THE LIONS OF THE LORD

By HARRY LEON WILSON

dom she thought, son of Brigham and his wife, only of the plumed youth in doublet and hose, a plumed cap, and a silken cloak, who, in a voice that brought the tears back of her eyes, told of his undying love for one woman—and of the soft, tender woman in the moonlight, who had trusted him and let herself go to him in life and in death.

CHAPTER XXVI.

The Lion of the Lord Sends an Order. They reached home in very different states of mind. The girl was eager for the solitude of her favorite nook in the canyon, where she could dream in peace of the wonderland she had glimpsed; but the little bent man was stirred by dread and chilled with forebodings. To him, as well as to the girl, the change in the first city of Zion had been a thing to wonder at. But what had thrilled her with amazed delight brought pain to him. Zion was no longer held inviolate.

And now the truth was much clearer to him. Not only had the Lord deferred His coming, but He had set His hand again to scatter Israel for its sin. Instead of letting them stay alone in their mountain retreat until the beginning of His reign on earth, He had brought the Gentiles upon them in overwhelming numbers.

what I'm talkin' about. The Lord said me, you had Prudence as a daughter, and I guess you don't know what that letter's about."

"Why, no; do you?"

"Well, Brother Brigham only let a word of two things plain enough; he don't have to use many. He was a little mite afraid some one down here would cut in ahead of him."

Joel Rae had torn open the big blue envelope in a sudden fear, and now he read in Brigham's well-known script:

"Dear Bro. Joel: I was anxious to see more of your daughter, and would of kept her here at my house if you had not hurried off. I will let you see her to me when I come to Pine Valley next, late this summer or after Oct. conference. If anything happens and I am to stay will have you bring her here. Tell her of this and what it will mean to her in the Lord's kingdom and do not let her company with gentiles or with any of the young brethren around there that might put notions into her head. Try to due right and never faint in well doing, keep the faith of the gospel and I pray the Lord to bless you. "BRIGHAM YOUNG."

The shrewd old face of the Bishop had wrinkled into a smile of quiet observation as the other read the letter. In relating the incident to the Entablature of Truth, subsequently, he said of Joel Rae at the moment he looked up from this letter: "He'll never be whiter when he's dead! I see in a minute that the old man had him on the bark."

He Lifted His Broad Brimmed Hat to Her in a Gracious Sweep.

Where once a thousand miles of wilderness lay between them and Gentile wickedness, they were now hemmed about with it, and even it polluted the streets of the holy city itself.

One morning, a few weeks after he had reached home from the north, he received a call from Seth Wright.

"Here's a letter Brother Brigham wanted me to be sure and give you," said this good man. "He said he didn't know you was allowing to start back so soon, or he'd have seen you in person."

He took the letter and glanced at the superscription, written in Brigham's rather unformed but plain and very decided-looking hand.

"So you've been north, Brother Seth? What do you think of Israel there?"

The views of the Wild Ram of the Mountains partook in certain ways of his own discouragement.

"Zion has run to seed, Brother Rae; the rank weeds of Babylon is a-goin' to choke it out, root and branch! We ain't got no chance to live a pure and Godly life any longer, with railroads coming in, and Gentiles with their fancy contraptions. It weakens the spirit, and it plays the very hob with the women. Soon as they git up there now, and see them new styles from St. Looey or Chicago, they git downright daft. No more homespun for 'em, no more valley tan; no more parched corn for coffee, nor beet molasses nor unbolted flour. Oh, I know Seth—you know that Brigham wants Prudence?" Joel Rae had asked, looking up from the letter, upon which both his hands had closed tightly.

"Well, I told you he dropped a word or two, jest by way of keeping off the Princes of Israel down here."

"I must go to Salt Lake at once and talk to him."

"But I can't—I couldn't—Brother Seth, I wish her not to marry him."

The Bishop stared blankly at him, his amazement freezing upon his lips, almost, the words he uttered.

"Not—want—her—to—marry—Brother Brigham Young, Prophet, Seer, and Revelator, President of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints in all the world!"

"I must go up and talk to him at once."

"You won't talk him out of it, Brother Brigham has the habit of prevailing. Of course, he's closer than Dick's hat-band, but she'll have the best there is until he takes another."

"He may listen to reason—"

"Reason?—why, man, what more reason could he want,—with that splendid young critter before him, throwing back her head, and flashing her big, shily eyes, and lifting her red lips over them little white teeth—reason enough for Brother Brigham—or for other people I could name!"

"But he wouldn't be so hard—taking her away from me—"

Joel seemed to have even the heart of the Wild Ram of the Mountains, though it told of a suffering; he could not understand.

"Brigham is very sot in his ways," he said, after a little, with a curious soft kindness in his voice.—"in fact, a softer man I never knew!"

He drove off, leaving the other staring at the letter now crumpled in his hand. He also said, in his subsequent narrative to the Entablature of Truth: "You know I've always took Brother Rae for jest a natural born sot, a shy little cuss that could be whiffed around by anything and everything, but when I drove off he had a plumb ornery fighting look in them deep-set eyes of his, and blame me if I didn't some way feel sorry for him,—he's that warped up, like an old water-soaked sycamore plank that gits laid out in the sun."

But this look of belligerence had quickly passed from the face of Joel Rae when the first heat of his resentment had cooled.

After that he merely suffered, torn by his reverence for Brigham, who represented on earth no less a power than the first person of the Trinity, and by the love for this child who held him to a past made beautiful by his love for her mother,—by a thousand youthful dreams and fancies and wayward hopes that he had kept fresh through all the years; torn between Brigham, whose word was as the word of God, and Prudence who was the living flower of her dead mother and all his dead hopes.

Presently he saw Prudence coming across the fields in the late afternoon from the road that led to the canyon. He watched her jealously until she drew near, then called her to him. In a few words he told her very gravely the honor that was to be done her.

When she fully understood, he noted that her mind seemed to attain an unusual clearness, her speech a new conciseness; that she was displaying a force of will he had never before suspected.

