IN MEMORIAM.

Bessie Cordley was born at Lakeside Farm, in Hamburg township, on the 3d. of Sept., 1876, died June 8th.,
1904, at the Agricultural College, Lansing, aged 27 years, where, had she lived, she would have graduated the 23d. But God did not so will it, the young life so full of promise, was cut short to receive her diploma in Heaven.

One by one earth's ties are broken,
As we see our loved decay;
And the hopes so fondly cherished,
Brighten but to pass away.

One by one hopes grow brighter,
As we near the shining shore;
For we know across the river,
Wait the loved ones gone before.

YOUNG MEN'S CLUB

The first important event of the summer season will be at Pinckney on Saturday, June 25, annual field day, when there will be an all day program of events including aquatic and athletic sports also ball game, Pinckney vs Stockbridge, at Johnson's park. A big time assured—all the world invited.

The members of the Boys club enjoyed a very pleasant outing at Portage lake last Thursday in charge of the president. The boys went swimming and boating to their hearts content. A snack lunch was appreciated.

Congregational Church.

Conducted by Rev. G. W. Mylne.

Sunday, June 19, morning service as usual at 10:30. Cong'l classes, also
Y. M. club at 11:30.

Evening service at M. E. church at 7:30 when the pastor will deliver the annual baccalaureate sermon. Everybody welcome.

Ladies aid will serve ice cream on Field Day, 25th June.

The Children's Day celebration last Sunday was quite satisfactory to the large audience in attendance. With Miss Mabel Swarthout as organist, the choir, assisted by the Sunday school girls, rendered pleasing and appropriate music. The musical selections by Prof. Miller, Ethel Durfee, Harold and Gracie Grieves, also Gladys Brown were sung with remarkable taste and sweetness, and were greatly appreciated.

The literary selections by the boys and girls showed careful preparation and everyone did his or her part without a single blunder or omission.

The Excelsior quartet, consisting of Miss Maud Teeple, Ross Read, Fred
Campbell and Francis Carr rendered instrumental music and gratified the audience with favorite selections.

The display of flowers and decorations showed great taste and were exceedingly beautiful. The services were much enjoyed by the visitors and regular congregation.

The "Old Home Week" will soon be here. It is a good thing to keep alive the cherished memories of childhood, to renew the acquaintances of our youth; to revisit the scenes with which our boyhood was familiar. The man whose heart is properly located, and whose pulse beats with a wholesome throb, is never so busy that he cannot find some time to devote to memories, and to him there is a lingering fondness for the old home scenes; the old swimming hole, the skating pond,

the lake where the fish seemed always hungry. It does him good in the absorbing rush of a strenuous life, to revisit the woods where he gathered flowers, the hill where he coasted, the fields over which he tramped with a gun over his shoulder. But a visit to these scenes, a living over those old days upon the very spots that memory cherishes, is almost like a renewal of one's youth. That man must indeed have as little sentiment as an incubator chicken, to whom the banes of his childhood makes no appeal.

M. E. Church Notes.

One of the Sunday school classes of the M. E. church will serve ice cream at the town hall on Saturday evening of this week, June 18. Everybody invited.

Morning service next Sunday at the usual hour with special music, reading by Herbert Cope and sermon by the pastor. This will be the last Sunday Herbert Cope can be with us at present as he takes up his Chautauqua work next week.

In the evening Rev. G. W. Mylne of the Cong'l church will deliver the annual sermon before the graduating class of the PHS at this church. Special music by the choir and a solo by Carl Sykes. All are welcome to these services.

The childrens day exercises Sunday morning last were the best ever given in the church. No time or work had been spared in decorating the church with banks of green and beautiful flowers and the exercises were rendered in excellent shape to a crowded church. In the evening the exercises were by the older classes in Sunday school and were very interesting. The large church was crowded to the doors and all were interested. The special music, especially the solo by Miss Cope and the trio by the Misses Cope, Green and Andrews were appreciated.

Old Boys and Girls' reunion Aug. 34.
Miss Anna McClellan of Gregory was the guest of Miss Kate Ruen over Sunday.

Mrs. Thompson Grimes and Shirley Mann, of Lincoln, Neb., are visiting friends here.

Let the old timers dig deep in memories g'rden and be prepared to enlighten the visitors at the 'Old Boys and Girls' reunion, as to the historical landmarks.

CHAPTER VII.

Ilda Barosky.

There appeared for a moment a young girl, bearing a violin and bow—it was only for a moment—between the two servants, Azof and Hanajka.

With a quick gesture she threw aside the servants, and with flashing eyes and head erect she advanced to the center of the room.

"Who is responsible for this outrage—this insult? Who is master here?" she demanded, in quick, impasioned tones, while her face indicated the terrible excitement which possessed her.

Paul Nazimoff advanced quickly. "Stop, girl! You forget yourself and who you are. You were commanded here by me—Paul, Count Nazimoff!"

"Who and what is Paul, Count Nazimoff, that he should command me?" was the imperious answer. "Am I your servant, your serf, your child, or your debtor? I am a free-born Russian, no slave, and I shall not obey you!"

Count Nazimoff, by his command had thrown down the gage of battle, and Ilda Barosky—for it was the exile's daughter—had taken it up. Two strong natures were in conflict. On the one hand stood Paul Nazimoff, rich, powerful, noble, accustomed all his life to command and to be obeyed, and now humiliated, if beaten, in the presence of all his guests.

On the other, the young girl, proud, haughty and unbending, her woman's pride stung to the quick by being thrust like a serf into the midst of the brilliant throng, and commanded to play, as a master commands a slave. It was not hard to see that hers was a nature that never would yield to force, not even if resistance meant the loss of life itself.

How was the battle to end?

"I shall not obey you!"

The words that ended the young girl's speech kept ringing in the ears of Paul Nazimoff. "I shall not obey you!"

No such words had ever been addressed to him before. Could he believe the evidence of his own senses? Surely everybody in St. Petersburg knew that he, of all the great nobles in the capital, was the one whose autocratic ways were best known. All his guests knew it—and yet here, an unknown girl, an humble musician, dared to stand before him, under his own roof, and to fling in his face the bold defiance, "I shall not obey you!"

Paul Nazimoff's face, flushed before, now turned to a ghastly white, and his eyes seemed to turn to coals of fire. He no longer shouted. He appeared calm, but it was the calmness of the tiger about to spring on his unsuspecting victim.

"And I swear"—the words came slowly, with a hissing sound, from between the lips—"and I swear you shall obey me. You forget who I am. I am Paul, Count Nazimoff."

"And I swear I shall not obey you. I am Ilda Barosky, the daughter of an exile, and I shall not play 'God Save the Czar'!"

No one spoke.

The strain was fearfully intense. Paul Nazimoff shook for a moment as the tree shakes when it feels the first blast of the hurricane! The storm tween us. His voice grew louder. "She has insulted me, my guests, the czar—I swear she shall suffer. No power on earth can save her. Hanajka, Azof—seize her! Seize her!"

The servants obeyed. They would have strangled her there and then had they been so commanded.

"Now, girl, for the last time," he raised the whip, "play; or I swear to degrade you by the lash. There is nothing can save you. Now what think you of defying Paul, Count Nazimoff?"

The lash was uplifted. It was a face distorted by insane rage and fury that, with eyes afire with devilish resolve, looked into the face of Ilda Barosky.

She never moved. There was no sign of fear, whatever she may have felt. She looked defiance.

"Take hold of her arms and compel the bow to cross the strings!" fairly screamed Nazimoff, as he again raised the whip.

The servants obeyed.

Paul Nazimoff held the whip uplifted. "It is the last time," he yelled. "What will save you now?"

"This will!" The answer of Ilda Barosky, shrill and clear as a trumpet sound, rang out, as with a quick motion she raised the violin far above her head, and, before any one could prevent, dashed the instrument into a thousand pieces at the feet of Nazimoff!

He was baffled—beaten.

There was a gasp as he made a motion with the whip. Cobb and Alexis sprang forward to avert the blow, but it was needless. The whip fell from his hands and he fell forward. The strain had been too much, and the next moment he was unconscious.

