SHOT DEAD,

Alfred Wilson, of Iosco, Accidently Killed.

A Gun in the Hands of his Stepson did the Terrible Deed.

Word was received here last Saturday evening that Alfred Wilson, of Iosco, was instantly killed by a gun in the hands of his step-son, Fred Montague. It seems that young Montague was getting ready to shoot wood-chucks but discovering some rust on the gun began to wipe the barrel when it was accidentally discharged, Mr. Wilson receiving the entire charge of shot just below the heart, and died immediately. The step-son is nearly crazed with grief.

Mr. Wilson was born in Leroy, Ing. county, Sept. 12, 1855. In 1877 he married Mrs. Jane Montague, and has since lived on her farm in losco. He was insured in the Maccabee order for $2,000. He leaves a wife and two sons, besides a host of friends, to mourn their loss. His remains were burried in the Chapel cemetery, Iosco, Monday. The deceased was a brother of M. C. Wilson, of this place.

Former of Macomit County Shet and Killed by His Own Daughter-Grand Rapids Drunk Kills His Wife -Jackson Convict Stabs a Keeper.

Farmer Murdered by His Daughter. Broderick. Heidt a well-to-do German farmer living in Warren township, Macomb county, after spending the day in drinking at a saloon two miles from his place started for home; his horse ran away and he was thrown into the dish where he was lound by his wife and son-in-law, Rudolph Wirgan. When they attempted to assist him he made an assault on his wife with the butt of a whip stock. Upon reaching home. Heids began to abuse his daughter Minnie, aged $2. The girl says that he drew a razor on her and threatened to kill her as he had done many times before. She secured the weapon, but he became so violent that she was afraid he would do her harm. She went to the woodshed, procured a gun and returning to the kitchen took deliberate aim at her father, who was sitting in a chair at the time, and fired, the charge striking him in the head and killing him instantly. Heidt was 57 years of age and his wife is 55.

The coroner's jury in the inquest returned a verdict of justifiable homicide, finding that his daughter Minnie shot Heidt in self defense. Minnie is a bright and remarkably good-looking girl. In the neighborhood she is a with her.

A Cowardly Wife Murder.

Jacob Welsh, aged 50, a stationary engineer of Grand Rapids, had a quarrel soon after breakfast with his wife and daughter, the latter aged 18. He left the house and did not return until evening, when he was very drunk. Without a word to his wife, he drew a revolver from his pocket and firing hit her in the neck. The daughter, hearing the shot, slammed the door and fled screaming out of the front door. The father pursued, but was unable to overtake her, and returning to the house, found that his wife was still alive and conscious. He lifted her from the floor, and placing the revolwer to her head, fired again, and then left the house. Mrs. Welsh died the mext day and the murderer was

The anti-saloon league at Grand Rapids intends to make complaint against the saloonkeeper who sold Welsh the liquor which made him drunk. They claim that the saloon bondsmen are liable and that they can be held to provide for the children of the dead woman. This will serve as an excellent test case of the law under which they propose to work.

Convict Curicy Assaults Another Keeper. : Convict Wm. Curley made a desperate assault upon Keeper Gus Southwick at Jackson prison. When the keeper came to take away Curley's breakfast dishes the convict leaped against the door, knocking Southwick down. Curley then leaped upon him and began to stab him with a big needle used in sewing brooms. Notwithstanding a score of wounds the -keeper regained his feet and fought Ourley back into his cell and locked the door. He then summoned help and was taken to the hospital where Dr. Gibson dressed the wounds, some of which are very serious.

This is the third assault Curley has made upon his keepers within three years. His first victim was Foreman McCleary in the stone shop whom he mearly killed with a chisel; next Depaty Warden Northrup and several guards were badly injured in a riot in the shirt factory, ied by Curley, Huntley and Boote, for which Curley had 10 years added to the sentence he was already serving.

The Loyal Legion Congress.

The Lord Legion of the United States met in the eighth quadriennial congress at Detroit. Although the number of delegates was small-79it was a representative gathering, and in more than one way. Nearly every state was represented, as was the army and navy and many branches of official and civil life, the Loyal Legion being -compened of officers and ex-officers of the U.S. army and navy. There were many total ing meetings of war-time comrades and stories which stirred the hearts and brought both smiles and tears were told by the score as the older veterans greeted each other. The business sessions of the congress were presided over by Rear Admiral Gherried, the commander-in-chief of the Lal Legion.

W. C. T. S. of Michigan.

The twenty-second annual session of Women's Christian Temperance union, of Michigan, convened in Benton Harber. The address of welcome in behalf of the city was made by Hon. Victor M. Gore, while Rev. E. A. Hoffman gave the address of welcome in the behalf of the churches. Mrs. J. R. Parrish, of Bay City, corresponding secretary, reported wash from all sources $11,007, with $8,195 of hand.

The objection of the sultan to receiving Dr. James B. Angell, of Michigan, as minister of the United States, is withdrawn, and the state department notifled by Mr. Perrell, the present diplomatic representative of this country in Constantinople.

Gilbert Wilkes, commanding the Michigan state naval brigade, has a letter from the secretary of the navy telling him that it is about settled that the old U. S. cruiser Yantic will come to Michigan for the use of the naval militia of the state as a training ship.

Mrs. Ed. Roach was shot three times by her husband, at Battle Creek. She is not expected to live. The couple had lived apart for some time. Roach followed his wife to the home of her sister and fired at her four times. When he gave himself up, he said he wished he had shot himself.

Capt. William Cary died at Beuton Harbor, in his 79th year. He was 32 years captain of various craft, sailing the lakes from Detroit, Chicago, St. great favorite and all sympathize Joseph and other points before the danger shoals were marked. Cary sailed the first brigantine out of Detroit that floated on Lakes Huron and Quinlan O'Leary, a tramp, hailing from Detroit, was stabbed by two fellow hoboes, at Bay City, and died of his wounds. There were five in the crowd and they quarreled over 5 cents. O'Leary was cut in the stomach so that all his intestines fell out. O'Leary's assailants, Charles Wilson and Lawrence Reilly, were arrested.

