Fowlerville Fair a Success

The annual county fair held at Fowlerville October 10-13 was as usual well attended and everything was pulled off as advertised. As our boys were scheduled to play ball there, Pinckney and vicinity was well represented.

The ball tournament opened with Pinckney and Stockbridge up for the first game, the winner to play the winner of the Howell-Fowlerville game for the first prize.

Pinckney has been quite anxious to meet Stockbridge either at home or on neutral grounds and have endeavored to get a game with Stockbridge several times this season at Pinckney but without success, and as Pinckney won a decisive victory, defeating Stockbridge to the tune of 4 to 0, letting their opponents down with only 2 safe hits, the boys came home somewhat reconciled to the loss of the final game with Fowlerville which resulted in a score of 3 to 2 in the latter's favor.

Myron Dunning fairly won the honors of both games, both in the field and at bat, making several sensational catches, and throws that would have shown up in faster company.

The management of the Detroit American League team sent Joe Sugden, the famous coach and scout to Fowlerville to inspect pitcher Renwick, but he was not favorably impressed. However he asked Myron Dunning to pitch a few balls for his benefit and after the game made Dunning and Harold Swarthout flattering offers to engage in professional base ball. The boys are undecided whether they will avail themselves of this opportunity or not at present.

Free Trial

If one of our local dealers would make the extravagant statement that the average mail order house does, he would immediately be set down as an outrageous exaggerator. People would not trade with him, because they would know they could never rely upon the accuracy of his statements. A mail order house will advertise a stove on "30 days free trial," but when you ask to try the stove they ask you to send them the money first. Is that a free trial? Let some of our readers who have ordered goods on a "free trial" basis and tried to return them tell you how "free" it is. It would take a Philadelphia lawyer to make the average mail order concern return the money on such a deal. Suppose they could sell articles of equal quality at one half the dealers price. They wouldn't do it for the very good reason that they wouldn't need to. A one fourth reduction would be sufficient to get the business (if their goods were of good quality) and they could pocket the other fourth. Talk about legitimate profits! The average mail order article brings the seller an enormous profit. These concerns have grown rich, just because there are and probably always will be, a certain class of people who try to get something for nothing.

CELEBRATING HALLOWEEN

THIRTY-ONE children to be entertained—a guest for each of October's golden days—and Halloween to be celebrated! There are easier things to do. Such "stunts" as mirror-gazing at the silvery hour of midnight, as following a thread through a dark cellar, or pulling kalestocks; none of them could be called child's play. Something had to be planned that was different, something entertaining and "Hallowe'ny."

The invitations, which were sent out a week in advance, read as follows: "Won't you come to my Hallowe'en party, from six to nine, October 31? Please wear play clothes."

"SYLVIA HALL"
In the corner of each card was a tiny water-color sketch—a witch riding a broom, a blinking owl, or a broad winged bat.

Every response was an acceptance, and straightway preparations for the party began. From a farm house we drove home one day with a load of cornstalks, pumpkins, and carrots. Everybody in the house who could use a jack-knife was pressed into service. Big pumpkins and little were transformed into lanterns, with faces upon which black or white paint had sketched queer eyebrows or fierce mustaches. They were distributed about the house; tucked among russet oak leaves and green pine boughs on each mantel, set lantern fashion on a newel post in the hall, or hung here and there from overhead grilles. Cornstalks were stacked beside a fireplace at a safe distance from the fire, and the house was lit dimly by pumpkin-heads or candles set in hollowed carrots.

The dining table was set with a group of carrot candlesticks and bowls of apples, nuts, grapes and candy. Upon a fat pumpkin was perched a Hallowe'en witch, holding a handful of raffle, which came from the mouth of a grab-bag. In her black gown, peaked hat, and flying red cloak, with a veritable broomstick in her hand, she was the star of indoors. On the lawn, ready to offer a welcome to every guest who arrived, was a greater star, a life-size witch, with a pair of twinkling red eyes which could be seen two blocks distant. Her framework was a rough wooden cross with one end hewn to a sharp stake which was driven into the ground. Pillows were tied about her lath-like form for shapeliness, while her garb was a nightgown. The pumpkin head was of noble proportions, the hair was a bunch of black raffle, and over it perched a lordly hat with a peak nearly a yard high, wide brim, and a crisp scarf of orange colored paper tied in a magnificent bow at one side. The head was nailed securely to the framework, and inside the candles flared ing blindman's buff began to shriek with laughter which grew to genuine hilarity when the sixteenth girl chased the sixteenth boy into a corner. There was a hungry rush for the dining-room and parlor, where eight small tables were set, four children being seated at each. The supper was a simple one, consisting of tongue and chicken sandwiches, with stuffed potatoes, baked apples with whipped cream, gingerbread men, chocolate nuts and grapes.

When the evening's fun began, a jolly young aunt was appointed referee and recorder in the various games. The first part of the program was held in the kitchen while tables were being cleared and dishes carried to the butler's pantry. There was, of course, a tub filled with lukewarm water (it was too chilly a night for a cold plunge), and in it floated a score of rosy apples. Bobbing for them was no end of fun, and the first youngster—clever enough to bring one up in his or her teeth was given the first apple on the list of honors.

