Grand Day of Sports.

THE FIRST MEET OF THE PINCKNEY DRIVING CLUB A SUCCESS.

The day of sports given by the driving club on Saturday last was one to be remembered by all who attended, as everything passed off smoothly and all were satisfied with the sports and the club are to be congratulated on the success of their first meet. People began to arrive early in the morning and by afternoon fully 1,500 people were on the grounds.

The first on the program was the ball game Pinckney vs Hamburg in which the home team was victorious doing up the visiting club by a score of 15 to 7. This game was called in the forenoon and was very interesting. The second game was called at 3:30 and was continued until 6 o'clock the weather being too warm to play ball fast. The score stood 9 to 6 in favor of Stockbridge but for a long time it was hard to tell which one would win the prize. The track was too heavy, having just been completed to do good work on, and the heats were for only $\frac{1}{2}$ mile. There were three races and the following were the winners:

Free for all—Best time 1:21 $\frac{1}{2}$
1st prize Doc Wheeler, owned by Geo. Frazer
2nd prize Gipsy M., owned by F. Beeman
3rd prize John Case horse
Three minute race—Best time 1:30
1st prize Eva S., owned by John Spears
2nd prize Mande W., owned by Geo. White.
3rd prize Wagner, owned by John Tuomey
Running race—Best time 58
1st prize Vindictive, owned by Rob Kelly
2nd prize Molly B., owned by Ed. Spears.

The track while heavy now, will be in fine shape after a good rain or two to settle the earth and a grand stand will be erected for the guests, which will give to Pinckney as good a race course as any in the surrounding country. The club will hold another meet in the near future and the success of field day will insure a large attendance at their future meets.

Miss Gertrude Dolan, formerly of this place but now of Detroit, is the guest of friends and relatives here.

The annual school meeting of this district will be held at the school building on Monday evening next, July 12.

G. A. Sigler had his steamboat on Portage lake Monday and the craft worked nicely. All on the Bluffs were treated to a ride and were very much pleased.

Several picnic parties enjoyed themselves at Portage lake on Monday. What with rowing, sailing, steaming and a good dinner the day passed very pleasantly.

A. B. Green and family attended the commencement exercises at the U. of M., last Thursday where A. B. Jr., received his diploma from the dental department of the institute.

A. B. Green has finished his course at the U. of M., dental department and received his diploma. He has fitted up an office over F. A. Sigler's drug store and for two days in the week, Thursday and Friday, will be prepared to do dental work. Bert is well known here and all who have had dental work done by him speak in the highest praise of it. We wish him success both here and at his main office which will be in Stockbridge.

Word has been received here that J. J. Teeple's Lady Huron, 2:21 $\frac{1}{2}$, is training at Jackson has gone lame. This is bad news as Lady Huron promised to be a good roadster, however she will now be bred to the celebrated pacing stallion, Hal Dillard, 2:04 $\frac{1}{2}$. Hal Dillard was bred by Maj. Campbell Brown, Spring Hill, Tenn., foaled in 1887, 1200 pounds, and now has nine colts in the list. J. L. Booke will hereafter drive H. H. Swarthout's pacer, Go Some, in races but the horse will be in training and under the care of Wm. Wilcox.

MICHIGAN NEWS BRIEFLY TOLD FOR MICHIGANDERS.

Prominent Agricultural College Students Confess Safe Cracking and Robbery—Deputy Oil Inspectors Appointed—Accidental Killing at South Haven

Students Stole the M. A. C. Funds.
The mystery surrounding the robbing and blowing up of the vault in the office of Secretary Butterfield, of the Michigan Agricultural college, on the night of April 6, has been solved. and Clinton D. Butterfield, aged 19, youngest son of Secretary I. H. Butterfield, of the state board of agriculture, and G. Devere Miller, aged 20, son of Dr. Carroll E. Miller, of Cadillac, both students at the college have confessed the crime.

The fathers of the boys were well-nigh crushed by the confession of their sons, but both aided the officers in every possible way to get at the truth of the matter. This done, they figured up the loss to the state and government, and arranged to make it good. The amount taken from the vault was about $3,300. It is understood that $700 was returned by young Butterfield and $840 by Miller. The balance they had spent. Butterfield had got away with the larger sum, it being his extravagant expenditures which led to his detection and the unraveling of the mystery.

Miller and Butterfield have been before the U. S. commissioners and given bail for their appearance at the fall term of the district court.

Michigan's Deputy Oil Inspectors.

State Oil Inspector T. R. Smith, of Lawton, has appointed his deputies for the various districts of the state with the exception of three—the Ninth, Thirteenth and Fourteenth—as follows: First and Second districts—W. P. T. Burdick and Chas. Hinkley, of Detroit. Third—F. J. Temple, of Tecumseh. Fourth—A. Hoover, of Coldwater. Fifth—P. H. Burke, of Kalamazoo. Sixth—A. D. Young, of Niles. Seventh—G. W. Edison, Grand Rapids. Eighth—H. A. Wolff, of Muskegon. Tenth—S. W. La Due, of Corunna. Eleventh—A. W. Wilkinson, of Chelsea. Twelfth—Arthur Curry, of Owasco. Fifteenth—W. E. Rogers, of Alpena. Sixteenth—L. Astrup, of Menominee. Seventeenth—H. S. Goodell, Houghton. Eighteenth—F. E. Withey, Manistee. Nineteenth—F. L. Baldwin, Manistee. Twentieth—C. A. Ingerson, Grayling. Twenty-first—F. Fredericks, Traverse City. Twenty-second—B. F. Brazil, Ironwood.

Fatal Shooting Results From a Joke.

Samuel Ketchum, of Kalamazoo, was shot by his nephew, Bertie Haines, at South Haven, and died in five minutes. The men were staying in a cottage owned by T. E. Thompson, and had been playing jokes on one another, and someone was throwing water into the house. Samuel Ketchum laughingly remarked, "I will put on an old coat, and don't care whether I get wet or not." Just as he stepped outside the house, the shot was fired, striking him in the shoulder and cutting an artery. He bled to death before help could arrive. Bertie Haines said he thought Ketchum was a tramp, when he fired. The coroner's jury rendered a verdict of accidental and unintentional shooting.

Too Much Hypnotism.

The Adrian high school picnic at Sand Lake was spoiled by an incident not on the program. Frank Boyd gave a display of his power by hypnotizing several of the boys. Miss Mary Channer, daughter of Rev. C. H. Channer, desired Boyd to put her under hypnotic influence and he did so effectually. When he brought her to consciousness she fainted, and it was a half hour before she could be brought to her senses. The fainting continued all the way home, and serious results are feared. There are many amateur hypnotists among the high school students, and this time dampened their ardor for the crime.

Blind Tigers Felled.

About midnight Sheriff Lamberson and eight deputies, swooped down upon South Haven and made a raid upon the illegal whisky shops, four "blind" tigers, including Strong's hotel, Barnes' and Geo. Cross'. Four persons were captured. In one of the places is an ingenious device, which is fitted as a Ferris wheel. The money is placed in one of the cars and it is said to bring whatever the fancy demands; shortly afterwards booze is said to appear without anyone knowing from where or how.

Ann Arbor Railway to Enter the U. P.

The Ann Arbor railway has bought the Chicago Lumber Co.'s railroad, spanning from Manistee to within six miles of Lansing and will put in a car clip at Manistee. It will also complete the line to Manistee, with a branch to Neegaunee. The whole line to be 63 miles long. Boats will run all winter to Manistee, and a special boat will continue on the old route to Menominee.

A Michigan Girl's Trouble.

Mrs. Gertrude Allen, Whitaker, daughter of Capt. M. Allen, of Portland, was arrested at Lansing, on a warrant from Denver, Colo., where for several years she has been prominent in politics, having been employed in one of the city departments. It is alleged that she is implicated in an election fraud, and on this the warrant is based. Miss Allen was clerk of her precinct and handled the ballot boxes. It is discovered that they were tampered with, but she denies all knowledge of how it happened. She was notified of the discovery several weeks ago, and immediately wrote offering to return voluntarily and help straighten matters out if wanted. She will be taken to Denver as soon as officers arrive from there.