With a quick motion Alexis sprang to the side of the girl. "Quick, come with me," he said in a low voice, as he grasped her by the arm. In all the confusion Cobb seemed to keep his mind. "Get her away," he urged Alexis, and at the same moment he supported the stricken count to a low couch where several physicians among the guests attended him. A moment consultation and they decided that it was nothing serious. Paul Nazimoff was suffering from the effects of a shock and overtaxed nerves. It was all right. A few hours rest and he would be quite himself again.

With a word of apology to the guests for the unhappy affair that had brought the festivities to such an unpleasant termination, Alexis bid good night to such as remained. Cobb he asked not to leave him.

Alexis Nazimoff, immediately after the departure of the last of the guests, retired to his own room, accompanied by General Cobb. He was laboring under intense emotion, and it was some minutes before he became sufficiently composed to trust himself to speak. When he became somewhat calmer, he turned to the American, and putting out his hand as if to ask for friendship and sympathy, said, in a voice that still indicated the intensity of his feelings: "Cobb, my late was decided to-night."

Cobb was about to answer, when, with a movement, Alexis stopped him, and in an impassioned strain broke out: "You do not know—you do not know that she who stood before my father, to-night—she whom he would have degraded by the lash—is the woman I love—the only woman who will ever be my wife."

To say that Cobb was astounded mildly expresses it.

He sat amazed and expectant, not knowing what to say. Alexis went on: "Three years ago I first met her, when she was a pupil at the Conservatory. She had appeared before a brilliant assemblage, and won the admiration of all by her wondrous beauty and her genius. I sought and obtained an introduction to her through the Baroness von Rhineberg. I loved her madly, passionately, devotedly—I loved her then as I love her now. I offered her my name. I asked her to become my wife."

Cobb started. He had anticipated a different avowal, and in his mind had framed a reply to Alexis. But he was not prepared for his.

"Ilda refused," continued Alexis, "unless I could gain my father's consent. My marriage with her, she urged, would be a blow to my fondest hopes of military distinction; would ostracize me in St. Petersburg, and would alienate the affections of my father. All this was true, but I cared nothing for it. I begged, implored her to listen to me—to give her consent. I offered to resign my commission in the army, to leave Russia with her, to make, in short, any sacrifice—but all in vain. My father heard of my love for her and we had a stormy scene, which ended in my leaving the house. I went directly to see Ilda—she was gone! In vain I sought her everywhere; she had disappeared as if she were no longer on earth. A week later I received peremptory orders to proceed to the frontier, and join the Don Cossacks for a campaign in Turkestan, and a short time after my arrival in Asia I received a note from my father, that a marriage had been arranged between Olga Karsicheff and myself, the ceremony to take place on my return to St. Petersburg. Broken-hearted at the loss of Ilda, I made no objection, and you know the rest. I never saw Ilda Barosky from the time I left St. Petersburg until to-night. Now all my love has returned with tenfold strength, and I swear that no other woman shall ever be my wife!"

"But your father, after to-night—"

"He does not know that it was Ilda—he never saw her. Carried away by his rage at her refusal, he knew not cared not who it was that dared to thwart a will that all, through life had never been gainsaid. To-night, and Alexis arose, "to-night has decided my fate. I am going to find Ilda Barosky—I am going to make her my wife! I am going to ask you—"

A knock at the door interrupted him.

"Come in!"

A servant entered, and bowing respectively said a word or two, and in answer to Alexis' quick response withdrew to reappear a moment later with a soldier wearing the uniform of the same regiment as that to which Alexis belonged.

"I LOVED HER THEN AS I LOVE HER NOW"

Then followed few words of dialogue in a language Cobb could not understand, and the soldier withdrew.

When they were once more alone Alexis turned to Cobb. "I am going to trust you fully and freely," he said. "My servant has just returned, having followed Ilda to her destination. I know where she is and I am going there to-night. If my father should awake, I ask you, in the name of our friendship, to make such explanation of my absence as will cause him no uneasiness until my return. You will do this for me, will you not?" said the young soldier, holding out his hand.

Cobb could say no more. He grasped the proffered hand of Alexis and five minutes later was alone.

Alexis was on his way to seek Ilda Barosky.

CHAPTER VIII.

The Nihilist Rendezvous.

A long, low room, with heavy wooden rafters supporting the ceiling, which was grimed and blacked by the smoke of a dozen oil lamps.

A room with a hot, stifling, suffocating atmosphere—the result of the smoking lamps, the fumes of tobacco and an almost red-hot stove, which had raised the temperature to an uncomfortable, almost an unsupportable degree.

A long table, upon which was scattered a miscellaneous collection of implements, a couple of rude benches, a chair or two, and some rough boxes, utilized as seats, constituted most of the furnishings.

The half-dozen steps, leading up to a heavily barred door, indicated that the room was a cellar, and the two small windows, both with heavy shutters of solid wood, which were only a few inches higher than the bottom of the door, were of apparently little practical use, either for light or ventilation.

Within this underground apartment, for such it really was, were gathered, on the same evening as that on which the events described in the last chapter occurred, some twelve or fifteen men and three women. Their faces, darkened even beyond their natural color by the smoke and grime, were marked by suppressed excitement, while their conversation, animated in the extreme, was carried on in that suppressed way suggestive of extreme caution and ceaseless apprehension.

Not that all were talking.

There were workers there, men who toiled and delved and whose grimy hands, hard and knotted, gave evidence that theirs had been no child's play.

A long coil of wire, some electrical instruments, and some curiously suggestive metal globes, were some of the objects on the table of which mention has already been made.

The conversation, after an interval of silence, had begun again.

Married Life in Abyssinia.

In Abyssinia, a husband who can afford the expense is continually adding to his household of wives. As soon as his favorite begins to pall on him he desposes her for another. The new wife rules the house, dictates orders to the other wives, who, strange as it may seem, obey her without open remonstrance. If any of the former favorites ever cared for their lord they soon cease to be jealous of his affections. They know, too, that the time will surely come when they will be turned out into the streets to look for another master.

Show Surgical Operations.

Cinematograph records are now made of all operations performed by a certain famous physician and surgeon in Paris. He entered some time ago into an arrangement with an operator of the bioscope, who has taken pictures for the doctor on several occasions. It is stated that the records in question are invaluable as scientific documents. One of the surgeon's operations which has been cinematographed was that by which the link of flesh connecting the Hindu twins, Redica and Doodica was severed.

Old Soldier's Story.

Sonoma, Mich., June 13.—That even in actual warfare disease is more terrible than bullets is the experience of Delos Hutchins of this place. Mr. Hutchins as a Union soldier saw three years of service under Butler Burke in the Louisiana swamps, and as a result got crippled with rheumatism so that his hands and feet got all twisted out of shape, and how he suffered only a rheumatic will ever know.

For twenty-five years he was in misery, then one lucky day his druggist advised him to use Dodd's Kidney Pills. Of the result Mr. Hutchins says:

"The first two boxes did not help me much, but I got two more, and before I got them used up I was a great deal better. I kept on taking them and now my pains are all gone and I feel better than I have in years. I know Dodd's Kidney Pills will cure rheumatism."

Judge thyself with the judgment of sincerity, and thou wilt judge others with the judgment of charity.

Fewer married men than bachelors commit suicide.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it to be a disease of the blood, and could do nothing to cure it with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure in the world. It is a powder to be dissolved in water and applied to the skin. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

TOLD IN CALIFORNIA.

Helping the kidneys is helping the whole body, for it is the kidneys that remove the poisons and waste from the body. Learning this simple lesson has made many sick men and women well.

Judge A. J. Felter of 318 So. E. St., San Bernardino, Calif., says:—"For 18 years my kidneys were not performing their functions properly. There was some backache, and the kidney secretions were profuse, containing also considerable sediment. Finally the doctors said I had diabetes. Doan's Kidney Pills wrought a great change in my condition and now I sleep and feel well again."

A FREE TRIAL of this great kidney medicine which cured Judge Felter will be mailed to any part of the United States. Address Foster-Mills Co., Buffalo, N. Y. Sold by all dealers; price 50 cents per box.

