Excessive Athletics.

Exercise is as necessary for the human body as food and drink. It is impossible to maintain perfect health without it, but it must be taken in moderation, for excess in this respect is as harmful in its way, and sometimes in the same way, as excess in eating. The effect of exercise is to increase the tissue changes in the body. The weaker cells are destroyed and replaced by new and stronger cells, the nutrition is increased, and the waste products are thrown off. If the exercise is carried to extreme lengths it may happen that the waste products are thrown into the system in so great quantity that they cannot be disposed of in the ordinary way, and they accumulate to such an extent that the body is poisoned by its own waste. The result is the same as when an excess of food is taken; and so, exercise, which in moderation tends to counteract the evil of over-eating, in excess only increases the evil. It has always been known that excessive physical labor has a tendency to shorten life, and the attainment of old age is seldom the lot of the laboring man. But the fact is often curiously overlooked that physical labor is physical labor, whether it consists in wielding a pick and shovel or in throwing weights, rowing a boat, running or jumping. The dangers of inordinate devotion to athletics, says Youth's Companion, are that one part of the body, one set of muscles or certain organs, such as the heart, will be developed out of proportion to the other parts. This is especially the case in the young, who have not yet attained their growth. The heart is a patient organ, and when strain is put upon it it quietly increases its bulk and its strength to meet the task. So long as the strain is continued, it works along, but when the call upon it is diminished suddenly, the young man giving up his athletics and taking to a sedentary life, its muscular tissue begins to degenerate. The arteries, under strain, act in the same way, and when the tension is relaxed the condition known as arteriosclerosis develops. The tissues are poorly nourished and the man ages before his time. When devotion to athletics has been excessive, it is only by the greatest care in training down that the athlete can avoid the danger of weakened body and nerves.

Was a Great Teacher.

By the death of Kuno Fischer, Europe loses one of its really great teachers of philosophy. Mike Victor Cousin, Fischer paid particular attention to the form of his lectures, which were models of clear and sometimes eloquent exposition. He spoke invariably without notes, and could quote from memory extended passages from the ancient as well as from the modern philosophers. His "History of Modern Philosophy" is remarkable for the precision of its statements and the justice of its criticisms. Although a Hegelian, Fischer never employed the peculiar terms of the school. He was a thoughtful critic of modern literature, and his lectures on Goethe's Faust, on Lessing, and on certain plays of Shakespeare attracted large audiences. A singular episode in his career, relates New York Post, was an acrimonious debate with Trendelenburg of Berlin over an interpretation of the Kantian philosophy. The animosity produced by this dispute was, according to some, the reason why Fischer never went to Berlin, but remained for more than 30 years an ornament to the University of Heidelberg and the foremost citizen of that city.

The death in New York of Prof. Angelo Hellprin deprives the world of a noted scientist. Prof. Hellprin, who was a native of Hungary, came to the United States when an infant and received his education here, rising to special eminence as a geologist, though his versatility was shown by his achievements in other fields. His explorations in various directions added greatly to the sum of human knowledge, and the results were embodied in numerous instructive volumes. One of his most notable achievements was the ascent of Mont Pelee immediately after the great and destructive eruption of that Mar- tique volcano in 1902. He risked his life in scientific investigation and calmly took notes of the phenomena on the very edge of the blazing cra-

THE STATE IN GENERAL

A NEW PRIMARY ELECTION BILL TO CORRECT DEFECTS IN OLD.

UP TO SPECIAL SESSION.

No Political Policy in It, But the Legislature May Fix That Part of It Before Passage.

Seems a Good Bill.

Attorney General Bird has prepared a primary election bill in which he has endeavored to smooth out the imperfections in the present law and to simplify every provision to which the attention of the department has been challenged.

"Michigan should have a good workable, consistent primary law if it is to have direct nominations," said Deputy Attorney General Chase today, "and in this bill the department thinks it has accomplished the object sought. Every one will be able to understand it and work under it without the necessity of constantly asking for instruction."

"Those questions of political policy, such as the nomination of United States senators and the 40 per cent clause, have been left for the legislature to insert if it desires to do so. We haven't made any attempt to favor or oppose any interest or faction, but to eradicate some of the incongruous provisions of the present act, and make it more generally effective. It merely simplifies and makes plain the present statute."

"If the legislature in special session desires this bill the department will furnish it."

Found His Wife At Last.

After traveling thousands of miles in pursuit of his wife, and spending a large part of five years in the search, Augustus Wilson, a Port Huron detective, has located her in Pontiac, only to find her the wife of another man. This morning Charles Philbrook, aged 40, who says he married her fifteen months ago at Sandwich, Ont., was arrested and lodged in jail, and a warrant will be served on Mrs. Wilson as soon as she recovers from an illness.

Wilson charges that his wife deserted him while they were living in Port Huron. He returned home one evening to find she had taken her possessions and fled. He followed her to Pittsburg, and after a desperate search of the city found where she had lived. She had gone before he arrived. He says he then spent three years traveling about the east and middle west, hoping to find her and induce her to return to Port Huron. Several times he secured traces of Mrs. Wilson, but she always had left before he arrived at the house where she was living.

About two years ago he gave up what he considered a hopeless search and returned to Port Huron. Recently, through a friend, he learned that she was in Pontiac, and hurried there, to find her living with Philbrook.

Wilson declares that if the Sandwich marriage is recognized here he will prosecute his wife on a bigamy charge.

Ann Arbor House Robbers.

A series of the boldest burglaries in the annals of Ann Arbor have led residents to sleep with one eye open at night and to chain their bulgids in the hallways during the daytime. Hardly a day or night has passed during the last ten days without entrances into one or two houses of the city.

One of the men has done his work by stealth during the day, getting into the homes by some excuse or other and walking out shortly afterward with valuables and cash. At one time he was seeking a room in the students' quarter, and at another he was a telephone repair man. About the same time came reports from a house near the city where the occupants had been chloroformed while the place was robbed.

The most recent depredation is the burglarizing of the large residence of Mrs. Mary McClure on Huron street. The entire house was ransacked. The family is away, and how much was stolen is not known. The police have no clues.

Every Inch a Sailor.

The Don Juan de Austria, manned by the Michigan naval militia, will arrive in Detroit Thursday or Friday, having reported and cleared from Montreal Monday afternoon. The Michigan men resent printed reports that the boat carries a force of regular service men, in addition to the militia, and say that a cook, a few firemen and two or three shipkeepers only were taken from the navy yard at Portsmouth to help man the boat.

Held Up in Owosso.

Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Selman, of Greenville, who are visiting friends in Owosso, were the victims of a holdup man Tuesday night. While on their way home on West King street a burly footpad seized Mrs. Selman, wrenching her handbag from her arm and ran swiftly down the street. Both visitors are old people and could not successfully give chase. The handbag contained $3.

AROUND THE STATE.

John Stanley, of Bellaire, employed by the Southern Pacific, died on a train while en route to a Los Angeles hospital.

Mrs. Allen Graham, of Battle Creek, was fatally scalded while washing, when a boiler of hot water overturned upon her.

The contract for the new fireproof Wenona hotel, in Bay City, to cost $225,000, exclusive of the auditorium, has been signed.

A white lynx is roaming the woods near Sanford, and women and children are afraid to venture out. The men go about armed.

Barthold Kaufman, a former resident, was drawn under the wheels of a fast passenger train and killed while visiting in Jonesville.

