LOCAL NEWS.

Miss Eda Blair was in Jackson Thursday last.

H. G. Briggs and wife and J. J. Parker and wife were in Howell Thursday last.

G. L. Teeple and wife, Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Jackson, and Mrs. Mabel Cope were in Ann Arbor Thursday last.

Mrs. Mabel Cope spent a few days the past week with her parents in Middleton. Miss Andrews had charge of the milliner parlors during her absence.

An interesting letter from C. L. Grimes appears on page 4. Many of the old boys and girls will enjoy reading such letters and we should like to hear from more. Put on your thinking cap and see if you have not some interesting matter to give us. Remember there are many who are interested in knowing where and what the old boys and girls are doing.

Commencement Exercises.

As conspicuous as the stars about. We found innumerable boxes and barrels, crates, bottles and wicker baskets, some open—the packing straw strewn about, others tightly nailed, piled everywhere, evidence that the galleon had been amply provisioned for a long voyage, and that her crew had never perished of starvation. It had been the cold, the loneliness, the awful agony of their hopeless condition that had left the Donna Isabel a charnel ship. We handled this collection rapidly, contenting ourselves with merely testing the weight of each package, quickly convinced that none was heavy enough to conceal precious metal. This job must have occupied more than an hour, handicapped as we were by the poor light, and several times I glanced through the open trap overhead to observe the faces of the women framed there as they watched us silently. Once Dade stared down bringing word the sky was thickening in the west, and lingering to observe our operations until I had to order him back upon deck.

A solid, nail-studded, oaken door appeared in the forward bulkhead, and so soon as we had succeeded in handling every article stored within the lazarette, I had a passage cleared. It, the men working with feverish patience. When finally reached, the door was locked and seemingly as solid as the bulkhead itself, nor did search of the after state-rooms reveal any keys. No doubt they were in Salvatore's pocket, many a league astern. But Kelly and McKnight brought down the cleaver and an iron bar, and proceeded to burst it open, the rest of us crowding about, too cold and excited to keep still, but very confident the treasure awaited us within. My own heart beat fiercely with anticipation, and I heard De Nova swear in French, quite unable to control himself. It seemed to me that door would never yield; but at last Johnson managed to get a purchase low down, with Cole heaving at his side, the fairly tore the wood asunder. Through the considerable opening thus made there burst a torrent of icy water into our very faces, extinguishing the light and sending us stumbling backward the ladder, up which we swarmed most in panic. Anything unexpected that ghost-ship made cowards of all, and we fought our way forth the daylight in a suddenness of horror almost ludicrous, swearing and clawing at each other like madmen. It required another hour for deluge of water to drain away through the deck, after which we ventured low again, the relighted candle revealing slush-ice everywhere, with considerable trickle still gurgling through the hole in the door. However, we had an opening to work and soon succeeded in tearing away the obstruction away piecemeal, to be confronted by a solid barrier.

M. E. Church Notes.
The Sunday morning services were devoted to the Children's day exercises and they were as good or even better than ever before. The church was crowded and all felt well paid for coming out. The drills and exercises were under the management of Mrs. McDougall and were exceptionally fine. In fact everything went off like clock work and children, teachers and officers are to be congratulated. The music was led by a large chorus choir. Next Sunday evening the Baccalaureate address to the graduating class will be delivered by Rev. A. G. Gates in the M. E. church. Prayer meeting at the Cong'l church this, Thursday, evening.

O. E. S. Entertainment
The ladies of the O. E. S. will begin to serve refreshments promptly at 7 o'clock standard time on the evening of June 17th. All who have tickets on the piano should be present as it will be given away that evening. Also some of the latest songs will be rendered. Everybody cordially invited.

It seems some misunderstanding has arisen in regard to the tickets and entertainment. Those who purchase tickets have a chance on a piano but all who desire to attend can do so, and purchase such refreshments as they desire; coffee, sandwiches, ice cream and cake, etc.

The F. & A. M. order will hold their regular meeting Tuesday evening June 22—work in M. M. degree.

J. A. Cadwell and wife visited in Lansing Wednesday. Their son Ruel who has been attending the M. A. C. returned home with them.

The decorations at the Cong'l church Sunday morning in honor of children's day were very fine. The exercises by the children and the music were exceptionally good. At the close of the program twenty children received the ordinance of baptism.

TREASURE HUNT SEASON.

The season of the treasure hunt is once more "on," and all along the Atlantic coast, from Labrador to the Gulf of Mexico, with side excursions to the islands of the Caribbean sea, optimistic persons who have resurrected some legend of pirate gold which seems to them convincing, are touring the face of nature in an attempt to find chests of coin and jewels—or casks of rum. At this point the reader will suspect an anti-climax. The statement is not so intended. Buccaneers had to cache their stores of solid and liquid provision, and they did not always find opportunity to dig them up again. A tradition of substance attaches to Oak Island, in Mahone bay, Nova Scotia, as the scene of a "plant" of valued beverages, and an amiable vagabond who professes to have assisted at its uncovering and to have "drank some of the rum," is still a questionable ornament of the Bay of Fundy region. Undoubtedly much treasure of a more desirable quality has been exhumed during the last century or two and quietly carried away, there being more than one reason why discoverers of such loot should hold their tongues about it. Probably, however, the legend that gave the clue will persist for centuries to come, inspiring adventurers yet unborn to spend much valuable time in digging on Jewel Island or Gardiners Island or Campobello or any one of a hundred other places.

The possibilities and the utility of the home garden are getting pretty well understood in Kansas City. Last year's numerous experiments brought profitable results. With the City club and the Athenaeum ready to co-operate, ready to give practical suggestions to those who wish to cultivate garden patches, the home owners of Kansas City should take advantage of this means of bettering the condition of their tables and participating in good, wholesome outdoor exercise at the same time, says Kansas City Star. The cultivation of a little piece of ground can do much toward eliminating the excesses of the grocery bill. The reward is to the enterprising and the industrious. Get the boys and girls interested. It is good for them. It will make them producers.

It is about time to revive those stories about halibut as big as hen's eggs. And now the yarn comes from the sea—a veritable tale told by, and not to, the marines. The captain of the British steamer Aureole, arrived at Galveston, says the vessel passed through a remarkable storm in the Gulf of Mexico, during which damage was done to the rigging and superstructure by the hail, "which ranged in size to larger than hen's eggs." And as the captain can point to the battered appearance of his ship as proof, it would seem that he is quite beyond suspicion as being a weather faker.

The old proverb, "Never look a gift horse in the mouth," is believed to represent on the subject to which it refers the collective wisdom of the ages. "Never put a campaign cigar in the mouth" might be proposed for its running mate if half is true which is alleged against the campaign cigar. However, there are candidates now and then who use real cigars while working their campaign.

The French seem destined to be the world's great "bird men." They lead in aeroplaning, as they led in the development of automobiling. Germany may fill the air with military dirigibles, but France will soon have swarming clouds of barking planes. In America we have the Wrights and Curtiss; in France they have nearly a dozen inventors whose machines are on the market.

Cuba's prompt dispatch of troops and machine guns to its disaffected provinces shows that it is rapidly learning the art of self-government. Taking to the woods is no longer mistaken for patriotism in that island, but is appraised in its proper relation as an attack on the government.

During his race from London to Manchester, Prulhan, the French aviator, covered 117 miles in two hours and fifty minutes. It begins to look as though flying will be a commercial possibility before the present generation is many years older.

TO SOLVE OLD MURDER CASE

CALHOUN SHERIFF OFFERS REWARD FOR LAST LINK IN PROOF.

THINKS LOUIS HARDY AND WIFE OF HOMER VICTIMS OF A DOUBLE MURDER PLOT.

Union of the K. O. T. M. and the L. O. T. M. Voted Down at Kalamazoo.

$500 Reward.

Owing to certain investigations which have been made, prosecuting attorney Cavanaugh and myself are convinced that the exact manner in which Louis N. Hardy and his wife, who were found dead in their home at Home, Feb. 23, 1905, came to their death is known. We therefore offer $500 reward for such investigation as will lead to the arrest and conviction of the party or parties who committed the murder.

