They are now opening up a studio in Detroit.

The Fair a Success

The annual Cong'l fair closed Saturday evening after a couple of days run. Their suppers each evening were the usual bounteous affairs and were very popular. No one went away hungry. Saturday evening was the regular chicken pie supper and all were fed, still they had pies left.

The different booths were tastefully arranged and full of pretty and useful articles, which sold readily. In the vegetable booth there were many fine samples of fruits, potatoes, cabbage, squash, etc., contributed by different people and a pumpkin donated by J. O. Mackinder that weighed 59½ pounds—it was a "whopper."

The "educated goose" was a great attraction and made some money for the society.

The fair was not quite as much of a success financially as last year but it was a pleasant affair and a success in every particular, and the society took in $235.

M. E. Church Notes.

The first Sunday of the conference year opened up with a rousing sermon and a large audience, nearly every chair being taken. There were more out than generally come out to "hear the new preacher." Rev. Littlejohn seemed as glad to get back to the work as the people were to have him and the work starts out very encouragingly. Let every member do their best and the year will be ore long to be remembered.

It was a pleasure to welcome so many from the Lakin neighborhood at the morning service and have them remain to Sunday school—in union there is strength. Come often and our mingling together will do us all good—we need each other.

The Sunday school started out with new vigor and we expect doin's from that branch of the church in the next few months. The first Sunday of each month is known as "missionary day" and the collection Sunday amounted to nearly $2.50. This is a good start for the year.

After considering the matter thoroughly it has been decided not to change the hour of prayer meeting as announced last Sunday but to hold it the same as before, at 7:30. Last week the prayer meeting was largely attended and an interesting and profitable meeting was the result. Everyone present felt it was good to be there and those absent missed a blessing. Come out tonight at 7:30.

Services next Sunday as usual with special music and a stirring sermon.

Assessment No. 87 of the LOTMM is now due and must be paid before Oct. 31. ADDIE J. PLACEWAY, F. K.

Congregational Church.

The pastor preached to appreciative audiences both morning and evening last Sunday.

The evening hour of worship will be decided next Sunday morning.

The friends who did so much to contribute to the success of the bazaar have our most profound thanks. The pastor desires to thank all who have in any way contributed to his support the past year, and affectionately solicits their continued interest in behalf of the cause.

The "Ten Virgins" is the subject of the Sunday school lesson for the 14th October. The superintendent invites all members and friends to support him in his efforts to promote the welfare of the school.

Usual preaching services next Sunday at 10:30, also evening at 7:30. Everybody most welcome.

MICHIGAN EVENTS NOTED

THE TROUBLE IN THE MINING DISTRICT BECOMING SOMEWHAT SERIOUS.

THREATEN A WALKOUT

The Whole Question Arises Over Chain Mining, Which Changes All Conditions.

Statements made Friday by miners and operators show the trouble in the Michigan district to be more serious than was believed Thursday, when the first joint conference adjourned without success to meet again Saturday morning in Bay City.

The introduction of chain mining, which requires more drilling, is objected to by the men under the present scale. They say it completely changes mining conditions. The operators, on their part, say the scale provides for chain mining, as well as punch, and they favor the former because it is cheaper and is operated by electricity, while punches are run by compressed air and are always getting out of order. The miners prefer the punch because it requires but one drill hole.

Inasmuch as the chain mining is being introduced in nearly all Michigan mines, if the question is not settled Saturday, it may result in a temporary suspension of mining in the Michigan district, pending the appeal of the controversy to the national body. Friday both bodies adopted an unyielding attitude.

Niles Bank Wins Suit.

The United States circuit court, in St. Louis, Mo., has awarded George C. Rankin, receiver for the First National bank of Niles, Mich., a verdict of $8,915 against the New York Life Insurance Co., on policies held by the late George H. Kimmel, former cashier of the Farmers' State bank of Arkansas City, Kas. Kimmel's strange disappearance in 1898 and the costly search instituted for him by Charles A. Johnson, his uncle, president of the Niles bank, together with premiums Johnson paid on Kimmel's life insurance, resulted in the wrecking of the bank. It is said Johnson used the depositor's money for these purposes. Johnson is now serving a 10 years' term in the Detroit house of correction. The money will be apportioned among the depositors of the Niles bank, who have already been paid 85 cents on the dollar.

Families Are Unfortunate.

Residents on east Maple street, Mason, who live in the same block, are beginning to think themselves the object of a particularly adverse fate. The family of Solon Neely are prostrated by the tragic end of their son, Clare, a popular young man of that place, who was crushed to death Monday by an elevator in Mercy hospital, Bay City. The family of Geo. Webb are mourning the death of Mrs. Webb's mother, Mrs. Shattuck, aged 79, a pioneer of Ingham county. Frank McEuen, ex-sheriff of Ingham county, fell from an apple tree on his farm on the same day as the other two events and crushed a shoulder and broke three ribs. He now lies in a critical condition at the home of a neighbor.

Near Jail Delivery.

The Kalamazoo jail is surrounded by deputy sheriffs every night, each armed with a rifle. They will continue to guard the jail until Walter Smith, slayer of 17-year-old Goldie Moss, is removed. These guards were placed when Sheriff Shean received a tip that Chicago pals of Smith were in the city, planning to secure the release of the prisoner. Smith is alleged to be one of the most desperate negroes in Chicago. Chicago negroes have been here a number of times to see Smith and have spent considerable time with him. They have learned the interior of the jail.

Continued Increase.

The increase in the earnings of Michigan railroads is continuous. Every month shows larger earnings than the corresponding month of the previous year. During August, according to a report issued by Railroad Commissioner Atwood the earnings of Michigan railroads were $5,216,823.98. This is $306,904 more than was earned during the month of August one year ago, and is probably the largest amount of earnings ever reported for a single month. Up to September 1 the railroads of Michigan had this year earned $35,887,600, which is over $3,100,000 more than was earned in the same period last year.

Wife Was Shrewd.

Mrs. Rose Vamrie, of Detroit, came to an agreement with her husband by which he was to pay her a certain amount weekly, but she alleges he is behind $160. She learned he had been arrested on a charge of carrying concealed weapons, and immediately garnished the money and the gold watch taken from him by the police. The police department made a disclosure to Justice Ott Thursday that there was over $33 found on the man. Justice Ott laid the case over for further consideration.

William Gray, Bay City, machinist, aged 53, fell down a stairway to the ground and was instantly killed.

MICHIGAN IN BRIEF.

Forty Ithaca business men entertained the Saginaw wholesale junketers while there Wednesday.

Many petty burglaries are alleged to have been committed by James Hiscox, aged 27, arrested in Fenton.

Nearly 3,000 more arrests were made by Detroit police last year than were made the year before, when there were 8,857.

Gov. Warner has been invited to participate in the campaign in Illinois and Ohio, but he will be unable to accept.

Joe Hiscox, of Fenton, arrested on the charge of petty burglaries, drank poison in the jail, but a physician saved his life.