A detachment of 12 of the Calumet Engineers' corps, M. N. G., went to Ludington to assist in laying out the grounds for the state encampment.

In recognition of the services of 25 years in the state militia, Fred Guttman, quartermaster of Co. D, Monroe Light Guard, was presented with a gold medal.

O. M. Fleischhauer, of Hersey, was allowed to name his own delegation to the district convention, and it was instructed to support him for the constitutional convention.

Esther O. Green, aged 16, of Ludington, who disappeared recently, returned, and claims she was kidnapped and held forcibly in a country house for twenty-four hours.

Howard Dexter, a former resident of Saginaw, was killed by his locomotive at Dickson, N. D. He was an engineer, 27 years old, and unmarried. He went west five years ago.

Is Rep. Charles E. Ward at his home? Very few people in Bancroft can answer that question authoritatively, for the reason that if Mr. Ward is there, he keeps himself secluded.

A diamond ring, given by the late Isaac B. Bent to an Ann Arbor barber, with the remark that he could keep it if he died, is claimed by Bent's nephew, and the matter may be taken to the courts.

Mrs. Emily Pulver and her granddaughter, Bernice Oliver, victims of last Friday's automobile accident in Jackson, were given a double funeral Monday. Mr. Oliver is still in a very critical condition.

A new trial was refused to Homer L. Heath, a U. of M. athlete. He sued E. Calkins, a druggist, for the loss of an arm. Heath bought a flashlight powder from Calkins which blew off his arm in exploding.

Dr. Edwin Brumfield, aged 72 years, one of Jackson's best known physicians, who died Sunday, spent his boyhood days in Cooperstown, N. Y., also the boyhood home of J. Fenimore Cooper, the novelist.

Because he broke his parole, William Sewell, sent up from Ingham county for three years in 1904 for burglary, and paroled in 1906, has been returned from St. Louis, Mo., and will have to serve a year and a half now.

Promoters say that an electric line to Grand Rapids, to be known as the Ludington & Southern railway, is certain. Eastern capitalists will furnish $25,000 as soon as farmers along the line raise $15,000 to show an interest in the road.

Oscar Green, a farmer at Atlas, stopped D. U. R. workmen who were laying rails for a switch in front of his house. Green says the cars would block his view of the road and threatens to carry the matter in the courts, if the company persists.

Ovid has been stirred up for the past two weeks by burglar scares, and many have been most afraid to go to sleep nights for fear their house would be broken into. Nearly every morning some house or barn would show signs of having been entered.

Hon. Chase S. Osborn has given the Third regiment, M. N. G., a sub-machine gun for use in shooting. The machine will be hung up as a trophy to be contested for by the companies after the encampment. It will be exhibited at the Ludington camp.

When the circuit court convened in Grand Haven Monday afternoon, Judge Padgham arranged the calendar for what promises to be one of the longest court terms in several years, the trial of William Shimmel, charged with the murder of Martin Golden, is the first case to be tried.

The six-year-old child of William Murray, of Port Huron, lies in a critical condition from an injury she received from being hit in the head with a pitched baseball. She was crossing the street while boys were playing and was knocked unconscious. It is feared her skull is fractured.

The railroad commissioner's department has received letters from the Lake Shore, Michigan Central, Wabash and Big Four railroads, stating that they will comply with the new two-cent fare law when it goes into effect September 17. The Pere Marquette had previously signified its intention to conform to the law.

At the annual reunion of Company H, Sixth Michigan infantry, heavy artillery, the first company to be mustered into state service at the outbreak of the Civil war, the following officers were elected: President, W. B. Brainard, Eaton Rapids; vice-president, Frank Pierce, Hastings; secretary, H. J. Milbourn, Eaton Rapids; treasurer, E. W. Harmon, Chaptote.

DESTRUCTION WAS SUDDEN

EXPLOSION WRECKED ESSEX KILLED TWO, WOUNDED MANY.

NITROGLYCERIN DID IT.

Carload Lets Go Shattering Nearly Every Building in the Town and Shock is Felt for Miles.

A car of nitroglycerin was sidetracked Friday night near the freight sheds in Essex, Ontario, and was to have been taken to Amherstburg on a plug train which was due to leave Essex at 9:30 a. m. Saturday. The train was being made up and the car containing the nitroglycerin had been attached to the engine with a coal car behind it, an empty freight car and one passenger car. The train was due to leave in 15 minutes. Brakeman Joe McNary, discovered that some glycerin was leaking from the car and he started to open the car and stop the leak. Just then the explosion occurred.

With a terrific noise, and a shock that was felt as far away as Detroit, and several miles beyond, houses, churches, stores and factories reeled and collapsed. The fine, new stone depot was blown open and only the side walls and the rafters are left. The freight sheds are leveled to the ground. Green's warehouse fell flat. Mayor's mill was converted into a bunch of kindling. Laing & Ritchie's sash and door mill doubled up like a jackknife and fell on its side.

Freight cars were demolished, the engine and tender of the train were converted into scrap iron. The entire village of Essex of 2,500 people were panic-stricken. Their houses were falling about their heads. They knew not what had happened, but they did know that their homes and all they possessed were in ruins.

Men, women and children rushed into the streets cut by broken glass and falling timbers, and everywhere ruin and the shattered remnants of their town was before them. All the doctors of the city and the firemen rushed to the depot and with every step their progress grew more and more difficult over the piles of wreckage, until at the very center of the disaster, they had to stop at a great, clean hole in the ground, 50 feet across and 20 feet deep.

That was where the ill-fated car had stood. Nothing of the car or of the rails it had stood upon were left. Two hundred feet away Burt Esselty, a teamster for Laing & Ritchie, staggered up with a crushed face to find his horse lying dead close by, with a piece of railroad track shot through his body. Almost every building in the town is shattered, and within a radius of 300 yards from the depot everything is in a state of total destruction.

The reports on Sunday were that the seventeen injured people were resting as comfortably as could be expected. The town was in the hands of the police and all drinking places closed Sunday. The scene of wreck and ruin cannot be described. The water works system was destroyed. The steeples of churches were razed. The municipal building was greatly damaged. Not a store on Talbot street—the main street—sustained less than half its value in damage. Jewelry, furniture, hardware, baked goods, dry goods—all were hurled into the streets and piled on the floors of the stores, while all around plate glass cracked to the step and stuck up in menacing piles in the streets.

Race War Raging.

A special from Parksley, Va., says that reports have been received there to the effect that Garland Beloate was shot and seriously wounded at Onancock of a negro named Uzzel, said to be the editor of a paper published at that place.

The reports also say that later large numbers of negroes prepared themselves for rioting and went into ambush, that the white residents at Onancock were entirely unprepared to defend themselves and were asking aid of Olney, Parksley, Accomac, Tassley and other nearby towns, several of which had sent help; that four white men leaving Onancock in a hack were made the targets of fifty shots fired by negroes from a grocery store in the suburbs and that it is feared all four were killed.

Arabs Mobilizing.

Advices from Casablanca are to the effect that 20,000 Arab cavalymen are mobilizing in the interior. Gen. Drude, the commander of the French force, encamped outside of Casablanca, is awaiting a new attack.

The report that the natives lost heavily during the assault of Thursday on the French camp is confirmed. Their casualties are described as enormous. The French casualties were confined to two sharpshooters, who were wounded.

The sultan has communicated to the Italian minister his intention of paying proper indemnities for the killing of the three Italian subjects at Casablanca.