Nine years ago Mrs. Whitaker went to Lansing from Portland, and cashed a draft for $2,000 at the Lansing National bank, which afterwards, it was alleged, proved to be forged. About the same time she went to Colorado with her cousin, Frank M. Allen. She was caught two years later, brought back and tried for alleged complicity in forgery, but the first jury disagreed, and the case was nolle prossed. Mrs. Whitaker obtained a divorce from her husband and went back to Colorado.

State Bar Association.

The eighth annual convention of the Michigan State Bar association was held at Port Huron. President O'Brien J. Atkinson, in his annual address, gave a history of the association and recommended the reading of biographies of leading members of the bar at future meetings of the association. An animated discussion was had on the new law which admits graduates of the U. of M. law school and of the Detroit College of Law to practice upon the strength of their diplomas. The general trend of the discussion was in opposition to the law. There were a number of other interesting and important matters debated and papers read. The entertainment of the lawyers included a trip on the river to Stag Island and a banquet at the Harrington hotel.

Music Teachers Meet at Detroit.

The twelfth annual convention of the Michigan Music Teachers' association was held at Detroit. Mayor Maybury made a happy speech of welcome and offered to sing a song for the teachers, but the police refused permission for fear of a riot. The program of the convention included several concert and interesting and important papers and addresses upon subjects near the heart of music lovers and teachers, one of the most pleasing entertainments being a program rendered by the celebrated pianist, Leopold Godowsky. Mrs. Ida Norton, of Detroit, was elected president and F. L. Abel, of Detroit, secretary-treasurer, for the ensuing year.

Mother Died for Her Little Ones.

Lightning struck the house of Geo. Copeland during a storm at Stanwood and burned it to the ground at 3 a. m. The grown people escaped from the burning structure without trouble, but Mrs. Baudoin, Copeland's sister-in-law, discovered that her two little children were still in the flames and she rushed in to save them. She succeeded in carrying out her little boy, although he was so badly burned that he may die, and then she returned for her little girl. Neither mother nor child reached the open air again, but both perished.

MICHIGAN NEWS ITEMS.

The Baptist church at Reed City has celebrated its twenty-fifth anniversary. Over 10,000 Macombes from northern Michigan will attend a big picnic at Petoskey, July 14.

An unusual birthday celebration was that of Henry Orth and Mrs. Maria Fulda, twins, aged 90, at Detroit.

Fred Welsh, an old soldier, and quite wealthy, committed suicide at Osceola, by cutting his throat with a penknife. He had been ill for some time.

Uncle Sam has notified Mayor Quintance, of Petoskey, that free mail delivery will be inaugurated there within the next fiscal year.

In the justice court at Manistee the captain and lieutenant of the Salvation Army were fined for holding noisy meetings on a prominent street corner.

Mrs. Darius Stone, aged 70, fell into a cistern at Muir and received probably fatal injuries. The water was above her head and she was saved with difficulty.

A Paris cable says that the recent terrible holocaust at the charities bazaar, at Paris, when 100 of the leading people of France lost their lives, is now believed to have been caused by anarchists.

J. D. S. Hanson, editor of the Hart Journal, was driving with his wife and two daughters, when the team became unmanageable. Hanson and the girls jumped out, but Mrs. Hanson stayed in for nearly a mile, when she jumped, striking upon her head and shoulders, and receiving such injuries that she may die.

The third annual picnic of the Ingham, Eaton and Clinton county pioneer society was held at Leadley's park, Lansing. Some 600 persons were present.

Floyd Elliott, aged 15, displaced his shoulder blade by taking a header from his wheel near Tecumseh, but he bravely mounted the machine again and rode a mile to a doctor.

The large dry goods store of M. Esterson at Sturgis was totally destroyed by a fire, the cause of which is unknown. The loss on stock and building is $16,500; fully insured.

Private Vashaw, a recent recruit in the 19th U. S. infantry, stationed at Ft. Wayne, Detroit, was drowned in the Clinton river in Macomb county, near where his company was engaged in target practice.

Jackson has extended an invitation to the Tri-State Band association to hold its annual convention in Jackson next August. The invitation was accepted by President Smith, of the association, who states that 60 bands will be there.

Samuel Pryor, aged 70, was killed by a Michigan Central train at Albion. Pryor was deaf and partially blind, and was walking in the middle of the track. About 15 years ago at the same place Pryor was struck by a train and had one leg cut off.

Charles Tuttle, an employee of the Upton works, at Port Huron, attempted to commit suicide by the land-anum route, after spending his week's wages on drink. He is not expected to recover. Later—Tuttle died from the poison. He leaves a large family.

While returning home from a neighbor's house, Mrs. James G. Lake, who lives in the outskirts of Sault Ste. Marie, was terribly gored by a cow and may die from the injuries received. Mrs. Lake had shut the cow's calf away from her just before going to the neighbor's.

Bertha Winkler has been sentenced at East Jordan to 90 days at the Detroit house of correction for stealing goods from the East Jordan Lumber Co.'s store. She hid in the store until after it was closed. Her parents are respectable farmers and the girl is only 18 years old and bore a good reputation. A young man believed to be her accomplice has escaped.

The village of Stevensville was terrorized by a gang of 200 tramps who burglarized houses and stole chickens, pigs and calves which they roasted. One of the hoboes was arrested and the gang broke into the jail and released him. Another one was locked up later and when an attempt was made to rescue him the citizens backed up the village marshal with revolvers and landed the fellow in the county jail.

The Saylor Hoop Co., which was established at Gladwin several years ago by the bonus process, has given a mortgage to New York creditors in the sum of $10,000, leaving many local creditors out in the cold. For several years the capital of the hoop business was really supplied by the local tradesmen, who accepted the orders in trade, then took 60 and 90-day paper. Local creditors have attached everything in sight.

Two prominent citizens of Manistee were caught red-handed in the act of drawing nets, under the dam upon the Little Manistee river. They had their nets strung upon a wire, operating an inch below the surface of the water, and strung so that not a fish could come down through the chute without getting caught. They had over a thousand trout in their possession when caught. Attorney-General Maynard will personally conduct the prosecution.

Secretary of State Gardner reports that the cost of maintaining jails the past year was $142,261, of which $123,477 went for board. Traveling and other expenses connected with taking prisoners to jail aggregate $29,910; to prisons $13,206. The total expense of arresting and detaining prisoners was $187,910. The number of prisoners received during the year was 16,432, of whom 1,099 were women. To Jackson prison were sent 280; Ionia, 312; Detroit house of correction, 1,174; boys' reform school, 177; girls' school 40.

Probate judges are receiving circulars from the state authorities relative to the new law which gives them the power to issue marriage licenses and solemnize marriages, under certain circumstances: When the woman is with child; when the woman has lived with the man as his wife, and for reasons deemed sufficient by the judge. For the first two reasons only can licenses be issued to females under 16 years. The strictest secrecy is to be maintained by the court and attaches, and the newspapers are enjoined under penalty of a fine from mentioning such marriages.

The anti-bishop faction of St. Stanislaus' Polish Catholic church at Bay City have begun to despair of a supreme court decision in their favor, and some of the leaders talk strongly of leaving the Catholic church and joining the new Polish independent church, which was organized a few months ago at Scranton, Pa. The new church retains the forms and ritual of Catholicism but is run on the congregational basis. Many of these Bay City Poles have been worshipping in the African M. E. church, while still more have been attending no church at all.

IMPORTANT AND INTERESTING MATTERS IN BRIEF.

Christian Endeavor Excursions on the Way to San Francisco Wrecked and Five Persons Killed—Venezuela Has an Exciting Cabinet Crisis.

Christian Endeavor Trains Wrecked.

