Was a Success

The annual Church fair at the opera house last Friday and Saturday was a great success. The weather was fine, the exhibits were fine and lots of it and the crowd both evenings was large and everyone came to have a good time and help boom the fair by buying nearly everything in sight.

There was the usual bountiful supper each evening and while it seemed as though the whole country attended there was enough and to spare and after the chicken pie supper Saturday evening several pies were left over and were sold at auction by the genial R. E. Clinton. There was an even $60 taken in for the chicken pie supper alone.

The booths were well filled with fancy work and contributed articles which were nearly all disposed of as was the large stock of groceries. The fish pond was a source of amusement for old and young and brought in many nickles.

During Saturday evening the drawing took place for the range disposed of by St. Mary's society and Floyd Love of Marion held the lucky number.

The ice cream table was well patronized and kept a large number of attendants busy dishing up and serving this delicious article.

Taking it altogether the fair was a great success and the society took in over $317 as the result of their labor.

M. E. Church Notes.

Sunday evening service will begin at 7 o'clock in future. Young peoples meeting at 6:30.

The pastor earnestly desires the co-operation of all—that every service of the church be made effective.

Congregations good and increasing. There is yet room for others who are cordially invited to attend.

We hope to make this the banner year of Pinckney Methodism. A long pull, a strong pull and a pull altogether will accomplish this with God's blessing which we seek.

The pastor is much pleased with the place and finds the people kind and neighborly. He appreciates the kindly feeling between churches and hopes to do what he can to foster it.

Do not forget the social means of grace. Be sure and get into the prayer service Thursday evening at 7:30 and the class meeting at ten Sunday morning. These means of grace must be magnified if we accomplish anything for God.

The pastor desires to give the young people special attention and will meet with them Tuesday evenings for consultation.

The ladies are busy getting in shape for the fair in November which is hoped to be a notable success.

Glad to see so many bold young men in our congregation. This speaks well for the town. Would like to see more of the business men.

The pastor is at present making calls in the country, but expects as soon as possible to extend his acquaintance in town by calling on his own people and others.

Young Mers. Club

The president welcomed and entertained a number of young men visitors Saturday night. The warden, Lee Barton, made things interesting in the Gym. showing a number of boys how to use the rings and trapeze.

The billiard room privileges were extended to visiting friends and there were "doings" entertainin' to the young men till closing time. Pres.

The M. E. Carnival

Last but not the least. The M. E. ladies are making preparations to hold their annual fair Nov. 3 and 4. Let everybody come and have a good time. Friends of the society are invited to contribute to make a success.

We promised our readers that we would give them a description of the National Cash Register's mammoth institution at Dayton Ohio, and on page four will be found two columns that we trust will be interesting. The description and illustrations do not do justice to what may be seen and learned by a visit there and a talk with those who have the work in hand. There is nothing overdrawn in the pictures—they were taken from nature as it exists there but are minus the beautiful colorings. We have many more pictures of the place and will continue the article for two or three weeks under different heads.

HOW A FRIENDSHIP GREW

The Story

Whether Hand Sapolio got a more enthusiastic welcome in homes where Sapolio was an old and tried friend, or where it was a stranger, is a question. Where women had come to rely on Sapolio for rapid, thorough cleaning in every part of the house except the laundry, they commenced without loss of time, to avail of this new friend. Grubby little hands, and stained, worn older ones, whitened, softened, and smoothed out as if by magic, callous spots disappeared, and complexion cleared. Children ceased their strenuous objections to the scrubbing up process, because it became a pleasure. It freshened up the hands after dish-washing, removing the most disagreeable feature of that necessary task. It was found to keep delicate baby skins from chafing better than salve or powder, and the crowning note in the song of delight came when an adult member of the family used it in a full bath, and realized that a Turkish Bath at a cost of one dollar was outdone by a small fraction of the little, ten-cent, velvety cake.

But, strange though it may seem, there were people who had not learned to prize Sapolio. To these the advertising of Hand Sapolio came as a surprise. Sapolio, a scouring soap, helped for the hands, the face, the general toilet?—Impossible, it would be absurd. Who ever heard of such a soap? Finally a bold shopper carried home a cake. Does it look like kitchen Sapolio? No one is sure, and a cake of that is bought, and comparison made. Behold a family using both the Sapolios for every conceivable purpose, and comparing notes! After easily and quickly cleansing a greasy pan with Sapolio, Jane thought the other would be gritty, and was astonished at the smooth, dainty lather. Another was certain it would harden the hands and could scarcely realize how soft and "comfy" they felt after the washing.

Then began the excitement of adventure; what would the new soap NOT do? A girl tried a shampoo. Her hair, pretty, soft and silky "went up" perfectly, with none of the unmanageableness that generally exists for a full week after the usual process. A man used the delightful lather for shaving, and felt no need for cold cream afterwards. A pimply face was treated to a daily bath-lag with the full suds, and promptly became clear. Tartar on the teeth yielded to it, and feet had a tendency towards hardening of the skin natural condition, till another family had joined the chorus of friendly acclaim. And so it is everywhere, those who know the "elder brother" welcome the newcomer, for the sake of the first known, and those who meet both for the first time are plunged into a whimsical worry as to which they could better spare if they had to make a choice.

TRY HAND SAPOLIO.

Its steady use will keep the hands of any busy woman as white, untanned and pretty as if she was under the constant care of a city manicure. It is truly "The Dainty Woman's Friend," in the suburbs or on the farm.

Problem Easily Worked.

A man has been riding the cowcatchers of Dakota, Iowa and Nebraska trains for many weeks, his explanation being that this is the only way he can ward off fits, to which he is subject. This works out all right. The cowcatcher is to ward off cows; cows are kind; kein in German for no; No. is the abbreviation for number, and if you get the right number you have a fit. Very simple.—Boston Daily Advertiser.

Tips in Scotland.