H. H. Rogers, real head of the Standard Oil Co., who has been ill for some time, is now suffering from the effects of a nervous breakdown and he will be absent in several months.

The Boundary Line Resolution Was Not Signed.

Attorney-General Bird has discovered another concurrent resolution passed by the recent legislature which is defective. The resolution directed him to have a survey made of the disputed boundary line between Michigan and Wisconsin, and, if the facts warranted, to take the matter into court.

During the session, Hon. Peter White, of Marquette, came to Lansing and laid before the legislature the matter of the disputed boundary, and asked that action be taken, stating that his investigation led him to believe that Michigan was entitled to the disputed territory. After the attorney-general had commenced proceedings to investigate the state's claims, he found that the concurrent resolution had never been enrolled and sent to the governor to be signed, and is of no force or effect in consequence.

The survey may go forward just the same, however, as the contract has been let, and Mr. Bird takes the ground that he and the governor have power to act.

Hold the Fort.

Senator William Alden Smith would like to have the federal government again assume control over Fort Mackinac and the military reservation, and has taken the matter up with Senator Cannon and Senator Hemenway, who are visiting there. They will assist him. The presence of so many statesmen on the island, including Congressman McKinley, of Illinois, has given rise to rumors of a political conference, which the statesmen, however, deny.

Fined $17,000.

Judge Page Morris, in the United States district court, sitting in Minneapolis, fined the Wisconsin Central Railroad Co. $17,000 for rebating, of which it was convicted last April. Burton Johnson and G. T. Huey, freight officials of the road, were fined $2,000 and $1,000 respectively for paying rebates to shippers.

Seven Drowned.

Seven Northern Pacific freight handlers were run down by a tug in Duluth harbor while going home in a rowboat and drowned. Four other men swam ashore. The tug was towing a mudscrew, and the suction was so great that the men were all drawn underneath the scow. Six never came to the surface and one who came up was so injured that he could not save himself.

Brig-Gen. Charles Francis Powell, U. S. A., retired, is dead in St. Paul at the age of 63. He graduated from West Point in 1867.

Whether it was that for the first time in all his wonderful career he realized that the "system" was to meet its Nemesis, or what the cause, none could tell, perhaps not even Barry Conant himself, but some emotion caused his olive face for an instant to turn pale, and give his voice a tell-tale quiver. Once more pealed forth "25 for 5,000." That Bob saw the pallor, that he caught the quiver, was evident to all, for the instant his "sold" rang out, he followed it with 5,000 at 24, 23, 22, 20. Neither Barry Conant nor any of his lieutenants got in a "take it," although whether they wanted to or not was an open question until Bob allowed his voice to dwell just like a pendulum swing of time on the 20. It was as if he were tantalizing them into sticking by their guns. By the time he paused, Barry Conant's nerve was back, for his piercing "Take it" had linked to it "20 for any part of $10,000." The bid was yet on his lips when Bob's deep voice rang out "Sold." Any part of 25,000 at 19, 18, 15, 10. Hell was now loose. Back and forth, up against the rail, around the room and back and around again, the crowd surged for 15 of the wildest, craziest minutes in the history of the New York stock exchange, a history replete with records of wild and crazy scenes.

At last from sheer exhaustion there came a ten minutes' lull, which was used in comparing trades. At the beginning of the respite Sugar was selling at 155, for in that quarter hour of madness it had broken from 210 to 155, but when the ten minutes had elapsed, the stock had worked back to 167. Harry Conant had again taken the center of the crowd, after hastily scanning the brief notes handed him by messenger-boys and giving orders to his lieutenants. He had evidently received reinforcements in the form of renewed orders from his principals. Many of the faces that fringed the inner circle of that crowd were frightful to look upon, some white as though just lifted from hospital pillows, others red to the verge of apoplexy—all strained as though awaiting the coming of the jury with a life or death verdict. They all knew that Bob had sold more than a hundred thousand shares of Sugar upon which the profits must be more than $4,000,000. Would he resume selling, or was he through? Was it short stock, which must be bought back, or long stock; and if long, whose stock? Were the insiders selling out on one another, or were they all selling together, and under cover of Barry Conant's movements were Camemeyer and "Standard Oil" emptying their bag preparatory to the slaughter of the Washington contingent? All these questions were rushing through the heads of that crowd of brokers like steam through a boiler, now hot, now cold, but always at high pressure, for upon the correctness of the answer depended the fortune of many who breathlessly awaited the renewal or the suspension of the contest. Even Harry Conant's usually impassive face wore a tinge of anxiety.

Indeed, Bob was the only one in the center of that throng that showed no sign of what was going on behind it. The same cynical smile that had been there since the opening still played around the corners of his mouth as he squared himself in front of his opponent. All knew now that he was not through. Barry Conant had evidently decided to force the fighting, although more cautiously than before. "67 for a thousand." One of his lieutenants bid 67 for 500, another 67 for 300, and as Bob had not yet shown his intention of meeting their bids, 67 for different amounts was heard all over the house. Bob might have been tossing a metal coin to decide the advisability of buying back what he had sold; he might have been adding up the bids as they were made. He said nothing for a fraction of a minute, which to those tortured men must have seemed like an age. Then with a wave of his hand, as though uttering a benediction, he followed with a cold-blooded: "80 for 1,000 in all."

"80 for a thousand"—again for 1,000 shares. "87 for a thousand." "87 for 500 shares." "87 for 300 shares." "87 for 1,000 shares." Barry Conant's face was white as death, but he said nothing. He only looked at Bob with a cold-blooded: "80 for 1,000 in all."

lieutenants, seemed to have concluded that Bob's renewal of attack meant that he was the winning side, and those who had been hanging on to their stock hoping against hope, and those who were short and had been undecided whether to cover or to hold on and sell more for greater profits, vied with one another in a frantic effort to sell. All could now feel the coming panic. All could see that it was a bad one, as the least informed on the floor knew that there was a tremendous amount of Sugar stock in the hands of Washington novices at speculation and of others who had bought it at high prices. Sugar was now dropping two, three, five dollars a share between trades, and the panic was spreading to the other poles, as is always the case, for when there are sudden large losses in one stock, the losers must throw over the other stocks they hold to meet their loss, and thus the whole structure tumbles like a house of cards. Sugar had just crossed 110 when the loud bang of the president's gavel resounded through the room. Instantly there was a silence as of death. All knew the meaning of the sound, the most ominous ever heard in a stock exchange, calling for the temporary suspension of business while the president announces the failure of some member or house.

PERKINS, BLANCHARD & CO. Announce that They Cannot Meet Their Obligations.

This statement that one of the oldest houses had been swamped in the crash Bob had started caused further frantic selling, and, as though every member had employed the lull to refill his lungs, a howl arose that pealed and wailed to the dome.

I watched Bob closely; in fact, it was impossible for me to take my eyes off him; he seemed absolutely unmindful of the agonizing shrieks about him, for the frenzied brokers were no longer crying their bids or offers, but screaming them. He still continued relentlessly to hammer Sugar, offering it in thousands and tens of thousand lots.