FRANK A. GRAHAM,

Sheriff of Calhoun County.

The above advertisement has been sent by Sheriff Graham to all the papers in the county and to all the deputies and police officers in this vicinity in an effort to solve a five-year-old mystery. After half a decade of unfruitful effort Sheriff Graham says that he now has evidence upon which he can almost lay his hand that will convict the slayer of Mr. and Mrs. Hardy. That a foul double murder was committed in the little village of Homer on the night of Feb. 23, 1905, in which the pair were the victims has always been the belief of Sheriff Graham. The sheriff is so positive that a double murder was committed that he offers the reward for evidence which he believes is in the possession of certain parties in this county and which is sufficient to bring the guilty party or parties to justice.

In referring to the inquest held at the time the parties were found dead in bed, Mr. Graham says it was a farce and a rank travesty on justice. He declares that there is no verdict on record, that the jurors nor the witnesses were not sworn, and practically no testimony was taken.

Camps and Hives Will Not Unite.

The question of affiliation of the Great camp and Great hive of the K. O. T. M. M. and L. O. T. M. M., which was strongly urged by some of the delegates to the two conventions by the orders in Kalamazoo, resulted in the death blow when the matter was put to a vote at the session of the Great camp.

Advocates of the plan insisted that by bringing the hives into the camps a stronger organization would be effected, greatly increasing the total of the per capita tax for the single body and decreasing the working expenses now necessary for two separate organizations. The admission of women members to the camps, it was stated, would be of greatest value in those states where no hives now exist.

In opposition to the plan it was shown that the Great camp could not railroad the Great hives and subordinate hives out of existence, and that the Great hive could retaliate by admitting men as members of the L. O. T. M. M.

A brilliant military ball under the auspices of the uniform rank, K. O. T. M. M., was attended by several hundred sir knights and ladies Wednesday evening.

Can't Fish From Launch.

A decision of interest to fishermen throughout the state has been rendered by the supreme court in the case of the People vs. Louis Setunsky of Menominee county. Setunsky was charged by Game and Fish Warden Bedell of using a gasoline boat for fishing without a license. Setunsky was convicted in the circuit court, M. J. Doyle appearing for the state and George Barstow, of Stephenson, for the accused. He appealed on the ground that the law was unconstitutional, because it discriminated against the users of power boats in favor of the users of sail boats. The decision handed down by the supreme court finds Setunsky guilty as charged and sustains the constitutionality of the state law.

Mine Owners Ask Investigation.

The mine owners of upper Michigan are to ask an investigation of the tax valuation of their properties by the state to determine whether their property is bearing its share of the tax burden.

A statement to this effect will be issued within a few days, it is stated by a well known upper peninsula man. There will be added to this proffer, however, a neat little hook in the shape of a proposal that if this is done the state experts shall also investigate the valuation of general properties in the state, in order that it may be determined just how equitably the taxes are distributed over the state.

Can State Analyst Floyd Robinson be appointed legally to the position of state drug analyst and hold the two positions at the same time? This is the question which will be put before Atty-Gen. Kuhn. Providing the attorney-general holds he can, Robinson will be appointed to that position at once. The new office is one which goes in effect July 1.

NEWS OF MICHIGAN.

The people of Owosso will be given a chance on July 6 to say whether or not they want a city hospital. The council voted to submit to the taxpayers the question of floating $15,000 in bonds in parcels of $1,000 each.

The village of Ontonagon is to have a new school house costing approximately $50,000. The proposition was submitted to the electors at a special election and authority to issue bonds was granted by the close vote of 74 to 72.

Frank J. Cook, of Grand Rapids, has been appointed to a position in the bureau of internal revenue, according to an announcement made by Senator Burrows in Washington. The new...

TWO SUGAR TRUST OFFICERS GUILTY

SECRETARY OF SUGAR TRUST CONVICTED ON ONE COUNT BY NEW YORK JURY.

GERBRACHT, FORMER SUPERINTENDENT, ALSO FOUND GUILTY ON SIX COUNTS.

The Jury Disagreed As To Bendor-nagel—Decision Reached After a Struggle.

Charles R. Helke, secretary and treasurer of the American Sugar Refining Co., and Ernest W. Gerbracht, formerly superintendent of the Havemeyers & Elder refinery in Williamsburg, were found guilty in New York of complicity in the sugar weighing frauds on the refinery docks in Williamsburg by a jury in the criminal branch of the United States circuit court. The third defendant, James F. Bendor-nagel, who was formerly cashier of the Havemeyers & Elder refinery, was the subject of a long fought disagreement among the 12 jurors during the nearly 12 hours in which they deliberated. This is the verdict returned by the jury:

"We find the defendant Helke, guilty on the sixth count of the indictment. We find the defendant Gerbracht guilty as charged in the indictment. As to the defendant Bendor-nagel, we cannot agree."

Madriz Men Are Routed.

A message received from Gen. Mena, chief of the revolutionary forces under Estrada, at Bluefields, Nicaragua, says that Gen. Corea has surprised and completely routed the Madriz forces commanded by Gen. Chavarria.

The engagement is said to have taken place between Chile and Cedro Bonito.

Gen. Chavarria, it is further declared, left 300 rifles and a large quantity of ammunition behind in his flight, which was precipitate.

But for the carelessness of one of the revolutionary officers it is believed that Gen. Chavarria and his staff would have been captured.

A courier from the headquarters of Gen. Coton says that Gen. Chavarria was intercepted and that his surrender is expected.

Three hundred Madriz forces were landed from the steamer Venus at Pearl Lagoon.

The United States transport has arrived with 200 marines.

The gunboat Paducah put in here Saturday night.

Yaquis Join Red Rebels.

The Mexican government is taking prompt and vigorous action toward quelling the Maya Indian uprising in Yucatan and Quintana Roo. More than 10,000 troops will be in the field against the Indians within 10 days.

The report that more than 5,000 Mayas are moving in one body towards Merida is believed by military authorities to be an exaggeration. It is not thought that there are that many available fighting men in the Maya tribe, but there is little actually known as to their numbers, owing to the fact that they inhabit remote localities and seldom come in contact with the Mexicans except in their raids.

According to a report received from Merida many Yaqui Indians who were exiled to the Hanquin plantations have escaped and joined the Mayas.

Italian Consul Ends Big Strike.

The strike of the 12,000 miners employed in the collieries of the Pennsylvania Coal company, between Dunmore and Wilkesbarre, Pa., was brought to an end, when the non-union miners took the advice of Chevalier Fortunato Tiscar, the Italian consul in this part of the state, to accept the offer of arbitration by the company.

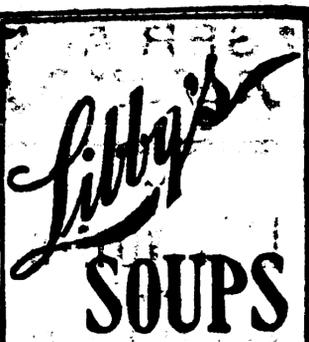

Consul Tiscar addressed four mass meetings in Pittston and at all the meetings the men voted to return to work. When the news of the result of the Pittston meeting reached mass meetings being held in Old Forge and Dunmore, the miners in these towns voted in favor of the resumption of the work.

Lone Bandit Loots Train.

An eastbound train on the El Paso & Southwestern railroad was held up by a lone bandit, who herded the occupants of the tourist sleeper into a private car attached to the rear of the train, compelled them to deposit their money and valuables in a heap and made his escape with the plunder across the desert toward the mountains. Rough estimates place the value of his haul at several thousand dollars. The hold-up occurred one mile east of Robsart, N. M., near Corriozo.

Train Hits Funeral Coach.

Five persons were killed when a train racing along at 50 miles an hour struck a funeral coach on a crossing near Haverstraw, N. Y. The pastor, three mourners and the driver were the victims. The accident happened at the foot of Grave Yard hill, in full sight of the returning funeral procession, of which the wrecked coach was the first and of the terrified and helpless watchman.

Children.

