THE VAN WINKLE REUNION

On Thursday last, August 6, the VanWinkle families held their fifth annual reunion, meeting this year at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. V. Van Winkle, near this place. The following were present to enjoy the festive occasion:

Mrs. Peter VanWinkle Jackson; R. H.
VanWinkle, Detroit; Geo. Ayrault, Detroit; Mr. and Mrs. A. S. VanWinkle, Tecumseh; Mrs. O. J. Backus and chilren, Lansing; C. D. Morse and wife, Napoleon; Mrs. Charlotte S. Duntun, Napolean; Mr. and Mrs. Barlow, Napoleon; Mrs. Emaline A. Brunk and son, Napolean; Mrs. S. L. Palmer, two daughters and son, Manchester; Miss Helen Van Winkle, Grand Rapids; Miss Eliza Smith, Norville; Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Murray and son, Grass Lake; L. W. Fitch and wife, Howell. W. P. VanWinkle, Howell; The-
Ross, Howell; Mrs. Oliver Ayrault, son and daughter, Gregory; Mr. and Mrs. C.
O. Hinchey and daughter, Pinckney; Mrs.
C. D. VanWinkle, Pinckney; Mrs. Will Wright and children, Pinckney; Mr. and Mrs. Kirk VanWinkle and children, Pinckney.

They are the descendants of Peter,
Jacob, John, Chas. VanWinkle, Susan
Morse, Mary Ann Fitch, Harriet Smith,
Naomi Baldwin and Jane Ross. There may have been some present who were descendants of "Old Rip" but if so they did not show any of his characteristics—there was not a "sleepy" one in the bunch.

Some from a distance came the day before, the rest arriving before noon, and when dinner was announced fifty-one answered "present." All were seated at once in the spacious dining halls and proceeded at once to the enjoyment of a repast fit for kings.
We will not try to describe the meal
as our knowledge of English is insufficient. An hour was taken to do justice to the different courses and when the company arose from the tables there was still enough and to spare.

After dinner games were enjoyed on the spacious lawn, croquet, ball, etc., while at took time to wander over the grounds to the site of the old mills etc., and took special delight in wandering through the many rooms of the old fashioned house, where so many happy days have been spent, but none more so than the day of the reunion.

During the afternoon the guests were assembled in the parlors and a short but impressive program was rendered. Mrs. Kirk VanWinkle sang a solo, Mildred Backus gave a recitation which was followed by the reading of the letters of regrets by Miss Adda Palmer, a recitation by Ray Backus. Miss Dede Hinchey gave a reading which was very appropriate, being an account of a marriage ceremony performed by Rev. Peter Van Winkle, years ago at Birmingham.
The corresponding secretary, R. H.
VanWinkle (Uncle Ruben) of Detroit, gave a short history of the past year;
only one death occurring, a cousin's son in Dakota.

An invitation to meet next year at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Murray at Grass Lake, was accepted, the date to be arranged later. The following officers were elected:

Pres., C. V. VanWinkle, Pinckney.
V. Pres., Lewis Fitch, Howell.
Rec. Secy., Miss Edna Backus, Lansing.
Cor. Secy., R. H. VanWinkle, Detroit.

After the election of officers several were called upon for remarks which were listened to with interest. Charles Morse, of Napoleon, said he had met all the older VanWinkles both in York state and after they came west, all are now gone excepting two widows, Mrs. Peter VanWinkle, Jackson, and Mrs. Chas. VanWinkle Pinckney, and of those now living there is only one cousin older than himself.

W. P. VanWinkle, of Howell, said he could recall attending reunions at the home of his father only a few miles away, when he was a boy. He gave many incidents which happened in and about the place when he was to break up but he hoped to see the one now organized kept up by the younger people for all time.

Alter the meeting all went to the park but had only begun to enjoy the beautiful scenery when a sudden shower sent them scampering to the house where they arrived out of breath and some a little wet, but it did not dampen the ardor of the Van Winkle reunion as they proceeded to their games as soon as there was a rift in the clouds. Supper was announced at about 6 o'clock and another hour was spent visiting and enjoying the good things prepared.
Shortly after the guests began to depart for their homes with many regrets that the day was over, but with hopes to meet each other again next year. The day was perfect, the time was perfect, and all who attended will have a bright spot in their mem-regrets were that they had to part.

The Two Captains

Pope instantly saw how it was—a common-place troublesome collision; and he delivered these orders in a voice that rang like the notes of a bugle through the brig:

"Grindal, take some hands and secure that fellow by his gibboom. Leave play in the sailing for the heave of the swell. Let go the gallant hal-yards. Man fore and main clove gaskets. Staboard fore and main braces. Sweat the yards fore and aft, some hands, out of the road. Where's Mr. Crystal?"

"Here, sir," shouted the mate, who had followed the captain on deck within a few moments.

"Mr. Crystal, get an arms-chest up and serve out cutlasses and firearms. I mean to board that fellow. He's been sent to provision us."

The arms-chests had been stowed away very conveniently to hand, as may be supposed, in a little division in the afterhold called the lazarette, gained by a small hatch in the cabin deck. Thither Crystal and some men rushed; the cabin lads gave them light. They came up with armfuls of cutlasses and a number of pistols, and the two captains heading about ten armed men of their crew, sprang from the rail into the stranger's bow, and ran with terrifying shouts along her decks.

"Drive the crew into the fok'sle!" bellowed Pope. "Cut down all who resist."

The man who held the lantern on the quarter deck, who had shouted unintelligibly, who was incased in clothes which swelled him to the dimensions of a bull, was undoubtedly the master of the little ship. Another man stood beside him, probably the mate. They remained stock-still, transfixed, motionless as dead men, seated, though she fell back in her chair.

"I don't mean to hurt you," said the captain. "But—" and grasping her wrist he dexterously drew the rings off her fingers, pocketed them, and with great agility whipped the gold chain over her hat. These things the captain put into his pocket.

Crystal came out of the afterhold of the main and reported the contents. So far as it was possible to gather by the light of the candle and the bull's eye, he had discovered cheeses, hams, some casks of what he thought might prove Hollards, casks of moist sugar, and many cases of tobacco.

The other cables contained little that was useful or valuable. Pope went on deck. The weather remained very dark and quiet. The locked vessel rolled softly on the long breathing of the sea, with an occasional thump or jerk that was made soft and harmless by fenders.

The ten armed seamen who had followed the two captains into the vessel, came lurching in twos and threes on to the quarterdeck, and hung about the commander and his mate listening. Pope did not order them forward.

"The crew of this ship," said he to Crystal, "likewise the woman, must be kept locked up till the horizon's betwixt us. They'll be boarded and released. I'm for having her stuff aboard us and herself well astern before the horizon opens to the sun, and makes a picture of us two vessels for half a score of craft close by to wonder at."

"You're right, cap'n," shouted one of the seamen.

"Get these yards braced forward, Mr. Crystal," said Pope. "I leave you in charge here."

He went quickly forward into the

"Drive the crew into the fok'sle!"

while the piratic crew came storming to the quarterdeck.

"Forward with ye," yelled Pope, flourishing his sword about the ears of the fat captain.

"Away with ye," bawled Crystal, striking the mate a thump between the shoulders which set him running. And amid cries and execrations, and the stamp of feet, and the laughter of men along the rail of the Gypsy, the whole of the crew, with the immense swelled captain among them, were swept forward and tumbled into the fore-castle through the little scuttle and battened down.

A few of the men were left on deck. The others followed Captain Pope and Captain Crystal down the companion hatch into the stranger's living room. A lamp of several tins of glass burned under the little skylight. Under the lamp, at a square table, perfectly visible in the white lustre that streamed downward, sat a stout woman in a hat with a large feather trembling round it, and two immensely thick lengths of hair pale as hay lying in braids like serpents upon her back. She held her fat hands clasped upon her lap, and some fine rings flashed upon them. Pope took heed of this. He made her one of his lofty bows and exclaimed, "Good evening, madame, do you speak English?"