John Watson, aged 73, watchman on the Grand Trunk at Grand Haven for 25 years, and for 40 years an employe of the road, died Wednesday.

Gelston Poole, a Pontiac lad, fell from a hickory tree to the ground, fracturing his hip and biting his tongue nearly in two.

Jewish citizens of Battle Creek are organizing a church, expecting to have a share of the services of Rabbi Jesselson, of Grand Rapids.

It is probable that Deputy Collector of Internal Revenue Charles Phillips will be appointed quartermaster of the Grand Rapids Soldiers' home.

Miss Viga Feuch, aged 16, of Menominee, one of those injured in the collapse of the footbridge at Oconto Falls, is dead. In all, two are dead and twenty-eight injured.

Maxim Gorky and his wife, Madam Andrews, arrived at the Soo, Saturday, on the steamer Juniata on a pleasure trip, accompanied by their interpreter. They wouldn't talk.

A story reaches Battle Creek from Brantford, Ont., that W. G. Sands, a former employe of the Advance Thrasher shops, has been left an estate valued at nearly $400,000, by his grandfather.

Fire in the warehouse of William Curtis and at Guirich Bros.' grocery store simultaneously at 1 o'clock Saturday morning did $1,000 damage. Circumstances indicate that both fires were incendiary.

Ida Cokeen, who took the place of her sister in the asylum in Traverse City as stenographer, her sister being ill with typhoid fever, died at the asylum Tuesday from the same disease. The sister is reported as doing nicely.

Miss Madelon Paterson, daughter of ex-Mayor W. A. Paterson, of Flint, was attacked by a ruffian while returning home from a call last night. She screamed, broke away and ran to the home of ex-Mayor D. D. Aitken for refuge.

S. A. Baker, of Kansas City, Mo., 56 years ago delivered an address on education in representative hall to the Michigan legislators. He has just written for a copy of the speech. It was found among the state records. Baker is now 92 years old.

"I am going to die within the next week," said Mrs. Gilbert Dellsie, of Flint, to her husband. On the following day she was dead. She had tuberculosis. Saturday afternoon her little six months' old daughter died from an attack of cholera infantum.

Two months ago Minor Wells, a farmer of Excelsior township, gave a dog to some friends visiting from southern Michigan. They took the animal as far as Howard City, where he escaped, and nothing more was seen of him until he appeared at his old home.

Robert Wilkinson, a prominent farmer living near Flint, was in a local saloon and broke his leg in a peculiar manner. He turned to walk to the bar, when the bones in his lower right leg snapped like a pipe stem. To necrosis of the bone is attributed the strange fracture.

Mrs. Mary A. Barnhart, of Schoolcraft, has received word from Gov. Pack, of the Philippines, that the remains of her son, Percy C. Wager, who was treasurer of the island of Negros, had been buried there on account of an epidemic of cholera, from which disease it is thought he died.

Timothy Shane, who says he is on his way from New York to Traverse City, went into the Grand Rapids police station white with fright. He talked of being pursued by two men, who were trying to put him in a coffin. He was put on a train to Traverse City and a telegram sent to his brother.

Delia Keller, sent from Mackinac county to Jackson prison for from one to three years, has been ordered transferred to the Detroit house of correction. Judges frequently send women convicted of crime to Jackson, three such cases having occurred within three months. There are no accommodations at Jackson or Ionia for women.

William F. Notely, the first president of the First National bank of Vicksburg, has sued the bank for $1,000 salary while he acted as president. He says when a new president was elected he was given no money for what he had done for the bank. He was re-elected president in January. Because of offending the directors he was discharged.

Martin Berg, an employe in a Saginaw tannery, was the victim of a serious accident Saturday morning, necessitating amputation of the right arm above the elbow. Berg, who is 40 years of age, was working at one of the machines which strip the hair, when his arm was caught in the machinery and before it could be stopped the member was terribly lacerated.

The "Rector of Wall Street"

New York Financiers Converted by Wave of Religion—Big Pay Roll of City—Countess de Rilly Seeks Divorce—Big Bare Completed—Other Interesting News.

NEW YORK.—With the remarkable achievement of having converted Wall street to his credit, Rev. William Wilkinson, street preacher, has ended his labors in the financial district, and will seek other fields for his evangelistic labors. While few have suspected the reformation that was going on among the men who promote trusts, water stocks and strip the fleece from the gulleless lamb, it is said confidently that the work has been thorough and that Wall street has resolved to go and sin no more.

Men of millions as well as clerks, messenger boys and truckmen, went to old Trinity church to say farewell to Rev. Mr. Wilkinson, who has gained the title of "Rector of Wall Street," and he closed there one of the most remarkable missions ever known in New York or anywhere else.

For five days a week Rev. Mr. Wilkinson, who often calls himself plain "Wilkinson," has stood at the noon hour in front of the custom-house and those of every station in life have stopped in the midst of the temples of Mammon to listen to him. Bankers, brokers and merchants have sought him out after his services and have invited the evangelist of the street to their homes. They have taken him to luncheon, offered him the use of their offices and have done everything possible to help him.

Chief among those who have accorded recognition to the missionary is James Stillman, the president of the National City bank and one of the leaders of finance.

Following the lead of Mr. Stillman, others in the street did all they could to accord to the evangelist recognition and support. Hundreds of those prominent in the commercial and the financial worlds, now count themselves his parishioners. Protestants, Roman Catholics and Jews are all the same to him, and on his "attendance committee" the "Rector of Wall Street" has representatives of all races and all creeds.

Few who saw Rev. Mr. Wilkinson begin his missionary labors in the street would have believed that he would have obtained such a following. Those who are familiar with evangelistic work thought that he could not have chosen a less promising field, but in less than a week he had all Wall street listening to him. There is nothing of the hackneyed revivalist in his methods of preaching, and all his appeals were directed to reason and to the higher ideals of men.

CITY PAYS MILLIONS TO EMPLOYES.

The city of New York has 60,948 employes on its pay roll. The total pay roll is $57,068,253.13. This fact appears from a report submitted to the board of estimate by the commission named by the mayor early in the year to reclassify and regrade all the employes in the city departments. The commission was composed of Joseph Haag, secretary of the board, and the various secretaries of the members of the board of estimate.

The report of the commission shows that the slackest sort of methods prevail in the establishing of titles and in the correspondence of the titles to the civil service regulations. The commission reports that the same position and grades have been created by the same departments several times since January 1, 1902, and that the titles created do not in many instances correspond exactly with the titles used in the civil service regulation, thereby creating much confusion.

Different salaries are being paid to persons holding the same title and performing the same grade of work. A general reclassification and regarding of the places of all departments is recommended, one of these being a chemist for the finance department at $3,000 a year. The corporation counsel sends a first assistant at $12,000 a year, four assistants at $10,000 a year, two junior assistants at $2,550 and two at $2,250. The commissioners of accounts want a chief engineer at $6,000 and an examining engineer at $3,500.