Listen to this opinion from David Starr Jordan:

"There is nothing in all the world so important as children, nothing so interesting. If you ever wish to go in for some philanthropy, if you ever wish to be of any real use in the world, do something for children. If you ever yearn to be truly wise, study children. We can dress the sore, bandage the wounded, imprison the criminal, heal the sick and bury the dead, but there is always a chance that we can save a child. If the great army of philanthropists ever exterminate sin and pestilence, ever work out our race's salvation, it will be because a little child has led them."—Nautilus.

The Rude Visitor.

There is a story about the secretary of a golf club who was a man of diminutive stature. It was summer time, and the grass had been allowed to grow rather long. The secretary was playing in front of a visitor who was a very long driver, and kept dropping his ball in the neighborhood of the secretary all the way round. At last the little man could stand it no longer and walked back and remonstrated with the visitor on his conduct, but the only reply he got was: "If you would cut the grass, one might be able to see you."

The LAST VOYAGE OF DONNA ISABEL

By Randall Parrish

Author of "Bob Hampton of Flacker," etc.

SYNOPSIS.

The story opens with the introduction of John Stephens, adventurer, a Massachusetts man marooned by authorities at Valparaiso, Chile. Being interested in mining operations in Bolivia, he was denounced by Chile as an insurrectionist and as a consequence was hiding. At his hotel his attention was attracted by an Englishman and the young woman. Stephens rescued the young woman from a drunken officer. He was thanked by her. Admiral of the Peruvian navy confronted Stephens, told him that war had been declared between Chile and Peru and offered him the office of captain. He desired that that night the Esmeralda, a Chilean vessel, should be captured. Stephens accepted the commission. Stephens was assigned to the young woman. They boarded the vessel. They successfully captured the vessel supposed to be the Esmeralda through strategy. Capt. Stephens gave directions for the departure of the craft. He entered the cabin and discovered the English woman and her maid. Stephens quickly learned the wrong vessel had been captured. It was Lord Darlington's private yacht, the lord's wife and maid being aboard. He explained the situation to her ladyship. Then First Mate Tuttle laid bare the plot, saying that the Esmeralda had been taken in order to go to the Antarctic circle. Tuttle explained that on a former voyage he had learned that the Donna Isabel was lost in 1753. He had found it frozen in a bay supposed to be on an island and contained much gold. Stephens consented to be the captain of the expedition. He told Lady Darlington. She was greatly alarmed, but expressed her consent. The Sea Queen encountered a vessel in the fog. Stephens attempted to communicate. This caused a fierce struggle and he was overcome. Tuttle finally squaring the situation. Then the Sea Queen headed south again. Under Tuttle's guidance the vessel made progress toward its goal. De Nova, the mate, told Stephens that he believed Tuttle, now acting as skipper, insane because of his quest for gold. Stephens was awakened by crashing of glass. He saw Tuttle in the grip of a spasm of religious mania and overcame him. The sailor upon regaining his senses was taken in order to avoid suicide by shooting. Upon vote of the crew Stephens assumed the leadership and the men decided to continue the treasure hunt. The island being supposed to be only 200 miles distant. Tuttle was buried in the sea. Lady Darlington pronouncing the service. Stephens awaking from sleep saw the ghost, supposed to have formed the basis for Tuttle's religious mania. Upon advice of Lady Darlington, Stephens started to probe the ghost. He came upon Lieut. Sanchez, the drunken officer he had humbled in Chile. He found that at Sanchez's inspiration Engineer McKnight played "ghost" to scare the men into giving up the quest. Stephens announced that the Sea Queen was at the spot where Tuttle's quest was supposed to be. The crew was anxious to go on in further search. De Nova and Stephens conquered them in a flat fight. Lady Darlington thanked him. The Sea Queen started northward. She was wrecked in fog. Stephens, De Nova, Lady Darlington and her maid being among those to set out in a life boat. Ten were rescued. Stephens saw only one chance in a thousand for life. Lady Darlington confessed her love to Stephens and he did likewise. Lady Darlington told her life story; how she had been bartered for a title, her yearning for absent love. She revealed herself as the school chum of Stephens' sister. She expressed a wish to die in the sea rather than face her former friends and go back to the old life. A ship was sighted. The craft proved to be a derelict. They boarded at noon. They were frozen tight with hundreds of years of ice. The vessel was the Donna Isabel, lost in 1753, 126 years previous. The frozen bodies of the former crew were removed.

CHAPTER XXV.—Continued.

When the dishes had finally been removed I gave the men permission to smoke, went back to the after stateroom, and brought forth the log-book, which we made an effort to decipher. It was roughly written and by a number of different hands, and between us our knowledge of early Spanish script was barely sufficient to enable us to read a portion of it. The earlier entries made by the captain, although badly faded, were legible enough, bringing the story of the voyage down to the latter part of July, and recounting a series of severe gales, involving the loss of several members of the crew. Then a new hand took up the pen, "Balaza, first officer," the captain having been killed by a falling spar; for a week or ten days the tale was of fierce struggles in the ice-pack, and a steady drift to the southward. Others followed—"Alcassar, second officer," "Salvatore, government agent," every line the record of new disaster, gales, wrecked rigging and death. They were locked in beyond all hope early in August, vast hummocks overhanging the deck, the forecabin sealed by ice, the cold so deadly the red-hot stove scarcely kept the numbing chill from the cabin, the doors and windows of which they had covered with blankets. Not a day passed but what they carried out their dead upon the deck, leaving them beyond sight of the ice. The names were all written down. There came a time when the survivors were too few and weak even for that service; when they could do nothing but cower within the cabin and cast dice to decide on who should go down into the icy hold and bring up the fuel which alone kept life in them. They drank and played cards; they quarreled, forgetting everything human and reverting to brutes. The child of Senora Alcatraz died; the next day the mother went quietly to sleep, never to wake again. They did not even know when her final breath came. She was the last of the women. The boatswain, Pedro Reo, passed away that same night, sitting on the deck; and there was left only Salvatore, who had gone mad, a seaman named Juan Ruiz, and a passenger, Antonio Saltere. It was the latter who wrote the final entry, September 11, 1753: "I touched Ruiz just now, he was stone cold; there is only Salvatore left, grinning at me across the table; the last candle is going out, too, and I haven't strength to go after more. Jesu, mercy." It ended in the blank page.

"Doris, sweetheart," I whispered, my words barely audible to her alone, "this will drive us all mad unless we can do something to bring back faith and hope. I beg of you to sing to us, sing to us now."

She looked up, white-faced, wet-eyed, her hands trembling violently as they touched mine.

"Oh, I could not, I could not; the words would choke me."

She arose unsteadily to her feet, gripping the table, then the back of the bench, and thus helped, staggered rather than walked forward. A long, breathless moment she stood, grasping the window-casing, staring blindly out into the dark, the snow flecking the glass, her shoulders bent and trembling. She turned slowly, ashen-lipped, one hand shadowing her eyes. Twice she endeavored vainly to find voice; then, clear, yet with the glistening of tears clinging to each word, she sang:

Jesus, Saviour, pilot me
Over life's tempestuous sea;
Unknown waves before me roll,
Hiding rock, and treacherous shoal,
Chart and compass come from Thee;
Jesus, Saviour, pilot me.

While I live I remember the wondrous change in her face as she sang

"Jesus, Saviour, Pilot Me, Over Life's Tempestuous Sea."

—the effect pictured in those faces watching her.

As a mother stills her child,
Thou canst hush the ocean wild;
Boisterous waves obey Thy will,
When Thou sayest to them: "Be still,"
Wondrous Sovereign of the Sea,
Jesus, Saviour, pilot me.

She straightened, her fine eyes darkening, and I noticed Johnson leaning forward, clenching the table with his hard hands.

When at last I near the shore,
And the fearful breakers roar,
"Twixt me and the peaceful rest,
Thou, while leaning on Thy breast,
May I hear Thee say to me,
"Fear not, I will pilot thee."

In the intense silence that followed she crossed to where I sat, placed one hand upon my shoulder, and bent down until her cheek pressed my sleeve. One by one the men fled gravely out into the darkness of the deck, leaving us there alone.

CHAPTER XXVI.

In Which We Find Treasure.

