THE PINCKNEY PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Will Open Monday, Sept. 4th, For Classification

The Pinckney Public Schools will open Monday, September 4th, for classification.

Our schools have long been favored with a large foreign attendance, last year surpassing any previous year, and the young people of the surrounding districts will undoubtedly continue to avail themselves of its privileges since it was never in better condition to give value received. Special arrangements have been made so that a high school pupil may get a thorough drill on all subjects required for a third grade certificate.

With every years repetition of the school course there should be improvement in every phrase of teaching, more effective amplification of the texts, new examples quoted, new devices for practical exercises. All of this means work unceasing work, for both the teachers and pupils; but work is made easy by enthusiasm and delightful by success.

Children are admitted at five years of age. They may remain in the beginners class for one year or be transferred to the first grade as their age and progress require. Beginners classes are formed but once a year, and that is in September, hence the ONLY time of entrance for children is in the FALL.

Pupils who wish to enter grades below the High Schools will be permitted to do so on presentation of satisfactory certificates, otherwise they will be subject to such examinations as the Superintendent deems necessary in order to determine their classification.

Non-Resident pupils receive a cordial welcome, and so far as is consistent with the general grading of the school a special effort will be made to afford all such a classification as is best suited to their needs. An eighth grade county diploma admits a pupil to our ninth grade.

Non-Residents that have not passed the county examination before entering our high school.

Superintendent, H. D. McDougall will be pleased to meet parents or pupils, at his residence on Unadilla street, who may wish to interview him before opening of school.

Now for another year of drawing out, unfolding, developing, enlarging and strengthening all the powers, faculties and susceptibilities of human nature.

MANURE RIGHT UP TO THE TREES

Throw the manure where it's needed most. There's only one spreader in the world that will spread manure on the inside of the wheels—a strip 24" feet wide from a 4-foot box—and that's a

FEARLESS MANURE SPREADER

Think what this means to you? You can put manure where no other spreader can reach; you can manure two acres while the other fellow is doing one, and do it with even less effort and help.

Isn't this saving of time worth anything to you?

Then don't think of buying a manure spreader until you have learned all about the Fearless Circular Beater, Automatic Circular Rake, Endless Apron and Light Draft, and how they save you no end of trouble and time and money.

Now, don't lay this paper aside until you send for our Free Catalog.

You want the best spreader—the one that will do the work better and quicker for you and save its cost quickly. The catalog will show you why you need a Fearless and no other. Send now.

Notice

Statements have come to me within the last week, that the American Book Co's agents have been selling books throughout this county using the statement, "That I had recommended a change of Text Books," if any of my directors have bought books on the strength of that statement, I wish you to confer with me before accepting the books, as I made no such statement and in fact, asked their agent, who came to me for such a statement to stay out of my county until I had time to look over the books recommended by Mr. Grocinger; but they came in to the county and had it nearly canvassed before I knew they were at work.

Transporting Produce to Market

ON THE WAY TO MARKET IN DIXIE

HE marketing of his produce is obviously one of the chief responsibilities of the American farmer and in the present age, scarcely less than in the days of our grandfathers, is the problem of transporting the produce to market liable to prove something of a problem. To the outsider it might appear simple enough if he does not take into consideration the numerous factors that have bearing in the matter. For one thing, there is the weather, which must always be taken into account in planning a trip to market with produce, even though the journey is to be made over good roads. Then again, the product to be transported may be fragile, such as eggs, or perishable, as, for instance, some forms of berries and fresh fruits. And finally there is the necessity of taking into account probable market conditions at the prospective destination, for presumably produce will sell more readily on "market days" than on "off days."

Despite the complications that seem inevitable there are a surprising number of American farmers who still persist in the practice of marketing their products direct to the consumer. Indeed, in some localities the number seems to be actually increasing rather than diminishing. This is all the more remarkable when we pause to reflect upon the facilities that are now being offered the farmer for marketing his produce at his own door. Agents of commission merchants and "runners" for dealers in the large cities traverse rural routes, regularly buying for spot cash eggs, vegetables, etc., and to such a point have things progressed that the farmer who prefers may sell his berry crop on the vines and his peaches or pears or apples on the trees leaving to the "other fellow" not only all the worries of transportation, but the bother of picking and packing and, incidentally, the loss from waste.