Fitch Hill, aged 70, a farmer of Byron, Kent county, for some time past unbalanced mentally, became violently insane and attempted to exterminate his family and neighbors, but was subdued. He then procured some strychnine of which he took the dose and died before assistance could be brought. He leaves a widow and four adult children.

Several families narrowly escaped death in a tenement house fire at West Bay City, in the old Reardon house, one of the landmarks of the city. The building was completely enveloped in flames before the alarm was given. Patrolman Anderson broke in a window and rescued two little girls, aged 6 and 7. None of the people saved anything other than the clothing they

It is said that he spent the night at Stella Grant's resort and the next morning crossed the river to Sarnia with a girl called "Bess." He returned to Port Huron alone toward evening and a few hours later was found in the street unconscious. He died in a short time. His friends claim that he was mur-

The arrest of A. H. Currie, a Sarnia, Ont., tuffor, at Port Huron for amuggling created a sensation among many prominent citizens of the latter city. Currie, who is a son in-law of Gen. Wm, Hartsuff, formerly customs officer at Port Huron, had taken orders for suits for many eitizens, agreeing to get them through the customs house free. After Currie's arrest the customs efficials induced his customers to pay the duties on their clothes. They did.

Julian Tercey de Ovies, aged 17, son of Senor de Ovies, mesmerist and psychologist, was found dead in bed at his residence, 66 Clifford street, Detroit The body, which was half clad, was still warm when found. The teeth were set together, and the tongue was almost bitten in two. On the bloodstained pillow a towel, saturated with chloroform, and a bottle, partially filled with the fluid, were found. The ther thinks the boy was murdered but can assign no reason.

The body of John Koller, a wealthy Cincinnati merchant, was found on the shere of Lake Erie near Newport. There was a bullet wound in the back of his neck and the ball had come out at the mouth, splitting the tongue. There were also bruises about the head and body as of a blunt instrument. Koller disappeared May 7, after having reached Detroit on a boat from Cleveland. He is supposed to have had over $1,000 on his person when he strived at Detroit. The State Legislature Clases Its Session

The weary grind of the Michigan legislature for the years 1897-8 has finished after five months of labor and the newspaper correspondents and the Senutors and Representatives and lobbyists and pluggers and clerks; and messengers and, and --- Well, all the rest of the grew which has been battering away at making and unmaking laws through nearly half a year. more or less to the advantage or disadvantage of the people, have gone home apparently satisfied with their work and are ready to again become just ordinary citizens if ---

Gov. Pingree recently threatened that unless the legislature did something to make railroads, corporations, etc., stand a larger share, and more just share, as he believes, of the taxes of the state that he would call them. together in special session for that purpose and see if they'd dare neglect "the people's interests" then. There's where the "if" comes in.

Two days before the adjournment of the legislature Gov. Pingree sent a message to both the House and the Senate calling attention to the numerous bills of greatest importance which were being allowed to die without any effort being made to act upon them. He also objected to the passing of large appropriation bills which were not brought in until within a few days of the time set for adjournment, thus preventing proper and intelligent investigation of them. The governor, therefore, asked that the session be extended at least two weeks that the bills mentioned might be disposed of and the appropriations investigated. When the message was received the Senate and House each had a bitter fight over it. The House passed a resolution making the day of adjournment June 14. The Senate refused to concur and so they had to "let the old cat die" died on May 31, as had already been scheduled.

An examination of the records show that 360 House and 141 Senate bills were passed. Two years ago there were 365 House and about 260 Senate bills. The much-talked-of antagonism between the governor and Senate may not account for the entire falling off, but that it does for a good proportion of it there is no doubt. The number of bilis on the Pingree program as announced in the inaugural message, which fell outside the Senate breastworks were both numerous and important, while the number of Senate bills which perished at the hands of Pingree lieutenants in the House would also make a fair sized volume.

The appropriations of the legislature for 1897-8, as reported in the budget prepared by the House committee on ways and means and the Senate finance committee will be $4,377,398, providing the governor signs all the appropriation bills which were passed. This is a saving of $705,059 over the taxes imposed on the state by the preceding legislature for the two years 1895 and 1896. To this saving may be added the estimated increase in returns from the railroads under the Merriam bill. which is placed by Railroad Commissioner Wesselius at $155,684, and it gives a grand total of saving in taxes to the people of $860,743 over 1895-6. The tax rate for the two years 1895-6 was 41/4 mills on the dollar. The approximate tax rate for the two years 1897-8 will be 3.9 mills on the dollar, or W. W. Miller, an exemplary young an average of less than 2 mills on the dollar for each year. So far as the expenses of state departments are concerned, not much has really been saved. There has been an apparent cut of about $500,000, but this is more than covered by the fact that two years ago $600,000 was appropriated to make up a deficiency in the state treasury due to unpaid taxes. Some saving has been made in special appropriations, however. The closing scenes of the legislature. with the exception of the mere formalities, were very noisy and almost disgraceful. The evening session of both Senate and House was devoted almost entirely to horse-play, songs were sung, foolish speeches were made for and against more foolish fake bills, and the Representatives finally broke up the session by throwing books, papers, tiles of legislative journals, etc., at each other. They then went over to the of the Spanish arrived the thick of Senate and assisted that body in in-dulging in a similar boyish fraces. SUFFERING CUBA.

Maticonwise No. 64 CV Fitony SAYS. IT: 18 TERRIBLE.

Gen, "Weyler's Mothods are infamous" Vario Sum to de Somethiaz Soon Gomes and Weyler Meet in Battle-Spain's Cabinet Resigns.