Everyone is rushing off to Scotland, a place where, above all others, one pays the wages of another man's servants in accursed tips. There used to be a hotel where with every three-penny-worth of brandy-and-soda you were charged for "plate-glass and linen," and where an apple was charged sixpence, on the ground that they "never charge less than sixpence for anything."—Books of Today.

Russian Coins Cornered.

The Russian government corners its own coins. Every year it mints a limited number of bronze coins of the nominal value of 1-4 kopeck, in English value 1-16th of a penny. As these coins are practically not in circulation only a few are issued. The remainder are sold by the mint authorities, at about double their value, for use as card-counters.

Link with the Past.

A coin bearing the date 888, and identified as of the reign of Ethelwulf, son of Egbert, first King of England, was recently found at Carterton, New Zealand, by a man engaged in gold-mining.

Found Source of the Mighty Zambesi

African River Traced Back to Spring from Which Wells Few Drops of Water that Grow to Gigantic Stream.

Major A. St. H. Gibbons followed the mighty Zambesi river from its mouth to its very source and found the spring from which welled the first few drops of water. He writes: "As we progressed the undulations became steeper and higher, the surface being covered for the most part with small deciduous trees fifteen feet to twenty feet high. Here and there the slopes are covered with high bracken. Seven or eight miles brought us to a small pool, which the guides asserted to be the 'beginning of the Yambeshe.' To make certain that this was the true source, I traced the stream back along the eastern bank until it entered another stream 800 yards farther down. Here it became obvious that the Malunda were fraudulently attempting to shorten the journey, as this stream is quite subsidiary to the one it enters. Then, following the course of the latter for rather more than a couple of miles and crossing three or four small tributary streams on the way, I at length found myself standing over the first drops of water which go to make up the mighty river of which I had seen so much."

Continuing, Major Gibbons says: "The river has its origin in a deep depression at the base of steep wooded undulations rising very abruptly for the first thirty feet, and then with decreasing steepness for another twenty. The water comes from black, spongy bog, and quickly collects into a definite stream of clear, cool water. Tall trees, thickly interwoven with an entanglement of vine-like creepers and undergrowth, spring from this basin and incline the bed for the first few hundred yards of its course. Such is the character of the Zambesi source and such is the character of the sources of nearly all, if not all, the streams having their origin in the district, though the basin from which the main stream of the Zambesi springs is steeper, narrower and deeper than any other of the many I visited.

"As I lay that night beneath the bivouac of branches the boys had put together for me it was perhaps natural that my mind should linger on the many and varied scenes I had witnessed between the boggy springs below me and the mighty river with its four-mile wide bed up which we steamed fifteen months before. The expedition was then a large one; 500 porters barely sufficed to move our equipment overland. I was now worming my way over what was probably the most remote region of the continent and in very reduced circumstances—four boys and five donkeys."

Danger to Sultan in Arab Renaissance

Inhabitants of Provinces Now Governed from Constantinople Threaten to Throw Off Yoke and Assert Their Independence

Russia's waning prestige in Asia has permitted more than one oriental people to raise its head and reassert its national consciousness, says the Review of Reviews. At Constantinople, the lessening fear of the Muscovite has suggested the increased oppression of the tribes subject to Turkish rule. Unfortunately for the sultan, however, just as he has added to the weight of his hand there has burst out a long-smoldering Arab revolution which has already cost him several of the important towns in the peninsula.

The porte believes that British and German influence is behind the uprising. A recently published address of the Arab national party, however, indicates a real racial renaissance of much significance among the Arabs. The Turks of the Arabian peninsula, it must be remembered, are in the great minority. Their government is oppressive, ineffective and bloody. They are soon to be cast out by a most thorough revolution, this address says.

The national Arab party announces its intention of separating completely from Turkey, and founding an Arab empire composed of all the countries of Asiatic Arabs inclosed within natural boundaries, from the valley of the Tigris and Euphrates, even to the Isthmus of Suez, and from the Mediterranean to the Sea of Oman. The plan contemplates a form of government under an Arabian Mussulman which "shall be a liberal, progressive, constitutional sultanate." It is asserted that "to accomplish this magnificent project it will not be necessary to shed any blood."

What can the Turks in the Arab country, who number only 500 or 600, do in the face of 12,000,000? This has all been thought out and the Arabian people are ready. The address is signed by "The supreme council of the national Arab party." A number of economic and industrial projects are also contemplated by this party, including the reclamation of Syria and Mesopotamia by means of irrigation, making these ancient lands a second route to India.

THE MISSING MAN

By MARY R. P. HATCH

Author of "The Bank Tragedy"

Copyright, 1924, by Lee and Shepard

The writ of ejectment was served. Seven days intervened, and a writ of summons followed. Mr. Hamilton agreed to recognize at the first term of the Supreme Court, and he engaged the counsel of Stone & Ferguson, whose reputation by many was considered to equal that of Morley & Stevens.

The claimant case was one of the first presented. It was to be tried by jury, and the chief justice and four associate judges were all in the court room when the case was called. The principals sat with their counsel, Mrs. Hamilton and her uncle together in the audience.

Mr. Morley opened the case for the plaintiff in something like the following words:

"It is my purpose to narrate as briefly as possible the main facts upon which the plaintiff relies in support of his claim to the estate fraudulently withheld from him by his brother, Victor Hamilton. To you, gentlemen of the jury, has devolved the task of re-establishment, of returning to the enjoyments of his home and the honors of his position, my unhappy client.

"You all know the plaintiff as well as I do. It was this man who lived among you more than a dozen years, and all that time held a responsible place in the community.

Mr. Morley then broached the subject of the plaintiff's mysterious yearly absence as the result of his promise to a dying mother to seek for his twin brother supposed by all but her to have died soon after he was stolen. "The child was snatched from his cradle by unknown hands, hidden away where no search could find him. Two years of anxious seeking, and the poor mother nearly frantic all this time! Then an anonymous letter was received, stating that the or Nora. This far his knowledge advanced up to the period of his seventh journey. Mrs. Hamilton would testify that her husband was greatly disturbed in his mind previous to going away; so much so that she tried to detain him. He was very thin; his weight was twenty pounds less than usual; he had little appetite, and was exceedingly nervous.