Anise Seed Cordial.
Anise seed cordial, which is often taken as a stomacher, is not a distilled spirit, but is made by flavoring a weak spirit with anise seed, coriander and sweet fennel seed. Coriander has an agreeable aromatic smell and a sweetish aromatic taste. It is the essential ingredient of the cordial, which is sweetened with clarified sirup or refined sugar.

The Way Back to the Land.
There is only one way to get the people back to the land, that is to lay the road open for agricultural prosperity, coax capital back into it, to do which an impert duty on corn is the vital factor. Capital will only go where there is profit or remuneration for its service, and the long and short of it is that agriculture in England cannot prosper under existing conditions.—London Magazine of Commerce.

A Cautious Scotswoman.
Thirty-one years ago a woman named Robertson purchased a ticket for Canada in Glasgow. For some feminine reason or other she changed her mind, but carefully preserved the ticket. A few days ago it was presented at one of the offices of the Allen line and duly honored, the company issuing an equivalent new ticket, and retaining the old one as a curiosity.

Same as Christians.
I started to talk with my friend, and had got quite well along with what I had to say when one of the old women must have heard some of my remarks, for I heard her say: "Ann, don't talk so loud; that's a lawyer over there, and they have eyes and can see, and ears and can hear, just the same as we Christians do."—N. Y. Sun.

Love and Friendship.
To feed love there must be a difference of tastes and opinions; there must be little sufferings, forgiveness, tears, all that may excite sympathy and awaken daily solicitude. Friendship is more happy, more peaceful; it is a refuge against all the ills of life, it is a consolation for all sufferings.—Marie Capelle.

Horrible Thought.
Mosquitoes grow to great size in Burma. A young Scotch woman who was making her first visit to that country had heard travelers' tales of the insect pest and was prepared for the worst. When she saw an elephant for the first time she said: "Will you be what's called a musketeer?"

A FOOL FOR LOVE

By FRANCIS LYNDE

AUTHOR OF "THE GRAPERS," ETC.

(Copyright, 1908, by J. F. Lippincott Co.)

But in the days that followed, days in which the sun rose and set in cloudless winter splendor and the heavy snows still held aloof, Adams' prediction wrought itself out into sober fact. After the single appeal to force, Mr. Darrah seemed to have given up the fight. None the less, the departure of the Rosemary was delayed, and its hospitable door was always open to the Utah chief of construction and his assistant.

Winton took his welcome broadly, as what lover would not; and within a week was spending most of his evenings in the Rosemary—this at a time when every waking moment of the day and night was deeply mortgaged to the chance of success. For now that the Rajah had withdrawn his opposition, nature and the perversity of inanimate things had taken a hand, and for a fortnight the work of track-laying paused fairly within sight of the station at Argentine.

First it was a carload of steel accidentally derailed and dumped into Quartz creek at precisely the worst possible point in the lower canyon, a jagged, rock-ribbed, cliff-bound gorge where each separate piece of metal had to be hoisted out singly by a derrick erected for the purpose—a process which effectually blocked the track for three entire days. Next it was another landslide (unhelped by dynamite, this) just above the station, a crawling cataract of loose, sliding shale which, painstakingly dug out and dammed with plank bulkhead during the day, would pour down and bury bulkhead, buttresses, and the very right of way in the night.

In his right mind—the mind of an ambitious young captain of industry who sees defeat with dishonor staring him in the face—Winton would have fought all the more desperately for these hindrances. But, unfortunately, he was no longer an industry captain with an eye single to success. He was become that anomaly despised of the working world—a man in love. "It's no use shutting our eyes to the fact, Jack," said Adams one evening when his chief was making ready for his regular descent upon the Rosemary. "We shall have to put night shifts at work on that shale-slide if we hope ever to get past it with the shale."

"Hang the shale!" was the impatient rejoinder. "I'm no galley slave." Adams' slow smile came and went in cynical ripplings.

"It is pretty difficult to say precisely what you are just now. But I can prophesy what you are going to be if you don't wake up and come alive." Having no reply to this, Adams went back to the matter of night shifts.

"If you will authorize it, I'll put a night gang on and boss it myself. What do you say?"

"I say you are no end of a good fellow, Morty. And that's the plain fact. I'll do as much for you sometime."

"I'll be smashed if you will—you'll never get the chance. When I let a pretty girl make a fool of me—"

But the door of the dinkey slammed behind the outgoing one, and the prophet of evil was left to organize his night assault on the shale-slide, and to command it as best he could.

So, as we say, the days of stubborn hold with the enthusiasm taken out, slipped away unfruitful. Of the entire Utah force Adams alone held himself up to the mark, and being only second in command, he was unable to keep the bad example of the chief from working like a leaven of inertness among the men. Branagan voiced the situation in rich brogue one evening when Adams had exhausted his limited vocabulary of abuse on the force for its apathy.

"It's no use, ava, Misher Adams. If you was the boss himself 'twould be you as would put the comether on 'em too quick. But it's 'like masher, like mon.' The boys all know that Misher Winton don't care a damn; and they'll not be hurtin' themselves and the wurk."

And the Rajah? Between his times smoking high-priced cigars with Winton in the lounging-room of the Rosemary, he was swearing Jubilate in the privacy of his working-den dateroom, having tri-daily reports wired to him by way of Carapate and Argentine station, and chattering himself in the intervals with sending and receiving sundry mysterious telegrams in cipher.

Thus Mr. Somerville Darrah, all going well for him until one fateful morning when he made the mistake of congratulating his ally. Then—but we picture the scene: Mr. Darrah late to his breakfast, being just in from an early morning reconnaissance of the enemy's advancements; Virginia sitting opposite to pour his coffee. All the others vanished to some limbo of their own.

The Rajah rubbed his hands delightedly:

"We are coming on famously, famously, my dear Virginia. Two weeks gone, heavy snows predicted for the mountain region, and nothing, practically nothing at all, accomplished on the other side of the canyon. When you marry, my dear, you shall have a block of C. & G. R. preferred stock to keep you in pin-money."

"I?" she queried. "But, Uncle Somerville, I don't understand—"

The Rajah laughed.

"That was a very pretty blush, my dear, when you were coming again that evening. He must be stopped and sent about his business."

So she wrote him a note, telling him he must not come—a note man-like in its conciseness, and yet most womanly in its failure to give even the remotest hint of the new and binding reason why he must not come. And just before luncheon an obliging Cousin Billy was prevailed upon to undertake its delivery.

When he had found Winton at the shale-slide, and had given him Miss Carteret's mandate, the Reverend Billy did not return directly to the Rosemary. On the contrary, he extended his tramp westward, stumbling on aimlessly up the canyon over the un-surfaced embankment of the new line.

Truth to tell, Virginia's messenger was not unwilling to spend a little time alone with the immensities. To put it baldly, he was beginning to be desperately cloyed with the sweets of a day-long Miss Besse, ennuye on the one hand and despondent on the other.

