An eight page announcement of the Pinckney public schools for the coming school year was printed in the DISPATCH job room last week, containing the course of study, semester, tuition, instructors and all the necessary information to foreign pupils and others desiring to enter our schools. They are now in the hands of superintendent Gaul.

For reasons best known to themselves the officials of the Pere Marquette railroad have served notice upon F. G. Roundsville and E. W. Burkhart that they must move their respective grain elevators off the railroad grounds. The Burkhart elevator has occupied its present position over thirty years and it is somewhat doubtful if the company can enforce the order for its removal, and it is to be hoped that some amicable adjustment may be reached allowing Mr. Roundsville to remain.—Fowlerville Review.

Open Tuesday, Sept. 4

Everything Flourishing

Tuesday of next week, Sept. 4, the Pinckney Public Schools open with the promise of a flourishing year. Circulars have been issued setting forth the work to be done in the school and already many foreign pupils are making arrangements to attend.

The school, as announced before, has been placed on the State Normal list and it is expected to be raised to the University list also. The work done by the pupils here will be second to none, placing the graduates of the P. H. S. on a standing with any.

The school board have assisted Superintendent Gaul in arranging for the best year the school has ever seen and have spared no pains or hard toil to make it so. A fine room has been fitted up in the basement for a chemical and physical laboratory with tables for work and cases for chemicals, tools and instruments. This room has been badly needed for years and we are glad Mr. Gaul took it in hand to push it through and the board had the "gall" to spend a little money assisting him. Mr. Gaul not only superintended the work of arranging the new room, but put on his "workin'" clothes and put in several days hard work. In fact he has put in most of his vacation doing something for the good of the school the coming year. He and the board have worked hard to build up a good school here and the citizens of Pinckney and vicinity have something to be proud of.

The following teachers will teach the different grades the coming year which speaks itself for the success of the school:

T. J. Gaul, Superintendent.
Miss Belle Kennedy, Principal.
Miss Mae Reason, 7th and 8th grades.
Miss Lela Monke, 4th, 5th and 6th grades.
Miss Jessie Green, 1st, 2nd and 3rd grades.

Last week of vacation.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Wirt Hendee a daughter, the past week.

David Bowen has been under the doctor's care the past week.

Miss Ruth Mortenson visited her cousin, Maude Mortenson, Tuesday.

This is the last of the month and Loyal Guards should remember the assessment due.

Mrs. Fanny Hickey, of Howell, visited at the home of her brother, Chas. Love, this week.

Will and LaVerne Turner, of Grand Ledge, are visiting with James Nash and Bert Appleton this week.

Sidney Lyons and wife, of Hartland, were guests at the home of her sister, Mrs. K. H. Crane, the past week.

Mrs. Michael Dolan took in the excursion to Manistique to visit her daughter Mrs. Minnie Nowlan.

Our readers will be pleased to learn that Rev. K. H. Crane has recovered from his recent poor spell, and is able to be around.

Temple Brown, son of Frank Brown and wife, of Chicago, is the guest of his grandmother, Mrs. Sarah Brown, and other relatives.

Miss Clara Dunn returns this week to her school duties as teacher in the Chicago Normal, after spending the summer with her parents, J. C. Dunn and wife.

The Mesdames, Kate and Emma Salsbury, who have been guests of relatives in town for several months, returned to their home in St. Louis, Mo., this week.

While making his rounds as mail carrier Monday, H. H. Swarthout found a large package, well done up and sealed, but without any postage and he said he should hold it for postage. As it was a good sized watermelon we do not think it will keep on his hands long.

M. E. Church Notes.

The services Sunday morning was well attended although the crowd was no larger than usual. The sermon was an excellent one and much appreciated. Miss Gracie, and Master Harold Grieve sang a duet in excellent manner.

There was a misunderstanding about the evening service, and threatening storm made the attendance small. The subject, "Modern Sampsons" was a good one, and the pastor proved that there were some Sampsons today.

Services as usual next Sunday and all are invited to come and feel at home.

Do not forget the Thursday evening prayer meeting.

THE SHOW OF THE STATE.

A VIEW OF THE STATE FAIR GROUNDS AND ITS EQUIPMENT.

MICHIGAN'S GREATEST FAIR WILL SOON OPEN.

A visit to the grounds on which will be held the Michigan State Fair of 1906 and an inspection of the many new buildings recently erected for exhibition purposes impressed one with the marvelous progress of the Michigan State Agricultural Society, which had its origin in the pioneer days of the commonwealth. The more than a half century that has elapsed since the formation of the society at Lansing in 1849, has marked a great transition in agriculture and allied pursuits during which period Michigan has grown from a comparatively wild and unsettled domain to a state of 2,500,000 people. The State Agricultural Society has kept pace with the progress of the state, each succeeding exhibition showing a marked advancement, each better than the one previous.

Earlier Days.

In the earlier years it was the custom of the society to locate the yearly fair in a city, somewhat remote from where the fair was held the year previous, believing that in this way alone would these expositions of improved stock and agricultural products be brought nearer the greatest number of people. Lack of transportation and great expense made it difficult for farmers to travel long distances. As the state grew and the means of travel were increased, the fair was held in some of the larger cities and trade centers. A number of exhibitions were held on the grounds in the suburbs of Lansing, that being thought the proper center for all the people, it being the capital city. But in 1905, after a somewhat extended but friendly contest the society decided upon Detroit, the metropolis of the state, as the place for a permanent location of the great fair. A plot of nearly 150 acres lying at the north of the city adjoining Woodward avenue, the leading thoroughfare of the city, was purchased, and the work of preparing the rough fields for an exposition park was begun.

Fair of 1905.

When the dates for the 1905 fair came about, the buildings were few and incomplete, little had been accomplished in the way of grading and beautifying the grounds, though three fine buildings had been erected and the grand stand and mile track fitted for the races. A goodly part of the showing was in improvised structures and in tents. Nevertheless the exhibition excelled those of other years, and the attendance greatly outnumbered the guesses of the wildest and most optimistic of prophets. It proved the wisdom of the men who had given rise to the movement and had consummated their plans in locating the society to give its annual fair upon permanent grounds adjacent to the first city of Michigan so readily reached by steam railways, electric cars and by boat from several sections of the state. This patronage showed an appreciation by the people of the city and state and gave assurance that future efforts would merit even a greater interest by exhibitors and a far larger attendance.

Transformation.

But the State Fair grounds of today are far different from those which the visitors at previous exhibitions of the Michigan State Agricultural Society have known. A magnificent park, with its acres of velvety green lawn, with the many sweeping driveways and walks, beds of flowering plants and innumerable groups of foliage plants and ornamental shrubbery has seemingly (owing to the few months given to preparation) sprung into being as if from the hand of enchantment. To get a fair conception of this exposition ground one would need to see it, and to walk the ways of its avenues under many beautiful elms, and to devote hours in observation of the fine buildings that grace the expansive "beauty spot." Instead of this the writer would in fancy take you with him from the heart of Michigan's metropolis out Woodward avenue on one of the modern rapid observation trolley cars, passing through Grand Circus Park, on past the hundreds of attractive homes of leading citizens, crossing the picturesque Grand Boulevard, with its miles of resplendent loveliness, on in view of the fashionable Boston Boulevard, out through Highland Park village, touching delightful Palmer Park, within sight of the famous Log Cabin for so many years the pride of Senator Thomas W. Palmer, and in a minute or two you alight at the gates of the society's exhibition grounds that stretch away to the eastward presenting an unparalleled scene of beauty.