One Night Treatment with CUTICURA

Miss M. Cartledge gives some helpful advice to young girls. Her letter is but one of thousands which prove that nothing is so helpful to young girls who are just arriving at the period of womanhood as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I cannot praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound too highly, for it is the only medicine I ever tried which cured me. I suffered much from my first menstrual period, I felt so weak and dizzy at times I could not pursue my studies with the usual interest. My thoughts became sluggish, I had headaches, backaches and sinking spells, also pains in the back and lower limbs. In fact, I was sick all over. Finally, after many other remedies had been tried, we were advised to get Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I am pleased to say that after taking it only two weeks, a wonderful change for the better took place, and in a short time I was in perfect health. I felt buoyant, full of life, and found all work a pastime. I am indeed glad to tell my experience with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, for it made a different girl of me. Yours very truly, Miss M. CARTLEDGE, 533 Whitehall St., Atlanta, Ga."—$5000 worth! If original of above letter is sold, it cannot be reproduced.

Letters Long on Way

"Speaking of the curious routes letters sometimes take in reaching their destination," said an old newspaper man, in the New Orleans Times-Democrat, "reminds me of an extraordinary experience I had in 1901, when I received two letters which had been mailed to me in 1888, thirteen years before. I had been with a friend in Washington up to early in 1888, when I concluded that I would go to my old home in Boston. I remained in Boston a few days, going from there to New York. My movements were so sudden that he did not at any time know exactly where to find me. The two letters to which I have referred were sent to my Washington address, and, fortunately, fell into the hands of my friend. Not knowing exactly where I was after hearing that I had left Boston, he did not know where to send the letters, so he just kept them, thinking that he would finally learn my address and would send them on to me. While loafing around in New York I was suddenly seized with a desire to go to Europe and, without saying anything to anyone about my intentions, I boarded a ship and started for foreign lands."

"For nearly four years I was abroad and during that time, while communicating with relatives and friends on this side I never wrote to my friend whom I had left in Washington, for I did not know his address."

No Human Life There

The coast of Labrador is the edge of a vast solitude of rocky hills, split and blasted by the frosts and beaten by the waves of the Atlantic for unknown ages. A grand headland, yellow, brown and black in its nakedness, is ever in sight, one to the north of you and one to the south. Here and there upon them are strips and patches of pale green mosses, thin grasses and dwarf shrubbery. There are no forests except in Hamilton inlet. Occasionally miles of precipices front the sea in which fancy may roughly shape all the structures of human art."

More frequent than headlands and perpendicular sea fronts are the sea slopes, often bald and tame, and then the perfection of all that is picturesque and rough. In the interior the blue hills and stony vales that wind up from among them from the sea have a summerlike and pleasant air. One finds himself peopling these regions and dotting their hills, valleys and wild shores with human habitations, but a second thought, and a mournful one it is, tells that no men toil in the fields away there, no women keep the home off there, no children play by the brooks or shout around the country schoolhouse, no bees come home to the hive, no smoke curl's from the farmhouse chimney, no orchard blooms, no bleating sheep flock the mountain side with whiteness, and no heifer lows in the twilight.

There is nobody there, there never was but a miserable and scattered few, and there never will be. It is a great and terrible wilderness, thousands of miles in extent and lonesome to the very wild animals and birds. Left to the still visitation of the light from the sun, moon and stars and the auroral fires, it is only fit to look upon and then be given over to its primeval solitariness. But for the living things of its waters, the cod, salmon and seal, which brings thousands of fishermen to its waters and traders to its bleak shores, Labrador would be as desolate as Greenland. The time is now coming when with good steamship accommodations the invalid and tourist from the States will be found spending the brief but lovely summer here, notwithstanding its ruggedness and desolation.—Boston Transcript.

Romance of a Farm

A romantic story, one in which a number of stirring incidents are related, is told of a little farmhouse and forty-seven acres of land that within the last week have been turned over to a great church organization for an orphanage.

The property is located on the main line of the Northwestern road, about two hours out from Chicago, and adjoins the little village of Nachusa. The land was handed down from generation to generation by a family of the name of Dysart. By a member of this family it was originally taken up from the government, and remained in the family until it fell into the possession of Col. Alexander Dysart, who for years was one of the best known citizens of this section. He was a man of some eccentricities, but beloved by the whole community. He raised a family of sons, three of whom became engineers on the Northwestern road and are now running trains. The colonel, during his lifetime, improved the old home, which in early years was but a cabin, until it assumed the proportions of a fine country home. He surrounded it with a double row of pine trees, and these for miles may be seen from points along the road.

When the colonel was well along in years he fell in love with a widow, and against the wishes of his family married her, only to be divorced in a few years.

Within sight of the Dysart home was the farm of Peter Burham, a sturdy German, the father of an industrious family. Among the children was a daughter, Mary, who grew up to be as pretty a lass as could be found in all Lee county. A farmer's daughter, she in due time became a farmer's wife, marrying Henry Shippert. Both husband and wife had not one but several farms of rich Lee county land, but after the body of old Col. Dysart was laid to rest and the property was offered for sale, Mrs. Shippert bought it. Then she proposed to the Evangelical church, of which she is a member, to convert the little farm into an orphanage. The church accepted the charge and only the other day the home of the kindly old colonel was dedicated to its noble purpose.

Gol Dern the Weather

The day is dark an' rain squirts down,
The hull creation 'pears fer frown—
It's such a mighty, peky day.
Thet all I'm good fer is ter say:

Gol dern the weather; gol dern it!
The hull outside is mud an' wet,
An' I'll jest tell yer what I'll bet.
Thet long afore this weather's gone,
That'll be a sight o' damage done!

Gol dern the weather; gol dern it!
The roofs, by Joe! are leakin', ton,
An' we can't 'ford ter put on new;
The binder's spinnin' with the rust,
So when she's used, by jing! she'll bust!

Gol dern the weather; gol dern it!
They can't no work be done nowow—
The mud's so thick yer couldn't plow;

The wheels'd sink clear ter the hub—
An' gosh! the hands don't earn their grub!

Gol dern the weather; gol dern it!
I wish the sun would come aroun'
So' maw an' me could drive ter town,
Ter laws! we need some groceries bad!

Gol dern the weather; gol dern it!
An' so we all set 'round and mope—
Ter me it seems that ain't no hope,
But lands! it ain't no use ter grow,

Yet somehow it's relief ter howl:
Gol dern the weather; gol dern it!

CATARRH IS THE CAUSE OF MOST KIDNEY DISEASES.

PE-RU-NA CURES CATARRH.

Captain James L. Dempsey, Captain 2nd Precinct Troy Police Force, writes from 198 Ferry St., Troy, N. Y., as follows:

"From my personal experience with Peruna I am satisfied it is a very fine remedy for catarrhal afflictions, whether of the head, lungs, stomach or pelvic organs. It cures colds quickly, and a few doses taken after undue exposure prevents illness.

"Some of the patrolmen under me have also found great relief from Peruna. It has cured chronic cases of kidney and bladder trouble, restored men suffering from indigestion and rheumatism, and I am fully persuaded that it is an honest, reliable medicine, hence I fully endorse and recommend it." JAMES L. DEMPSEY

Officer A. C. Swanson writes from 607 Harrison St., Council Bluffs, Ia., as follows:

"As my duties compelled me to be out in all kinds of weather I contracted a severe cold from time to time, which settled in the kidneys, causing severe pains and trouble in the pelvic organs.

"I am now like a new man, am in splendid health and give all praise to Peruna." —A. C. Swanson.

SAMUEL R. SPRECHER.

Samuel R. Sprecher, Junior Beadle Court Angelina, 3,422 I. O. O. F., 205 New High St., Los Angeles, Cal., writes:

"I came here a few years ago suffering with catarrh of the kidneys, in search of health. I thought the climate would cure me, but found I was mistaken. But what the climate could not do Peruna could and did do. Seven weeks' trial convinced me that I had the right medicine, and I was then a well man. I know of at least twenty friends and members of the lodge to which I belong who have been cured of catarrh, bladder and kidney trouble through the use of Peruna, and it has a host of friends in this city."

SAMUEL R. SPRECHER.

Catarrh of the Kidneys a Common Disease—Kidney Trouble Often Fails to Be Regarded as Catarrh by Physicians.

Catarrh of the kidneys is very common indeed. It is a pity this fact is not better known to the physicians as well as the people.

People have kidney disease. They take some diuretic, hoping to get better. They never once think of catarrh. Kidney disease and catarrh are seldom associated in the minds of the people, and alas! it is not very often associated in the minds of the physicians. Too few physicians recognize catarrh of the kidneys. They doctor for something else. They try this remedy and that remedy. The trouble may be catarrh all the time. A few bottles of Peruna would cure them.