Her reply, in effect, was that she would not marry Brigham Young if all the angels in heaven came to entreat her; that the thought was not a pretty one; and that the matter might be considered settled at that very moment. "It's too silly to talk about," she concluded.

Almost fearfully he looked at her, yielding a little to her spirit of rebellion, yet trying not to yield; trying not to rejoice in the amused flash of her dark eyes and the decision of her tones. But then, as he looked, and as she still faced him, radiant in her confidence, he felt himself going with her—plunging into the tempting wave of apostasy.

CHAPTER XXVII.

A New Face in the Dream.

Prudence had to be alone to dream her dreams of a love that should be always single. Brigham's letter, far from disturbing these, had brought them a zest hitherto lacking. Neither the sacrifice of refusing him, its worldly unwisdom, nor its possible harm to the little bent man of sorrows, had as yet become apparent to her. Each day, when such duties as were hers in the house had been performed, she walked out to be alone,—always to Box canyon, that green-sided cleft in the mountain, with the brook lashing itself to a white fury over the boulders at the bottom. She would go up out of the hot valley into its cool freshness and its pleasant wood smells, and there, in the softened blue light of a pine-hung glade, she would rest, and let her fancy build what heaven-reaching towers it would. On some brown bed of pine-needles, or on a friendly gray boulder close by the water-side, where she could give her eyes to its flow and foam, and her ears to its music,—music like the muffled tinkling of little silver bells in the distance,—she would let herself go out to her dream with the joyous, reckless abandon of falling water.

It was commonly a dream of a youth in doublet and hose, a plumed cap, and a cloak of purple satin, who came in the moonlight to the balcony of his love, and sighed his passion in tones so moving that she thought an angel must have yielded—as did the girl in the balcony who had let down the scarf to him. She already knew how that girl's heart must have fluttered at the moment,—how she must have felt that the hands were mad, wicked, uncontrollable hands, no longer her own.

There was one place in the dream that she managed not without some ingenuity. It had to be made plain that the lover under the window did not come from a long, six-doored house, with a wife behind each door; that this girl, pale in the moonlight, with quickening heart and rebellious hands on the scarf, and arms that should open to him, was to be not only his first wife but his last; that he was never even to consider so much as the possibility of another, but was to cleave unto her, and to love her with a single heart for all the days of her life and his own.

There were various ways of bringing this circumstance forward. Usually she had Brigham march on at the head of his great family and counsel the youth to take more wives, in order that he should be exalted in the Kingdom. Whereupon the young man would fold his love in his arms and speak words of scorn, in the same thrilling manner that he spoke his other words, for any exaltation which they two could not share alone. Brigham, at the head of his wives, would then sink off, much abashed.

She had come naturally to see her own face as the face of this happily loved girl in the dream. She knew no face for the youth. There was none in Amaloo; not Jarom Tanner, six feet three, who became a helpless grinning child in her presence; nor Moroni Peterson, who became a solemn and ghastly imbecile; nor Ammaron Wright, son of the Bishop, who had opened the dance of the Young People's Auxiliary with prayer, and later tried to kiss her in a dark corner of the room. So the face of the other person in her dream remained of an unknown heavenly beauty.

And then one afternoon in early May a strange youth came singing down the canyon; came while she mused by the brook-side in her best loved dream. Long before she saw him, she heard his music, a young, clear, care-free voice ringing down from the trail that went over the mountains to Kanab and into Kimball valley; one of the ways that led out to the world that she wondered about so much. It was a voice new to her, and the words of his ballad were also new. At first she heard them from afar:—

"There was a young lady came a-tripping along,
And at each side a servant-O,
And in each hand a glass of wine
To drink with the Gypsy Davy-O.
"And will you fancy me, my dear,
And will you be my Honey-O?
I swear by the sword that hangs by my side
You shall never want for money-O.
"Oh, yes, I will fancy you, kind sir,
And I will be your Honey-O,
If you swear by the sword that hangs by your side
I shall never want for money-O."

The singer seemed to be making his way slowly. Far up the trail, she had one fleeting glimpse of a man on a horse, and then he was hid again in the twilight of the pines. But the music came nearer:—

"Then she put on her high-heeled shoes,
All made of Spanish leather-O,
And she put on her bonnie, bonnie brown,
And they rode off together-O.
"Soon after that, her lord came home
Inquiring for his lady-O,
When some of the servants made this reply:
"She's a-gone with the Gypsy-O.
"Then saddle me my milk-white steed,
For the black is not so speedy-O,
And I'll ride all night and I'll ride all day
Till I overtake my lady-O."

She stood transfixed, something within her responding to the hidden singer, as she had once heard a closed piano sound to a voice that sang near it. Soon she could get broken glimpses of him as he wound down the trail, now turning around the end of a fallen tree, then passing behind a giant spruce, now leaning far back while the horse felt a way cautiously down some sharp little declivity. The impression was confused,—a glint of red, of blue, of the brown of the horse, a figure swaying loosely to the horse's movements, and then he was out of sight again around the big rock that had once fallen from high up on the side of the canyon; but now, when he came from behind that, he would be squarely in front of her. This recalled and alarmed her. She began to pick a way over the boulders and across the trail that lay between her and the edge of the pines, hearing another verse of the song almost at her ear:—

"He rode all night and he rode all day,
Till he came to the far deep water—
Then he stopped and a tear came a-trickling down his cheek.
For there he saw his lady-O."

Before she could reach a shelter in the pines, while she was poised for the last step that would take her out of the trail, he was out from behind the rock, before her, almost upon her, reining his horse back upon its haunches,—then in another instant lifting off his broad-brimmed hat to her in a gracious sweep. It was the first time she had seen this simple office performed outside of the theater.