Arrangement of Groups.

Entering at the west, one approaches the stately Michigan Building that occupies a conspicuous place in the foreground. In this spacious structure one can meet his friends, perhaps sit down for a little chat, visit the ore and mineral display on the ground floor and the art exhibit on the second. You can to the east, first passing the nursery exhibits which occupy a liberal space on the right. Farther on and to the left are the vehicles and automobiles. You have now reached the principal brick buildings, with the Main Exhibition Hall directly in front. Here an avenue projecting north and south crosses, which leads you southward to the fence and implement exhibits, northward to the Horticultural Building, a splendid brick 70x160 feet; the horse stables, to accommodate 300 animals, both on the right, with the grove of oak nearly opposite, in which is the magnificent band pavilion facing to the east. On north and to the left are nine long white barns, each 30x24 feet, five being devoted to cattle, two to sheep, and two to swine. The last two have concrete floors. At the end of this street are four more stables for speed horses, back of which is a fine stretch of forest. Passing back south over the same course is the Poultry Building, 40x150 feet, that contains 800 coops. The Administration Building, 70x160, then take the main walk that leads is of brick, situated to the south of the Main Hall, which is 100x220 feet in area. To the east of this largest structure is the Dairy Building, 40x150 feet, an airy, well lighted frame show hall with concrete floors, and containing a large glass refrigerator for the display of fine dairy products. Leaving this you find yourself on the "Glade," that live avenue of mirth and gaiety, where a number of lively yet refined shows and exhibitions will be given. Joining this is the booth and lunch room section—every feature has its own neighborhood here—and to the east of which is the mammoth grand stand that comfortably seats nearly 10,000 people, and the new bleachers that provides for about 2,000 more. A fine ornamental iron fence separates these from the course, which is a feature of the grounds, being 90 feet wide and a mile in extent with thrown-up turns, built after the most modern fashion. Within the course is a well sodded plot upon which various special free entertainments provided by the society will be given. Other features will be presented here afterwards during the racing program.

Large Display.

Besides the almost unbounded displays of agricultural products, large showings of the best live stock of many breeds from this and other states will be presented; many very special features this year, notable among which is Roy Knaubenshue and his giant air ship, with which he takes daily trips to the clouds; Lionel Legare, who ascends and descends an electrical spiral tower on a moving sphere; the wonderful Norrins, making leaps of death from a tall tower into a tank of water; Innes' famous orchestral band of 50 skilled music makers giving two concerts daily; accomplished Montana lady riders, who will ride in four-mile relay races each afternoon. The society has also secured at great expense Pain's Fireworks for the evening entertainment of guests.

Many other features in the way of agreeable surprises will be presented.

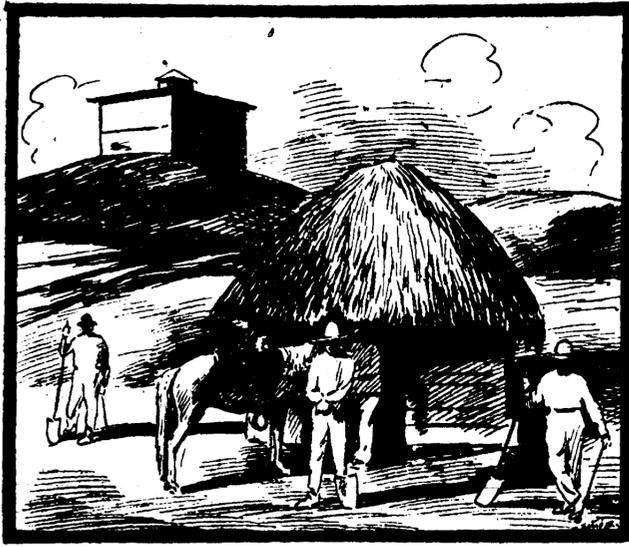

Program.

The following is a list of special days:
Thursday, August 30—Opening day.
Friday, August 31—Children's day, when all children under 15 will be admitted free.
Saturday, September 1—Detroit day. The mayor and city officers invited.
Sunday, September 2—No program, but the grounds will be open and buildings accessible. Two sacred concerts will be given by the Innes band.
Monday, September 3—Labor day. The Detroit Federation of Labor will conduct exercises, assisted by numerous labor organizations and noted speakers.
Tuesday, September 4—Fraternal day. All fraternal orders are invited to be present, to give drills, and hold such exercises as they deem proper.
Wednesday, September 5—Governor's day. The governor and other state officers and the candidates for the several state offices are expected to be in attendance. A grand live stock parade will be given at 10:30 a. m. which will be reviewed by the governor.
Thursday, September 6—Farmers' day, when the State Farmers' Club Association, State Grange, and live stock organizations will be fully represented. It will be a real rousing agricultural gathering on this date.
Friday, September 7—Closing day, which will be none the less a full show day, with complete programs save the fireworks in the evening.

Each will be fine of many banner days, weather permitting, and every citizen should endeavor to be present one or more of them.

There is every prospect that this Annual Exhibition of the State Agricultural Society will be a record breaker, and a pleasant and memorable event in the lives of all patrons and visitors.

BLOCKHOUSE ON OUTSKIRTS OF CITY OF PINAR DEL RIO, CUBA, AROUND WHICH ONE OF FIRST BATTLES OF CUBAN REVOLUTION RAGED.

FAVORS REFORM SPELLING

PRESIDENT INDORSES THE CARNEGIE MOVEMENT.

Orders Adoption of System in All Official Documents of the Government.

Oyster Bay, N. Y. — President Roosevelt has indorsed the Carnegie spelling reform movement. He issued orders Friday to Public Printer Stillings that hereafter all messages from the president and all other documents emanating from the white house shall be printed in accordance with the recommendation of the spelling reform committee, headed by Brander Matthews, professor of English at Columbia university. This committee has published a list of 300 words in which the spelling is reformed.

This list contains such words as "thru" and "tho" a the spelling for "through" and "though." The president's official sanction of this reform movement is regarded as the most effective and speediest method of inaugurating the new system of spelling throughout the country. Not only will the printed documents emanating from the president utilize the reform spelling, but his correspondence also will be spelled in the new style.

Secretary Loeb has sent for the list of 300 words which have been reformed and upon its arrival will immediately order all correspondence of the president and of the executive force of the white house spelled in accordance therewith. As the spelling reform committee shall adopt new reforms they will be added to the president's list and also to that of the public printer.

While the order to the printer does not contemplate an immediate reform in the spelling of official documents from the executive departments in Washington, it is regarded that more than likely the respective heads of the department will fall in line with the president's ideas and have their official documents printed in the new spelling.

