

INCORPORATED

CL. XXV. PINCKNEY, LIVINGSTON CO., MICH., THURSDAY, MAR. 28, 1907.

For Quality Bowman's Price

Laces and Embroideries

Our Complete Spring Lines are now on sale. Prices are as low as we ever sold similar quality for. Colors can be matched with insertion.

Beautiful assortment of Corset Cover and all-over Embroideries. Fine variety of All-over Laces. New Stock of "American Lady" and J. C. C. Corsets. Buy your next corset of us.

Every department in our store is complete. It's a pleasure to hand out a big item at a bargain price, when we know we are getting Cash, Eggs or Butter, no bad accounts.

CASH IS KING

Come to us—every day is bargain day at

E. A. Bowman's
Howell's Busy Store

Township Election.

Next Monday is the annual township election, and besides voting for the township officers the voter will have a chance to declare himself for or against the following amendments to the constitution:

ARTICLE XVIII, SECTION 8.
The proposed amendment to Article XVIII, Section 8, of the Constitution, provides that Section 3 of Article XVIII, which reads, "No mechanical trade shall hereafter be taught to convicts in the State prison of this State, except the manufacture of those articles of which the chief supply for home consumption is imported from other states or countries," be stricken out.

This amendment, if adopted, removes the Constitutional prohibition, relative to the teaching of mechanical trades in the State prison.

ARTICLE VI, SECTION 6.
The proposed amendment to Article VI, Section 6, of the Constitution, if adopted, empowers the boards of supervisors in the counties of Ingham and Jackson and the counties in the judicial circuit in which the county of Isabella is or may be situated to give and pay the circuit judge of the judicial circuit to which such county is attached such additional salary or compensation as may be fixed and determined from time to time by such board of supervisors.

ARTICLE X, SECTION 10.
The proposed amendment to Article X, Section 10, of the Constitution, if adopted, provides for a Board of County Auditors for the counties of Bay, Cheboygan and St. Clair.

The following are the nominees on the tickets for the coming election.

DEMOCRAT.
Supervisor, John Dunne.
Clerk, W. H. Moran.
Treasurer, W. W. Barnard.
Hy. Com., Bert VanBlaricum.
Justice, E. W. Kennedy.
Mem. B. of R., Frank Tiplady.
School Insp., Edward Spears.
Constables, J. W. Placeway, John Jefferys, Henry Harris, John Fohey.

REPUBLICAN.
Supervisor, Will Miller.
Clerk, Fred Bowman.
Treasurer, W. S. Swartout.
Justice
Mem. B. of R., Frank Johnson.
School Insp., Geo. Fish.
Constables, Perry Blunt, F. G. Jackson, Ben Isham, H. D. Mowers.

Come and Examine
Our New Stock of

Up-to-Date

WALL PAPER

A Full Line of Easter Post Cards

Pure Drugs—Prescriptions Carefully Compounded at

F. A. SIGLER'S

Well Begun is Half Done

Just make a start, then it's easy to have a good portrait of yourself.

Pretty and Suitable Mountings for all Styles of Photographs.

Photographic Studio

Bessie B. Chapell
Stockbridge, Michigan

LOCAL NEWS.

The report of the treasure of Pinckney appears in this issue.

Miss Ethel Read of Satine is home for a few weeks vacation.

Miss Edith Smith of Cohoctah was the guest of friends here the past week.

Mrs. Dwight Butler of Durand is visiting relatives and friends in this place.

The legislature is to be asked for $100,000 to complete the sanatorium at Howell.

Dr. E. L. Moore and Thos. Read have been enjoying their autos to some extent the past week. The roads have been good part of the time.

Fred Glenn and wife of North Lake were in town on business one day the past week.

Quite a heavy thunder shower Saturday night. Made the grass show up a little green.

It has been a good many years since there were as many auctions as there has been this spring.

Gregg Taft of Northville spent a few days with Fred Read, coming home with him from Ypsilanti.

Monday next is All Fool's day. Well it is election day and there will probably be some fooling going on.

A good many of the college students were home the past week some to spend a weeks vacation and others especially to attend the play at the opera house.

Alex. McIntyre and wife have moved into the Goodrich House on Pearl street and their son John and family have moved onto the farm and will work it the coming year.

John C. Mortenson, being about to move to Toledo, will sell his personal property at Auction on the premises 2 miles east and 1 mile north of Pinckney, on Tuesday, April 2 at one o'clock sharp.

Word was received here this week that Rex Boston of Detroit had the misfortune to fall and run a nail through the palm of his hand which made a very painful and serious wound.

Special Sale

SATURDAY and MONDAY

March 30 and April 1

Come and Let Us

SHOW YOU

L. L. Holmes Clothing Co.
J. P. PRESLEY, Mngr.

2ND DOOR WEST OF P. O.

Easter Creations

The MISSES MURPHY

Announce their Spring Showing of

Easter Millinery

Including a Full and Complete Line of Millinery in Women's Hats,

Thursday, Friday, Saturday, March 28, 29, 30

You are Cordially Invited to Attend

OPERA HOUSE BLOCK, PINCKNEY

Ray Tompkins
Contractor and Builder

Can furnish large or small bills of lumber within thirty days and save you money, especially on inside finish. Let me figure on your job.

Lakeland, Michigan

Tell Me Your Trouble

And don't suffer with bad fitting plates and aching teeth

Seventeen Years Experience

With all classes of these troubles we have given us great proficiency in correcting these difficulties.

After April 1

Will not be in our office on Monday of each week

Bridges and Crowns $4.00
Plates, 10 yr warranty 8.00
Silver fillings 50c to 1.00
Gold fillings $1.50 up

Dr. E. L. Moore
PHONE 5
Stockbridge, Michigan

"He Don't Hurt You"

Hygeno disinfectant

175,000,000

saves the dollars

WHEN HYGENO is used by every stock owner the annual loss of $175,000,000 due to parasites and insects on live stock (U.S. Government estimate) will disappear.

IT NOT ONLY KILLS BUT CURES SCAB, MANGE, ITCH, ETC., BUT DRIVES AWAY ROACHES AND BED BUGS.

There are no germs in 100 different ways. We will send you a sample.

Hygeno disinfectant

175,000,000

saves the dollars

WHEN HYGENO is used by every stock owner the annual loss of $175,000,000 due to parasites and insects on live stock (U.S. Government estimate) will disappear.

IT NOT ONLY KILLS BUT CURES SCAB, MANGE, ITCH, ETC., BUT DRIVES AWAY ROACHES AND BED BUGS.

There are no germs in 100 different ways. We will send you a sample.

THE LIONS OF THE LORD

By HARRY LEON WILSON
Author of "The Spenders"

Copyright, 1915, by Lethrop Publishing Co.

CHAPTER XXVII—Continued.

She looked up at him, embarrassed, and stepped back across the narrow trail, her head down again, so that he was free to pass. But instead of passing, she became aware that he had dismounted.

When she looked up, he was busily engaged in adjusting something about his saddle, with an expression of deepest concern in his blue eyes. His hat was another ground, and his yellow hair glistened where the band had pressed it about his head.

"It's that lingo strap," he remarked, in a tone of some annoyance. "I've had to fix it every five miles since I left Kaabab." Then looking up at her with a friendly smile: "Dandy most of you, I reckon."

The amazement of it was that, after her first flurry at the sound of his voice and his half-seen movements up the trail, it should now seem all so commonplace.

"Oh, no, I was well out of his way." She started again to cross the trail, stepping quickly, with her eyes down, but again his voice came, less deliberate this time, and with words in something less than intelligible sequence.

"Excuse me, Miss—but now how many miles to what's the name of the nearest settlement—I suppose you live hereabouts?"

"What did you say?"

"I say is there any place where I could get to stop a day or so in Arizona?"

"Oh—I didn't understand—I think so; at least, my father sometimes—but there's Elder Wardle, he often stays hereabouts."

"Stay with your father?"

"That's all right—I don't know, I'm sure," she looked doubtful.

"OK, all right—I'll ask Mr. M.—if you'll show me his place."

"It's the first place on the left after you leave the canyon—with the big peach orchard—I'm not going home just yet."

He stroked the muzzle of the horse. "Oh, I'm in no hurry, I'm just looking over the country a little. Your father's name is—"

"Ask for Elder Rae—or one of his wives will say if they can keep you over night."

She caught something new in his glance, and felt the blood in her face. "I must go now—you can find your way—I must go."

"Well, if you must go," he picked up his hat, "but I'll see you again. You'll be coming home this evening, I reckon?"

"The first house on the left," she answered, and stepped once more across the trail, her head down.

When she was alone, she came out again to her look beside the stream where, a moment before, her dream had filled her. But now, though nothing had happened beyond the riding by of a strange youth, the dream no longer sufficed. In place of the moonlit balcony was the figure of this young stranger swaying with his horse down between the hollowed shoulders of the Pine mountains and reining up suddenly to sweep his broad hat low in front of her. She was surprised by the clearness with which she could recall the details of his appearance—a boyish-looking fellow, with wide-open blue eyes and a sunbrowned face under his yellow hair, the smallest of moustaches, and a nose of such winning good-humor that it had seemed to force her to smile in answer.

Of her steady in her mind, the sturdy young figure, rather loose-jointed but with an easy grace of movement, and the engaging naturalness of his manner. But after all nothing had happened since the passing of a stranger; and she must go alone back to her dream. Yet now, the night riding; a strange youth came riding out of the east, sitting on a horse with a black and white saddle, a long rangy neck and strong quarters; and he—the youth—wore a broad, gray hat, with a band of silver tinsel, a scarlet kerchief at his throat, a scarlet sash at his waist, and yellow leggings.

When she thought of a young man with yellow hair above his shoulders, she would look at than the face of the man in the play. It was not so palpable, it mattered. So she mused about them alternately, the dream and the Gentle—taking perhaps a warmer interest in the latter for his airiness, for the grasp of his hand at parting, which she, with astonishment, had felt her own hand cordially returning.

For two weeks they heard nothing of the wandering Gentle, and Prudence had begun to wonder if she would ever see him again; also to wonder why an uncertainty in the matter should seem to be of importance.

But one evening early in June they saw him walking up in the dusk, the light sombrero, the scarlet kerchief against the blue woollen shirt, the holster with its heavy Colt's revolver at either hip, the easy moving figure, and the strong, yet boyish face.

He greeted them pleasantly, though the girl thought, with some restraint. She could not hear it in his words, but she felt it in his manner, something suppressed and deeply hidden. They asked where his horse was and he replied with a curious air of embarrassment:

"Well, you see, I may be obliged to stop around here a quite some while, so I put up with this man Wardle—not wanting to impose upon you all—and thanking you very kindly, and not wishing to intrude—so I just came to say 'howdy' to you."

They expressed regret that he had not returned to them, Joel Rae urging him to reconsider; but he declined politely, showing a desire to talk of other things.