Queen Victoria's Favorite Soup

It was Francatelli, the famous cook of Queen Victoria in early Victorian days, who used to observe casually, when serving a certain soup: "This was the only soup the queen would ever eat while I had the honor of being in her majesty's service." Francatelli's recipe for what he called "Victoria soup," is said to produce a delicious and nourishing form of what, in homely kitchens, would be known as veal broth. To make it, simmer half a pound of pearl barley for two hours in three pints of good veal stock. When the barley is quite soft and dissolved, take out one-third of it into a pan to keep hot, while the remainder is passed through a fine colander. Then put the puree back into the whole barley, add half a pint of cream, season, reheat and serve. Mace, onions and cloves introduced into the stock before the barley is added improve the flavor.

General Sweetenham's last official act was the most becoming of his career. He resigned.

How to Remain Young.

To continue young in health and strength, do as Mrs. N. F. Rowan, Mc Donough, Ga., did. She says: "Three bottles of Electric Bitters cured me of chronic liver and stomach trouble, complicated with such an unhealthy condition of the blood that my skin turned red as coral. I am now practically 20 years younger than before I took Electric Bitters. I can now do all my work with ease and assist in my husband's store." Guaranteed at F. A. Sigler's Drug Store. Price 50c.

Mr. Harriman, in organizing a railroad from ocean to ocean, has perhaps the invention of having it watered from both ends.

Little globules of sunshine that drive the clouds away. DeWitt's Little Early Risers will scatter the gloom of sick-headache and biliousness. They do not gripe or sicken. Recommended and sold here by F. A. Sigler.

As yet the crusade against the smoke nuisance is confined to factories and locomotives. When it shall be extended to the millions of vile smelling cigars and pipes, it will appear that the long suffering public is in earnest.

A general onslaught is being made at Detroit, Saginaw, Durand and several other cities, large and small, in this state upon gambling. It is not only the curse of the larger cities, but it is also the curse of many villages as well, and we are not sure our own little village is entirely free from this evil.—Fowlerville Review.

For weak kidneys and lame back use DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills. Best for lumbago, rheumatism bladder and other troubles arising from bad blood. They cleanse the kidneys and clear the system. Indorsed and sold by F. A. Sigler.

A man engaged in the liquor business said a few days since: "I know my business is wrong. But I am not the only one who is doing wrong. I am in it for the money there is in it. The man who gives me the license gives it to me because I give to him a part of the money. He is in it, too, for the money he gets out of the business."

There has grown up all over the country a demand that penal institutions should be compelled to be self supporting. It has been demonstrated that they need not be a drain upon the state in the way of taxes, if the prisoners are given employ. Warden Fuller, of the Ionia Reformatory, states that if the proposed amendment carries, his institution can be made self supporting. There is another side to the question along the line as to whether there can be any reformation of prisoners unless the state fits them to become self supporting citizens.

The state administration has determined to install a binder twine plant at Jackson and other revenue producing in the various prisons. Other states are operating such plants with great advantage, while states that are not being taxed for hundreds of thousands of dollars to support idle prisoners in their penal institutions.

It has been a common boast for men to declare that they have never scratched their party ticket; that they would vote for a yellow dog if he had received the indorsement of the party for a public office. Such a boast no doubt makes the devil blush. I have known party tickets to be made up not by the honest voters, but by party fixers and shameless party machinery, which decent, self respecting voters would have been justified in baubing from top to bottom with offal from the gutter. The yellow dog in politics is propagated, reared and educated in political parties. He is not all of one party. He is the product of the infernal demand that the party must under all circumstances be supported and upheld. I do not teach party insubordination. I do not teach party discipline. I believe that deliberate party judgment, as a rule, should be paramount.—Ex.

Saved Her Son's Life.

The happiest mother in the little town of Ava, Mo., is Mrs. S. Ruppee. She writes: "One year ago my son was down with such serious lung trouble that our physician was unable to help him; when, by our druggist's advice I began giving him Dr. King's New Discovery, and I soon noticed improvement. I kept this treatment up for a few weeks when he was perfectly well. He has worked steadily since at carpenter work. Dr. King's New Discovery saved his life." Guaranteed best cough and cold cure by F. A. Sigler, Druggist. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

Lincoln and His Beard.

It was a child who persuaded Abraham Lincoln to wear a beard. Up to the time he was nominated for president he had always been smooth shaven. A little girl living in Chautauque county, N. Y., who greatly admired him, made up her mind that he would look better if he wore whiskers and with youthful directness wrote and told him so. He answered her by return mail:

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 19, 1860.
Miss Grace Bedell:
My Dear Little Miss—Your very agreeable letter of the 15th is received. I regret the necessity of saying I have no daughter. I have three sons—one seventeen, one nine and one seven years of age. They, with their mother, constitute my whole family. As to the whiskers, never having worn any, do you not think people would call it a piece of silly affectation if I were to begin it now? Your very sincere well-wisher,
A. LINCOLN.

Evidently on second thought he decided to follow her advice. On his way to Washington his train stopped at the town where she lived. He asked if she were in the crowd gathered at the station to meet him. Of course she was, and willing hands forced a way for her through the mass of people. When she reached the car Mr. Lincoln stepped from the train, kissed her and showed her that he had taken her advice.—St. Nicholas.

OBITUARY.
Another of Pinckney's "Old Boys" Called Home.

James M. Eaman, youngest son of the late Phillip and Rachel Snyder Eaman, died at his home on the shores of Lake Michigan, on March 3d, 1907, at the advanced age of eighty-three years. Mr. Eaman and his family figured so prominently in the early development of Pinckney and Putnam that his demise is worthy of more than a passing notice.