Again and again the gavel fell, and again and again an announcement of failure was followed by blood-curdling howls. When Sugar struck 80—not 180, but plain 80—it seemed that the last day of stock speculation was at hand. Announcements were being made every few minutes of the failure of this bank, the closing of the doors of that trust company. Where would it end? What power could stop this above the tumult rose Bob Brownley's voice. He must have been standing on his tiptoes. His hands were raised aloft. He seemed to tower a head above the mob. His voice was still clear and unimpaired by the terrible strain of the past two hours. To that mob it must have sounded like the trumpet of the delivering angel. "80 for any part of 25,000 Sugar." Instantly Sugar was hurled at him from all sides of the crowd. He was the only buyer of the moment who had appeared since Sugar broke 125. Barry Conant and his lieutenants had disappeared like snowflakes at the opening of the door of the firebox of a locomotive speeding through the storm. In a few seconds Bob had been sold all the 25,000 he had bid for. Again his voice rang out: "80 for 25,000." The sellers momentarily halted. He got only a few thousand of his 25. "85 for 25,000." A few thousand more. "90 for $25,000." Still fewer thousands. His bidding was beginning to tell on the mob. A cry ran through the room into the crowds around the poles: "Brownley has turned!"—and taking renewed courage at the report, the bulls rallied their forces and began to bid for the different stocks, which a moment before it had seemed that no one wanted at any price.

In a chip of a minute the whole scene changed; there was almost as wild a panic on the up side as there had been on the down. Bob Brownley continued buying Sugar until he had pushed it above 150. He then went about tallying up his trades. At the end of ten minutes' calculation he returned to the center and bought 11, 000 shares more; coming out, his eye caught mine.

"Jim, have you been here long?"

"An eternity. I was here at the opening and I pray God never to put me through another two hours like the past two. It seems a hideous dream, a nightmare. Bob, in the name of God, what have you been doing?"

He gave me a wild, awful look of exultation. Sublime triumph shone in those blazing brown orbs, triumph such as I had never seen in the eyes of man.

"Jim Randolph, I have been giving Wall street and its hell 'system' a dose of its own poison, a good full-measure dose. They planned by harvesting a fresh crop of human hearts and souls on the bull side to give Friday the 13th a new meaning. Tradition says Friday the 13th is Bear Saints' day. I believe in maintaining old traditions, so I have harvested their hearts instead. I will tell you about it some time, Jim, but now I must see Beulah Sands. Jim Randolph, I've saved her and her father. I've made them a round three millions and a strong seven millions for myself."

He almost yelled it as he rushed away and left me dazed, stupefied. A moment, and I came to. Something urged me to follow him.

CHAPTER VI.

As I passed through my office a few minutes later I heard Bob's voice in Beulah Sands' office. It was raised in passionate eloquence.

"Yes, Beulah, I have done it single-handed. I have crucified Camemeyer, 'Standard Oil,' and the 'system' that spiced me to the cross a few weeks ago. You have three millions, and I have seven. Now there is nothing more but for you to go home to your father, and then come back to me. Back to me, Beulah, back to me to be my wife!"

He stopped. There was no sound. I waited; then, frightened, I stepped to the door of Beulah Sands' office. Bob was standing just inside the threshold, where he had halted to give her the glad tidings. She had risen from her desk and was looking at him with an agonized stare. He seemed to be transfixed by her look, the wild ecstasy of the outburst of love yet mirrored in his eyes. She was just saying as I reached the door:

"Bob, in mercy's name tell me you got this money fairly, honorably."

Bob must have realized for the first time what he had done. He did not speak. He only stared into her eyes. She was now at his side.

"Bob, you are unnerfed," she said; "you have been through a terrible ordeal. For an hour I have been reading in the bulletins of the banks and trust companies that have failed, of the banking houses that have been ruined. I have been reading that you did it; that you have made millions—and I knew it was for me, for father, but in the midst of my joy, my gratitude, my love—for, oh, Bob, I love you," she interrupted herself passionately; "it seems as though I love you beyond the capacity of a human heart to love. I think that for the right to be yours for one single moment of this life I would willingly endure all the pains and miseries of eternal torture. Yes, Bob, for the right to have you call me yours for only while I heard the words, I would do anything, Bob, anything that was honorable."

NOT ALL A COMPLIMENT. Wife's Pride in Husband's Success Had a Tinge of Regret.

The doctor and his wife had lived together four years. She was a widow when he met her. He was a physician of note. Their life together was a happy one and no quibbling had entered the home to set a bad example for their hopeful. But the wife had a reputation as a wit. Her witticisms and little sarcastic remarks were known far and wide. Her friends had all heard of them. They had all felt the sting of them. The physician had been working with a hard case. He had spent day and night at the home of his patient and had won the fight for life. And he was accordingly well satisfied with himself. On his arrival home one evening he turned to his wife, saying: "You see, wifey dear? I have pulled my patient through. He is now well on the road to recovery."

"Yes, hubby, dear," returned the wife. "But you are such a perfect master of your profession. You are so successful. Ah, I wish that I had met you five years sooner than I did. Then my poor, dear Billy would never have died."

CLEVER TRICK OF THIEVES.

Use Offensive Odor of Onions to Aid in Shoplifting.

"Incredible as it may seem," said Lecoq, the detective, "there are a number of shoplifters who steal by the agency of the onion. These abandoned men, before setting out upon their contemplated crimes, eat of raw onions abundantly. Then they stroll into the silversmith's or the haberdasher's or the jeweler's that they propose to rob. 'Show me those large solitaires surrounded with pigeon-blood rubies, please,' says the jeweler thief. The clerk brings forth the tray of gems and, bending over it, the thief sighs with admiration. His face close to the clerks, he sighs again. And the clerk's nostrils quiver and he turns away his head. The inspection of diamonds continues for some minutes. Throughout it the thief keeps breathing hard, the clerk keeps turning his head away and hence it is no wonder at the day's end that a couple of costly rings are missing."

First Requisite for Success.

At the annual convention of salesmen of a large corporation prizes were to be awarded to those who submitted the best reply to the query: "What are you going to do to increase your sales for the ensuing year?" After numerous comments and remarks had been made, a telegram was received from the one absent salesman whose attendance had been unavoidably prevented by pressure of business. On being read to the assembly he was unanimously voted first prize. The telegram read: "Shall hustle like the dickens."

An Ambassador's Butler.

The practice of tipping is not entirely bad; the recipients at least derive some benefit. A former butler of Mr. Choate, American ambassador to England before Mr. Reid, has built a large hotel on the coast on the tips he received from visitors to the American embassy, whose servants make more money than those attached to other embassies, chiefly because of the number of wealthy Americans who visit the ambassador and scatter tips with traditional generosity.

Painting for Profit

No one will question the superior appearance of well-painted property. The question that the property-owner asks is: "Is the appearance worth the cost?"

Floor paint is for temporary appearance only.

Paint made from Pure Linseed Oil and Pure White Lead is for lasting appearance and for protection. It saves repairs and replacements costing many times the paint investment.

The Dutch Boy trade mark is found only on kegs containing Pure White Lead by the Old Dutch Process.

IN THE NAME OF CHARITY.

Jack London's Story Carries Sting of Truth and Pathos.

"Jack London's famous definition of charity—'sharing a bone with a dog when you're as hungry as the dog'—recalls a story about charity," said a magazine editor, "that I heard Mr. London tell at a farewell dinner in New York before he sailed away on the Spark."

"Mr. London said two old men were smoking and drinking together after dinner.

"The host rang the bell and an old woman appeared.

"'Confound you, stupid!' said the host. 'Didn't I tell you I wanted the Scotch?' Take this back, and bring what I asked for, you old fool!"