We began to dream of treasure as soon as the fierce winds ceased and the waves fell. The lust for wealth, partially blunted by the requirements of hardship and peril, revived within us the instant nature granted a temporary respite. The memory of the three million pesos that might be stowed away below began to haunt our imaginations, and the story of it found utterance on our lips. The negro blurted it forth, his eyes rolling, and De Nova came direct to me, asking, in behalf of the men, the privilege of making search. There was no excuse for refusal, even had I desired to find one, as the decks were cleared of the debris left by the storm, and the Donna Isabel rode her course easily to a lashed helm. Leaving Dade above to keep a watchful eye on the weather, I willingly led the others into the steward's pantry, where we pried open the door leading down into the lazarette.

That same intense cold of the Antarctic smote us the moment the creaking hinges yielded, and we stood peering down through the aperture. We waited impatiently for the first frigid breath to escape, huddled about the stove in the cabin, and recalling various sea tales of treasure seeking, which only served to whet our appetite for the coming adventure. Now and then I lifted my eyes, meeting Doris' questioning glance, and assured that I understood her mood.

At last, but well wrapped in our mufflers and bearing a candle aloft to cast its flickering yellow light through the pitchy darkness, we ventured below, scrambling down the short ladder. Cole held the glim, his black face shining, the whites of his eyes conspicuous as he stared eagerly about. We found innumerable boxes and barrels, crates, bottles and wicker flasks, some open,—the packing straw strewn about, others tightly nailed, piled everywhere, evidence that the galleon had been amply provisioned for a long voyage, and that her crew had never perished of starvation. It had been the cold, the loneliness, the awful agony of their hopeless condition that had left the Donna Isabel a charnel ship. We handled this collection rapidly, contenting ourselves with merely testing the weight of each package, quickly convinced that none was heavy enough to conceal precious metal. This job must have occupied more than an hour, handicapped as we were by the poor light, and several times I glanced through the open trap overhead to observe the faces of the women framed there as they watched us silently. Once Dade stared down, bringing word the sky was thickening in the west, and lingering to observe our operations until I had to order him back upon deck.

A solid, nail-studded, oaken door appeared in the forward bulkhead, and so soon as we had succeeded in handling every article stored within the lazarette, I had a passage cleared to it, the men working with feverish impatience. When finally reached, the door was locked and seemingly as solid as the bulkhead itself, nor did a search of the after staterooms reveal any keys. No doubt they were in Salvatore's pocket, many a league astern. But Kelly and McKnight brought down the cleaver and an iron bar, and proceeded to burst it open, the rest of us crowding about, too cold and excited to keep still, but very confident the treasure awaited us within. My own heart beat fiercely with anticipation, and I heard De Nova swearing in French, quite unable to control himself. It seemed to me that door would never yield; but at last Johnson managed to get a purchase low down, and with Cole heaving at his side, they fairly tore the wood asunder. Through the considerable opening thus made there burst a torrent of icy water into our very faces, extinguishing the light, and sending us stumbling backward to the ladder, up which we swarmed almost in panic. Anything unexpected in that ghost-ship made cowards of us all, and we fought our way forth into the daylight in a suddenness of terror almost ludicrous, swearing and clawing at each other like madmen.

It required another hour for the deluge of water to drain away through the deck, after which we ventured below again, the relighted candle revealing slush-ice everywhere, with a considerable trickle still gurgling through the hole in the door. However, we had an opening to work at, and soon succeeded in tearing most of the obstruction away piecemeal, only to be confronted by a solid barrier of glittering ice fully five feet thick, leaving a space at the top of the door barely sufficient for a man's body to pass through. De Nova, cursing as if he had gone crazy, hoisted me to the top of it, where I clung precariously, holding the sputtering candle aloft, and peering about over the gleaming surface and through into the black shadows. Good Lord, but it was cold, repellent, frightful! The beams supporting the deck, huge, black timbers, were within easy reach of my hand, and forward the spectral glow of daylight streamed in through the rift in the deck-planks above. But from one bulging side to the other extended this solid mass of ice, the congealed draining of a century of waves that had dashed their salt spray down the opening ripped by the wrecked mainmast. No wonder the old hulk hung sodden with all that load below!

I crawled forward as far as the silvery butt of the mainmast whence I could look up through the splintered deck to the narrow strip of sky overhead. There was a bulkhead forward, but the ice extended solidly to the wood. I could hear the ceaseless swell of the sea pounding against the sides, the groaning of timbers, the flapping of the jib's canvas, and realized more than ever before the sickening, sodden roll of the laden hull. The level surface of the ice told plainly enough its story of formation; when all that water came through, the vessel had been upon an even keel, imbedded firmly, no doubt, in the ice-pack. I crept back as cautiously as I had advanced, the rolling of the wreck rendering the slippery surface dangerous to travel over. The men watched me anxiously as I slid down into the lazarette.

"What did you find, sir?"

"Nothing except ice, solid ice clear to the forward bulkhead. It looks as though we had reached the end of our treasure-hunt, my lady."

There was a sullen growl of profanity, McKnight viciously slapping at the ice-front with his cleaver. Twice he struck, with no other object except the venting of his ungovernable anger, his forehead beaded, the great muscles of his arms standing out like whiplashes. A considerable chunk scaled off, falling thumping to the deck, and causing him to spring backward to escape injury. As if maddened by this, he drove in the blade of the ax again—it clanged against metal! We all heard it; we all witnessed the rebound.

MUSIC APPEALS TO ESKIMOS.

Voices Good and They Sing in Tune, According to Traveler in Regions of the North.

Music is one of the chief pleasures and accomplishments of the Eskimos. At the Labrador missions violins are used by them in the church choir, and brass bands are organized. In "Along the Labrador Coast" Dr. Townsend tells of an evening's entertainment with the Eskimos at Nau.

"For over an hour these natives sing to us," he says, "familiar music with Eskimo words—'Rock of Ages,' 'Holy Night,' interspersed with what I take to be secular songs. Their voices are harmonious and the singing is of a superior order. We return the compliment in the only way we can with a graphophone. It is indeed a terrible come-down to 'The Old Apple Tree' and 'Everybody Works But Father,' but the Eskimos seem to enjoy it, and greet the songs and their explanation by the interpreter with peals of laughter. 'A song in which a man beats his wife seems especially to amuse them. A Moravian brother told me that they had been unable to win the Eskimo from the wife-beating habit. Even the wives resent any interference on this score.

"An Irish jig makes them shake with joy, and I am sure they would dance were there room to stir."

Stork Day.

At Haslach, in the Kinzig valley, in Germany, February 22 is a holiday and has been observed as one for hundreds of years. Once upon a time, the story teller who explains its origin begins, Haslach was overrun with snakes, and no one knew how to drive them out. One day a great flock of storks appeared, and they were the saviors of the place. In recognition of this deliverance from the pest, which occurred on February 2, the day has been kept sacred and is known as "Stork day." An appointed official known as the "Stork Father" parades the streets, followed by as many children as care to join the procession. He wears his "Sunday clothes" and a high hat, decorated with two stuffed storks. Stops are made by this procession at houses along the line and the children receive gifts of sweets and small coins, every householder feeling pleased to show his gratitude to the stork.

Puzzle for Cupid.

A young man named Jamie had been calling quite often where there were two sisters of nearly the same age. It was a sort of joke to the girls as to which was the attraction, as he invariably asked for both and divided his attention impartially. One evening when he called only one of the girls was at home—by arrangement—but, as usual, he asked her to sing, as they were all fond of music. In a spirit of mischief she sang, "Take Me, Jamie, Dear," which left him rather breathless, but smiling. A little later the other sister came in, bright and be- witching, and upon being requested to sing she sat down at the piano willingly and sang, "If Jamie Asks Me to Marry Him What Shall I Say?"—Ladies' Home Journal.

Detachable Coiffures.

"Andre Autard, who is John D. Rockefeller's coiffeur," said an actress, "waves the hair beautifully and whenever I'm in Paris I pay him a visit at his shop in the Rue Castiglione."

"On my last visit, talking about wigs and false curls and such things, Mons. Autard said:

"What would the world do without us coiffeurs?"