Mr. E. was born at Port Byron, N. Y., December 14th, 1818. A descendant of "Knickerbocker stock," he had in him the stuff from which pioneers are made. In autumn of 1836 he came with his parents and family to Putnam, settling on the farm now occupied by the family of the late C. M. Wood, four miles west of this village. His brother Benjamin Eaman, had preceded them, and was the first settler on the "Burr Oak Plains" of west Putnam. His eldest sister, who was the wife of Daniel Cook, occupied the farm which is the northeast part of Pinckney village and is known as J. W. Hincheys' addition. Mr. Cook planted a row of maple trees on the north side of Main St. opposite Hon. G. W. Teeple's residence. Another sister became the wife of Capt. Edmund B. Tyler, a carpenter, who with his father, Jared Tyler, built many of the old timber frame barns for the early settlers. Mr. Tyler afterwards removed to Dexter and became the agent of the M. C. R. R. and the American Express Co., retiring as a pensioner of the latter company after a continuous service of 37 years. Still another sister became the wife of David H. Waite who settled on the Brokaw farm, just south of the village.

By the will of Mr. Eaman's father a house and lot in the village of Pinckney was bequeathed to the trustees of the First Congregational church (when such a church should be organized) and this became the nucleus of the present Congregational church property.

His brother Benjamin built the Congregational church here, cutting, hewing and framing the timbers on his own farm and hauling the lumber from Flint.

Mr. Eaman enjoyed all the early advantages for securing an education, finishing his schooling at an academy in Ann Arbor, and for a number of winters taught school in log school house which stood at the intersection of roads near the Sprout cemetery.

In 1843 Mr. E. was married to Elizabeth Cook, a daughter of the late Henry Cook, the pioneer of "Cook's Prairie" near Homer, Mich. Seven children were born of this union, all, save one, of whom are still living.

Being of rather slender physique and of a commercial turn of mind Mr. E. decided to engage in mercantile pursuits, and accordingly opened a general store on the site now occupied by F. A. Sigler's Drug Store. For a time he was co-owner of the mill with the late Alvin Mann, and from 1847 to 1865 he was one of the leading merchants of Pinckney. His wife having died the previous year, in 1863 Mr. E. was married to Miss Emeline Young, a graduate of the Normal school who had kept a select school for advanced scholars in a room over the "Eaman store". This wife bore him one son, Ben. J., with whom he made his home in his declining years.

Wishing to engage in a business in which his numerous family could find congenial employment with him, he closed out his holdings in Pinckney and removed to a farm in the famous fruit belt, three miles north of Benton Harbor, where he passed the last 37 years of his life, doing his full share in building up the fame of Berrien county as a "fruit growing paradise." His children, with one exception, are settled within walking distance of his old home and are among the possessors of some of the finest orchards and vineyards on the beach.

Mr. Eaman was a man of cultured and refined tastes, of sterling character and strong convictions. In early life he joined the Sons of Temperance, a total abstinence society, and remained faithful to its pledge to the end of his life. His first vote was cast with the Whig party, and from that he drifted naturally to the Free-Soil and Republican party. He was a delegate to the first republican state convention, which, "under the oaks at Jackson" nominated Kingsley S. Bingham, the first Republican to be elected governor of the state. His trained mind and correct judgment led him to be often called to act in a clerical capacity for his fellow townsmen, and many of the deeds, wills and contracts executed by the citizens of Putnam during the "50's" will be found to be in his clear and legible hand writing. For several terms he was Justice of the Peace for Putnam, and whoever is now the custodian of his old "docket" will find his entries of the records of cases models of neatness and precision, as well as interesting reading. He was always well posted and "up to date" in all matters of public concern, a fearless advocate of political reform and clean government, a consistent exponent of good morals and right living, and his interest in the affairs and people of Pinckney was keen to the last. "He rests from his labors and his works do follow him."

A mad dog made a trip through the eastern part of Howell township and in Oceola one day last week. After biting several other dogs it was killed. The dogs that were known to have been bitten have also been killed. It is feared that some stock may have also been bitten.

Last Thursday, while the mail for the Condensed Milk factory at Howell was being carried from the postoffice to the factory a letter was dropped. Later it was picked up by one of the girls employed in a bean picking establishment and word telephoned the Milk office. The letter contained a check for $42,000 for the payment of the help and farmers for February.

Elastic Inexpensive Durable

Stops Leaks, Prevents Rust, Checks Decay, Guaranteed for 5 years. Made in Black only.

This paint is the old original roof and iron paint placed on the market by us many years ago. It is the pioneer of roof paints, and we are the parents of the roofing paint industry in this country. Through all these years this paint has sold in greater quantities each season, despite the fact that hundreds of imitations, represented to be "just as good" have flooded the country with advertising similar to ours in an attempt to divert our trade.

For use on Roofs, Iron or Metal Buildings, or any surface where a thoroughly good paint is required, Hascall's Carbon Paint is unequalled, as time and experience and thousands of imitations prove.

More Money for Eggs

Under most any conditions. There is a lot of money to be made in the egg business if conditions are right. There is no reason why Farmers and Poultry Raisers should not make just as good profits on their investments as any other line of business, and it is possible for them to do so. The price of eggs during the winter months is double and sometimes more than double that paid during the summer months. The only way to take advantage of this advance is to hold summer eggs for winter prices. That fresh eggs can be kept from six to nine months or more has been proven by careful testing with

Keep the Armholes Down.

It is strange that not one person in a thousand knows how to help a man on with his coat or a lady with her jacket. They all make the mistake of holding the garment too high, especially the last sleeve. They lift it so that a man nearly dislocates his arm reaching for it. The more futilely he grabs and claws and lurches for it the higher they hold it until the wretched victim would have to get on a pair of stilts to find the armhole. The proper way? Why, hold the coat so that the armholes are as low down as the man's waist, taking care to keep the skirt of the garment off the floor, of course. If there is any struggle to find the last armhole, drop it still lower. Never raise it. Drop it until his hand slips into it naturally.

Spider Chased a Man.