While the resolution to recognize the Cuban insurgents as belligerents is being held up by the national house of representatives after being passed by the senate matters are coming to the surface at various points which are sure to bring a crisis very soon. Mr. Calhoun, the special commissioner sent to Cuba by President McKinley, has been looking about during the delays in the Ruiz case and is gaining a general insight into the condition of affairs on the island. He stready has discovered that Gen. Weyler's talk of Cuba being pacified is not based on fact. There is not a province in Cuba that is in a peaceful condition, and the Spanish pickets have warned Calhoun. who, in company with Consul-General Lee, took a ride out of Havana, that it was not safe to venture away from the city more than 15 miles.

Consul-General Lee's report that the war is no nearer an end than two years ago, and that there is no prospect of either side triumphing so long as one can dig sustenance from the ground and the other borrow money, is fully proved to Mr. Calhoun's satisfaction. The poor people who have been driven from the country by Gen. Weyler's orders have been seen by Commissioner Calhoun and their terrible miseries he will relate to the President upon his return. At Matanzas alone he saw 4,000 starving reconcentradoes, and was told that 3,000 more had just been driven into the overcrowded small towns of the district, where their plight was hopeless. Gen. Lee and Mr. Calhoun, with their interpreter, went from hut to hut questioning women and children whose feet and ankles were so swollen and discolored as to present a shocking appearance, due to a dropsical affection caused by thin blood and lack of nourishment. All said that they had been without food for periods varying from 12 to 72 hours, and their appearance showed that they told the truth.

It has been openly stated in Washington that the discoveries made by Mr. Calhoun, the special commissioner sent to Cuba by President McKinley, are so horrible that they cannot be printed, but will be related to the President as soon as Mr. Calhoun arrives in Washington, which will be in a few days, as he has already sailed from Havana. It is also positively asserted on good authority that the President will take action suitable to the circumstances very soon after reeciving this report. Weyler and Gomez Meet in Buttle. Reports have been received of a battle at La Reforma, Sencti Spiritus, in which Gens. Comez and Weyler met in war for the first time. The engagement was the result of a plan of Gen. Weyler to surround and crush Gomez with an immensely superior force. The scheme was defeated by the brilliant tactics displayed by Gomez, who, outnumbered by 20 to 1, succeeded in holding the enemy in check for six hours. Gen. Weyler formed three new columns in addition to the 11,000 men who were already operating against Gomez in Sancti Spiritus. At the head of 5,000 men he marched upon Gomez at La Reforma. The two other Spanish columns of 2,000 men each were to try to take the Cubans in the flank. Weyler thought that with this second army he could pen Gomez up and annihilate him. The Cuban commander occupied a strategic position and awaited the attack. The Spanish columns were driven back repeatedly, and even under Gen. Weyler's own eye they fied in terror at the charge of the Cubans. Weyler's horse was shot three times, and then he retired to the rear. The Cubans routed the left flank of the Spanish completely, but were not strong enough to follow up their specess. The supporting columns

THE SSTH CONGRESS AT WORK

"SENATE. -51st day. -But little progress was made on the tariff bill owing to an exciting incident. Menator Morgan, of Alabama, found oppostunity to severely criticise the inaction of the House of Representatives and declared that the speaker of the House was enforcing an autocratic, trap-door rule by which Representatives were assembled and, dispersed, and he charactorized this action as an outrage against popular rights. Mr. Frye, of Maine, first gave warning that a protest would be made against criticisms of the other house, and when Mr. Morgan vehemently repeated his criticism Mr. Hale, of Maine, made a point of order against him. The temporary presiding officer directed Mr. Morgan to resume his seat, and then ruled that he was out of order. Mr. Morgan resumed his criticisms during the tariff debate and made the point that congress was not now in session, in accordance with the constitution, the House of Representatives having vacated its functions. House.—No session.

Fifty-second day—No session of the Senate. House—A 15-minute session was held, the only event of interest being the protest of Mr. Lewis, Democrat, of Washington, against the approval of the journal saying that there was ''no constitutional House that can legally approve the journal, and if there was it could not be approved in the manner and form adopted."

SENATE. -53d day. -Good progress was made on the tariff bill although considerable discussion was indulged in, particularly on the chies schedule which was finally accepted as it came from the finance committee. There was an echo of the recent sensational speech of Mr. Tillman in reference to charges made that Senators had speculated in sugar stocks with advance knowledge of the intended action of the finance committee before the tariff bill was reported out. Mr. Smith, of New Jersey, who was one of the Senators so charged, entered an emphatic denial. House.—The semi-weekly sessions seem to develop nothing but a war of words between the majority (Republicans), who insist that the House shall do very little business until the Senate passes the tariff bill, and the minority. The exent of the session was a speech by Mr. Simpson, of Kansas, denouncing the majority policy. Conference reports were agreed to on the sundry civil bill and the revocation of President Cleveland's forest reservation ofder.

SENATE. -54th day-A larger portion of the tariff bill was disposed of than on any previous day of its consideration. The first break thus far from the committed schedules was the reduction of the rate on snylls from 2c to 1%c per pound. Senator Tillman, of South Carolina, asked consideration for a resolution reciting the circumstances of the enactment of the South Carolina dispensary law, its effect in reducing intemperance, the recent decision of a federal judge overthrowing the law and requiring the state to "reopen the barrooms." The resolution then directs the judiciary committee to consider and report what legislation is necessary to restore to South Carolina its right to regulate the liquor traffic in its own way. Mr. Hoar, of Massachusetts, proposed a substitute omitting the preamble and simply directing the judiciary committee to consider and report the bill or otherwise, what legislation, if any, is necessary to carry out the statute of 1800 solative to commerce between the states. Mr. Tillman accepted the substitute and it was agreed to SENATE. -55th day. - Apother good day's work was accomplished, 10 pages of the metal schedule of the tagist bill being disposed of without a single change of the committee rates. The only other feature of the session another outbreak on the part of Senator Tillman, of South Carolina, who renewed the sugar investigation discussion and defended his action while governor of his state. House -The proceedings were enlivened by a single incident, the stiempt of Mr. Terry, Democrat, of Arksmant, to sepure consideration as a privileged matter of a resolution for the immediate appointment of the committee on foreign afffairs. KING GEORGE IN DANGER.