TAFT WANTS TO BE PRESIDENT

Secretary of War to Decline Place on Supreme Bench.

Washington.—William H. Taft, secretary of war, will formally communicate to the president in a short time that he does not desire the honor of an appointment to the supreme court bench. He will send notice in time for the president to make a selection before the fall term of the supreme court opens in October.

Mr. Taft's indorsement for the presidency by the Ohio Republican state convention is practically assured. He has been considered one of the most prominent possibilities by Ohio Republicans, and in view of Speaker Cannon's reiterated declarations that he would not be known as a candidate, the secretary's plan of action is considered most significant at this time.

The Ohio Republicans have been quietly booming Mr. Taft for the presidency for months. By every possible method they have been advancing his cause, even going so far, it is understood, as to solicit a public expression from him on the subject of his candidacy. Mr. Taft has fought shy of the subject, but the latest development places him more conspicuously before the public.

Death of Hanna's Brother-in-Law. Cleveland, O.—Jay C. Morse, at one time president of the Illinois Steel company and brother-in-law of the late Senator M. A. Hanna, died here Wednesday of a complication of diseases. Mr. Morse was associated with the late Col. C. M. Pickands in an immense iron ore and coal business, and he amassed a large fortune.

SAYS REBATES WERE PAID.

Standard Oil and Railroad Company Indicted in New York.

Jamestown, N. Y.—The federal grand jury investigating alleged violations of the Elkins rebate law by the Standard Oil company, the Pennsylvania Railroad company, and the New York Central Railroad company in the state met here Friday and returned two indictments, one against the Standard Oil company, the other against the New York Central.

The charges against the Central are covered in a single count, although, according to the theory of the prosecution, the company equally is guilty with the Pennsylvania company in granting rebates. The charge of failure to file with the Interstate commerce commission, as required by law, a schedule of rates, which evidence taken by the grand jury indicates, was maintained.

The Standard Oil company was again indicted on a charge of accepting unlawful and discriminating freight rates on shipments of oil over the Pennsylvania, the New York Central and the Vermont Central railroad companies.

The indictments are closely related to those found by the same jury two weeks ago against the Standard Oil company and the Pennsylvania in the matter of discriminating rates for oil shipped by the Standard from Olean to Burlington, Vt. All of such shipments were over the Pennsylvania from Olean to Rochester; over the New York Central from Rochester to Norwood, N. Y., and over the Vermont Central from Norwood, to its destination.

STORM DAMAGES GRAVEYARD

Cemetery Grounds Flooded and 200 Bodies Exposed to View.

Kansas City, Mo.—A terrific rain-storm prevailed in Kansas City and vicinity early Thursday. In Kansas City 5.93 inches of water fell, a record for the time, three hours and a half. Low lying lands were flooded and the police and fire departments were called upon to rescue persons from basements in Little Italy, in the north end of town, and in the east and west bottoms, where the water entered many small houses. Several downtown basements were flooded and goods damaged.

At Elmwood cemetery, five miles east of the business district the entire cemetery grounds were flooded, and in the lower ground a strong current was formed. This resulted in the washing out of dozens of graves. At least 200 bodies were exposed. Monuments were wrecked and other damage done.

LYNCHING JURY FAILS TO AGREE

Little Likelihood of State Continuing Case at Springfield, Mo.

Springfield, Mo.—The jury in the case of Doss Galbraith, the alleged leader of the mob which lynched and burned three negroes here in April last, and who was on trial charged with second degree murder, was discharged by the court Friday when it reported that its members were unable to agree.

After the jury was discharged its members freely admitted that the vote stood ten for acquittal and two for conviction. Twenty ballots were taken and there was no change after the first ballot.

It is not believed the state will try the case again.

Death Ends Suffering.

Tomahawk, Wis.—C. C. Ramsey, district superintendent for the United States Leather company, died. He was stricken blind Tuesday while seated at his office desk and Thursday he suffered a stroke of apoplexy.

BACKACHE IS KIDNEYACHE.

Get at the Cause—Cure the Kidneys!

Don't neglect backache. It warns you of trouble in the kidneys. Avert the danger by curing the kidneys with Doan's Kidney Pills. J. A. Haywood, a well known resident of Lufkin, Tex., says: "I wrenched my back working in a sawmill, was laid up six weeks, and from that time had pain in my back whenever I stooped or lifted. The urine was badly disordered and for a long time I had attacks of gravel. After I began using Doan's Kidney Pills the gravel passed out, and my back got well. I haven't had backache or bladder trouble since."

Another Triumph for X-Rays. So successful has the application of the X-rays been in the treatment of children suffering from ringworm, that the Metropolitan Asylums Board, London, has been enabled to discontinue the use of one of the two institutions reserved for such cases.

Schools Spreading in China. A few years ago the foreign missionary schools were practically the only institutions in Foochow offering facilities for the acquisition of western learning. There are now at least 30 native schools fashioned after the foreign model. Foochow is a city of 600,000 inhabitants, and these schools embrace about 2,000 students. Posters placarded all over the city advertise the opening of various modern schools, which are springing up in every nook and corner of the place. Scarcely a week passes without the announcement of the opening of a new school.

HE MADE THE OPPORTUNITY

How Educator Succeeded in Desire to Address Students.

A distinguished educator of Boston, who once visited a western college during examination week, was, for some reason or other, not asked to address the students, as he had expected he would be. In chapel he was merely requested to lead in prayer, which he did in this wise:

"Be pleased, Father in Heaven, to guide the steps of the president of this college. Thou knowest that he was a classmate of Thy servant, a graduate of the class of '84, taking high honors. Thine eye hath looked with favor upon the happy choice that resulted in his appointment, with the consent of the trustees, as the head of this institution. Thou knowest that the students of this college ought to look upon him as a friend as well as their president. Thou knowest that thy servant is well pleased with the high standards of scholarship here prevailing and with the righteousness and loyalty of the students."

Finally, to the intense delight of the students, the visitor concluded his prayer as follows:

"And I thank Thee for this opportunity to address the students of this college."

GOOD-NIGHT'S SLEEP.

No Medicine so Beneficial to Brain and Nerves.

Lying awake nights makes it hard to keep awake and do things in day time. To take "tonics and stimulants" under such circumstances is like setting the house on fire to see if you can put it out.

The right kind of food promotes refreshing sleep at night and a wide awake individual during the day.

A lady changed from her old way of eating, to Grape-Nuts, and says:

"For about three years I had been a great sufferer from indigestion. After trying several kinds of medicine, the doctor would ask me to drop off potatoes, then meat, and so on, but in a few days that craving, gnawing feeling would start up, and I would vomit everything I ate and drank."

"When I started on Grape-Nuts, vomiting stopped, and the bloating feeling which was so distressing disappeared entirely."

"My mother was very much bothered with diarrhea before commencing the Grape-Nuts, because her stomach was so weak she could not digest her food. Since using Grape-Nuts she is well, and says she don't think she could live without it."