Pe-ru-na Removes the Cause of the Kidney Trouble.

Peruna strikes at the very centre of the difficulty, by eradicating the catarrh from the kidneys. Catarrh is the cause of kidney difficulty. Remove the cause and you remove the effect. With unerring accuracy Peruna goes right to the spot. The kidneys are soon doing their work with perfect regularity.

Thousands of Testimonials.

Thousands of testimonials from people who have had kidney disease which had gone beyond the control of the physician are received by Dr. Hartman, every year, giving Peruna the whole praise for marvelous cures.

sician are received by Dr. Hartman,

every year, giving Peruna the whole praise for marvelous cures.

Pe-ru-na Cures Kidney Disease.

Peruna cures kidney disease. The reason it cures kidney disease is because it cures catarrh. Catarrh of the kidneys is the cause of most kidney disease. Peruna cures catarrh wherever it happens to be located. It rarely fails.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case, and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

The Pinckney Dispatch.

F. L. ANDREWS & CO. PROPRIETORS.

THURSDAY, JUNE 16, 1904.

A Card.

I, the undersigned, do hereby agree to refund the money on a 50 cent bottle of Greene's Warranted Syrup of Tar if it fails to cure your cough or cold. I also guarantee a 25-cent bottle to prove satisfactory or money refunded.

t23
Will B. Darrow.

Ten Ways to Say "Ough."

A correspondent of the London Chronicle gives our nine ways of pronouncing the letters "ough." These are, written phonetically, as in coff, cauf (each is allowable), enuff, thaunt, tho, throo, hiccup, the Irish lough an' the Scot's pronunciation ofough, "such," the two final consonants in the last two words representing the corresponding gutturals in German. The editor in comment adds, "There is one other—bough!"

Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets are just what you need when you have no appetite, feel dull after eating and wake up with a bad taste in your mouth. They will improve your appetite, cleanse and invigorate your stomach and give you a relish for your food.

For sale by F. A. Sigler.

A Modest Colonel.

According to the Canadian Military Gazette, the new adjutant of a volunteer regiment was asking the colonel a few things about the corps and eventually got on to the subject of marksmanship. "Is the battalion a fairly good shooting one?" he asked. "Oh, yes; it is quite," answered the colonel grandly. "You'll find a large percentage of good shots in my regiment. And some very fine shots, too—very fine shots. I myself"—here he dropped his voice to a lower and more oily pitch—"am the best shot. Lieutenant Pulthrough, who is the next best shot to myself, is a magnificent shot."

Thrown from his Wagon

Mr. Geo. K. Babcock was thrown from his wagon and severely bruised. He applied Chamberlain's Pain Balm freely and says it is the best liniment he ever used. Mr. Babcock is a well known citizen of North Plain, Conn. There is nothing equal to Pain Balm for sprains and bruises. It will effect a cure in one third the time required by any other treatment.

Keeping Up Appearances.

Mrs. Catterson—Mrs. Wiltz is a woman with a great deal of pride, isn't she? Mrs. Hatterson—Intense. She told me she had ordered as many clothes this season as she would if her husband hadn't been in debt.—Brooklyn Life.

Sued By His Doctor.

A doctor here has sued me for $12.50, which I claim was excessive for a case of cholera morbus," says R. White, of Coachella, Cal. "At the trial he praised his medical skill and medicine. I asked him if it was not Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy he used as I had good reason to believe it was, and he would not say under oath that it was not. No doctor could use a better remedy than this in case of cholera morbus, it never fails.

Sabina—Do you quote Shakespeare and Dante when that college professor calls? Sabrina—Not much. I whirled and make him a rousing old Welsh rabbit.—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

Driven to Desperation

Living at an out-of-the-way place, remote from civilization, a family is often driven to desperation in case of accident, resulting in burns, cuts, wounds, ulcers, etc. Lay in a supply of Bucklen's Arnica Salve. It's the best on earth. 25¢ at

Foley's Kidney Cure

Triumph of Modern Surgery

Wonderful things are done for the human body by surgery. Organs are taken out and scraped and polished and put back, or they may be removed entirely; bones are spliced; pipes take the place of diseased sections of veins; antiseptic dressings are applied to wounds, bruises, burns and like injuries before inflammation sets in, which causes them to heal without maturation and in one third the time required by the old treatment. Chamberlain's Pain Balm acts on this same principle. It is an antiseptic and when applied to such injuries, causes them to heal very quickly. It also allays the pain and soreness. Keep a bottle of Pain Balm in your home and it will save you time and money, not to mention the inconvenience and suffering which such injuries entail.

at F. A. Sigler's drug store.

Juvenile Gems.

Here are some instances of curious mistakes made by school children in examinations:

Oxygen is a thing that has eight sides. The cuckoo never lays its own eggs. A mosquito is a child of black and white parents. A blizzard is the inside of a hen. A meridian is the name of the place where they keep time. "Parasite" is the slang name given to an inhabitant of Paris; it ought to be written "Parisian." The following has an odd ring about it and ought to be true: "Izaak Walton was such a good fisher that men called him 'Judicious Hooker!'" In this next instance phonetics is certainly to blame: "The equator is a menagerie lion running round the earth through Africa."—Liverpool Post.

NOTICE.

We the undersigned, do hereby agree to refund the money on a 50 cent bottle of Down's Elixir if it does not cure any cough, cold, whooping cough, or throat trouble. We also guarantee Down's Elixir to cure consumption, when used according to directions, or money back. A full dose on going to bed and small doses during the day will cure the most severe cold, and stop the most distressing cough.

For further information apply to any Great Western agent or J. P. Elmer, GPA, Chicago, Ill.

Startling Evidence

Fresh testimony in great quantity is constantly coming in, declaring Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, coughs and colds to be unequalled. A recent expression from T. J. McFarland, Bentorville, Va., serves as example. He writes: "I had bronchitis for three years and doctored all the time without being benefited. Then I began taking Dr. King's New Discovery, and a few bottles wholly cured me." Equally effective in curing all lung and throat troubles, consumption, pneumonia and grip. Guaranteed by F. A. Sigler, Druggist. Trial bottle free, regular size 50c, and $1.00.

ADDITIONAL LOCAL.

All welcome Aug. 3-4.

Great Days for Pinckney, Aug. 3-4.
A home for aged people is a new project on foot at Ann Arbor.

Ethel Graham spent Sunday with her uncle, Bert Green and family of Stockbridge.

Bert Campbell and wife of Detroit, are the proud possessors of a little daughter these days.

B. F. Andrews left last Friday for Owosso, from there he leaves this week to spend the summer in Iowa and Nebraska with his sisters.

Fred Wyman, of Dexter, has been awarded the contract to repair the Cross street bridge at Ypsilanti. He will receive $1,175 for the work.

Hand in the names of friends and acquaintances at once as the list is now being made up and we want every "Old Boy and Girl" to receive an invitation. Call and look the list over and see that your friends names are recorded.

Old Boys and Girls' reunion Aug. 3-4.

Monday evening June 20, there will be a mass meeting held at the opera house in the interest of the Old Boys and Girls' reunion. We earnestly hope that every family in town may have one or more representatives at this meeting. Remember friends this reunion is for you and your friends, and we want the help of everyone in the village. It is bound to be the biggest event in the history of our village and all must lend a helping hand that the village may do herself proud.

What "Charm" Really Means.
The word "charm" is from the Latin "carmen." Originally it meant incantation. To charm a person is to bewitch him. In "Julius Caesar," act iii, scene 1, "I charm you," seems to mean "I adjure you." When we speak now of a charming woman we do not imply that she sings an incantation to us, but there is a pretty figure of speech in our use of the word. We mean that she has the same command over us as if the incantation were sung and we were bewitched.

Great Days for Pinckney, Aug. 3-4.

A French Episode.
A Frenchwoman took a seat in railway car in Paris the other day when a man entered and sat down at the edge of her dress. She called his attention to the fact and asked him first pleasantly, then angrily, to get up. He paid no attention to her, whereupon she boxed his ears repeatedly. He retaliated by pushing her from her seat, whereupon she screamed and he was arrested. It turned out that he had not heard a word of what she had said, being deaf, and he was naturally indignant at her action, but he apologized all the same.