"The result of all this overwork and mental disturbance was soon to manifest itself. But first he was met and accosted by a young and handsome woman, who came out of the Essex house to speak to him. She had curious colored hair, more green than anything else, and by this the plaintiff recognized her as Lenora, his brother's wife, who was described by the papers to have such hair. So when she spoke to him as if she knew him, he at once concluded that she took him for his brother, her husband. 'You here!' she said. The plaintiff assured her that he did not know her, when she said, 'Oh, I forgot.' This woman was registered as Mrs. Anderson, Newark, N. J.; but the name was no doubt assumed, for she let out to a table girl named Mary O'Neill that her name was Lenora.

"All this makes it evident that Lenora expected to meet her husband, but not 'a Grovedale, for she was surprised when she thought she saw him coming. This argues a strong resemblance on the part of the twin brothers, and which we know existed. When Mr. Hamilton recognized her, as he did by her emerald hair, he asked her if he might talk with her, and mentioned that he was intending to take the next train for Portland. The woman appeared puzzled, but replied readily enough that she would talk with him on the train.

"What does this prove but that she still supposed he was her husband, and that from prudent motives he did by himself, traveling bag in hand and dressed as Mr. Hamilton was dressed when he left Grovedale. He stood there in the same attitude for at least two minutes. He appeared to be troubled in his mind, Mr. Barnstead thought. At the expiration of the two minutes, more or less, another man entered and looked at Mr. Hamilton as if deeply astonished, literally as if he could not keep his eyes off. He was a man of about Mr. Hamilton's height, with long, dark whiskers and dark hair. In some respects he resembled Mr. Hamilton, particularly about the eyes. He looked at him so intently, walking away and then returning as if about to accost him, that he was observed at last by the subject of his scrutiny, who, to Mr. Barnstead's surprise, walked up close to the man and said:

"You appear to know me. Who am I?"

"The man was evidently taken aback by this strange query. He hesitated only for a moment, however, replying:

"You are Henry Ashley."

"Are you sure?" asked Mr. Hamilton, anxiously.

"Perfectly," said the man. "I know you well," and he then entered into conversation, the two soon walking off together.

"Here, gentlemen, is the unravelment of the mystery. The man was Ashley himself, a fugitive from justice, detained by some means at Portland. He had, no doubt, disguised himself; for all accounts agree that he was the very double of Hamilton in personal appearance. This would account for the impression on seeing him for the first time. An ingenious man Ashley is well known to be. What better way to elude justice than to shift his identity upon the man who had forgotten his own name and looked like himself?

"But let us pass on. Hamilton, unaware of his true name, his home, everything a blank, walked off in the company of the man Ashley, who, no doubt, found it an easy matter to shift belongings, and to take the ring, notebook and papers of Mr. Hamilton.

"He had the key to the bank. With it he could enter and take what he wanted, for the safe had a combination lock; and I will bring a witness to prove to your satisfaction that the key to the combination was in a pocket of that same note book. Ashley was thoroughly conversant with banking matters, and the rest was easy. He went to the bank, took notes, altered them to suit himself and got them cashed.

"Tony Osborn will testify that he was thoroughly convinced at first that it was Vane Hamilton who entered the bank at seven o'clock on the twenty-second of May, but that when the pretended cashier returned he doubted him. You will perceive now how the shirt stud and cap came on the river bank. They were dropped there to start suspicion in the wrong direction, and to create confusion. You will also see the explanation of the supposed cashier's extraordinary conduct in visiting the bank, but neglecting his own home but a few rods away.

"Proceed we now to Vane Hamilton. Where do we see him? In prison. Yes, gentlemen, in prison, detained there for a crime of which he was never guilty, but of which the unworthy brother, otherwise Henry Ashley, was guilty. He was incarcerated in jail at Goodwill. His hair at the time was light, a light brown, the same color that we remember so well as crowning the noble head of our beloved townsman. This we can prove by the testimony of the jailer's daughter. But the next we hear of it, his hair had turned, not white, but dark brown, almost black, as you see it now."

All eyes were turned now in the direction of the plaintiff, who sat beside Mr. Stevens, calm and collected in his demeanor.

Mr. Morley then proceeded to recount similar instances of the turning of light hair to a dark color.

These instances were well authenticated. The change in Mr. Hamilton's hair was, no doubt, the result in some unexplainable way of his terror at finding himself in durance vile. Or it might have fallen off and came out again a different color. Be this as it may, his hair changed from light to dark between the time he entered the jail and the asylum!

A woman who professed to be his wife came to see him. She had learned of the arrest, no doubt, and traveled here without delay. The prisoner took no notice of her, but she declared he was her husband, though the man said he did not know her.

"Why was this? Simply because she was not his wife. She, on the contrary, said she was to screen her own husband, who she now for the first time saw, was at large. Do you follow me, gentlemen of the jury?" asked Mr. Morley, in thrilling tones.

"Do you now know what wife he had?"

The excessive pleasures we feel in talking of ourselves should not be a recommendation for the future.

There are some heavy old wedding rings at Kirk Braddam, in the Isle of Man, such as might be handy when the fastidious bridegroom loses the ring. Leaning against the north wall are some very ancient rings of stone, through which, in days of long ago, before the jeweler's windows glistened with wedding rings at all prices, the bride and bridegroom joined hands, it is said, and were wedded. The monster rings of stone were always there in readiness for any ceremony, and they are there to this day, though whether the present-day bride would consent to use these "rings" in place of the orthodox pledge is doubtful.

Rhine Not All German River. A German geographer calls attention to the fact, known to few that the Rhine gets some of its water from Italy. Some miles above the Via Mala the Rhine is augmented by a turbulent mountain torrent whose chief tributary is a brook that comes from the Val di Lei, which politically belongs to Italy, though separated from the rest of that country by glacier-covered mountains over which there is a trail to Chiavenna.