"It is a great brain restorer and nerve builder, for I can sleep as well and undisturbed after a supper of Grape-Nuts as in the old days when I could not realize what they meant by a 'bad stomach.' There is no medicine so beneficial to nerves and brain as a good night's sleep, such as you can enjoy after eating Grape-Nuts."

When a woman suffers from depressing weaknesses, she then keenly realizes how helpless—how thoroughly worthless she is. Dr. Shoop has brought relief to thousands of such women. He reaches diseases peculiar to women in two, direct, specific ways—a local treatment known by druggists everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Night Cure, and a constitutional or internal prescription called Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Dr. Shoop's Night Cure is applied locally, and at night. It works while you sleep. It reduces inflammation, it stops discharges, it heals, it soothes, it comforts, it cures.

Dr. Shoop's Restorative (tablet or liquid form) is a constitutional, nerve tissue tonic. It brings renewed strength, lasting ambition and vigor to weak, lifeless women.

COSTLY COAL.

Some For Which the United States Paid $80 a Ton.

"The civil war led to the establishment of a lot of little private coaling stations all over the world by thrifty persons who hoped that Uncle Sam's ships might come that way about the time that they needed coal real bad," said an old naval official. "The old Vanderbilt in 1862 had an experience of that sort. She was looking for the Alabama like a good many more of the Federal ships, and she came to St. Helena just about the time that she was out of coal. The officers were delighted to see a red headed Scotchman sitting on a coal pile on the dock, and they at once opened up negotiations with him. He demanded $30 a ton gold, and as the rate of exchange was then $2.85 this made the price $80 a ton of Uncle Sam's money."

"The officers protested and refused to take the coal. They put to sea, hoping to reach another port before their stock gave out, but after a run of a few hours the weather began to get nasty, and there was nothing for it but to put back and buy 1,000 tons of the Scotchman's coal."

"He said that he liked the United States and sympathized with the north in the war, but he had been sitting on that coal pile for a long time waiting for an American ship to come along, and sympathy didn't buy things."—New York Times.

ODDITIES OF AUTHORS.

Literary Lights Who Were Conspicuous by Their Attire.

In telling of the various means of self advertisement adopted by certain authors a critic says that Alexandre Dumas, the elder, delighted to appear in the uniform of the national guard of France, with medals pinned to his breast, though it is doubtful whether his motive was anything deeper than a vain childish delight in gauds. "He was the sort of man," one of his enemies once remarked, "who was capable of riding behind his own carriage in order to prove that he kept a negro in his service."

A certain literary person once appeared in the stalls of a London theater wearing a jeweled brooch in his long hair, but he was anticipated in this respect by Theophile Gautier, whose many colored waistcoat was always the most conspicuous object in any theater which he entered, and even by Disraeli, with his rings outside his gloves and his green trousers.

It is said that M. Paul Bourget also wore green trousers when he was a denizen of the Latin quarter, but that was in the days of poverty and early struggles, and perhaps he had no others.

Why does the sun burn? Why does a mosquito sting? Why do we feel unhappy in the good old summer time? Answer: we don't. We use DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve, and these little ills don't bother us. Learn to look for the name on the box to get the genuine.

Fishkin Lanterns.

The puffer or swell fish has the power to distend itself with air into the shape of a globe. Japanese living in the Hawaiian Islands make of the skin of the big puffer found in Hawaiian waters an odd and grotesque lantern. When the skin of the big puffer has been first removed while it is still soft it is stuffed out to its full size in globe shape and so left to dry. The skin is not much thicker than paper and translucent brown on the upper part and gray below. The fins are preserved and dried sticking out from the fish, the tail being perked up at an angle. A circular opening is made in the back, through which the light can be placed and in which is set horizontally a hoop or rim by which the lantern can be suspended. Such a lantern made of a big puffer's skin may be a foot in diameter crosswise and fifteen inches in length, and what with the head of the fish appearing at one end and the perked up tail at the other and the fins projecting at the sides this fish skin lantern makes a very curious object.—New York Herald

Thomas J. Allen

Requests your support for the office of

STATE SENATOR

For the 18th Senatorial district, including Genessee and Livingston counties.

Primary Election Tuesday, Sept. 4 1906

A custom has prevailed in this district for many years, under which the candidate for state senator is chosen from each legislative district in this senatorial district in turn. The candidate was chosen from the first district of Genessee county last term, and under the rule should be chosen from the second district of Genessee county this term.

The above is copied from the Flint Journal. In addition we wish to say in behalf of Livingston county that under the above custom has regularly every third term nominated a state senator for this district. We believe it to be for the best interest of this senatorial district and particularly in the interest of harmony that Mr. Allen should be nominated. We fail to see the force of the argument, that Dr. Rumer should be given a second term in as much as he knew when nominated and elected two years ago that it was a one term office, and probably knows that no senator from this senatorial district has had two terms in twenty-five years. Dr. Rumer should be satisfied with his term and then step aside and wait until the nomination comes to his district. We think the sentiment of the Republicans of this county will be decidedly along these lines, for the reason that under the argument this nomination goes to the second Legislative District of Genessee county, and Mr. Allen is the only candidate from that district. His friends in that district expect him to receive the hearty support of the Republicans of this county and in return will support this county's candidate next term.

The Signs of Heart Trouble

You can Surely Secure Heart Health and Strength through Dr. Shoop's Restorative.

Heart weakness which can be dealt with as all is nerve weakness. Just as your hand trembles when its nerves are weak, when your heart nerves are weak your heart flutters and palpitates. Other signs are shortness of breath after slight exercise, fainting spells, pain or tenderness about the heart caused by irregular heart action; choking sensation as if the heart was in the throat; uneasy sensation in the chest, showing that the heart isn't working right; usually the left side, but frequently the right, and difficult breathing; another sign is a feeling of weakness. There is absolutely one way to treat a weak heart. That is to bring back the strength to the heart nerves always. There is nothing in this remedy to stimulate anything that leads to reaction. The strength that it gives is natural and permanent. It is just the same strength as Nature gives to those who are well. Dr. Shoop's Restorative (Tablets or Liquid) creates strength which extends over the whole inside nerve system—it overcomes the cause of the trouble as well as the result. Sold by

VARICOCELE CURED
NO NAMES USED WITHOUT WRITTEN CONSENT. Confined to His Home for Weeks.
"Heavy work, severe straining and evil habits in youth brought on a double varicocele. When I worked hard the aching would become severe and I was often laid up for a week at a time. My family physician told me an operation was my only hope but I dreaded it. I tried several specialists, but soon found out all they wanted was my money. I commenced to look upon all doctors as little better than rogues. One day my boss asked me why I was off work so much and I told him my condition. He advised me to consult Drs. Kennedy and Kergan as he had taken treatment from them himself and knew they were square and skillful. He wrote them and got the New Method Treatment for me. My progress was somewhat slow and during the first month a treatment I was somewhat discouraged. However, I continued treatment for three months longer and was rewarded with a complete cure. I could only earn $12 a week in a machine shop before treatment, now I am earning $21 and never use a day. I wish all sufferers knew of your valuable treatment."

