. Every good librarian, every private book-owner, who has grown into his library, finds he has a bunch of nerves going to every bookcase, a branch to every shelf, and a twig to every book. These nerves get very sensitive in old librarians, sometimes, and they do not like to have a volume meddled with any more than they would to have their naked eyes handled. They come to feel at last that the books of a great collection are a part, not merely of their own property, though they are only the agents for their distribution, but that they are, as it were, outlying portions of their own organization. The old librarian was getting a miserly feeling about his books as he called them.

Bonnet strings have been discarded in Paris.

Long silk scarfs are again to be worn. They are simply tied in a large sailor bow at the throat or are pinned with a brooch and then fastened at the waist.

Robes of Unguilla cloth, with the embroideries in white, black, cardinal and navy-blue, are in fast colors, and will look as well after washing as before.

A bonnet of reseda straw has a turned-up brim covered with plush of the same color. The square crown is almost hidden on the left side by a tuft of short feathers of a darker shade, which are secured by a golden arrow and fall over the side of the crown, the tips touching the hair.

UNADILLA REMARKS.

From our Correspondent.

Ella Hartsuff visited Pinckney friends Saturday and Sunday.

W. R. Rainey, of Portland, spent the Sabbath with the Dres family.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hill spent three days among Unadilla relatives last week.

There were seven persons united with the Presbyterian church last Sabbath.

Judging from appearances there was no harm done with the paper-wads after all.

Emory Holmes and family, of Stockbridge, made a visit at G. K. Moore's last Saturday.

Mrs. Geo. Voorheis has gone to Stockbridge to spend a few days with her daughter, Mrs. H. Daniels.

There were quite a number went to Stockbridge from here decoration day, although it rained most of the time.

Ida Tuttle, who has been for many months in Ohio, studying music with her cousin, Prof. Tuttle, has returned to spend a few weeks with Unadilla friends.

U. S. Stedman intends to start this week for Muskegon, to visit his sister, Mrs. A. B. Wood, then will start from there to his home in the far west.

W. S. Livermore closed his store last Saturday for good. Now is the time for some live man to come here and get rich. It has been done before and can be done again. There are people enough here to support one store.

Why wouldn't it be a good plan for new firms (or even old ones) when they wish to circulate their advertising cards to send a list of the names they have to each postmaster where they wish to send cards and request him to revise it. There was such a list came here from a Chicago firm last week from which we removed many names and added new ones. The reason I mention this is because there are so many packages of circulars come to our office that find their way to the waste basket. Last week a new firm in Howell sent a package here in which there were over one hundred addressed to persons who had not lived here for years, some never lived here, some were people we never knew, and many of them were dead. It is certainly an unnecessary expense to the senders and much trouble to the P. M.

PLAINFIELD SPLASHES.

From our Correspondent.

Mrs. A. Cool is much better.

M. Topping & Son have a fine lot of platform spring wagons made at Pontiac.

Mrs. J. C. Dickinson celebrated her 48th birthday with her son, at Gregory, June 2d.

James Burden received a bad scalp wound at Chas. Harford's barn raising by a brace falling from the plate above.

The Plainfield grist mill is running in full blast and teams are coming and going which makes things look more prosperous.

Mr. G. H. Day has the hotel in running order and will make his patrons comfortable and happy and give them plenty to eat.

C. D. Mapes & Son, I understand, will soon start a wagon on the road buying butter, eggs, etc. They always pay the highest prices.

Mr. W. S. Taylor's little boy, on whom Dr. Greene performed an operation for double hair-lip, is doing nicely; the lip is almost healed and his looks very much improved.

J. C. Dickinson deserves much credit for the mechanical skill displayed in repairing the boiler and engine in the grist mill; it started right off and not a thing had to be changed.

Parker's Corners had a fight last Monday, or rather two of its citizens, Messrs. Lewis and Purdy had some words which resulted in a fight, and Mr. Lewis' ear being badly bitten and Mr. Purdy had a badly bruised face. Mr. Lewis was the victor.

FOWLERVILLE PARAGRAPHS.

From the Review.

Commencing on next Monday evening the Rev. Jesse Kilpatrick, assisted by the Rev. H. W. Merrill, of Belleville, will open revival meetings at the M. E. church.

The parts for the "Drummer Boy of the Rappahannock" have arrived and an excellent cast of characters has been secured. It is expected to render the play about the 10th of June.

Foreman John Henderson began work on the Cedar river improvement on Wednesday. Mr. E. Nichols is rapidly pushing his part of the contract and under favorable circumstances the improvement will be completed this fall.

Mr. Geo. P. Robbins, of Chippewa Lake, and Miss Kittie Dickerson, of this place, were married at the residence of the bride's mother, on Wednesday morning at 10.30, Rev. F. W. Warren, of Williamston, officiating. They took the noon train for Grand Rapids, where they will spend a few days before settling down at their home at Chippewa.

Mr. W. M. Demerest, of the drug firm of McCabe & Demerest, of Webberville, and Miss Mary Krause, of this place, were united in the holy bonds of matrimony at the residence of Mrs. J. A. Brown, on Tuesday evening, the Rev. Jesse Kilpatrick officiating. The happy couple start out in life with bright prospects and have many friends here who will unite in wishing them a successful future.

SOUTH LYON DOTS.

From the Picket.

Ham Force shoved his hand into the planer at Greig's mill and now carries two badly cut fingers in a sling. Dr. Brown dressed them for him.

Mrs. L. C. Hammond left yesterday for Joliet, Ill., in answer to a letter, stating that her brother was very low with consumption and not liable to live.

The masons are at work on the new bank and are pushing it right up. Mr. Bullock expects the bricklayers the last of the week who will commence work on his building. Both contracts call for the work to be finished some time in July.

South Lyon will probably have a ball club this season. At least the prospects are good now. We have some good timber here and the boys propose to put it in use. Surrounding towns please take notice for we'll soon be looking for "blud."

From the Excelsior.

W. H. Talcott, of Dundee, was in town Monday, and rented the vacant rooms over Carpenter & Sayre's store and expects to open a law office there in about June 20.

Excavations have commenced for the foundations of the stores of Greedy, Borden and Hamilton's on Lafayette street. Arrangements will be made to push the building to the earliest possible completion.

Dick Bridson was yesterday sentenced to Ionia for a sober spell of 90 days, on complaint of assault on his little daughter Lizzie, with an ax and stone.

BREVITIES.

South Lyon has a new dentist.

The Salvation Army will bombard Howell.

Donaldson & Rich's circus was at Fowlerville Monday.

The graduating class of the Howell public school numbers 15.

A new engine has been placed in the Williamston Enterprise office.

Spring meeting of the Williamston Driving Park Association is in progress.

L. Westmoreland and Lena Elliott, of Marion, were married at Fowlerville the 27th.

Dexter wants a wool buyer bad. The Leader offers a week's board to such a person and thinks many other business men would do likewise.

Edward A. Webster, president of the Austin, Tomlinson & Webster wagon company, Jackson, died at his home in that place Monday morning, aged 52 years.

Prof. L. A. Tuttle and Miss Ida E. Tuttle, entertained the citizens of Unadilla Tuesday evening with vocal and instrumental music, the object of the concert being to organize a class.