Why could not the Cousin Bessies see, without being told in so many words, that the heart of a man may have been given in times long past to another woman?—to a Cousin Virginia, let us say. And why must the Cousin Virginias, passing by the life-long devotion of a kinsman lover, throw themselves—if one must put it thus brutally—fairly at the head of an acquaintance of a day?

So questioning the immensities, the Reverend Billy came out after some little time in a small upland valley

The situation explained itself, even to a Reverend Billy. The Rajah had not been idle during the interval of dinner-givings and social divagations. He had acquired the right of way across the Utah's line for his block-ading spur; had taken advantage of Winton's inattention to construct the track; and was now prepared to hold the crossing with a live engine and such a show of force as might be needful.

Calvert turned back from the entrance of the valley, and was minded, in a spirit of fairness, to pass the word concerning the new obstruction on to the man who was most vitally concerned. But alas! even a Reverend Billy may not always rise superior to his hamperings as a man and a lover. Here was defeat possible—nay, say rather defeat probable, for a rival, with the probability increasing with each hour of delay. Calvert fought it out by length and by breadth a dozen times before he came in sight of the track force toiling; at the shale-slide. Should he tell Winton, and so, indirectly, help to frustrate Mr. Darrah's well-laid plan? Or should he hold his peace and thus, indirectly again, help to defeat the Utah company?

He put it that way in decent self-respect. Also he assured himself that the personal equation as between two lovers of one and the same woman was entirely eliminated. But who can tell which motive it was that prompted him to turn aside before he came to the army of toilers at the slide; to turn and cross the stream and make as wide a detour as the nature of the ground would permit, passing well beyond call from the other side of the canyon?

The detour took him past the slide in silent safety, but it did not take him immediately back to the Rosemary. Instead of keeping on down the canyon on the C. & G. R. side, he turned up the gulch at the back of Argentine and spent the better half of the afternoon tramping beneath the solemn firs on the mountain. What the hours of solitude brought him in the way of decision let him declare as he sets his face finally towards the station and the private car.

"I can't do it. I can't turn traitor to the kinsman whose bread I eat. And that is what it would come to in plain English. Beyond that I have no right to go; it is not for me to pass upon the justice of this petty war between rival corporations."

Ah, William Calvert! is there no word then of that other and far subtler temptation? When you have reached your goal, if reach it you may, will there be no remorseful looking back to this milestone where a word from you might have taken the fly from your pot of precious ointment?

The short winter day was darkening to its close when he returned to the Rosemary. By dint of judicious maneuvering, with a love-weary Bessie for an unconscious confederate, he managed to keep Virginia from questioning him, this up to a certain moment of cataclysm in the evening.

But Virginia read momentous things in his face and eyes, and when the time was fully ripe she cornered him. It was the old story over again, of a woman's determination to know pitted against a truthful man's blundering efforts to conceal; and before he knew what he was about Calvert had betrayed the Rajah's secret—which was also the secret of the cipher telegrams.

Miss Carteret said little—said nothing, indeed, that an anxious kinsman lover could lay hold of. But when the secret was hers she donned coat and headgear and went out on the square railed platform, whither the Reverend Billy dared not follow her.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

SHE WROTE HIM A NOTE.

dear. Bless your innocent soul, if I were young Miste Winton, I'm not sure but I should consider the game well lost."

She was gazing at him wide-eyed now, and the blush had left a pallor behind it.

"You mean that I—that I—"

"I mean that you are a help-worth having, Miss Carteret. Another time Miste Winton won't pay out to a charming young girl and try to build a railroad at one and the same moment, I fancy. Hah!"

The startled eyes veiled themselves swiftly, and Virginia's voice sank to its softest cadence.

"Have I been an accomplice in this—this despicable thing, Uncle Somerville?"

"Mr. Darrah began a little to see his mistake."

"Ah—an accomplice? Oh, no, my dear Virginia, not quite that. The word smacks too much of the police courts. Let us say that Miste Winton has found your company most attractive than that of his laborears, and commend his good taste in the matter."

So much he said by way of damping down the fire he had so rashly lighted. Then Jastrow came in with one of the interminable cipher telegrams and Virginia was left alone.

For a time she sat at the deserted breakfast table, dry-eyed, hot-hearted, thinking such thoughts as would come crowding thickly upon the heels of such a revelation. Winton would fail; a man with honor, good repute, his entire career at stake, as he himself had admitted, would go down to miserable oblivion and defeat lacking some friendly hand to smite him alive to a sense of his danger. And, in her uncle's estimation, at least, she, Virginia Carteret, would figure as the Delilah triumphant.

She rose, tingling to her finger-tips with the shame of it, went to her dateroom and found her writing materials. In such a crisis her methods could be as direct as a man's. Winton where the two lines, old and new, ran parallel at the same level, with low embankments less than a hundred yards apart.

Midway of the valley the hundred-yard interspace was bridged by a hastily constructed spur track starting from a switch on the Colorado and Grand river main line, and crossing the Utah right of way at a broad angle. On this spur, at its point of intersection with the new line, stood a heavy locomotive, steam up, and manned in every inch of its standing-room by armed guards.

Their Hotel Neighbors

At a little Denver hotel lives a very charming little widow who has many masculine admirers. The other day she was asked by one of them to go out in the afternoon and play tennis.

At the courts she met a man who struck her fancy. So, between sets, she and the new man would sit on the grass and talk. It was during one of these intermissions that he said: "By the way, Mrs. Blank, may I ask where you live?"

"To be sure," she replied. "I live at the such and such hotel."

"That's queer," he said. "I have a room there, too. However, I've had it only a week. I'm thinking of changing. There is a woman in the next room to mine who comes in every night about 12 o'clock and wakes me up with her noise. If they don't oust her I'm going."

"I don't blame you," said the little widow. "I know just exactly how you feel. There's a man in the next room to mine who comes in every night about 12 o'clock and wakes me up with her noise. If they don't oust her I'm going."

After the games had been played, the new young man walked down to the hotel with her and her escort. They went for their keys together. The clerk handed them No. 202 and No. 204. Their rooms were adjoining.—Denver Post.

Had His Reason.

A certain country minister was the owner of a swift and spirited horse. On one occasion, while he was driving through the village, he overtook the local physician on foot.

"Jump in, doctor, he said, pulling up. 'I've got a horse here that goes pretty well.'"

The doctor jumped in and the parson drove off. The horse did go well, in the sense of speed, but in a little while it began to behave badly, and ended by tipping over the carriage and spilling out both occupants. The doctor jumped to his feet and felt himself all over to see if he was injured. The parson also got to his feet.

"Look here!" exclaimed the doctor; "what do you mean by inviting me to ride behind a horse like that?"

"Well, you see," gasped the parson, "luckily this time there are no bones broken, but I always like to have a doctor with me when I drive that animal."

HAD IT ALL FIGURED OUT.

Couple Not Only Were Going to Live, But Become Rich.

Lord White Douglas, who was arrested recently in Maine through an error, was congratulated at a Portland hotel on the courtesy he had shown in pardoning the erring Maine police.