An Honest Opinion.

Mineral, Idaho, Oct. 16th.—(Special.)—That a sure cure has been discovered for those sciatic pains that make so many lives miserable is the firm opinion of Mr. D. S. Colson, a well-known resident of this place, and he does not hesitate to say that cure is Dodd's Kidney Pills. The reason Mr. Colson is so firm in his opinion is that he had those terrible pains and is cured. Speaking of the matter he says:

"I am only too happy to say Dodd's Kidney Pills have done me lots of good. I had awful pains in my hip so I could hardly walk. Dodd's Kidney Pills stopped it entirely. I think they are a grand medicine."

All Sciatic and Rheumatic pains are caused by Uric Acid in the blood. Dodd's Kidney Pills make healthy kidneys and healthy kidneys strain all the Uric Acid out of the blood. With the cause removed there can be no Rheumatism or Sciatica.

Analysis of Medicines Open to All.

"There is no public demand and there is not the slightest public necessity for a law compelling the publication of the formula of proprietary medicines," says the Committee on Legislation of the Proprietary Association. "Every Health Commissioner and every Pure Food Commissioner in the country, as well as every private physician or chemist, if he pleases, has the right to make an analysis of any proprietary medicine and to publish the result and to tell the public what he thinks, and there is nothing in the world to prevent such action. But that is not what the agitators for such legislation want. Their object is to destroy the sale of such remedies entirely."

Had No Claim on Ex-Husband.

At Munich recently a woman sold her husband, a good-looking ne'er-do-well, to a neighbor for a small sum of money, and was pleased enough with her bargain until, on a distant relative's death, he came into considerable fortune. Then she attempted to resume her marital rights, but was so effectually resisted by her ex-husband's present possessor that she resolved to have recourse to the law's intervention. To this end she consulted a lawyer, only to find that, through some technical flaw, her own marriage was illegal and her claims on man and fortune consequently invalid.

COFFEE NEURALGIA.

Leaves When You Quit and Use Postum.

A lady who unconsciously drifted into nervous prostration brought on by coffee, says:

"I have been a coffee drinker all my life, and used it regularly, three times a day.

"A year or two ago I became subject to nervous neuralgia, attacks of nervous headache and general nervous prostration which not only incapacitated me for doing my housework, but frequently made it necessary for me to remain in a dark room for two or three days at a time.

"I employed several good doctors, one after the other, but none of them was able to give me permanent relief.

"Eight months ago a friend suggested that perhaps coffee was the cause of my troubles and that I try Postum Food Coffee and give up the old kind. I am glad I took her advice, for my health has been entirely restored. I have no more neuralgia, nor have I had one solitary headache in all these eight months. No more of my days are wasted in solitary confinement in a dark room. I do all my own work with ease. The flesh that I lost during the years of my nervous prostration has come back to me during these months, and I am once more a happy, healthy woman. I enclose a list of names of friends who can vouch for the truth of the statement." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

There's a reason. Ten days' trial leaving off coffee and using Postum is sufficient. All proven.

—RAISED FROM A DEATH—

Mr. Pitts, Once Pronounced Incurable, Has Won Well Three Years.

E. H. Pitts, 60 Hathaway St., Shohagan, Me., says: "Seven years ago my back ached and I was so run down that I was laid up four months. I had night sweats and fainting spells and dropped to 90 pounds. The urine passed every few minutes with intense pain and looked like blood. Dropsy set in and the doctors decided I could not live. My wife got me using Doan's Kidney Pills, and as they helped me I took heart, kept on and was cured so thoroughly that I've been well three years."

Attractions of Old Fairs.

Among the attractions of an old London fair in the year 1709 was advertised a boy "that within one of his eyes had 'Dues Meus' in capital letters, and round the other a Hebrew inscription." Another was the city of Amsterdam, "every street, every individual house carved in wood, in exact proportion one to another, the Stadthouse as big as your hand."

THIN BLOOD—WEAK NERVES

One Follows the Other, but Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Quickly Cure Both.

The steady use of a particular set of muscles tends to chronic fatigue, which produces faintness or difficult motion, trembling, cramps and even paralysis. Writers, telegraphers, tailors and seamstresses are among the classes most threatened in this way with the loss of their power to earn a living. The following instance shows that nerve power may be recovered after it seems entirely lost, if the right means are taken. Mrs. O. S. Blacksten, of No. 584 North Bowman street, Mansfield, Ohio, says:

"For years my hands would become so numb at times that I would drop anything I attempted to lift. Later they became so bad that I could not sew any longer, and at last I could scarcely do anything at all with my hands. At night the pricking sensations would come on worse than ever, and my hands and arms would pain so that I dreaded to go to bed. My family doctor gave me some nerve tablets. They helped me a little, but only for a short time after I had taken them and if I happened to be without them for a day or two I would be as bad as ever or even worse. Finally I got a box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and began to take them.

"The result was surprising. By the time I had taken the last pill in my first box I could see a gain. Thanks to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, I am now all right. I can sleep undisturbed by pain, and for two years I have been as well as ever."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills feed the nerves by making new, rich blood and in this way have cured nervous diseases of every description from simple restlessness to paralysis. They have banished the tortures of neuralgia, the weakness of nervous prostration, the disability and awful pain of locomotor ataxia. They are sold by all druggists or direct by the Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

"You appear to know me. Who am I?"

child had died a month after it was stolen. As time wore on and no trace of the child could be found, all but the mother gave up. Meanwhile, Mr. Hamilton, the father, lost the greater part of his property, and after a time, as I have said, the search for the child was given up as unavailing. And the mother at last acquiesced. But on her deathbed she solemnly charged her son to seek for his brother. "Take two weeks of every year," she said; "you will then have fifty left for yourself." He promised. She gave him a ring with the words in trust engraved inside. Many people have seen the ring. It is now worn by the defendant, whom we claim is Victor Hamilton. If so, the ring belongs to him.