"And he declared that the prettiest actress in Paris was giving a tea one afternoon when her hair-dresser was announced.

"My hair-dresser, eh?" she said. "Well, show him into the boudoir and tell him to begin at once. I'll be with him in an hour."

Fashion, Not Health.

In nine cases out of ten, says the Iowa health bulletin, if a physician tells a woman that in order to improve her health she must wear her clothes in a certain way she will follow the advice of her dressmaker instead.

Why She Changed Dolly's Name.

My wee girl said recently: "I'm going to change my doll's name, mam ma. Annie don't suit—she is so shaky and loose. I'm going to call her Lucy, wouldn't you?"—Delineator.

MOTHERS WHO HAVE DAUGHTERS

Find Help in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Hudson, Ohio.—"If mothers realized the good your remedies would do delicate girls I believe there would be fewer weak and ailing women. Irregular and painful periods and such troubles would be relieved at once in many cases. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is fine for ailing girls and run-down women. Their delicate organs need a tonic and the Compound gives new ambition and life from the first dose."—Mrs. GEORGE STRICKLER, Hudson, Ohio, R. No. 5, Box 32.

Hundreds of such letters from mothers expressing their gratitude for what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has accomplished for them have been received by the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Company, Lynn, Mass.

From Nebraska.

Diller, Neb., 6-2-10
Mr. F. L. Andrews,
Pinckney, Mich.

Dear Sir:

Please change our address from Diller to Wayside, Nebr. Another change has come over the spirit of our dreams; one which, six months ago, we would have considered beyond the range of possibilities. Wayside is about 550 miles northwest of Diller, one mile from the South Dakota line. About 2 miles north and 2 miles east of Wayside, in the extreme southwest county of South Dakota we hope to make our future home, for there, in the latter part of February, under the U. S. Homestead laws, I made entry upon one of the finest quarter sections of prairie land to be found in the Missouri valley, and which has never as yet, been touched by the plow. A large part of the county has been taken up by homesteaders during the past year, and now there are shacks or dwellings, mostly built of wood, but many of sod, in all directions. There are, as yet, few roads, as one may drive wherever he wishes over the unfenced and unbroken prairie.

During March and April, Mrs. Grimes spent about 5 weeks on the homestead. This week we are again undergoing the hard and tedious operation of preparing our household effects for moving, and next week Mrs. Grimes and Lloyd will go to the new home, while I shall go to Peru, in the eastern part of the state, to spend a few weeks. Peru is one of the most beautiful and picturesque towns in this part of the country; situated as it is upon the banks of the Missouri river, among the great hills, which are clothed with their original forests of oak, hickories, elms and other native trees, which more forcibly remind me of many of the scenes incidental to my boyhood days in Michigan than anything I have beheld for many a year. From Peru we can scan the hills of both Missouri and Iowa across the river while away to the south we can also see the broad fields of Kansas. At Peru is situated one of the great state educational institutions and which in recognition, both of the value of my work as teacher in the public schools of the state and of the standard of my scholarship, has not only granted me the highest grade of professional life certificate a teacher can receive but has also given me the degree of Bachelor of Education. Beginning with the next school year, I shall be located at Republican City as superintendent of schools. This is a town toward the western part of Nebraska some 400 miles from our Dakota home.

With best wishes for all in the old home town, whom we never can forget and would not if we could, I am as ever

Your friend,
C. L. Grimes.

May 14, the Diller High School contested for Athletic honors at the annual County Athletic Association and carried off the honors with 68 points; Plymouth, the next, capturing but 34 points. Of Dillers 68 points, Lloyd alone won 37, winning the blue ribbon or first prize in 5 events, the red ribbon or second in four events and receives a fine medal from the county as the winner of the highest undivided record. He is also pitcher of the high school baseball team, which has won 5 out of 6 games played this season. Pretty good for a boy who, two years ago was too sickly to attend school.

Arrangements have been and are being made by the managers of the State Fair, for the best exhibit ever held. There will be many free out door exhibitions and two of the Wright aeroplanes will make daily flights. $40,000 has been expended in building a handsome structure in which to exhibit the coming vehicle—the auto and all will have a chance to satisfy their curiosity on this line. New barns have been erected for live stock and many other improvements. Remember the dates are Sept. 19-24—it will soon be here.

The supreme court sustains the section of the local option law which makes it unlawful to give intoxicating liquors away, even in so small quantities as a mere mouthful. The case in question was one from Kalkaska Co., in which the defendant, George McCall, appealed from the decision of the circuit court. McCall was convicted of giving a drink from a flask which he had in his pocket to Daniel Vipod while both men were in the office of a livery stable. A town officer who saw them placed McCall under arrest and he was convicted.—Jackson Citizen-Press.

Closing of Stores.

In many towns all business places close the same as factories at 6 or 6:30 p. m., thus allowing the merchant a chance to get acquainted with his family. Some people however, do not seem to want the "city style" to hit their town. You know there are people who go to town and never purchase anything before the merchant begins to put out his lights and then is mad if some other business place where he may want to buy a spool of thread is closed.

Again there are business men who would not shut up their place of business even on a holiday or Sunday, although it is against the state law. There will probably be only one way to do and that is for the state or county officers to take the matter in hand and enforce the Sunday closing law by making an example of some people who do not seem to know when Sunday comes only as they change their underclothes to get ready for the Monday wash day.

Mrs. Claire Semells with her seven small children boarded a sixteenth street car and contriving to hold on her lap or cling in some way to the whole number, replied to the conductor's "fare, please," "I'm under seven." After looking at her a minute he saw the joke and paid the fare himself, amid the loud laughter of the other passengers.

Detroit Industrial Exposition.

Pres. Taft will start the wheels of the Detroit Industrial Exposition in motion on the evening of June 20th.

This exhibition of home products is to be given under the auspices of the Detroit Board of Commerce and will cover the period from June 20th to July 6th. The committee in charge consists of 275 leading manufacturers, representing a capital of $150,000,000, and the plans have been made on a liberal scale. One of the largest temporary exhibition halls in the country has been erected, and will be used in conjunction with Detroit's most spacious auditorium, the Wayne Pavillion. It is estimated that the total value of the exhibits will exceed $1,000,000 and it is Detroit's claim that its exposition will be one of the largest of its kind ever conducted.

The Castle of Despond.

One of the finest French renaissance buildings in France is the Castle of Despond, famous in the legendary lore of the Toulouse country in which it stands. Over the window of one of the inner courtyards is sculptured in the stone a head above the motto, "Plus d'Espoir." These were the last words of Rose de Martial, whose story has been sung by the poets of Toulouse. She was the daughter of the house of Martial, to whom the castle belonged, and she was courted by the lord of Castelnet, whose manor she could see from her window. But, although she was beautiful and tender hearted, the lord jilted her, and she fell into a melancholy. She sat every day by the window, whence she could see the fickle lord of Castelnet's manor. One morning he passed by in the valley below. She sang to him, but he never looked up. "Plus d'Espoir!" she cried and threw herself out of the window on to the flags below, where she was killed. The manor of Martial was known thenceforward as the Castle of Despond. The fine building was falling to ruins when M. Fenaille bought it, and he had it completely and skillfully restored before making a gift of it to the nation.

The Chinese Way.

In its wars with England and France in 1850-60 China was easily conquered and forced to a humiliating peace. The Peking Gazette, the official organ of the government, however, reported the following concerning that treaty of peace:

"As the western barbarians have admitted their wrongs and humbly solicited for peace, the emperor in his infinite goodness has granted their prayer and, moreover, has made them a present of a large sum of money (in indemnity of war) to enable them to begin an honest life, so that they may not again be driven to murder and robbery."

ALASKA WANTS MORE SETTLERS

Miners, Farmers and Laborers Needed in the Northwest.

COPPER CAMPS OPEN IN JULY

Amazing Alaska has just reappeared in the limelight, showing another new phase. While folks here at home are howling that the riches of the northern territory should be kept for the people, Alaska is crying that the people do not want the riches badly enough to go there after them and that as a result the territory is beginning its summer exceedingly short handed. There are literally not even enough people to do the work in hand, let alone to develop the new opportunities.