At the same time there is no certainty that the farmer who elects to market his own products has not the best of the bargain. He is very likely to have if his farm is located near any good-sized town or city and if he is engaged in diversified farming or trucking. Of course the man who is farming on a big scale and devoting himself to a specialty, be it fruit or celery or nuts or grain will not haul his produce to town by the wagonload and dispose of it at first hand to the "hungry" housewife. All the same it is ten chances to one that he is following the same basic principles that are the wise ones for the farmer desirous of selling to the best advantage the varied products of a small farm.

All the shrewdest men engaged in farming—be they operating on a large or small scale—have learned in recent years that it means added wealth and reduced worries if they can adopt the principle of selling as directly as possible to the ultimate consumer. Obviously, of course, they cut out the middleman's profit and better yet, they are enabled to eliminate many of the losses in perishable products which have caused so much controversy between commission merchants and farmers. Finally, by marketing direct, the tiller of the soil can establish a reputation for the quality of his products and this is a most important asset for the man who expects to continue in the same vocation year after year. Indeed, building on the foundation of quality and prompt delivery he may build up a circle of patrons of his own that will render him independent of everything because they will stand ready year after year to take the entire product of his farm and take it, too, at prices higher than rule for the regular run of similar produce in the open market.

As the advantages of such plans of direct dealing have been brought home to the farmers they have been gradually perfecting their facilities for making the short cut from the farm to the city dinner table. The farmer who is a specialist in fruit or vegetable raising or any other line is likely to have his own sales agent who goes to the city with each consignment of produce and personally superintends its disposition, or if he is not operating on a big enough scale to do this single handed he is likely to join forces with several of his neighbors to engage a representative who will handle their pooled products to the best possible advantage. In any event the quantity of produce to be handled insures to the shipper thus situated the best of freight or express service if, indeed he has not adopted the particularly up-to-date method of transporting his farm products by means of motor trucks.

The small farmer or truck gardener operating on a small scale cannot of course afford the luxury of a sales agent, but on the other hand he is, in a larger content, if he be wide awake, to divide with the commission merchant who is engaged in plugging to old ideas. So the small farmer belongs to a rapidly growing class, makes his own way to journey to the city two or three times a week and to dispose of his produce in the hands of our large cities. His class, conversely, is made to serve as his chief outlet and his only source of income.

for the selling end of the business in this fashion, this task is delegated to his wife, his son or his daughter. Particularly in the case of the young people do these periodical visits get to fill a large place in their lives. There are hardships to be sure, not the least of them suggested by the fact that usually the trip to market must begin ere daylight in order to reach the city in time to catch the trade of the earliest marketeers, but the farmer folk who have acquired the habit of huckstering in this way are invariably loath to give it up. Many a romance, too, has had its inception during the progress of the caravans of produce-laden wagons to market or in the exchange of courtesies between the farmer folk whose wagons are ranged so closely aside by side in the congested urban market districts.

In the sparsely settled and more isolated sections of the country there are many odd spectacles incident to the transportation of produce to market. In some localities where boats are yet in use the quaint, slow-moving boats are employed to carry the eatables, and in the south one may see donkeys, bullocks and all manner of unconventional steeds pressed into service to move the foodstuffs. Just here it may be noted that the old-fashioned colored folk of the south take as naturally to the conduct of portable market stands as a fish does to water. In a kindly climate such as is theirs most of the staple vege-

PASTIMES OF THE PAST

It has not been so very long ago—middle aged mothers and fathers of today will recall the happy happy time—when the game of grace hoops was in fashion. Indeed, was quite the rage, though of that placid epoch it must be said enthusiasm for out-of-door amusements as far as the dear girls were concerned, were as mild as pigeons' milk and never bubbled over the brim of pleasure's modest cup. If there was anything the young lady of that halcyon time dreamed it was the charge of being a Tommy. No, no, she must never lose sight of deportment, and her pretty lips were framed on prisms and prunes to the proper tucker for conversational purposes—that is, for the little conversation that went with the game. So grace hoops were entirely en regie with the best ideas for deportment.