The great international Christian Endeavor convention at San Francisco and the low rates made by the railroads attracted many hundreds of excursionists and the dates for the starting of the trains drew such crowds into Chicago that the railroads had hard work to handle them. One large excursion train was sent out from Chicago on the Chicago & Northwestern in nine sections carrying about 6,000, and when about 30 miles out a collision occurred between sections 4 and 5 which had started 15 minutes apart. Section 5 came up behind at great speed and the shock of the collision was terrific. The passengers in the two rear sleepers of section 4 were all in their berths. They received no warning and those not killed outright awoke to find themselves jammed in the wreckage. Passengers on both trains hastened to the spot and began the work of rescue. One of the first of the injured taken out was Engineer Charles Courtney, of section 5. He had struck to his post like a hero and is so seriously injured that he cannot live. The body of an unidentified man, supposed to be a tramp, was found between a baggage car and the engine crushed to death. Three persons were found to be killed outright and about 30 or 35 persons injured. The dead are: Mrs. John Gooding, and Mrs. R. Shipman, both of Appleton, Wis., and the unknown tramp, who was riding between engine and baggage car.

Train 11, on the Vandalia railroad, which left Indianapolis with a large number of Christian Endeavorers, collided with train 6, bound east from St. Louis, near Vandalia, Ind. Two trainmen were killed and two fatally injured, as follows: Killed—R. T. Sherman, mail clerk No. 6, of Indianapolis, and W. P. Coon, baggage man, of Indianapolis, on No. 11. Fatally injured—Samuel Parkinson, mail clerk, of Columbus, O., crushed in the wreck, Frank Owens, fireman, of Terre Haute, mangled under the engine. None of the passengers were seriously injured.

Safe Cracking by Electricity.

Burglars resorted to a novel scheme to open a bank safe at Chagrin Falls, O. They entered the bank of Rogers & Son, after having attached a wire to the trolley line of the electric railway. This wire was run over a trolley and to the safe. Another wire was attached to the rail of the street car track. At the ends of these wires were carbon points, and with these an attempt was made with the arc light thus formed to melt the knob of the combination. The experiment worked all right and the knob had been nearly melted away when the current was shut off at the street railway power house shortly after midnight. The burglars then gave up the task. The job was planned scientifically and would have proven successful within a few minutes.

Cabinet Crisis in Venezuela.

Dispatches from Caracas, Venezuela, state that the cabinet has resigned owing to differences over the British Guiana boundary question. President Crespo was unable to harmonize the differences in the official family over the boundary arbitration treaty, the element that contended that the provisions of that agreement ignored the sovereignty of Venezuela in stipulating that Great Britain and the United States only, and not Venezuela also, name the members of the tribunal of arbitration, having continued implacable. The resignation of these members of the cabinet and the consequent crisis caused great excitement. A new cabinet has been formed, however.

Boles Says 16 to 1 Can't Win.

"For one, I do not believe it possible to succeed upon a platform that demands the unqualified coinage of silver on the ratio of 16 to 1 with gold. We have fought that battle and it is lost. We can never fight it over under circumstances more favorable to ourselves. If we hope to succeed, we must abandon this extreme demand." In these words Horace Boles, former governor of Iowa and erstwhile Democratic presidential aspirant, addresses the voters of the United States who demand the free coinage of silver, in a letter to Col. D. M. Fox of Des Moines.

Houses Blown up by Dynamite.

A dynamite explosion in South Scranton, Pa., blew up the business block of Leon Olchowski, a double dwelling owned by him and the nearby home of Michael O'Hara. The business block was torn to pieces, and 30 other houses had all the windows blown out and plaster torn from the walls. The shock was felt all over the city. Olchowski was fatally injured in saving his wife. He alleges that the explosion was the work of enemies he made during political and church disputes.

THE 58TH CONGRESS AT WORK.

SENATE—74th day.—Owing to rapid progress made during the day, in spite of stubborn contests on a number of paragraphs the Senate completed the wool schedule, the sugar schedule and the tobacco schedule of the tariff bill, and with this accomplished the tariff leaders had the satisfaction of knowing that "all the shreds" of the bill and the free list had been gone over once. There now remains only to go through the bill a second time, passing on items passed over. These are very numerous and important.

SENATE—75th day.—An abrupt and startling halt in the tariff debate occurred when, in the midst of a speech, Senator Pettigrew, silver Republican, of South Dakota, was stricken with paralysis of the vocal cords which brought his vehement speech to a close with a sentence half uttered. The Senator was not physically incapacitated, except in the sudden loss of his voice. Although he took his seat unaided, his associates felt that grave possibilities were involved in such an attack. They were quickly by his side and he was ministered to with as little confusion as possible. He left the chamber soon after and was taken home by his friends. The debate proceeded, but no further progress on the tariff bill was made, and the awe-like feeling occasioned by this incident led to an early adjournment. Later in the day Mr. Pettigrew was reported to be rapidly recovering.

SENATE—76th day.—Good progress was made on the tariff bill, disposing of the paragraphs relating to hides which have been the source of much controversy. The discussion was protracted, drifting into a general debate on trusts, and to a severe arraignment of the sugar trust by Messrs. Caffery and Lindsay, and a general discussion of means to deal with trusts by Mr. Hoar.

SENATE—77th day.—After tedious consideration of the tariff bill throughout the day—the lead paragraphs being disposed of—the Senate wound up with a half hour of lively and amusing colloquy between Senators Tillman, of South Carolina, and Chandler, of New Hampshire. The former had proposed an amendment to the tariff bill, providing a $100 a head tax on immigrants, and a restriction against all those not coming to the United States to become citizens. Mr. Tillman made an earnest speech on the depressed condition of labor, but was diverted from his theme by Mr. Chandler. The latter, adopting a style of mock gravity, directed the discussion toward Mr. Cleveland's administration. This brought from Mr. Tillman a vehement criticism of the late President, while Mr. Chandler drooped protest against these assaults on Mr. Cleveland by a member of his own party. The Tillman amendments were finally defeated.

Steamer Went Down—69 Lives Lost.

The missing steamer Aden, which left Yokohama on April 28, for London via Aden, Arabia, is a total loss, having been dashed to pieces off the island of Socotra, at the eastern extremity of Africa, on June 9. The unfortunate steamer carried 34 passengers from Japan besides the crew. The steamer Mayo, which went in search of the missing vessel, saved nine of the Aden's crew. In all it is thought that 69 persons lost their lives in the disaster by being swept overboard one by one during the storm. The Mayo saved nine of the Aden's passengers and three of the white and 33 of the natives of the steamer's crew. All of these persons were rescued just as the Aden was breaking up.

Three Killed by a Boiler Explosion.

The boiler of an engine exploded near Adairsville, Ga., killing three men instantly and fatally wounding four others, while still another man had his legs mangled so badly that they had to be amputated. Low water caused the explosion. All of the dead and injured were white except one.

Interesting Items.

J. D. Ragers found a swarm of bees in the Baptist church one day last week. A swarm is also reported to be working in the attic of Carrol Stephens' residence.—Stockbridge Brief.

The bail for costs in the case of Thomas W. Brewer vs George Barnes and the case of Thomas W. Brewer vs Almon L. Chase was fixed at $75 for each case. The bonds have been given in both cases.—Herald.

Peter Morgan of Howell slipped on a banana peeling while coming out of the postoffice last Wednesday evening and fell striking his left hand on the point of a fender on the window tearing it badly. "Pete" is well known in this vicinity.

Some men think that the gratification of curiosity is the end of knowledge; some the love of fame; some the pleasure of dispute; some the necessity of supporting themselves by their knowledge is this, that we should dedicate that reason which was given us by God to the use and advantage of man.

Ralph Carr is the possessor of fifteen consecutive "Honorary Cards" from the Fowlerville Union school, which means that he has been neither absent or tardy for the last five years. He lives nearly a mile and a half from the school. It is a record any boy may well feel proud of.—Review.

Parties have been looking over the ground for an electric railroad from Jackson to Howell via Dansville.—Williamston Enterprise. An electric road from Detroit to Lansing has its advocates also. Electric roads are destined to thread our country like net work of a wire sieve.—Herald. Right you are Bro. Brewer.

A huge boulder makes a simple but imposing monument. One weighing 45 tons has been placed on the southern shore of Long Island, where Nathan Hale after-executed as a spy was captured by British soldiers. The boulder bears three tablets with inscriptions bearing his famous sentence: "I only regret that I have but one life to give my country."