"Now for the proof of the plaintiff's statement in the deposition of the nurse, Hannah Sargent, who confessed that it was she who wrote the anonymous letter saying that the child had died soon after being stolen, for the purpose of easing the mind of her former mistress, whom she had often heard say that she should feel better to know her son was dead than living in the midst of evil associates.

"After his mother's death, Vane Hamilton, the plaintiff, set out on his sacred quest. It was in the month of May, the time set by his dying mother. Seven periods of search followed, the plaintiff in the last two getting upon the track of his long-lost brother. He was led into strange places and haunts, if not of crime, at least of reputation until by degrees he became convinced that his brother was no other than Ashley, the notorious bank defaulter, at this time a fugitive from justice. He then learned that this man had a wife named Lenora, not wish her to recognize him on the street? I shall prove to you that her husband, Victor Hamilton, otherwise Ashley, was a fugitive from justice, and his wife's caution was needful not to bring detection upon her husband, whom unexpectedly she supposed she had met in Grovedale when she thought he was safe in Canada. In her first excitement she forgot her caution, but from that time was prudent. In proof of this wrong conclusion regarding the identity of her husband she took the train south instead of the one north. Why did she do this? Simply to travel with her husband, as she supposed him to be, and learn his plans.

"My client remembers vaguely that he saw her on the train and talked with her, but recollects nothing that was said, for it was at this time that his mind became eclipsed. What followed. The woman, doubtless convinced of her mistake, left the train at Mechanic Falls and went north to join her husband at Coaticook. Mr. Hamilton went on his way to Portland. Conductor Libby testifies that he saw him at the Portland depot, but after that lost sight of him.

"Now comes in the testimony of a commercial traveler, named George Barnstead. His testimony is of so astounding a nature that it needs to be well authenticated and vouched for, as it is in this instance. Mr. Barnstead is of an active, alert nature, and little goes on under his gaze without notice.

"And this was what he observed at Portland depot, where he lattered for some time, expecting to meet another runner named Hurd. He saw a man—whom he has since recognized as Victor Hamilton—standing irresolutely

There is no greater nuisance to farmers than the hunters from city and village. As a rule their actions indicate that they look on the owner of the soil as the one person who has no rights whatever. Nothing on a farm is sacred to a large number of modern hunters. This is the time of year when the hunter is at large. to.

Mrs. D. B. Wesley, of this village, who recently returned from a visit with her daughters in Detroit, is a lady who has done very little traveling. Although 59 years of age, she had never before seen a city or a street car and had never ridden on the train but a few miles. She is in good health, yet for ten years had not been "down town" in this village. She is no hand to go calling or visiting, yet is good company and enjoys having her friends come to see her.—Brighton Argus.

Says an exchange, "If the roof of the farm buildings leak, slack some lime in a tight box, when done silt it. To every six quarts of this lime add one gallon of water, and one quart of rock salt. Boil and skim clean. To every five gallons of this add slowly three fourths of a pound of potash and four quarts of fine sand. Apply with a paint or whitewash brush. This paint wash looks as good as oil paint and is as durable as slate, besides it is fire proof, lasts long and costs but a trifle."

Announcement

The State Board of Library Commissioners wishes to announce that through a more generous appropriation of the last legislature, it has been possible to appoint a library organizer, who will act under the direction of the Board in extending the library interests of the state. The work of this organizer will be to visit every county in the state for the purpose of investigating library conditions and getting, so far as possible, correct statistics regarding school, township and free public libraries, in order that the aid offered by the state may be better understood and more generally accepted. The organizer hopes to work with the cooperation and under the advice of the county commissioners of the schools in their respective counties, whose experience and familiarity with conditions will aid greatly in the work.

The organizer will attend the teachers' institutes, and demonstrate to the teachers the help which is offered to them by the state. Traveling libraries will be exhibited and explained, all attendant expenses being paid by the Board.

At a meeting of the Board held in Saginaw, September 9th, Mr. Roy C. Lyle, of Grand Rapids, was appointed library organizer. Work will commence in October and be actively carried on. During the school year Mr. Lyle will be at the service of the county commissioners of schools, and will appreciate the valuable aid which they can give him in connection with this important educational work.

The original laxative cough syrup is Kennedy's Laxative Honey and Tar. It expels all cold from the system by acting as a cathartic on the bowels. It relieves the feverish conditions of the throat, draws out the inflammation, cures the cough and strengthens the mucous membranes of the lungs and bronchial tubes. Kennedy's Laxative Honey and Tar is a certain, safe, prompt and harmless cure for colds, croup and whooping cough. Sold by F. A. Sigler.

You may be just as skeptical and pessimistic as you please. Kodol will digest what you eat whether you eat or not. You can put your food in a bowl, pour a little Kodol Dyspepsia Cure on it and will digest it the same as it will in your stomach. It can't help but cure indigestion and Dyspepsia. It is curing hundreds and thousands—some had faith and some didn't. Sold by F. A. Sigler.

A new idea in a cough syrup is advanced in Kennedy's Laxative Honey and Tar. Besides containing Pine Tar, Honey and other valuable remedies, it is rendered laxative, so that its use insures a prompt and efficient evacuation of the bowels. It relaxes the nervous system, and cures all coughs, colds, croup, etc. A red clover blossom and the honey bee on every bottle of the original laxative cough syrup—Kennedy's Laxative Honey and Tar. MICHIGAN EDITORS VISIT

MODEL FACTORY AT DAYTON, OHIO

Healthful Working Conditions and Educational Opportunities
Benefit Employees—Company's Broad Policy of Welfare
Work Includes Luncheons, Baths, Library, Rest Rooms

A visit to the model factory of the world, the plant of the National Cash Register Company at Dayton, Ohio, was a part of the annual outing of the Eastern Michigan Press Club and the Michigan Press Association, October 5-8. This factory is one of the principal show places of Dayton and a visit to it is a liberal education in up-to-date factory methods. In fact, in its treatment of employees, its "Welfare Work," the Company is way ahead of the age.