Then he spoke of adventures with the Indians while freighting over the Santa Fe trail, and of what a fine man his father, Ezra Calkins, was. It was the first time he had mentioned the name and her ear caught it at once.

"Your father's name is Calkins?"

"Yes—I'm only an adopted son."

Down in the Panhandle they were getting control of a ranch that would cover 5,000 square miles, and some day they would have every one of its 1,000,000 acres enclosed with a stout wire fence. It would be a big ranch, bigger than the whole state of Connecticut—bigger than Delaware and Rhode Island—"lumped together," he had been told. Here they would have the "C lax C," brand on, probably a hundred and fifty thousand head of cattle. He thought the business would settle down to this conservative basis with the loose ends of it pulled together; with closer attention paid to branding, for one thing; branding the calves, so they would no longer have to rope a full-grown steer, and tie it with a scarf such as he wore about his waist.

But they were also working some placer claims up around Helena, and developing a quartz prospect over at Carson City. And the freighting was by no means "played out." He, himself, had driven a six-mule team with one line over the Santa Fe trail, and might have to do it again. The resources of the west were not exhausted, whatever they might say. A man with a head on him would be able to make a good living there for some years to come.

Both father and daughter found him an agreeable young man in spite of his being an alien from the Commonwealth of Israel. He remained with them three days looking over the country about Amalon, talking with its people and making himself at least not an object of suspicion and aversion, as the casual Gentle was apt to be. Prudence found herself usually at ease with him; he was so wholly likable and unassuming. Yet at times he seemed strangely mature and reserved to her, so that she was just a little awed.

He told her in their evenings many wonder-tales of that outside world where the wicked Gentiles lived; of populous cities on the western edge of it, and of vast throngs that crowded the interior clear over to the Atlantic ocean. She had never realized before what a small handful of people the Lord had set His hand to save, and what vast numbers He had made with hearts that should be hardened to the glorious articles of the new covenant.

When he left he told them he was making a little trip through the settlements to the north, possibly as far as Cedar City. He did not know how long he would be gone, but if nothing prevented he might be back that way. He shook hands with them both at parting, and though he spoke so vaguely about a return, his eyes seemed to tell Prudence that he would like very much to come. He had talked freely

when she had given her little bow. She heard him say:

"I already met your daughter, sir, at the mouth of the canyon."

She went on toward the house, hearing them resume their talk, the stranger saying, "That horse can sure carry all the weight you want to put on him and step away good; he'll do it right at both ends, too—Dandy will—and he's got a mighty tasty lope."

At supper and afterwards Mr. Follett talked freely of himself, or seemed to. He was from the high plains and the short-grass country, wherever that might be—to the east and south she gathered. He had grown up in that country, working for his father, who had been an overland freighter, until the day the railroad tracks were joined at Promontory. He, himself, had watched the gold and silver spikes driven into the tie of California mahogany two years before; and then, though they still kept a few wagon-trains moving to the mining camps north and south of the railroad, they had looked for other occupations.

Now their attention was chiefly devoted to mines and cattle. There were great times ahead in the latter business. His father remembered when they had killed cattle for their hides and tallow, leaving the meat to the coyotes; but now, each spring, a dozen men like himself, under a herd boss, would drive 5,000 head to Leavenworth, putting them through ten or 12 miles a day over the Abilene trail, keeping them fat and getting good prices for them. There was plenty of room for the business. "Over yonder across the hills," as Mr. Follett put it, sources of the west were not exhausted, whatever they might say. A man with a head on him would be able to make a good living there for some years to come.

Both father and daughter found him an agreeable young man in spite of his being an alien from the Commonwealth of Israel. He remained with them three days looking over the country about Amalon, talking with its people and making himself at least not an object of suspicion and aversion, as the casual Gentle was apt to be. Prudence found herself usually at ease with him; he was so wholly likable and unassuming. Yet at times he seemed strangely mature and reserved to her, so that she was just a little awed.

He told her in their evenings many wonder-tales of that outside world where the wicked Gentiles lived; of populous cities on the western edge of it, and of vast throngs that crowded the interior clear over to the Atlantic ocean. She had never realized before what a small handful of people the Lord had set His hand to save, and what vast numbers He had made with hearts that should be hardened to the glorious articles of the new covenant.

When he left he told them he was making a little trip through the settlements to the north, possibly as far as Cedar City. He did not know how long he would be gone, but if nothing prevented he might be back that way. He shook hands with them both at parting, and though he spoke so vaguely about a return, his eyes seemed to tell Prudence that he would like very much to come. He had talked freely

when she had given her little bow. She heard him say:

"I already met your daughter, sir, at the mouth of the canyon."

She went on toward the house, hearing them resume their talk, the stranger saying, "That horse can sure carry all the weight you want to put on him and step away good; he'll do it right at both ends, too—Dandy will—and he's got a mighty tasty lope."

At supper and afterwards Mr. Follett talked freely of himself, or seemed to. He was from the high plains and the short-grass country, wherever that might be—to the east and south she gathered. He had grown up in that country, working for his father, who had been an overland freighter, until the day the railroad tracks were joined at Promontory. He, himself, had watched the gold and silver spikes driven into the tie of California mahogany two years before; and then, though they still kept a few wagon-trains moving to the mining camps north and south of the railroad, they had looked for other occupations.

Now their attention was chiefly devoted to mines and cattle. There were great times ahead in the latter business. His father remembered when they had killed cattle for their hides and tallow, leaving the meat to the coyotes; but now, each spring, a dozen men like himself, under a herd boss, would drive 5,000 head to Leavenworth, putting them through ten or 12 miles a day over the Abilene trail, keeping them fat and getting good prices for them. There was plenty of room for the business. "Over yonder across the hills," as Mr. Follett put it, sources of the west were not exhausted, whatever they might say. A man with a head on him would be able to make a good living there for some years to come.

Both father and daughter found him an agreeable young man in spite of his being an alien from the Commonwealth of Israel. He remained with them three days looking over the country about Amalon, talking with its people and making himself at least not an object of suspicion and aversion, as the casual Gentle was apt to be. Prudence found herself usually at ease with him; he was so wholly likable and unassuming. Yet at times he seemed strangely mature and reserved to her, so that she was just a little awed.

He told her in their evenings many wonder-tales of that outside world where the wicked Gentiles lived; of populous cities on the western edge of it, and of vast throngs that crowded the interior clear over to the Atlantic ocean. She had never realized before what a small handful of people the Lord had set His hand to save, and what vast numbers He had made with hearts that should be hardened to the glorious articles of the new covenant.

When he left he told them he was making a little trip through the settlements to the north, possibly as far as Cedar City. He did not know how long he would be gone, but if nothing prevented he might be back that way. He shook hands with them both at parting, and though he spoke so vaguely about a return, his eyes seemed to tell Prudence that he would like very much to come. He had talked freely

when she had given her little bow. She heard him say:

"I already met your daughter, sir, at the mouth of the canyon."

She went on toward the house, hearing them resume their talk, the stranger saying, "That horse can sure carry all the weight you want to put on him and step away good; he'll do it right at both ends, too—Dandy will—and he's got a mighty tasty lope."

At supper and afterwards Mr. Follett talked freely of himself, or seemed to. He was from the high plains and the short-grass country, wherever that might be—to the east and south she gathered. He had grown up in that country, working for his father, who had been an overland freighter, until the day the railroad tracks were joined at Promontory. He, himself, had watched the gold and silver spikes driven into the tie of California mahogany two years before; and then, though they still kept a few wagon-trains moving to the mining camps north and south of the railroad, they had looked for other occupations.

Now their attention was chiefly devoted to mines and cattle. There were great times ahead in the latter business. His father remembered when they had killed cattle for their hides and tallow, leaving the meat to the coyotes; but now, each spring, a dozen men like himself, under a herd boss, would drive 5,000 head to Leavenworth, putting them through ten or 12 miles a day over the Abilene trail, keeping them fat and getting good prices for them. There was plenty of room for the business. "Over yonder across the hills," as Mr. Follett put it, sources of the west were not exhausted, whatever they might say. A man with a head on him would be able to make a good living there for some years to come.

Both father and daughter found him an agreeable young man in spite of his being an alien from the Commonwealth of Israel. He remained with them three days looking over the country about Amalon, talking with its people and making himself at least not an object of suspicion and aversion, as the casual Gentle was apt to be. Prudence found herself usually at ease with him; he was so wholly likable and unassuming. Yet at times he seemed strangely mature and reserved to her, so that she was just a little awed.

He told her in their evenings many wonder-tales of that outside world where the wicked Gentiles lived; of populous cities on the western edge of it, and of vast throngs that crowded the interior clear over to the Atlantic ocean. She had never realized before what a small handful of people the Lord had set His hand to save, and what vast numbers He had made with hearts that should be hardened to the glorious articles of the new covenant.

When he left he told them he was making a little trip through the settlements to the north, possibly as far as Cedar City. He did not know how long he would be gone, but if nothing prevented he might be back that way. He shook hands with them both at parting, and though he spoke so vaguely about a return, his eyes seemed to tell Prudence that he would like very much to come. He had talked freely

when she had given her little bow. She heard him say:

"I already met your daughter, sir, at the mouth of the canyon."

She went on toward the house, hearing them resume their talk, the stranger saying, "That horse can sure carry all the weight you want to put on him and step away good; he'll do it right at both ends, too—Dandy will—and he's got a mighty tasty lope."

sources of the west were not exhausted, whatever they might say. A man with a head on him would be able to make a good living there for some years to come.

Both father and daughter found him an agreeable young man in spite of his being an alien from the Commonwealth of Israel. He remained with them three days looking over the country about Amalon, talking with its people and making himself at least not an object of suspicion and aversion, as the casual Gentle was apt to be. Prudence found herself usually at ease with him; he was so wholly likable and unassuming. Yet at times he seemed strangely mature and reserved to her, so that she was just a little awed.

He told her in their evenings many wonder-tales of that outside world where the wicked Gentiles lived; of populous cities on the western edge of it, and of vast throngs that crowded the interior clear over to the Atlantic ocean. She had never realized before what a small handful of people the Lord had set His hand to save, and what vast numbers He had made with hearts that should be hardened to the glorious articles of the new covenant.

When he left he told them he was making a little trip through the settlements to the north, possibly as far as Cedar City. He did not know how long he would be gone, but if nothing prevented he might be back that way. He shook hands with them both at parting, and though he spoke so vaguely about a return, his eyes seemed to tell Prudence that he would like very much to come. He had talked freely

when she had given her little bow. She heard him say:

"I already met your daughter, sir, at the mouth of the canyon."

She went on toward the house, hearing them resume their talk, the stranger saying, "That horse can sure carry all the weight you want to put on him and step away good; he'll do it right at both ends, too—Dandy will—and he's got a mighty tasty lope."