Men who use the newspapers more or less will be interested in knowing about the rates charged by some of the publications in this country. The last page of Munsey's Magazine has been sold for one year to four advertisers each of whom occupy a quarter of a page and pay $6,000 making a total of $24,000 for the page. One line in the Youth's Companion costs $5 a time while a page in the Ladies' Home Journal costs $4,000 an issue.

"You are not the only —." That is about all one hears nowadays and it is interesting to learn that he is not the only —. The dash represents an individual of almost every conceivable species. It is gratifying to learn that you are not the only pebble on the beach, the only button in the contribution box, the only flea on the dog, the only can on the dump, the only dog in the pond, the only oyster in the stew, the only poster on the fence, the only skirt in the window, the only seed in the pumpkin, the only cloud in the sky, the only clerk in the store.

The merchant who prints his business card with a rubber stamp seldom makes a good impression.

Indulge in procrastination and in time you will come to this, that because a thing ought to be done, therefore you can't do it.

Man, in society, is like a flower blown in its native bud. It is there only that his faculties, expanded in full bloom, shine out, there only reach their proper use.

Stowe Bros. and Mark Smith of Isasco delivered to E. A. Stowe last Thursday three-quarters of a car of wool in three loads, the largest load weighing 3,185 lbs which was probably the largest load ever drawn to Howell.—Democrat.

A western writer says that shearing sheep by hand is fast disappearing. At Casper, Wyoming he saw thirty-six men shearing sheep by the aid of a gasoline engine and making better time and getting more wool than by the old method. It is stated by the best judges that at least a pound more wool is taken from each sheep by the machine method than by hand and the cut is much smoother, while at the same time two men can turn out as much work with steam as three could by hand.

The law making it a duty of judges of probate to issue marriage licenses and perform ceremonies of marriage in certain cases will take effect August 29, and the secretary of state has issued a circular calling the attention of the probate judges to the law. The statute is intended for the protection of the reputation of certain females. Special attention is called to the provision of the law requiring strict secrecy to be observed concerning marriages of this class. They are not to be talked about by the judges, their deputies or assistants, or by the physician indorsing the application. A penalty is provided for the publishers of newspapers who publicity to such marriages. What a legislature the one of 1897 of Michigan was anyway.—Democrat.

A Valuable Prescription.

Editor Morrison, of the Worthington, Ind. Sun writes: "you have a valuable prescription in Electric Bitters, and I can cheerfully recommend it for constipation and sick headache, and as a general system tonic it has no equal."

He who thinks his place below him will certainly be below his place.

The Power of Saying No.

Somebody has said that to give a young man power to say no is a grander gift than giving him a thousand pounds. There is a large family of Pliables in existence—folks born with back bones. I like a youth who can look one in the face and if a thing is a lie say so and if it is true, hold to it though all the world is against him. You will get such boys as these from bands of hope, for if they say no in connection with drink they can say no in connection with other things.

A little fellow who had been brought up a staunch teetotaler was about to be apprenticed. The foreman offered him a glass of beer. The little fellow said, "I don't touch that stuff."

"Halloo youngster" replied the foreman "we have no teetotalers here."

"If you have me, you will have one" returned the boy.

The foreman was irritated and holding up the glass of beer he said "Now, my boy, there is only one master; you'll either have this inside or outside."

The little fellow said: "Well you can please yourself. I brought my clean jacket with me and a good character. You may spoil my jacket but you shan't spoil my character."

With the fund left by Benjamin Franklin to the Boston printing trade, amounting now to some $400,000, it is proposed to erect a labor temple.

"Last summer one of our grandchildren was sick with a severe bowel trouble" says Mrs. E. G. Gregory of Fredrickstown, Mo. "Our doctor's remedies had failed, then we tried Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, which gave very speedy relief." For sale by F. A. Sigler.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

There is nothing to prevent Liliuokalani standing on the coaching lines and making a noise.

Lieut. Peary has left Washington for his trip to the Arctic seas. We trust it may not prove to be a fool's errand.

It must be conceded that the Fourth of July orator had plenty of material for screeching purposes this year.

The determined fight for the interests of the Western Wool grower, made in the Senate by Senators Thurston, Teller, Foraker, Carter and others resulted in a victory for the sheep raiser.

Mr. Foraker did not attend the convention of the Ohio Republicans. He remained in Washington to sit up with the tariff bill. In the autumn he will go to Ohio to sit up with Mr. Hanna.

General Lee, our Consul General at Cuba, has forwarded a letter to the State Department, stating that there are 1,300 American citizens who are now receiving assistance from this government from the appropriation recently made by Congress.

Mark Hanna as a business man is one thing; Mark Hanna as a politician is quite another. As a business man, Mr. Hanna wants the duty on coal reduced to 40 cents a ton; as a politician he will vote for the 60 cents a ton duty provided in the new tariff bill.

Hon. William H. Fleming, of Augusta, Ga., is one of the new members from the South who is unfettered by party prejudice and whose broad patriotism enables him to rise above the dictates of party creed. He believes the dictates of party leaders should be ignored if necessary to bring industrial happiness.

"Bloomer socials" are becoming very popular throughout the state but anyone who goes to one with the expectation of seeing any unusual display of hosiery will get left. The "bloomers" are not that kind but cut flowers in full bloom.

The editor of a juvenile publication recently received the following:

Mister editor:
dear sir,
please stop yore paper. sister Annie died on Monday after reading your last weeks number.

At last accounts the paper was still going, though its subscription list was shorter by one name.

Does the time at which the sleep is obtained, provided it is sufficient in amount, make any change in the result? In brief, is there any truth in the old adage that an hour before midnight is worth two after midnight? I had an opportunity to make some study of this subject in my naval service during the late war. On shipboard, as is undoubtedly known to most of you, the ship's company—officers and men alike—stand four-hour watches day and night, and to get the required amount of rest are obliged to get their sleep irregularly; to so arrange it so that the same man shall not be obliged to take early or late watches continuously the "dog watch" of two hours is interpolated, thus adding to the irregularity. In watching the results over two years I could never discover that the watch officers and the men were not as fully refreshed by their sleep as were the medical and pay officers, who stand no watch, and have hours as regular as those of any householder.—Dr. E. P. Colby, in the New England Medical Gazette.

The child taught to believe any occurrence a good or evil omen, or any day of the week lucky, hath a wide inroad made upon the soundness of his understanding.

John Wolverton plowed out nine blue racers last week, the longest being nine feet and the shortest six feet. They were all killed. One loving fellow coiled around one of John's limbs and we are safe in saying he made some lively moves to dislodge his snakeship.—Dansville Eagle.

Pat McCabe is the owner of what may be properly designated "a happy family." The members of it form a very unique collection and consist of two great-horned owls, a long-eared owl, a crow and a game rooster, all of which live together in the happiest manner in a cage about four by six feet in dimensions.—Dexter Leader.

Five years ago a man named Viogt stole a ride on a railroad in Colorado. Recently he became a Christian and was smitten with remorse to such an extent that he sent a written confession to the company, inclosing $1.65, being his fare at the rate of three cents a mile with interest added. As a matter of fact, the fare at that time was four cents a mile and the company has sent the man a demand for 52 cents in addition.—Ex. Railroads always get what they demand even of legislatures.

The reports of the sheriffs of the state for the last fiscal year show that 16,889 prisoners, of whom 1,099 were women, occupied the different county jails. Of these prisoners 280 were sentenced to states prison, 312 to the state house of correction, 1,174 to the industrial school for boys and 40 to the industrial school for girls. There were 31 escapes during the year. The cost of maintaining the jails for the year and arresting and conveying prisoners to penal institutions was $187,908.71.

A Duluth man is about to patent an airship to be operated by compressed air. He calls it this.

The man in Moscow who has been pensioned because he has eighty-seven living children may, with propriety, be called a happy father.

Senator Tillman keeps right on talking the sugar trust with the pitchfork and there is no use trying to disguise the fact that the people like it.

Who can answer the Denver Post, which asks, "What can be more ridiculous than a pair of checked bloomers on a pair of beanpole legs?" We give it up.

A young woman who is under hypnotic control in Mount Clemens, Mich., "sings in a language she doesn't understand." She may be fitting herself for an operatic career.