"'Come, come,' said the guest, after the old woman had hurried away in a great fright. 'Come, come, my friend, don't you think you are rather too sharp with your old servant?'"

"'Oh,' said the other, 'she's not a servant. She's only a poor relation I'm keeping out of charity.'"

"The guest looked relieved.

"'That alters the case, of course,' he said."—Washington Times.

The Limit of Life.

The most eminent medical scientists are unanimous in the conclusion that the generally accepted limitation of human life is many years below the attainment possible with the advanced knowledge of which the race is now possessed. The critical period, that determines its duration, seems to be between 50 and 60; the proper care of the body during this decade cannot be too strongly urged; carelessness then being fatal to longevity. Nervous Women Suffer No More

Silently and Alone You Bear with Patience, Burdens That Would Crush Strong Men.

In this country to-day there are thousands of women whose days are filled with constant suffering. There is the dull headache, the dragging backache, the hot flushes, that awful tired feeling, too sick and faint to work, too well too go to bed. Men have little knowledge of the sufferings their women go through day after day. Many times such illness is attributed to biliousness or the after effect of a cold when it is really a derangement of the nervous system caused by weakness or disease of the genital organs. It seems a shame that women should suffer so when there is a safe, harmless remedy that will restore to them the splendid health that makes perfect womanhood.

Zoa Phora dispels nervous disorders of women because it regulates the menses, and relieves them of pain. It is wonderfully effective in the cure of prolapsus because it strengthens the muscles supporting the parts, and renews the nerve force. It removes and prevents inflammation, congestion and unnatural discharge from the genital organs—these diseases that sap the very life, destroy the tissues and finally shatter the nervous system.

It is marvelous in its tonic effects and women who have been tired, listless, with headaches and backaches marring their every pleasure have in a single week been changed from suffering, morose, irritable beings to bright, happy, cheerful women who find pleasure in their household duties because they have a new and natural strength to perform them without fatigue, simply by use of the wonderful Zoa-Phora.

Zoa Phora has helped hundreds and thousands of women to health, strength, and the joy of living. The only way in which you may receive the same benefit, is to do as they did. Go to your druggist and procure a dollar bottle Zoa Phora. Begin using at once according to plain directions found in the package. If any further information or private advice is desired the Zoa Phora Company, Kalamazoo, Mich., will gladly answer all questions if you write them. Just ask the druggist for Zoa-Phora—no other explanation need be given—and you will receive the medicine already prepared, compounded in just the right proportions, and put up in sealed, sterilized, one dollar bottles. Will you act now while the opportunity is before you?

GASOLINE ENGINE POWER

The gasoline engine exhibit promises to be the largest and most interesting ever made at any Fair, as most of the leading manufacturers have already applied for space in which to show.

The power question has become a very important one, not only in the cities and villages but on the farm. Thousands of Michigan farmers have given this important problem a careful study, and decided that they could use a gasoline engine on the farm, and save a very great amount of labor and at a very moderate operating expense. The opportunity for investigating the various makes and determining the special advantage of each, should not be overlooked.

Heart Strength

Heart strength, or Heart Weakness, means Nerve Strength, or Nerve Weakness—nothing more. Possibly, not one weak heart in a hundred is, in itself, actually diseased. It is almost always a hidden tiny little nerve that really is all that fails. This obscure nerve—the Cardiac, or Heart Nerve—simply needs, and must have, more power, more stability, more controlling more governing strength. Without that the Heart must continue to fail, and the stomach and kidneys also have these same controlling nerves.

This clearly explains why, as a medicine, Dr. Shoop's Restorative has in the past done so much for weak and ailing hearts. Dr. Shoop first sought the cause of all this painful, palpitating, suffocating heart distress. Dr. Shoop's Restorative—the popular prescription—is alone directed to these weak and ailing nerve centers. It builds up the strength; it offers real, genuine heart help. If you would have strong hearts, strong digestion, strengthen these nerves—re-establish them as needed, with

LATEST NEWS OF MICHIGAN

THE DOCTOR SAYS FLINT'S MILK SUPPLY IS IMPURE AND DEADLY.

DEARBORN LOSES BY FIRE

Eighth District to Hold an Early Convention—Odds and Ends of News Gathered Here and There.

Kills the Babies.

In tests made from the output of 18 dairies, Dr. J. Walter Orr, of the Flint board of health, states that he found poisonous substances, and that to date he had been unable to find a sample of pure milk in that city. "Within a radius of five blocks I found nine sick babies, and I am positive that their illness in each instance was the result of impure milk," said Dr. Orr. "The milk that is being peddled throughout the city contains millions of bacteria of the typhoid and malaria family. But the worst of it is that although the illness resulting from impure milk oftentimes manifest themselves at once, in other cases the seeds of disease are sown which are slow in developing. The maladies resulting in these cases are typhoid fever, cholera infantum and sometimes tuberculosis. Something should be done at once to bring about a better condition in Flint's milk supply. Of whatever dangers there may be threatening the city at the present time, this is the most serious."

The Jackson board of health is getting after dairymen who are not meeting the requirements of the state law and city ordinance, and will advise the public of unsanitary dairymen as fast as the inspectors find conditions to warrant it.

The Dearborn Fire.

Despite heroic efforts of the bucket brigade, the village of Dearborn suffered a serious loss by fire Saturday morning. The blaze was discovered in the rear of the Dearborn Mercantile Co.'s store, where oil and gasoline were stored, and in a few minutes had spread to adjoining buildings, and destroyed the whole row. Those burned and the losses are: Dearborn Mercantile Co., owned by J. N. and W. R. Crusoe, loss $5,000, insurance $3,000; D. P. Lapham, grocery, loss $3,000, insurance $2,500; W. J. Burd, grocery, loss $2,000; Joe Cronogue, barber shop and adjoining building, loss $1,500, small insurance, and Anthony Wagoner's large hotel barn, loss $2,000. The Michigan Telephone exchange was in the Crusoe building, and was destroyed.

Why So Early?

The eighth district congressional convention has been called to assemble at Owosso October 10. The purpose is to name two delegates and two alternates from the eighth district to the national Republican convention—the presidential convention—not yet called, but which will probably assemble late in June, 1908. The reason for calling the eighth district convention so long in advance of the call for a state convention is not apparent. It will be the first of the congressional district conventions.

Candidate Dropped Dead.

In the midst of a hot political fight as candidate for delegate to the constitutional convention, Attorney W. Plummer, aged 65, of Benton Harbor, suddenly dropped dead Saturday morning. The deceased was probably the foremost member of the Berrien county bar. He was a former mayor and a veteran of the civil war. He leaves a widow and two children, Edith and Harry, the latter a practicing attorney.

A Superior Fish.

The biggest fish caught in Lake Superior in many years has been brought in by the tug Columbia. It is a trout weighing fifty pounds, measuring four feet in length, six inches through the body, and twelve and one-half inches in width. The head was ten and one-half inches long, the tail had a spread of fourteen inches, and the front fin were each seven and one-half inches long. The trout was netted in 120 feet of water off Standish rock, about forty-five miles out from shore.

Lunatic Captured.

John Myquist, who with four others escaped from the Traverse City asylum, was captured at his old home in Muskegon. Myquist got away several days ago and arrived Tuesday, how no one can find out. He confided to a friend that his wife "was plotting against him" and that he intended to kill her and their seven children Tuesday night. The friend informed the police, who surrounded the house and searched for several hours before landing their prisoner.