The charm of grace hoops was slowly but surely passing away when Maurice Thompson, who invented "Aloe of Old Vincennes," and his brother, Will Thompson, who wrote the thrilling poem, "Pickett's charge at Gettysburg," brought forward the long disguised bow and arrow, laid aside for villainous gunpowder, the Indianapolis News says. Maurice wrote a clever little book called "The Witberary of Archery," and in a surprisingly short time young men and maidens joined in archery clubs, were plugging away with blunt arrows at targets as big around as cream cheese boxes of that day. Though these marksman and women frequently went wild of the target, not so Cupid, who was there, with his bow and a full complement of arrows. He shot center nearly every time,

SOME EDIBLE WEEDS

VALUE OF ROOTS THAT HAVE BEEN THOUGHT USELESS.

Golden Thistle May Be Used Like Salsify—Leek as a Food Staple—Milk Weed Has Taste Resembling Asparagus.

The roots of the golden thistle have been found to be good. They are used like salsify. They may be dug in September and kept through the winter. Thus what has heretofore been regarded as a pest by the farmers may now be looked upon as a partial blessing.

Leek is another weed now honored as a food staple. It has wholesome properties and is excellent for flavoring. It can be wintered in a cellar, or if planted in a large pot the leaves may be cut as often as they get too long to support themselves. Then, too, the bulb may be whittled away from the top until it be used up.

The common milkweed is another well known weed now being eaten. It roots deeply, drawing valuable mineral elements to the surface. It has a mild, mellow flavor and those who like lettuce find it palatable. The young leaves are tender and crisp and are prepared like lettuce. It is a valuable tonic which the ancients made use of constantly as a raw food.

The common milkweed, cooked, tastes like asparagus. It should be cut when about a foot high. The stalk is large and succulent. Boiled and served with butter is the usual way of cooking, says the Scrap Book. It is also used as a salad, the tender tips only being utilized. Milkweed is excellent for the kidneys.

Another weed which, when boiled like spinach, makes a nourishing dish, is the commonly called "lamb's quarter." It grows where large quantities of loose earth have been exposed to the sun, as in railway filling or newly made country road. It has a straight stem, from which the leaves grow large and sparse at the bottom and smaller and more thickly toward the top.

The ordinary wild nettle that grows in prickly abundance in every farmyard and fence corner is now being recognized in this country for the first time as a valuable food plant. It is a good substitute for spinach if properly cooked. Of course, it should not be used without cooking.

To use flower bulbs as vegetables seems a strange thing, yet the dahlias is being cultivated for its tubers. They make a wholesome food, having a warm, spicy flavor that is much liked. The single red variety of Dahlia is the one cultivated for its tubers. In good soil it is as productive as the sweet potato. It may be planted from seed in early May, and by the middle or last of July the tubers are large enough to dig.

Cut it into cubes, after peeling, and fry in olive oil with a dash of curry powder. Or it may be cooked like turnips, beets and carrots.

USE FOR THE CHEAPER CUTS

If Properly Cooked They Are Not to Be Despised, but Must Have Careful Preparation.

Butchers should endeavor to correct the impression of customers that only the high priced meats are valuable as food. On the contrary, says the National Provisioner, the cheaper cuts are often more highly flavored and fully as nutritious.

The chuck is one of the cheapest portions of the beef, but when cooked slowly in a small amount of water either with or without vegetables for seasoning is a most excellent dish.

In stewing meat if too high a temperature is used it will toughen the fibre. Another mistake is to overcook the meat until it falls to shreds. The skirt steak sells for two or three cents a pound less than the others, but if properly cooked is just as good.

Score the steak on a meat board and lay it well with a chopping knife.

Then dredge with flour and put it into a smoking hot frying pan that has been greased enough to keep the meat from sticking to it. When well seared over on both sides pour over it a little boiling water and allow it to simmer slowly for two hours. Season to suit the taste. A bit of carrot or onion or bay leaf and a little vinegar to soften the fibre will add to the flavor of the meat.

All light meats are best stewed and browned just before serving. Mutton or beef is best browned first and then stewed. Cheaper cuts are best cooked in the pressure cooker. When roasting meat it should be quickly seared over to retain the juices and then cooked slowly until done. Usually fifteen minutes to the pound is required.