Busin and Cormany in Grasco-Turkish Affairs-Notes on the Situation.

A Constantinople dispatch says that the embassies received word from their respective ministers at Athens that the position of the Greek royal family is now efficial: "King George is practically barricaded in the palace and it is reported that he is making his preparations to leave Athens in order to evade the fury of the populace.

From a Russian source comes nowa of a conspiracy against King George, of Greece, far more deeply rooted than was supposed. There is indisputable evidence that Premier Ralli and his colleagues in the cabinet are gravely implicated in a plot to overthrow the dynasty. It is said that King George paid a visit to M. Onou, the Russian minister, and after a two hours' interview sent a long telegram to the czar urging him to intervene on behalf of Greece.

Athens: The Turks have occupied a position at Tsopanatos, in the neutral zone. The Greek government has protested against this movement to the repiesentatives of the powers. Turkey's continued aiming and reported Russian preparations, with other rumors of a bellicose character, raise the hopes of some of the Greek newspapers that Greece may yet benefit from a general European war. But the majority of the nation, sobered by a sad experience, is only desirous that Europe should protect Greece against her conqueror.

The negotiations at Constantinople have entered upon the anxious stage, owing to doubts as to the real intentions of the sultan whether he means to resume the war or not; A spirit of conciliation is shown towards the ambassadors, but the Turkish government is playing a double game and is inciting public opinion secretly to oppose the abondment of Thessaly. The sultan affects to be greatly afraid of the Islamic party, and the attitude of the grand vizier, as shown by the report which he presented to the sultan urging that the whole of Islam was fully determined to retain Thessaly, and tendering his resignation in case Abr dul-Hamid differed with these views, has strengthened the suspicion that the sultan is prepared to plead that Islamic pressure is the reason for not yielding to the powers. The sultan's show of resistance to the powers is generally attributed to German backing, but it is also rumored that negotiations between Turkey and Russia have been in progress relative to the eventual administration by Russia of a portion of Asia Minor.

Prof. R. S. Bowman, Instructor of Natural Science in Hartsville College, Cured of a Severe Illness by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People After Physicians Failed."

From the Republican Columbus, Inc.

Prof. R. S. Bowman, the able instructor of natural science in the famous Hartsville, (Ind.,) College, is well and favorably known, not only as an educator, but also as a minister of the gospel, as for a number of years he was paster of the United Brethren church at Charlotte, Mich., before coming to Hartsville.

Some time ago he had a severe tilness which was cured almost miraculously. A reporter hearing of this, interviewed him regarding his experience. Prof. Bowman was in the midst of his work when the reporter called, but he cheerfully gave him a hearing. "A year ago last fall," said the professor.

Care and Preparation of Cream and Butter.

The oldest of the gravity process is the holistein system. In this, the complete rising of the cream is secured by the thinness of the layer of milk, and by rather high temperature at which the milk-serum is but little viscous. The development of the bacteria is rather incompletely checked. The temperature sinks slaves in the pan and the final temperature (55 to 59 deg. F.) white not very favorable to the bacteria is yet by no means unfavorable and as the milk is under the influence of this and still higher temperature for at least thirty-six hours, it is evident that a considerable bacterial growth will take place.

the lactic acid bacteria. The difficulty in keeping the pans clean is another objection. It is the duty of the person in charge to any length of time excepting what personally inspect the pan when cleaned. In the ice methods now the work. The witholding of milk generally used in many diaries, for hours because of an insufficient light and cleanliness are the prin- number of separators is to be discipal mediums for fighting the fermentation, but by cooling. The low temperature checks the growth and developement of the bacteria but it does not kill, only placing in a dormant or sleeping state. If there is carelessness or neglect in proper cooling or the use of unclean vessels the developement of obnoxious bacteria is liable to take place before the temperature is low enough to stop the fermentation; injurious results may be observed later on in the product. The outcome of carelessly made, or slowly cooled, or unclean butter will be of an undesirable flavor and the butter made from such cream will not be of such a quality as the cream would otherwise have been. Milk subjected to temperature of 79 deg. F. will develope the bacteria very quickly and in proportion as this temperature is lowered the developement will decrease in ratio until at or below 30 degrees F., the development stops entirely. In the ice method the milk is creamed in high, usually narrow tins. This should be completely serilized by clean, scalding water and dried in sweet air, and if convenient in the sunshine or near a good fire with scrupulously clean surrondings. Do not start in the use of the ice, and endeavor to ascertain if the ice is from clean water places, that is, not near barns, outhouses, nor swampy nor stagnant places or in a stream polutted by privy discharges or sewerage. It is better to use finely divided ice in the creamer in the beginning of the work. When the milk has been sufficiently lowered in temperature larger pieces may be used.

Use only pure, clean water in creamer, and see that this is changed frequently. Cream so obtained by the so-calledice method is comparatively free from bacteria providing there has been can tion and cleanliness observed. Molds seldom form in it as in the New Discovery, and was cured by the shallow system or that so-called use of two bottles. For past three velvety appearance.

water that is allowed to remain in the tanks for days or weeks, becomes more or less subjected to milk splashed out of the creamer, an although kept at a low temperature, that which splashes on to the walls and floor evaporates and sends the bacteria into the air of the room, where it easily affects the milk. Cream obtained by the so-called ice method is comparatively clean from bacteria providing there has been vigilence and cleanliness.

By this method the cream may be separated from the milk as soon as it comes to the creamery. This, of course shortens the period for the contaminations from organisms in the air, and the developement of bacteria. This is It is often very difficult in this where the method is recommendgravity process to fight especially ed as supperior to the others of Cream Separation.

nomic purposes, it is a penny wise and pound foolish idea, and should be reproved. A sufficient-number of separators to start the milk when it arrives is conductive to the greatest economy, because the greatest saving and the best quality of produce results thereby.