At supper and afterwards Mr. Follett talked freely of himself, or seemed to. He was from the high plains and the short-grass country, wherever that might be—to the east and south she gathered. He had grown up in that country, working for his father, who had been an overland freighter, until the day the railroad tracks were joined at Promontory. He, himself, had watched the gold and silver spikes driven into the tie of California mahogany two years before; and then, though they still kept a few wagon-trains moving to the mining camps north and south of the railroad, they had looked for other occupations.

Now their attention was chiefly devoted to mines and cattle. There were great times ahead in the latter business. His father remembered when they had killed cattle for their hides and tallow, leaving the meat to the coyotes; but now, each spring, a dozen men like himself, under a herd boss, would drive 5,000 head to Leavenworth, putting them through ten or 12 miles a day over the Abilene trail, keeping them fat and getting good prices for them. There was plenty of room for the business. "Over yonder across the hills," as Mr. Follett put it, sources of the west were not exhausted, whatever they might say. A man with a head on him would be able to make a good living there for some years to come.

Both father and daughter found him an agreeable young man in spite of his being an alien from the Commonwealth of Israel. He remained with them three days looking over the country about Amalon, talking with its people and making himself at least not an object of suspicion and aversion, as the casual Gentle was apt to be. Prudence found herself usually at ease with him; he was so wholly likable and unassuming. Yet at times he seemed strangely mature and reserved to her, so that she was just a little awed.

He told her in their evenings many wonder-tales of that outside world where the wicked Gentiles lived; of populous cities on the western edge of it, and of vast throngs that crowded the interior clear over to the Atlantic ocean. She had never realized before what a small handful of people the Lord had set His hand to save, and what vast numbers He had made with hearts that should be hardened to the glorious articles of the new covenant.

When he left he told them he was making a little trip through the settlements to the north, possibly as far as Cedar City. He did not know how long he would be gone, but if nothing prevented he might be back that way. He shook hands with them both at parting, and though he spoke so vaguely about a return, his eyes seemed to tell Prudence that he would like very much to come. He had talked freely

when she had given her little bow. She heard him say:

"I already met your daughter, sir, at the mouth of the canyon."

She went on toward the house, hearing them resume their talk, the stranger saying, "That horse can sure carry all the weight you want to put on him and step away good; he'll do it right at both ends, too—Dandy will—and he's got a mighty tasty lope."

At supper and afterwards Mr. Follett talked freely of himself, or seemed to. He was from the high plains and the short-grass country, wherever that might be—to the east and south she gathered. He had grown up in that country, working for his father, who had been an overland freighter, until the day the railroad tracks were joined at Promontory. He, himself, had watched the gold and silver spikes driven into the tie of California mahogany two years before; and then, though they still kept a few wagon-trains moving to the mining camps north and south of the railroad, they had looked for other occupations.

Now their attention was chiefly devoted to mines and cattle. There were great times ahead in the latter business. His father remembered when they had killed cattle for their hides and tallow, leaving the meat to the coyotes; but now, each spring, a dozen men like himself, under a herd boss, would drive 5,000 head to Leavenworth, putting them through ten or 12 miles a day over the Abilene trail, keeping them fat and getting good prices for them. There was plenty of room for the business. "Over yonder across the hills," as Mr. Follett put it, sources of the west were not exhausted, whatever they might say. A man with a head on him would be able to make a good living there for some years to come.

Both father and daughter found him an agreeable young man in spite of his being an alien from the Commonwealth of Israel. He remained with them three days looking over the country about Amalon, talking with its people and making himself at least not an object of suspicion and aversion, as the casual Gentle was apt to be. Prudence found herself usually at ease with him; he was so wholly likable and unassuming. Yet at times he seemed strangely mature and reserved to her, so that she was just a little awed.

He told her in their evenings many wonder-tales of that outside world where the wicked Gentiles lived; of populous cities on the western edge of it, and of vast throngs that crowded the interior clear over to the Atlantic ocean. She had never realized before what a small handful of people the Lord had set His hand to save, and what vast numbers He had made with hearts that should be hardened to the glorious articles of the new covenant.

When he left he told them he was making a little trip through the settlements to the north, possibly as far as Cedar City. He did not know how long he would be gone, but if nothing prevented he might be back that way. He shook hands with them both at parting, and though he spoke so vaguely about a return, his eyes seemed to tell Prudence that he would like very much to come. He had talked freely

when she had given her little bow. She heard him say:

"I already met your daughter, sir, at the mouth of the canyon."

She went on toward the house, hearing them resume their talk, the stranger saying, "That horse can sure carry all the weight you want to put on him and step away good; he'll do it right at both ends, too—Dandy will—and he's got a mighty tasty lope."

At supper and afterwards Mr. Follett talked freely of himself, or seemed to. He was from the high plains and the short-grass country, wherever that might be—to the east and south she gathered. He had grown up in that country, working for his father, who had been an overland freighter, until the day the railroad tracks were joined at Promontory. He, himself, had watched the gold and silver spikes driven into the tie of California mahogany two years before; and then, though they still kept a few wagon-trains moving to the mining camps north and south of the railroad, they had looked for other occupations.

Now their attention was chiefly devoted to mines and cattle. There were great times ahead in the latter business. His father remembered when they had killed cattle for their hides and tallow, leaving the meat to the coyotes; but now, each spring, a dozen men like himself, under a herd boss, would drive 5,000 head to Leavenworth, putting them through ten or 12 miles a day over the Abilene trail, keeping them fat and getting good prices for them. There was plenty of room for the business. "Over yonder across the hills," as Mr. Follett put it, sources of the west were not exhausted, whatever they might say. A man with a head on him would be able to make a good living there for some years to come.

Both father and daughter found him an agreeable young man in spite of his being an alien from the Commonwealth of Israel. He remained with them three days looking over the country about Amalon, talking with its people and making himself at least not an object of suspicion and aversion, as the casual Gentle was apt to be. Prudence found herself usually at ease with him; he was so wholly likable and unassuming. Yet at times he seemed strangely mature and reserved to her, so that she was just a little awed.

He told her in their evenings many wonder-tales of that outside world where the wicked Gentiles lived; of populous cities on the western edge of it, and of vast throngs that crowded the interior clear over to the Atlantic ocean. She had never realized before what a small handful of people the Lord had set His hand to save, and what vast numbers He had made with hearts that should be hardened to the glorious articles of the new covenant.

When he left he told them he was making a little trip through the settlements to the north, possibly as far as Cedar City. He did not know how long he would be gone, but if nothing prevented he might be back that way. He shook hands with them both at parting, and though he spoke so vaguely about a return, his eyes seemed to tell Prudence that he would like very much to come. He had talked freely

when she had given her little bow. She heard him say:

"I already met your daughter, sir, at the mouth of the canyon."

She went on toward the house, hearing them resume their talk, the stranger saying, "That horse can sure carry all the weight you want to put on him and step away good; he'll do it right at both ends, too—Dandy will—and he's got a mighty tasty lope."

At supper and afterwards Mr. Follett talked freely of himself, or seemed to. He was from the high plains and the short-grass country, wherever that might be—to the east and south she gathered. He had grown up in that country, working for his father, who had been an overland freighter, until the day the railroad tracks were joined at Promontory. He, himself, had watched the gold and silver spikes driven into the tie of California mahogany two years before; and then, though they still kept a few wagon-trains moving to the mining camps north and south of the railroad, they had looked for other occupations.

Now their attention was chiefly devoted to mines and cattle. There were great times ahead in the latter business. His father remembered when they had killed cattle for their hides and tallow, leaving the meat to the coyotes; but now, each spring, a dozen men like himself, under a herd boss, would drive 5,000 head to Leavenworth, putting them through ten or 12 miles a day over the Abilene trail, keeping them fat and getting good prices for them. There was plenty of room for the business. "Over yonder across the hills," as Mr. Follett put it, sources of the west were not exhausted, whatever they might say. A man with a head on him would be able to make a good living there for some years to come.

sources of the west were not exhausted, whatever they might say. A man with a head on him would be able to make a good living there for some years to come.

Both father and daughter found him an agreeable young man in spite of his being an alien from the Commonwealth of Israel. He remained with them three days looking over the country about Amalon, talking with its people and making himself at least not an object of suspicion and aversion, as the casual Gentle was apt to be. Prudence found herself usually at ease with him; he was so wholly likable and unassuming. Yet at times he seemed strangely mature and reserved to her, so that she was just a little awed.

He told her in their evenings many wonder-tales of that outside world where the wicked Gentiles lived; of populous cities on the western edge of it, and of vast throngs that crowded the interior clear over to the Atlantic ocean. She had never realized before what a small handful of people the Lord had set His hand to save, and what vast numbers He had made with hearts that should be hardened to the glorious articles of the new covenant.

When he left he told them he was making a little trip through the settlements to the north, possibly as far as Cedar City. He did not know how long he would be gone, but if nothing prevented he might be back that way. He shook hands with them both at parting, and though he spoke so vaguely about a return, his eyes seemed to tell Prudence that he would like very much to come. He had talked freely

when she had given her little bow. She heard him say:

"I already met your daughter, sir, at the mouth of the canyon."

She went on toward the house, hearing them resume their talk, the stranger saying, "That horse can sure carry all the weight you want to put on him and step away good; he'll do it right at both ends, too—Dandy will—and he's got a mighty tasty lope."

At supper and afterwards Mr. Follett talked freely of himself, or seemed to. He was from the high plains and the short-grass country, wherever that might be—to the east and south she gathered. He had grown up in that country, working for his father, who had been an overland freighter, until the day the railroad tracks were joined at Promontory. He, himself, had watched the gold and silver spikes driven into the tie of California mahogany two years before; and then, though they still kept a few wagon-trains moving to the mining camps north and south of the railroad, they had looked for other occupations.

Now their attention was chiefly devoted to mines and cattle. There were great times ahead in the latter business. His father remembered when they had killed cattle for their hides and tallow, leaving the meat to the coyotes; but now, each spring, a dozen men like himself, under a herd boss, would drive 5,000 head to Leavenworth, putting them through ten or 12 miles a day over the Abilene trail, keeping them fat and getting good prices for them. There was plenty of room for the business. "Over yonder across the hills," as Mr. Follett put it, sources of the west were not exhausted, whatever they might say. A man with a head on him would be able to make a good living there for some years to come.

Both father and daughter found him an agreeable young man in spite of his being an alien from the Commonwealth of Israel. He remained with them three days looking over the country about Amalon, talking with its people and making himself at least not an object of suspicion and aversion, as the casual Gentle was apt to be. Prudence found herself usually at ease with him; he was so wholly likable and unassuming. Yet at times he seemed strangely mature and reserved to her, so that she was just a little awed.