The Philadelphia Press notes that "Lansing, Mich., attributes the falling off in its number of saloons to the bicycles." It is also true that saloons have caused a falling off of bicycles.

In his account of the Sharkey-Maher fight Corbett neglected to state that he wished the police or somebody had stopped another fight in the same round that was made the last in the New York mill.

That's a pretty story that was told to the Sunday-school children at the recent celebration of the bicentennial at Trinity church in New York. A little chambermaid applied to the bishop for confirmation, and being asked on what grounds she based her request she said that she always swept under the rug.

According to information received at Washington, D. C., an egg famine has resulted in Cuba from the war, and United States Vice Consul Hyatt at Santiago suggests that there is an excellent market there for American eggs. The eggs sell in Cuba for about 40 cents a dozen. The duties amount to about 10 cents a dozen.

Evidence that the world moves war to have been expected from the Universal Postal Congress in Washington. Perhaps the most striking bit of testimony was the decision of Korea to come into the postal union. It is only a few years since Korea was known throughout the civilized world as the "hermit kingdom," but there is nothing hermit-like in this desire of the Koreans.

Curse cards are being used in Switzerland and Germany to check profanity. People go about with the cards in their pockets, and whenever they hear bad language present one to the swearer to sign. The card has printed on it a pledge to abstain from swearing for a specified time or to pay a penning an oath to some charity. Nearly 40,000 cards have been distributed in Switzerland, where there are three languages to swear in.

Deming, New Mexico, dispatches say: At no previous time has there been such activity in the Mexican cattle trade as now. In the first four months of the year 825 cars have been loaded and shipped from the Deming yards, containing a total of 22,000 head. In March 19,000 head were shipped out of Mexico at this point. For April the Mexican cattle shipments from here amount to about 21,000 head. From the state of Chihuahua the figures are far greater. The increase has been tremendous. During April of 1904 14,904 head of beef cattle were shipped from Chihuahua to the United States, while the April shipments for this year have reached as high as 72,644, and this is 72,000 head in excess of the shipments for the preceding month.

According to the official statistics of our commerce the first consignments of Egyptian cotton coming directly to the United States were received during the fiscal year 1884, and amounted to 174,346 pounds. From this small beginning our direct imports rapidly increased until in the fiscal year 1896 they had reached no less a figure than 42,774,700 pounds. With the exception of Egypt, the only cotton-producing country from which the United States imports any considerable amount is Peru. The Peruvian cotton, like the Egyptian, owes its use in this country to certain peculiarities of quality that make it better fitted for some special purposes than our own varieties, but neither the Peruvian nor the Egyptian can properly be said to come into direct competition with our native cottons. As compared with the Egyptian, however, the quantity of Peruvian cotton imported is very small. The largest importation ever recorded, that for the fiscal year 1893, amounted to only 3,411,619 pounds.

TALMAGE'S SERMON.

A TRIBUTE TO LAWYERS IN LAST SUNDAY'S DISCOURSE.

From the Text: "Bring Zenas the Lawyer"—Titus Chapter 2, Verse 13—Trials, Temptations and Triumphs of the Profession.

HE profession of the law is here introduced, and within two days in the capital city 303 young men joined it, and at this season in various parts of the land other hundreds are taking their diplomas for an illustrious profession, and is it not appropriate that I address such young men from a moral and religious standpoint, as upon them are now rolling the responsibilities of that calling represented in the text by Zenas the lawyer.

We all admire the heroic and rigorous side of Paul's nature, as when he stands coolly deliberate on the deck of the corn ship while the jack-tars of the Mediterranean are cowering in the cyclone; as when he stands undaunted amid the marbles of the palace, before thick-necked Nero, surrounded with his twelve cruel lieutenants; as when we find him earning his livelihood with his own needle, sewing hair-cloth, and preaching the gospel in the interstices; as when we find him able to take the thirty-nine lashes, every stroke of which fetched the blood, yet continuing in his missionary work; as when we find him, regardless of the consequence to himself, delivering a temperance lecture to Felix, the government inebriate. But sometimes we catch a glimpse of the mild and genial side of Paul's nature. It seems that he had a friend who was a barrister by profession. His name was Zenas, and he wanted to see him. Perhaps he had formed the acquaintance of this lawyer in the court-room. Perhaps, sometimes, when he wanted to ask some question in regard to Roman law, he went to this Zenas, the lawyer. At any rate, he had a warm attachment for the man, and he provides for his comfortable escort and entertainment as he writes to Titus: "Bring Zenas the lawyer."

This man of my text belonged to a profession in which are many ardent supporters of Christ and the Gospel. Among them, Blackstone, the great commentator on English law; and Wilberforce, the emancipator; and the late Benjamin F. Butler, attorney general of New York; and the late Charles Chauncey, the leader of the Philadelphia bar; and Chief Justices Marshall, and Tenterden, and Campbell, and Sir Thomas More, who died for the truth on the scaffold, saying to his agonized executioner: "Pluck up courage, man, and do your duty; my neck is very short; be careful, therefore, and do not strike away."

Among the mightiest pleas that ever have been made by tongue of barrister, have been pleas in behalf of the Bible and Christianity—as when Daniel Webster stood in the supreme court at Washington, pleading in the famous Girard will case, denouncing any attempt to educate the people without giving them at the same time moral sentiment, as "low, ribald and vulgar delusion and infidelity"; as when Samuel L. Southard, of New Jersey, the leader of the forum in his day, stood on the platform at Princeton College commencement, advocating the literary excellence of the Scriptures; as when Edmund Burke, in the famous trial of Warren Hastings, not only in behalf of the English government, but in behalf of elevated morals, closed his speech in the midst of the most august assemblage ever gathered in Westminster Hall, by saying: "I impeach Warren Hastings in the name of the house of commons, whose national character he has dishonored; I impeach him in the name of the people of India, whose rights and liberties he has subverted; I impeach him in the name of human nature, which he has disgraced; in the name of both sexes, and of every rank, and of every station, and of every situation in the world, I impeach Warren Hastings."

No other profession more needs the grace of God to deliver them in their temptations, to comfort them in their trials, to sustain them in the discharge of their duty. While I would have you bring the merchant to Christ, and while I would have you bring the farmer to Christ, and while I would have you bring the mechanic to Christ, I address you now in the words of Paul to Titus: "Bring Zenas the lawyer." By so much as his duties are delicate, and great, by so much does he need Christian stimulus and safeguard. We all become clients. I do not suppose there is a man fifty years of age, who has been in active life, who has not been afflicted with a lawsuit. Your name is assaulted, and you must have legal protection. Your boundary line is invaded, and the courts must re-establish it. Your patent is infringed upon, and you must make the offending manufacturer pay the penalty. Your treasures are taken, and the thief must be apprehended. You want to make your will, and you do not want to follow the example of those who, for the sake of saving $100 from an attorney, imperil $250,000, and keep the generation following for twenty years quarrelling about the estate, until it is all exhausted. You are struck at by an assassin, and you must invoke for him the penitentiary. All classes of persons in course of time become clients, and therefore they are all interested in the morality of the Christian integrity of the legal profession. "Bring Zenas the lawyer."

But how is an attorney decide as to what are the principles by which he should conduct himself in regard to his clients? On one extreme, Lord Brougham will appear, saying: "The innocence or guilt of your client is nothing to you. You are to save your client regardless of the torment, the suffering, the destruction of others. You are to know but one man in the world—your client. You are to save him though you should bring your country into confusion. At all hazards you must save your client." So says Lord Brougham. But no right-minded lawyer could adopt that sentiment. On the other extreme, Cicero will come to you and say: "You must never plead the cause of a bad man," forgetful of the fact that the greatest villain on earth ought to have a fair trial and that an attorney cannot be judge and advocate at the same time. It was grand when Lord Erskine sacrificed his attorney-generalship for the sake of defending Thomas Paine in his publication of his book called "The Rights of Man," while, at the same time, he, the advocate, abhorred Thomas Paine's irreligious sentiments. Between these two opposite theories of what is right, what shall the attorney do? God alone can direct him. To that chancery he must be appellant, and he will get an answer in an hour. Blessed is that attorney between whose office and the throne of God there is perpetual, reverential, and prayerful communication. That attorney will never make an irreparable mistake. True to the habits of your profession, you say: "Cite us some authority on the subject." Well, I quote to you the decision of the supreme court of heaven: "If any lack wisdom, let him ask of God, who giveth to all men liberally, and upbraideth not, and it shall be given him."