Sunfield's Fourth Fire.

Sunfield, Eaton county, suffered its fourth disastrous fire within a few years Tuesday night when the large general store of S. L. Roarbeck burned to the ground, entailing a loss on building and contents of $19,000. Roarbeck's loss is $14,000, with $5,000 insured. L. H. Saunders, of Lansing, owned the building, and lost $5,000, with $3,000 insurance.

The Crop Prospects.

The only depressing features of the latest Michigan crop reports are statements of oats, apples and peaches. In the southern peach belt only 18,000 acres of orchards are bearing, the prospect being for an average yield of 27 per cent. In the central and northern counties the prospect is for a yield of 73 per cent. The southern peach belt lost over half its trees by the October freeze. Apple prospects are: Southern counties, 35; central, 56; northern, 82.

Oats are badly damaged by thrips in all sections. Most of the crop will be harvested in August. The average estimated yield is 27 bushels. July weather was favorable to everything but wheat, rye and hay. Corn has practically made up all it lost in the backward spring and the state average is 82. Potatoes promise well, but blight appears in some sections. The state average is 36.

Wheat is badly shrunken in some sections, but the general yield is satisfactory. The average yield in the southern and northern counties is 14 bushels, and central 13. A total of 181,670 bushels was marketed in July. Practically all last year's crop has been marketed.

Sugar beets promise excellently with a state average of 89. The indications are that Michigan will produce her banner bean crop. The conditions are: Southern counties, 90; central, 88, and northern, 86.

Cost Two Lives.

It was because one of the men rocked the boat, it has developed, that Michael Neazer and Owen Filon met their deaths by drowning in Whitefish lake, Luce county, and Robert McMin escaped a similar fate only by a very narrow margin. Slow progress being made on the voyage across the lake to Neazer's farm, it is reported by McMin, threat was made by Filon he would tip over the frail craft unless his companions put more vigor into their work at the oars. The gait was not increased, and true to his word Filon overturned the boat. He was the first to sink; the other men clung to the craft, one of them to perish as he became exhausted.

Port of Grand Rapids.

Expert Engineer Lyman E. Cooley, of Chicago, who has been in Grand Rapids several days making a study of flood conditions, addressed an open meeting of the council Thursday night and said the only way to relieve the spring flood menace to the west side was to build dock line walls and scalp the river bed. Scarping, as he meant, is to blast out rock. He also put forth a scheme to build a canal from this city to Saginaw, which he says would forever remove flood troubles, as that part of the state is lower. This, too, would make an ideal waterway for large lake boats direct from Chicago to the Furniture City.

Still in Jackson.

Charles Ubbanks, sentenced to Jackson prison in March, 1904, to a minimum sentence of one year and a maximum sentence of two years, for burglary in the night time, is still in prison although he has long since completed his maximum term. The prison authorities refuse to release him because it was discovered that Ubbanks has already served two similar sentences and this makes him a third term man and they are holding him for the five-year limit. The circuit and supreme courts have refused to release him and his case is to be carried to the United States supreme court.

Waves Cast Up the Dead.

The high-rolling combers of Lake Michigan, a few miles below Holland, gave up the dead bodies of two brothers, Herbert and Morris Von Valkenburg, aged 16 and 20 years respectively. The young men were in swimming and as no one was a witness to the drowning it is not known just how it occurred. There was a rough sea, and it is thought that one of the brothers might have given out and the other in trying to rescue him, was dragged under. They are the sons of Charles Von Valkenburg.

Want the Money.

The Michigan Corn Improvement association has asked the supreme court for a mandamus to compel the auditor general to raise the $1,000, in accordance with an act of the legislature, for the encouragement of corn culture. The attorney general advises that the act is class legislation as the corn concern is not an incorporated body. The corn people say they will raise the average of corn from 29 bushels an acre to that of 60 if given funds to further their plans.

The timely arrival of two guests from the Lake Harbor hotel saved the life of Miss Clara Christenson, a waitress who had fallen in eight feet of water in the channel leading from Mona lake to Lake Michigan.

Although Arthur Sherman, who was brought to Bay City from Detroit by Detective Craig and placed in jail on a charge of burglarizing the residence of Harry Tierney, pleads not guilty, the officer managed to locate a quantity of the stolen plunder from Detroit pawn shops.

The next big Indian camp meeting will be at Frost Lake, northwest of Standish; the last of this month. Indians will be present from all over Michigan and Canada, including Mrs. Sagatoo, the famous white lady who married two different Indians at Saganaw.

MICHIGAN BRIEFS.

Melvin Summer, aged 38, living near Ionia, hanged himself because of ill health.

Jim Wilson, noted as a "bad" Indian, was drowned while rowing across Lake Hamlin.

John F. Lee, of Menominee, was scalded to death by the bursting of a steam valve in a lumber mill.

Muskegon county officers will abide by Attorney General Bird's ruling, holding the juvenile law invalid.

Re-entering a burning building near Atlantic to secure some personal baggage, John Hill was burned to death.

Joshu Minard, a Lansing driver, formerly of Detroit, was struck by a Lake Shore train and will probably die.

Fire destroyed the general store, house and barn of George Kwalkowski in Beuna Vista township. Loss $10,000.

August 14, 15 and 16 are the dates for Frankfort's homecoming. The Business Men's association is back of the affair.

While plowing at the Michigan insane asylum, Edward Gwalsdalski, an employe, was kicked by a mule and may not recover.

The body of a fully developed infant was found in a Saginaw sewer with the head crushed in. Officials are making an investigation.

Wellington Decker, aged 11, of Cadillac, was caught under a wall that his father knocked down in making repairs, and fatally injured.

Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Kuite, Sr., have just celebrated their golden wedding anniversary. They have lived in Holland nearly of their lives.

Judge Shepard has decided that the Petoskey ordinance taxing auctioneers $500 a year is excessive. A new ordinance will probably be passed.

William Blanchard, of Ann Arbor, was arrested on a technical charge of assault for tattooing the body of Russell Wallace and was fined $14.75.

Jay Hart, aged 25, of Shepard, a brakeman on the Ann Arbor railroad, fell from his train near Forest Hill and was mangled under the wheels.

Mayor John J. Bell, of Port Huron, has designated August 28 as a civic holiday. Business will be suspended and an outing held at Tashmoo park.

The child of Christian Borason, of Menominee, was chased and bitten by a pine snake over six feet long, which invaded the city. The snake was killed.

Patent medicine tablets were eaten by the two young children of William Rinchart, a Ludington farmer. One is dead and the other in a critical condition.

Alonzo A. Smith was killed in an automobile accident at Hartford Wash., where he was engaged in lumber operations. He at one time lived in Saginaw.

Battle Creek business men and farmers who are paying for the new road to Beadle lake will hold an all day celebration next month, when it is finished.

The summer term of the Northern Normal is closed. The attendance reached 400, and showed the best gain of any summer term since the institution was opened.

A canoe, occupied by Harry Marx, Clara Petit and John Callahan, was overturned when one of the tric rocked the boat in Lake Huron, but the boys contrived to reach the shore.

Alfred Burke, aged 9 years, of Port Huron, deserted by his father, who is in unknown parts, and abandoned by his mother, who refuses to support him, will be taken to the Coldwater school.

Directly following the funeral service over the remains of Mrs. William Brayer, in South Haven, Rev. Clark S. Wheeler, who officiated, baptized the little week old and motherless daughter, Leone.