She stared at him motionless. He knew a few words of French and tried her with that tongue. She continued to stare at him. Pope, though a pirate, was not a pickpocket, and finding the lady mute, stiffer and senseless with terror, he cast his eyes at the rings upon her fingers, and at a bright gold chain round her neck. He put his hand upon the rings. Instantly the poor woman sent up an ex-splitting shriek, yet she remained bows, listened attentively, but no sound proceeded from the imprisoned men below. Then in a leap or two he gained the deck of his own brig.

CHAPTER VII.

The Black Flag.

The pirates worked with a will. By daybreak all the cargo was transhipped. It had been a hard night's task, but the men had toiled with desperate will, so eager were they to get clear of the plundered craft before the light of heaven shone upon the sea.

The fog rolled away before the breaking splendor in the east, and the sea opened fair and blue. The Prussian brig lay lashed alongside, but with fenders between. When the vessels were released the Gypsy slid off to the impulse of the faint air that stirred her jibs and topsails. And when she had floated a distance of ten times her own length they brought her to a stand, a boat was lowered, and Captain Crystal and five pirates went on board the plundered ship to leave her in such trim as would not excite the suspicion of the passing mariner, unless he came very close and hailed her.

Then the five rogues and their mate, Crystal, entered their boat and rowed toward the Gypsy, which lay athwart with her head at south.

There was a single cabin window in the stern of the snow, and when they had got it in view they saw it was open—a heavy glaze frame—and the woman stood in the middle of it like a picture.

Pope was looking through his glass at the woman in the window.

"I did not notice that window in her cabin," said he to Crystal while the men were hoisting the boat. "What does she say?"

"If I was a Prussian I could tell yer," answered Crystal.

"Our leaving that ship aloft and the people in her to be rescued and to tell their story proves, Jonathan, that we are new to our trade," says Pope grimly. "The old red-pawed wolf, after sucking her, would have sunk her and all she contained, living and dead. But I am determined to carry out my scheme," says he, with one of his arch looks, "as politely as possible. And you know I've been praying while you've been away that we may have the luck to fall in with one of Duncan's or Peterson's ships."

These had been among those whom he and Crystal had served, and Peterson was the man who had made promises of command to Crystal which he did not keep. Crystal ground his teeth.

All the morning was passed in stowing away the plunder and repairing the trifling damages aloft. Shortly after eight bells (noon) the Prussian brig was on the horizon and a large ship was apparently heading for her. Pope watched them with curiosity; the large ship passed the brig and sailed on, and by two o'clock the plundered vessel was out of sight. The Gypsy was held to her course of west by south and no notice was taken of the ships in sight. Not likely that Pope would plunder in the sight of help. He wanted darkness or a lonely sea girdle.

In the afternoon Pope and the other captain walked the deck together and talked over their plans and hopes. The seamen in various parts of the brig loafed and lounged, and some attended to such trifling jobs as the boatswain put them to, and all of them smoked to a man.

"I should like to know," said Crystal, taking Pope's cigar from his hand to light his pipe afresh with it, "if you've got any more fixed and clear ideas as to the divisor and the securing, every man, to the plunder—his whack; for," he stammered, "suppose I am to take up a thousand pound."

"A plague on your modesty," interrupted Pope.

"Five thousand pound then," cried Crystal, shouting the words with some momentary emotion of excitement. "How do you propose that I'm to deal with that lump of metal so as to bring it off without this challenge, 'killed and hanged'?"

Pope sat down on the skylight and his square companion seated himself beside him.

"I quite agree with you," says Pope, "that burying schemes ought not to be entertained. I'll not lightly hazard what it will have kept my neck in jeopardy to get. But should not the egg first be laid before we talk of sitting upon it?"

"Ay, but consider this," exclaimed Crystal, glancing at the fellow at the helm, who was trying to overhear them: "you're going to cruise in such degrees for a certain ship. She appears on a sudden." Pope rolled up his eyes with a devotional look. "We board her: we find as much treasure as will satisfy us." Again Pope looked up to heaven, and the man at the wheel, catching the word treasure, strained his neck. "And so you've got your egg," continued Crystal, "in a manner of speaking all in a minute. Should not the hatching of it have been settled? As soon as we've got what we want you and me'll wish to go clear."

"As fast as we can storm through it," answered Pope.

"Then, sir, we ought to have our plans cut and dried now that we are heading for the Spaniard's course," Crystal said, burying a dark-ended stump of forefinger in the bowl of his pipe and going to the side to spit into the sea.

Pope smiled at his square vigorous figure, and on his returning said, "The scheme I'm disposed to fix upon is this: We shall doubtless fall in with a small vessel of handy size, after we have looted the Spaniard. You will take charge, and I will man her with a few of the best of our people. We will sail in company till we come to the place that's agreed upon by all hands; we will then transfer our share of the booty to your vessel, and I shall surrender the brig and the men's share of plunder remaining in her, to them. What d'ye say?" asked Pope, with a twinkle in his eye that was like a raindrop trembling in a breeze.

Crystal's face worked with the chewing of the cud of thought. He said, "When I take charge of the other vessel all the plunder's to be left aboard here?"

"Till we come to an agreed place," answered Pope. "It is a scheme," said he with a shrug, seeing disaffection in the square man's countenance. "I'm for sailing right away for the coast of Cumberland and smuggling my money ashore. We may make another Oak job of it, and the risk's that," he added, tossing his hand to snap his finger.

"And where will this brig go?"

"The crew must settle that."

"Will those you give me for a company like to be separated from their money?"

"They may take it," says Pope.

Harvest for Watchmakers.

All the watchmakers in New York are working over time these hot days. They account for this peculiar business phenomenon by saying that when men discard their watches they do not properly secure their watches in the trousers' fob. The result is an epidemic of dropped time-pieces.

Endless Chain Religious Work.

If there were only one Christian in the world and he worked a year and won a friend for Christ, and if these two continued each year to win another, and if every man thus led into the kingdom led another every year, in thirty-one years every person in the world would be won for Christ.—Church Eclectic.

She Didn't Care.

Maplehill, Ia., Aug. 10th.—"I felt as though I didn't care whether I lived or died, I was so miserable all the time."

In these words does Miss Nellie Barfoot of this place describe her condition. Every woman who is, or has been sick and suffering will understand and appreciate just how Miss Barfoot felt, and there are no doubt many thousands of similar cases.

It is truly an awful thing when a woman gets so low that she can say "I don't care whether I live or die." But Miss Barfoot tells a different story to-day, and her words should guide every suffering woman to the path of health and happiness.

"I used Dodd's Kidney Pills, and I am cured. I feel like a new person, and I would say to every woman suffering as I did, give Dodd's Kidney Pills a trial and you will not be disappointed. They are worthy of the highest praise."

To Rise in the World.

"Books that have helped me!" chuckled Tommy, as he piled enough bound volumes of the Congressional Record on a chair to enable him to reach the shelf where his mother kept the marmalade.—Chicago Tribune.

COMPELLED TO USE A CRUTCH FOR EIGHT MONTHS. DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS CURED MRS. F. CONLIN, CARBONDALE, PA.

Mrs. F. Conlin, 28 Greenfield Avenue, Carbondale, Pa., says: "I suffered with backache, and, despite the use of medicines, I could not get rid of it. I was compelled to use a crutch for eight months, and a part of the time was unable to walk at all. I fairly screamed if I attempted to lift my feet from the floor, and, finally, I lost control of my limbs through weakness, as I could neither bend nor straighten up to my full height, and if ever a woman was in a serious condition, I was. My husband went to Kelly's drug store and brought home a box of Doan's Pills. I felt easier in a few days, and, continuing the treatment, I

A TREAT FOR YOUR FAMILY.

OUR DIAMOND SPRING BED

WILL SUSTAIN A WEIGHT OF 5,000 LBS.

Perhaps you toss about restlessly all night on a hard unyielding spring bed, or lie bent double in a soft one of poor wire! When you get up from the former your bones ache as if you had been beaten; the latter sags until your back is nearly broken.

Would you like to know what a night of perfect rest is? Is any member of your family sick and unable to sleep on an old fashioned spring bed? If so our Diamond Spring Bed will exactly and completely fill your want.