An apple tied to a string was swinging in a doorway—it got bitten at last—then 15 minutes were spent over what the small hostess called "candleboats." It excited curiosity enough when there was handed about a plateful of walnut shell halves. Each one was numbered on the bottom with India ink, then into it had been poured a spoonful of paraffin. In the center stood a bit of oil-soaked cotton string end of the room, with boys on one side of it and girls on the other. It was played almost like a tennis game, a girl blowing a bubble to her partner, who waited it back. The contest went down the line, and the children who kept a bubble floating for two minutes won. At least 32 names were down on the referee's list and everybody gathered about the grab bag in front of the witch-doll, who yielded up her reins of raffle. Each boy and girl, according to his or her place upon the list, pulled at a black or an orange colored strand of raffle. One jerk brought out a bundle wrapped in tissue paper—and such queer things were unwrapped, velvet coats and china elephants, feathered roosters or tiny dolls, old women who nodded their heads, and old men who winked their eyes, long tailed mice, or fat little owls, and Japanese novelties without end.

What a stampered there was down cellar when the jolly aunt appeared with a corn-popper, tin pans and a package of popcorn. Upstairs they came again presently with half a bushel of hot, snowy white kernels. Then with bowlsful of popcorn and peanuts they made a circle about the jolly aunt, who announced that the last half hour was to be devoted to something very weird and "Hallowe'ny." She sat before a low table chanting softly, while into a saucer she tossed a tablespoonful of salt and poured alcohol upon it from a silver flagon. When she touched it with a match it blazed up in a blue uncanny flame. Then she began in a slow, deep voice:

"Little Orphan Annie's come to our house to stay!"
She had scarcely reached the last verse when the saucer lamp flared strangely and went out. The reader lit it again, with her salt and alcohol, and recited:
"Ah—around the house in the jet black night,
It stares through the window pane,
But the light went out as she whispered slowly:
"All the wicked shadows coming, tramp, tramp, tramp!"

There followed Eugene Field's ghostly "Seein' Things," with its "scary" refrain. But as she ended the last stanza, the lights suddenly blazed up, real electric lights instead of tallow dips in carrot candlesticks, and the clock struck nine. There was a scurry upstairs for warm caps and coats. "Good nights" were said, not only to the little lady hostess, her tall mother, and the jolly aunt, but to the witch lady on the lawn, whose round eyes still glowed.

It had been a very jolly Hallowe'en; even the witch lady seemed to acknowledge it the next morning when her head was carried down cellar and her queer wooden legs hurled its way up the attic stairs.

Choosing Partners for Supper.

lately, for the witch's cap was lined with asbestos. That she made a hit would be passing her mildly; if her feet had not been securely planted in the earth she might have been tempted from the attention she received.

When 15 small girls filed down-stairs, led by their young hostess, they were blindfolded one by one and each played a game of blindman's buff with the boys in the hall, the one who was captured being her partner for supper. It shattered in an instant the few who had always to be invited at a child's party. The crowd watch-boys chose partners and were ranged in two lines from the dining room to the parlor. At the end of each line was a table; one held a big basket of peanuts, beside the other stood the umpire, with her pencil and paper. On it was a wooden bowl and two plates. When the umpire called a girl's name she and her partner walked down the center to the farther table. Covering the back of their hands with all the peanuts they could hold, they carried them to the other table, where they were counted. It sounds like an easy task, but the winner had only seven or eight peanuts to his credit. When the children began to giggle, when hands grew shaky, or a walk quickened into a run, the peanuts were tumbling everywhere to the delight of the on-lookers.

There was a game of bean bags, then a spirited soap bubble contest. For this partners were drawn again and a ribbon stretched from end to

EVER TAKE A MUSIC BATH?

They Are as Good for the Soul, Holmes Says, as Water for the Body.

One must be educated, no doubt, to understand the more complex and difficult kinds of musical composition. Go to the concerts where you know that the music is good, and that you ought to like it whether you do or not. Take a music bath once or twice a week for a few seasons, and you will find that it is to the soul what the water bath is to the body. I wouldn't trouble myself about the affections of people who go to this or that series of concerts chiefly because it is fashionable. Some of these people whom we think so silly will perhaps find-sooner or later, that they have a dormant faculty which is at last waking up, and that they who came because others came, and began by staring at the audience, are listening with a newly found delight. Everyone of us has a harp under the bodice or waistcoat, and if it can only once get properly strung and tuned it will respond to all outside harmonies.—Oliver Wendell Holmes.

PIMPLES ON FACE 3 YEARS

"I was troubled with acne for three long years. My face was the only part affected, but it caused great disfigurement, also suffering and loss of sleep. At first there appeared red, hard pimples which later contained white matter. I suffered a great deal caused by the itching. I was in a state of perplexity when walking the streets or anywhere before the public.

"I used pills and other remedies but they failed completely. I thought of giving up when nothing would help, but something told me to try the Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I sent for a Cuticura Booklet which I read carefully. Then I bought some Cuticura Soap and Ointment and by following the directions I was relieved in a few days. I used Cuticura Soap for washing my face, and applied the Cuticura Ointment morning and evening. This treatment brought marvelous results so I continued with it for a few weeks and was cured completely. I can truthfully say that the Cuticura Remedies are not only all, but more than they claim to be." (Signed) G. Baumel, 1015 W. 20th Place, Chicago, Ill., May 28, 1911. Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold by druggists and dealers everywhere, a sample of each, with 32-page book, will be mailed free on application to "Cuticura," Dept. 28 K, Boston.

To Farm on Copper Lands.

A party of Houghton capitalists have under consideration the establishment of a point on the Copper Range railroad south of Houghton of a 600-acre experimental farm. The lands have already been secured, but are at present heavily timbered. Steps will be taken during the coming winter to cut the timber, and early next spring the stumps will be removed and the land made ready for cultivation. It is hardly probable that crops will be planted before 1912, but the enterprise, when established will prove one of the biggest from an agricultural standpoint in the copper country.—Michigan Manufacturer.