There are two or three forms of temptation to which the legal profession is especially subject. The first of all is scepticism. Controversy is the life-time business of that occupation. Controversy may be incidental or accidental with us; but with you it is perpetual. You get so used to pushing the sharp question "Why?" and making unaided reason superior to the emotions, that the religious of Jesus Christ, which is a simple matter of faith, and above human reason, although not contrary to it, has but little chance with some of you. A brilliant orator wrote a book, on the first page of which he announced this sentiment: "An honest God is the noblest work of man!" Scepticism is the mightiest temptation of the legal profession, and that man who can stand in that profession, resisting all solicitations to infidelity, and can be as brave as George Briggs, of Massachusetts, who stepped from the gubernatorial chair to the missionary convention, to plead the cause of a dying race; then on his way home from the convention, on a cold day, took off his warm cloak and threw it over the shoulders of a thinly clad missionary, saying: "Take that and wear it, it will do you more good than it will me," or like Judge John McLean, who can step from the supreme court room of the United States on to the anniversary platform of the American Sunday School Union, its most powerful orator—deserves congratulations and encomium. Oh, men of the legal profession, let me beg of you to quit asking questions in regard to religion, and begin believing. The mighty men of your profession, Story, and Keft, and Mansfield, became Christians, not through their heads, but through their hearts. "Except ye become as a little child, ye shall in no wise enter the kingdom of God." If you do not become a Christian, Oh, man of the legal profession, until you can reason this whole thing out in regard to God and Christ and the immortality of the soul, you will never become a Christian at all. Only believe. "Bring Zenas the lawyer."

Another mighty temptation for the legal profession is Sabbath breaking. The trial has been going on for ten or fifteen days. The evidence is all in. It is Saturday night. The judge's gavel falls on the desk, and he says: "Crier, adjourn the court until ten o'clock Monday morning." On Monday morning the counsellor is to sum up the case. Thousands of dollars, yea, the reputation and life of his client may depend upon the success of his plea. How will he spend the intervening Sunday? There is not one lawyer out of a hundred that can withstand the temptation to break the Lord's day under such circumstances. And yet, if he does, he hurts his own soul. What, my brother, you cannot do before twelve o'clock Saturday night, or after twelve o'clock Sunday night, God does not want you to do at all. Besides that, you want the twenty-four hours of Sabbath rest to give you that electrical and magnetic force which will be worth more to you before the jury than all the elaboration of your case on the sacred day. My intimate and trusted friend, the late Judge Neilson, in his interesting reminiscences of Rufus Choate, says that during the last case that gentleman tried in New York, the court adjourned from Friday until Monday, on account of the illness of Mr. Choate; but the chronicler says that on the intervening Sabbath he saw Mr. Choate in the old "Brick Church," listening to the Rev. Dr. Gardner Spring. I do not know whether, on the following day, Rufus Choate won his cause or lost it; but I do know that his Sabbath rest did not do him any harm. Every lawyer is entitled to one day's rest out of seven. If he surrenders that, he robs three—God, his own soul, and his client. Lord Castlereagh and Sir Thomas Romilly were the leaders of the bar in their day. They both died suicides. Wilberforce accounts for their aberration of intellect on the ground that they were unintermittent in their work, and they never rested on Sunday. "Poor fellow!" said Wilberforce, in regard to Castlereagh. "Poor fellow! it was non-observance of the Sabbath." Chief Justice Hale says: "When I do not properly keep the Lord's day, all the rest of the week is unhappy and unsuccessful, in my worldly employment." I quote to-day from the highest statute book in the universe: "Remember the Sabbath day to keep it holy." The legal gentleman who breaks that statute may seem for awhile to be advantaged; but in the long run, the men who observe this law of God will have larger retainers, vagter influence, greater professional success than those men who break the statute. Observance of the law of God pays not only spiritually and eternally, but it pays in hard dollars, or bank bills.

Another powerful temptation of the legal profession is to artificial stimulus. No one except those who have addressed audiences knows about the nervous exhaustion that sometimes comes afterward. The temptation to strong drink approaches the legal profession at that very point. Then a trial is coming on. Through the ill-ventilated court room, the barrister's health has been depressed for days and for weeks. He wants to rally his energy. He is tempted to resort to artificial stimulus. It is either to get himself up, or let himself down, that this temptation comes upon him. The flower of the American bar, ruined in reputation and ruined in estate, said in his last moments: "This is the end. I am dying on a borrowed bed, covered with a borrowed sheet, in a house built by public charity. Bury me under that tree in the middle of the field, that I may not be crowded; I always have been crowded."

Another powerful temptation of the legal profession is to allow the absorbing duties of the profession to shut out thoughts of the great future. You know very well that you who have so often tried others, will after a while be put on trial yourselves. Death will serve on you a writ of ejectment, and you will be put off these earthly premises. On that day, all the affairs of your life will be presented to a "bill of particulars." No certiorari from a higher court, for this is the highest court. The day when Lord Exeter was tried for high treason; the day when the house of commons moved for the impeachment of Lord Lovat; the days when Charles I. and Queen Caroline were put upon trial; the day when Robert Emmet was arraigned as an insurgent; the day when Blennerhassett was brought into the court room because he had tried to overthrow the United States government, and all the other great trials of the world are nothing compared with the great trial in which you and I shall appear summoned before the Judge of quick and dead. There will be no pleading there "the statute of limitations," no "turning state's evidence," trying to get off yourselves, while others suffer; no "moving for a nonsuit." The case will come on inexorably, and we shall be tried. You, my brother, who have so often been advocate for others, will then need an advocate for yourself. Have you selected him? The Lord Chancellor of the universe. If any man sin, we have an Advocate—Jesus Christ the righteous. It is uncertain when your case will be called on. "Be ye also ready."

Depew and the Scotchman. Scotchmen do not like to be reminded of the saying that it requires a surgical operation to make them see a joke, and, as a matter of fact, they are as susceptible to the influence of most good stories as anybody else. Dr. Depew, however, seems hardly to believe this, though he has many warm friends among Scotchmen, including Ian MacLaren himself. Once at a Scotch dinner the doctor said that if the jokes uttered by him that evening were not instantly appreciated they surely would be by the time the next annual dinner was held.

"I don't think that's a very funny thing to say," was the growling comment of a handsome old Scot sitting near by.

"Oh," said Depew, "that's all right. You'll see the fun of it a year from now."—Exchange.

OHIO SILVER DEMOCRATS.

The Ohio Silver Democrats' convention at Columbus was one of the most important political events in the history of the state. It was a convention of democracy on principles and of differences of men, especially on those who were candidates for places on the state ticket. It was a free silver convention, throughout. Every candidate whose name was presented was announced as orthodox in silver doctrine as the cardinal principle for his favorable consideration. While there was no place on the state ticket accorded to either the silver Republicans or to the Populists, yet representatives of both those elements co-operated in the convention. The silver Republicans and the Populists are themselves responsible for having no representatives on the ticket as they would not ask it and stated that they were more interested in the platform than in the office.

The convention was organized with the temporary officers—Chairman, Ulric Sloane; secretary, W. A. Taylor—being made permanent. The great demonstration of the convention followed that part of Chairman Sloane's speech in which he referred to Wm. J. Bryan as the leader of the silver cause for 1900. A large gold cross was carried into the hall and caused an immense display of enthusiasm. It had as ornaments the crown of thorns and a clock indicating 16 minutes to 1 o'clock.