Invented and made for ease and comfort, the lightest persons find in it real enjoyment, yet the tension of the fabric is such that no weight can make it sag. It has a National Coppered link chain support beneath a tinned, well woven fabric. The frame is of solid steel of such fine quality that it is lighter than a wooden frame.

We guarantee the Diamond Spring Bed neither to sag nor break for 20 years.

For one month only, as an advertisement, we will deliver this Spring Bed at your station for $5.00, the price your local furniture dealer would have to pay. We want you to know about our Diamond Spring. The Diamond Spring Bed is our own invention. The idea is only one year old, yet wherever introduced people will have none but the Diamond Spring Bed. For instance, from Washington, D. C., where more than 10,000 Diamond Spring Beds are in use, orders for more are still coming in by the hundreds.

ORDER ONE NOW

Send in $5.00 by check, money order, or cash in registered letter and we will ship you one Diamond Spring Bed immediately, freight prepaid.

Wealth That Is Dead.

It is astonishing how much of the world's wealth is locked up in diamonds, things which are of no earthly use to anybody except for the mere purpose of ornamentation. The money spent for diamonds every year would build fleets of peace and war, equip and pay armies, almost wipe out poverty in city slums, endow hospitals and schools, build railroads and create great libraries. Every now and then some American woman has trouble with the customs authorities over the duty on jewels, the value of which represents a sum sufficient for an ordinary man to raise and educate a large family of children.

Millionaires and crowned heads possess diamonds which represent idle wealth sufficient to build whole streets of model tenement houses for the poor. The diamonds belonging to the German empress are valued at $1,250,000. The crown jewels of England, largely made up of diamonds, exceed in value $15,000,000. The imperial crown alone contains 2,783 splendid diamonds. Besides this, the king and queen possess diamonds to the value of about a million more dollars, which are their private property. The crown jewels of Russia represent about $20,000,000. No one knows just how much the diamonds possessed by the Sultan of Turkey are worth, but they represent many millions. Many native princes in India own diamonds of great value. The gems of the Gaekwar of Baroda, consisting largely of diamonds, are valued at $15,000,000. Among his treasures is a carpet made entirely of diamonds and pearls, all matched and blended. Many churches, too, in the old world are rich in diamonds. The largest diamond in the world, the Excelsior, found at Jagersfontein in 1888, is so valuable that a special syndicate has been formed to stand the expense and risk of cutting it.

A large part of the world's gold, too, is locked away in royal treasure houses in the form of dishes or ornaments. In the Kremlin are many great gold dishes, so heavy that a strong man cannot lift them, and many millions of dollars' worth of gold made into ornamental forms. The gold dinner service at Windsor Castle is valued at $4,000,000, and a golden peacock with jeweled tail there is valued at $400,000. In the treasure house of the Sultan of Constantinople are tons of gold plate, and great golden bowls filled to the brim with rare pearls. Gold in every form which the ingenuity of man has been able to invent is scattered about in splendid confusion in the palaces by the Bosphorus. The Shah of Persia has golden ornaments and diamonds stowed away in his palace which, turned into money, would enable him to build railroads and open up his country to civilization.

The world's dead wealth is something enormous when you come to think of it.

To Prevent Fire Loss.

The annual fire bill of the United Kingdom may be taken at £20,000,000, that of the United States at $28,000,000. There are besides the fire insurance annual bill and the bill for the fire stations, with their costly sites and buildings, the fire engines, the other machinery and the horses. All this outlay keeps us poorer.

But the loss of life is worse, and it is easy to build fireproof—or, better, incombustible—houses, such as in the River Plata countries and probably in Bethlehem and Nazareth. The manner is as follows:

In these countries they neither use the arch iron, but hardwood, which, having mostly to come a thousand miles down the river, is dear. So all the floors and the roof, which is flat, are supported by joists shaped as in this country, and across them are laid rails of the same hardwood, about a foot apart, upon which rests the ends on thin bricks, on which another layer of bricks, or sometimes two, is laid in mortar and on this tiles. Then there is no skirting or paneling. In Britain cement should be used for that purpose and there should be no boxing of doors and windows, the frames being built in securely. The doors are also of hardwood. In that fine climate no lath or plaster is ever used. In this country the laths should be of iron and if molding is wanted around the doors it could be of cement instead of dangerous, inflammable wood.

In such houses a bonfire made by piling a lot of sticks and shavings on the best bed in the best bedroom and setting fire to it would not set the house on fire. The writer has for sixty-four years lived in or been connected with the great city of Buenos Ayres, the capital of the Argentine Republic, and the largest city in the southern hemisphere, with 852,000 inhabitants, and never heard of a life being lost by fire, though there are fires. Lately, as pine from the United States is now abundant some builders have used it partially in buildings in the capital and such are not quite fireproof, but it is a bad practice. In Britain, as roofs must slope because of the snow, and flat roofs would not do, the slates should be fixed in some way to iron strips. This might be a little troublesome at first, but our slaters and smiths would soon find out the way.—Chambers' Journal.

A Warning to Parents.

A case which occurred in Cheshire, England, in 1897 is probably without parallel in the history of tragic coincidences. A lawyer well known in Liverpool, whose name we will say is Smith, was playing with his children one evening when his youngest boy, a little fellow of five, asked to be lifted up. The father at once complied by placing a hand on each side of the boy's head and raising him a foot or so from the floor. When he placed him on his feet again the boy fell to the ground apparently lifeless. Every effort was made to restore him to consciousness, but without effect, and the doctor was sent for.

After examination the medical man asserted that the child was undoubtedly dead, and asked the lawyer what had occurred. Calling another of his children to him Mr. Smith, exclaimed: "As I live, doctor, all I did was to lift him a few inches from the floor, like this," and, suiting the action to the words, he raised the boy a few inches, as he had done the dead child scarcely half an hour before.

The result can be guessed. Before the doctor could call out a word of warning the child had fallen to the floor unconscious, and a moment later was dead. At the double inquest the doctor certified that the spinal cords, so fragile in young and delicate children, had undoubtedly snapped the instant the little victims had been lifted off their feet; and though the father was exonerated from all blame the jury felt compelled to add a rider to their verdict warning parents against the dangerous practice of lifting young children by their heads.

The Tragedies of Life.

It is beyond the power of onlookers to estimate the tragedy hourly going on in our imported population, says an observer writing from California. Out of the droves of ignorantly hopeful people who come herding over to us, their souls glowing not only with impossible fancies of wealth and power to come, but with equally preposterous expectation of present welcome, only a rare few gain independence, while the rest slave and suffer, sicken, die and rot to form an awful human fertilizer for the land they came to share. The animal hunger and desperation shining in their eyes appeal to us merely as an unpleasant, but inalienable, attribute of the "lower classes," not at all as the signs of the death struggle of a lonely brother man. Loneliness fills as many graves as whiskey. The loneliness of Italians in California is pitiful; they come with notions of placer mining in their back yards and cultivating grapes in their front yards, with the presidency always hopefully within reach. In San Francisco the situation is worse on account of the climate. Few people understand how emphatically San Francisco is not California. The confirmed San Franciscan knows less about the Golden State than any Pueblo Indian baby. San Francisco, within an hour's journey of a torrid belt, is never hot; San Francisco, within sight of snow-clad peaks, is seldom frigid; San Francisco is cool, breezy, and foggy. To an Eskimo it is hades; to an Italian it is perpetual winter.

Resolves, and Others.
During the year 1902 there were made at the English Patent Office 25,976 applications for patents, of which only 13,764 were granted. Next to electric traction and motor car specifications the favorite subjects for invention were wireless telegraphy, golf balls and clubs and reversible outside seats for tram-cars. The Queen Victoria street fire led to a big boom in applications for patent fire escapes.

Reach After Converts.
The Protestants of Boston are making contributions to a fund of $40,000 to convert Spanish women. Headquarters will be opened in Madrid, and it will be known as the Gulick Institute. Bishop Lawrence of the Episcopal Church of Boston says it is time for his church to convert the Italians, who are settling in that city in large numbers.