When a beautiful farm down in Texas, where bubbling springs unite to form bubbling brooks that wind their sparkling way through stony meadows, comes a note of gratitude for delivery from the coffee habit.

"When my baby boy came to me five years ago, I began to drink Postum, having a feeling that it would be better for him and me than the old kind of crushed bean coffee. I was not disappointed in it, for it enabled me, a weak delicate woman, to nurse a healthy baby 14 months.

I have since continued the use of Postum for I have grown fatter and, and have discovered to my joy that it has entirely relieved me of a bilious habit which used to prostrate me two or three times a year, causing much discomfort to my family and to myself.

"My brother-in-law was cured of chronic constipation by leaving off coffee and using Postum. He has become even more fond of it than he was of the old coffee.

"In fact, the entire family, from the latest grandchild (a 1-year-old who always calls for his 'botte' first thing in the morning), up to the head of the household, think there is no drink so good or so wholesome as Postum. Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

FARM BEAUTY AND FARM SPIRIT

By E. J. BALDWIN
Michigan Agricultural College

The farm which is run exclusively as a money-making proposition quite often lacks the attractive features which ought to be found on every farm that is the home of a family. The first consideration must always be to make the farm pay, but fields and stock will yield none the less profit if the farm possesses features of beauty. Some places have natural beauty in streams and trees such as is shown in the picture of the College lane bridge; every place can be made pleasingly attractive by trees, lawns, well-kept fences and neat painted buildings.

The far-reaching effects of the appearance of farm surroundings may be appreciated when it is remembered that these things appeal to a part of man's nature and make up, which is deeper and more important than his instinct of possession and his ability to make money. It is the barren monotony of unattractive farm homes that has made many a boy become restless and look forward to the time when he could leave it all and find things more to his taste in city surroundings. Farmers themselves who are not thoughtful of "the looks of things" will soon find that they are losing interest and respect for the business they ought continually to learn more to love. Business and life affairs are so curiously knit and interwoven that the pride and care taken in one thing will show its effect in all things. It is an observable fact that the farms on which most attention is given to neatness and beauty, there also is found the greatest profit in business.

The things we remember longest about our old farm homes are not how much the fat porkers weighed or how many bushels or tons per acre were ours on a certain field, although that was of first importance at the time. We remember mostly the spring with climbing vines and limbs, the elms and maples, the evergreens in the corner of the house yard, the red barns where we kept the silky-coated jerseys and the old house with all its comforts and conveniences.

To live the farm life ideal is to know the beauty of open fields and sky and trees; to appreciate the sacred blessing of home ties and neighbors' friendships. Nowhere is there more excellent opportunity to know the really great things of life than in the open country, if it is not forgotten that "making a life" comes first and is the very purpose of making a living.

CARE OF THE GRINDSTONE

By H. H. MUESELMAN, Instructor in Farm Mechanics, Michigan Agricultural College.

Perhaps no farm implement or machine receives less attention than the grindstone, and yet it is as indispensable as the small boy who turns it. The efficient man takes some heed to the care he gives to his efficiency depend upon it. A man cannot do the maximum amount of work with dull tools, and dull tools cannot be sharpened satisfactorily on a wobbly or eccentric stone. Especially at this season of the year should the stone be put in shape after the season's rush of grinding everything from penknives to mower knives. In grinding the latter it is difficult to prevent wearing away the corners of the stone.

Very often the stone is run in a trough of water in which the water is allowed to stand and soften one side of the stone when not in use, so that it wears away faster with use than the drier part, thus making the stone eccentric or out of true. A better method of supplying water while grinding is to hang above the stone a vessel having a small pet-cock or opening through which the flow of water may be controlled and made to drip upon the stone while grinding.

The grindstone and frame should be protected from the weather at all seasons of the year, though it appears that they are often left out of doors to furnish an excuse for not grinding dull tools on rainy days.

To tip up the face of a grindstone get a piece of gas pipe about three-quarters of an inch in diameter and two or three feet long. Get a steady rest for the pipe about two or three inches from the stone and at a height that will allow the pipe to be held nearly horizontal with the end squarely against the stone; then turning the stone hold the pipe firmly at such a distance from the stone that it will strike and wear away the high part of the surface. Continue until the pipe wears the entire circumference of the stone, noting that the stone has no crown or high center on the face. Of course the pipe will be ground away rapidly, but as it becomes worn at an angle it may be turned over and the opposite side held against the stone.

Cut Out Poor Eggs. During the early autumn the farm flock should be subjected to a rigid selection. All eggs known to have been laid or per records as breeders should be kept in shape for the market. The eggs should be washed with soap and water and then with a weak solution of potassium permanganate. The eggs should be packed in boxes and shipped to market.

Products of Wholesome High Grade Dairy Products

By W. B. LIVERANCE, Instructor in Dairying, Michigan Agricultural College.

So many lives are dependent upon the purity of milk that clean milk has become a practical moral of the day. Infant mortality, the spread of typhoid fever and the possibility of contracting tuberculosis from milk have brought the attention of boards of health and the public in general to the conditions under which milk and cream are produced.