When the nominations for candidates for governor were called for the names of Paul J. Sorg, Allen D. Smalley, Allen W. Thurman, D. D. Donovan, R. T. Hough, Horace L. Chapman, S. M. Hunter, I. M. Van Meter, A. W. Patrick and Jas. A. Rice were presented. "It had been clearly evidenced in the preliminaries that the forces of John R. McLean, of Cincinnati, had control of the convention and while it had been generally believed that Judge Hough, of Highland county, would be the McLean candidate circumstances arose which caused them to take up Chapman instead. On the first ballot, however, the McLean votes were carefully scattered to prevent making a too sudden display of their strength, but on the second ballot they threw enough votes to Chapman to give a nice majority. His nomination was then made unanimous and, although there was a large field of candidates for each office, the ticket was completed without much trouble as follows: H. H. Henshaw, governor, Melville D. Shaw, supreme judge, J. P. Spriggs, attorney general, W. H. Dore, state treasurer, James F. Wilson, board of public works, Peter H. Deegan, school commissioner, Byron H. Hard.

The platform adopted is for free silver and nothing else. It simply reaffirms the Chicago platform and repeats the language of the financial plank only.

The silver Republicans held a conference after the convention and expressed much indignation. They said it was true they had announced that they did not want a place on the state ticket, but only after they were told they could not have it. They appointed a state committee to call a convention to nominate a separate ticket. The Populists also announced that they would hold a state convention and have a separate ticket. The Prohibitionists will have two separate tickets so that there will be at least six state tickets in the field in Ohio this fall.

Eight Killed in a Shocking Wreck. The St. Louis express on the Wabash railway plunged through a trestle at Missouri City, Mo., carrying down the entire train with the exception of the rear car, a Pullman. The gorgeous train, which was previously packed practically empty, had become a raging torrent because of a tremendous downpour of rain and the structure weakened. Seven persons were killed outright, including five postal clerks, a baggage man and a brakeman. The conductor was laid out with the dead, but was later discovered to be alive and was removed to a hospital. He can scarcely recover from his injuries, however. Twenty passengers were injured, but none fatally.

Knights of St. John. The nineteenth annual international convention of the Knights of St. John at Erie, Pa., proved one of the largest and most interesting ever held. The officers elected were: Supreme spiritual adviser, Rt. Rev. John S. Foley, bishop of Detroit; supreme president, Henry J. West, of Wapakoneta, O.; first supreme vice-president, George M. Geiger, of Bellevue, Ky.; second supreme vice-president, William R. Moran, of Denver; supreme secretary, M. J. Kane, Buffalo; supreme treasurer, Lewis N. Werner, of Sandusky, O.; supreme trustees, John F. O'Leary, of Peoria, Ill.; John Todenbier, of Detroit.

INTERNATIONAL PRESS ASSOCIATION.

The day following there was a simple funeral, in a solitary burial-place, seldom used, and lying within a short distance of the spot where the body was found. Mr. Lorraine defrayed the expenses out of his own pocket, saw that everything was decently, though simply arranged, and himself read the beautiful burial service over the coffin. He had now no doubt in his mind that the drowned woman was the mother of the infant left under his care, and that by destroying herself she had simply carried out her desperate determination.

All attempts to identify her, however, continued without avail. Inquiries were made on every side, advertisements inserted in the local newspapers, without the slightest result; no one came forward to give any information. But by this time the minister's mind was quite made up. He would keep the child, and, with God's blessing, rear her as his own; he would justify the unhappy mother's dependence on his charity and loving kindness.

So it came to pass that late in the gloaming of the old bachelor's life the cry of a child was heard in the lonely house; and somehow or other, despite Solomon Muckelbach's prognostications, the house became brighter and merrier for the sound. Solomon himself soon fell under the spell, and when a little warm with whisky he would allude to the child, with a comic sense of possession, as "oor bairn."

At last, one day, there was a quiet christening in the old kirk, where Mr. Lorraine had officiated so many years. Myrtle held the infant in her arms, while Solomon stood at hand, blinking through his horn spectacles, and the minister performed the simple ceremony.

After long and tender deliberation the minister had fixed upon a name, which he now gave to the poor little castaway, who had neither father nor mother, nor any kinsfolk in the world after whom she could be called.

He christened her Marjorie Annan. Marjorie, after that other beloved Marjorie, who had long before, leaped—or so he dreamed—the bright celestial band; Annan, after that troubled water wherein the miserable mother had plunged and died.

CHAPTER IV.

N A BRIGHT morning of early spring, between sixteen and seventeen years after the events described in the first chapters of this story, a golden-haired young girl might have been seen tripping down the High street of the market town of Dumfries. Her dress was prettily if not over-fashionably cut, a straw hat shaded her bright blue eyes, and her boots and gloves were those of a lady. Under her arm she carried several books—school books, to all intents and purposes.

By her side, talking to her, eagerly, was a young man about three years her senior.

From time to time as she tripped along with her companion she had to stop and exchange words with passers-by who greeted her by name; and from many of the shop doors and windows friendly heads nodded and bright faces beamed. It was clear that she was well known in the little town, and a general favorite. Indeed, there were few of the residents within a radius of ten miles round Dumfries who did not know something of Marjorie Annan, the foster-child and adopted daughter of Mr. Lorraine.

Her companion, John Sutherland, was tall, complexioned and very pale. He was plainly clad in a suit of dark tweed, and wore a wide-awake hat. His whole aspect betokened delicate health, and there was a sad light in his blue eyes which told of a thoughtful spirit lodging within. His manners were gentle and retiring in the extreme.

"When did you come back?" Marjorie had asked, after some previous conversation.

"Last night, by the express from London," answered the young man. "I'm going down to see the old folk tonight. Shall you be at the manse?"

Marjorie nodded, smiling gayly.

"And how did you like London?" she demanded. "Did you see the queen? and Westminster Abbey? and did you go to the great tabernacle to hear Spurgeon preach?"

"No, Marjorie. My time was short, and most of my spare time was spent among the pictures; but when I saw them, thousands upon thousands of masterpieces, it made me despair of ever becoming a painter. I thought to myself, maybe it would be better, after all, to bide at home, and stick to weaving like my father."

As he spoke, Marjorie paused at the corner of a quiet street, and held out her hand.

"I must go to my lesson. Goodby."

"How are you going down? By the wagonette?"

"Yes, Johnnie."

"So am I; we can go together. Goodby till then!"

And with a warm squeeze of the hand the young man walked away. Marjorie stood looking after him for a moment with a pleasant smile; then she turned and walked down the street. She had not many yards to go before she paused before a dingy-looking house, on the door of which was a brass plate with the inscription:

M. LEON CAUSSIDIÈRE,

Professor of Languages.

She rang the bell, and the door was opened almost immediately by a Scotch servant in petticoat and short gown, who greeted her with a familiar smile. Answering the smile with a friendly nod, Marjorie tripped along the lobby and knocked at an inner door, which stood ajar. A clear, musical voice, with an unmistakable foreign accent, cried, "Come in," and she entered.

The room was a plainly furnished parlor, at the center-table of which a young man sat writing. The table was littered with writing materials, books, and journals; and in the window recess was another table, also strewn with books.

The young man, who was smoking a cigarette, looked up as Marjorie entered.

"Ah, is it you, Mademoiselle Marjorie!" he exclaimed, smiling pleasantly. "I did not expect you so early, and I was just smoking my cigarette. You do not mind the smoke? No? Then, with your permission, I will smoke on."

He spoke English fluently, though his accent was unmistakable, and his pronunciation of certain words peculiar. Personally, he was tall and handsome, with black hair worn very long, black mustache, and clean-shaven chin. His forehead was high and thoughtful, his eyes bright but sunken, his complexion swarthy. He was dressed shabbily, but somewhat showily, in a coat of brown velvet, shirt with turn-down collar loose at the throat, and a crimson tie shapen like a true lover's knot. He carried a pince-nez, secured to his person by a piece of elastic, clasped while writing or reading, but fixed on the nose at other times. Through this pince-nez he now regarded Marjorie with a very decided look of admiration.

"I came early, monsieur," said Marjorie, "because I cannot come in the afternoon. I am going home, and I shall not be back in Dumfries till Monday. Can you give me my lesson now, please?"

"Certainly," answered the Frenchman; "I was only writing my French correspondence, but I can finish that when you are gone. Will you sit there, mademoiselle, in the arm-chair? No? Then in this other? We will begin at once."

Marjorie sat down and opened her books. The Frenchman, taking the arm-chair she had refused, regarded her quietly and keenly.

"Now read, if you please," he said, with a wave of the hand. "Begin—where you left off yesterday."