Quite a Ceremony.
A Buddhist dignitary was recently buried in Japan, and the police attended the funeral and made an official report of the ceremonies, which must have been rather picturesque. The report merely says: "Three hundred and eleven injured, 75 faint, 121 thefts, 374 pickpockets captured, 1,921 articles lost and 79 people rescued from canals."

Supreme Court Sustains the Foot-Ease Trade-Mark.
Buffalo, N. Y.—Justice Laughlin in Supreme Court has granted a permanent injunction with costs against Paul B. Hudson and others of New York City restraining them from making or selling a foot powder which the court declares is an imitation and infringement on "Foot-Ease," now so largely advertised and sold over the country. The owner of the trade-mark "Foot-Ease," is Allen S. Olmsted, of Le Roy, N. Y., and the decision in this suit upholds his trade-mark and renders all parties liable who fraudulently attempt to profit by the extensive "Foot-Ease" advertising in placing on the market the spurious and similar articles which are involved in the case. This the court declares was designed in imitation and infringement of the genuine "Foot-Ease." Similar suits will be brought against others who are now infringing on the Foot-Ease trade-mark rights.

U. S. SENATOR FROM SOUTH CAROLINA

Recommends Pe-ru-na
For Dyspepsia and Stomach Trouble.

Ex-Senator M. C. Butler says: "I can recommend Peruna for dyspepsia and stomach trouble. I have been using your medicine for a short period and I feel very much relieved. It is indeed a wonderful medicine besides a good tonic."—M. C. Butler.

The only rational way to cure dyspepsia is to remove the catarrh. Peruna cures catarrh. Peruna does not produce artificial digestion. It cures catarrh and leaves the stomach to perform digestion in a natural way. This is vastly better and safer than resorting to artificial methods.

Peruna has cured more cases of dyspepsia than all other remedies combined, simply because it cures catarrh wherever located. If catarrh is located in the head, Peruna cures it. If catarrh has fastened itself in the throat or bronchial tubes, Peruna cures it. When catarrh becomes settled in the stomach, Peruna cures it, as well in this location as in any other.

Peruna is not simply a remedy for dyspepsia. Peruna is a catarrh remedy. Peruna cures dyspepsia because it is generally dependent upon catarrh.

Catarrh of the Stomach is Generally Called Dyspepsia—Something to Produce Artificial Digestion is Unwisely Taken.

Hence, Peppin, Pancreatin and a Host of Other Digestive Remedies Has Been Invented.

These Remedies Do Not Reach the Seat of the Difficulty, Which is Really Catarrh.

The Detroit United Bank Limited commenced business September 3, 1902, in the handsome new Banking building at 204-206 Griswold Street, which was erected for it. For convenience, light, solidity, security and artistic design, this building will compare favorably it is believed with any banking structure in this country.

The Detroit United Bank Limited is strictly a savings bank. No loans are made on commercial paper, nor under its charter can it take any commercial risks whatever. Its funds are invested only in first mortgages upon centrally located improved real estate for not exceeding 50 per cent of present cash value of security in any case.

The favor with which the public regard this bank and the conservative system for which it stands is evidenced by the many hundreds of depositors it already has both from Detroit and from outside towns.

It has been open but three-quarters of a year and at this time has upwards of a quarter of a million dollars of deposits. It has depositors in seventy-six cities and towns outside of Detroit, the aggregate of such deposits exceeding $300,000. It already has in its vaults over a third of a million dollars of first mortgages on real estate, worth at least double the amount of mortgage in each case.

It is seeking to interest savings depositors whether residing in Detroit or elsewhere. You are invited to open an account, and at all times are assured of courteous treatment and every facility which a first-class modern savings bank can provide.

Send for booklet on BANKING BY MAIL, fully illustrating the system introduced by this bank, under which it is as easy for persons residing at a distance to carry their savings accounts with a strong metropolitan bank as for those residing in Detroit.

Save the Children

Ninety-nine of every one hundred diseases that children have are due to disorders of the stomach and these disorders are caused by indigestion. Kodol dyspepsia cure is just as good for children as it is for adults. Children thrive on it. It keeps the little stomachs sweet and encourages their growth and development. Mrs. Henry Carter, 705 Central st. Nashville Tenn. says: My little boy is now three years old and has been suffering from indigestion ever since he was born. I have had the best doctors in Nashville but failed to do him any good. After using one bottle of Kodol he is a well baby. I recommend it to all sufferers. Kodol digests what you eat and makes the stomach sweet. Sold by all Druggists.

Wm. Kirmse a member of the bridge gang working near Littleport was taken suddenly ill Thursday night with cramps and a kind of cholera. His case was so severe that he had to have the members of the crew wait upon him and Mr. Gifford was called and consulted. He told them he had a medicine in the form of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera, and Diarrhoea Remedy that he thought would help him out and accordingly several doses were administered with the result that the fellow was able to be around next day. The incident speaks quite highly of Mr. Gifford's medicines.—Elkader, Iowa, Argus.

Not a Luxury.

[From the Salem, Oregon, Sentinel.]

About twenty years ago persons who were privileged to hear Edison's first crude phonograph thought it a wonderful thing, but little did they dream that these machines in improved and perfect form would within a few years be available to every home. Then the records were made on tin foil and it was impossible to preserve them. Later the recording was done on wax and by delicate handling the records were good for considerable service. Today the records are perfect, being molded from hard wax. With proper handling they will last for years. The Columbia Phonograph Co. is turning out first class graphophones so cheap that no family can afford to do without the pleasure and satisfaction of owning one. The writer has had one in his family three years and looks upon it now as a necessity rather than a luxury.

Six Follies of Science.

The six follies of science are: (1) The squaring of the circle, (2) perpetual motion, (3) the philosopher's stone, (4) the elixir of life, (5) magic and (6) astrology.

In all ages men of undoubted ability have toiled early and late to unravel the mysteries supposed to be connected with these fascinating problems. It is not always remembered that such intellectual giants as Bacon, Sir Robert Boyle and Sir Isaac Newton sought the philosopher's stone, which, strange to say, receives some countenance from the modern theory of alchemy. In the study of astrology Lully was for a time even pensioned by parliament.

Most of these "follies" conferred indirect benefits upon science, for in seeking one thing their devotees discovered many another. The craze for the secret, or unknown, has still its hold upon men and is seen in palmistry and kindred cults.—London Standard.

An Effective Telegram.

When Senator Depew was president of the New York Central Railroad company he received a telegram which he preserved for a number of years and now and then showed to his friends. Says a reminiscence writer for the Washington Star. This telegram reached him one fine morning a short time before Senator Platt was elected to the United States senate for the second time. It was sent from one of the stations of the New York Central and read:

Please stop the noon express here to take on Mrs. Platt and ME TOO.

It was a very unusual thing for that train to stop at that particular station, but Mr. Depew at once gave an order to have it done.

This telegram was referred to in the presence of Senator Platt on one occasion.

"You see," said the senator, "I wanted that train to stop without the least question of doubt. I knew that the way to reach Depew's heart was with a joke, and so I sent that telegram."

Mrs. Mollie Allen, of South Fork, Ky., says she has prevented attacks of cholera morbus by taking Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets when she felt an attack coming on. Such attacks are usually caused by indigestion and these tablets are just what is needed to cleanse the stomach and ward off the approaching attack. Attacks of bilious colic may be prevented in the same way.

A Weak Stomach

Indigestion is often caused by over-eating. An eminent authority says the harm done thus exceeds that from the excessive use of alcohol. Eat all the good food you want but don't over-load the stomach. A weak stomach may refuse to digest what you eat. Then you need a good digestant like Kodol, which digests your food without the stomach's aid. This rest and the wholesome tonic Kodol contains soon restore health. Dieting unnecessary. Kodol quickly relieves the feeling of fullness and bloating from which some people suffer after meals. Absolutely cures indigestion.

176 Warren Avenue,
CHICAGO, ILL., Oct. 22, 1902.
For nearly four years I suffered from ovarian troubles. The doctor insisted on an operation as the only way to get well. I, however, strongly objected to an operation. My husband felt disheartened as well as I, for home with a sick woman is a desolate place at best. A friendly druggist advised him to get a bottle of Wine of Cardui for me to try, and he did so. I began to improve in a few days and my recovery was very rapid. Within eighteen weeks I was another being.