The method of pasteurizing new milk before separation gives a certain cooked taste to the butter, while the pasteurizing of the cream alone avoids this objectionable flavor.

The separator method also throws the greater number of bacteria from the cream into the separator bowl, thus tending greatly to purify the cream and give cleaner products. In this method the greatest of care must be observed in removing constantly the layer of slime filth from the bowl because when allowed to accumulate part of it will again be washed into the cream and skimmed milk.

It is frequently observed that in some dairies, persons dusty or even dirty are allowed to approach and come in contact with the separators, the drivers and teamsters will pass in and out handling utensils and shaking off the road creases with great rapidity and dust indifferent to the results.

A bad practice in many dairies is the saving of ice by allowing the product to cool slowly in a cooling tank filled with cold water after the cream has been heated to a temperature of about 176 degrees Farenheit; this cooling is too slow. Iced water, or better, ice, and the continued stirring of the entire quantity of cream so as to insure uniform cooling is far mere preferable.

The milk in order to be sufficiently pasteurized should be heated up to 170 degrees Farenheit, and then subjected to strong cooling to 39 degrees Farenheit, immediately after; this last step avoids the cooked taste in the butter. The steaming or pasteurization should be done quickly, by cans inserted into snug wooden reservors, and steam blown in between the wood and the can from a pipe, and the cream kept constantly stirred with a cream spede.

I have taken up these few methods in order to Illustrate that utmost care and cleanliness should be exercised in the manufacture of butter, and the handling of cream and milk.

DISEASES OF BUTTER.

A great many people imagine that the so-called diseases of the butter are mainly attributable to the quality and variety, of food given the cows. I consider these abnormal conditions, the outcome of bacterial development and fermentations; no doubt the faulty feeding of the cows has some influence on the quality of the butter; but there are other faults than those already mentioned.

Striped butter is caused by an uneven division or distribution of the salt or "uneved color" to the faulty process of manufacture; "wood taste semplanes; met with in butter, usually in his ibutable to the butter beving they hept in tube or pails made from an unfit kind of wood not mappedy

Again a smoky flavor occasionally met with will invariably be traced to poorly kept establishments where the air supply is insufficient and also the place infected with smoke.

Moldy Butter or Milk:-This taste and flavor will sometimes appear in cream or butter when the sample is fresh, and it has the appearance of small white specks and seems to be both on the surface and in the inner portion of the substance. Under the microscope these appear in colonies of mold or fringe. In rare occasions this has been noticed as pale green appears more especially in the warm season rather than in the winter time, and has a mottled or spotted and sometime streaky grey effect, and is undoubtedly due to both contamination of the milk in poorly kept dairies or stables, or else in the handling or milking, and to the development of a bacteria which spreads or instarts from small centers and ra-This is damaging because the diates out in all directions so as same and indicated the presence of lard or some other animal fat: this appearance will occasionally be met with in warm weather when the butter has been fused and again allowed to solidify; to some this appears on the surface of cream or butter as a scum or pellicle. The only recourse in a case of this kind is to subject the infected produce to an even heating to 135 degrees F., for fifteen minutes agitating well to insure thorough distribution of heat.

Mr. Isaac Horner, proprietor of Burton House, Burton, W. Va., and one of the most widely known men in the state was cured of rheumatism after three years of suffering. He says: "I have not sufficient command of language to convey any idea of what I suffered, my physicians told me that nothing could be done for me and my friends were fully convinced that nothing but death could relieve me of my suffering. In June, 1894 Mr. Evans, then salesman for the Wheeling Drug Co., recommended Chamberlains Pain Balm. At this time my foot and limb were swollen to more than double their normal size and it seemed to me my leg would burst, but soon after I began using the Pain Balm, the swelling began to decrease, the pain to leave, and now I consider that I am entirely cured. An important and a just ruling has been made recently by the postoffice department. The chief of a labor union in St. Louis mailed a letter haring on its envelope a colored poster requesting the receiver to boycott a well known firm. The postoffice authorities decided that the letter was a violation of the federal law prohibiting the sending through the mails of matter des' med to reflect injuriously upon the character or conduct of another.

There is might flippent tell in England about conquering the Boers; but the Boer is not a man to be despised, as English readers are told in a recent article. The Boer is "a man with whom the predikant (parkin) is always an honored guest; who loves, and thinks much of the opinion of his wife; who is boundlessly hospitalities and who were an about straight. The Books, in their faith and in their shorting, bring to mind Cromwell men, as good soldiers withe world ever saw. Fighting the Boers in London club talk, and fighting them within rifle range, are , vastly different affairs, as Raid v Jameson can testify.

The literary societies of Central college, of Fayette, Mo., are in a quantary as to whom they will secure to deliver the annual address during commencement in June. Several months ago the Aristotelian society, whose time it is to select the June speaker, invited ex-Senator John J. Ingalis of Kansas to deliver the address, and the distinguished gentleman accepted, but since he took so prominent a part in the Corbett-Fitzsimmons prize fight the board of curators and faculty of Central college have entered a protest against the Kansas statesman, and the young men are at sea, and commencement day draws nigh.

The National Provisioner publishes details of the visit of some Danish gentlemen to this country, "for the purpose of buying meat wherewith to fill contracts for supplying the Danish army." Denmark, in common with other European powers, has been feeding her soldiers and sailors for some time on Australian beef, but has lately notified the contractors, whose agents < are now in this country, that a change for the better in the character of the ment furnished was desired. The orders, therefore, will hereaften be placed in Kansas City and Chicago, and posstbly at other centers. What is our gain is Australia's loss. We also have this new evidence of the fact that when it comes to a question of quantity and quality in regard to beef, the United States stands without a rival."