A story is told by an explorer of a large and fierce South American spider which chases men if they come too near its lurking places. On one occasion he was pursued by one. "Riding at an easy trot over the dry grass," he writes, "I observed a spider pursuing me, leaping swiftly along and keeping up with my beast. I aimed a blow with my whip, and the point of the lash struck the ground close to it, when it instantly leaped upon and ran up the lash and was actually within three or four inches of my hand when I flung the whip from me." The News—No Pure Drug Cough Cure Laws would be needed, if all Cough Cures were like Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure is—and has been for 20 years. The National Law now requires that if any poisons enter into a cough mixture, it must be printed on the label or package. For this reason mothers and others, should insist on having Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. No poison marks on Dr. Shoop's labels—and none in the medicine, else it must by law be on the label. And it's not only safe, but it is said to be by those that know it best, a truly remarkable cough remedy. Take no chance, particularly with your children. Insist on having Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. Compare carefully the Dr. Shoop package with others and see. No poison marks there! You can always be on the safe side by demanding Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. Simply refuse to accept any other. England's "Fiery Dragons." In the year 1532 various parts of Great Britain were visited by a remarkable meteorological phenomenon, which the old authors refer to as "the visitation of the fire drakes or dragons." The author of "Contemplation of Mysteries" says: "In ye letter parte of ye yeare (1532) ye fieri dragons appeared flying by flocks or companies in ye ayre, having swines' snowtes, and sometimes were theye seene foure hundred flying together." In speaking of the fire dragons in another portion of his work he says, "Common people thinke fire drakes to be spirits which watch over hidden treasure, but the philosophers affirm them to be ye result of poisonous vapors which are spontaneously lighted in ye ayre."

Constipation

Baked sweet apples, with some people, bring prompt relief for Constipation. With others, coarse all-wheat bread will have the same effect. Nature undoubtedly has a vegetable remedy to relieve every ailment known to man, if physicians can but find Nature's way to health. And this is strikingly true with regard to Constipation.

The bark of a certain tree in California—Cascara Sagrada—offers a most excellent aid to this end. But, combined with Egyptian Senna, Slippery Elm Bark, Solid Extract of Prunes, etc., this same Cascara bark is given its greatest possible power to correct constipation. A toothsome Candy Tablet, called Lax-ets, is now made at the Dr. Shoop Laboratories, from this ingenious and most effective prescription. Its effect on Constipation, Biliousness, Sour Stomach, Bad Breath, Sallow Complexion, etc., is indeed prompt and satisfying.

No gripping, no unpleasant after effects are experienced, and Lax-ets are put up in beautiful lithographed metal boxes at 5 cents and 25 cents per box.

FADED TO A SHADOW,

Worn Down by Five Years of Suffering from Kidney Complaint.

Mrs. Remette Myers, of 180 South Teath St., Boston, O., says: "I have worked hard in my time and have been exposed again and again to changes of weather. It is no wonder my kidneys gave out and I went all to pieces at last. For five years I was fading away and finally so weak that for six months I could not get out of the house. I was nervous, restless and sleepless at night, and lame and sore in the morning. Sometimes everything would whiz and blur before me. I bloated so badly I could not wear tight clothing, and had to put on shoes two sizes larger than usual. The urine was disordered and passages were dreadfully frequent. I got help from the first box of Doan's Kidney Pills, however, and by the time I had taken four boxes the pain and bloating were gone. I have been in good health ever since."

THE ARTISTIC WALL.

One of Solid Color Will Always Give Best Effect.

The dearest, faintest, most artistic wall is a solid colored wall. It furnishes a perfect background for all kinds of pictures, it throws them out in their correct proportions, and does not detract from their artistic value. The solid colored wall is also much better as a background for furniture, and harmonizes much more artistically with carpets and rugs than any other method of wall treatment. The less breaking up of color on a wall the more artistic it is.

The most successful form of the solid colored wall is an alabastined wall. There is as much difference between tinted walls, as there is between shoddy and all-wool gowns. The shoddy gown holds its color for a few days, while the all-wool keeps its color to the very last thread, so also in solid colored walls, there are shoddy walls and permanently colored walls which retain their color down to the very last particle. The ideal wall coating never rubs off, never flakes nor chips off and is always ready for a fresh coat. If there is wallpaper on the wall soak it off with warm water, then go over the plaster after you have removed the paper with warm water to remove every trace of paste. Have the wall thoroughly clean for a clean wall cannot be built on an uneven foundation. If there are any particles of foreign matter adhering to the wall scrape them off with a putty knife. Then if there are any discolorations on the wall, size it with a material made from cheap varnish, thinned down with benzine and Japan added for a drier, then cover your wall with your tinting material.

To see your man uses a tinting material mixed with cold water. If he comes to you and asks for warm water, you can make up your mind that there is glue in the material which he promises to put on your wall, and you can be certain that you are going to have a shoddy wall, for glue means shoddy. Glue means that it will hold its color long enough for the man to collect his bill and not much longer. Insist on your tinting material being mixed with clean, cold water. Be sure that your wall is made from pure materials, then you will have a permanent, artistic, sanitary wall. A wall that will be a thing of beauty and a joy forever."

FOOLED THE PREACHER.

A Doctor's Brother Thought Postum Was Coffee.

A wise doctor found out coffee was hurting him, so he quit drinking it. He was so busy with his practice, however, that his wife had to write how he fooled his brother, a clergyman, one day at dinner. She says: "Doctor found coffee was injuring him and decided to give Postum a trial, and we have used it now for four years, with continued benefit. In fact, he is now free from the long train of ills that follow coffee drinking."

To show how successful we are in making Postum properly I will relate an incident. At a dinner we gave, Doctor suggested we serve Postum instead of ordinary coffee.

Doctor's brother, a clergyman, supposed it was old-fashioned coffee and remarked, as he called for his second cup: "If you do preach against coffee, I see you haven't forgotten how to make it."

This goes to show that well-made—fully bottled—Postum has much the flavor and richness of good coffee although it has an individuality all its own. A tea days' trial will prove that it has none of the poisonous effect of ordinary coffee, but will correct the troubles caused by coffee. "There's a reason." Name furnished by Postum Co., Ltd., Battle Creek, Mich.

THE RAILROADS.

Conference With President Roosevelt Over Regulation.