He told her in their evenings many wonder-tales of that outside world where the wicked Gentiles lived; of populous cities on the western edge of it, and of vast throngs that crowded the interior clear over to the Atlantic ocean. She had never realized before what a small handful of people the Lord had set His hand to save, and what vast numbers He had made with hearts that should be hardened to the glorious articles of the new covenant.

When he left he told them he was making a little trip through the settlements to the north, possibly as far as Cedar City. He did not know how long he would be gone, but if nothing prevented he might be back that way. He shook hands with them both at parting, and though he spoke so vaguely about a return, his eyes seemed to tell Prudence that he would like very much to come. He had talked freely

when she had given her little bow. She heard him say:

"I already met your daughter, sir, at the mouth of the canyon."

She went on toward the house, hearing them resume their talk, the stranger saying, "That horse can sure carry all the weight you want to put on him and step away good; he'll do it right at both ends, too—Dandy will—and he's got a mighty tasty lope."

At supper and afterwards Mr. Follett talked freely of himself, or seemed to. He was from the high plains and the short-grass country, wherever that might be—to the east and south she gathered. He had grown up in that country, working for his father, who had been an overland freighter, until the day the railroad tracks were joined at Promontory. He, himself, had watched the gold and silver spikes driven into the tie of California mahogany two years before; and then, though they still kept a few wagon-trains moving to the mining camps north and south of the railroad, they had looked for other occupations.

Now their attention was chiefly devoted to mines and cattle. There were great times ahead in the latter business. His father remembered when they had killed cattle for their hides and tallow, leaving the meat to the coyotes; but now, each spring, a dozen men like himself, under a herd boss, would drive 5,000 head to Leavenworth, putting them through ten or 12 miles a day over the Abilene trail, keeping them fat and getting good prices for them. There was plenty of room for the business. "Over yonder across the hills," as Mr. Follett put it, sources of the west were not exhausted, whatever they might say. A man with a head on him would be able to make a good living there for some years to come.

Both father and daughter found him an agreeable young man in spite of his being an alien from the Commonwealth of Israel. He remained with them three days looking over the country about Amalon, talking with its people and making himself at least not an object of suspicion and aversion, as the casual Gentle was apt to be. Prudence found herself usually at ease with him; he was so wholly likable and unassuming. Yet at times he seemed strangely mature and reserved to her, so that she was just a little awed.

He told her in their evenings many wonder-tales of that outside world where the wicked Gentiles lived; of populous cities on the western edge of it, and of vast throngs that crowded the interior clear over to the Atlantic ocean. She had never realized before what a small handful of people the Lord had set His hand to save, and what vast numbers He had made with hearts that should be hardened to the glorious articles of the new covenant.

When he left he told them he was making a little trip through the settlements to the north, possibly as far as Cedar City. He did not know how long he would be gone, but if nothing prevented he might be back that way. He shook hands with them both at parting, and though he spoke so vaguely about a return, his eyes seemed to tell Prudence that he would like very much to come. He had talked freely when she had

Financial Statement
 I hereby submit my report of money received and disbursed for the year commencing April 4, 1906 and ending March 18, 1907.

On hand April 4, 1907	$ 253.10
May 16, E. J. Wright, Co. Treas.	947.50
June 7, E. J. Carr, street license	1.00
July 8, of village clerk	200.00
The following for sidewalks:
E G Briggs	19.80
Larvis Coe	9.50
G W Reade	9.50
Wm Potterton	20.85
J. C. Dunn	14.25
J H Tuomey	38.81
Mrs Jas Wilcox	5.50
G W Reason	7.44
Mary Cate	9.90
Robt Culhane	11.31
Mrs J M Kearney	10.50
Jennie Barton	24.51
Edward Farnam	38.51
Ferry Blunt	19.80
G W Teeple	20.76
Jessie Green	37.33
A B Green	32.43
Mrs M Nash	19.50
Warren Hoff	10.55
J W Placeway	11.85
Eugene Campbell	9.90
H J Clark	14.85
G F Green	10.55
Mrs Thos Clinton	3.04
J A Cadwell	9.00
Teeple Hdw Co	4.37
J J Teeple	14.85
Mrs F Moran	19.55
F A Sigler	10.85
S G Teeple	58.17
G T Ky Co	43.18
Mary Welsh	50.55
C L Sigler	41.10
Edward Dolan	3.80
M Goodrich	10.85
Carrie Wilson	9.90
G. W. Reason	24.75
R J Carr, village clerk	700.00
Taxes, from Roll	1,519.21
Total Recd	3,608.10
Expenditures	3,500.90
Bal on hand	107.20

EXPENDITURES
I S P Johnson	$ 12.00
Simon Brogan	14.50
F L Andrews	15.30
Base Ball Team	10.00
Joe Placeway	2.00
H F Sigler	10.00
Raymond Kennedy	1.00
William Going	1.00
Steven Teeple	5.00
Alfred Monks	15.35
A D Downes	2.25
Alfred Monks	13.95
Henry Reason	.75
Louis Monks	1.50
I S P Johnson	12.35
Teeple Hardware Co	12.10
Teeple Hardware Co	10.82
Clayton Placeway	1.50
Raymond Kennedy	.75
John Monks	12.00
Jackson & Cadwell	3.75
Perry Towle	2.88
W T Moran	10.50
D W Murta	19.85
F A Sigler	8.28
John Mortenson	.75
William Kennedy Sr	10.15
E J Briggs	2.18
S G Teeple	5.50
I S P Johnson	12.75
I S P Johnson	3.15
Doubleday Bros	2.00
W A Nixon	12.60
Louis Monks	6.00
Dudley Grieve	5.25
Teeple Hardware Co	9.88
Claude Reason	7.50
Leo Lavey	4.12
Dudley Grieve	3.75
I S P Johnson	14.10
W A Nixon	11.85
W W Barnard	3.24
Raymond Kennedy	9.75
F A Sigler	2.02
Claude Reason	24.00
John Jeffreys	5.25
E J Briggs	1.25
Michael Lavey	8.05
G W Teeple	517.58
W T Moran	18.75
W T Moran	500.00
Floris Moran	1.50
W A Nixon	9.15
William Kennedy	11.25
I S P Johnson	12.50
W T Moran	500.00
E J Briggs	1.00
Stephen Jeffreys	2.25
George Culey	26.25
James Smith	2.00
E M Williston & Co	2.88
Teeple Hardware Co	3.53
W T Moran	432.77
George Culey	3.00
G W Reason & Son	.15
G W Reason & Son	9.24
William Kennedy Sr	7.50
Michael Lavey	3.75
E Einsh	2.00
I S P Johnson	25.45
Teeple Hardware Co	5.64
W T Moran	765.07

James Smith	30.88
Jefferson Parker	15.00
W A Nixon	3.90
William Kennedy Sr	7.50
James Rosch	1.50
I S P Johnson	12.75
W H Placeway	.60
Jackson & Cadwell	5.88
Henry Cobb	.75
W A Carr	2.00
James Smith	8.33
W W Barnard	4.84
William White	20.00
I S P Johnson	12.50
Bernard Lavey	1.25
Alfred Monks	2.00
G W Reason & Son	4.00
James Smith	17.81
I S P Johnson	25.25
S G Teeple	1.50
F L Andrews & Co	2.40
I S B Johnson	12.50
Alfred Monks	10.00
F A Sigler	5.40
James Smith	8.33
H M Williston & Co	3.00
Alfred Monks	10.00
Thos Read	2.94
W A Carr	10.00
R J Carr	23.00
Guy L Teeple	4.00
R E Finch	3.50
S G Teeple	4.00
James Smith	11.66
W A Carr	4.00
Total	3497.74
Taxes uncollected	3.16
Total	3500.90

Registration Notice.
 To the electors of the township of Putnam, County of Livingston, State of Michigan:
 Notice is hereby given that a meeting of the board of registration of the township above named will be held at the town hall in the village of Pinckney, within said township, on Saturday, March 30, 1907, for the purpose of registering the names of all such persons who shall be possessed of the necessary qualifications of electors and who may apply for that purpose, and that said board of registration will be in session on that day and at the place aforesaid from 9:00 o'clock in the forenoon until 5:00 in the afternoon, for the purpose aforesaid.
 By order of board of registration of said township.
 Dated this 19th day of March, A. D. 1907.
 W. T. MORAN, Clerk.

Saved Her Son's Life.
 The happiest mother in the little town of Ava, Mo., is Mrs. S. Ruppee. She writes: "One year ago my son was down with such serious lung trouble that our physician was unable to help him; when, by our druggist's advice I began giving him Dr. King's New Discovery, and I soon noticed improvement. I kept this treatment up for a few weeks when he was perfectly well. He has worked steadily since at carpenter work. Dr. King's New Discovery saved his life." Guaranteed best cough and cold cure by F. A. Sigler, Druggist. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

Arranging Chrysanthemums.
 In the arrangement of chrysanthemums the Japanese guard against seven faults. Their stems must not be of the same length, a single flower must not turn its back or present its full face, the flowers must not be hidden by leaves, or, should they be arranged in the way of steps, a full blown flower should never be placed at the base of the composition, and one odd one must not be allowed to fall between two others alike in color. Three flowers should not appear to form a triangle.

Who's the most beautiful woman in Michigan? The Detroit News Tribune is trying to discover her, and is offering prizes aggregating $100 for three fascinating faces, to be selected from photographs sent in to the beauty editor. The selection will be done by a corps of experts, and their pictures will appear, with others, in the half tone magazine section of that newspaper. The whole will form a great gallery of Michigan beauties. The pictures of these Michigan beauties the News Tribune will publish from week to week, and as every woman in Michigan is eligible, the list will be a long one, if the friends of the beauties do their duty.

Kodol For Indigestion.
 Relieves sour stomach, palpitation of the heart. Digests what you eat.

TOWNSHIP ELECTION NOTICE

To the electors of the township of Putnam, county of Livingston, state of Michigan:
 Notice is hereby given that the next ensuing general election and annual townmeeting will be held at the town hall, Pinckney, within said township, on Monday, April 1, 1907, at which election the following officers are to be chosen, viz: State—Two justices of the Supreme Court, two regents of the University of Michigan, one member of the state board of education to fill vacancy.
 Township—One supervisor; one clerk; one treasurer, one highway commissioner; one justice of the peace full term, one member board of review full term; four constables.

Also the following proposed amendments to the Constitution of the State of Michigan are to be voted upon:
 To amend Section 6 of Article 6 of the Constitution of the State of Michigan, relative to the compensation of the circuit judges in the counties of Ingham, Jackson and the counties in the judicial circuit in which the county of Isabella is or may be situated.
 To amend the Constitution of this state by striking out Section 3 of Article 18, miscellaneous provisions, which provides that "No mechanical trade shall hereafter be taught to convicts in the State prison of this state, except the manufacture of those articles of which the chief supply for home consumption is imported from other states or countries."