Egg Rolls.
Beat two eggs into one cup of milk, add one tablespoon of melted butter, one cup of flour, one teaspoon of baking powder; mix well, then add enough flour to make the dough stiff enough to roll. Cut into small rounds and bake in a hot oven.

Indian Cake.
One egg, one cup of milk or water, one cup of meal, one-half cup of flour, one-half cup of brown sugar, two teaspoons of baking powder and a little salt.

Whips.
One quart of cream, one pint of milk, two lemons—the peel of one grated, vanilla to taste, sugar; whip until stiff and all glassed.

HIS COLOR CHANGED.

Myrtle—Not now.
Evelyn—Indeed!
Myrtle—No, he's blue; I rejected him last evening.

LAWYER CURED OF ECZEMA

"While attending school at Lebanon, Ohio, in 1882, I became afflicted with boils, which lasted for about two years, when the affliction assumed the form of an eczema on my face, the lower part of my face being inflamed most of the time. There would be water-blisters rise up and open, and wherever the water would touch it would burn, and cause another one to rise. After the blister would open, the place would scab over, and would burn and itch so as to be almost unbearable at times. In this way the sores would spread from one place to another, back and forth over the whole of my upper lip and chin, and at times the whole lower part of my face would be a solid sore. This condition continued for four or five years, without getting any better, and in fact got worse all the time, so much so that my wife became alarmed lest it prove fatal.

"During all this time of boils and eczema, I doctored with the best physicians of this part of the country, but to no avail. Finally I decided to try Cuticura Remedies, which I did, taking the Cuticura Resolvent, applying the Cuticura Ointment to the sores, and using the Cuticura Soap for washing. In a very short time I began to notice improvement, and continued to use the Cuticura Remedies until I was well again, and have not had a recurrence of the trouble since, which is over twenty years. I have recommended Cuticura Remedies to others ever since, and have great faith in them as remedies for skin diseases." (Signed) A. C. Brandon, Attorney-at-Law, Greenville, O., Jan. 17, 1911.

Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold everywhere, a sample of each, with 32-page book, will be mailed free on application to "Cuticura," Dept. 3 K, Boston.

The deposed president of Haiti is not a Simple Simon. He has run away with $120,000 in gold.

Rev. A. G. Gates and wife are spending their vacation with friends and relatives in Detroit and Algonac.

"A medical magazine wants to know why women outlive men." In order to have the last word, perhaps.

Miss Hattie Mills of Meridian, Mich., was a guest last week at the home of her mother Mrs. W. O. Foote and her aunt Mrs. I. S. P. Johnson.

Ed. Farnam and wife and Clarence Stackable and wife were Dexter, Chelsea and Jackson visitors Sunday, Tuesday, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Farnam, Mrs. Geo. Pearson and Mrs. Will Lyman of Butte, Montana, were Detroit visitors. Both trips were made with F. G. Jackson's auto.

Last Thursday the hotel was vacated by Mrs. H. B. Lynch who moved her household goods to Jackson where she expects to make her home in the future. The hotel has been leased by Charles F. Morse of Jackson who will take possession next week. Mr. Morse comes highly recommended as a hotel man and there is no reason why he cannot succeed here as Pinckney has always been a good hotel town and we are positive that the new proprietor will enjoy the fine business this hotel has always been proud to claim.

Henry and Leo Connors returned to their home in Battle Creek last Saturday after spending several days with friends here.

Ruel Cadwell who has been attending Summer School at Camp Davis, Northern Michigan has returned home for a short vacation. He will again enter the U. of M. this fall.

Every mother should teach her daughter just as she would desire some other mother's daughter taught, that is to become the wife of your son. Give her if you can a knowledge of music, and other accomplishments within your reach, but give them a practical knowledge of housekeeping. Let her own hand knead the bread, make the butter, wash, iron, mend, make beds, sweep, dress the children, prepare breakfast, dinner and supper; And then you need not be afraid to give her to the best in the land. She is fitted for life; she will succeed; and if the future should find you alone in the world her husband would gladly welcome you to a home you taught your daughter to make for him. "The dearest spot on earth."