Welfare Work at the N. C. R. plant has three things for basis—healthful working conditions, pleasant surroundings and educational opportunities. The healthful working conditions begin with huge, airy workrooms, perfectly lighted and ventilated and scrupulously clean. The pleasant surroundings include smooth, green lawns bounded by shrubbery, vine-covered buildings, and a neighborhood made beautiful with trees, vines and flowers. The educational opportunities embrace schools and classes of many kinds for employees, lectures by prominent men and women, a well-stocked library, literary and social clubs, and educational trips to other factories, to expositions, to the great cities and even to Europe.

Care for Employees' Health. The care of the Company for the physical well-being of its employees is seen first of all in the construction of the factory buildings. Large windows admit light and air in abundance. An efficient ventilating system changes the air throughout the factory buildings every fifteen minutes. Cleanliness is a noticeable characteristic of the plant, eighty janitors being constantly employed in sweeping, scrubbing and washing windows.

Cleanliness is encouraged in the personal habits of employees. The Company provides 73 lavatories, 120 shower baths for the men and 14 tub baths for the women. Once a week in winter and there is an officers' school where the President or General Manager meets the heads of departments and assistants for lectures and conferences. There is an advertising school, where campaigns of publicity are planned.

The employees of the N. C. R. cooperate with the management in Welfare Work through two organizations, the Men's Welfare League and the Woman's Century Club. The object of the Men's Welfare League, which has 2500 members, is to secure improvement of working conditions throughout the world. The Woman's Century Club, with a membership of about 600, has a similar purpose for the women workers.

One of the rest rooms for women twice a week in summer the employees are allowed twenty minutes on the Company's time for bathing. Employees are free to use the baths as often as they like on their own time.

Clean aprons and sleevelets for the women, white suits for the janitors, dresses for the kitchen employees and laundry workers are furnished and laundered by the Company.

Luncheon Provided for Workers.

Believing good food is as essential to good work as light and air, the Company provides a hot luncheon daily for cooking for the women workers, and in emergency nursing and first aid to the injured for persons employed in the mechanical divisions. Besides these,

Sunny workroom with comfortable chairs

League Conducts Neighborhood House. Under the auspices of the Men's Welfare League, a neighborhood "betterment house" has been established near the factory, where the people meet and where classes are conducted in carving, sewing, drawing, embroidery and basketry.

In August the League, with the cooperation of the Century Club, conducted a vacation camp at Port Huron, Michigan, where 1700 factory workers with their wives and children enjoyed a ten days' outing at a total cost of $7.80 apiece, including railroad fare. Last year the two organizations conducted excursions for 2200 employees to the St. Louis World's Fair.

A branch of Welfare Work through which the Company has had a great influence on the people and the surroundings of the neighborhood is that of landscape gardening. At the time when Welfare Work was started the surroundings of the factory were like those of the most industrial plants—anything employees. The noon meal is served at a little less than cost, the Company believing it gets a large return in the increased efficiency of the workers during the afternoon.

In connection with each of the women's departments a rest room is provided where any girl may retire when ill or over-fatigued. A trained nurse is in constant attendance, and the Company's physician is within easy call.

but attractive. After the Company had made its own property beautiful with lawns, shrubbery and vines, it taught the people of the neighborhood, by lectures and demonstrations, the principles of landscape gardening. As a result the factory neighborhood has been changed from a region of tumbledown houses, ash heaps and tin cans to a neighborhood of beautiful homes and well-kept yards.

Bird Elocution.

The blue jay is a great elocutionist and gives utterance to many unlooked for remarks, but the one most often heard in the woods relates to the possession of a "chee-tidley-unk." Just exactly what sort of creature or thing this is no one can tell, but whenever I am in the woods I hear the jays exclaim "Chee-tidley-unk—got him," to which the meadow lark in the pasture clearing replies, "Oh-so-cheap," with a most sarcastic drawl on the "so" and an inflection on the "cheap." As a rule, the meadow lark says his say while perched on a fence post, and he talks with his mouth wide open. There are a lot of little people in the thickets who are always in such a hurry and talk so fast that it is difficult to tell what they say. There is that gayly colored little fellow the red start, crying, "T-wet-vee-vee-vee-whissett," and the dainty summer yellow bird, who has something to say in the same line and much in the same manner. What he wants is wheat, and, although he never eats it, his constant cry is, "Wheat, wheat, wheat, wheat, wheat, wheat."—Dan Beard in Recreation.

$3.50 & $3.00 SHOES FOR MEN

W. L. Douglas $4.00 Oak Shoe Line cannot be equalled at any price.

W. L. Douglas $3.50 shoes have by their style, very fitting, and superior quality, secured the highest sale of any $3.50 shoe in the world. They are just as good as those that cost you $5.00 to $7.00—the only difference is the price. If I could take you into my factory in Brockton, Mass., the largest shoe factory in the world under one roof making men's fine shoes, and show you the care with which every pair of Douglas shoes is made, you would realize why W. L. Douglas $3.50 shoes are the best shoes produced in the world.

If I could show you the difference between the shoes made in my factory and those of other makers, you would understand why Douglas $3.50 shoes are made to last, why they hold their shape, fit better, wear longer, and are of greater intrinsic value than any other $3.50 shoe on the market to-day.

W. L. Douglas $3.50 shoes made from the best of leather, and are made in the largest shoe factory in the world, Brockton, Mass., U.S.A.

NEWS OF THE NATION

TEN MONTHS IN JAIL THE SENTENCE FOR CONGRESSMAN.

THE CHINESE EXCLUSION LAWS TO COME BEFORE CONGRESS FOR MODIFICATION.

RESULTS OF THE PEORIA SCANDAL ARE WORRY, WRECK AND DEATH.