Worst of all Experiences
Can anything be worse than to feel that every minute will be your last? Such was the experience of Mrs. S. H. Fawson, Decatur, Ala. "For three years," she writes, "I endured insufferable pain from indigestion, stomach and bowel trouble. Death seemed inevitable when doctors and all remedies failed. At length I was induced to try Electric Bitters and the result was miraculous. I improved at once and now I am completely recovered." For liver, kidney, stomach and bowel troubles Electric Bitters is the only medicine. Only 50c. It's guaranteed by F. A. Sigler, Druggist.

Insect Temperatures.
The temperature of the human body is essentially the same in the tropics and in the polar zones. Insects at rest have a temperature practically the same as that of the surrounding air in ordinary conditions of heat and of humidity. Under usual conditions the temperature of an insect rises with that of the surrounding air, only more slowly. When the air is very moist the insect's temperature may rise more rapidly than that of the air. When the insect begins to move, its temperature rises and continues to rise until the motion ceases.

Don't Forget
Chas. Castleton of Cumberland, Wyo., says he never will, for Warner's White Wine of Tar cured him in a few days of the worse cough man ever had.

One Minute Cough Cure
For Coughs, Colds and Grip.

"I have been troubled for some time with indigestion and sour stomach," says Mrs. Sarah W. Curtis, of Lee, Mass., "and have been taking Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets which have helped me very much so that now I can eat many things that before I could not." If you have any trouble with your stomach why not take these Tablets and get well.

LIVER TROUBLES

"Find Thedford's Black Draught a good medicine for liver disease. It cured my son after he had spent six weeks with doctor. It is a strong medicine," says MRS. APOLINE MARTIN, Parkersburg, W. Va.

If your liver does not act regularly go to your druggist and secure a package of Thedford's Black Draught and take a dose tonight. This great family medicine frees the constipated bowels, stirs up the torpid liver and causes a healthy secretion of bile.

Thedford's Black Draught will cleanse the bowels of impurities and strengthen the kidneys. A torpid liver invites colds, biliousness, chills and fever and all manner of sickness and contagion. Weak kidneys result in Bright's disease which claims as many victims as consumption. A 25-cent package of Thedford's Black Draught should always be kept in the house.

"I used Thedford's Black Draught for liver and kidney complaints and found nothing to exceed it." WILLIAM COFFMAN, Marcellus, III.

GOT AS GOOD AS HE GAVE.

How Philanthropist Corcoran Was Answered by a Woman.

The late W. W. Corcoran, the millionaire philanthropist of Washington, who gave to the city the magnificent art gallery which bears his name, was very fond of telling how he was once overmatched by a wealthy maiden lady from whom he desired to purchase a piece of property.

Mr. Corcoran was the owner of the Arlington hotel, at the corner of Vermont avenue and H street. Adjoining the hotel property on the H street side was a handsome brownstone mansion, owned by the maiden lady. The lot upon which the house was built extended back to I street, a distance of four hundred feet, and abutted on the rear of the hotel property.

Mr. Corcoran found it necessary to enlarge the hotel property and with this end in view desired to purchase the rear end of the lot owned by the maiden lady. As she was very wealthy, he knew that a large price would not be any special inducement and for a time was at a loss to know exactly how to approach her. He finally concluded to go straight to the point, and therefore addressed her the following note:

Dear Miss C.—How much will you take for your back yard? We wish to enlarge the Arlington hotel. Yours sincerely,

W. W. CORCORAN.

Promptly came the reply:

Dear Mr. Corcoran—How much will you take for the Arlington hotel? We wish to enlarge our back yard. Yours cordially,

A. C.

DARING PIRATES.

At One Time the Japanese Were the Vikings of the East.

In the eleventh and twelfth centuries the Japanese were the most dashing pirates of the east—in fact, we might almost call them the Vikings of the east, says a writer in an English journal, using such words as "small ships with bows of sail, but quite as seaworthy as ours in these, the little vessels of Japan, often sweep across the ocean like the craft which the Vikings of Norway have today. With these pirates the Japanese roamed the seas, far everywhere along the coast of Asia, plundering the coasts, and even bringing home priceless works of art from China.

It is not until long afterward that the ruling authority of Japan, under the great Emperor (Emperor) Ieyoshi, decided that it suited their purpose to shut off communication with the outside world and to live to themselves, trading merely among their own islands. The old Japanese vikings were reduced to simple fishermen, and the period of internal feudatory wars began, for at that time at least Japanese would fight because they loved it.

A Whole Family

Ohio Patrons of Husbandry. A movement is on foot in Ohio to make Columbus the permanent meeting place of the state grange. Central location, ease of access and ample hotel accommodations are much in its favor. There would no doubt be a larger attendance of Patrons from all over the state if the state grange were located there permanently. The argument is made that so long as the state fair in that state was moved from place to place its success was meager, but when it found a permanent location it became one of the greatest expositions in the United States.

The Patrons of Ohio are also paying much attention to the work of the farmers' institutes, a very successful series having been held in Geauga county. Farmers throughout the state are finding out that the grange is the one organization that helps the farmer, and they are flocking to its standard.

NEW HAMPSHIRE GRANGES.

Governor N. J. Bachelder Writes of the Work in That State.

Governor N. J. Bachelder, lecturer of national grange, says in an article in the New York Tribune Farmer of recent date that of all the men, women and children in the Granite State one in every fifteen is a granger. It is believed that this record cannot be duplicated by any other secret society in any state in the Union or in any other country in the world. It is also believed, by Patrons at any rate, that the grange is as important and beneficial in its influence in the Granite State as the size of the organization would indicate; that the quality of its membership is on a par with its quantity.

Its growth in New Hampshire is of just thirty years, Gilman grange, No. 1, having been organized with eighteen charter members on Aug. 19, 1873, at Exeter, while the state grange was organized at Manchester, Dec. 23, 1873, with fifteen subordinate granges represented.

For a few years following its organization the grange in New Hampshire, as elsewhere, laid so much stress upon the principle of business co-operation as to make it perhaps the chief inducement in attracting members. After a time this policy met with reverses, and the growth of the Order was briefly at a standstill. Then a new start was taken upon social, educational and moral lines, and for more than two decades now the grange ship has sailed prosperously forward on this course. Equal good fortune is likely to attend it so long as it continues to refuse all questions of partisan politics, sectarian religion and private business as part of its cargo.

The grange in the Granite State fully agrees with the national body in heartily supporting free rural mail delivery, postal savings banks, the election of United States senators by direct vote of the people, the vesting in congress of power to regulate and control all corporations and combinations, the enlargement of the powers and duties of the interstate commerce commission, pure food and antitrust laws, an extension of the markets for farm products equally with manufactured articles and a ship canal connecting the great lakes with the Mississippi river and with the Atlantic ocean.

Special objects to which the grange has lent its aid in New Hampshire have included the old home week movement, the equalization of school privileges and the placing of the State Agricultural college upon a proper basis, the improvement of highways, the kindly nurturing of the summer home and summer resort branches of the state's development and the equitable adjustment of state taxes and appropriations.

The fact that the last three governors of New Hampshire and both of its present United States senators are members of the grange and that a hundred Patrons can always be counted in the makeup of the state legislature gives an idea of the influence of the Order. It is the honest belief of the writer that in the past this influence has been wisely and usefully exerted, almost without exception, and he is just as firmly convinced that so long as this continues to be the rule so long will the influence of the Order remain undiminished.

Ohio Patrons of Husbandry. A movement is on foot in Ohio to make Columbus the permanent meeting place of the state grange.

Central location, ease of access and ample hotel accommodations are much in its favor. There would no doubt be a larger attendance of Patrons from all over the state if the state grange were located there permanently. The argument is made that so long as the state fair in that state was moved from place to place its success was meager, but when it found a permanent location it became one of the greatest expositions in the United States.

The Patrons of Ohio are also paying much attention to the work of the farmers' institutes, a very successful series having been held in Geauga county. Farmers throughout the state are finding out that the grange is the one organization that helps the farmer, and they are flocking to its standard.

A Progressive Grange.

Stockholm Depot (N. Y.) grange is doing good work. It has a well-organized literary programme for the year. It has a membership of 200, owns a building lot and has $340 in the treasury. At a recent meeting it was unanimously voted to unite with other organizations of the county to form a county dairymen's association.

The Kansas state grange reports show that the balance in the treasury is greater than at any time during the last twenty-five years. At the last meeting held at Arkansas City, Hon. E. W. Westgate was re-elected master of the grange.