Marjorie obeyed and read aloud in a clear voice from an easy French reading-book. From time to time the teacher interrupted her, correcting her pronunciation.

"You advance, mademoiselle," he said presently. "Ah, yes, you are so quick, so intelligent. Now translate."

In this portion of her task also the girl acquitted herself well, and when she had finished, the young man nodded approvingly.

"Now let us converse—in French, if you please."

But here Marjorie was at a loss, not knowing what to talk about. She finally took the weather as a topic, and advanced the proposition that it was a very fine day, but that there would soon be rain. Her master responded, and urged to higher flights of imagination, Marjorie hoped that it would not rain till she reached home, as the public wagonette in which she was to travel was an open one, and she did not want to get wet. The brilliant strain the conversation proceeded, Marjorie stumbling over the construction of her sentences and getting very puzzled over the other's voluble answers when they extended to any length. But at last the lesson was over, and the teacher expressed himself well pleased.

"And now," he said, with a smile, "we will talk the English again before you go. Will you tell me something about yourself, mademoiselle? I have seen you so often, and yet I know so little. For myself, I am almost a recluse, and go about not at all. Tell me, then, about yourself, your guardian, your home."

"I don't know what to tell you, monsieur," answered Marjorie.

"Call me not 'monsieur,' but 'Monsieur Leon.' 'Monsieur' is so formal—so cold."

"Monsieur Leon."

"That is better. Now answer me, if you please. You have no father, no mother?"

The girl's eyes filled with tears.

"No, monsieur."

"Monsieur Leon."

"No, Monsieur Leon."

"Ah, that is sad—to be an orphan, alone in the world! I myself have no father, but I have a mother whom I adore. And you live with your guardian always?"

"Yes, monsieur—Monsieur Leon. He is my guardian and my foster-father; and Solomon is my foster-father, too."

"Solomon?"

"Solomon is our clerk and sexton. He lives in the manse. He was living there when the minister found me, nearly seventeen years ago."

The young Frenchman had arisen and stood facing Marjorie Annan.

"Ah, yes, I have heard," he said. "And you have dwelt all these years, mignonne, alone with those two old men?"

"Yes, Monsieur Leon."

"It is terrible—it is not right! You, who are so young and pretty; they, who are so old and dreary! And you have never seen the world—never traveled from your native land! Never? You have lived in a desert, you have never known what it is to live! But you are a child, and it is not too late. You will see the world some day, will you not? You will find some one to love you, to care for you, and you will bid adieu to this triste Scotland, once and forever!"

As he spoke very volubly, he bent his face close to hers, smiling eagerly, while his breath touched her cheek. She blushed slightly, and drooped her eyes for a moment; then she looked up quite steadily, and said:

"I should not care to leave my home. Mr. Lorraine took me to Edinburgh once, but I soon wearied, and was glad to come back to Annandale."

"Edinburgh!" cried Monsieur Leon, with a contemptuous gesture. "A city where the sun never shines, and it rains six days out of seven, what you call a Scotch mist! You should see my country, la belle France, and Paris, the queen of cities of the world! There all is light and gay; it is Paradise on earth. Would you not like to see Paris, Mademoiselle Marjorie?"

"Yes, monsieur, maybe I should," replied Marjorie; "but I'm not caring much for the town. But I was forgetting something, though," she added. "Mr. Lorraine told me to give you this."

So saying, she drew forth a small silk purse, and drawing thence two sovereigns, placed them on the table.

"Put them back into your purse, if you please."

"But I have not paid you anything, and I owe you for ten lessons."

"Never mind that, mademoiselle," answered the Frenchman. "Some other time, if you insist, but not today. It is reward enough for me to have such a pupil. Take the money and buy yourself a keepsake to remind you of me."

"Yes, monsieur, maybe I should," replied Marjorie; "but I'm not caring much for the town. But I was forgetting something, though," she added. "Mr. Lorraine told me to give you this."

WHY SO MANY REGULAR PHYSICIANS FAIL

To Cure Female Ills—Some True Reasons Why Mrs. Pinkham is More Successful Than the Family Doctors

A woman is sick; some disease peculiar to her sex is fast developing in her system. She goes to her family physician and tells him a story, but not the whole story. She holds something back, loses her head, becomes agitated, forgets what she wants to say, and finally conceals what she ought to have told, and thus completely mystifies the doctor.

Is it any wonder, therefore, that the doctor fails to cure the disease? Still, we cannot blame the woman, for it is very embarrassing to detail some of the symptoms of her suffering, even to her family physician.

It was for this reason that years ago Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., determined to step in and help her sex. Having had considerable experience in treating female ill with her Vegetable Compound, she encouraged the women of America to write to her for advice in regard to their complaints, and, being a woman, it was easy for her ailing sisters to pour into her ears every detail of their suffering.

In this way she was able to do for them what the physicians were unable to do, simply because she had the proper information to work upon, and from the little group of women who sought her advice years ago a great army of her fellow-beings are to-day constantly applying for advice and relief, and the fact that more than one hundred thousand of them have been successfully treated by Mrs. Pinkham during the last year is indicative of the grand results which are produced by her unequalled experience and training.

No physician in the world has had such a training, or has such an amount of information at hand to assist in the treatment of all kinds of female ill, from the simplest local irritation to the most complicated diseases of the womb.

This, therefore, is the reason why Mrs. Pinkham, in her laboratory at Lynn, Mass., is able to do more for the ailing women of America than the family physician. Any woman, therefore, is responsible for her own suffering who will not take the trouble to write to Mrs. Pinkham for advice.

The testimonials which we are constantly publishing from grateful women establish beyond a doubt the power of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to conquer female diseases.

"Another dress. It takes a good deal of money to keep you in clothes, Mary." "Am I not your wife?" "You are—my dear wife."

No one is useless in this world who lightens the burden of it for another. The harder a woman's heart works, the less liable it is to go on a strike.

CROSS-EXAMINATION

Could Not Weaken Such Testimony

As This

(From the Kalamazoo Telegraph.)

The following statement is one of great interest to many a citizen of Kalamazoo, and a man as well known as Mr. Wallace should carry more than ordinary weight with our readers. Here it is as taken down by our representative:

"My name is John A. Wallace. I am a member of the firm of J. A. Wallace & Co., doing business as Innere, etc., at 108 Eleazar Street, Kalamazoo, in which city I also reside. For the past nine or ten months I have been having attacks of kidney complaint, the pain in my back over my hips was very severe at times; my urinary system was also in a bad state of derangement, sometimes the urine was scanty and then again the amount would be excessive, and a difficulty of passage always existed. I heard of Doan's Kidney Pills at a time when I felt that I was going to be sick; but their use warded off an attack, and I am now feeling very much better; the urinary organism has regained a normal condition, and the terrible pain in my back is much reduced in severity, while it is now fast going away altogether. I am continuing the use of Doan's Kidney Pills with positive feeling that they will effect on me a permanent and speedy cure. I have unbounded confidence in Doan's Kidney Pills as a remedy for all kidney ailments; have good reason to be, as they have done so much for me."

Can you ask any more than this? Doan's Kidney Pills are relieving more backs of the burdens they have been forced to bear through the kidneys than all other means devised, and better still, they are doing this right here in Michigan. Ask any one who has ever taken them and see what they will say.

Doan's Kidney Pills for sale by all dealers—price, 50 cents. Mailed by Foster-McClellan Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the U. S. Remember the name, Doan's, and take no other.

THOSE LOYAL GUARDS.

All O. K. in Pinckney and the Division Growing.

The Loyal Guards at this place are still growing in numbers and interest. On Wednesday night of last week five more new members were obligated and they are still coming. There were nine applications in the evening which makes the number 22 that have been accepted since the low rates began.

On that evening, word was received that the time for low rates had been extended to Aug. 1, so there is still a chance for those who desire to join to do so by the cheap rates. All it costs is $1.25 and one advance assessment according to age and our quarter's division dues of 25 cents each. No one should be without some life insurance especially when the rate is so low.

Remember that ladies can join the society and get their lives insured at the same rate as the men with the exception that it costs $1 a year less. Ask some member about it and send in your application.