SIDEWALK ORDINANCE

The President and Trustees of the village of Pinckney ordain:
That there shall be constructed and maintained within the village of Pinckney a sidewalk upon the lines and of such dimensions and materials as hereinafter more particularly specified to wit:

1st. That a new sidewalk be constructed on the south side of Putnam street, commencing at the northwest corner of block five, range six at the juncture of Putnam and Mill streets, running thence east along the north end of lots three and four owned by W. A. Carr and along the north end of lot two owned by H. F. Sigler, and along the north end of lot one owned by E. J. Briggs. Also along the north side of block five, range seven, the same being across the north end of lot four owned by Mary L. Cate, and across the north end of lot three owned by Mrs. E. W. Martin, and across the north end of lot two owned by F. A. Sigler, and across the north end of lot one owned by Floyd Reason. Also across the north side of block five, range eight, along the north end of lot four and the north end of the west half of lot three owned by J. J. Teeple, and across the north end of east half of lot three, and the north end of lots two and one owned by Harriett Colby to the intersection of Putnam and Pearl streets. Said sidewalk to be four feet wide and to be constructed of cement and the expense thereof to be defrayed as provided by ordinance adopted June 3, A. D. 1901.

Potent Pill Pleasure

The pills that are potent in their action and pleasant in effect are De Witt's Little Early Risers. W. S. Philpot of Albany Ga., says: During a bilious attack I took one. Small as it was it did me more good than calomel, blue mass, or any other pill. I ever took and at the same time it affected me pleasantly. Little Early Risers are certainly an ideal pill.

THE JUNGLE MAN

While I was hunting in the province of Bengal with officers belonging to the Seventh native infantry we got word one day that a wild man had been seen in a jungle ten miles away.

The man was a native who had served for several years as a soldier, and he had a good military record and was known to be of peaceful disposition. One day while on a scout through the forest with his company he was bitten on the neck by a spider. The wound gave him great pain, and he was sent back to the hospital for treatment. He was under the surgeon's care for ten days and was discharged as cured, but one morning when at drill he suddenly began whooping and shouting and acting in a singular manner. When his comrades attempted to restrain him he became violent, and, casting them off, he bolted across the parade and down the road. He was pursued, but he gained the forest, a mile away, ahead of all, and was successful in hiding himself. A long search had been made for him at the time, but without avail.

We at once moved across the country and located in a village, and next morning a dozen natives were sent out on a scout. They were back before noon with the news that the wild man had moved his retreat about five miles to the east. He was evidently afraid of us. He had taken refuge in another jungle near another village, and we broke camp and rode down to the place and beat up the thickets for hours.

We caught sight of the man once or twice, but he was a long way off and acted as if he suspected a trap. Next day he was twelve miles away, and in the course of a week he had traveled sixty miles. When he moved we moved after him. We attempted no trick and made no demonstration to alarm or anger him.

Our persistent pursuit had the effect of putting him in a passion, however, for on the sixth day of the chase, as we were en route to a village near which he had gone into hiding, he entered the place shouting in fury and brained five people with his club. He had stripped off most of his clothing and was naked from the waist up. After killing the people he fired several bullets and ran away and hid in a ravine.

It was now plainly evident that we must change our tactics. If the man was enraged he might attack us at any moment, and if he did so we should have to fire on him in self defense.

The ravine in which he was hiding was about a mile long, and at the lower end it opened into a path much used by the natives. If the wild man was not hunted out or alarmed he would probably come down the ravine and enter this path.

After looking the ground over it was decided to dig a pitfall and set some traps along the path, and soon after noon a force of natives was set at work. They dug a pit twenty feet long by fourteen deep, and when ready it was covered over the same as if to catch a tiger. A few yards to north and south of the pit we arranged nooses which led over the limbs of trees, and by sundown we felt sure of our man if he came that way. Two soldiers and three natives were hidden near the pit to act as sentinels and give the alarm, and all was quiet in the camp and village at the usual hour.

At 2 o'clock in the morning we were turned out by an alarm from the sentinels, and our whole force at once hastened to the pit. The wild man had come down the ravine and fallen into the pit. Notwithstanding its depth he was out again in a moment, and but for the trap on the north side we should have lost him. He ran into that, was caught by the leg and suspended in the air, and when we arrived he was screaming and shouting and cursing in a way to make one's hair stand up.

He was defenseless, but for a long time no one dared to go near him. He made the most tremendous efforts to escape, and but for our throwing noosed ropes over his head and drawing them tight he would soon have regained his liberty. When we finally had him fast and secure he had tumbled himself out and was a pitiable object to behold. He had been heard to use a few English words, but no one had heard him make sentences before. His speech came back to him as we stood around him, and he used many of the commands given a soldier at drill.

We remained in camp four days after capturing the wild man, hoping to subdue him and make him presentable at headquarters, but he was worse than a wild beast. Not a stitch of clothing could be kept on him, and he had to be bound hand and foot all the time. He preferred raw meat to cooked, and when fed he would growl and roar as if the sight of meat put him in a frenzy.

The surgeon with us could make nothing of his case, and we finally got a cart and started for home to turn the poor fellow over to the proper authorities. On the second day of the journey the cart broke down, and as it did so the wild man burst his bonds and escaped into the jungle. We put in ten days hunting for him, but got no trace and finally abandoned all pursuit.

Six months later he was seen once or twice in the foothills to the north, but no pursuit was organized, and if not dead he is today wandering about the forests and jungles like a wild beast.

How he could have escaped death during the two years I write of is a singular thing, as the country was infested with poisonous serpents and savage beasts, but when he was our captive he had not a scar on his body and was evidently in the best of health.

She Knew It.

"The longer I live," sighed the sage, "and the more I learn the more firmly am I convinced that I know absolutely nothing!"
"I could have told you that twenty-five years ago," said his wife, "but I knew it would be of no use."—London Answers.

CAUTION.
This is not a gentle word—but when you think how liable you are not to purchase for 75c the only remedy universally known and a remedy that has had the largest sale of any medicine in the world since 1868 for the cure and treatment of Consumption and Throat and Lung troubles without losing its great popularity all these years, you will be thankful we called your attention to Boschee's German Syrup. There are so many ordinary cough remedies made by druggists and others that are cheap and good for light colds perhaps, but for severe Coughs, Bronchitis, Croup—and especially for Consumption, where is difficult, expectoration and coughing during the nights and mornings, there is nothing like German Syrup. Sold by all druggists in the civilized world.

Arabian Delicacies.
In a recent Egyptian review may be found some curious extracts from Al Djahaz, a celebrated scientist of the tenth century. Speaking of the favorite dishes of the Arabians of that epoch, he says that they considered the flesh of young dogs a great delicacy and also ate grasshoppers and scorpions with much relish. Moreover, they esteemed the flesh of black cats highly, since they maintained that any one who ate it could not be injured either by sorcery or by the evil eye.
Al Djahaz also says that he was disappointed when he found that the Arabian tribes of Bassorah did not eat grasshoppers, but, on the other hand, was highly delighted to find his friend, the famous poet Reobah, feasting royally on roast rats and lizards. The Arabians, he says in conclusion, also ate serpents and horses, but took the utmost care only to serve at table horses which had been harnessed, as they did not consider it right to eat those which had been ridden.

VARICOCELE NERVOUS DEBILITY CURED.

IF you have transgressed against the laws of nature, you must suffer. Self abuse, immoderate excesses and private diseases have wrecked thousands of promising lives. Treat with scientific physicians and be cured. Avoid quacks. E. A. Sidney, of Toledo, says: "At the age of 14, I learned a bad habit and at 19 contracted a serious disease. I promised to cure me. They got my money and I still had the disease. I had given up hope when a friend advised me to consult Drs. K. & K., who had cured him. Without any confidence I called on them, and Dr. Kennedy agreed to cure me or no pay. After taking the New Method Treatment for six weeks I felt like a new man. The drains ceased, worried veins disappeared, nerves grew stronger, hair stopped falling out, urine became clear and my sexual organs vitalized. I was entirely cured by Dr. Kennedy and recommend him from the bottom of my heart."