When the great preacher, Spurgeon was at the height of his fame a wellknown lecture agent wrote him, making him the tramendous offer of a hundred thousand dollars for a preaching tour, asking at the same time for a reply by cable. What was the agent's surprise to receive a cable message consisting of only the words: "Acts vill: 20." When the agent had finally procured a Bible he opened it and read these lines: "But Peter said unto him The money perish with thee because then hast thought that the zift of God may be purchased with money." This was the last effort made to induce Sourceon to do what so many emineral clearwage, too, of unquestioned piety -have done, mamely, make a show of himself for American gold. The great nonconformist's scorn for money was always high, and not too common in these days when even the noblest gifts of God are not infrequently bought for so many dellars a sentence. In this respect distribute was a most model to follow.

experience on Lake Galilee, one hour ally many beforealm and the next hour winds and waves with he sp boisterous that you are in doubt as to whether you will land on the shore or on the bottom of the deep. The disciples in the text were caught in such a stress of weather and the sails bent and the ship plunged for "the wind was contrary." There is in one of the European straits a place, where, whichever way you sail the winds are opposing. There are people who all their life seem sailing in the teeth of the wind. All things seem against them. It may be said of their condition as of that of the disciples in my text: "the wind was con-

A great multitude of propie are under seeming disadvantage, and I will today, in the swarthlest Anglo-Saxon that I can manage, treat their cases; not as a nurse counts out eight on ten drops of a prescription, and stirs them in a half-glass of water, but as when a man has by a mistake taken a large amount of strychnine, or Paris green, or belladonna, and the patient is walked rapidly round the room, and shaken up, until he gets wide awake. Many of you have taken a large draught of the poison of discouragement, and I come out by the order of the Divine Physician to rouse you out of that bothergy.

First, many people are under the disadvantage of an unfortunate name given them by parents who thought they were doing a good thing. Sometimes at the baptism of children, while I have held up one hand in prayer, I have held up the other hand in amazement that parents should have weighted the babe with such a dissonant and repulsive nomenciature. I have not so much wondered that some children should cry out at the christening font as that others with such smiling face should take a title that will be the burden of their lifetime. It is outrageous to afflict children with an undesirable name because it happened to lie possessed by a parent or a rich uncleafrom whom favors are expected, or some prominent man of the day who may end his life in disgrace. It is no excuse, because they are Scripture numes; to call a child Jehoikim, or Tiglath-Pileser. I baptized one by the name Bathsheba! Why, under all the circumambient heaven, any parent should want to give to a didle the name of that loose creature of Scripture times I cannot imagine. I have often felt at the baptismal altar, when names were announced to me, like saying, as did the Rev. Dr. Richards, of Morristown, N. J., when a child was handed nim for baptism and the name given: "Hadn't you better call it something clse?"

Impose not upon that babe a name suggestive of flippancy or meanness. There is no excuse for such assault and battery on the cradle when our language is opulent with names musical and suggestive in meaning, such as John, meaning the gracious gift of Ged;" or Henry, meaning "the chief of a household;" or Alfred, meaning "good counsellor;" or Joshua, meaning "God, our salvation;" or Ambrose, meaning "immortal;" or Andrew, meaning "manly;" or Eather, meaning "star;" or Abigail, meaning "my father's joy;" or Anna, meaning "grace;' or Victoria, meaning "victory;" or Rosalie, meaning "beautiful as a rose;" or Margaret, meaning the pedrl;" or Ida, meaning "godlike;" or Clara, meaning "Hustrious;" or Amelia, meaning 'heart;" or Boatha, meaning "beautiful," and hundreds of other names just as good, that are a help rather than a

But sometimes the great hindrance in life in not in the given name; but in the family name. While legislatures are willing to lift such incubus, there are families that keep a name which mortgages all the generations with a great disadvantage. You say: "I won-Her if he is any relation to So-and-so," mentioning some family celebrated for arime or deception. It is a wonder to ed young man does not rise, taring to his brothers and sisters: "If you want to keen this nuisance or scandalization of a name, I will keep it me longer than until the quickest course of law I can slough of this sangrant." The city directory has hundreds of names the mere pronunciation of which has been a life-long obstacle. If you have started life under a name which either through ridiculous orthography or vicious sugmestion has been an encumbrance. resolve that the next generation shall not he so weighted. It is not bemeaning to change a name. Saul of Tareus became Paul The Apostle, Hadassah. "the myrtle,", became Bather, " the star." We have in America, and I suppose it is so in all countries, names which ought to be abolished, and can be, and, will be abolished for the reason that they are a libel and a slander. But is for any reason you are submorged either by a given name or by a family name that you must bear, God will help you to overcome the outrage by a life consecrated to the good and naetul. You may erase the curse from the name. If it once stood for meanness. you can make it stand for generosity. If once it stood for pride, you can make it stand for humility. If it once stod for fraud, you can make it stand for honesty. If once it stoud for wickedness, you can make it stand for purity. There have been multitutdes of instances where men and women have magnificently conquered the disasters of the name inflicted upon them.

Again, many people labor under the misfortune of incomplete physical equipment. We are by our Creator so economically built that we cannot afford the obliteration of any physical faculty. We want our two eyes, our two ears, our two hands, our two feet, our eight fingers and two thumbs. Yet what, multitudes of people have but one eye, or but one foot! The ordinary casualties of life have been quadrupled, quintupled, sextupled, aye, centupled, in our time by the Civil War, and at the North and South a great multitude are fighting the battle of life with half, or less than half the needed physical armaments. I do not wonder at the pathos of a soldier during the war, who, when told that he must have his hand amputated, said: "Doctor, can't you save it?" and when told that it was impossible, said, with tears rolling down his cheeks: "Well, then, good-bye, old hand; I hate to part with you. You have done me a good service for many years, but it seems you must go. Goodbye."

A celebrated surgeon told me of a scene in the Clinical Department of one of the New York hospitals, when a poor man with a wounded leg was brought in before the students to be operated on. The surgeon was pointing out this and that to the students, and handling the wounded leg, and was about to proceed to amputation, when the poor man leaped from the table and hobbled to the door, and said, "Gentlemen, I am sorry to disappoint you, but by the help of God I will die with my leg on." What a terrific loss is the loss of our physical faculties!