The first complaint came from Fairbanks a few weeks ago. Press dispatches said that a large percentage of the miners in the camp had deserted to join the stamped to the new Iditarod and Inok gold diggings and more were going as soon as the ice went out of the rivers. A labor famine was threatened, and it still seems likely that the estimated $9,000,000 of gold from the spring clean-up will be heavily cut next year for lack of men to take it out. Other established camps report the same difficulty in getting labor, and the agencies of the Pacific coast are being appealed to.

Ore Shipments Soon.

From the railroads also there is a big demand for men. The Copper River and Northwestern especially is trying to increase its force, as it is rushing construction so as to reach the mouth of the Chitina river by July 1. This is the gateway to the copper country, and a few weeks thereafter the rails will be in the heart of this undeveloped and little prospected region.

By October the road is expected to reach the Bonanza mine, and a large force will be at work on the property all summer so that ore shipments can begin as soon as the rails reach the mine. In the meantime several of the thirty or forty properties along the line of the railroad are going to begin large development. All this takes skilled men, and apparently they are not to be had. Thus a new problem takes the place of the old. Heretofore development has been impossible because of the tremendous cost of getting supplies into a wilderness without roads of any sort. Experts agree that this is one of the most promising copper regions in the world, and it is unique in that from being almost inaccessible it will suddenly this summer have complete rail connections with tidewater and the steamer routes.

Farmers Badly Needed.

What Alaska asks for, therefore, even more than miners and laborers, are prospectors who will cover her new ground and give reasons for further development.

This year, too, Alaska is crying for farmers. All along the line of the railroad up the Chitina valley there is farming land which the agricultural department has reported favorably on, and in view of the large number of miners to be fed there promises to be a good local market for everything that can be raised. It is a pioneering country, of course, and new settlers will have to face pioneer conditions, but the success of farming and the bonanza rewards to be won in it when there are local markets has been well proved in the great Tanana valley of the interior and other sections.

The Alaska-Yukon Magazine, published at Seattle, the gateway to Alaska, is authority for the statement that within the next five years Alaska's population and the value of Alaska's products will be doubled. The completion of the Copper River and Northwestern railroad this year and the shipping of ore from the Kotsina-Chitina copper belt, together with the development of the Berling river coal fields, will create an industrial activity in this part of Alaska that will require greater population.

WHERE COFFEE COMES FROM.

Wonderful Estates That Occupy a Whole Province and Give Employment to Thousands.

Few of the millions of coffee drinkers in this country have anything but a hazy idea as to the real source of coffee. In a general, vague way the words "Mocha" and "Java" are mixed into the coffee information at hand, principally because these are found upon the battered tin canisters in the nearest grocery store.

Actually not 10 per cent of the coffee consumed in this country ever saw Arabia, where Mocha coffee comes from, or Java. By far the greater number of persons never tasted either. The bulk of coffee comes from the state of Sao Paulo, in Brazil, and the imports from that source alone supply nearly nine-tenths of the 1,900,000,000 pounds that we drink each year. Sao Paulo is little, but one vast coffee garden throughout its 174,588 square miles of territory, and, while there are many other industries, coffee growing is chief and the true source of the wealth of the people.

Nearly all the billion and a half pounds of coffee grown in Brazil is shipped from the seacoast city of Santos, where are great docks at which lie the vessels of the world. Other countries grow coffee, to be sure, but not one in such vast quantities as does Brazil. So greatly has the Brazilian coffee grown in favor that the plant is now being taken abroad and cultivated. Now the department of agriculture is beginning to pay attention to the manner in which substitutes for good Brazilian coffee are being foisted on the American people under the false names of Mocha and Java.

His First Taste of Discipline.

Admiral Jouett, probably one of the jolliest seadogs our navy ever knew, once told an amusing story of his early days as a cadet.

"I was a sociable youngster," he says, "and when I went to my first assignment, the Independence, and saw the stars and stripes floating over it I remembered my mother had taught me that my first duty was to the flag, so I attempted some conversation on this line with the executive officer who had received me when I came on board and who was one of the strictest disciplinarians in the navy of that day.

"'Silence, sir!' he roared at my first question, his face red with anger. 'Silence, sir! Who gave you permission to speak? Let me hear only six words from you, sir, while you are on this ship—'port,' 'starboard,' 'yes, sir,' and 'no, sir.'"

"And this was my first discipline in the navy."

ROOSEVELTS' HUNT FOR AFRICAN GAME

Lions and Other Animals Shot in Large Numbers.

YEAR ON DARK CONTINENT

Naturalists Collected Hundreds of Specimens for the Smithsonian Institution—Kermit Photographer of the Party.

Theodore Roosevelt's hunting trip in Africa, officially known as the Smithsonian African expedition, lasted nearly eleven months and was most successful in every way. The colonel's desire to hunt big game was not all that was back of the trip, for the Smithsonian Institution wanted specimens of the fauna and flora of the Dark Continent and commissioned the expedition to obtain them. For this reason, a part of the expenses were borne by the institution, but Mr. Roosevelt paid all the expenses of himself and his son Kermit, presumably earning much of them by his articles in a magazine for which he received a record-breaking price.

Not wasting much time after leaving the White House, Colonel Roosevelt sailed from New York on the steamship Hamburg, headed for Naples. With him were Kermit and three naturalists, Major Mearns, Edmund Heller and J. Alden Loring, and expedition in a most able manner. Taking train to Kapitil plains, the party became the guests of Sir Alfred Pease on his ranch. An immense caravan of 260 persons was organized and on April 25 Colonel Roosevelt had his first African hunt. On this occasion he bagged two wildebeests and a Thompson's gazelle. April 30 was a notable day in the camp on the Athi, for on that day the first lions fell victims to the marksmanship of the Roosevelts. Theodore shot two and Kermit one, and there was great rejoicing among the natives who made up the caravan. After that the big game came fast and cheetahs, giraffes, rhinoceroses and more lions were added to the list, in all 14 varieties of animals being secured. Meanwhile Kermit was busy with his cameras and the naturalists prepared the specimens.

George McMillan, an American, was the next host of the hunters, and several weeks were spent on his fine Ju Ja ranch and in the surrounding country. There the game was very plentiful and many fine specimens were bagged. Members of the party made several extensive trips of exploration, notably on and around Mount Kenia.

The expedition left East Africa December 19, crossed Uganda and went down the White Nile, getting back to comparative civilization at Gondokoro. There they went aboard a steamer put at their disposal by the sirdar, and journeyed to Khartum, where Mrs. Roosevelt met her husband, and accompanied him in a leisurely trip to Cairo. During his stay in Egypt Colonel Roosevelt was the recipient of many honors and made several speeches. One of them, in which he praised the administration of the British, gave considerable offense to

LAND IN CANADA AN INVESTMENT

WORK IT, AND SECURE 20 PER CENT. ON THE EXPENDITURE.