If the following points are observed the products of the dairy will be wholesome and healthful:

1. Healthy cows—made certain by the herd being subjected to the tuberculin test.
 2. Clean stables, clean yards, clean water supply for the animals.
 3. Clean cows, made so by frequent brushing, especially about flanks and under before milking.
 4. A milker with clean clothes and clean hands.
 5. All utensils in which milk is to be placed should be scalded before using.
 6. Do not leave milk uncovered in the barn and remove it to a special dairy house as soon as possible.
- The points to be considered in producing good cream are as follows:
1. The cream separator should be thoroughly washed and scalded.
 2. The cream should be cooled at once.
 3. Never mix warm and cold milk.
 4. Keep cream in cool well ventilated room free from bad odors.
 5. Stir the cream frequently to prevent lumps.
 6. Deliver the cream to the factory three times per week in the summer and twice in the winter.
- It costs more to produce a clean high-grade dairy article, but customers are willing to pay more and there will always be a demand for pure wholesome dairy products at high prices.

The milking organs of the heifer must be well developed if she makes a good cow. While the dairy heifers are growing, if the udders are handled occasionally they will become accustomed to being milked much sooner and with less trouble.

Regular Supply of Eggs. Some poultrymen, in order to have a regular supply of eggs throughout the year have a pen of two-year-old hens, one of yearlings, and one each of poults, broilers, and turkeys. This is a very profitable method.

GIRL WHO COST KING MANUEL'S ROYAL LID

Gaby Deslys, Actress, Credited With Portuguese Monarch's Overthrow, Now Here.

New York.—Gaby Deslys, who is credited by common report with having overthrown the kingdom of Portugal by infatuating King Manuel and enticing from him what was left in the royal treasury, is now here to fill professional engagements. She says she is to receive $18,000 a week and it is probable that some of the $18,000 will be real money. She brought a bewildering array of clothes and jewels and also her reputation as a monarchy destroyer.

The wonder is that this talented actress has not come over sooner. Why this strange delay? A lady with a redoubt past and the destroyer of monarchy, she certainly had a right to expect sympathy and appreciation in republican America from the first.

The only reason imaginable for her delay in coming to the country to which foreign artists hasten to make their money as a rule is that she is so modest she did not realize the extent of her exploit. No doubt she said to herself that Manuel was such a little king that his destroying siren would hardly receive credit for having done anything worth while.

And, to tell the truth, Manuel was a very little king even at his best. To one who knew him as intimately as Mme. Deslys he probably seemed even smaller than he appeared to the average newspaper reader. Compared even with a medium king like the late Leopold of Belgium, he paled into insignificance.

But the people over here are not so carping and critical as to hold that against her. She took the only king that was probably in sight at the time, and if he didn't happen to be one whose conduct amounted to very much internationally, that was the lady's misfortune and not her fault. She did her best with the material at hand. Of course, her reception would naturally be a little warmer and her receipts a little larger if she had managed to bring down larger game from the European royal preserves. Had she done that, it might not have been necessary for her to go to the trouble even of dancing in order to make the show a success. But that is another story.

that is believed to have escaped from Harry Payne Whitney's mountain preserve.

The pursuit was watched by Daniel Camp, who lives near Jacob's Ladder. The automobile gained on the moose, which gave up the chase, left the road and disappeared in the forest. The moose was seen later by James Cahill of Becket while on a hike near Becket, the villa of Mrs. Payne Whitney in Becket.

Backache Means Dying Kidneys

A Remarkable Treatment That Saves the Kidneys. How You May Cure Yourself Quickly and Thoroughly.

With the progress of science comes one remarkable treatment for kidney diseases. It has been so thoroughly tested and its results have proven so revolutionary that a well-known firm in Michigan has undertaken its distribution into every part of the country.

Those who suffer from kidney trouble and the diseases resulting from it will be pleased to know that every package of this treatment is thoroughly guaranteed. This should assure at last a positive cure to every sufferer.

Every man and woman should know that backache is usually a well-defined symptom of advancing kidney disease which may end fatally unless treated in time; that rheumatism and bladder trouble are caused from nothing more nor less than kidneys that do not filter the poison from the blood; that dropsy, Bright's disease, diabetes and bladder-stones are caused by bad kidneys.

Once they are made to work properly, these diseases should quickly disappear.

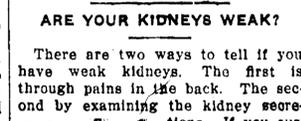

This is done by the new treatment, Dr. Derby's Kidney Pills.

We urge everyone who has pain in the small of the back, profuse or scanty urination, pains in the bladder, cloudy or foul urine, not to fall to get a package today of Dr. Derby's Kidney Pills, and drop all other kidney treatments.

Senator Stevenson of Washington writes from Olympia: "There is no question about the efficacy of Dr. Derby's Pure Kidney Pills in curing kidney and bladder trouble. I know whereof I speak."

Dr. Derby's Kidney Pills are now sold at all drug stores—25 and 50 cents. If you would like to try them first, ask your druggist for a free sample package. Then buy a package; you will not regret it. Derby Medicine Co., Eaton Rapids, Mich.

ARE YOUR KIDNEYS WEAK?

There are two ways to tell if you have weak kidneys. The first is through pains in the back. The second by examining the kidney secretions. If you suspect your kidneys, begin using Doan's Kidney Pills at once. Mrs. J. L. Warrick, 406 W. Mulberry St., Lebanon, Ohio, says: "No tongue can tell the agonies I suffered. My feet and limbs were lifeless and there were weeks when I could not put my feet to the floor or stand alone. As a last resort, I began using Doan's Kidney Pills. In six weeks I was as free from kidney trouble as if I had never had it."

Aerial Scout Work.

As an example of what German military airmen are already able to do, the performance of Lieutenant Mackenthun recently is cited. In a space of 35 minutes Lieutenant Mackenthun, who was acting for the Red force, rose and flew along the enemy's front and was back on the ground at his headquarters ready to report. To obtain the same results would have taken a strong force of cavalry four hours.