Hardest Water.
The Rev. Samuel Peters was the man who made Connecticut's blue laws famous by their publication in his history of that state. In that interesting volume the following original bit of natural history is to be found: "In the Connecticut river, 200 miles from Long Island sound, is a narrow of five yards only, formed by two shelving mountains of solid rock, whose tops intercept the clouds. Through this chasm are compelled to pass all the waters which in the time of floods bury the northern country. Here water is consolidated without frost, by pressure, by swiftness, between the pinching, sturdy rocks to such a degree of induration that an iron crow floats smoothly down its current. Here iron, lead and cork have one common weight; here, steady as time and harder than marble, the stream passes, irresistible if not swift as lightning."

There is nothing so pleasant as that bright, cheerful, at-peace-with-the-world feeling when you sit down to your breakfast. There is nothing so conducive to good work and good results. The healthy man with a healthy mind and body is a better fellow, a better workman, a better citizen than the man or woman who is handicapped by some disability, however slight. A slight disorder of the stomach will derange your body, your thoughts and your disposition. Get away from the morbidness and the blues. Keep your stomach in tune and both your brain and body will respond. Little indiscretions of over-eating can be easily corrected and you will be surprised to see how much better man you are. Try a little Kodol For Dyspepsia after your meals.

SUMMER OUTINGS SADDENED BY TRAGIC DEATHS BY ACCIDENTS.

TRAIN KILLED THE BABY

The Drowning of Mrs. Van Orman and Narrow Escape of Husband and Friend—A Mother's Great Grief.

The Babe Was Killed.

While attempting to save the life of her 3-year-old daughter, Mrs. Mary Levi, of Chicago, was badly injured and her 8-months-old child, whom she held in her arms, was killed instantly.

Mrs. Levi, with her husband and children, were resorting at Eastman Springs. They were wandering through the fruit orchards when the eldest daughter climbed up on the track of the interurban railway line, eighty feet in advance of a swiftly moving car.

Mrs. Levi, seeing the approaching car, sprang upon the track with her babe in her arms and attempted to pull her daughter from danger.

She was too late. The heavy car struck the group of three, injuring the babe so that it died in a few moments and badly injuring both Mrs. Levi and her daughter.

The daughter is suffering from a fracture of the skull and may not recover. Mrs. Levi herself is in a less dangerous condition.

Sad Ending of Fishing Trip.

Mrs. Chauncey Van Orman met a tragic death in the waters of Cedar creek, a tributary of the Muskegon river, Friday evening. In the same accident which brought a sad ending to a fishing outing, the woman's husband and a friend, George Richardson, narrowly escaped a like fate. They endured extreme anguish of mind and body before rescued.

The party went up Cedar creek on a fishing trip Thursday. While returning Friday evening, and when about five miles from Muskegon, the boat upset and the occupants were precipitated into the fast running waters. Mrs. Van Orman was quickly drowned.

The husband, who is 68 years of age, managed to fight his way to a small driftwood island in the middle of the creek, where he lay until noon when he was rescued. Richardson, who is 23 years of age, found his way into the marshy swamps which border the creek, in which he wandered until afternoon, when he reached the outskirts of the city, almost crazed.

A rescue party set out in a launch for the scene of the accident, where they found Van Orman, really more dead than alive.

Mrs. Van Orman was 85 years of age. She and her husband lived retired in a humble way.

Bathers Battle.

On the bathing beach, at Muskegon, before several hundred people, a jealous wife belabored a young woman, her supposed rival for her husband's attentions. The husband had been teaching the young woman how to swim, and when she tired he carried her in his arms to the shore. His wife was waiting. A policeman separated them after the young woman's bathing suit had been nearly torn from her.

Three Dry Days.

Law is going to make a Sahara out of Michigan, with many an oasis, for three days in succession so far as the saloons are concerned. A three days drought is certain on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday of the first week of September.

Sunday, saloons are always closed; Monday is Labor day and Tuesday is primary election day in a large portion of the state.

A Sweet Subject.

According to one of the local incorporators of the Michigan Sugar Co., there are other and more important persons interested in the combine whose names do not appear in the articles filed at Lansing. He says the incorporators are merely trustees of the various companies appointed to make the transfer of stock necessary to effect a consolidation of the majority interests.

Remarkable Escape.

Edward Hanlon, aged 10 years, of Port Huron, had a miraculous escape from death Thursday afternoon, when, partially stunned by an electric shock, he fell from an electric light pole, 30 feet, to the ground. He had grasped two wires, carrying 110 volts of electricity. His hands were frightfully burned, the flesh peeling off to the bone in places. One finger of his left hand had to be amputated at the hospital. He is in a serious condition, but will probably recover.

Blind, Penniless and Lost.

Blind and penniless, Joseph Williams is missing from the county home at Menominee. His relatives fear that he wandered away and is dead. He was rendered practically helpless by an accident, but for five years assisted in his family's support by giving gramophone concerts. He was formerly a Canadian woodsman and was hurt in the woods.

Cleveland reports four deaths from heat Wednesday.

A monument is being made by the Monroe Marble works to mark the grave of the late Judge Isaac P. Christiaacy.

Three excursions on the Michigan Central railroad brought nearly 2,000 visitors to the State Agricultural college Thursday.

Mrs. Spitzley, aged 58, wife of Banker Michael Spitzley, of Westphalia, was found dead in bed Thursday. Death was due to apoplexy.

A company playing "Mr. Dooley From Ireland" rang down the curtain because of missiles thrown on the stage by Allegan residents.

One man dead and three prostrated is the result of the jump in temperature in Detroit, Saturday, to the 80's from the 60's and 70's of Thursday.

Lansing Street Railway Co. announces that hereafter only American labor will be employed by them, Italians having proved unsatisfactory.

John M. Caulfield, promoter of the Elkhart, Three Rivers & Kalamazoo Interurban railway, reports he has succeeded in securing the right of way.

Benjamin Randolph, a Lapeer painter, mistook carbolic acid for whisky. He ran to a doctor, who saved his life by pumping him out. His mouth was badly burned.

That Miss Ethel Wade and Arthur Van Bochove, of Kalamazoo, were married at Grand Haven, June 30, was announced Saturday. They confessed to the mother of the bride.

Two daughters of Richard Ayott, living eight miles from Caseville, were struck by lightning Tuesday. Lola, aged 18 years, will recover. A 4-year-old girl will probably die.

Deep water fishing starts September 1. The spring catch was 5,000 packages short. The storm last October destroyed many of the nets and discouraged some of the fishermen.

Miss Anna Belle Hill, of Waco, Tex., sustained a broken collar bone, and had her scalp torn and her body badly bruised by being thrown on a rock pile when her horse ran away. She is a resorter at Omena.

The 14-year-old son of Mrs. John LaPointe, who was kidnaped eight years ago and was given up for dead by his parents, has returned to his mother's home at Dollar Bay. He could tell very little about his disappearance.