"Why shouldn't I pardon them?" said Lord Douglas, laughing. "They did their duty. Their calculations were wrong, that is all."

"I admit that their calculations were absurdly wrong. They reminded me of a young lady I used to know when I lived in the west."

"This young lady, whose family was well to do, announced to her father one night that she was going to marry a penniless man."

"If you marry him," her father gumbled, "how on earth will you live?"

"Oh," said the girl, confidently, "we have figured that all out and it is very simple. You know that black hen I bought last week?"

"Yes. What of it?"

"Well, I have consulted the best poultry circulars, and they all agree that a good hen will raise 20 chicks a year. That means that next season I shall have 21 hens. These at the season's end, each having raised her 20 young, will give me 420 in all. The next season there will be 8,400, the next 168,000, and the next 3,360,000. Just think of that! With chickens at 50 cents apiece we will then be worth $1,680,000. So you see, papa, you needn't worry about us."

New York's Great Ocean Trade.

New York is the second great seaport of the world. In 1903 over $9,000,000 tons of imports and 8,700,000 tons of exports were cleared through New York harbor. London is the greatest seaport, exceeding New York in imports, though not by exports. Antwerp and Hamburg are third and fourth, respectively.

NERVOUS DEBILITY

A Scranton Woman Tells How Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Made Her Well and Strong.

Nervous debility is the common name for what the doctors term neurasthenia. It is characterized by mental depression, fits of the "blues," or melancholy, loss of energy and spirits. The patient's eyes become dull, the pink fades from the cheeks, the memory becomes defective so that it is difficult to recall dates and names at will. Some of these symptoms only may be present or all of them. The remedy lies in toning up the nervous system and there is no medicine better adapted for this purpose than Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Mrs. Jane J. Davies, of No. 814 Warren street, Scranton, Pa., says: "Some years ago I became greatly reduced in health and strength and my nervous system became so debilitated that I felt wretched. I could not rest or sleep well at night and woke up as weary and languid in the morning as I was when I went to bed. My head ached in the morning and often there was a pain in my right side which was worse when I sat down. My nerves were on edge all the time, every little noise bothered me and I was generally miserable. Then I decided to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, as my husband had taken them with good results, and they did wonders for me. Now I have no more pain in my side, no more headaches, I sleep well and feel strong and able to do my work."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cured Mrs. Davies and they can do just as much for other weak, pale, ailing men or women who are slipping into a hopeless decline. They strike straight at the root of all common diseases caused by poor and impoverished blood.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or will be sent postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box, six boxes for $3.50, by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

OF PUTNAM,

For Drain Commissioner

The nominee for County Drain Commissioner of the Republican ticket, is an ideal candidate for the position. Thirty-six years old, with a wife and two boys and a farm of 95 acres, he is an all round hustler. He is a pleasant gentleman to meet and a general favorite with those who know him. As a farmer he knows what a farm needs to make it most productive, whether it needs draining or whether it does not. Last spring he was re-elected township highway commissioner by a good safe majority in a strong democratic township and that too after he had served one term. He is also chief Gleaser in the Arbor of his township and director in his school district. When a boy he had the misfortune to have his hip dislocated and has to wear a lift of some two inches on one of his shoes. The lameness caused by this misfortune is a decided disadvantage in much of his farm work where he has to follow a team. He is the first and only candidate in the county to be nominated for drain commissioner by direct vote of the people and now it is up to the people to see that he is elected to the position in November next. Nominated by direct vote of the people and if elected by the people he will be the people's drain commissioner and will work for their interest. This year is the first time that the people have had the right to nominate and elect a County Drain Commissioner.

BLOOD DISEASES CURED
 Drs. K. & K. Established 25 Years.
 NO NAMES USED WITHOUT WRITTEN CONSENT.
 He was surprised at how the sores healed—I took your New Method Treatment for a serious blood disease with which I had been afflicted for twelve years. I had consulted a score of physicians, taken all kinds of blood medicine, visited Hot Springs and other mineral water resorts, but only got temporary relief. They would help me for a time, but after discontinuing the medicines the symptoms would break out again—burning sores, blotches, rheumatic pains, looseness of the hair, swellings of the glands, palms of the hands scaling, itching of the skin, dyspeptic stomach, etc. I had given up in despair when a friend advised me to consult you, as you had cured him of a similar disease 8 years ago. I had no hope, but took his advice. In three weeks' time the sores commenced to heal up and I became encouraged. I continued the New Method Treatment for four months and at the end of that time every symptom had disappeared. I was cured 7 years ago and no signs of any disease since. My boy, three years old, is sound and healthy. I certainly can recommend your treatment with all my heart. You can refer any person to me privately, but you can use this testimonial as you wish.

PRESIDENT TO URGE REFORM IN MESSAGE TO CONGRESS.

Will Recommend Enactment of Inheritance Tax Law—Field Estate an Instance.

Washington. — President Roosevelt has inserted in the preliminary draft of his forthcoming annual message to congress a recommendation that a law be passed imposing a national tax upon inheritances. The president first called public attention to this idea in his celebrated "muck rake" speech which he delivered at the laying of the corner stone of the office building of the house of representatives April 14 last.

Therein he expressed the view that ultimately the United States would have to consider the adoption of some such scheme as that of a progressive tax on all fortunes beyond a certain amount either given in life or devised or bequeathed upon death to any individual—a tax so framed as to put it out of the power of the owner of one of these enormous fortunes to hand on more than a certain amount to any one individual. Such taxation should be aimed merely at the inheritance or transmission in their entirety of those fortunes swollen beyond all healthy limits.

He deeply regrets, for instance, that there was no such law to prevent Marshall Field from tying up his estate in the way he did. The Field fortune is regarded as having "swollen beyond all healthy limits" at the time of its creator's death. It will be a positive menace by the time it is turned over to the heirs.

If John D. Rockefeller and other wealthy men of the country should follow the example of Mr. Field there would develop an oligarchy of wealth which would bring disaster to the American people.

AMERICAN WINS BALLOON RACE.

Lieut. Lahm Captures Contest for James Gordon Bennett Cup.

Paris. — Uncertainty regarding the result of the balloon race for the James Gordon Bennett cup, started from here Sunday afternoon, was ended at noon Tuesday when a dispatch was received by the Aero club announcing that Hon. O. S. Rolls and his companion, Col. Capper, in the balloon Britannia, landed between Sandringham and the sea at 6:30 Monday night, thus establishing that Lieut. Frank P. Lahm, Sixth cavalry, U. S. A., the American competitor in the race, who descended near Whitby Monday afternoon in the balloon United States, is the winner.

Signor von Willer of Italy is second, Count de la Vaulx of France third and Hon. O. S. Rolls of Great Britain fourth.

The beautiful cup presented for competition by James Gordon Bennett becomes a trophy of the Aero Club of America. The first cash prize of $2,900 goes to Lieut. Lahm, and the endurance medal to Mr. Rolls, who was the longest in the air, 26 1/4 hours.