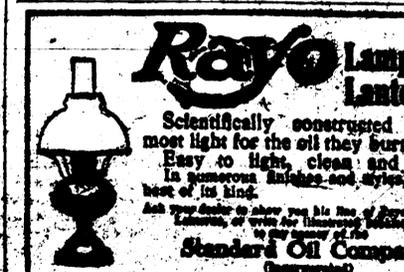

It's all right to help others, but it doesn't pay to be too busy to stop and help yourself.

No Man is Stronger Than His Stomach

A strong man is strong all over. No man can be strong who is suffering from weak stomach with its consequent indigestion, or from some other disease of the stomach and its associated organs, which impairs digestion and nutrition. For when the stomach is weak or diseased there is a loss of the nutrition contained in food, which is the source of all physical strength. When a man "doesn't feel just right" when he doesn't sleep well, has an uncomfortable feeling in the stomach after eating, is nervous, irritable and despondent, he is losing the nutrition needed to make strength.

Such a man should use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It cures the blood, invigorates the liver, strengthens the kidneys, nourishes the nerves, and so GIVES HEALTH AND STRENGTH TO THE WHOLE BODY.

You can't afford to accept a sorry meager as a substitute for this non-alcoholic medicine, as it shows composition, not even though the largest dealer may thereby make a little bigger profit. Ingredients printed on wrapper.

The Myers Patent Mop Wringer

This Mop Wringer is the only machine ever invented that will wring and clean a mop thoroughly. It not only takes out the dirt and leaves the mop clean, but it wrings it so dry that there is hardly any moisture left in the mop. The mop is never left streaked, as you are always using clean mop. The machine is very simple to operate and requires no skill, as any body can use it, man, woman or child. It is labor saving, as one person will do the work quicker and better than three with any other device known. The mop sets on the platform and is not attached to the machine and can be moved at any time. It is always ready for use and there are no parts to get out of order. A trial of our machine will convince you that the work is perfect. We have yet to find a dissatisfied customer.

QUAKE AND FLOOD KILL HUNDREDS

TIDAL WAVE CAUSED BY EARTH- QUAKE SWEEPS SOUTH- ERN MEXICAN COAST.

WHOLE TOWNS SWEEPED OFF THE EARTH.

Hurricane Rages For Five Days After the Upheaval, Cutting District Off From Outside Help.

Buried under thousands of tons of water cast up by a terrific earthquake in the Gulf of California, the towns of San Jose de Guaymas, Empalme and Artiz, on the eastern shore of the gulf, were destroyed on the early morning of October 4, and the cities of Guaymas, Altata and Topolobampo were terribly damaged by the same wave, which lost some of its force by the time it reached them.

Owing to the fact that the hurricane succeeding the tidal wave lasted five days, cutting off every means of communication with the outside world, no definite news of the terrible disaster came until word was received from the governor of Hermosillo, the capital of Sonora, calling for provisions, tents, clothing, etc., for the stricken survivors.

His message states that from 300 to 500 people lost their lives either in the tidal wave or in the hurricane, and that it is impossible to estimate the damage done to property along the coast.

The earthquake occurred before daylight and almost before the inhabitants of the coast towns had time to become alarmed at the earth tremors, a huge wall of water, 20 feet high, swept in from the gulf, carrying everything before it.

Ships and houses were swept far inland and deposited half a mile or more on the sand dunes of the interior. The survivors, many of whom are suffering from broken arms or legs, tell heartrending tales of the scene when the huge waves struck the sleeping towns and men and women were drowned in their beds, or crushed beneath the fallen wreckage.

Prices of other commodities on Sept. 15, compared with the same date last year, for clover seed averaged 23.28 per cent higher; sweet potatoes, 23.1; onions, 5.1; honey, 2.2; cabbage, 2.2. These averaged lower: Milk, 0.5; beans, 0.9; mch cows, 1.1; horses, 4.1; apples, 4.6; beef cattle, 4.7; veal calves, 5.0; wool, 11.0; lambs, 14.2; sheep, 18.7; and hogs, 21.0.

JUSTICE HARLAN IS DEAD

Dean of U. S. Justices Dies of Bron- chitis; Ill Less Than a Week.

Associate Justice John M. Harlan, oldest member of the supreme court of the United States, for years conspicuous in Kentucky politics, once candidate for the Republican nomination for vice-president of the United States, a constitutional authority and prominent in the councils of the Presbyterian church, died at his home in Washington. He was 78 years old last July.

Justice Harlan had been ill with acute bronchitis less than a week. He sat on the bench last Monday.

JOHN M. HARLAN.

When the court heard arguments on the so-called anthracite coal trust cases. The following morning Chief Justice White announced that Justice Harlan was "slightly ill," and asked the justices to consider that Justice Harlan was sitting in their cases, although not physically present.

Justice Harlan, however, was in much more serious condition than his colleagues in the court realized. Despite his advanced age he was robust and ordinarily enjoyed the best of health. He was rarely absent from the bench, an attack or influenza a few years ago being almost the only illness from which he had suffered for a long period.

Banker Walsh is a Free Man.

John R. Walsh, the former Chicago banker, was released from the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kans. Accompanied by his son, Richard, who had arrived from the north a short time before, they entered an automobile and started for Kansas City.

Richard Walsh arrived in response to word that his father was ill. He said he did not know of the parole until he reached the prison. Young Walsh failed to bring his father's clothes and the latter departed in a suit furnished from the prison stock.

Mr. Walsh, up to the time of his parole, had served one year, eight months and 26 days of his five year sentence. When told that he was to be released the aged prisoner plainly showed his pleasure.