To amend Section 10 of Article 10 to provide for a board of county auditors for the counties of Bay, Cheboygan and St. Clair.
 The polls of said election will open at 7:00 o'clock in the forenoon and will remain open until 5:00 in the afternoon of said day of election.
 Dated this 19th day of March, A. D., 1907.
 W. T. MORAN, Clerk.

Worked Like a Charm.
 Mr. D. N. Walker, editor of that spicy journal, the Enterprise, Louisa, Va., says: "I ran a nail in my foot last week and at once applied Bucklen's Arnica Salve. No inflammation followed; the salve simply healed the wound." Heals every sore, burn and skin disease. Guaranteed by F. A. Sigler, Druggist. 25c.

Subscribe for the Pinckney Dispatch.

ANNUAL LEGAL

Circuit court convenes at Howell April 8.

This weather makes one think of ice cream soda.
 We have added to the Dispatch job rooms the past week several fronts of new type. Our increasing job work demands that we increase our capacity. We have about $40.00 worth of new wood type on the road here which will put the office in shape to put out any bill that is needed in this section. We have always done the work all O. K. but this puts us in better shape to handle the bills. Let us figure on any work you may have.

Edwin Farmer representative from this county has a bill that has passed the House that interest the farmers and others in this county it is an act restraining and defining the jurisdiction of the Drain Commissioner for the County of Livingston in the laying and construction of drains in said county and prescribing the method for determining the same. If the act becomes a law the application for a drain must be signed by not less than one-third of the owners of land which is to be traversed by said drain as shown by the application therefor.

The winds of March have no terror to the user of DeWitt's Carbolyzed Witch Hazel Salve. It quickly heals chapped and cracked skin. Good too, for boils and burns, and undoubtedly the best relief for piles. Sold here by F. A. Sigler.

DeWITT'S CARBOLYZED WITCH HAZEL SALVE For Piles, Burns, Sores.

60 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS, DESIGNS, COPYRIGHTS & C.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. HAMBURG on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.

A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms $3 a year; four months $1. Sold by all newsdealers.

MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
 Branch Office, 627 F St., Washington, D. C.

Three cured me of stomach trouble, with such an unhealthy condition of blood that my skin was scaly. I am now younger than I was when I used Electric Bitters. I can do all my work with ease and assist in my husband's store. Guaranteed at F. A. Sigler's Drug Store. Price 50c.

Substitutes For Tea.
 English cottagers have to use the leaves of shrubs and herbs for tea, such as the black currant. Our Pennsylvania mountaineers use the Solidago odorata for tea, instead of the costly China tea. Solidago odorata is a variety of the familiar goldenrod. In Louisiana it is largely used by the French population of the remote districts. Checkerberry or teaberry (Gaultheria repens) is a little spicy plant also used for tea.

Little globules of sunshine that drive the clouds away. DeWitt's Little Early Risers will scatter the gloom of sick-headache and biliousness. They do not gripe or sicken. Recommended and sold here by F. A. Sigler.

A Beheading Stone.
 The old beheading stone at Stirling, England, was protected in 1857 by public subscription, raised at the instance of the Stirling Natural History and Archaeological society. It was then inclosed in an iron case. There is another relic of public execution in Stirling in the museum of the Smith Institute in that city. It is the bowl which the public executioner used when he went around the market taking a measure of meal from every farmer's sack.

For weak kidneys and lame back DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Remedy. Best for lumbago, rheumatism and other troubles arising from bad blood. They cleanse the kidneys and clear the system. Indorsed and sold by F. A. Sigler.

Out.
 Mrs. Madison Squeer—I suppose in your grace's family there are a number of historic jewels. His Grace—Yes, indeed. I must get them out some day and show them to you, by Jove. Mrs. Madison Squeer—Ah, then you still have the Hebe!—Puck.

"Preventics" will promptly check a cold or the Grippe when taken at the "sneseze stage" Preventics cure seated colds as well. Preventics are little candy cold cure tablets, and Dr. Shoop, Racine, Wis., will gladly mail you samples and a book on Colds free, if you will write him. The samples prove their merit. Check early Colds with Preventics and stop Pneumonia. Sold in 5c and 25c boxes, by all dealers.

The Subtle Porcupine.
 "The porcupine has his good points," admitted the peasant, "but he is an awful flatnose, you know."
 "Flatnose" eyed the oon blankly.
 "Yes, he is apt to send one away feeling awfully stuck up."

Found At Last
 J. A. Harmon, of Lizemore, West Va., says: "At last I have found the perfect pill that never disappoints me; and for the benefit of others afflicted with torpid liver and chronic constipation, will say: take Dr. King's New Life Pills." Guaranteed satisfactory. 25c at F. A. Sigler's, Druggist.

Proprietor?
 I suppose he is on something easy.—New York Press.
 From Mr. H. let me send you free, just for the merit, a Trial size Box of Dr. King's New Life Pills. It is a very, healthy, and safe medicine. It gives instant relief from all the troubles and diseases of the bowels and stomach. Add your name and address to the Proprietor, Dr. J. C. Williams, Large Jan. 1907, and all dealers.

Hascall's Original Carbon Paint

For use on Tin, Iron, Galv. (houses, or Shingle Roofs).
Especially suitable for Bridges, Iron or Steel
Buildings, Machinery, Tanks, etc.

Elastic Inexpensive Durable

Stops Leaks, Prevents Rust, Checks Decay,
Guaranteed for 5 years. Made in Black only.

This paint is the old original roof and iron paint placed on the market by us many years ago. It is the pioneer of roof paints, and we are the parents of the roofing paint industry in this country. Through all these years this paint has sold in greater quantities each season, despite the fact that hundreds of imitations, represented to be "just as good" have flooded the country with advertising similar to ours in an attempt to divert our trade.

For use on Roofs, Iron or Metal Buildings, or any surface where a thoroughly good paint is required, Hascall's Carbon Paint is unequalled, as time and experience and thousands of imitations prove.

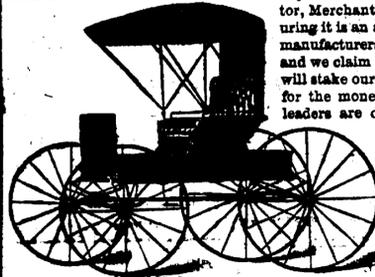

WRITE FOR FULL PARTICULARS.

The Hascall Paint Co.

Cleveland, Ohio.

EXPERIENCE!

Experience is one of the greatest factors in almost any walk in life. It is what gives the Farmer, Doctor, Merchant and Mechanic success. In manufacturing it is an all important element. We are carriage manufacturers of over twenty-five years' experience and we claim to know the business from A to Z. We will stake our reputation that we make as good work for the money as it is possible to make. Our two leaders are our No. 30 Top Buggy at the popular price of $60.00 and our No. 60 Top Buggy at $90.00. Nothing but the best go into these jobs in order to make them come up to our standard. Write for full specifications, cuts and references. Do it to-day and see what we can offer you for your cash and save all dealer profits. Write at once and get our great offer.

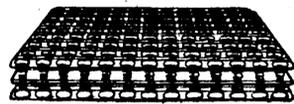

J. A. HUNGERFORD & SON, Lapeer, Michigan.

Bring Your Job Work to the Dispatch Office.

Buy a "HYGEIA" and add 10 Years to Your Life.

The best Spring Bed on Earth. Perfectly Noiseless. For both Wood and Iron Bedsteads.

Ninety per cent. of the Spring Beds made are not fit to sleep on. Pay just a little more and get a "HYGEIA," which is perfection in itself. Guaranteed for ten years. If your dealer does not handle the Hygeia write direct to us giving his address.

ENTERPRISE BED CO., Mfg., Hammond, Indiana.

WILL REMOVE WITH EASE ALL PARTICLES OF DIRT AND GREASE

and leave the skin soft and white. Superior to all other soaps. The Laborer's Friend. For Mechanics, Farmers, Painters, Plinters, Plumbers, Miners and all Railroad Men.

A trial will convince you there is no other soap like it. 2 sizes 5c. and 10c. Manufactured by IOWA SOAP COMPANY, Burlington, Iowa.

KIA-WAH

I am for MEN, WOMEN and CHILDREN

Instant relief to sufferers of Rheumatism, Kidney Trouble, Stomach Disorders. Get a bottle to-day. Is purely a vegetable compound. Mild in effect but one of the most effectual remedies known for restoring the entire system. It is derived from nature, not compound of drugs and chemicals that only allay the pain, but cures to stay cured after all so-called "scientific" treatments have failed.

Sole by druggists. Send for circulars. Address, MAN MEDICINE CO., Milford, Ohio.

More Money for Eggs

under most any conditions. There is a lot of money to be made in the egg business if conditions are right. There is no reason why Farmers and Poultry Raisers should not make just as good profits on their investments as any other line of business, and it is possible for them to do so. The price of eggs during the winter months is double and sometimes more than double that paid during the summer months. The only way to take advantage of this advance is to hold summer eggs for winter prices. That fresh eggs can be kept from six to nine months or more has been proven by careful testing with HAGER'S EGG PRESERVATIVE and anyone using this Preservative need never sell a dozen eggs for anything but the highest market price. Send for Sample and Circulars telling you all about it. HAGER EGG PRESERVING CO., St. Louis, Mo.

...of Livingston County and thirty notice is hereby given that they will be a County meeting held at the court house at Alwell in Livingston Co. on March 28, 1907. The American Society of Equity is in charge of this meeting, and will provide good speakers for the occasion. We hope for a good turnout as it is time that the farmers organized their forces with the view of securing profitable prices for farm products. This Society is having a great boom since the beginning of 1907 and the farmers are asked to aid in the movement. E. N. Ball, Sec'y, Michigan State Union.

Smoked... Murphy-Well, this was the punch. Dooley told me that if I showed a piece of glass I'd be able to see the spots on the sun. Sure, ain't it fairly kilt wid trying to make me pipe draw? 'Tis the way, I'm thinking, that either I haven't the right kind of glass or else Dooley's been fooling me. -London Tit-Bits.

"In 1897 I had a stomach disease. Some physicians said Dyspepsia, some Consumption. One said I would not live until spring. For four years I existed on boiled milk, soda biscuits, and doctors' prescriptions. I could not digest anything I ate; then I picked up one of your Almanacs and it happened to be my life savor. I bought a fifty cent bottle of KODOL and the benefit I received from that bottle all the gold in Georgia could not buy. In two months I went back to my work, as a machinist, and in three months I was well and hearty. May you live long and prosper." -C. N. Cornell, Roding, Ga., 1906. The above is only a sample of the great good that is daily done everywhere by Kodol for Dyspepsia. It is here Sold by F. A. Sigler, Druggist.