Attack Like Tigers

In fighting to keep the blood pure the white corpuscles attack disease germs like tigers. But often germs multiply so fast the little fighters are overcome. Then see pimples, boils, eczema, salt rheum and sores multiply and strength and appetite fail. This condition demands Electric Bitters to regulate stomach, liver and kidneys and to expel poisons from the blood. "They are the best blood-purifier," writes C. T. Budape, of Tracy, Cal., "I have ever found." They make right red blood, strengthen nerves and build up your health. Try them. 50c at Brown's drug store.

Thirty Years Together

Thirty years of association—think of it. How the merit of a good thing stands out in that time—or the worthlessness of a bad one. So there's no guesswork in the evidence of Thos. Arise Concord, Mich., who writes: "I have used Dr. King's New Discovery for 30 years, and it's the best cough and cold cure I ever used." Once it finds entrance in a home you can't pry it out. Many families have used it forty years. It's the most infallible throat and lung medicine on earth. Unequaled for laryngitis, asthma, hay fever, croup, quinsy or sore lungs. Price 50c, and $1.00 Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by W. E. Brown the druggist.

Mrs. W. D. Thompson of Durand was a guest last week at the home of Mrs. I. S. P. Johnson.

The six candidates for teachers third grade certificates of the high school graduates of 1911, have had their efforts crowned with success—Thomas Moran, Mary Fitzsimmons, Lucy Cook, Edna Webb, Eva Docking and Veronica Brogan. Pinckney has reason to be proud of her schools and the record that her graduates are making in colleges and the university, and the success of those who have gone out as teachers.

Barnum Circus at Jackson

The people of Pinckney and vicinity are to be given an opportunity of seeing the Barnum and Bailey Greatest Show on Earth which will give two performances in Jackson on Friday, September 1st.

Many wonderful features, new to the American circus-goers are promised. A company of 400 of the world's most prominent circus talent, principally European, will present an array of novelties, there will be an elaborate forenoon parade and a new menagerie. In the menagerie among many other wonders is to be found Baby Bambano, the only giraffe ever born in America. It is just one year old.

Among the more sensational numbers on the long bill are John Duncander's company of bell-ringing horses, from England; the Fonelli company of Italian acrobats, the Siegrist-Silbon family of German aerialists, Jupiter the balloon horse Charles the First, a chimpanzee bicycle rider and roller skater, the great Georgetta family of French jugglers, the Lea Deko and Lea Silvas family of French equilibristes, Noonan's brass band of elephants, Capt. Winston's troupe of riding and juggling seals and sealions, Berzacs company of mule and pony actors, Nederweld's dog and monkey circus, Victoria Codona the worlds greatest wire dancer and the fifty funniest clowns in the world.

The Barnum and Bailey circus is now at the zenith of success. It travels on a train more than a mile in length. It employs 1,286 people and has 700 horses. In the menagerie are forty elephants and over 1,000 other strange animals. The show carries its own dynamo illuminating the twenty tents and the show grounds with 4,000 incandescent lamps, arc lights, search lights and beacons. The railroads will make special arrangements to convey visitors from outlying towns to Jackson on show day.

Accused of Stealing

E. E. Chamberlain, of Clinton, Me. boldly accuses Bucklens Arnica Salve of stealing—the sting from burns or scalds—the pain from boils or piles "It robs cuts, cores, bruises, sprains and injuries of their terror," he says. "as a healing remedy its equal don't exist." Only 25c at Brown's drug store.

Five Days of Grand Circuit Horse Racing

The speed kings of the earth and the dare-devils of the air in racing and flights for supremacy.

Clear, interesting midway with the best tent features obtainable. The stream of the J. Frank Hatch shows, including water carnival imported from Europe. This show has been one of the season's big successes at the New York Hippodrome.

Immense exhibits of live stock, fruits and farm produce. Big automobile show, containing many of the 1911 models of passenger cars and trucks. This will be an especially interesting feature this year.

Electrical show and industrial exhibit on second floor of Motor hall.

Grand night horse show and realistic, spectacular $10,000 fireworks production— "Pioneer Days and Chief Pontiac's Attack on Fort Detroit."

This magnificent spectacle is being especially built for the Michigan State Fair by the A. L. Dye Fireworks Company and will be a tremendously popular attraction. Two hundred people in gorgeous costumes will participate in the sham battle between Indians and soldiers.