Once possessed of $20,000 in cash and 320 acres of land, Daniel B. Ayres was taken to the Jackson county house Saturday. He was well educated, but it is said he lost his money because he was a failure as a farmer.

James Donolcaka, of Muskegon, has been arrested on complaint of his wife. She says he shot twice at her and threatened to wipe out the family. Donolcaka is a Bohemian farmer who brought his family from Chicago several months ago.

The city of Flint expected to lay about seven miles of new water mains this summer, but none will be laid. The pipe factories are tied up with the rush of orders and have informed the city that no shipments will be made here until October 1.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

NEW HEAD OF ORTHODOX JEWS

Philadelphian Honored by Co-Religionists.

Hebrew high school in Philadelphia, is at the head of the Hebrew Talmudic Institute, and is honorary vice president of the Federation of American Zionists.

When Rabbi Bernhard Louis Levinthal was elected to the office of chief rabbi of the entire body of orthodox Jews of the United States he was given as great an honor as it was possible for the Jews of the country to bestow upon him, and it is an honor he had fully earned by his efforts in behalf of the Jewish people.

Rabbi Levinthal is one of the best-known men in Philadelphia, and is respected for his good works by the Christian ministers of that city quite as much as he is by his own people. For the past 15 years he has been the rabbi of the United Orthodox Hebrew congregations of Philadelphia, and the founder of many of the Hebrew institutions of that city. He is founder and vice president of the Orthodox Rabbinical Association of America. Dr. Levinthal was born in Vilna, Russia, in 1866. He is a graduate of the high rabbinical institutes of Kovno and Vilna, and is noted as a man of letters. In 1891 he came to the United States. He is founder and principal of the Poor Nourishment in Grass. Horses, under natural conditions, sleep much less than men and spend far more time every day in eating. There is little nourishment in grass, in proportion to its bulk, and the horse is forced to give so much time to eating that it would be ruinous to human industry if like conditions existed among men.

Her Busy Day.

Dusty and hot from the club train he entered his pretty mountain cottage slowly. "Where is your mother?" he languidly asked the little girl at play in the hall. "Somebody told her an important secret after breakfast this morning," said the child, "and she has been out visiting ever since."

Baseball as a Tonic.

There is no subject talked so much about in this country as baseball. There is nothing that is so much read about. War extras in the days of the rebellion were not more eagerly snatched up than baseball of to-day. It is the daily diet of millions of people who think or talk about little else.

Surprised the Bishop.

It is said that Bishop Whipple, of Minnesota, being held up by a foot pad, said, indignantly, "Sir, I am the bishop of the Protestant Episcopal diocese of Minnesota!" "The devil you are!" replied the robber; "why, that's my church, too!"

Cordial Indorsement.

Dear Doctor: Enclosed find cheque for professional services rendered by you to my late uncle. I thank you for your zeal in the matter and shall not fail to recommend you to all my other wealthy relatives.—Meggen dorfer Blatter.

A Daily Thought.

One must have been preoccupied for years by a work, by an idea, to appreciate the importance which a man attaches to his work, a painter to his picture, a poet to an idea, a man of science to a discovery.—Mme. Emile de Girardin.

Nature's Wise Provision.

Every year a layer of the entire sea 14 feet thick, is taken up into the clouds; the winds bear their burden into the land and the water comes down in rain upon the fields, to flow back through rivers.

Bank Notes Have Short Lives.

An official estimate of the life of Bank of England notes is from ten to 60 days. They are retired and replaced as soon as they become soiled and worn, if the bank can get possession of them.

ing the Turkish war by daring torpedo-boat attacks that paralyzed the sultan's monitors. Skrydlorf was born in 1844. He wears the cross of St. George for his heroism on the Danube.

The Russian navy has figured more prominently in the internal disturbances of that country than the army. This is especially true of the sailors of the Black sea fleet who have within the past few months taken extreme measures to aid the revolutionists ashore, and the red flag of anarchy has been hoisted at more than one Russian masthead. Now the czar proposes if possible to squelch this spirit of rebellion among his sailors and has assigned Admiral Nicholas Skrydlorf to the command of the Black sea fleet, giving to him special powers to restore order and maintain discipline.

Admiral Skrydlorf has been a conspicuous figure in the Russian navy for a number of years. During the war with Japan he was sent East to that naval command at Port Arthur after the death of Makaroff, but was unable to reach that place, and during the Japanese war spent most of his time at Vladivostok. He is known as the "bulldog admiral," and distinguished himself during the Turkish war by daring torpedo-boat attacks that paralyzed the sultan's monitors. He also took part in the pacification of Crete, commanded the Russian Pacific squadron in the operations against the Boxers, and represented the Russian navy at the diamond jubilee of Queen Victoria. Skrydlorf was born in 1844. He wears the cross of St. George for his heroism on the Danube.

Changes at Fort Riley.

Fort Riley.—Six companies of the militia of South Dakota and the Eleventh cavalry arrived Sunday to attend the army maneuvers. The Arkansas regiment left for home after a week's stay at camp.

Leavenworth, Kan.—Dr. W. R. Van Guy, who served in the Philippines as a surgeon in the United States army during the Spanish-American war, died of heart disease at his home here Sunday, aged 42 years.

"Those who knew her best said it was a warning to be heeded in Miss Virginia Carteret when her eyes were downcast and her voice sank to its softest cadence.

"Why, certainly; how simple!" she said, taking her cousin's arm again; and the secretary went in to set the wires at work in Winton's affair.

Now Miss Carteret was a woman in every fiber of her, but among her gifts she might have counted some that were, to say the least, super-feminine. One of these was a measure of discretion which would have been fairly creditable in a past master of diplomacy.

So, while the sympathetic part of her was crying out for a chance to talk Winton's threatened danger over with some one, she lent herself outwardly to the Reverend Billy's mood—which was one of scenic enthusiasm; this without prejudice to a growing determination to intervene in behalf of fair play for Winton if she could find a way.

But the way obstinately refused to discover itself. The simple thing to do would be to appeal to her uncle's sense of justice. It was not like him to fight with ignoble weapons, she thought, and a tactful word in season might make him recall the order to the superintendent. But she could not make the appeal without betraying Jastrow. She knew well enough that the secretary had no right to show her the telegrams; knew also that Mr. Somerville Darrah's first word would be a demand to know how she had learned the company's business secrets. Regarding Jastrow as little as a high-bred young woman to whom sentiment is as the breath of life can regard a man who is quite devoid of it, she was still far enough from the thought of effacing him.

To this expedient there was an unhelpful alternative: namely, the sending, by the Reverend Billy, or, in the last resort, by herself, of a warning message to Winton. But there were obstacles seemingly insuperable. She had not the faintest notion of how such a warning should be addressed; and again, the operator at Argentine was a Colorado & Grand River employe, doubtless loyal to his salt, in which case the warning message would never get beyond his waste basket.

"Getting too chilly for you out here?—want to go in?" asked the Reverend Billy, when the scenic enthusiasm began to outwear itself.