BRIDGE OVER FALLS COLLAPSES

One High School Student Killed When Crowded Structure Gives Way.

Menominee, Mich. — While a party of 25 students of Oconto, Wis., high school were standing on a foot-bridge at Oconto Falls, Wis., Friday watching the falls, the structure collapsed, hurling the whole party 40 feet into the stream. William Ballou, aged 14 years, was killed and Viga Senti, Hazel Denizen and Frank Donley seriously injured. Prof. Newcomb, the instructor, was badly hurt, and several others were slightly injured.

COMING CABINET CHANGES.

Secretaries Moody and Shaw to Retire This Winter.

Washington. — Two retirements from the president's cabinet are slated for the coming winter. They are those of Attorney General Moody, whose resignation will become effective about the 1st of December, and that of Secretary Shaw, who, according to present intentions, will retire in February. For one of these vacancies to be created, the president will nominate George V. L. Meyer, American ambassador to Russia, but for the other he is not yet ready to announce a successor.

Mr. Roosevelt has sought to prevail on Attorney General Moody to remain in the cabinet, but the latter, because of business arrangements he has made, has found it impossible to do so.

He also would like to have Secretary Bonaparte take Mr. Moody's place when the latter retires, but the former prefers the position at the head of the navy department, with whose workings he has become thoroughly familiar.

Some suggestion has been made that Secretary Metcalf, of the department of commerce and labor, take one of the positions to be made vacant in the proposed shifting of cabinet offices, but he also has expressed a preference to remain where he is.

POLICY KING KILLS HIMSELF

"Al" Adams, of New York, Ends Life with Revolver.

New York. — Albert J. Adams, who made a large fortune as the head of the policy gambling combine, shot himself in the head Sunday night at his apartments in the Ansonia, in this city. His dead body was found Monday morning. Adams had been in poor health since his release from Sing Sing prison, where he served a term for having conducted a policy game in New York.

At the office of the Colonial Security company, of which Adams is treasurer, it was said Monday that Adams had been ill of diabetes for a year, and that it was this illness which must have prompted him to commit suicide.

New York. — Coroner Harburger, in a statement made Tuesday, gave an intimation that he was not entirely satisfied that the death of "Al" Adams, the former so-called policy king, was the result of suicide.

DEAD AT BLUEFIELD MAY BE 70

Bluefield, W. Va. — Twenty-nine bodies have been recovered from the west fork of the Pocahontas Collieries company mine at Pocahontas, Va., and a conservative estimate places the total number of dead at 70.

The rescuing party reached the scene of the explosion but the immense amount of debris and wreckage has hampered the search for bodies. There is no evidence thus far of fire.

AT THE SUMMER HOTEL.

Experience of Winston Churchill Familiar to Many.

Winston Churchill in an address that he made in Concord recently praised the New Hampshire farmer.

"Ours," he said, "is a state fitted above all others for a summer resort. New Hampshire, with its superb climate, its mountains, its lakes and forests, will in a generation or two be one great pleasure ground—a vast park, dotted with beautiful villas, to which will come each summer families from all parts of America.

"In anticipation of this many farmers are learning to condense their milk. They are building cottages for summer visitors. Some of them, too, are taking boarders.

"And I am glad to say that the New Hampshire farmer is in a position to take boarders, because, unlike the farmers in other states that I could name, he does not send all his good things to the city. I once boarded at a fine big farm, but the fare was wretched—canned vegetables, condensed milk and so on.

"By Jove," I said one morning at breakfast, as I pushed my egg cup from me, 'these eggs are really not as fresh as those I get in New York.' My farmer host snorted.

"That's rank prejudice on your part, Mr. Churchill," he said. "It's from New York that all our eggs come."

LOOSE TEETH

Made Sound by Eating Grape-Nuts.

Proper food nourishes every part of the body, because Nature selects the different materials from the food we eat, to build bone, nerve, brain, muscle, teeth, etc.

All we need is to eat the right kind of food slowly, chewing it well—our digestive organs take it up into the blood and the blood carries it all through the body, to every little nook and corner.

If some one would ask you, "Is Grape-Nuts good for loose teeth?" you'd probably say, "No, I don't see how it could be." But a woman in Ontario writes:

"For the past two years I have used Grape-Nuts Food with most excellent results. It seems to take the place of medicine in many ways, builds up the nerves and restores the health generally.

"A little Grape-Nuts taken before retiring soothes my nerves and gives sound sleep." (Because it relieves irritability of the stomach nerves, being a predigested food.)

"Before I used Grape-Nuts my teeth were loose in the gums. They were so bad I was afraid they would some day all fall out. Since I have used Grape-Nuts I have not been bothered any more with loose teeth.

"All desire for pastry has disappeared and I have gained in health, weight and happiness since I began to use Grape-Nuts." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Get the famous little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a reason."

WHO SHE WAS

SKETCH OF THE LIFE OF LYDIA E. PINKHAM

And a True Story of How the Vegetable Compound Had Its Birth and How the "Panic of '73" Caused It to be Offered for Public Sale in Drug Stores.

This remarkable woman, whose maiden name was Estes, was born in Lynn, Mass., February 9th, 1819, coming from a good old Quaker family. For some years she taught school, and became known as a woman of an alert restore the family fortune. They argued that the medicine which was so good for their woman friends and neighbors was equally good for the woman of the whole world.

The Pinkhams had no money, and little credit. Their first laboratory was the kitchen, where roots and herbs were steeped on the stove, gradually filling a gross of bottles. Then came the question of selling it, for always before they had given it away freely. They hired a job printer to run off some pamphlets setting forth the merits of the medicine, now called Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and these were distributed by the Pinkham sons in Boston, New York, and Brooklyn.

The wonderful curative properties of the medicine were, to a great extent, self-advertising, for whoever used it recommended it to others, and the demand gradually increased.

In 1877, by combined efforts the family had saved enough money to commence newspaper advertising and from that time the growth and success of the enterprise were assured, until today Lydia E. Pinkham and her Vegetable Compound have become household words everywhere, and many tons of roots and herbs are used annually in its manufacture.

Lydia E. Pinkham herself did not live to see the great success of this work. She passed to her reward years ago, but not till she had provided means for continuing her work as effectively as she could have done it herself.

During her long and eventful experience she was ever methodical in her work and she was always careful to preserve a record of every case that came to her attention. The case of every sick woman who applied to her for advice—and there were thousands—received careful study, and the details, including symptoms, treatment and results were recorded for future reference, and to-day these records, together with hundreds of thousands made since, are available to sick women the world over, and represent a vast collaboration of information regarding the treatment of woman's ills, which for authenticity and accuracy can hardly be equaled in any library in the world.

With Lydia E. Pinkham worked her daughter-in-law, the present Mrs. Pinkham. She was carefully instructed in all her hard-won knowledge, and for years she assisted her in her vast correspondence.