A series of important conferences on matters pertaining to the regulation of railroads was begun at the White House last week when the president met, at his own request the governor and the attorney-general of Illinois. To the same end Mr. Roosevelt will have a talk with Gov. Hughes, of New York, and other state executives, the particular object being a reconciliation of the interests of the several states, and of the nation in the matter of railway control.

The meeting is expected to result in no immediate issue for it was held with the distinct object of preparing for next winter's campaign in congress, when the president will urge the enactment of further legislation to control the common carriers. No statement could be obtained either from the White House or from the Illinois officials as to just what transpired at the conference, but no secret is made of the fact that President Roosevelt is seeking constantly for information and opinions, as to the solution of what he regards as serious railway problems.

In pursuance of his railway policy, Mr. Roosevelt will not be influenced by events in Wall street in any way. That there was a serious disturbance in financial circles this week, he does not regard as his concern, and he will not alter his course in regard to the railroads in the slightest degree.

FLOOD AND FIRE.

Pittsburg Suffers Great Loss From the Elements.

With the city's business district battling the greatest flood in the history of Pittsburg, and most of the fire engines at work pumping out the big business buildings downtown, Friday morning, two disastrous fires broke out on the south side. The first destroyed the plant of the American Sheet & Tin Plate Co., at the foot of South Fourteenth street, and slightly damaged the Oliver Steel & Iron Works. There was practically no water to fight the flames. What little could be commanded was used in extinguishing this fire. The second blaze, in Mt. Washington, had to be fought with chemicals, bucket brigades and dynamite. Twenty-five business houses and dwellings, including several tenements, were destroyed before the fire burned itself out. Dynamiting of buildings to stay the fire was hard work, as in each case the wreckage took fire. The loss in the Mt. Washington fire is estimated at $200,000, and in the first fire at $26,000.

Ten square miles in the downtown section of the city is under water from the flood, which reached 37 feet, the highest stage ever known.

Enormous damage has been caused. It will run above ten millions, but cannot be computed now. One hundred thousand men are idle. The telephone service is practically out of business and telegraph service may be lost.

All the towns in a radius of 50 miles are cut off from Pittsburg and the outside world, including Wheeling, W. Va.

Demand Self Government.

The Porto Rico house of delegates unanimously adopted a resolution, introduced by Luis Munos Rivera, leader of the Unionist party, demanding self government for Porto Rico. The resolution, which is to be forwarded to President Roosevelt, is to be printed in several languages and mailed to foreign countries for distribution there. In presenting the resolution Mr. Rivera made a long patriotic address, voicing the ambition of the Unionist party, and when he read the text of the resolution itself there was an enthusiastic demonstration on the part of the delegates, who embraced its author. The latter was so stirred by emotion that he shed tears.

Thaw's Expectations.

Harry K. Thaw is planning a trip to Europe immediately after his trial. So confident is Thaw of acquittal that he is preparing to leave the United States to get away from the notoriety which is certain to follow him if he is set free. The visit of the Countess of Yarmouth to the Tombs to confer with her brother Saturday, the first she had made in several weeks, was said to be for the purpose of arranging details for Thaw's sailing. Thaw, it was reported, will return to Europe with the countess after the acquittal to which he looks forward. Evelyn and Mrs. Thaw, his mother, it is stated, will complete the party.

Answer Extraordinary.

One of the most extraordinary answers to a damage suit filed in the United States circuit court in years was that presented to Judge R. W. Taylor, in Toledo, Saturday, by the Grand Trunk railroad, which is being sued by Janis E. Bierbower, mother of Elsie E. Janis, the actress, in which it is charged that if Miss Janis had a contract to entertain in a theater March 6, 1904, the instrument was void, because Michigan laws prohibit working on Sunday. This places before Judge Taylor the question of whether the Sunday closing laws of Michigan can be enforced.

BRIEFS.

Of a supposed incendiary origin, fire has destroyed the Maple City creamery, entailing a loss of $1,200.

WAS CURED!

Gen. Sir Ian Hamilton of the British army wrote the evening after one of the great battles which he had witnessed between Russians and Japanese in the recent war in Manchuria: "To bed! Although it is with reluctance that I prepare to lose my grip of the exciting consciousness that I have to-day seen the most stupendous spectacle that it is possible for mortal brain to conceive—Asia advancing, Europe falling back; the wall of mist and the writing thereon." Then as to the meaning of this retreat of Europe before advancing Asia: "The more I think the more certain I am that it was not strategy or tactics, or armament or information, which won the battle of Liaoyang for Oyama, but that it was rather the souls of the Japanese troops which triumphed over the less developed, less awakened, less stimulated qualities of the Russians."

Record Mountain Climbing.

The redoubtable enterprise of climbing Mont Blanc in midwinter has recently been successfully carried out. The climber is an artist-photographer of Chamounix—M. Max Willmann. The climb took two days and nights. With M. Willmann were two guides. During all three days the weather was arctic in point of cold, but otherwise splendid.

THREE BOYS HAD ECZEMA.

Were Treated at Dispensary—Did Not Improve—Suffered Five Months—Perfect Cure by Cuticura.

"My three children had eczema for five months. A little sore would appear on the head and seemed very itchy, increasing day after day. The baby had had it about a week when the second boy took the disease and a few sores developed, then the third boy took it. For the first three months I took them to the N— Dispensary, but they did not seem to improve. Then I used Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment and in a few weeks they had improved, and when their heads were well you could see nothing of the sores. Coldest European Winter.

In the year 1814 the Thames froze and the English channel was for a time impassable because of icebergs. The coldest European winter on record was that of 1708-1709. It began early in October. In 1740 also the cold was so intense that birds fell dead to the ground.

TACK THIS UP.

Simple Advice Which May Prove of Untold Value.

At the first sign of Backache or pain in the region of the Kidneys, or weakness and Urinary trouble, the following simple prescription should be used:

Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Take a teaspoonful after each meal and at bedtime.