ITALY FORMS SECOND ARMY IN RESERVE

WILL BE READY TO SEND 15,000 MORE MEN TO TRIPOLI IF THEY ARE NEEDED.

REPORT OF A SERIOUS FIGHT IS NOT CONFIRMED.

The Turkish Government Has Order- ed the Expedition of All Italian Corpsmen From the Empire.

Although the Italian government considers that the present expedition of 40,000 men will be sufficient for the complete occupation of Tripoli, the ministry of war has prepared for an additional expedition in case of need. This is composed of six regiments of foot soldiers including two from the regular infantry, two from the Alpine district and two of sharpshooters, with a contingent of cavalry and artillery, numbering in all 15,000 men. This reserve force is prepared to reach Tripoli within 48 hours.

A report from Tripoli says that Gen. Caneva, commander-in-chief of the Italian forces there, is awaiting the arrival of the final contingent of the first expedition before he begins a march into the interior.

Four aeroplanes have arrived in Rome from France. They will be sent to Tripoli, where it is proposed to make the first experiments in the use of flying machines in actual warfare. They will be piloted by Italian officers who will undertake to drop bombs into the enemy's encampments.

They gathered in the amphitheater and were crushed closer and closer as the crowd mounted up to the top of the enclosing hills.

News Banker and Politician Dies in New York

Samuel N. Bliss, who was secretary of the interior under President McKinley and for many years treasurer of the Republican national committee, died at his home in New York of heart failure. He was in his 70th year. He had suffered from heart trouble for more than 20 years. His bedside were his wife, his daughter and his son and daughter-in-law.

Mr. Bliss was ill all summer at his country place, Oesdale park, at Oesdale, on the North-Shrewsbury river. As autumn approached he seemed a little better and was able to be about the grounds and to take automobile rides. NEWS OF MICHIGAN

Port Huron.—Gordon West is in a precarious condition at his home in this city as a result of a serious assault on him which caused him to lie unconscious for 36 hours. An investigation is being made by the police which, if it turns out as they suspect, is liable to go hard with a certain man. A few weeks ago young West was arrested following the shooting of John Cohen, a pipeman at base house No. 3. He was arraigned in police court on a charge of assault and battery. The trouble which resulted in West's arrest resulted from the defense of his mother. The latter was picking up some fruit in a vacant lot near her home, when Cohen, it is alleged, ordered her out. She refused to leave and when Cohen attempted to eject her, young West ran into the house, secured a weapon and shot the fireman through the leg.

Lapeer.—A beautiful home was undoubtedly saved from going up in flames by a woman's coolness and presence of mind in the face of great danger. Mrs. F. C. Boylan, wife of the Grand Trunk ticket clerk of this city, stepped into her workhouse when she heard a crackling noise, and looking up saw that the garret was ablaze. The plucky little woman grabbed a pail of water and jumping upon a chair threw the water through an opening in the ceiling. After checking the flames somewhat she summoned the fire department, then resumed her work of throwing water until it arrived.

Grand Rapids.—Abandoned by her husband four days after she had been led to the altar, in December, 1904, when he started with his parents on a tour to Africa, and forgotten ever since, Mrs. Carolyn C. Mitchell was recently granted a divorce by Judge McDonald in circuit court from George C. Mitchell of Cleveland, O. According to the records in the suit, Mitchell, four days after the wedding, departed for Africa, promising to send for his bride.

Lansing.—Governor Osborn has received a copy of a resolution adopted by the common council of Black River Falls, Wis., the town wiped out by the flood, asking for cash contributions to aid in caring for the needy people. The governor has issued a proclamation urging the people of the state to contribute to the fund and stating that all money should be addressed to the mayor of Black River Falls.

Grand Rapids.—While assisting a patron, Edward Roach, to leave the cafe of Landman's buffet, Tony E. Glock was suddenly attacked by the man who had suffered temporary insanity. A large portion of Glock's cheek was bitten off. Roach was sent to jail for 20 days for disorderly conduct. Upon the expiration of his sentence he will be charged with mayhem. Glock may be disfigured for life.

Petoskey.—While driving with his wife and Mrs. Harriet Cushman in his automobile to a church meeting, Jacob L. Crowl suffered a stroke of apoplexy and died in the machine. He had gone some distance before it was noticed that anything was wrong with the car, which began to swerve to the sides of the streets and finally came to a stop in the front yard of Mrs. Alexander Worden's residence, nearly crashing into the house.

Adrian.—Aviator James Ward appeared at the local fair grounds and made three exhibition flights in the Curtiss biplane in which he started his coast-to-coast flight. Fully 4,000 people watched the aviator from the fair grounds, while double that number looked on from points of vantage about the city. In the last flight of the day Ward made his highest flight in Michigan, gaining an altitude of more than 5,000 feet.

Grand Rapids.—While her father had gone to the depot to meet a deputy from the Traverse City State Insane hospital to escort her to that institution, Mrs. S. Thomas, aged twenty-one, ran away from her home here north of this city. She had just been adjudged insane and the papers had been made out admitting her to the hospital. Officers are searching for her.

Grand Rapids.—Owing to a wreck on the Pere Marquette at Michigan City, Ind., the secret conference regarding rule violations, which was to have been held here between Superintendent Hardesten of that road and Vice-President J. S. Forrester of the International Railway Clerks union, and the committee of Michigan clerks, was postponed.