THE MICHIGAN NEWS

Showing What's Doing in All Sections of the State

AN APPALLING WRECK.

One of the most appalling railroad accidents in the history of Michigan occurred in the Grand Trunk yards. Durand, at 3 o'clock Friday morning when one train of the Wallace Bros. circus crashed into another one-half mile west of the Durand station. The dead so far number 22. Most of them are canvas men and unskilled employes of the circus, but three of the 22 are widely known in Michigan. These are Train Master McCarthy, Chief Detective Large and Wallace's train master, Thorpe. The cause of the collision was the air brake on the second train getting out of order and failing to work when the engineer saw the red light of the first train, which had come to a standstill. Nobody seems to be to blame. The first train was waiting for orders.

The scene in the yards was appalling. The wreckage of the engine and cars, which was strewn about, together with the shrieks of the injured victims, and the bellowing of the wild animals, made a most weird spectacle. It was some time before all the injured could be taken from the cars. Their wounds are of a fearful nature. In some cases, Chief Detective Large, Grand Trunk Trainmaster McCarthy and Wallace Bros. Trainmaster Thorpe were asleep in the rear car of train No. 1 when train No. 2 struck it. McCarthy and Thorpe were killed instantly. Large lived an hour and a half. Quite a few of the others killed were also in this car. The shrieks of the injured, the roars and screeching of the terrified animals in the circus menagerie and the wreckage generally literally paralyzed the first people to reach the scene. They hardly knew which way to turn and actually half an hour elapsed before the first of the injured was pulled from the wreck. When the first gleam of daylight appeared the people began to regain their senses. Drays and express wagons were hustled out and soon there was a procession of these improvised ambulances carrying the dead and wounded to the temporary hospital.

The death of John Thompson, of Peru, Ind., at Harper Hospital, Detroit, added another to the number killed by the terrible wreck at Durand, the total now being twenty-three. Engineer Probst, of the second section, who is virtually held responsible by the Grand Trunk officials for the accident, admits that the air brakes worked all right at Lansing, but is emphatic in stating that they did not work when he tried to turn them on just before the collision. Both his fireman and the brakeman, who were on the engine at the time, say the same thing. Mr. Wallace, the owner of the circus, places his loss at about $25,000, which does not include loss of prospective profits from dates which had to be canceled.

Sudden Death of William Judson. Hon. Wm. Judson, state oil inspector, died at his home a few minutes before 9 o'clock Tuesday evening. Monday he complained of a sharp pain over his heart and Dr. Lynds was called, who gave him some tablets. He was down town Tuesday morning and talked with friends as usual, and no one suspected his end was so near. He ate his supper as usual and read the paper, as was his custom. During the evening the pain returned and became so severe that he retired, and an effort was made to summon Dr. Lynds again. Not being able to get him, Dr. Belser was called, but before he arrived Judson was dead.

Mr. Judson was born Oct. 13, 1842, in Sylvan township, his father being William Judson, who had immigrated from Lincolnshire, England, and his mother, Jane, from Ireland. All the education he received was in the district school in his town. He left home when 17 years of age, going to work at $5 a month. He cast his first vote for Abraham Lincoln for president, and has voted for every succeeding Republican presidential candidate.

For the past 25 years Mr. Judson had been a prominent delegate at nearly every Republican state convention. He served as treasurer of Sylvan township two terms and as trustee of Chelsea village two terms. He was appointed postmaster of Chelsea by President Harrison, and after serving three years and nine months was removed by President Cleveland for offensive partisanship. In November, 1894, he was elected sheriff of Washtenaw county, and re-elected in 1896. In 1899 he was appointed state oil inspector by Gov. Pingree, and has since served under the Bliss administration.

Financial Embarrassment. J. C. Gilchrist, of Cleveland, has practically assumed temporary control of the shipyard of the Columbia Iron Works, at St. Clair. This concern, which is capitalized at $100,000, is in financial trouble, but only temporarily, it is hoped. It has been running less than two years, has turned out two small steel boats, the Winnebago and the Howard, and has the contract for two big boats for Gilchrist. The trouble came when Gilchrist refused to advance any more money on his contracts, without some protection. It is said that the time for turning over his boats has expired, and he has taken charge to rush their completion.

Gov. Bliss was asked Thursday for a statement regarding the rumor that he was about to pardon or parole Frank C. Andrews. His answer was given in a deliberate and positive manner, and it was of a nature to put a stop to the travels of the story that Andrews's release would be effected in a few days.

"I have been asked on all sides by friends to consider the matter of Andrews's release," said the governor, "but I told them that I would not consider it until the depositors in the wrecked City Savings bank, the people that suffered in the dealings of that time, and the men who have been trying to straighten out Andrews's affairs petitioned for his release upon the ground that they would be aided by his presence and judgment in the direction of affairs at this time.

"This is the only ground upon which I have been asked to consider his release. After such a petition had been signed, I said, I would agree to consider the matter of his release, but even then I would withhold my opinion. I have made no promises, and there is no truth in all the talk of his parole at this time."

While Gov. Bliss will not permit himself to be driven into making the announcement at the present time, his friends do not hesitate to give the assurance that he will not pardon Frank C. Andrews. It is not known that any of Mr. Andrews's friends have asked for a pardon, though they have sought a parole for him.

The State Fair.

The requests for space for the state fair, which opens at Pontiac September 7, are coming in liberally. It is believed that the display of cattle and live stock will be larger than in past years, while the farm implement display will be one that is seldom found at state fairs in any part of the country. Workmen have begun building a stone road from the main entrance to the Howland building. Cider walks are also being placed along the main avenues all over the grounds. A large building is to be erected for the use of those who buy the privilege of dispensing soft drinks, candies, and the lunch counters. The children of the city schools here have already prepared their exhibit, which is considered the finest that has yet been displayed there. One of its features will be the manual training exhibit. The races for the occasion will be in connection with the Michigan short circuit.

The New Prison Cells.

At the meeting in Jackson of Gov. Bliss and the prison board, the matter of the prison contracts was considered, but no action taken. The board also considered plans for a new cell block on the west side of the prison. The plan is to fill in the present cell block so that the first tier filled in the present cell block will be on a level with the ground. The new cells will be 9 feet long, 7 feet 3 inches high and 3 feet 2 inches wide. Each will have a closet and wash basin connecting with the sewer, with good ventilation and heating. The sum of $147,200 was appropriated for this improvement. The cell block will be steel, the outside walls to be of quarter inch tool proof plate, and the remainder three-sixteenths of an inch galv plate. The block will be five cells high.

Late in Proceeding.

The Grand Rapids & Indiana Ry. Co. has filed a demurrer in the United States court in Grand Rapids to the petition of District Attorney Covell for an extension of time in which to take testimony in a suit of the United States to recover several thousand acres of land in Grand Traverse county, much of which is now settled and considered very valuable property. The property of over 300 residents of Grand Traverse county is involved in the suit. The rule of the federal courts is that proof must be taken within three months after the case comes to issue. Over six years has expired in the present case, as the defendants made answer to the bill on August 14, 1896, and the replication was filed Sept. 14, 1896. It is a disputable question whether the government can be guilty of laches.

Foolish Girls Run Away.

Sorrow and anxiety have invaded the home of two well-known farmers in the vicinity of Northville within the last three days, all through the thoughtlessness of two silly boys and two sillier girls. The parents of Martha Lorenz, aged 17, of South Lyon, and of Emma Lorenz, aged 16, of Northville, have, since Sunday, been ransacking the city of Detroit with truant officers and detectives for the persons of their runaway daughters and the two 17 and 18-year-old farm hands, Albert Sessions and Charles Hamilton, with whom they left Northville Friday night. So the runaways, two childish-looking, fair-haired girls and two farmer boys, are still at large, though how long their little sum of money will hold out is a question.

Hillsdale will have to provide more school room for its growing population. Ed Carter, of Sturgis, has been arrested on a charge of carrying liquor to Colon men whom dealers had been warned not to sell to.