But to full use all the faculties that cemain, and charge on all opposing circumstances with the determination of John of Bohemis, who was totally blind, and yet at a battle cried out, "I pray and beseech you to lead me so far into the fight that I may strike one good-blow with this sword of mine." Do not think so much of what faculties you have lost as of what faculties remain. You have enough left to make yourself felt in three worlds, while you help the earth, and balk hell, and win heaven. Arise from your discouragements, O men and women of depleted or erippied physical faculties and see what, by the special help of God you can accomplish!

The skilled horsemen stood around Bucephaius, unable to mount or manage him, so wild was the steed. But Alexander noticed that the sight of his own shadow seemed to disturb the horse. So Alexander clutched him by the bridle, and turned his head away from the shadow, and toward the sun and the horse's agitation was gone, and Alexander mounted him and rode off, to the astonishment of all who stood by. And what you people need is to have your sight turned away from the shadows of your earthly lot over which you have so long pondered, and your head turned toward the sun-the glorious sun of Gospel consolation, and Christian hope, and spiritual triumph.

Now, suppose a man finds himself in mid-life without education, what is he to do? Do the best he can. The most effective layenes in a former pastoral charge that I ever heard speak on religious themas could, within five minuses of exhortation, break all the laws of English grammer, and if he left any law unfractured he would complete the work of lingual devastation in the prayer with which he followed it. But I would rather have him pray for me. if I were sick or in trouble, then any Christian man I know of, and in that church all the people preferred him in exhortation and prayer to all others. me that is all such families some spirit- pious and had such power with God he | through all the valleys and mountains was irresistible: and as he went on in his prayer sinners repented and saints shouted for joy, and the bareaved seemed to get back their dead in onlegtial companionship. And when he had stopped graying, and as soon as I could wine out of my eyes enough tears to eee the closing hymn, I ended the meeting. fearful that some long-winded prayermeeting bore would pull us down from the seventh heaven.

But what other multitudes there are imder other disadvahtages! .. Here is a Christian woman whese husband thinks religion a sham, and while the wife prays the children one way the husband swears them another. Or here is a Christian man who is trying to do his best for God and the Church, and his wife holds him back and says on the way home from prayer-meeting, where he gave testimony for Christ: 'What a fool you made of yourself! I hope hereafter you will keep still.' And when he would be benevolent and give fifty dollars, she criticises him for not giving fifty cents. I must do justice and publicly thank God that I never proposed at home to give anything for any cause of humanity or religion but the other partner in the domestic firm approved it. And when it seemed beyond my ability and faith in God was necessary, she had threefourths the faith. But I know men who, when they contribute to charitable objects are afraid that the wife shall find it out. What a withering curse such a woman must be to a good

Then there are others under the great disadvantage of poverty. Who ought to get things cheapest? You say those who have little means. But they pay more. You buy coal by the ton, they buy it by the bucket. You buy flour by the barrel, they buy it by the pound. You get apparel cheap, because you pay cash. They pay dear because they have to get trusted. And the Bible was right when it said: "the destruction of the poor is their poverty." Then there are those who made a mistake in early life, and that overshadows all their days. "Do you not know that that man was once in prison," is whispered. Or, "Do you know that that man once attempted suicide?' Or, "Do you know that that man once absconded?" Or, "Do you know that that man was once discharged; for dishonesty?" Perhaps there was only one wrong deed in the man's life, and that one act haunts the subsequent half century of his existence.

Others have unfortunate predominance of some mental faculty, and their rashness throws them into wild enterprises, or their trepidation makes them decline great opportunity, or there is a vein of melancholy in their disposition that defeats them, or they have an endowment of over-mirth that causes the impression of insincerity.

Others have a mighty obstacle in their personal appearance, for which they are not responsible. They forget that God fashioned their features, and their complexion, and their stature, the size of their nose, and mouth, and hands, and save them their gait and their general appearance; and they forget that much of the world's best work and the Church's best work has been done by homely people; and that Paul the Apostle is said to have been hump-backed, and his eye-sight weakened by ophthalmia, while many of the finest in appearance have passed their time in studying killing attitudes and in displaying the rickness of wardrobes-not one ribbon, or west, or sack, or glove, or button, or shoe-string of which they have had brains to earn for

An abcient warrior saw an overnow ering hest come down upon his small company of armed men, and mounting his horse he threw a handful of sand in the sir, crying, "Let their faces be covered with 'confusion!" "I, too, was saved," she sobbed. "But I scarcely know how. After you disappeared from me, I tound myself with two men on a rock, where we lingured miserably till, by God's mercy, we were rescued. But I will tell you all by-and-by. Amos, I have suffered much—oh, so much! Have you no word of love for me, after all these years of misery?"

She clung to me, and would have embraced me, but I flung her from me with a bitter laugh.

"What would you have said to Mr. Druce?" I cried savagely, "if he stood before you instead of me? You believed me to be dead! So did I believe you to be—and hoped it, ay, hoped it! A new misery has come into my life, when I vainly hoped that my troubles were at an end. Love for you! You killed love, and poisoned my heart to you years and years ago, when you betrayed and deserted me. Till then, I cherished you in my heart of hearts, and was true and faithful to you, as I vowed to be. But you —!"

My passion and my grief almost choked me; but if I had not paused from that cause, Mabel's attitude would have arrested further speech. She had risen from her feet, and was now standing by the table. Her trembling lips denoted that she needed some support.

"And you believe the stories that were circulated about me?" she exclaimed, in a tone of mingled pride and despair. "You believe-"

"I believe what I know to be true," I said, interrupting her. "I have lord. to hear no more. Had I been told it was your face I should have seen tonight when I entered this house. I would have flown from it as from a Bestilence. No words! I tell you again I will hear nothing further. But I came here for a surpose; and for my mother's sake, I will ask you if she lives and if you know where she is to be

"She lives," replied Mabel, faintly; "and I know where she is to be found.'