Farm lands in Canada increased in value this Spring from fifteen to twenty per cent, and as a result of this increase thousands of those who have gone there within the past few years have had that much more value added to their holdings. There is proof here that as a field for investment there is nowhere to be found a more profitable one than in purchasing farm lands in Canada. And, as a field for occupation and working the farms there is nowhere on the continent where more satisfactory return is given. The crops are always sure and the prices are always good. With railroads entering and traversing all the settled parts, there are very few districts in which the farmer will be more than from ten to twelve miles from a railway station. Roads are good, and big loads are easily handled. The price of getting grain to the primary market is low on this account, and then in reaching the world's markets the railways have their rates controlled by the Government, and what may be considered a fair deal is certain. Good prices for all kinds of grain is the rule, and if the investor has made good money by the increased value given to his unworked land, it is not difficult to understand that the profit to the man who works his land is just that much more, and there will be no depreciation. The man who holds a free homestead of one hundred and sixty acres of land, which he got for $10 as an entry fee, has land which at its lowest estimate is worth $10 an acre—yes, $15 an acre—the moment he has completed his three years' residence duties. It will continue to increase in value until its earning power gives a reasonable interest on a certain sum. That is, if he takes off the land fifteen to twenty dollars per acre clear profit each year, his land is worth to him, at a fair rate of interest, $200 an acre. If he only realizes $10 an acre clear profit, it is worth $100 per acre. Now, thousands of farmers are duplicating these figures. The price of land in Canada to-day is much less than its realizing value. The fact that the fifty thousand Americans who went to Canada year before last were followed by one hundred thousand last year offers some evidence, and good evidence, too, that there is getting to be a pretty fair knowledge that money is to be made in Canada lands. As an investment money is to be made, but more by living upon the land, secured either by homestead or purchase. The one hundred thousand of last year will be one hundred and fifty thousand this year. These comprise people from every state in the Union, and it is just being realized the asset that awaits the homeseeker in Canada. The large numbers that have gone, though, makes no appreciable difference in the supply of land. There is still left vast quantities of the best of it. But the longer a delay is made in arriving at a decision, the price will advance proportionately, and the more desirable homesteads near the railway lines become more difficult to secure. The Government publishes interesting literature, which may be had on application to any of the agents whose offices are located at different points through the States, and they (the agents) will be pleased to assist in any way possible in the choice of location.

IN THE AFRICAN JUNGLE

stowed in the hold was most of their elaborate outfit for killing or photographing the animals of East Africa and for preserving the specimens destined for the Smithsonian Institution. Kermit had trained himself to be the chief photographer of the expedition, but he also turned out to be considerable of a hunter.

A great throng of friends and admirers bade the colonel farewell, and he sailed away, but could not entirely separate himself from the world, for practically all the way across the Atlantic wireless communication with the Hamburg was maintained. Moreover, at the Azores, and again at Gibraltar, he found the officials and people insisted on doing him honor, and when he reached Naples on April 5 the entire populace turned out to greet him with flowers and cheers.

Boarding the German steamship Admiral for Mombasa, Mr. Roosevelt found in his cabin a quantity of flowers and a letter from Emperor William wishing him "good hunting." At Messina a stop was made to view the earthquake ruins, and there, at King Victor Emmanuel's request, Mr. Roosevelt and Kermit visited the Italian monarch on board the battleship Rex Umberto. The party arrived at Mombasa April 21 and was received by Acting Governor Jackson, who had been instructed by the British government to do all in his power to further the plans of the expedition. Unusual privileges were granted the hunters, and Mr. Roosevelt and Kermit were licensed to kill lions.

At Mombasa the party was joined by R. J. Cunningham, a veteran African hunter and explorer, and Leslie J. Tarleton, and these two managed the native Nationalists. At the end of March the Roosevelts sailed for Italy. In a preliminary report to the Smithsonian Institution Mr. Roosevelt summarized the material results of the expedition as follows:

"On the trip Mr. Heller has prepared 1,020 specimens of mammals, the majority of large size; Mr. Loring has prepared 3,163, and Doctor Mearns 714—a total of 4,897 mammals. Of birds, Doctor Mearns has prepared nearly 3,100, Mr. Loring 899, and Mr. Heller about fifty—a total of about 4,000 birds.

"Of reptiles and batrachians, Messrs. Mearns, Loring and Heller collected about 2,000.

"Of fishes, about 500 were collected. Doctor Mearns collected marine fishes near Mombasa, and fresh water fishes elsewhere in British East Africa, and he and Cunningham collected fishes in the White Nile.

"This makes, in all, of vertebrates: Mammals ..... 4,897 Birds (about) ..... 4,000 Reptiles and batrachians (about) ..... 2,000 Fishes (about) ..... 500 Total ..... 11,297

"The invertebrates were collected chiefly by Doctor Mearns, with some assistance from Messrs. Cunningham and Kermit Roosevelt.

"A few marine shells were collected near Mombasa, and land and fresh-water shells throughout the regions visited, as well as crabs, beetles, millipedes, and other invertebrates.

"Anthropological materials were gathered by Doctor Mearns, with some assistance from others; a collection was contributed by Major Ross, an American in the government service at Nairobi."

Cook in Comfort

You no longer need wear yourself out with the weakening heat of an intensely hot kitchen. You can cook in comfort. Here is a stove that gives no outside heat. All its heat is concentrated at the burners. An intense blue flame (hotter than either white or red) is thrown upwards but not around. All the heat is utilized in cooking—none in outside heating.

New Perfection WICK BLUE FLAME Oil Cook-stove

entirely removes the discomfort of cooking. Apply a match and immediately the stove is ready. Instantly an intense heat is projected upwards against the pot, pan, kettle or boiler, and yet there is no surrounding heat—no smell—no smoke.

Why? Because The New Perfection Oil Cook-Stove is scientifically and practically perfect. You cannot use too much wick—it is automatically controlled. You get the maximum heat—no smoke. The burner is simple. One wipe with a cloth cleans it—consequently there is no smell.

The New Perfection Oil Cook-Stove is wonderful for year-round use, but especially in summer. Its heat operates upward to pan, pot, or kettle, but not beyond or around. It is useless for heating a room.

It has a Cabinet Top with shelf for keeping plates and food hot. It has long turquoise-blue enamel chimneys. The nickel finish, with the bright blue of the chimneys, makes the stove ornamental and attractive. Made with 1, 2 and 3 burners; the 2 and 3-burner stoves can be had with or without Cabinet. It Was His Turn.
Two weary travelers were compelled to seek lodging in a country hotel that was unpromising in looks at least. Upon conferring with the owner the prospects brightened.

"Certainly, gentlemen," he said. "I have one spare bed that the two of you may have—a large feather one. This way, please."

They followed and were loath to anticipate much ease, but accepted the only thing and retired. One was soon snoring long and loudly, the other could not sleep. At about two in the morning the wakeful one nudged his companion.

"Here, get up!—Time's up," he said. "What's this matter?" asked the other; "we are not on duty."

"No, but it's my turn to sleep on the feather," was the reply.

Why Jones Was Sad.
Jones' rich grandmother died and Jones seemed unnaturally depressed and sad. His friends tried to cheer him.

"She left a last will and testament, I suppose," said Jenkins carelessly.

"Oh, yes," said Jones raising his head at last, "she left a will and testament."

"Ah," chimed in Brown, "you were always a friend of hers! Of course your name was mentioned."

"Yes," answered Jones, bursting into floods of tears, "my name was mentioned, boys. I—I am to have—"

They hung expectant, while more sobs choked back his words.

"I," he declared at last, "am to have the testament!"—Scraps.

A DOCTOR'S EXPERIENCE
Medicine Not Needed in This Case.

It is hard to convince some people that coffee does them an injury! They lay their bad feelings to almost every cause but the true and unsuspected one.

But the doctor knows. His wide experience has proven to him that to some systems, coffee is an insidious poison that undermines the health.

Ask the doctor if coffee is the cause of constipation, stomach and nervous trouble.

"I have been a coffee drinker all my life. I am now 42 years old and when taken sick two years ago with nervous prostration, the doctor said that my nervous system was broken down and that I would have to give up coffee.

"I got so weak and shaky I could not work, and reading your advertisement of Postum, I asked my grocer if he had any of it. He said: 'Yes,' and that he used it in his family, and it was all it claimed to be.

"So I quit coffee and commenced to use Postum steadily and found in about two weeks' time I could sleep soundly at night and get up in the morning feeling fresh. In about two months I began to gain flesh. I weighed only 146 pounds when I commenced on Postum, and now I weigh 167 and feel better than I did at 20 years of age.

"I am working every day and sleep well at night. My two children were great coffee drinkers, but they have not drank any since Postum came into the house, and are far more healthy than they were before."

COAST FRUIT CROPS.

Prospects in New England and Pacific States Redeems Losses in Interior.

Splendid prospects for fruit in New England and the Pacific coast states almost counterbalance the poor showing of the central states, where early frost got in some telling work, according to a report by the department of agriculture.

The condition of the apple crop is reported to be more than 80 points below last year's crop of 83, as compared with a normal condition. The 10-year average for apples is 69.8. In New England and on the Pacific coast the crop promises to be immense, but in such big apple states as Ohio and Missouri there will be only about one-third of a crop.