Any good prescription pharmacy will supply these three ingredients at small cost, which can easily be mixed by shaking well in a bottle. This is said to force the Kidneys to filter the sour acids and poisons from the blood, overcoming the worst cases of Rheumatism.

Secret of Japan's Success.

Gen. Sir Ian Hamilton of the British army wrote the evening after one of the great battles which he had witnessed between Russians and Japanese in the recent war in Manchuria: "To bed! Although it is with reluctance that I prepare to lose my grip of the exciting consciousness that I have to-day seen the most stupendous spectacle that it is possible for mortal brain to conceive—Asia advancing, Europe falling back; the wall of mist and the writing thereon." Then as to the meaning of this retreat of Europe before advancing Asia: "The more I think the more certain I am that it was not strategy or tactics, or armament or information, which won the battle of Liaoyang for Oyama, but that it was rather the souls of the Japanese troops which triumphed over the less developed, less awakened, less stimulated qualities of the Russians."

Physiological Mystery.

According to some curious investigations conducted by English scientists, eldest sons tend to be criminals and youngest sons paupers. A great many thousand school children and many family histories have been examined to yield these results. First-born children were found to be, as a rule, taller and heavier, with greater ability and endurance than the others. This is in accordance with the popular feeling in many countries that the oldest child is superior to the others and deserving of special privileges. It is a well established fact that among men of genius an undue proportion are eldest sons.—Detroit Free Press.

SCIATIC TORTURE

A Locomotive Engineer Tells How He Was Cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

"Pain that seizes almost unbearable in its character, of sciatic rheumatism. In some cases the pain is knife-like, sharp or shooting; in others it is dull and aching. Sciatica is stubborn in resisting treatment and the patient frequently suffers for years. This was the case with Mr. Herbert E. Spaulding, a locomotive engineer on the Cincinnati, New Orleans & Texas Pacific Railway, whose home is at Longview, Texas.

"While running an engine some years ago," he says, "I fell off and hurt my knee and spine and I have always considered this to be the cause of my illness. The sciatica took hold of me from my heel to the back of my head. The pain was the worst I ever suffered in my life and my leg and back were twisted out of shape. I was under a physician's care for several months and for six months could not get out of bed. I also went to Hot Springs but came back in a worse condition than when I went.

"It was when I was down in bed that I heard of the case of a Mr. Allison, a much older man than myself, who had been cured of sciatica by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I began taking the pills and soon was able to get out of bed. When I had taken six boxes I was able to work about the house and yard. I kept right on with the pills until I was cured and I have never had any return of the trouble. I have been running an engine ever since."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or sent postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box, six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

RAILROAD

HEADS OF GREAT TRUNK LINES CAJOLE, THREATEN AND MOURN.

THE GOVERNOR'S OPINION

Since the interview with the President Railroad Men Talk Ruin and Two-Cent Fares.

The panic of the railroad presidents continues. First they beg, then they warn, and finally they threaten. Some of them are openly talking financial disaster, others are throwing bouquets at President Roosevelt, still others are planning reprisals. Many of them openly favor federal supervision, but all are united in damning the state legislatures with their two-cent fare and freight rate bills. Now comes J. Pierpont Morgan's paper, the New York Sun, with the biting satire, directed at the president himself. It says editorially:

"It is worse than nonsense to talk of diminishing the service, of abandoning the fast trains, of abolishing the communication system, the mileage tickets and the hundred and one amenities to which the public has become habituated. Such tactics only betray a futile exasperation and denote an attenuated imagination. The thing to do is to expand the service if it is physically practicable to do it; to treat the public better than it ever was treated before, and to go into bankruptcy with all imaginable grace and affability."

"The people are ruining the railroads," yelled Mr. Gould, son of the greatest "railroad wrecker" of modern times.

A. B. Stickney, president of the Chicago Great Western railroad, makes this terrible prediction: "The people are now laying the foundation firm and strong for a tremendous panic. A decrease in the average rates of only a mill per ton a mile," said Mr. Stickney, "would wipe out all the dividends, and a further decrease of a mill and a third would be equivalent to all the interest on their bonds and other indebtedness. Within six months wages, which constitute about 60 per cent of the operating expenses of railroads, have been increased fully 10 per cent, and unless railway rates can be increased as much the leading railroads will be forced into bankruptcy."

President James J. Hill, of the Great Northern railroad, told the Sunberg legislative committee, of Minnesota, that he would be only too willing to have the United States government take over his road.

"Then," said Mr. Hill, "the government would be obliged to engage in another lottery to get rid of the elephant."

Mr. Hill was then asked what the government would have to pay for control of the Great Northern. The witness replied that it would cost upwards of $40,000 per mile to "reproduce" the road, not counting terminals, docks and other property. Counting these, he said it would take about $60,000 per mile.

"With two demagogues running for president or, rather, one running and the other occupying the president's chair—it is a dangerous situation for business men and business companies," said Capt. J. J. Jones, of Chicago, vice president and principal owner of the Gulf & Ship Island railroad, in a letter to officials here. This corporation is capitalized at $6,000,000 and has bonds and other outstanding debts of $7,275,000. President Jones is ranked as a multi-millionaire.

The "demagogues" referred to in his letter are Roosevelt and Bryan.

Gov. Warner was one of the principal speakers at the fourth annual dinner of the Roosevelt club in Flint, dealing mostly with the two-cent fare bill now before the legislature. The governor said that statistics showed that lower fares meant more business for the railroads and increase instead of loss in revenue. The governor said that legislation would pass to overcome the fare shortage and obviate such a situation in the future.

THE PANIC.

Shrinkage of a Billion Dollars Set Wall Street Wild.

The nervousness and excitement which prevailed in Wall street on Thursday grew somewhat less Friday. No dealer in stocks can offer an explanation for the slump of the past two days. It is agreed, however, that it was essentially a rich man's panic or else there would have been failures by the score, for the small dealer in securities and the shoe-string financier could not have stood the bear movement that sent stocks tumbling at the rate of a million dollars a minute until values had been cut nearly $1,000,000,000.