There is nothing that will add more to the attractiveness of the grange than good music, and every grange should make it a matter of first importance to secure a good choir to lead in the singing.

New York state has approximately 30,000 members of the Order; Michigan second on the list, with nearly 44,000, and Maine third, with over 42,000.

Michigan state grange will have headquarters at the next state fair where meetings can be held.

The First Use of Napkins.

A French writer who evidently was conservative and did not welcome the napkin kindly records with scorn:

"The napkin is placed under the chin and fastened in the back, as if one were going to be shaved. A person told me that he wore his that way that he might not soil his beautiful frills."

It was a difficult matter to tie the two corners in the back, and it is said that thence originated our expression for straitened circumstances, "hard to make both ends meet." This custom led to the habit of the table waiters of carrying a napkin on the left arm.

LIFTED THE LID.

Why the Pere Marquette Assessment Is Too High.

In the hearing of testimony in the railroad tax cases a curious admission has been made by a high official of the Pere Marquette railroad.

According to Assistant General Manager James H. Simpson, who testified the annual reports were stuffed in order to jolly the stockholders and make them feel good. Fictitious earnings of more than a million dollars were reported. Then the tax board came along and soaked the railroad on its padded returns.

This compelled the management to either pay taxes on the excess or own up. Mr. Simpson was finally authorized to remove the lid, and the matter became public property.

Mr. Simpson stated that items amounting to an average of a million dollars a year had been shifted from the operating expense account in the years 1900, 1901 and 1902. The object was to show a more prosperous condition of affairs than existed.

In his direct testimony on behalf of the railroad, which is trying to reduce the intangible valuation given it, he produced the reports made by the directors to the stockholders in those three years. Going over the reports item by item, he specified those which were not correct.

In the 1900 report he picked out items aggregating over $940,000, which he said should have been added to operating expenses. Had this been done, instead of a dividend and surplus there would not have been enough net earnings to have paid interest on bonds.

The attorneys for the state maintain that even if they accept Simpson's testimony as correct, it will not greatly decrease the value of the property. The effect will be to detract from the intangible valuation and increase the physical valuation. Several items were come upon that had been omitted from the valuation of physical property made by the state.

Mrs. Collins Convicted.

Mrs. Caroline Collins, of New Lothrop, is guilty of murder in the first degree, and faces a sentence of life imprisonment.

The verdict of the jury in her case was "guilty as charged," and was rendered Wednesday evening after about four hours' deliberations.

The crime for which Mrs. Collins was convicted was the murder by arsenical poisoning of her hired man and alleged lover, George Leachman, who died in terrible agony on Oct. 23, 1903.

The motive, according to the prosecution, were the facts that she owed him about $400 and that he stood in the way of a union with Col. Northwood, other deaths which are popularly credited to Mrs. Collins are those of her husband, Nicholas Collins, her daughter, Mrs. Adolph Weissengruber, her 16-year-old nephew, Ira Wright, and Mrs. Northwood.

The trial lasted 30 days and cost the county about $6,000.

Had there been a disagreement there would probably have been no new trial, as sentiment is strong against the expense. A stay was granted to permit a move for a new trial.

Five Years in Court.

When Judge Wanty, of the United States court at Grand Rapids, in whose jurisdiction the railroad taxation case was started and is now pending, receives the testimony taken at various times since early last fall, he will have a mass of technical stuff to wade through, undoubtedly bigger than he has ever tackled before.

As was usual in such cases, to save the time of the court, the matter was referred to a special master in chancery, Charles L. Fitch, of Grand Rapids, and he was given a roving commission that authorized the production of witnesses before him in any part of the United States. It will be at least a month before the testimony is passed up to the court of appeals and the United States supreme court for four or five years.

A Fight for Life.

For the first time, W. S. Sanford, the Battle Creek ex-merchant, who killed a man at Montgomery, Ala., has spoken for publication. Through a friend in Battle Creek Sanford has unfolded his side of the story, and as he was always a respectable citizen of that place, the letter relieved the public mind considerably.

He insists that he fought for his life. A man weighing 200 pounds started in to kill Sanford, who is smaller by 50 pounds, and when he found that Sanford would fight back, he pulled a woman in front of him as a shield, shooting over her shoulders. Then the man (James A. Achor, a locomotive engineer) threw a heavy glass at Sanford and knocked him down.

As he fell, the former Battle Creekite drew a revolver and shot Achor in the face. This is Sanford's story, as he will tell it to the jury. Clippings from Alabama papers seem to verify Sanford's statements. He is suffering from severe injuries, as he would not shoot at Achor at first for fear of hitting the woman.

Jail Delivery Stopped.

A general jail delivery was prevented Saturday by the help of the servants at the Ingham county jail, Three criminals, among them Jack White, alias Dell Anderson, had been transferred from the steel cages to the tramp department of the county jail that they might bathe and wash their clothing.

White watched his opportunity and soon cut the top of the grating to one of the windows, bent the bars enough to crawl through, was seen to scale the high board fence in the rear of the lot and escape. The sheriff and his son were soon in hot pursuit and White was soon returned to the bastile, being found in an apple tree about a mile east of the city. The other prisoners who tried to escape were kept in while fishing alone on Tuesday evening.

Miss Ethel Luckenbill, of Venic township, took a large dose of poison by mistake, thinking it was her medicine. With timely assistance of physicians the young lady's life was soon out of danger.

Five In Seventy Years.

Not in many years has Coldwater had a trial that attracted the interest that is aroused over the Ludwick murder trial, commenced on Monday.

Mrs. Katie Ludwick, the alleged murderer, is but 19 years of age, and the circumstances of her alleged trial and confession are of the sensational, high-colored fiction order.

About 100 witnesses will be called, and a hard fight will be made by the prisoner's five attorneys.

This is Branch county's fifth murder case in a period of over 30 years.

Shot His Tormentor.

Matt Wilson, about 35 years of age, was shot by a shoemaker named Thos. Doolin at Corrine Friday night. Wilson was brought to Manistique hospital, and died at midnight. Doolin is about 70 years old. He was bothered by young men, took a shotgun loaded with buckshot and fired. Seven shot took effect in Wilson's left side above the hip. Wilson was a Canadian and had no relatives in this vicinity. Doolin gave himself up.

Two Hundred Homeless.

The village of Nahma, 35 miles east of Escanaba, had a $40,000 fire Friday, in which 18 buildings were burned and 200 people rendered homeless. Little was saved from the burning buildings. A new water works system was finished a month ago, and had it not been for this the entire village would have been wiped out. The entire village is owned by the Bay De Noe Lumber Co., whose head offices are in Chicago.

War Reports and Rumors.

Heavy firing was heard at New Chwang, Monday morning, coming from the direction of Liao Yang. The Russians have evacuated Sin Min Tung (about 30 miles west of Mukden), and its vicinity. It is said that the troops which were at Sin Min Tung are joining troops on the road to Mukden. Nothing is known at New Chwang of the Japanese movements. It is persistently reported in Liao Yang that the Port Arthur squadron made a sortie shortly before dawn Saturday, with the torpedo boat destroyers leading, and found the Japanese fleet quite unsuspecting the presence of hostile warships, with the result that four of the Japanese ships were sunk during the attack.

It is reported in St. Petersburg that Gen. Kuropatkin's headquarters staff has moved 40 miles south of Liao Yang to a point between Ha! Cheng and Dashitszao.

Kuropatkin's move is considered to possibly foreshadow severe fighting in the northern part of the Liao Tung peninsula, but it is a mistake to assume that his action involves a change in the position of the Russian army, which, according to the best information, remains at Liao Yang.

A Japanese correspondent from Dalny confirms the reported advance of the Japanese army on Port Arthur, news of which was brought by the Chinese. The correspondent states that there are 15 miles between the Japanese and Port Arthur, instead of seven, as reported by the Chinese. The Japanese army is advancing along both coasts. It is reported that the peninsular division on the east coast fought a battle within 15 miles of Port Arthur June 3. The result of the battle has not yet been learned.

The Courageous Japs.

Wounded officers who have returned to Japan give interesting details of the battle of Nanshan hill. After the first ineffectual attack on the hill Japanese scouts discovered that there were mines at the foot of the hill. It was determined that they could be definitely located only by the sacrifice of some men. Hundreds volunteered to go to what appeared to be certain death. They led the second advance and found that heavy rains had washed away the covering of earth and had exposed the mines. Engineers cut the connecting wires. The volunteers were nearly all killed in the subsequent ineffectual attack on the hill.