Joseph Oliver, over 80 years old, and for some time a resident of Traverse City, committed suicide Sunday night in the home of his adopted daughter, Mrs. James Shane. Sunday afternoon, a little daughter of Mrs. Shane went to his room to call him and she found him sitting on the side of his bed, dead. He had tied a handkerchief around his throat and fastened it to the bed post so as to choke himself to death. He had been very irritable, and, sometimes, was considered hardly in his right mind. He objected to the holding of a party in the house Saturday night, and the anger he showed then is supposed to have prompted him to do away with himself.

Frightfully Maimed.

Hazel Dreyder, a boy 13 years old, while assisting his father in a sawmill at Mt. Forest, three miles northwest of Montrose, fell against the circular saw while it was in motion. One arm was severed above the elbow, two fingers of the other hand taken off and the tip of the elbow of the arm sawed off. The lad was picked up by his father and carried to his residence, half a mile away, when a physician was summoned.

Missing Man Located.

Alex. Franz, the missing bridegroom whose disappearance from Olivet eight hours before he was to be wedded to Winifred Patten, made a sensation, has been located at Elkhart, Ind. He has written his relatives telling where he is. He claims, it is said, that tramps carried him off, took his money away, and are holding him in captivity. Hunter, who was suspected of kidnapping him, is in Johnston, Pa.

Tanner's Body Found.

The body of Martin Tanner, who disappeared mysteriously last week from the Greyhound while en route from Detroit to Toledo, was discovered floating in Lake Erie about two miles off Raisin point Saturday. The body was identified by means of a letter found in the pocket addressed to Martin Tanner and was in a badly decomposed condition. No mark has been found indicating foul play.

STATE NEWS IN BRIEF.

Camden will soon have a telephone exchange.

There is talk at Stockbridge of organizing a new bank.

The village fathers at North Adams have closed the contract for the installation of the electric lighting plant and the lights are to be turned on in sixty days.

Governor Bliss denies any ambition to succeed Julius C. Burrows as United States senator. He claims his only desire now is to leave behind him a record as governor satisfactory to the people.

The Holt Lumber Co., of Oconto, Wis., is operating a summer logging camp in Ontonagon county. About seventy-five men are employed and twelve carloads of logs are being shipped daily.

Charles Conroy, a lineman working for the Michigan Telephone Co., fell from a pole in Fenton, Saturday, a distance of 35 feet and broke both arms below the elbow. His home is in Port Huron.

Harry Bell, of Muskegon, son of H. F. Bell, of the Alaska Refrigerator Co., who was appointed as a candidate for West Point, passed the examinations and has left to join the summer camp on the Hudson.

Samuel Charles, of Battle Creek, went hunting Sunday and has not returned. He is only 17 and is unaccustomed to being away from home, so it is surmised that he has accidentally killed himself in the woods.

Melvin Bishop, who was released from Jackson recently after serving a five-year term, is locked up on the charge that he stole a horse and buggy from Charles Ostrom, of Postoria. It is said that he has confessed.

Some prominent citizens here are moving to secure a pardon for Albert E. Cummins, former register of deeds of Hillsdale county, now serving a five-year sentence at Jackson for obtaining money under false pretenses.

Albert Burdick, of Kinderhook township, went after the county snake-killing record a few days ago. He started to pick berries at Gilead, but the snakes got started, and when he was through 51 blue racers were dead.

The body of Mrs. Gilbert Taylor, of Sarnia, who was drowned last week while trying to save little Isabel Thompson from drowning, was found floating in the river at Port Huron Tuesday. The little girl's body was found Monday.

J. S. Stevens, 21 years old, cashier of the Swift Beef Co.'s local branch in Ishpeming has confessed to embezzling $2,000, stealing regularly each week by changing bills he collected from local meat firms to their account in the beef company.

On Daniel Hadaway's farm in Casso, an experiment in snake-raising is being tried. Mr. Hadaway found, while plowing, fifty-six snake's eggs of the blue racer variety. He placed them on sand on a sunny hillside, covered them and awaits developments.

A colony of hoboes estimated at 1,500 have infested the lake shore, in St. Joseph county, from Watervliet on the north to New Buffalo on the south, for the past three months. They live in camps and enjoy a life of their own ideal.

Michigan will at once carry the Northern Securities merger case to the court of appeals.

The circuit court in Delaware, O., has declared the criminal clause of the Valentine anti-trust law to be unconstitutional.

A misunderstanding of orders caused a head-on collision of Queen & Crescent trains near Greenwood, Ky., killing six men and injuring two others.

Patrolman Michael Down was shot by a gang of hoodlums on the northern outskirts of Buffalo. The wound is just above his heart and he may die.

Commander Stuart's home at Roskonkoma, L. I., was destroyed by fire, one servant being burned to death and the family escaping almost miraculously.

Fourth of July jubilation which requires fireworks, bombs, etc., is under the ban of a strong ordinance in St. Paul as a result of numerous fatalities in the last celebration.

The Chicago water board is seeking pay for water supplied to the university of Chicago and the college people have asked an injunction to prevent the water being shut off.

A woman vagrant, arrested as a professional beggar in New York, was found to have 1,400 pennies, weighing 15 pounds, on her person, besides books showing bank deposits of $1,600.

Striking drivers in New York engaged the police in a pitched battle last night when the officers tried to rescue a non-union driver from the mob. A number of men were injured.

During an electrical storm a number of Italians took refuge in a building on Kelly street, Pittsburgh, and two men were killed by lightning. Three others were injured, but will recover.

Parents' objections to a stage career caused Mabel Main, aged 24, a student at a nurses' training school in New York, to commit suicide. She was the daughter of a wealthy Jamaica banker.

Theodore Roosevelt Szychalski, the last boy of the Toledo quadruplets, died of cholera infantum. Sam Jones, the other boy, died last week and the two girls are also ill, but will likely recover.

The body of Frank McCullam, who committed suicide by drowning himself in Hyde's lake, in Newton township, July 14, was found by Herbert Latta and Archie Bohanna. They received a reward.

It has developed that Paul Calne, the young man who was found drowned last week at Louisville, had $25,000 in accident insurance in addition to the life policies he carried. A New York company is investigating the case, and the body may be exhumed.

A check for $100 has been received from President Roosevelt for Theodore Roosevelt Signet, the boy born to Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Signet, of McKeesport, Pa., some weeks ago, and which is their twentieth child. The money has been placed in bank till the babe is 21.

Thirty persons were killed and 52 injured in a railroad wreck between Sucha and Kalvaria, Austrian Silesia. A train consisting of 11 cars, heavily loaded with stones broke their couplings and ran at a terrific speed down a sharp grade for 20 miles until it collided with a passenger train.

Robert J. Kilpatrick, employed as a laborer at the United States mint, in Philadelphia, was arrested Wednesday by secret service operatives, charged with stealing 858 silver dollars from a vault. The money was stolen while the coins in the mint were being transferred from one vault to another.

NEWS OF THE WORLD

A Brief Chronicle of All Important Happenings

The Playas Of War.

The naval search problem, which began when Rear Admiral Barker took up the plan of defending the Maine coast from a "hostile" fleet which put to sea under Rear Admiral Sands, ended Saturday morning when the Olympia, the flagship of the defending fleet, discovered and intercepted the "white squadron" of the enemy, headed full speed for Winter Harbor. The hostile vessels were running in close order formation and had not the fog lifted at a favorable moment it is thought the enemy would have ended those on guard.

In this search problem the value of the wireless telegraph in the navy has been demonstrated to the satisfaction of the naval officers. Under ordinary conditions it would have been several hours before the Olympia could have communicated her discovery of the enemy to any other ships of the squadron even though she could have made a run for it, which the rules prohibited. But by aid of wireless service not only was she able to inform the admiral of the approach of the enemy, but Admiral Barker's flagship, the Kearsarge, transmitted the message sent by the Olympia from ship to ship along the whole length of the coast from Mount Desert Rock to Cape Ann, so that in a short time all defending squadrons was informed of the fact that the enemy was in sight and reinforcements to Admiral Barker were coming from miles along the coast.

To Recover American Dollars.