Oregon Land Frauds.

John Newton Williamson, congressman from the second Oregon district, convicted of subornation of perjury in connection with land frauds in Oregon, was sentenced by Judge Hunt in the United States court Saturday to serve ten months' imprisonment and to pay a fine of $500. He was also reprimanded by the court for his failure to set a good example in his exalted public position.

Marion R. Biggs, formerly United States commissioner, was given an equal penalty.

In the case of Dr. Van Gesner, convicted of being a fellow conspirator to suborn perjury, the term of imprisonment was, because of the defendant's age and feebleness, reduced one-half and the fine was doubled. Van Gesner was Williamson's partner in the sheep business.

Appeals are pending and a stay of execution was made pending a further order of the court. Meanwhile Congressman Williamson will go free on his own recognizance, but a bond of $4,000 was required of the other two defendants. As the term of imprisonment is less than one year, the sentence must be served in the county jail.

Chinese Exclusion Laws.

The first of the senators to voice the opinion that Chinese exclusion laws will be handled for modification at the next session of congress is Senator Elkins. He will urge more "liberal laws."

It is believed here that he will introduce a bill for the modification of the Chinese exclusion laws. Senator Elkins is now apparently beginning where the president and Secretaries Root and Taft stopped. The president and these two secretaries went as far as possible in amending "regulations," which amendments were a sop to the anti-American sentiment in Canton and Shanghai. Further requests for modification were refused, it is understood, after a cabinet meeting was held on the subject. It is apparent to Senator Elkins that there can be no change, indirectly or directly, in Chinese exclusion, no matter what kind of treaty be made. The statute laws will be supreme.

Senator Elkins's attitude, however, for modification is interesting and shows where the fight is to be made.

Peoria's Scandal Results.

The Dougherty scandal has claimed another victim. Driven to desperation and nervous prostration by worry over the disclosures compromising his bank and fear of a disastrous run, Nelson Burnham, a venerable stockholder in the Peoria National, died suddenly Friday night. He was 79 years old.

Mr. Burnham owned 150 shares of stock and had been connected with the bank thirty years. He settled in Peoria fifty years ago. His wealth was estimated at $500,000.

Following close on the death Thursday night of C. C. Lines, a former bank official, also caused by the shock of the scandal, the community is impressed by the far-reaching effect of the Dougherty affair.

Had Three Wives.

Accused of having had three young wives living simultaneously in the same flat building in New York, each of whom believed that she was the only wife, Robert Benicker was arrested and arraigned in court on a complaint made by two of them. He is 25 years old and a painter.

The woman who claims to be his first wife, Norma, 19 years old, and Emily, 20 years old, who says she is the second Mrs. Benicker, told the police that a third wife was now living in Lowell, Mass., and that they two, while still ignorant of each other's relation to Benicker, were persuaded by him that the Lowell girl was his sister. They said they had both supplied the money which recently sent her back to Lowell.

The woman who says she is the first wife, Norma Benicker, told the police that after her husband left her and went to housekeeping with a second wife in Eighteenth street, she herself moved to the same house without knowing that Benicker was maintaining another wife there.

Yellow-Fever Spread.

Eighteen new cases of yellow fever developed in Pensacola, Florida, Sunday, a large increase, attributed to the rigid inspection made by the citizens' committee. This inspection revealed many cases which had not been reported. All were among the lower classes. The prevailing opinion is that the fever is being spread southward, with results in Pensacola notwithstanding.

To make Cheap Gas-light for Country Homes

TAKE a common Clay Pipe. Put a single "Acetylene" Gasburner on its stem.

Bind the two in position with a tight-fitting piece of Rubber Hose.

Then fill the bowl of the pipe with fine-ground Calcium Carbide.

Next tie a rag over head of the bowl to keep in the Carbide.

Now put the pipe into a Glass of Water, as in picture.

There you have a complete Gas-plant for 25 cents.

Touch a match to the Burner—and you'll get a beautiful White Gas-light.

Of course, this is only an experiment, but it shows the wonderful simplicity of Acetylene Lighting.

That very simplicity gave Acetylene

Light a setback, at first.

It seemed so simple to turn Calcium Carbide into Gas-light that over 600 different kinds of "tanks" and "Acetylene Machines" were invented, patented, and marketed for the purpose, by about as many different people.

Well; the thing to be expected certainly happened!

About 530 of these "Acetylene Machines" had been invented and sold by people who knew more about Tinware than they did about Gas-making.

The "Calcium Carbide" was all right all the time, but 530 of the machines for turning it into Gas were all wrong all the time.

So Acetylene Gas "got a bad name," though it is clear enough now that it never deserved it at any time.

It was like selling Wood Stoves to burn Hard Coal in, and then blaming the Coal for not burning.

Lots of things happened to grieve the Owners of these 530 makes of alleged "Acetylene Machines."

But very few accidents occurred from them even in the days of rank experiment and dense ignorance, among "Generator" Makers.

Of course, a gun will go off unexpectedly, now and then, if the trigger be pulled by a person who "didn't know it was loaded."

But, that's no fault of the Ammunition—is it?

Well, finally the Insurance Companies got after these 530 odd makes of "Acetylene Machines" that wouldn't Acetylate, and the Insurance Board made an investigation of all Generators that were submitted to them.

Then, out of the 600 odd "Machines" patented, only about 70 were "permitted" by the Insurance Board to be used.

Oh, what a howl was there!

By "permitted" I mean that the Insurance Board was willing that any building should be Insured, without extra charge, which used any one of these 70 Acetylene Generators it had found safe, and effective, just as it permitted houses to be piped for City Gas, or wired for Electricity, under proper conditions.

Now, the Insurance Companies ought to know whether or not these 70 different makes of Acetylene Generators were absolutely Safe to use.

Because, they have to pay the bills, if Fire or Explosion occurs, from any one of the Acetylene Generators they authorize.

And, here's a proof of their good judgment.