The Newborn and the Dead. Lavater in his "Physiognomy" makes the following curious remarks: "I have had occasion to observe some infants immediately on their births and have found an astonishing resemblance between their profile and those of their father. A few days after this resemblance almost entirely disappeared. The influence of the air and food and probably the change of posture had so altered the design of the face that you could have believed it a different individual. I afterward saw two of these children die, one at six weeks and the other at four years of age, and about twelve hours after their death they immediately recovered the profile which had struck me so much at their birth, only the profile of the dead child was, as might be expected, more strongly marked and more terse than that of the living."

A cross and peevish child is not natural. There is something wrong. Usually it's the stomach. Use cascara-sweet and put the stomach right, and the sunshine will return to the baby's face. Cascarsweet is best for babies and children. 50 doses 25 cents. Sold by F. A. Sigler, Druggist.

An Odd Ceremony. Colchester is England's great oyster fishery, and so much of the wealth and fame of the place is derived from the industry that the season is opened with much ceremony. "The city fathers sail to the fishing ground, and the mayor formally assists in raising the first dredge of bivalves. Afterward, in fulfillment of an ancient custom, there is a luncheon, at which the distinctive luxury is gingerbread washed down with raw gin, a combination which, a London paper assumes, will fix the event in memory for several days."

THE ORIGINAL LAXATIVE COUGH SYRUP

For all Coughs and assists in expelling Colds from the system by gently moving the bowels. A certain relief for croup and whooping-cough. Nearly all other cough cures are constipating, especially those containing Opium. Kennedy's Laxative Honey & Tar moves the bowels, contains no Opium.

KENNEDY'S LAXATIVE HONEY AND TAR

PREPARED AT THE LABORATORY OF E. C. DEWITT & CO., CHICAGO, U. S. A. Sold by F. A. Sigler, Druggist.

Lax-ets 5 C Sweet To Eat A Candy Bowl Laxative.

...of Livingston County and thirty notice is hereby given that they will be a County meeting held at the court house at Alwell in Livingston Co. on March 28, 1907. The American Society of Equity is in charge of this meeting, and will provide good speakers for the occasion. We hope for a good turnout as it is time that the farmers organized their forces with the view of securing profitable prices for farm products. This Society is having a great boom since the beginning of 1907 and the farmers are asked to aid in the movement. E. N. Ball, Sec'y, Michigan State Union.

You should be very careful of your bowels when you have a cold. Nearly all other cough syrups are constipating, especially those containing opiates. Kennedy's Laxative Cough Syrup moves the bowels—contains NO opiates. Conforms to National Pure Food and Drugs Law. Bears the endorsement of mothers everywhere. Children like its pleasant taste. Sold by F. A. Sigler, Druggist.

The Pinckney Dispatch.

PUBLISHED EVERY TUESDAY MORNING BY FRANK L. ANDREWS & CO. EDITORS AND PROPRIETORS. Subscription Price $1 in Advance. Entered at the Postoffice at Pinckney, Michigan as second-class matter. Advertising rates made known on application. Business Cards, $4.00 per year. Death and marriage notices published free. Announcements of entertainments may be paid for, if desired, by presenting the office with tickets of admission. In case tickets are not brought to the office, regular rates will be charged. All matter in local notice column will be charged at 5 cents per line or fraction thereof, for each insertion. Where no time is specified, all notices will be inserted until ordered discontinued, and will be charged for accordingly. All changes of advertisements MUST reach this office as early as Tuesday morning to insure an insertion the same week.

JOB PRINTING! In all its branches, a specialty. We have all kinds and the latest styles of Type, etc., which enables us to execute all kinds of work, such as Books, Pamphlets, Posters, Programmes, Bill Heads, Note Heads, Statements, Cards, Auction Bills, etc., in superior styles, upon the shortest notice. Prices as low as good work can be done. ALL BILLS PAYABLE FIRST OF EVERY MONTH.

THE VILLAGE DIRECTORY

VILLAGE OFFICERS.
PRESIDENT: E. B. Brown
TRUSTEES: Hubert Finch, James Roche, Will Kennedy, S. J. Smith, S. J. Teeple, Ed. Faruham.
CLERK: Roger Carr
TREASURER: Marion J. Reason
ASSESSOR: D. W. Murta
STREET COMMISSIONER: W. A. Nixon
HEALTH OFFICER: Dr. H. F. Sigler
ATTORNEY: W. A. Carr
MARSHAL: Wm. Moran

CHURCHES.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH. Rev. D. C. Littlejohn, pastor. Services every Sunday morning at 10:30, and every Sunday evening at 7:00 o'clock. Prayer meeting Thursday evenings. Sunday school at close of morning service. Mrs. MARY VANLISEN, supt.
CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH. Rev. G. W. Myline, pastor. Service every Sunday morning at 10:30 and every Sunday evening at 7:00 o'clock. Prayer meeting Thursday evenings. Sunday school at close of morning service. Percy Swartout, supt., Mocco Teeple sec.
ST. MARY'S CATHOLIC CHURCH. Rev. M. J. Commeyford, pastor. Service every Sunday. Low mass at 7:30 o'clock high mass with sermon at 9:30 a. m. Catechism 1:30-2:00 p. m., veepers and adiction at 7:30 p. m.

SOCIETIES:

The A. O. E. Society of this place, meets every third Sunday late Fr. Massaw Hall. John Tuomey and M. T. Kelly, County Delegates.
The W. C. T. U. meets the first Friday of each month at 2:30 p. m. at the home of Dr. H. F. Sigler. Everyone interested in temperance is cordially invited. Mrs. Leal Sigler, Pres; Mrs. Etta Durfee, Secretary.
The C. T. A. and B. Society of this place, meet every third Saturday evening in the Fr. Massaw Hall. John Donohue, President.
K NIGHTS OF MACCABEES. Meet every Friday evening on or before the 1st of the moon at their hall in the Swarthout bldg. Visiting brothers are cordially invited. CHAS. L. CAMPBELL, Sir Knight, Commdr.
Livingston Lodge, No. 18, F. & A. M. Regular Communication Tuesday evening, on or before the 1st of the moon. Kirk VanWinkle, W. M.
ORDER OF EASTERN STAR meets each month the Friday evening following the regular F. & A. M. meeting. Mrs. NERT VAUGHN, W. M.
ORDER OF MODERN WOODMEN Meet the 1st Thursday evening of each month in the Maccabeo hall. C. L. Grimes V. C.
LADIES OF THE MACCABEES. Meet every 1st and 3rd Saturday of each month at 2:30 p. m. K. O. T. M. Hall. Visiting sisters cordially invited. LILA CONWAY, Lady Com.

K NIGHTS OF THE LOYAL GUARD

F. L. Andrews P. M.

BUSINESS CARDS.

H. F. SIGLER M. D. C. L. SIGLER M. D.
DRS. SIGLER & SIGLER,
Physicians and Surgeons. All calls promptly attended to day or night. Office on Main street Pinckney, Mich.

FRANK L. ANDREWS

NOTARY PUBLIC WITH SEAL AT DISPATCH OFFICE

...of Livingston County and thirty notice is hereby given that they will be a County meeting held at the court house at Alwell in Livingston Co. on March 28, 1907. The American Society of Equity is in charge of this meeting, and will provide good speakers for the occasion. We hope for a good turnout as it is time that the farmers organized their forces with the view of securing profitable prices for farm products. This Society is having a great boom since the beginning of 1907 and the farmers are asked to aid in the movement. E. N. Ball, Sec'y, Michigan State Union.

CATARRH

To prove unquestionably, and beyond any doubt, that Catarrh of the nose and throat can be cured, I am furnishing patients through druggists, small Trial Boxes of Dr. Shoop's Catarrh Cure. Do this because I am so certain, that Dr. Shoop's Catarrh Cure will bring actual substantial help. Nothing certainly, is so convincing as a physical test of any article of real, genuine merit. But this article must possess true merit, else the test will condemn, rather than advance it. Dr. Shoop's Catarrh Cure is a snow white, healing, capillary balm, put up in beautiful nickel capped boxes at 50c. Such soothing agents as Oil of Eucalyptus, Menthol, etc., are incorporated in the Catarrh Cure. It Catarrh of the nose and throat has extended to the stomach, then by all means also use internally, Dr. Shoop's Restorative Stomach Dressing, a lack of general strength, bloating, belching, biliousness, bad taste, etc., surely call for Dr. Shoop's Restorative. For uncomplicated catarrh only of the nose and throat nothing else, however, need be used but

Dr. Shoop's Catarrh Cure

The Griswold House
POSTAL & MORRY, PROPRIETORS.
modern, up-to-date Hotel, located in the heart of the City.
Rates: $2.50, $3.50 per day.
Cash, Express, or Money Order.

PATENTS

PROCESSED AND DEFENDED. Good patents, drawing, invention, search and fee reports. Free advice, how to obtain patents, trade marks, copyrights, etc. IN ALL COUNTRIES. Business direct with Washington saves time, money and often the patent. Patent and Infringement Practice Exclusively. Write or come to us at 525 Ninth Street, opp. United States Patent Office, WASHINGTON, D. C.

CASNOW

KILBY
N

Embroidery
 Of night poured on lake and hill
 No beast or bird in earth or sky,
 Whose voice doth not with gladness thrill
 For Time hath laid his mantle by
 Of wind and rain and icy chill.

River and fountain, brook and rill,
 Despangled o'er with livery gay
 Of silver droplets, wind their way.
 All in their new apparel vie,
 For Time hath laid his mantle by Charles of Orleans.

HOME OF THE EASTER LILY

Flower Was Introduced into the Islands of Bermuda by an American.

There is only one monument in the whole British colony of the Bermudas—and it is erected to the memory of an American. This fact may seem a bit strange until one has heard the story, which is really a story of the Bermuda lily, and of the man who made it possible.

Many years ago, during President Hayes' administration, in fact—General Hastings, who had made for himself a brilliant record during the civil war, was married in the White House at Washington. He and his bride went to Bermuda on their wedding trip, and were so charmed with the beauty of the place that they resolved then and there to return, and, if possible, to make it their permanent abode. The climate, too, appealed to them. (The general had been seriously wounded in the war, and was far from well.)

A little later the two came again. Not as tourists this time, but as home-seekers. In those days the now-existing law that none but English citizens can own land in English colonies was not in force. So General Hastings had no difficulty in acquiring a large estate. He chose a picturesque site in the little city of Hamilton, surrounding a land-locked bay. Here he built his home, "Bonnet," which stands to-day among tropical trees and luxuriant flowers.

Not only did General Hastings at once become deeply interested in the place, and in the possibilities for its development, but he was genuinely distressed at the poverty of the islanders, says a writer in the Detroit Free Press. Setting about to improve matters, he studied the climatic conditions, experimented again and again, and at length his efforts were crowned with success. It was found that our present-day Easter lily, originally a native of Japan, would attain in Bermuda to a perfection of loveliness hitherto unknown. The islanders were attracted to his service, and since then the lily has become a staple of the island economy.

shore, the lily fields look from a distance like white summer clouds dropped down from the sky upon the green islands. Lily fragrance fills the air, and is blown by the wind far out over the water. Coming nearer you see the fields more clearly—rows upon rows of blossoms, tall, stately and snowy white. It is very beautiful.