English society, especially that element in it which has married in America, is profoundly stirred by the announcement that Baroness Halkett, who was Miss Sarah Phelps Stokes, daughter of Anson Phelps Stokes, the New York multi-millionaire, who recently secured a divorce from her husband on the ground of extreme cruelty, intends to sue for the setting aside of the millions settled upon Baron Halkett at the time of the marriage. The best English lawyers say the Baroness will win her suit. The success of Baroness Halkett would mean the beginning of similar suits not only in England, but in France, Germany, Italy, Austria and Russia, which, in turn, if successful, will necessitate the turning to cash, sharpening, promoting and other genteel methods of making a living open to indigent noblemen.

Remarkable Atmosphere.

One of the most remarkable atmospheric disturbances is reported from Oaconda, S. D. Following the hottest day ever experienced there came an atmospheric condition, lasting only a few minutes, but fatal to live stock and greatly distressing human beings.

During the day nearly every kitten in the vicinity of Oaconda died, apparently from the effects of some gaseous matter in the air. A bunch of 18 head of cattle in one drove was seen coming down from the flats, when eight of them fell to the ground. A farmer living nearby ran out to them and found six of the eight already dead. The other two jumped up and ran frantically away.

John Morris, a stockman living on White river, reports the loss of six cattle the same day.

Although his wife, the police and a coroner's jury have declared that he was drowned, Frank J. Nullett insists in letters received by his family in New York that he is alive.

The Lake City council is considering an application for a twenty-five-year franchise for an electric light and water works plant in the village.

Pius X. Is Crowned.

On Sunday the great ceremony of crowning the new Pope was performed in St. Peter's Cathedral. It was a gorgeous sight, though the new Pope did all possible to avoid ostentatious display. The papal throne rose majestically at the further end of the building, being a bewildering mixture of gold, red and silver, appearing altogether too gorgeous to be sat in. The high altar is adorned with gilded candelabras after designs by Michael Angelo, Cellini and other famous artists, in which many candles twinkled on Sunday, while several thousand electric lights illuminated the whole church. The departure from Rome of Cardinals Langenieux and Lecot without waiting for the coronation is much commented upon, as the French cardinals had refused until the last moment to vote for Sirto.

Worth Hustling For.

Mrs. August Vanderkerke, of Shawnee, Kas., reported to the depot authorities in St. Paul that she had lost a bustle containing $7,800, while en route to St. Paul on a Rock Island train. Mrs. Vanderkerke, who is well advanced in years, stated that she feared to leave her money in a bank, and thought it would be safe if she sewed it in her bustle. This she did, and then started on a journey to Pierz, Minn., to visit her son-in-law.

When within 30 miles of St. Paul, Mrs. Vanderkerke says she left her berth to finish dressing. Shortly afterward she missed the valuable piece of personal apparel, and believes that it fell from the train. A searching party has been sent out.

General Miles' View.

General Miles, now on the retired list, says: "It may be that my personal comfort would have been greater had I abstained from criticism when criticism was needed. A man occupying the position of commanding general of the army can certainly get along more easily if he troubles to an individual, or a set of individuals, or a party, if he shuts his ears and eyes and is content to be a mere figurehead. I have absolutely no regrets and were I to go into the office again my policy, in the light of experience would be exactly what it has been."

Telegraphic Briefs.

The Afro-American Equal Rights league has been formed with a state organization in New York, and expects to spread to other states very soon.

Indiana is to make its first trial of convict labor contracts at the Michigan City prison. Contractors have offered 40 to 50 cents per day per man for 400 men.

Church bells will ring in Eldora, Ia., the mayor having vetoed the ordinance prohibiting them. It was asserted that the bells disturbed patients in the hospitals.

Robert H. Sherwood, of Benton Harbor, one of the leading apple growers in Michigan, has 85 acres of apples, from which he expects to harvest 7,000 barrels of the finest fruit.

Harry Siple was perhaps fatally burned and his wife and 10-year-old son, Edward, are dead, as the result of a fire in their home in Washington Borough, Pa., caused by an exploding lamp.

Six wills of the late Gen. Cassius M. Clay were offered in court at Richmond, Ky. The probating of each was objected to by the legal heirs of C. M. Clay. Objection was sustained by the court, and each of the wills was indorsed "offered."

WITH THE SAGES.

Move all things, reverence yourself.—Pythagoras.

Every man is a volume. If you know how to read him.—Channing.

Deliberate with caution, but act with decision and promptness.—Colton.

Good sense, kindness of heart, and a proper self-respect are the elements of the best manners.—Tryon Edwards.

If a man cannot attain to the length of his wishes he may have his remedy by cutting them short.—Abraham Cowley.

We exaggerate misfortune and happiness alike. We are never either so wretched or so happy as we say we are.—Balzac.

Happy is he who has laid up his youth, and held fast in all fortune, a genuine and passionate love for reading.—Rufus Choate.

Polliteness is a mixture of discretion, civility, complaisance, and circumspection spread over all we do and say.—St. Evremond.

It is with narrow-souled people as with narrow-necked bottles; the less they have in them, the more noise they make in pouring it out.—Pope.

There is no policy like politeness; and a good manner is the best thing in the world, either to get a good name, or supply the want of it.—Bulwer.

The keen spirit seizes the prompt occasion; makes the thought start into instant action, and at once plans and performs, resolves, and executes!—Hannah More.

The essence of true nobility is neglect of self. Let the thought of self pass in, and the beauty of a great action is gone like the bloom from a soiled flower.—J. A. Froude.

APALACHICOLA APHORISMS.

The man who continually picks flaws in his neighbor will bear watching. He needs the shotgun strong.

No matter what the enterprise may be, there are some people in Apalachicola who will oppose it on general principles.

The man who sells you rotten food can generally be found around the corner abusing the merchant who gives short weights.

The man who is loudest in his talk about the grievances of the poor man who never gets a show, has forgotten to settle his last month's grocery bill.

The man who grunts the loudest in the amen corner is not always grunting for the sins committed by his neighbors; he is attempting to set rid of his own load.

There are a few jackasses who oppose any enterprise that they cannot manipulate. Usually you can place the souls of such men in a mustard seed, and even then you can hear a pretty good rattle.

The enterprising chaps who bury their dimes or hide them away in an old sock can usually be found around the corner, discussing the non-enterprise and want of get-up-and-get of their acquaintances.

The man who has a suck-egg hound that eats up the eggs of the neighbors (having previously been the city out of the dog tax) is usually very loud in his talk about the non-enforcement of the city laws.—Apalachicola Times.

SHE'S LOVELY STILL.

The gods honor her who thinketh long before opening her lips.

A vain woman is to be feared, for she will sacrifice all to her pride.

A haughty woman stumbles, for she cannot see what may be in her way.

Respect always a silent woman; great is the wisdom of the woman that holdeth her tongue.

Trust not a woman that thinketh more of herself than another; mercy will not dwell in her heart.

A woman that respects herself is more beautiful than a single star; more beautiful than many stars at night.

A mother not spoken well of by her children is not an enemy of the State; she could not live within the kingdom's wall.

REFLECTIONS OF A BACHELOR.

Too many servants spoil the work.

A girl can answer a question before it is asked if it is a proposal.

When a man is trying to marry a woman he is monopolistic; after marriage his tendencies become socialist.

A woman considers that her husband is trying to do better when he is smart enough for her not to catch him.

BILLY'S BEATTITUDES.

Blessud iz thee paralyzed, for they can't feel thee prickly heat.

Blessud iz thee skellytun, for it don't haf to ware enny clothes.

WIT AND WISDOM.

It is the friction of life that polishes up its rough edges.

A woman is rarely jealous of an elderly spouse—and yet!

Some lives are so worthless that they are hardly fit for the dump.

Love is like smallpox. Sometimes you escape, but it often leaves awful scars.

When you ride on a self-acting trolley it is sometimes hard to control the brakes.

A woman who loved but once, and madly loved on to the end, ought to be canonized.

Unappreciative Wretch.

"What did your wife say when you came home so late?"
"I really don't know. I can just remember that I woke up three times, and she was still talking."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

If men were relatively as strong as brutes they could juggle with weights of several tons.