Lansing.—P. H. Kelley of the commission which is investigating the question of Michigan adopting a new system for providing state revenues, states that beginning October 24 the commission will hold public hearings in this city. The sessions will be held in the senate chambers and will continue for two weeks. The preliminary report has been completed and is in the hands of the printers. Following these hearings the commission will complete a final report for Governor Osborn and the legislature.

SYNOPSIS.

Jack Keith, a Virginian, now a border plianman, is riding along the Santa Fe trail on the lookout for roaming war parties of savages. He notices a camp fire at a distance and then sees a team attached to a wagon and at full gallop pursued by men on ponies. When Keith reaches the wagon the raiders have massacred two men and departed. He searches the victims finding a woman's pocket with a woman's portrait. He resolves to hunt down the murderers. Keith is arrested at Carson City, charged with the murder, his accuser being a ruffian named Black Bart. He goes to jail fully realizing the peril of swift border justice. A companion in his cell is a man who tells him he is Ned and that he knew the Keith family back in Virginia. Ned says one of the murdered men was John Sibley, the other Gen. Willis Waite, formerly an officer in the Confederate army. The plianman and Ned escape from the cell and later the two fugitives become lost in the sand desert. They come upon a cabin and find its lone occupant to be a young girl, whom Keith recognizes as a singer he saw at Carson City. The girl explains that she came there in search of a brother who had deserted from the army. Mr. Hawley induced her to come to the cabin while he sought to locate her brother. Hawley appears, and Keith in hiding recognizes him as Black Bart. Hawley tries to make love to the girl, there is a terrific battle in the darkened room in which Keith overcomes Black Bart. Hawley is appropriated, and the girl who says that her name is Hope, joins in the escape. Keith explains the situation and the fugitives make for Port Larned, where the girl is left with the hotel landlady. Mrs. Hope tells that she is the daughter of General Waite.

It was a grim picture of depravity and desolation, the environment dull, gloomy, forlorn; all that was worthy the eye or thought being the pulsing human element. All about extended the barren plains, except where on one side a ravine cut through an overhanging ridge. From the seething street one could look up to the summit, and see there the graves of the many who had died deaths of violence, and been borne thither in "their boots." Amid all this surrounding desolation was Sheridan—the child of a few brief months of existence, and destined to perish almost as quickly—the center of the grim picture, a mere cluster of rude, unpainted houses, poorly erected shacks, grimy tents flapping in the never ceasing wind swirling across the treeless waste, the ugly red station, the rough cowpens filled with lowing cattle, the huge, ungainly stores, their false fronts decorated by amateur wielders of the paint brush, and the garish dens of vice tucked in everywhere. The pendulum of life never ceased swinging. Society was mixed; no man cared who his neighbor was, or dared to question. Of women, worthy the name there were few, yet there were fitting female forms in plenty, the saloon lights revealing powdered cheeks and painted eyebrows. It was a strange, restless populace, the majority here today, disappearing tomorrow—cowboys, half-breeds, trackmen, graders, desperadoes, gamblers, saloon-keepers, merchants, generally Jewish, petty officials, and a riff-raff no one could account for, mere floating debris. The town was an eddy catching odd bits of driftwood such as only the frontier ever knew. Queer characters were everywhere, wrecks of dissipation, delinquents of the East, seeking nothing save oblivion.

Everything was primitive—passion and pleasure ruled. To spend easily made money noisily, brazenly, was the ideal. From dawn to dawn the search after joy continued. The bagnios and dance halls were ablaze; the barrooms crowded with hilarious or quarrelsome humanity, the gambling tables alive with excitement. Men swaggered along the streets looking for trouble, and generally finding it; cowboys rode into open saloon doors and drank in the saddle; troops of congenial spirits, frenzied with liquor, spurred recklessly through the street firing into the air, or the crowd, as their whim led; hands played popular airs on balconies, and innumerable "barbers" added their honeyed invitations to the perpetual din. From end to end it was a saturnalia of vice, a babel of sound, a glimpse of the inferno; money flowed like water; every man was his own law, and the gun the arbiter of destiny. The town marshal, and a few cool-headed deputies moved here and there amid the chaos, patient, tireless, undaunted, seeking, merely to exercise some slight restraint. This was Sheridan. Into the one long street just at that time Keith and Ned, the third horse trailing behind. "Already lights were beginning to gleam in the crowded saloons, and they were obliged to proceed slowly." Leaving the negro at the corral to find some purchaser for the animals, and such accommodations for himself as he could achieve, Keith shouldered his way on foot through the heterogeneous mass toward the only hotel, a long two-story wooden structure, unspiced, from the gutter of the Pioneer Diner. Keith opposite. A noisy band was splitting the air with discordant notes, a loud-voiced "barber" yelling through the uproar, but Keith, accustomed to similar scenes and sounds elsewhere, strode through the open door of the hotel, and guided by the noisy, continuous chatter of dishes, easily found his way to the dining-room. It was crowded with men, a few women scattered here and there, most of the former in shirt-sleeves, all eating silently. A few smaller tables at the back of the room were distinguished from the others by white coverings in place of oil-cloth, evidently reserved for the more distinguished guests. Disdaining ceremony, the new comer wormed his way through, finally discovering a vacant seat where his back would be to the wall, thus enabling him to survey the entire apartment.

It was not of great interest, save for its constant change and the primitive manner in which the majority attacked their food supply, which was piled helter-skelter upon the long tables, yet he ran his eyes searchingly over the numerous faces, seeking impartially for either friend or enemy. No countenance present, as revealed in the dim light of the few swinging lamps, appeared familiar, and satisfied that he remained unknown, Keith began devoting his attention to the dishes before him, mentally expressing his opinion as to their attractiveness. Chancing finally to glance lift his eyes, he met the gaze of a man sitting directly opposite, a man who somehow did not seem exactly in harmony with his surroundings. He was short and stockily built, with round rosy face, and a perfect shock of wiry hair brushed back from a broad fore-

Puzzled at the unexpected recognition, yet realizing the friendliness of the man, Keith grasped the pudgy fingers extended with some cordiality.