"Thank God for that!" I exclaimed. "You will refuse, I suppose, to tell the where to seek for her."

She was not strong enough to speak. With heaving bosom and clenched hands she directed me to the table by a look. Following her gaze, I saw an envelope on the table, and written on it my mother's name and the addres of a public house.

"Can I take this?" I asked. She nodded, but "made no Curther

There was something heavy in the envelupe. I tore it open, and took from it a small piece of silver and a few copper coins, and flung them on the table. In the blindness of my passion, I did not stop to trace the connection between the addressed envelope and the money inclosed. "Before I go," I said, with my hand on the bandle of the door, "I will tell you, as is my duty, what you may have a right to know. I see that you are poor; I have money. What it is incumbent upon me to do, as your unhappy husband, I will do-but not for love. I live in the old cottage. But do not come yourself, for I will not look upon your face. Write or send, saying what you require and demand, and I will forward it to you. But I waited to hear no more. I reeled down the stairs like a drunken man, with all, my pulses beating furiously. The detective caught my arm and steadled me, and the action recalled me to myself. I placed the envelope in his hand, and asked him if he was acquainted with the place.

"Well," he answered; "it is in the sailors' quarter—one of the common dancing houses."

"Let us hasten there." "You know the name the woman upstairs goes by, I suppose?" he said. "You mean to ask me if I know she is my wife. That is enough, is it

I followed him into the room, where a number of sailors were dancing, and there, standing by the bar at which men were drinking I saw my mother, an old, old woman now, with a basket of nuts on her arm.

Not considering what might be the effects of the sudden surprise upon her. I placed my hand on her shoulder, and looked in her face.

"Some nuts, my lad?" she said, in a thin, piping voice.

"No, no, my lad," she replied. "You mustn't be overfree with your money. "Tie too much the way of sailors, that. 'Tis true I've had the good luck, more than once, to sell out my basket to one man-"

It was useless saying anything more, for she could neither see nor hear me. With a deep sigh she would have falten to the ground, but that I supported her in my arms.

Sitting alone in the little parlor, my thoughts naturally turned on the strange discoveries of the night, and on those events of my life which led up to them. But I could not reduce them to order, my mind was in such a In less than ten minutes we arrived | whirl; and one thought was never absent. "I know my Amos' step," she murmured. 'I have not been dreaming then—and yet it seemed so real. Kiss me, my son."

"Do you feel better, mother?" asked, as I embraced her.

"I am very weak. Amos, I didn't hear your 'Yo, heave, ho,' when you came home to-night. You didn't forget it, my son?"

"No, mother, I did not forget it." "It was your father's call. His lovecall, he sometimes said. I shall hear it soon again. You mustn't grieve, my son, when I am gone. I have had great pleasure in my life. Trouble has come to me in my dreams, but all my happiness has been real waking happiness, and you, Amos, have bestowed it on me. Is Mabel here?"

METHODS, HERE AND ABROAD

Ways of Steering Boats in England, France and Germany.

A comparison of the different methods of doing what is practically the same thing in various parts of the world is both interesting and amusing to the thoughtful observer, says Cassier's Magazine. On American ferryboats the import is well known of the 'ting-ting' or "jilgle-jingle" of the bell by which the man in the wheelhouse communicates with his fellow-mortal in the engine room. On the Thames. however, it would be considered practically impossible to convey information in this manner, and the captains of the small paddle steamers on that stream stand on the paddle-boxes and sing out "Ease er!" "Back 'er!" etc., apparently to nobody in particular. while these interesting remarks are promptly repeated in shrill tones by a small boy into a speaking tube which communicates with the lower regions. On the Beine, in Presee, this process is simplified and a large trumpet-shaped mouthpiece flares out in front of the man at the wheel and he yells his commands into this furnel, the other end of which is supposed to reach the engineen. The large steamers on the Rhine, in Germany, are controlled, not by the usual wheel placed in the wheelhouse dorward, but by a very large wheel on a vertical axis, placed right amidekips upon at elevated platform or bridge, and several man pass the handles from right to left, or mean occanion that round in a circle, and it would doubtless be considered a serious temptation of Providence, or at least a reflection upon the fatherland, if any one were to attempt to construct a Rhine steamer with the ordinary form of steering goo

If you do not wish to write about your wife, bring her a bottle of Lydia R. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, watch its effects; you will soon see the beginning of the improvement then get her another and keep it up until she is restored to you, the same lovely woman you married years ago.

Following we relate the circumstances of a case of this nature. Mrs. Marva Routon, of Camby, Ind., says:

"I have used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and found it to be of great benefit to me. The doctors said I had womb trouble. I had the headache all the time, also a terrible backache, was nervous, cross and irritable. I looked so pale that people would ask me what was the matter. I suffered in this way for about four years, until one day about in despair my husband brought me a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I commenced its use, and much to every one's surprise, it cured me. It has completely changed my disposition for the better also.

"Abraham Losford, the pioneer bar ber of Howell, after a severe illness of about a month and a haif, died last Saturday forencon at the age of 76 years, 5 months and 17 days. Deceased was born in Boon county, Kentucky, December 12, 1820, where he grew up and lived until the latter part of October 1849, being at this time sold as a slave to southern cotton planters. Not agreeing fully with the right of his master to sell him as a slave, he ran away, taking a skiff across the river to the Indiana side, where he secreted himself until late that night, when he again crossed back over the river and told his wife what he had done, bid his wife and tion. child good bye and again crossed the river to Indiana, where he wandered about for some days until he landed in Goshan, where he lived until the year 1850 whence he came to Niles this state from when he went to Canada for a short time, then again returning to Michigan and located in Detroit where he learned the barbers trade and lived until the latter part of Oct., 1855 when he came to Howell being the first colored gentleman that ever entered Livingston county, opened up a barber soop and continued to live as one of its time honored and most law abiding citizens until the time of his death. Possibly true no man was more favorably or better known in Livingston county than the deceased.