To her hands naturally fell the direction of the work when its originator passed away. For nearly twenty-five years she has continued it, and nothing in the work shows when the first Lydia E. Pinkham dropped her pen, and the present Mrs. Pinkham, now the mother of a large family, took it up. With woman assistants, some as capable as herself, the present Mrs. Pinkham continues this great work, and probably from the office of no other person have so many women been advised how to regain health. Sick women, this advice is "Yours for Health" freely given if you only write to ask for it.

Such is the history of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; made from simple roots and herbs; the one great medicine for women's ailments, and the fitting monument to the noble woman whose name it bears.

and investigating mind, an earnest seeker after knowledge, and above all, possessed of a wonderfully sympathetic nature.

In 1843 she married Isaac Pinkham, a builder and real estate operator, and their early married life was marked by prosperity and happiness. They had four children, three sons and a daughter.

In those good old fashioned days it was common for mothers to make their own home medicines from roots and herbs, nature's own remedies—calling in a physician only in specially urgent cases. By tradition and experience many of them gained a wonderful knowledge of the curative properties of the various roots and herbs.

Mrs. Pinkham took a great interest in the study of roots and herbs, their characteristics and power over disease. She maintained that just as nature so bountifully provides in the harvest-fields and orchards vegetable foods of all kinds; so, if we but take the pains to find them, in the roots and herbs of the field there are remedies expressly designed to cure the various ills and weaknesses of the body, and it was her pleasure to search these out, and prepare simple and effective medicines for her own family and friends.

Chief of these was a rare combination of the choicest medicinal roots and herbs found best adapted for the cure of the ills and weaknesses peculiar to the female sex, and Lydia E. Pinkham's friends and neighbors learned that her compound relieved and cured and it became quite popular among them.

All this so far was done freely, without money and without price, as a labor of love.

But in 1873 the financial crisis struck Lynn. Its length and severity were too much for the large real estate interests of the Pinkham family, as this class of business suffered most from fearful depression, so when the Centennial year dawned it found their property swept away. Some other source of income had to be found.

At this point Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was made known to the world.

The three sons and the daughter, with their mother, combined forces to

THE CHURCH AT WORK

CATHEDRAL AT SAN FRANCISCO.
Croker Site Given to the Episcopal Church for This Purpose.

Common with all others, the Episcopal church suffered severely in the San Francisco earthquake and fire, and yet, as in other similar cases, the disaster is not unlikely to prove a blessing. Parish churches were not well located before the fire, and anything like a cathedral was far from the most ambitious thoughts of the California bishop. Because so many churches were wiped out, a redistricting has been made possible, in order that their fields may no longer overlap. And the Episcopal church on the coast is to have a cathedral in San Francisco that will be one of the best located in the world.

The Croker mansion, says the New York World, which was rented for a whole month by J. Pierpont Morgan while the Episcopal general convention was in session at San Francisco some years ago, shared the fate of so many other notable buildings when the fire completed the destruction begun by the earthquake. Now the Croker family has presented the site to the church to be used as a cathedral close for the diocese of California.

The site is on the very top of Nob Hill, a large block in extent, and any building erected upon it can be seen from every part of the bay and from the entire city. A cathedral foundation in such a place, even if it has to be a modest one for some years, will give the Episcopal church a great advantage in the new-built city. To begin the erection of a structure of some kind, it is now proposed to merge Grace parish into the cathedral foundation, and giving the old name "Grace" to the cathedral. Grace church stood at California and Stockton streets, on the very brink of one of the numerous precipices which made California one of the most remarkable streets in the world. It was wrecked and burned, and now its property, with insurance money, is to go into the new foundation.

NORTHFIELD CONFERENCE.

Dr. G. Campbell Morgan Seeking to Establish a Christian Training School.

Dr. Campbell Morgan has been trying with no small success, to give English Christians an object lesson in what is meant by the famous Northfield convention, says the London correspondent of the Record of Christian Work. Mundesley-on-Sea is an unpretentious watering place on the east coast of England, where Dr. Morgan has a summer residence of his own. There the convention met. The meeting place was a large tent. There were two morning sessions, an earlier and a later one. The earlier morning sessions were devoted to Dr. Morgan's course of lectures on the Book of Genesis, of which I have seen nothing but the highest praise. At the later morning session, special subjects were dealt with by men peculiarly at home in them, and the addresses were followed by a time of questions and answers. The afternoons were given to relaxation and social intercourse, and the days as they went by were closed with evening sessions at which some front-rank man preached a sermon or gave an address. The attendance at the convention throughout was exceedingly encouraging, and the experiment is regarded as having abundantly justified itself. It will be repeated next year.

Pundita Ramabal Plans More Work.

Speaking of that wonderful Hindu woman, Pundita Ramabal, the Missionary Review of the World says: "This most fervid Hindu saint, though already caring for more than 1,500 young widows, writes that the Lord has laid it on her heart to open 20 mission stations in different villages to which she may send her Christian girls to preach the Gospel. She asks for experienced workers from America and England, who will be willing to bear the hardships of village life in order to be leaders in this form of redemption work."

Board of Missionary in West.

Rev. Solomon Baker is a Choctaw preacher in Indian territory. He traveled 300 miles on horseback in three months, and preached 55 sermons and held 48 prayer meetings. He started to attend a Bible institute 125 miles away, but his pony gave out when he had gone about 75 miles. So anxious was he to attend the institute that he walked over the mountains, sleeping under the blue sky on the way. That is a sample of home-missionary work among the Indians.

"A SMALL THING."

Do you believe in progress? Do you believe that all the wonderful achievements of the nineteenth century—the railroad, the telegraph, the telephone, electric light, kerosene, sewing machine, agricultural machinery, steamships, trolley cars, etc.—have made life easier and better worth living? I do. I believe that a man who lives 40 years under modern conditions has experienced more life and better life than Methusalem, though he had lived 20 centuries of his time.

The triumphs of the nineteenth century were triumphs of human service—the placing of knowledge and the fruits of knowledge within the reach of the common man. Every man's life is better, happier, more secure because of them. We live more comfortable, more sociable lives in better and more comfortable houses because of them. Even the hopeless dweller in the worst city slums is more comfortable in his physical conditions than the middle-class citizen of the days of George Washington.

In little things as in great, comfort and convenience have been the legacy of the "Century of Improvement." Paint, in a certain sense, is a minor matter, yet it gives beauty, healthfulness and durability to our dwellings. Fifty years ago painting was a serious proposition, a luxury for the owners of stately mansions who could afford the expense of frequent renewals. Today ready mixed paint is so cheap, so good, and so universal that no house owner has an excuse for not keeping his property well painted.

A small thing, indeed; yet several hundred large factories, employing thousands of chemists and skilled workmen, are running every day in the year to keep our houses fresh, clean and wholesome.

A small thing, yet a can of good ready mixed paint, such as one may buy from any reputable dealer, embodies the study of generations of skilled chemists, the toil of a thousand workmen in mill, laboratory and factory, and the product of a long series of special machinery invented and designed just to make that can of paint and to furnish us an infinite variety of tints, colors and shades.