The Osaka men from the right wing, while advancing through the water along the shore, encountered a body of Russians also in the water. A fierce fight ensued, both sides being waist deep in the sea. When the Russians finally retreated the water was literally crimson. Both sides lost heavily.

A Brief Chronicle of All Important Happenings

IN CRIPPLE CREEK.

Some Will Hang for Dynamite Outrage

—Late Phases.

The committee of safety was in session nearly all day Saturday holding examinations. A number of men have stated that they were willing to live up their unions cards as there was no longer any union, but they were not willing to take out a permit to work from the Mine Owners' association, but preferred to leave town. The committee states that it has extremely damaging evidence against a number of persons, connecting them with the Independence dynamite outrage and it is likely some very important evidence will be introduced when the trial comes up. A member of the court of inquiry says: "We have evidence that will hang five and possibly more than that number, and enough to fill a penitentiary. We have unearthed a number of things that the public will be slow to believe; that we ourselves are appalled at, even knowing, as we have, that they are bad. We would be doing a wrong to turn these people loose. They must be punished, and will be, now that the laws are enforced."

Gen. Bell says: "I have indisputable evidence which will lead to the conviction of a number of union men for the murder of the non-union miners who were killed in the Independence depot explosion. We have between thirty-five and forty men in the bull pen who will swing for this crime. We are only waiting to capture two or three more men before we tell what our evidence is." He has announced that the troops will not be needed much longer as the civil authorities have control of the situation and the people are looking forward to a speedy end of the military rule.

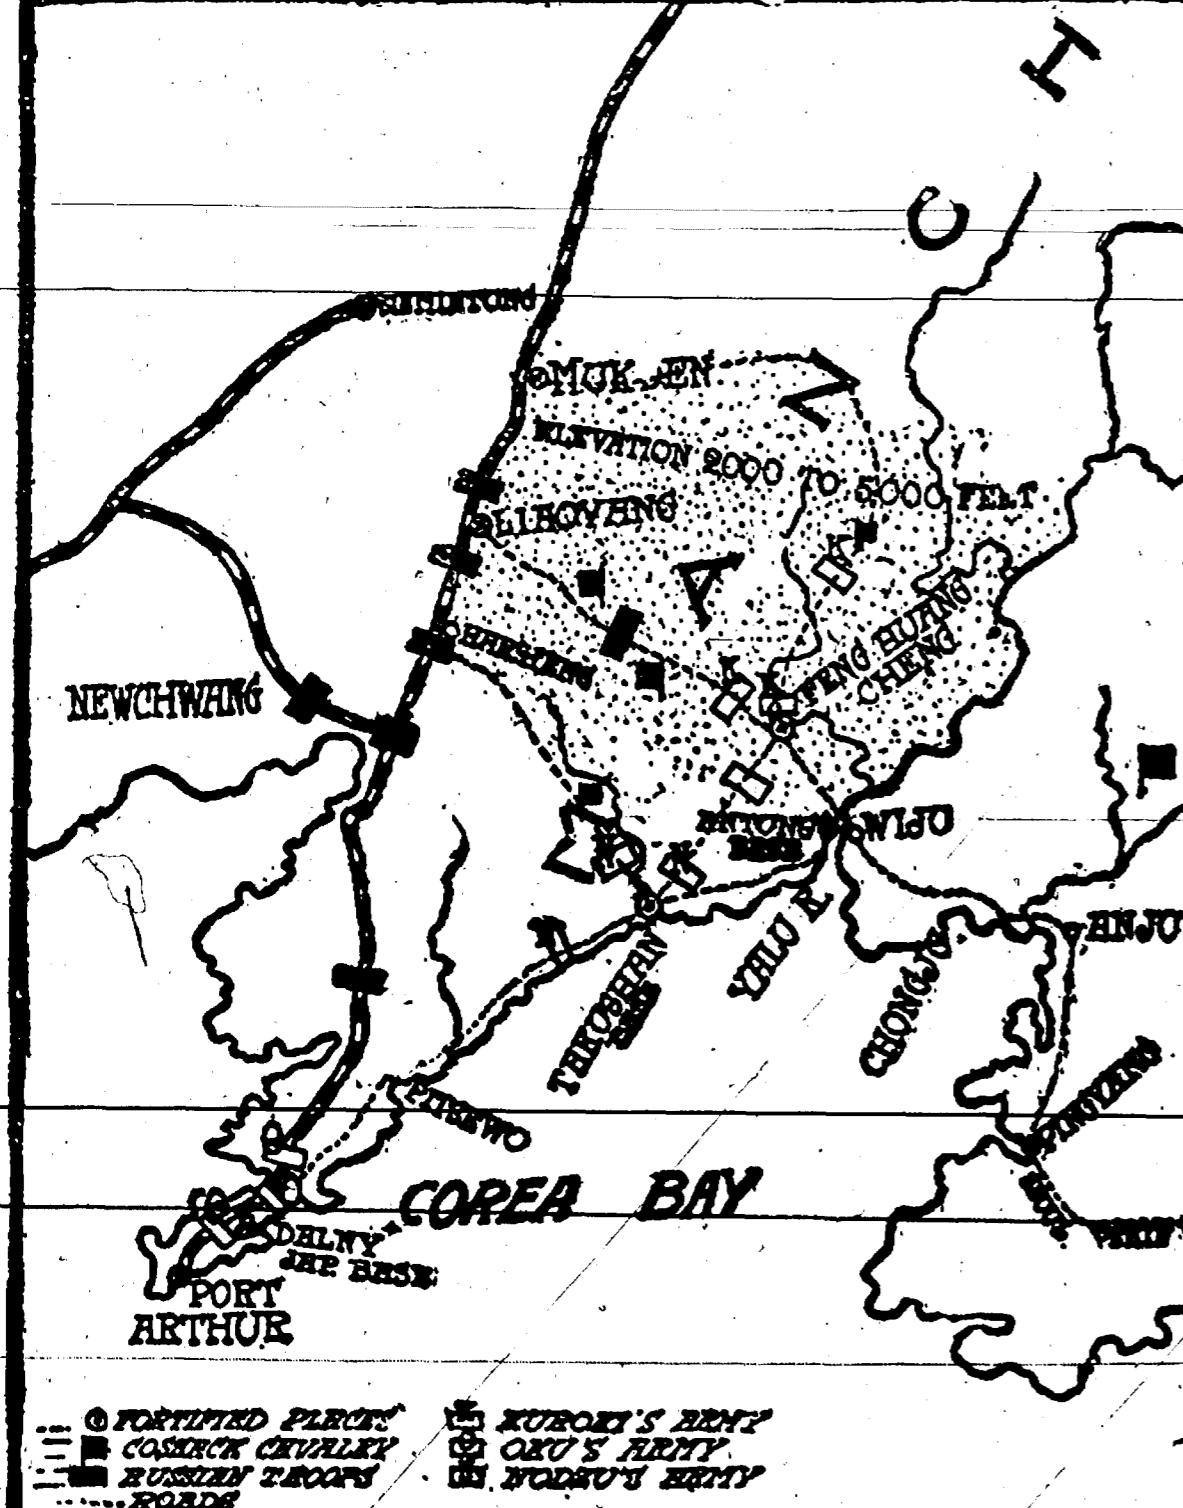

In following up the determination to exterminate the Western Federation of Miners, from the district, Gen. Bell, as military commander of the district, has issued a proclamation similar in wording and intent to that concerning the Portland mine, directed to the operators of the Pride of Cripple Creek district mine and the Winchester & Morgan leases. These were prepared to be operated with men who are alleged to be a menace to the welfare and safety of the good people of the county and a hindrance to the restoration of peace and good order, and their arrest was ordered as a military necessity.

The reopening of the mines continues, and by the end of next week practically every mine conforming to the military necessity restriction will be working full force.

No Legal Power.

President Roosevelt has received a telegram from W. D. Haywood, secretary of the Western Federation of Miners, urging him to institute an investigation of the present serious condition of affairs in the Cripple Creek mining district of Colorado. At least twice heretofore, in the last six months, the president has been asked to interfere in the Colorado troubles, but declined, after mature consideration, because he had no legal power to take action in the matter. It is regarded by those in close touch with him to be unlikely that the president will interfere in any way with the action of the constituted authorities of the state of Colorado.