The panic is the strangest on record, for despite the enormous declines, no failures have occurred and no banks actually are in need of government help. Secretary Cortelyou's action was taken for the sake of its soothing effect, but at the same time it is no secret that government officials are more than a little suspicious. They still suspect that the panic is headed by a class of rich men who have a ulterior motive in starting it, and that the whole situation has been planned about by the men who want President Roosevelt's interference in their financial affairs of railroads.

Stood the Test.

Allcock's Plasters have successfully stood the test of sixty years' use by the public; their virtues have never been equaled by the unscrupulous imitators who have sought to trade upon their reputation by making plasters with holes in them, and claiming them to be "just as good as Allcock's."

WOMEN IN HOSPITALS

Experiences of Mrs. Rockwood and Miss Tierney

MISS MARGARET TIERNEY

MRS. CHAS. A. ROCKWOOD

A large proportion of the operations performed in our hospitals are upon women and girls for some organic trouble.

Why should this be the case?

Because they have neglected themselves, as every one of these patients in the hospital beds had plenty of warning in those dragging sensations, pains at left or right of abdomen, backaches, nervous exhaustion, inflammation, ulceration, displacements, and other organic weaknesses.

All of these symptoms are indications of an unhealthy condition of the female system and if not heeded the penalty has to be paid by a dangerous operation. When these symptoms manifest themselves, do not drag along until you are obliged to go to the hospital and submit to an operation—but remember that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, has saved hundreds of women from surgical operations.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has cured more cases of feminine ills than any other one remedy. Such letters as the following are constantly being received by Mrs. Pinkham to prove our claims.

Mrs. C. A. Rockwood, teacher of Parliamentary Law, of 58 Free St., Fredonia, N. Y., writes:

"For years I suffered with female trouble. It was decided that an operation was necessary, and although I submitted to a serious operation my sufferings continued, until Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was recommended and it proved a marvelous remedy, so quickly did it restore my health. I cannot thank you sufficiently for the good it has done me."

Miss Margaret Tierney, of No. 328 W. 25th Street, New York, writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:

"When only eighteen years of age our physician decided that an operation was necessary to permit of my womanly organs performing their natural functions. My mother objected and being urged by a relative to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did so. I soon improved in health, the proper conditions were established and I am well and strong, thanks to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."

No other remedy has such unqualified endorsement as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. No other remedy in the world has such a record of cures of female ills.

Mrs. Pinkham's Standing Invitation to Women

Women suffering from any form of female weakness are invited to promptly communicate with Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. From the symptoms given, the trouble may be located and the quickest and surest way of recovery advised. Out of her vast volume of experience in treating female ills Mrs. Pinkham probably has the very knowledge that may help your case. Her advice is free and always helpful.

The Well Informed of the World.

A vast fund of personal knowledge is really essential to the achievement of the highest excellence in any field of human effort.

A Knowledge of Forms, Knowledge of Functions and Knowledge of Products are all of the utmost value and in questions of life and health when a true and wholesome remedy is desired it should be remembered that Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna, manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co., is an ethical product which has met with the approval of the most eminent physicians and gives universal satisfaction, because it is a remedy of Known Quality, Known Excellence and Known Component Parts and has won the valuable patronage of millions of the Well Informed of the world, who know of their own personal knowledge and from actual use that it is the first and best of family laxatives, for which no extravagant or unreasonable claims are made.

This valuable remedy has been long and favorably known under the name of—Syrup of Figs—and has attained to world-wide acceptance as the most excellent family laxative. As its pure laxative principles, obtained from Senna, are well known to physicians and the Well Informed of the world to be the best we have adopted the more elaborate name of—Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna—as more fully descriptive of the remedy, but doubtless it will always be called for by the shorter name of—Syrup of Figs—and to get its beneficial effects, always note, when purchasing the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—printed on the front of every package, whether you call for—Syrup of Figs—or by the full name—Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna.

Saturday evening, March 16, the Al Fresco club held a banquet at John White's. This being the last regular meeting of the club, was well attended, supper being served to about 45. Percy Hinchey then favored the club with a recitation. At a late hour, the guests departed, pronouncing the Al Fresco meetings a grand success.

The Human Electric Battery.

The superstition that human beings should sleep with their heads to the north is believed by the French to have for its foundation a scientific fact. They affirm that each human system is in itself an electric battery, the head being one of the electrodes, the feet the other. Their proof was discovered from experiments which the Academy of Sciences was allowed to make on the body of a man who was guillotined. This was taken the instant it fell and placed upon a pivot free to move as it might. The head part, after a little vacillation, turned to the north, and the body then remained stationary. It was turned half way round by one of the professors, and again the head end of the trunk moved slowly to the cardinal point due north, the same results being repeated until the final arrestation of organic movement.

The Tobacconist's Sign.

One of the most peculiar things in the whole history of signs is the fact that while all other shopkeepers were patronizing the embryo painters the tobacconist always called upon the woodcarver on the continent as well as in England. As long ago as Elizabeth's reign the wooden image of the black boy was the favorite sign of the tobacconist dealers. Later the customary sign was the highlander or a figure of Sir Walter Raleigh. In Holland, for some strange reason, the tobacconists adopted the dairymaid as their sign, with the motto, "Consolation for sucklings." The Indian, naturally enough, has always been the predominant sign in this country, though once in awhile a reversal of type crops out with the ancient black boy.

The Great Jenner.

An Englishman had occasion to go often to an eminent physician and said to Jeames, "You will be tired of opening the door for me." "Not at all, sir," was the gracious reply; "you are but a hunt in the ocean."
Another Jeames was accustomed to say during his master's occasional absences: "You had better try hoppistie. There's a very respectable man hoppistie as we often sends to when Sir William is absent. His name is Jenner."—London Mail.

Ten dollar bills last about three years and twenty dollar bills more than four years.—Youth's Companion.