The first woman ever arrested in Kalamazoo on a charge of exceeding the automobile speed limit, Mrs. Van Urk, wife of a leading physician, was haled into court Friday. She is said to have been going some 25 miles an hour within the city limits.

Two men were injured by flying debris and several thousand dollars' worth of damage was caused when a big thirty-five ton calander crashed through the floor of the Eddy Paper Co.'s mill in Three Rivers. The mill will be shut down for some time as a result.

A census of the city is now being completed by the postoffice force. There are upwards of 12,000 people, it appears, from these returns, compared with 10,500 in the spring of 1905, thus giving Marquette the distinction of being the largest incorporated city in upper Michigan.

The Paw-Paw grape juice factory was burglarized Tuesday night. The outside door of the building was broken in, the combination knocked off the safe and an iron rod driven through the lock. There is no clue to the burglars, but it is thought the work was done by home talent.

Friendless and unattended John Cherry, an aged civil war veteran, died in a little hut near Highwood, where he found refuge for a number of years. How long he was ill is not known, but when a passerby entered the hut, he had been dead for two or three days. Cherry was a curious character and known all around the section in which he lived.

CELEBRATE ON 14TH

FRENCH INDEPENDENCE DAY ALSO IN JULY.

Anniversary Not Heralded with Firing of Pistols and Crackers as in America, But Rejoicing is General.

Independence day in France is celebrated in the same month—fervid July—as in the sister republic with whose early struggles she so cordially sympathized, but on the 14th instead of the 4th, says the Cincinnati Enquirer.

But no firing of pistols and banging of crackers arouses weary sleepers before dawn and makes the air heavy with the fumes of powder. Early in the morning, from all parts of the country, trains fairly packed with excursionists.

Every shop is closed. Some of the theaters give free performances. The little tables on the sidewalks outside the cafes are crowded with people sipping wine, beer, coffee or lemonade. The cafe, the club of middle-class Frenchmen, is the center of celebration. There is an atmosphere of general good humor even where the crowd is denser; rude elbowing and jostling are extremely rare and when they do occur the offender is not apt to be of French nationality.

During the afternoon, in the direction of the suburbs, dancing in the streets is frequently seen, not only by the lads and lassies, but rotund middle-aged and even elderly people join the couples, whirling around with genuine enjoyment, if little grace.

Here, too, are the games one would expect to find at a rustic fair. At the corner of two streets near Montmartre, at last year's celebration, rose a tall greased pole, surrounded near the top by a circle. A prize was offered to the lucky climber who touched it and comical were the frantic struggles to reach the goal as one after another made the attempt in vain. At last, when these various unsuccessful trials had doubtless rendered the pole less slippery, a slender lad of 16 came forward and slowly, but surely, worked his way upward till he touched the ring.

Peals of laughter from a neighboring group drew attention to a little party of street gamins. From a beam above their heads, hung, twisting slowly, an iron saucepan, on whose bottom, imbedded in half an inch of soot and grease, glittered small silver coins. These were the prizes of any boy who, with his hands tied behind his back, was agile enough to pull them off with his teeth. The sight of the little urchins, their faces covered with black streaks and smears, as they jumped and bobbed for the money swaying above their heads, was one of the most amusing sight.

No matter how hot July 14 may be, it does not prevent the assembling of the pleasure seekers, and, as the long summer twilight began, the crowds in the streets grew greater. On this one day of the year, after a certain hour, no cabs are allowed on the boulevards, whose wide expanse of pavements is converted at short intervals into improvised ballrooms. As the evening shadows close in rows of small gaslights outline the facades of all the public buildings and, wavering in the light breeze, produce a wonderfully beautiful effect.

Now the crowd drifts in the direction of the Seine, near which there is to be a superb display of fireworks. The bridges, which would afford the most unobstructed view of the whole scene, are, unfortunately, closed to the public, but all along the banks stand crowds of people, waiting with imperturbable good nature for the commencement of the spectacle and then watching with the same unruffled patience the brilliant colors reflected from sky and river till the last tinge fades from the calm water.

Nature Fails.

Ants are really very long-lived, considering their minuteness. A naturalist had two queens under observation for ten years and one of Sir John Lubbock's ant pets lived into her fifteenth year. Ants are very tenacious of life after severe injury. Following the loss of the entire abdomen they sometimes live two weeks, and in one case a headless ant, carefully decapitated by aseptic surgery, lived for 41 days. A carpenter ant, after being submerged eight days in distilled water, came to life upon being dried, so that they are practically proof against drowning. They can live long periods without food; in one case the fast lasted nearly nine months.

Hint to Mother Nature.

"Natuah is a good Mothah," said the Kentucky colonel. "She supplies every deficiency that is lackin' in the human frame. 'S soon as anything is needed she's right theah with it ready in her han'. It won't be long now, I'm thinkin', befor' she'll be supplyin' us with eyes in the backs of our heads, so's we kin see when our beak automobiles is comin'."

A TERRIBLE EXPERIENCE.

How a Veteran Was Saved the Amputation of a Limb.

B. Frank Doremus, veteran, of Roosevelt Ave., Indianapolis, Ind., says: "I had been showing symptoms of kidney trouble from the time I was mustered out of the army, but in all my life I never suffered as in 1897. Headaches, dizziness and sleeplessness, first and then dropsy. I was weak and helpless, having run down from 150 to 125 pounds. I was having terrible pain in the kidneys, and the secretions passed almost involuntarily. My left leg swelled until it was 34 inches around, and the doctor tapped it night and morning until I could no longer stand it, and then he advised amputation. I refused, and began using Doan's Kidney Pills. The swelling subsided gradually, the urine became natural and all my pains and aches disappeared. I have been well now for nine years since using Doan's Kidney Pills."

In Extremis.

The yacht was heavily becalmed. There were but ten bottles of champagne in the lockers. Their last signal of distress had been sent up, without bringing any response.

"Gentlemen," exclaimed the commodore, in a quivering voice, "I can no longer conceal the hideous truth from you. Sobriety stares us in the face!"

It was a wildly various scene which ensued. Some blasphemed, some prayed, some, in an access of frenzied wantonness, sang songs, while some sat stoically by, awaiting their fate with at least an outward calm.—Puck.

Depends on the Dogs.

Asa Goddard, of the American Automobile association, was recounting in Worcester some of his touring adventures.

"One summer morning," he said, "the approach of a great flock of sheep obliged me to pull off the narrow country road. I halted my car, and watched with interest the passage of the sheep, the intelligent dogs and the shepherd."

"I had a short talk with the shepherd about his odd and difficult trade."

"Look here," I said, "what do you do, driving sheep like this on a narrow road, when you meet another flock coming in the opposite direction?"

"Well," said the shepherd, "ye just drive straight on, both of ye, and the one that has the best dogs gets the most sheep."

HEALTH NOTES FOR AUGUST.

August is the month of internal catarrh. The mucous membranes, especially of the bowels, are very liable to congestion, causing summer complaint, and catarrh of the bowels and other internal organs. Pe-ru-na is an excellent remedy for all these conditions.

NO RELIEF FROM ECZEMA

For Over Two Years—Patent Medicines, Quack Cures and Doctors Fail—Cuticura Succeeds.