"No; but I am tired of the sentry-go part of it—ten steps and a turn," she confessed. "Can't we walk on the track a little way?"

Calvert saw no reason why they might not, and accordingly helped her over to the snow-encrusted path between the rails.

"We can trot down and have a look at their construction camp, if you like," he suggested, and thitherward they went.

There was not much to see, after all, as the Reverend Billy remarked when they had reached a coign of vantage below the curve. A string of use-worn bunk cars; a "dinkey" caboose serving as the home on wheels of the chief of construction and his assistant; a crooked siding with a gang of dark-skinned laborers at work unloading a car of steel. These in the immediate foreground; and a little way apart, perched high enough on the steep slope of the mountain side to be out of the camp turmoil, a small structure, half plank and half canvas—to wit, the end-of-track telegraph office.

It was Virginia who first marked the boxed-up tent standing on the slope.

"What do you suppose that little house-tent is for?" she asked.

"I don't know," said Calvert. Then he saw the wires and ventured a guess which hit the mark.

"I didn't suppose they would have a telegraph office," she commented, with hope rising again.

"Oh, yes; they'd have to have a wire; one of their own. Under the circumstances they could hardly use ours."

"No," she rejoined, absently. She was scanning the group of steel handlers in the hope that a young man as a billy-cock hat and with a cigar in his mouth would shortly reveal himself.

She found him after a time and turned quickly to her cousin.

"There is Mr. Adams down there by the engine. Do you think he would come over and speak to us if he knew we were here?"

The Reverend Billy's smile was of honest admiration.

"How could you doubt it? Wait here a minute and I'll call him for you."

He was gone before she could reply—across the ice bridge spanning one of the pools, and up the rough, frozen embankment of the new line. There were armed guards here, too, as well as at the front, and one of them halted him at the picket line. But Adams saw and recognized him, and presently the two were crossing to where Virginia stood waiting.

"Eheu! what a little world we live in, Miss Virginia! Who would have thought of meeting you here?" said the technologist, taking her hand at the precise elevation prescribed by good form—Boston good form.

"The shock is mutual," she laughed. "I must say that you and Mr. Winton have chosen a highly unconventional environment for your sketching field."

"I'm down," he admitted, cheerfully; "please don't trample on me. But really, it wasn't all fib. Jack does do things with a pencil—other things besides maps and working profiles, I mean. Won't you come over and let

of the rails from the car to the benches; took her up into the cab of the big "octopod" locomotive; gave her a chance to peep into the camp kitchen car; and concluded by handing her up the steps of the "dinkey."

"Oh, how comfortable!" she exclaimed, when he had shown her all the space-saving contrivances of the field office. "And this is where you and Mr. Winton work?"

"It is where we eat and sleep," corrected Adams. "And speaking of eating: it is hopelessly the wrong end of the day—or it would be in Boston—but our Chinaman won't know the difference. Let me have him make you a dish of tea," and the order was given before she could protest.

"While we are waiting on Ah Foo I'll show you some of Jack's sketches," he went on, finding a portfolio and opening it upon the portboard.

"Are you quite sure Mr. Winton won't mind?" she asked.

"Mind? He'd give a month's pay to be here to show them himself. He is peacock vain of his one small accomplishment, Winton is—bores me to death with it sometimes."

"Really?" was the mocking rejoinder, and they began to look at the sketches.

They were heads, most of them, impressionistic studies in pencil or pastel, with now and then a pen-and-ink bearing evidence of more painstaking after-work. They were made on bits of map paper, the backs of old letters, and not a few on leaves torn from an engineer's note book.

"They don't count for much in an artistic way," said Adams, with the brutal frankness of a friendly critic, "but they will serve to show you that portrayed; a sketch setting forth in a few vigorous strokes of the pencil the impressionist's ideal of the "goddess fresh from the bath."

"By Jove," exclaimed Adams, when he could find the word for his surprise. Then he tried to turn it off lightly. "There is a good bit more of the artist in Jack than I have been giving him credit for. Don't you know, he must have got the notion for that between two half-seconds—when you recognized me on the platform at Kansas City. It's wonderful!"

"So very wonderful that I think I shall keep it," she rejoined, not without a touch of austerity. Then she added: "Mr. Winton will probably never miss it. If he does, you will have to explain the best way you can." And Adams could only say "By Jove," again, and busy himself with pouring the tea which Ah Foo had brought in.

In the nature of things the tea-drinking in the stuffy "dinkey" drawing-room was not prolonged. Time was flying. Virginia's errand of mercy was not yet accomplished, and Aunt Martha in her capacity of anxious chaperon was not to be forgotten. Also, Miss Carteret had a feeling that under his well-bred exterior Mr. Morton P. Adams was chafing like any barbarian industry captain at this unwarrantable intrusion and interruption.

So presently they all forthfared into the sun-bright, snow-blinding outdoor world, and Virginia gathered up her courage and took her dilemma by the horns.

"I believe I have seen everything now except that tent-plate up there," she asserted, groping purposefully for her opening.

Adams called up another smile of acquiescence. "That is our telegraph office. Would you care to see it?" The technologist was of those who shirk all or shirk nothing.

"I don't know why I should care to, but I do," she replied, with charming and childlike willfulness; so the three of them trudged up the slippery path to the operator's den on the slope.

Not to evade his hospitable duty in any part, Adams explained the use and need of a "front" wire, and Miss Carteret was properly interested.

"How convenient!" she commented. "And you can come up here and talk to anybody you like—just as if it were a telephone?"

"To anyone in the company's service," amended Adams. "It is not a commercial wire."

"Then let us send a message to Mr. Winton," she suggested, playing the part of the capricious ingenue to the very upcast of a pair of mischievous eyes. "I'll write it and you may sign it."

Adams stretched his complaisance the necessary additional inch and gave her a pencil and a pad of blanks. She wrote rapidly:

"Miss Carteret has been here admiring your drawings. She took one of them away with her, and I couldn't stop her without being rude. You shouldn't have done it without asking her permission. She says—"

"Oh, dear! I am making it awfully long. Does it cost so much a word?"

"No," said Adams, not without an effort. He was beginning to be distinctly disappointed in Miss Virginia, and was wondering in the inner depths of his mind what piece of girlish frivolity he was expected to sign and send to his chief. Meanwhile she went on writing:

"I am to tell you not to get into any fresh trouble—not to let anyone else get you into trouble; by which I infer she means that some attempt will be made to keep you from returning on the evening train."

"There, can you send all that?" she asked, sweetly, giving the pad to the technologist.

Adams read the first part of the letter-length telegram with inward groanings, but the generous purpose of it struck him like a whip blow when he came to the thinly veiled warning. Also it shamed him for his unworthy judgment of Virginia.

"I thank you very heartily, Miss Carteret," he said, humbly. "It shall be sent word for word." Then, for the Reverend William's benefit: "Winton deserves all sorts of a snubbing for taking liberties with your portrait. I'll see that he gets more of it when he comes back."