Though there are now Two Million people using Acetylene Light in America, there have only been four Fires from it in one year, against 8865 Fires from Kerosene and Gasoline.

There have also been 469 Fires from Electricity, 1707 Fires from City Gas, and 530 Fires from Candles.

Besides these there have been 26 Fires from the Sun's rays. But—only four Fires from Acetylene.

That shows how careful the Insurance Board was in its examination of Acetylene Generators, and in "permitting" only the 70 makes that were above suspicion, out of the 600 experiments that were once on the market.

Well—the boom in Acetylene Lighting made lower prices possible on the material it is derived from, viz., Calcium Carbide, a material that looks like Granite but acts like Magic.

Today, Acetylene Light is a full third cheaper than Kerosene Light, or Gasoline Light, per Candle Power.

It is not more than half the price of Electric Light, nor three-fourths that of City Gas.

If I can't prove these statements to your full satisfaction my name is not "Acetylene Jones."

But Acetylene is more than the safest and cheapest Light of the year 1905.

It is also the Whitest Light—the nearest to natural Sunlight in health-giving Blue and Violet rays, and because of this, with its freedom from flicker, it is the easiest of all Artificial Light on the Eyes.

It is so much like real Sunlight that it has made plants grow 24 hours per day in dark cellars where no ray of Sunlight could reach them. It made them grow twice as fast as similar plants that had only the Sunlight of day-time, viz., half the time.

That was proven by Cornell University in a three-months' experiment made this very year.

Now, I've saved up for the last a point more important to you than all the others about Acetylene Light.

It consumes only one-fourth as much of the vital Oxygen from the Air of Living rooms or bed-rooms, as either Kerosene or City Gas-Light consumes.

That's a tremendous difference in a lifetime, mark you—three-fourths of a difference.

Because—Oxygen is Life.

And every bit of Oxygen stolen from the lungs of Women, Children and Men, through Lighting, is a loss that can never be made good again.

A 24 Candle-Power Acetylene Light costs you only two-fifths of a cent per hour.

That's about $5.85 per year, if burned every night in the year for four steady hours.

A Kerosene Lamp of equal capacity would cost you a third more, viz., three-fifths of a cent per hour for Kerosene alone, or $8.75 per year.

That's exclusive of broken lamp chimneys, new wicks, and the everlasting drudgery and danger of cleaning, filling and trimming daily.

I want to prove these figures to you, Reader, if you are a house-owner or storekeeper.

Tell me how many rooms you've got and I'll tell you what it will cost to light them with brilliant, beautiful, Sanitary, eye-saving Acetylene.

Write me today for my Free Book about "Sunlight on Tap."

CONSTIPATION AND STOMACH TROUBLE ABSOLUTELY CURED

"I consider Mull's Grape Tonic the very best medicine I have ever taken. My stomach was in such a bad condition that nothing tasted right and the small amount of food that I was able to eat didn't seem to do any good. I became so nervous that sleep was impossible. My strength gave out and I became exhausted and completely run down. I then commenced to take Mull's Grape Tonic and by the time I had finished two bottles my health returned. I now relish my food and can sleep as well as ever. THIS IS MY VOLUNTARY TESTIMONY."

MRS. D. GIANELLI, 404 S. Joliet St., Joliet, Ill.

Continual constipation will inevitably result seriously for the sufferer. No one can let this affliction go unnoticed without losing his health. It brings on Blood Poison, Skin Disease, Sores, Pimples, Stomach Trouble, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Sudden Bowel Trouble, Diarrhea, Cholera, Etc., Nervousness, Insomnia, and Kindred Diseases.

You have no right to suffer from constipation or any of these diseases. There is no necessity or excuse for it. There is one positive, natural, harmless cure—and only one—for these troubles and we are going to give you enough free to prove it.

Cut out the coupon below and we will give you absolutely free of charge a bottle of the only permanent, natural cure for constipation and all bowel troubles and indigestion and all stomach troubles.

MULL'S GRAPE TONIC cures by strengthening and restoring the tissues and muscles of all the digestive organs, and by putting the whole digestive system in a perfect, strong, healthy condition. It does not shock and weaken the organs as purgatives and physics do and thus aggravate the trouble and make a bad matter worse. Its effect is to build up and restore, and not tear down and destroy. It cures the disease by putting the digestive organs in a condition to overcome it. Such a cure amounts to something—it is perfect and permanent.

You feel better and stronger all the time you use it—not weakened and run down as in the case of drugs and physics.

You feel the wonderful and beneficial effects of Mull's Grape Tonic at once. You will know that it will cure you as soon as you begin its use. That is why we let you try it free.

Unhappy Dickens.

Dickens had to confess, after a severe trial of married life, that the skeleton in his domestic closet was becoming "a pretty big one." Then, in 1837, came the crisis.

"Poor Catherine and I are not made for each other," he wrote in a letter to Forster, "and there is no help for it. She is exactly what you know in the way of being amiable and complying, but we are strangely ill assorted for the bond that is between us. God knows she would have been a thousand times happier if she had married another kind of man, and her avoidance of this destiny would have been at least equally good for us both. The years have not made it easier to bear for either of us. There is plenty of fault on my side, I dare say, in the way of a thousand uncertainties, caprices and difficulties of disposition, but only one thing will alter all that, and that is the end which alters everything."

Where Silence is Golden.

This story is illustrative of the absolute silence and loneliness of the typical Australian bush camp:

Two men were camping together, but rarely exchanged a word.

One morning one of the men remarked at breakfast, "Heard a cow bellow in the swamp just now."

Nothing further was said, and they went about their business for the rest of the day. Twenty-four hours later, once more at breakfast, the second man said:

"How d'you know it wasn't a bull?"

Again no comment. Again a pause of twenty-four hours. Next morning the first man began to pack up his "billy" and "swag."

"You going?" inquired the other.

"Yes."

"Why?"

"Because," said his friend, "there's too much argument in this camp."