"I was very badly afflicted with eczema for more than two years. The parts affected were my limbs below the knees. I tried all the physicians in the town and some in the surrounding towns, and I also tried all the patent remedies that I heard of, besides all the cures advised by old women and quacks, and found no relief whatever until I commenced using the Cuticura Soap, Cuticura Ointment, and Cuticura Resolvent. In the Cuticura Remedies I found immediate relief, and was soon sound and well. C. V. Betts, Tippahoe, Ind., Nov. 15, '05."

ALMOST BRINGS DEAD TO LIFE.

Apparatus for Resuscitating Persons Apparently Dead.

An apparatus for producing artificial respiration has recently been devised whereby in cases of suspended animation the action of the heart and lungs can be renewed.

Prof. George Poe, the inventor of the apparatus, does not insist that with its use life can be brought back, but claims, according to the Scientific American, that by artificial means applied through the instrumentality of the respirator persons killed by asphyxiation, poison or drowning can be resuscitated; that the death of persons under the influence of anaesthetics while being operated upon can be prevented; that its use will prevent infant asphyxia at birth; that a drunken person can be sobered in a few minutes; that persons electrocuted or hanged—in the latter case where the neck has not been broken—can be revived, and that the freezing to death of arctic explorers can be obviated. These results are accomplished by stimulating normal respiration through artificial means.

A demonstration was made on a rabbit. Two grains of morphine were injected into the leg, after which four ounces of ether were administered. It was believed by the experimenters that life was positively extinct, as the application of every known test failed to reveal any sign of life. In this condition the tubes of the apparatus were applied to the rabbit's nostrils, and on pumping out the poison with one cylinder pumping oxygen into the lungs with a simultaneous movement of the valves, within three minutes the rabbit, but lately pronounced dead, was breathing naturally, and within six minutes it was running around the room. The ether was entirely out of the system, as there was no indication of nausea.

Bancroft's Answer.

I have just heard a good mot—it is not more than a mot—of Bancroft, the American historian, who is now United States minister at Berlin. Loftus (our ambassador there) thought, I suppose, that the yankee was a fair and would be an easy butt for the shafts of his peculiarly refined wit, so attacks him before a hundred listeners on some public occasion with "In God's name, Mr. Bancroft, why don't you Yankees send your representatives to court like Christians, in a proper uniform, instead of turning them out all dressed in black, like so many undertakers?"

Whereto Bancroft replies: "Really, Lord Augustus, I am surprised that you, as ambassador to the queen of England, and with the keen powers of penetration for which you are generally distinguished, should have failed to perceive that we could not be more appropriately dressed than we are—at European courts, where what we represent is the burial of monarchy."—From Letters of Lord Lytton.

Gobelin Tapestry.

How many people know that since 1791 no tapestry produced by the famous Gobelin looms has been sold? Several wonderful creations have been presented by France as gifts, but these famous works belong to the state, and a private individual may not buy, no matter how much money is in his purse.

Louis XIV. bought this great establishment in 1682, and ever since, with but short intervals of rest, these famous looms have been producing priceless treasures. A tapestry is designed to be a background and is in reality a picture woven in cloth, though not to be judged as a painting, as there is only a suggestion of perspective, the pleasing effect being in the marvelous harmonizing of colors.

Ten years is often consumed in producing a single piece, the cost being in the neighborhood of $50,000. Each tapestry is a complete picture, and there are no "set" patterns.

Old Ibsen Mas.

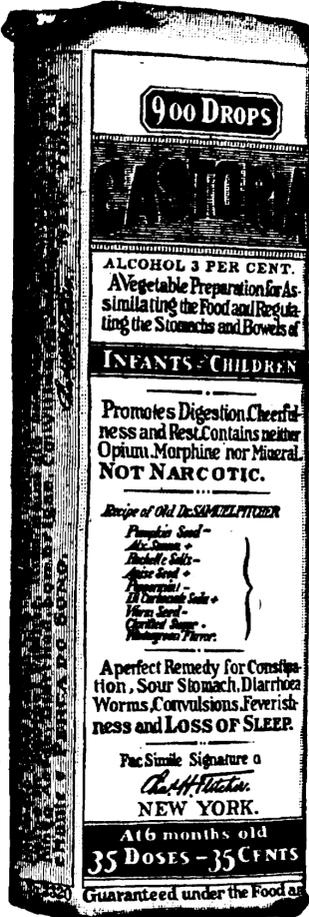

A very remarkable discovery has just come to light in the finding of important Ibsen manuscripts, written previous to 1864. The papers include a complete epic poem of some 20,000 words, in which are to be seen ideas which evidently were the basis for many of his later dramas, especially for "Brand," one of his greatest plays. The manuscripts had been left in Rome at the Scandinavian association when Ibsen left that city in 1864. They were put away and forgotten, and when the society moved away they were then sold with a lot of rubbish. A Dane, Pontopiddean, found them some years ago in an antiquarian's shop and purchased them as curiosities. Afterward he returned to Copenhagen, where he died, bequeathing the manuscripts to the Royal library upon condition that they be published by Prof. Carl Larsen. Ibsen's illness prevented Larsen from consulting with him, and it is only now after the dramatist's death, that permission for his heirs has been secured.

The worse the passage the more precious the port.—French proverb.

Dr. Edwin F. Pardee, of New York City, says: "For several years I have recommended your Castoria and shall always continue to do so, as it has invariably produced beneficial results."

Dr. N. B. Sizer, of Brooklyn, N. Y., says: "I object to what are called patent medicines, where maker alone knows what ingredients are put in them, but I know the formula of your Castoria and advise its use."

Appearances are not always to be relied on; neither are all kinds of advertising. Electrical clock and similar catch-penny devices are apt to entrap the unwary. They are better than no advertising, but the same money spent in the columns of a local newspaper would yield a hundred fold better returns.

This is the local newspaper in this community that reaches the homes of the best people. It is therefore the medium the advertiser should use.

We take pride in our paper. We study the needs of our advertising patrons and are pleased at any time to aid them in any manner possible.

The Ground is Alive.

We are so used to thinking of the soil as mere mineral matter that it comes quite as a shock to find this is a mistake. As a matter of fact, the layer of soft mold which clothes the ground in all cultivable districts and from which vegetation springs is actually in great part a living layer of tiny plants and animals. Interlacing threads of molds and fungi, worms and grubs, creeping insects, tiny root parasites, decaying leaves and the millions of bacteria which spring from them—all these are mixed and mingled together for many inches down below our feet in a confused mass of life. Germs of all sorts swarm in countless millions. Indeed, all the plants that grow and life that exists on the face of the earth owe their being to the fact that the ground is alive. You take a shovelful of the finest soil in the world and sterilize it—that is, beat it till all the life in it is destroyed—and then plant seeds in it. No amount of care or watering will make those seeds grow. Their life depends on the life in the soil around them.—London Answers.

Elephant Life in the Jungles.

Without elephants jungles would be virtually impassable. The great beasts are a mixture of strength and weakness, of craft and simplicity. The paths through the jungle from village to village are merely tracks from which the interlacing foliage has been cut and thrust aside and the virgin soil trodden into a black mud. After a rain this mud is many feet deep, and no living creature except an elephant, a buffalo or a rhinoceros could labor through it. The elephant makes his way by lifting one foot at a time and inserting it deep into the slough in front, withdrawing another with a sound like the popping of a huge cork. Nothing but a ride on an earthquake could be compared with the sensation of being run away with by an elephant. As for stopping him, some one has well said that you might as well try to stop a runaway locomotive by pulling with your walking stick on the funnel as seek to check an elephant at such a moment with a goad.