It was not until the early '80's that the Bermuda lily became well known in the United States. It is said that a Philadelphia woman, returning from the islands, brought home a plant to bloom. This came to the attention of W. K. Harris, an enterprising florist of the Quaker city, who purchased a lot of the bulbs, from which he succeeded in raising hundreds of plants, introducing them under the name Lillium Harrisii. Thus the Easter lily industry spread to America, and to other countries as well. But nowhere do the flowers grow so perfect and beautiful as under the quickening warmth of the tropical sun of Bermuda.

Ordinarily only bulbs are exported, but at the rush season whole boat loads of cut buds and of thickly-budded plants are packed and shipped away, carrying the sweet message of the Eastertide into countless homes and churches.

General Hastings is dead. In spite of his long residence in Bermuda, he remained a devotedly loyal American citizen and from time to time concerned himself with public affairs, holding various positions of responsibility and honor. The islanders remember him as their friend and benefactor, and that they and those that come after them may not be unmindful of the debt of gratitude they owe, a beautiful monument has been recently erected in Hamilton in his memory.

Believed World Hatched From Egg. Since remotest times the egg has symbolized recreation. Persian tradition has it that the world was hatched from an egg at the season which corresponds to the vernal equinox; for which reason eggs are still given for New Year's presents by the Persians. The druids said that the sun, a great egg, hatched from itself the earth and other planets.

Various Street Lays...
 about 1750, and, as far as the region has not been discovered. Whether it was a gum or an oil or a distillation from some plant or a chemical is not known, nor how it was made. Many theories have been advanced, but one who died in 1850, Dr. G. W. B. has rediscovered it. He considered others to make his violin, but always replaced them himself. His varnish is very superior, and his violins command high prices. The varnishing and polishing of a violin are done usually by a woman. It requires time and practice, for the finest instruments are gone over as often as 25 times.—March Circle.

DURING THIS MONTH:
 Excellent Advice Which Our Readers Will Benefit By.

Now is the time to get the rheumatic poisons and foal acids from the blood and system, states an eminent authority, who says that Rheumatism and Kidney trouble are caused by the blood, which often becomes sour from excessive acids, and also tells what to do to make it pure and healthy.

Get from any good prescription pharmacy one-half ounce Fluid Extract Pandalpa, one ounce Compound Kargon, three ounces Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla. Mix by shaking in a bottle and take a teaspoonful after meals and at bedtime.

Just try this simple blood cleaner and tonic at the first sign of Rheumatism, or if your back aches or you feel that the Kidneys are not acting right. Any one can easily prepare this mixture at home.

Tip to Prodigals.
 "I takes notice," philosophically said old Brother Dinger, who was a great hand to cogitate, "dat in dese days, whilst we are deas as glad as we ever was when a sinnah refawns, we don't make so much fuss about it as we used to. We respects and indawses his action as much as we ever did, but we don't about 's'quid. Nowadays, de prodigal bring along his own calf; if he don't he's liable to butt up ag'in disapp'ntment. We's a heap mo' for solid business, dese times, and lots less for noise, dan we used to was. Yassah!"—Puck.

FIFTEEN YEARS OF ECZEMA.
 Terrible Itching, Swelling, Sleep—Hands, Arms and Legs Affected—Cuticura Cured in 7 Days.

"I had eczema nearly fifteen years. The affected parts were my hands, arms and legs. They were the worst in the winter time, and were always itchy, and I could not keep from scratching them. I had to keep both hands bandaged all the time, and at night I would have to scratch though the bandages as the itching was so severe, and at times I would have to tear everything off my hands. I could scratch the skin, I could not rest or sleep. I had several physicians treat me but they could not give me a permanent cure nor even could they stop the itching. After using the Cuticura Soap, one box of Cuticura Ointment and two bottles of Cuticura Resolvent for about six days the itching had ceased, and now the sores have disappeared, and I never felt better in my life than I do now. Edward Worell, Band 30th U. S. Infantry, Fort Crook, Nebraska."

Coincident Inventions.
 Almost at the same time two different inventors in different places have announced their success with electrical devices for seeing at a distance. They are J. B. Fowler and William H. Thompson. In Fowler's device four wires are required to accomplish the combined effect of distant vision and hearing. Details of the operation are withheld, however, on the plea of getting out a patent. Each inventor uses the name "Telovue."

STAYS CURED.
 Old Friends Praise Dr. David Kennedy's Remedy, the Best Kidney and Liver Medicine.

Mr. F. Christie, of 14 Swan street, Albany, N. Y., in 1886 was a very sick man. He suffered from a most aggravated case of dyspepsia. He gave Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy a thorough trial and it cured him absolutely. In 1908 (20 years after), Mr. Christie says he still remains well in health. His cure in 1886 was a permanent one. Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy is not a "secret" or "patent" medicine. List of ingredients given on request. Successful for 21 years. Makes permanent cures.

FREE-SAMPLE BOTTLE.
 Write Dr. David Kennedy's Sons, Rondout, N. Y., for free sample bottle and booklet containing much valuable medical advice. Large bottles $1.00, at all druggists. Mention this paper when you write.

The average woman makes a strenuous effort to discover her husband's faults for the purpose of hiding them from other people.

When a blind man can find trouble without much difficulty...
 People appreciate the delicate taste and natural action of...
 The average woman seems to think she is responsible for all her husband's joys, but that all his sorrows are due to his own foolish actions.

Allen's Foot-Powder.
 A powder. It cures painful, smarting, nervous feet and ingrowing nails. It's the greatest comfort discovery of the age. Makes new shoes easy. A certain cure for sweating feet. Sold by all Druggists, 25c. Accept no substitute. Trial package, FREE. Address A. S. Olmsted, Le Roy, N. Y.

The British army is to have cooperative canteens, under control of a registered cooperative society, bound to return all profits, less working expenses, and five per cent. interest on capital.

$100 Reward, $100.
 The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and restoring nature to doing its work. The operations have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address F. J. CLEMENT & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by all Druggists. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

Detective's Parable.
 Hilary K. Adair, the well-known detective, was complimented in Galveston, Tex., on an arrest that he had made. The arrest had been mysteriously achieved and Mr. Adair was asked to explain it. This, though, he refused to do.
 "There are so many ways of catching criminals," he said, laughing. "You know what the old man told his wife? She first said to him: 'Don't talk, John. You can't say I ever ran after you.'
 "'True,' the old man assented. 'And you can't say the trap ever runs after the mouse, either, but it gathers him in just the same.'"

A Big Bargain for 12 Cents Postpaid.
 The year of 1908 was one of prodigious plenty of our seed farms. Never before did vegetable and farm seeds return such enormous yields.
 Now we wish to gain 200,000 new customers this year and hence offer for 12c postpaid:
 1 pkg. Garden City Beet 10c
 1 " Earliest Rape Cabbage 10c
 1 " Earliest Emerald Cucumber 10c
 1 " La Crosse Market Lettuce 10c
 1 " 18 Day Radish 10c
 1 " Blue Blood Tomato 10c
 1 " Juicy Turnip 10c
 1000 kernels gloriously beautiful flower seeds 15c

Total $1.00
 All for 12c postpaid in order to introduce our warranted seeds, and if you will send 16c we will add one package of Berliner Earliest Cauliflower, together with our mammoth plant, nursery stock, vegetable and farm seed and fowl catalog. This catalog is mailed free to all intending purchasers. Write to-day.
 John A. Salzer Seed Co., Box W, La Crosse, Wis.

It's about all some people can do to keep from being done.

Poor Paint is Expensive.
 If one is rich enough to repaint his buildings every year for the pleasure of having a change of color schemes, the quality of the paint used may cut little figure. But if it is desirable to cut the painting bills down to the least amount possible per year, it is of the utmost importance that the paint be made of Pure White Lead and the best of Linseed Oil. There are imitations in the form of alleged White Lead, and there are substitutes in the form of ready-prepared paints.
 We guarantee our White Lead to be absolutely pure, and the Dutch Boy on the side of every keg is your safeguard. Look for him.

SEND FOR BOOK
 "A Talk at Paint" gives valuable information on the subject. Book free upon request.
NATIONAL LEAD COMPANY
 In substance of the following city or nearest office:
 New York, Boston, Buffalo, Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago, St. Louis, Philadelphia, Portland, San Francisco, National Lead & Oil Co.

Mica Axle Grease
 Best lubricant for axles in the world—long wearing and very adhesive.
 Makes a heavy load draw like a light one. Saves half the wear on wagon and team, and increases the earning capacity of your outfit.
 Ask your dealer for Mica Axle Grease.

JOIN THE NAVY
 Which calls for a young man of good character and sound physical condition between the ages of 17 and 25 as an apprentice seaman. The opportunities for advancement pay $16 to $18 a month. Mathematics, mechanics, bookkeeping, carpentry, ship-stitching, gunnery, astronomy, navigation, etc., are taught in 2 and 3 years, after which special ratings with suitable pay. Enlistment is for four years and allows more than 90 days' vacation. Applicants must be American citizens. No work of stitching free to recruit. Upon discharge travel allowance 4 cents per mile to place of enlistment. Bonus four months' pay and increase in pay upon re-enlistment within four months of discharge.
U.S. NAVY RECRUITING STATIONS:
 No. 33 Lafayette Avenue, DETROIT, MICH.
 Chamber of Commerce Building, CLEVELAND, OHIO.
 Post Office Building, JACKSON, MICH.
 Post Office Building, SAGINAW, MICH.

900 DROPS
 A Vegetable Preparation for Assimilating the Food and Regulating the Stomachs and Bowels of INFANTS & CHILDREN.
 Promotes Digestion, Cheerfulness and Rest. Contains neither Opium, Morphine nor Mineral. NOT NARCOTIC.
 Perfect Remedy for Constipation, Sour Stomach, Diarrhoea, Worms, Convulsions, Feverishness and LOSS OF SLEEP.
 The Sincere Signature of Wm. D. Knapp
NEW YORK.
 EXACT COPY OF WRAP.

CASTORIA
 For Infants and Children.
 The Most You Have Always Bought Bears the Signature of Dr. J. C. Fletcher
 Use For Over Thirty Years CASTORIA

Wm. Reuter is slowly recovering from his recent operation for appendicitis.

N. B. Waters, wife and grand daughter visited in Fowlerville the last of last week.

Mrs. Mary Sharp who has been with her daughter, Mrs. Noyes, for several weeks, returned home Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Haviland of Stockbridge, visited his aunt, Mrs. W. S. Haviland the first of the week.

EAST PUTNAM

Fred Hall was in Howell Tuesday.

Mrs. Henry Johnson has been on the sick list.