It was a wonderful century, that nineteenth of our era, and not the least of its wonderful gifts was that same commonplace can of paint.

ALASKAN CABLE IS BUSY.

Line to Be Duplexed and 200 More Miles Added.

Few people who have not been over the ground have any conception of the wonderful development of Alaskan interests and trade. For instance, the commercial receipts from the Alaskan cable and telegraph lines for the month of July amounted to $24,000. The rapid increase in the demands upon the system will be met by the government by duplexing the cable.

The cable ship Burnside, which is to install the duplexing apparatus at the Alaskan end of the cable, will carry about 200 miles of new cable for the extension of the service to Ketchikan. This extension will be effected by tapping the lines from Sitka to Juneau at Cape Fanshaw. From that point a branch line will be extended down the Wrangle, then to Hadley on Prince of Wales island, and then to Ketchikan, which is only 60 miles from Port Simpson, the English town which is to be the terminus of the Grand Trunk and Pacific railroads.

It is believed that this additional 200 miles of cable will largely increase the cable receipts, as it taps a country rich in mines, fishery and canning industries and greatly in need of daily communication with the United States. It is expected that this new line will be completed by November 1.

NO REST NIGHT OR DAY.

With Irritating Skin Humor—Hair Began to Fall Out—Wonderful Result from Cuticura Remedies.

"About the latter part of July my whole body began to itch. I did not take much notice of it at first, but it began to get worse all the time, and then I began to get uneasy and tried all kinds of baths and other remedies that were recommended for skin humors; but I became worse all the time. My hair began to fall out and my scalp itched all the time. Especially at night, just as soon as I would get in bed and get warm, my whole body would begin to itch and my finger nails would keep it irritated, and it was not long before I could not rest night or day. A friend asked me to try the Cuticura Remedies, and I did, and the first application helped me wonderfully. For about four weeks I would take a hot bath every night and then apply the Cuticura Ointment to my whole body; and I kept getting better, and by the time I used four boxes of Cuticura I was entirely cured, and my hair stopped falling out. D. E. Blankenship, 319 N. Del. St., Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 27, 1895."

COAT OF PAINT SAVED BANK.

Clever Device Stopped Run That Would Have Been Disastrous.

Runs on banks, as all the world knows, are often stopped or restricted in the oddest ways.

A rich bank knew that a run was to set in on a certain Monday morning—for it had been robbed of some postage stamps on Saturday night, and the robbery had been exaggerated in the newspaper reports—and if this run was not kept within reasonable limits the bank would have to close its doors. It had plenty of money, but not plenty of cash. It needed 24 hours' time.

Before sunrise on Monday morning a man put a fresh coat of paint on the front doors of the bank, on the wall panels, and on the counters. The result was that the people who made the run on Monday made rather a walk of it. They wanted their money, but they rushed no one. On the contrary, they came on with caution and deliberation. So careful were they lest they get paint on their clothes that it took longer to pay off one of them than it would have taken ordinarily to pay five.

This is one of many odd tricks whereby, in a run, a bank has saved itself from wreck.

PENNIES FOR A COLLEGE.

One Hundred Thousand Workers Each Give a Penny to Ruskin College.

The British trade unions had not in their origin any direct concern with education, says the Fortnightly Review. But it is a fact of no ordinary significance that some of the leading unions should be taking very great interest in the higher education of the workman.

For the last three years some 100,000 workmen, members of the Amalgamated Society of Engineers, have made three levies of one penny each to help on the work of Ruskin college at Oxford. This levy produces over £300 a year, and by means of it six engineers are maintained for a year's course of study at the college.

Smaller but substantial sums have been contributed to the same institution by the London Society of Compositors, by the Lanarkshire Miners' County Union, by the Amalgamated Association of Beavers, Twisters and Drawers, by the Derbyshire miners and the Durham miners, while a large number of other societies appear among the donors and subscribers.

TIRED BACKS.

The kidneys have a great work to do in keeping the blood pure. When they get out of order it causes backache, headaches, dizziness, languor and distressing urinary troubles. Keep the kidneys well and all these sufferings will be saved you. Mrs. S. A. Moore, proprietor of a restaurant at Waterville, Mo., says: "Before using Doan's Kidney Pills I suffered everything from kidney troubles for a year and a half. I had pain in the back and head, and almost continuous in the joints and felt weary all the time. A few doses of Doan's Kidney Pills brought great relief, and I kept on taking them until in a short time I was cured. I think Doan's Kidney Pills are wonderful."

To Launder White Silk Handkerchiefs.

Do not put white silk handkerchiefs in the ordinary wash, as they are easily laundered at home. Make a strong lather of Ivory Soap and water, but do not rub the soap on the handkerchief or use soda. Rinse and iron while damp with a moderately hot iron.

ELEANOR R. PARKER.

"Soap Weed" of the Southwest. Greatest, as well as most common, of all cacti is the "soap weed," which grows wherever cacti grow, and which is man's only friend in the great southwestern deserts of the United States and in Mexico. It furnishes always a quantity of water when cut. As its name indicates, it can be manufactured into a soap, perhaps the least alkaline soap ever made, even though the weed itself may grow in the center of an alkali desert. Beer is brewed from it, the Indians make a hemple-like fiber from it and horses and men can eat parts of it if the spines are cut away. Also when it shoots up its one great arm skyward it tops that arm with one of the most gorgeous flowers in the world.

Chandler's Joke on Conkling.
Roscoe Conkling was a capital boxer and quite proud of his skill. One evening after considerable banter he induced Senator Chandler to "put on the gloves" with him. He played with Chandler for a few rounds, much to the discomfiture of the downeaster. The latter bided his time and some time later quietly brought a professional pugilist to dinner where Conkling was a guest. In the course of the evening "Mr. Smith" was induced to engage in a boxing bout with Mr. Conkling. The professional danced around the senator, landing when and where he wished, playing with him as he would with a punching bag. The elegant New York senator was dazed, overwhelmed, humiliated, crushed. When he surrendered and called enough, as he did at last, Senator Chandler smiled blandly and presented the pugilist in his true colors.

This is the time of year when it takes considerable money to get ready for winter. It would help us out considerable if those owing us small amounts would give them attention and settle at once. Each amount is small but in the aggregate they amount to considerable.

The argument against a parcel post in this country is that its establishment would injure the business of some of the small retailers, but there is one thing the small retailer can do and that is, reach the people by parcel post as well as the "mail order" houses of the big cities. The country merchant can sell the same goods as cheaply and their expenses are not half as much. There is one thing they must learn to do however, and that is to let the people know that they have the goods by advertising. The reason so many send to the "mail order" houses for certain goods, is, that the "mail order" houses go after the trade by any and all kinds of advertising. There is no obligation on the Government to protect the small traders at the expense of all the people and the principle of the greatest good to the greatest number if applied by the next congress would result in the parcel post for this country.