"CAN YOU SEND ALL THAT?"

me do the honors of the stud?" with a grandiloquent arm-sweep meant to include the construction camp in general and the "dinkey" caboose in particular.

It was the invitation she would have angled for, but she was too wise to assent too readily.

"Oh, no; I think we mustn't. I'm afraid Mr. Winton might not like it."

"Not like it? If you'll come he'll never forgive himself for not being here to 'shoot up' the camp for you in person. He is away, you know; gone to Carbonate for the day."

"Ought we to go, Cousin Billy?" she asked, shifting, not the decision, but the responsibility for it, to broader shoulders.

"Why not, if you care to?" said the athlete, to whom right-of-way fights were mere matters of business in no wise conflicting with the social ameliorations.

Virginia hesitated. There was a thing to be said to Mr. Adams, and that without delay; but how could she say it with her cousin standing by to make an impossible trio out of any attempted duet confidential? A willingness to see that Winton had fair play need not carry with it an open desertion to the enemy. She must not forget to be loyal to her salt; and, besides, Mr. Somerville Darrah's righteous indignation was not lightly to be ignored.

But the upshot of the hesitant pause was a decision to brave the consequences—all of them; so she took Calvert's arm for the slippery crossing of the ice bridge.

Once on his own domain, Adams did the honors of the camp as thoroughly and conscientiously as if the hour held no care heavier than the entertainment of Miss Virginia Carteret. He explained the system under which the material was kept moving forward to the ever-advancing front; let her watch the rhythmic swing and slide

I wasn't all kinds of an embroiderer when I was telling you about Winton's proclivities the other day."

"I shouldn't apologize for that, if I were you," she retorted. "It is well past apology, don't you think?" And then: "What is this one?"

They had come to the last of the sketches, which was a rude map. It was penciled on the leaf of a memorandum, and Adams recognized it as the outline Winton had made and used in explaining the right-of-way entanglement.

"It is a map," he said, "one that Jack drew day before yesterday when he was trying to make me understand the situation up here. I wonder why he kept it? Is there anything on the other side?"

She turned the leaf, and they both went speechless for the moment. The reverse of the scrap of cross-ruled paper held a very fair likeness of a face which Virginia's mirror had oftener

POWERFUL CLEANSER

When anyone suggested to Mrs. Herlthy that the extreme whiteness of the clothes which she washed was due to anything besides her exertions, Mrs. Herlthy took fire at once.

"It's the wurrk o' me hands and me arms and me elbows that does it!" she cried, indignantly. "I use all me strength on thim clothes, and I'm as wake as a rag whin they're done. Soap an' water is all I take to 'em, barrin' the laste little bit of a lovely washing-powder that just puts the last touch to 'em."

"Are ye sure it's only a little bit you're using?" asked the prying neighbor in a dubious tone.

"Am I sure?" said the wrath of Mrs. Herlthy flamed again. "An' why wouldn't I be sure whin I used a bit more I'd ate the nails right off me fingers!"—Youth's Companion.

Build Road for Princess' Benefit.

Old Khedive Ismail's expensive compliment to the then Empress Eugenie 36 years ago—the construction of a fine carriage road from Cairo to the pyramids and the Sphinx of Gizeh so that she might drive instead of riding a donkey—has been copied by the present khedival government for the princess of Wales. For her carriage road has been built from Bedrasheen to the pyramids and ruins at Sakkara. This road, like the one made for the empress of the French, will be serviceable to ordinary tourists henceforth. There is even a trolley line from Cairo to Gizeh.

CHAOS RULES IN CITY

REFUGEES IN VALPARAISO, CHILI, FIGHT FOR FOOD.

SUPPLIES INSUFFICIENT.

Cemeteries Destroyed and Authorities Unable to Bury Victims—Town of Quillota Sinks Out of Sight.

Valparaiso.—Chaos rules in Valparaiso and martial law is unable to keep order. The scores of thousands of homeless, famine-stricken refugees fight in the streets for food.

The army and navy officers are working heroically to bring order out of chaos, but they are fearfully handicapped.

The injured are still without adequate medical care, in spite of the tireless energy of army, naval and private surgeons and nurses.

Food supplies are insufficient, but are increasing. The minister of the interior has ordered all ships in Chilean ports to proceed to Valparaiso with food and bring away refugees. A regular relief service has been established. Cattle shipments are on the way. Frontier train service has been established from Talca. Supplies of meat and milk are arriving regularly but not in quantities sufficient to prevent hunger.

Estimates of the number of dead still remain between 3,000 and 5,000. Twenty-eight bodies were found Wednesday under the stairway of the telegraph office.

Meat and Bread Scarce. Meat and bread are scarce. Meat is now being distributed by the authorities. The grocers' shops that were not destroyed by the earthquake are now nearly out of stock. Canned meats, sardines, condensed milk and biscuits are much needed.

As a first installment the government has appropriated $4,000,000 for the relief of the destitute.

One of the greatest difficulties encountered by the authorities is the interment of the bodies recovered from the ruins, as all the cemeteries were destroyed. At the various temporary morgues heaps of coffins have accumulated, awaiting the designation of their place of burial. The work of recovering the bodies is being pushed to the utmost in order to avoid an epidemic.

The total number of corpses buried up to Tuesday, August 21, was 648.

The main post office has been reopened.

Every Wall Ruined.

At Llai Llai there is not a single wall in good condition. There were 30 persons killed there.

At Cabildo the railroad station was damaged.

At Quillota many buildings were prostrated.

The earthquake was severe at Concon and Colmo. The dead in those places number 25.

The work of bringing order out of chaos is progressing rapidly and the telephone and telegraph lines have been restored to Santiago. The postal system is in working order and mail is being delivered regularly.

Electric cars already are running between Baron station and Recreo, and probably the operation of cars will be extended to Vina del Mar.

A movement is on foot to organize a company to facilitate the raising of the money necessary to reconstruct the city. It is proposed to advance the sums needed without interest for the first six months. The plan is to construct the new buildings of light materials and to lay out the streets so that they will have a uniform width of 20 meters.

The department of public works at Santiago has appropriated $100,000 for the construction of sheds to shelter the refugees from Valparaiso and elsewhere who continue to arrive there.

Earth Swallows 10,000.

Lima.—It is reported that Quillota, a city of 10,000 population, about 30 miles from Valparaiso, has sunk entirely from sight and that less than 100 of the inhabitants escaped.

Two Dead in Wreck.

Bristol, Va.—As a result of a wash-out a freight train on the Virginia & Southwestern railway ran off a trestle at Moecasin river at two o'clock Friday morning and the engine and eight cars loaded with coal were plunged into the river and two persons were killed.

Three Steel Workers Killed.

Pittsburg, Pa.—Three men are dead, two are in a serious condition and nine others were rendered unconscious by a blow-out of accumulated gas early Tuesday morning at the Eliza furnaces of the Jones & Laughlins Steel company, at Soho, this city.

Wants Boycotters Suppressed.

Hongkong.—The American consul general has sent a dispatch to the viceroy of Canton requesting him to suppress the Boycott association for the hindrance of American commerce.