Four Iowa youths have been arrested on a charge of sending letters to Peter Musser, a wealthy Muscatine lumberman, threatening to kill him unless he paid them $4,000.

USELESS FRUIT.

Among the useless fruit borne by the tree of knowledge may be mentioned:

1. The agnostic who knows too much to know anything of a certainty.

2. The "sport" who knows only how to look knowing.

3. The "criminally insane" individual who knows that he can get off because he didn't know any better.

4. The youth who knows more at 16 than his father at 50.

5. The man who knows how to make such good excuses that he needs to know nothing else.

6. The scholar who knows a great deal, but knows not how to use his knowledge.

7. The society bud who knows how to look so charmingly free of all knowledge.

8. The "gentleman" who knows that his father's money supplies the place of knowledge in his place.

9. The tramp who knows that society owes him a living, but knows not how to collect it.

10. The office seeker who knows that if he knows how to get the right job he won't need to know how to fill it.

11. The sensation seeker who is interested only in what he ought not to know.

12. The workman who knows a little of many trades, but knows none well.

13. The doctor who knows how to diagnose his patient's pocketbook instead of his disease.—Ram's Horn.

GROWLS BY A BACHELOR.

A stitch in time saves nine threads of discourse.

When in doubt, deal from the bottom of the deck.

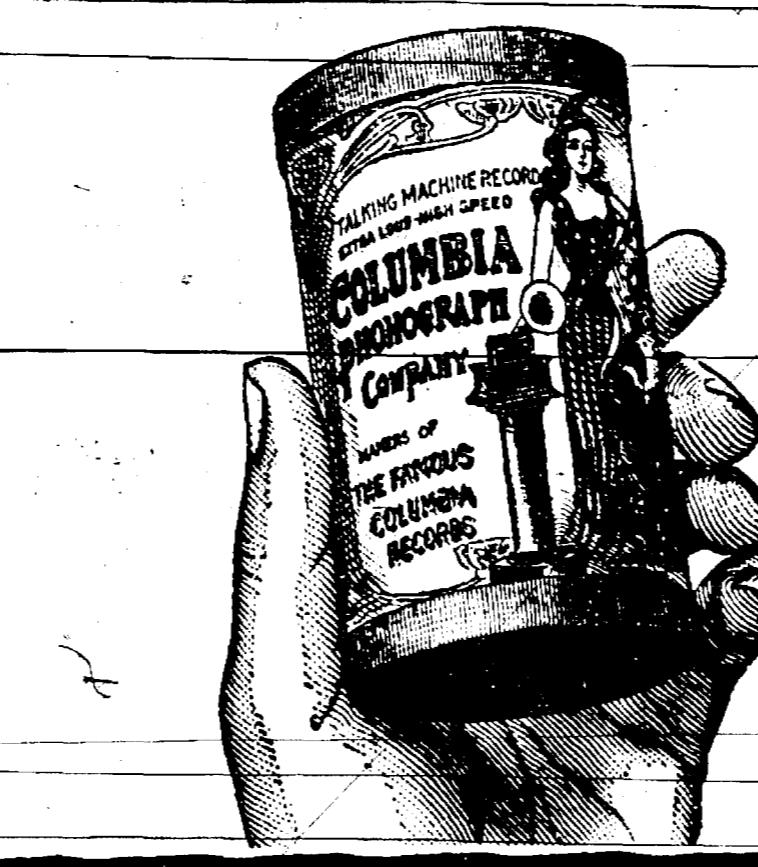

Green is soothing to the eye—long green particularly.

Man is ever subject to analysis; woman to interpretation.

Excuses must have originated with women. They're invariably veiled.

It is the way you cut your cloth that makes the material difference.

If silence were really golden, then golden thoughts would be better left unsaid.

When a man's single it takes a married man to remind him that he's living easy.

Half my time I spend in trying to collect what is due me, and the other half I spend in declaring dividends.

I've often wondered how marriage can go off so smoothly when there's bound to be a hitch in the ceremony.

Easy enough to catch the drift of a man's conversation. Woman's conversation rolls and sways in whirlpools.

Theatrical chap modestly informed me that he was the whole company in itself. I noticed that he has a cast in his eye.—New York Telegram.

CATS AS COMPASSES.

When cats sneeze it is a sign of rain.

When cats are snoring foul weather is sue to follow.

When a cat washes her face with her back to the fire, expect a thaw in winter.

If sparks are seen when stroking a cat's back, expect a change of weather soon.

Cats with their tails up and hair apparently electrified indicate approaching wind.

The cardinal point to which a cat turns and washes her face after a rain shows the direction from which the wind will blow.

SOME WEATHER LORE.

Birds and fowls oiling feathers indicate rain.

If fowls roll in the dust or sand, rain is near at hand.

When birds of long flight hang about home, expect a storm.

When birds cease to sing rain and thunder will probably occur.

When horses and cattle stretch out their necks and sniff the air it will rain.

If cocks crow late and early clapping their wings occasionally, rain is expected.

Bats flying late in the evening indicate fair weather. Bats who squeak flying tell of rain to-morrow.

Kine, when they assemble at one end of a field with their tails to windward, often indicate rain or wind.

All shepherds agree in saying that before a storm comes sheep become frisky, leap and butt or "box" each other.—FOLKLORE JOURNAL.

Dogs making holes in the ground, eating grass in the morning, or refusing meat, are said to indicate coming rain.—Colonel Dunwoody.

Hogs crying and running unquietly up and down with hay or litter in their mouths foreshadow a storm to be near at hand.—Thomas Willsford.

Horses, as well as other domestic animals, foretell the coming of rain by starting more than ordinary and appearing in other respects restless and uneasy.

Migratory birds fly south from cold and north from warm weather. When a severe cyclone is near, they become puzzled and fly in circles, dart into the air, and can easily be decoyed.—North Carolina.

HINTS ABOUT SHOES.

Don't let the heels run down.

Never put shoes near the stove.

Never let your shoes get hard and dry.

Never wear galoshes with good shoes.

Never handle patent leather until you have warmed it.

There is no misery more distracting than a shoe that hurts the foot.

Never try to wear a shoe too small or that does not fit when you first put it on.

E. T. Bush has a curiosity in the shape of a hen's egg about the size of a goose egg and inside is another perfect egg with yolk between the two shells. The inside shell is harder than the one outside.

On the evening of June 9, about 125 friends of Miss Lottie Braley gathered and gave her a surprise. As the crowd gathered outside, all was quiet within. Elmer Braley sat near the table reading Greek or some of the dead languages, but responded quickly to the ring of the bell and there was seen on his face such a genial smile that all felt sure he had been let into the secret. Soon Miss Lottie appeared from another room where she had been taking a short excursion into dreamland. When she saw the multitude unceremoniously taking possession of the house, there was upon her face such a look of surprise and amazement as would make the old Greek Gods laugh. For a few moments she showed symptoms of nervous prostration, but soon rallied and smilingly welcomed her uninvited guests, who in the course of the evening presented her with a beautiful music cabinet as a token of their esteem and appreciation of her services as organist of the church, a position she has filled very acceptably for many years.

The evening was spent visiting, listening to choice music and recitations, after which a bountiful supper was served and the guests departed, feeling they had enjoyed a pleasant evening and leaving their hostess many expressions of their good will.

This article appeared in one of the Detroit Dailies Tuesday, "Farm help is scarce over in Oakland county," and is hardly in keeping with a lengthy write up on the "Increase of Crime" in the above county. A sentence which read like this, "Work was not to be had at this time of the year at general labor, such as they were accustomed to doing and they had to live some fashion." The young men who were arrested for crime said, "that they were hungry and in need of clothing." Will the time ever come when crime will be more of an honor than honest labor? It almost seems as though there was a faint shadow of such in the future.

Many readers of the Sun will be glad to know that (through the untiring efforts of Mrs. J. J. Teeple of Pinckney, assisted by many others who were interested) the burying ground near the village of Munith, known as the Moss cemetery, which has been in such a dilapidated condition for so many years, has been graded and enclosed with a handsome and durable iron fence and is now an honor instead of a disgrace to the residents of the neighborhood.—Stockbridge Sun.