Thomas Poole will work for D. Smith this summer.

Chas. Eddy was in Detroit from Saturday until Tuesday.

Miss Nellie and Mabel Fish spent Sunday with their parents.

Berkeley Isham of Plainfield, was a Sunday guest at E. G. Fish's.

Mrs. R. W. Lake is in Chelsea with her mother, Mrs. J. B. Stanton, who is seriously ill.

Business Pointers.

WANTED.

One of the latest issues of the Livingston county Atlas.

Frank Mowers, Howell.

NOTICE.

My dental office in Pinckney will be closed after Friday March the 29th. Persons indebted to me will kindly call and settle their accounts.

Dr. A. B. Green.

Easter Dancing Party, Brighton House, Tuesday evening, April 2nd. Bill, in charge. Admission, $1.00. Pinckney young people cordially invited.

For Sale.

A few thoroughbred Buff Rocks, also a few Rose comb, Rhode Island Red cockerels. Choice for $1.00.

M. B. Mortenson.

For Sale.

The shingles all sawed for a base and have frame 54X84 with hip roof.

W. H. Mortenson, Pinckney

E. W. DANIELS,
GENERAL AUCTIONEER.
Satisfaction Guaranteed. For information call at DISPATCH Office or address Gregory, Mich., r. f. d. 2. Lyndilla phone connection. Auction bills and tin cups furnished free.

C. S. Chamberlin
Expert Auctioneer

Over 20 Years Experience
PHONE 38, FREE BOX 88

VALVELESS AUTOMATIC Stock Fountain
PAYS FOR ITSELF THE FIRST YEAR.

No Valves or floats to get out of order.

Just turn on something's water.

Let me send you free merit, and also Box of 25 Starr's... It is... any... instant relief... nose and... and see. Add... Wis, Large... all dealers.

Dr. C. L. Sigler was called to Owasco Tuesday to visit Frank Wright who is on the sick list.

Mrs. D. C. Littlejohn entertained her mother, Mrs. Marks, of Detroit, the first of the week.

Mrs. Ella Jackson is visiting relatives and attending an annual meeting of the Woman's Missionary Union at St. Johns.

Brayton Placeway, who underwent an operation for appendicitis at Harper's hospital in Detroit last Saturday, is gaining.

Rev. D. C. Littlejohn was in Chelsea the first of the week to attend a Ministerial convention, he was also one of the speakers.

Geo. Younglove has bills out for an auction at his place 4 miles west of Chubb's Corners, Wednesday April 8. Fourteen head of cattle and farm tools are for sale.

Miss Laura Lavey has been entertaining the Misses Agnes Agnitch, Catherine Harrington and Blanche. Glenn the past week, the young ladies spending the weeks vacation from the Normal at Ypsilanti, with her. The first two named young ladies are from the Upper Peninsula.

NORTH HAMBURG

Good many out to hear Rev. Marta sermon Sunday.

Mr. Hendricks has returned from his trip to Texas.

The Ladies Aid will serve the regular chicken pie dinner at Stephen VanHorn's election day.

The frogs were chanting Friday and Saturday, and nearly all the birds have returned. Spring movers are moving, surely, the backbone of winter is broken, and every indication of spring.

The Putnam and Hamburg Farmers' club will meet this week Saturday with Mr. and Mrs. Roth. Please bring lap boards and dishes. The following program will be rendered:

Music Club
Recitation Sada Swarthout
Paper Mrs. James Nash
Solo Fanny Swarthout
Recitation Mrs. Jesse Henry
Solo Adda Kice
Recitation Percy Whitlock
Solo Howard Harris
Instrumental Solo Florence Kice
Reading Henry Kice
Advantage and disadvantage of the Rural Telephone.—Discussion to be opened by Glenn Smith.

The Social and Literary Club will meet at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Grant Dunning, Friday evening, March 29, 1907. The following program will be rendered;

Music by Club
Roll Call
Secretary's Report
Inst. Duet Florence Richter and Violet Dunning
Club Bulletin Lulu Benham
Solo Will Nash
Duet Carlton and Mrs. Barnard
Recitation Una Mae Bennett
Inst. Duet Florence Kice and Hazel Switzer
Solo Fanny Rolison
Paper Glenn Smith
Inst. Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Appleton

WEST PUTNAM

Miss Fannie Monks was in Howell Saturday.

Katherine Hackett, of Detroit, is visiting friends here.

Joie Harris began school in the Hause district Monday.

Mrs. Wm. Gardner and son spent Sunday in Chilson.

Mrs. James Doyle is very ill at the home of her daughter, Mrs. P. Kennedy.

Mr. and Mrs. Otis Webb and daughter Muriel, spent Sunday at H. B. Gardner's.

Thomas Cooper, and wife of Jackson, spent Saturday and Sunday with relatives here.

Rose Barry and Jennie Mc... were guests of Fanny Monks last week.

A Difference. —
Looking over the picture gallery before a portrait—And is master? Servant—No, sir
The said mistress.—London

Lee Carr of the Marine City schools, was the guest of Theo. Gaul Tuesday.

Mrs. D. C. Littlejohn entertained her mother, Mrs. Marks, of Detroit, the first of the week.

Mrs. Ella Jackson is visiting relatives and attending an annual meeting of the Woman's Missionary Union at St. Johns.

Brayton Placeway, who underwent an operation for appendicitis at Harper's hospital in Detroit last Saturday, is gaining.

Rev. D. C. Littlejohn was in Chelsea the first of the week to attend a Ministerial convention, he was also one of the speakers.

Geo. Younglove has bills out for an auction at his place 4 miles west of Chubb's Corners, Wednesday April 8. Fourteen head of cattle and farm tools are for sale.

Miss Laura Lavey has been entertaining the Misses Agnes Agnitch, Catherine Harrington and Blanche. Glenn the past week, the young ladies spending the weeks vacation from the Normal at Ypsilanti, with her. The first two named young ladies are from the Upper Peninsula.

The W. I. C. Social

The W.I.C. society will give a Match social at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Webb, Friday evening, April 5. A lapboard supper will be served for 10 cents. Program next week.

OBITUARY.

Died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. James Marble, Sunday, March 24, 1907, Mrs. Joel Dunning, aged 87 years.

Louise Miller was born in Albany, New York Jan. 30, 1820. When very young she moved with her parents to the city of Saratoga, New York and in 1840 was married to Joel R. Dunning of Malta, Saratoga Co., New York.

She came to Michigan with her husband and family in 1855 and settled on the farm now owned by Fred Burgess 2 miles north east of this place. They moved to Pinckney in 1870 where they resided until Mr. Dunning's death in 1890. Since then she has lived with her eldest daughter, Mrs. Jas. Marble.

She was the last of a family of ten children to be called to her reward and is survived by her three daughters, Mrs. Jas. Marble of Putnam, Mrs. Willis Smith of Marion and Mrs. M. B. Allison of Iosco.

In 1857 she joined the Congregational church at Pinckney and until health failed, she was always a constant attendant at that church.

For years she has been a patient sufferer buoyed up by the hope that at last she would be called to dwell in that realm of life and light eternal and to spend Eternity with her loved ones who had gone before. As the sun sank to rest on Sunday, March 24, her spirit winged its flight to that peaceful harbor where the wicked cease from troubling and the weary shall find rest.

CARD OF THANKS

We desire to thank the neighbors and friends, also the choir for their music, who so kindly assisted us in our late bereavement in the death of our mother.

THE FAMILY OF MRS. J. R. DUNNING.

J. W. BIRD
PRACTICAL AUCTIONEER
SATISFACTION GUARANTEED

For information, call at the Pinckney DISPATCH office. Auction Bills Free Webster Rural Phone Arrangements made for sale by phone at my expense.
Address: Dexter, Michigan

Although the pastor did not announce anything special for Sunday morning there was a house full and he gave them a sermon suitable for Palm Sunday and it was an excellent one. His description was so vivid that one could almost see in imagination the Master riding into the beautiful city of Jerusalem, with the garments strewn in the path, and the host waving palm branches.

There were 132 remained to Sunday school and the collection was $2.32. The arrangements are completed for Easter entertainment Sunday next beginning at the time of the early morning service, 10:30. Everybody welcome.

The Epworth League and evening service were profitable to all present. The interest is growing in the League and you are invited to attend. Service commences promptly at 7.

M. E. Church Notes.

Although the pastor did not announce anything special for Sunday morning there was a house full and he gave them a sermon suitable for Palm Sunday and it was an excellent one. His description was so vivid that one could almost see in imagination the Master riding into the beautiful city of Jerusalem, with the garments strewn in the path, and the host waving palm branches.

There were 132 remained to Sunday school and the collection was $2.32. The arrangements are completed for Easter entertainment Sunday next beginning at the time of the early morning service, 10:30. Everybody welcome.

The Epworth League and evening service were profitable to all present. The interest is growing in the League and you are invited to attend. Service commences promptly at 7.

MICHIGAN DEPARTMENT OF STATE LANSING

FRED M. WARNER, Secretary of State. CHARLES S. PIERCE, Deputy Secretary of State

June 21, 1901.

Mr. W. H. S. Wood, Howell, Michigan

Dear Sir:

I am receipt of your letter of the 20th, enquiring as to the financial standing, and the manner of conducting business of the National Loan and Investment Company of Detroit.

In reply I will say the recent examination made by this Department shows it to be in excellent financial standing. I consider it one of the strong financial institutions of the state.

Its manner of conducting business is of the highest standard.

Yours very truly,
FRED M. WARNER,
Secretary of State.

Not taxable. Pays 4 per cent semi-annually. Real estate security and examined by State. 18 years old.

W. H. S. Wood, agent for Livingston county, is always in Howell at Barron & Wines drug store on Saturdays, or mail a postal and he will call.

ENTERTAINMENT

The Ladies Aid Society of the North Lake M. E. Society

Will give a Musical Entertainment at the church on Friday Evening, March 29, 1907

Commencing at 7:30

Adults 25 Cents Children 10 Cents

PROGRAM:

Music, - - - - - Mandolin Club, Dexter Quartet,
Reading, - - - - - North Lake
Vocal Solo, - - - - - Miss T. Garty, Ypsilanti
Music, - - - - - Miss Atkinson, Chelsea
Duet, - - - - - Mandolin Club
Reading, - - - - - Mr. and Miss Andrews, Pinckney
Vocal Solo, - - - - - Miss Garty
REST SONG, - - - - - Miss Mary Whalian
Ladies Quartet, - - - - - Unadilla
Reading, - - - - - Miss Johnson, Dexter
Music, - - - - - Mandolin Club
Vocal Solo, - - - - - Miss Atkinson
Reading, - - - - - Miss Garty
Vocal Solo, - - - - - Pearl Glenn
Vocal Solo, - - - - - Miss Atkinson
Music, - - - - - Mandolin Club