On the other hand, the peach crop, due to the excellent prospects in such states as Georgia and Delaware, promises to be larger than last year, the condition on June 1 being 82, as compared with 54.1 last year and a 10-year average of 65. The central states will produce a poor crop.

Frost evidently nipped the blossoms, for the conditions of blackberries was estimated at 80, as compared with 90 last year and for the last four years. Raspberries were estimated at 79.2, as compared with 88.4 last year and 82.1, the four-year average.

The watermelon and cantaloupe crops will be slightly off, it appears, as the former was estimated at 77.4, as compared with 81.5 a year ago and the latter 77.8, as compared with 81.8 a year ago.

Sugar cane was reported at 84.7, as compared with 90.6 and sugar beets at 99.5, as compared with 89.

NEWS TOLD IN BRIEF.

That Alma Kellner met her death at the hands of Joseph Wendling, missing janitor of St. John's Catholic church, Louisville, Ky., was the verdict returned by a coroner's jury.

The various departments of the New York city government are to be represented by allegorical figures of classical design on the facade of the new municipal building now in process of erection at the entrance to the new Brooklyn bridge.

The treasury department authorized the sale at public auction of the marine hospital and grounds at the corner of Pearl and Kilgore streets, Cincinnati. The property comprises in addition to the building 70,845 feet of ground. The buildings have not been occupied since October, 1905.

Municipal corporations—that is corporations owned solely by cities and in which no stock is sold—in the opinion of Commissioner Cabell, of the internal revenue bureau, Washington, are not subject to the tax of 1 per cent on the net income of corporations imposed by the new tariff law.

Charging that Russian immigrants were being held virtually in a state of peonage on the sugar plantations of Hawaii, President Gompers, of the American Federation of Labor, has protested to Secretary Nagel, of the department of commerce and labor, and has demanded the prosecution of planters and others who, he says, have been guilty of violations of the alien contract labor law.

There was a large decrease in the aggregate of exports of breadstuffs, meat and dairy products, food animals, cotton and mineral oils last month as compared with May, 1909, according to figures compiled by the bureau of statistics, Washington. Likewise there was a decrease of $48,902,868 in the exports of these products during the 11 months ending May 31 of the current fiscal year, as compared with the corresponding period of the previous year.

NOTHING TO WORRY ABOUT

Complacent Smoker Had No Use for the Bands, So What Was the Difference.

There were four of them on the rear platform of a car, thrown together, so to speak, by a rough track. All were smoking. An odor, not of cigars, detracted somewhat from interest in the general conversation.

The odor became pronounced. One of the quartette cast about for a reason. He saw one of his companions complacently smoking a cigar that had burned down past the flaring red band that girdled it. There remained no question of the source of the odor.

"Excuse me," the discoverer said to the complacent one, "your cigar band is burning."

"That's all right, old man," the complacent one replied, "I'm not saving them."

SAVED OLD LADY'S HAIR

"My mother used to have a very bad humor on her head which the doctors called an eczema, and for it I had two different doctors. Her head was very sore and her hair nearly all fell out in spite of what they both did. One day her niece came in and they were speaking of how her hair was falling out and the doctors did it no good. She says, 'Aunt, why don't you try Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment?'"

Her mother did and they helped her. In six months' time the itching, burning and scaling of her head was over and her hair began growing. Today she feels much in debt to Cuticura Soap and Ointment for the fine head of hair she has for an old lady of seventy-four.

"My own case was an eczema in my feet. As soon as the cold weather came my feet would itch and burn and then they would crack open and bleed. Then I thought I would flee to my mother's friends, Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment. I did for four or five winters, and now my feet are as smooth as any one's. Ellsworth Durham, Hiram, Mo., Sept. 30, 1909."

Mr. Henpeck—No, sir. I don't think my wife has read anything about it yet.

Try This, This Summer.

The very next time you're hot, tired or thirsty, step up to a soda fountain and get a glass of Coca-Cola. It will cool you off, relieve your bodily and mental fatigue and quench your thirst delightfully. At soda fountains or carbonated in bottles—5c everywhere. Delicious, refreshing and wholesome. Send to the Coca-Cola Co., Atlanta, Ga., for their free booklet "The Truth About Coca-Cola." Tells what Coca-Cola is and why it is so delicious, refreshing and thirst-quenching. And send 2c stamp for the Coca-Cola Baseball Record Book for 1910—contains the famous poem "Casey at the Bat," records, schedules for both leagues and other valuable baseball information compiled by authorities.

The Laughing Barber.

Jim Rice, the coach of the Columbia crew, was praising a stalwart freshman.

"He's so young and tender," said the coach, "you'd never think he could row. Why, they laugh at him at the barber's."

"As he was getting his hair cut the other day he said to the barber wistfully: 'Do you think I'll have a strong beard? My father has a very strong one.'"

"'It looks to me,' said the barber, 'as though you took after your mother.'"

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh that Contain Mercury, as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co., Testimonial free. Sold by Druggists. Price, 75c per bottle. Take Hall's Catarrh Cure for constipation.

Don't pose as an earthly angel unless you want to attract suspicion your way.

A HARD BLOW.

The Landlady—Coffee wasn't known to the ancient Greeks.

The Boarder—Then, to judge by this brown liquid in my cup, I should say some of them used to board here.

AT A CRITICAL PERIOD
Of Peculiar Interest to Women.

Mrs. Mary I. Remington, Elginberry St., Gilroy, Cal., says: "I suffered so severely from pain and soreness over the kidneys that it was a task for me to turn over in bed. My kidneys acted very frequently, but the secretions were retarded and the passages scalded. I was weak and run down. After taking other remedies without benefit, I began using Doan's Kidney Pills."

"But did the baby ever get hold of one of his pipes? That's the real test."
—Buffalo Express.

The Work of Time.

"And to think," sighed the man who was trying to find a belt which was long enough to be buckled around him, "that the boys at school used to call me 'Skinny'!"—Chicago Record-Herald.

ADDITIONAL LOCAL.

Mrs. John B. Gilson of Jackson visited her aunt, Mrs. Kearney this week.

Prof. J. E. Monks of Sanduskey has closed his school there and is visiting his parents here.

Miss Ella Clare Fitch of near here has been visiting relatives near Howell the past week.

The WCTU will meet at Mrs. John Cadwells Saturday of this week at 3 o'clock. All welcome.

The advice given in "good roads" to "drag it down, drag it down" would be a good thing to follow in some sections near here.

Dr. Kirkland, wife and son of Jackson, visited at J. J. Toeples Tuesday. They were former residents here, Mrs. K's, maiden name being Mary Mann.

W. H. Caffery of Kansas City, Mo., Mrs. D. M. Monks, Misses Fanny and Mausel Monks and Nella Gardner spent Sunday with Mrs. L. A. Devereaux.

A mad dog at Brighton Tuesday created considerable excitement and bit five dogs and a cat before it was killed. The bitten canines are shut up and being closely watched.

Miss Lucy Culhane closed a successful term of school at Pettysville Friday last. A picnic was held in the grove and everyone had a good time. She returns next year at an advanced salary.

At the national convention of the Modern Muccabees held in Kalamazoo last week the proposition to raise or re-rate the assessments or per capita tax, was voted down. A 15 cent semi-annual tax to be used for field work, carried. The next meeting will be in Bay City in 1914.

A couple of issues of the "Christian News", a small church paper published at Marshall, Ind., arrived at our desk this week. It is published by R. The entertainment given by the pupils of the Chubb's Corners school June 10th was well received by a large crowd. Throughout it showed much work on the part of teacher and pupils. The decorations were fine. The pupils presented Miss Foley with a token of kindness and their appreciation of her.

Postal Shower.

I wish to extend my sincere thanks to the columns of this paper to the many friends and neighbors who so generously contributed in the postal shower given me last Thursday. I received over one hundred and thirty very beautiful cards and many an hour can I spend reading their tender messages and admiring their prolific beauty. May the contributors enjoy as much pleasure in the sending of them as the receiver, is the hearty wish of I. J. Abbott, Lansing, Mich.