"Don't remember me I s'pose—don't think you ever saw me—delirious when I came—hate to tell you what you was talking about—gave you hypodermic first thing—behaved well enough though when I dug out the lead—Minie bullet, badly blunted hitting the rib—thought you might die with blood poison—couldn't stay to see—to damn much to do—evidently didn't though—remember me now?"

"No, only from what you say. You must have been at General Waite's headquarters."

"That's it—charge of Stonewall's field hospital—just happened to ride into Waite's camp that night—damn lucky for you I did—young snip there wanted to saw the bone—I stopped that—liked your face—imagined you might be worth saving—ain't so sure of it now, or you wouldn't be out in this God forsaken country, eating such grub—my name's Fairbain—Joseph Wright Fairbain, M. D.—contract surgeon for the railroad—working on the line."

Keith shook his head, feeling awakening interest in his peculiar companion.

"No; just drifted in here from down just this side the Cimmaron Crossing out on the Santa Fe trail."

"But do you know it was General Waite?" the man's insistent tone full of doubt.

"I have no question about it," returned Keith, conclusively. "The man was Waite's size and general appearance, with gray beard, similar to the one I remember he wore during the war. He had been scalped, and his face beaten beyond recognition, but papers in his pockets were sufficient to prove his identity. Besides, he and his companion—a young fellow named Sibley—were known to have pulled out two days before from Carson City."

"When was this?"

"Ten days ago."

Fairbain's lips smiled, the ruddy coloring sweeping back into his cheeks.

"Damn me, Keith, you came near giving me a shock," he said, jerkily. "Shouldn't be so careless—not sure my heart's just right—tendency to apoplexy, too—got to be guarded against. Now, let me tell you something—maybe you buried some poor devil out at Cimmaron Crossing—but it wasn't Willis Waite. How do I know? Because I saw him, and talked with him yesterday—damn me, if I didn't, right here in this town."

CHAPTER XVII.

In the Next Room.

Keith, his eyes filled with undisguised doubt, studied the face of the man opposite, almost convinced that he was, in some way, connected with the puzzling mystery. But the honesty of the rugged face only added to his perplexity.

"Are you certain your are not mistaken?"

"Of course I am, Keith. I've known Waite for fifteen years a bit intimately—have met him frequently since the war—and I certainly talked with him. He told me enough to partially confirm your story. He said he had started for Santa Fe light, because he couldn't get enough men to run a caravan—afraid of Indians, you know. So, he determined to take money—buy Mexican goods—and risk himself. Old fighting cock wouldn't turn back for all the Indians on the plains once he got an idea in his head—he was that kind—Lord, you ought to see the fight he put up at Spottsylvania! He got to Carson City with two wagons, a driver and a cook—had eight thousand dollars with him, too, the damn fool. Cook got into row, gambling, cut a man, and was jugged. Old Waite wouldn't leave even a nigger in that sort of fix—natural fighter—likes any kind of row. So, he hung on there at Carson, but had sense enough—Lord knows where he got it—to put all but a few hundred dollars in Ben Levy's safe. Then he went out one night to play poker with his driver and a friend—had a drink or two—doped, probably, and never woke up for forty-eight hours—lost clothes, money, papers, and whole outfit—was just naturally cleaned out—couldn't get a trace worth following after. You ought to have heard him cuss when he told me—it seemed to be the papers that bothered him most—the, and the miles."

The Test.

Madge—I refused Jack eight times before finally saying "yes."

Ethel—Why did you change your mind?

Madge—I didn't. I was merely seeing if he would change his.

The Worst.

Caricatures on the Stage

Appeal to Playwrights to Make Their Characters a Little More True to Nature.

At the anniversary festival of the Royal General Theatrical Fund J. L. Griffiths, United States consul general, spoke a word of appeal for some improvements in the drama. He would like, he said, to see a play in which there was a really spiritual clergyman, an honest barrister, a straightforward diplomatist and an American gentleman. Mr. Griffiths' views have been generally endorsed by the press.

It is acknowledged that diplomatists are presented on the stage too consistently as creatures of pretentious cunning, never as men with human limitations. The popular dramatic type of clergyman, the muscular, is more fitting still; very crude is not the physical equal of a priestfighter. An American gentleman would be very welcome on the English stage. The type almost invariably presented is the same—thin, pale, and with a gentleman nor an American. It is true he no longer ejaculates "By gosh!" or "I calculate," but he continues to be a caricature, and a bad caricature at that.

Classified Mail.

"Good morning," the young woman said as she stepped to the window at the post office. "Is there a letter for me today?"

"I'll look," the clerk answered. "The young woman blushed a little, and she added, 'It's a business letter.' The man inside the window took up a handful of letters and looked them over hastily. Then he informed the customer that there was nothing for her; and with great disappointment deposited on her lovely features, she went away; in five minutes she was back again—this time blushing more furiously than before.

"I decided you," she stammered. "It wasn't a business letter I was expecting. Will you—please see if there is something for me among the letters?"

CHURCH IS HISTORIC

Scene of First Protestant Settlement in America.

Colony Was Early Founded Near Port Royal on the Shores of South Carolina and by the Huguenots.

Port Royal, S. C.—The first Protestant settlement in America was made on the shores of South Carolina, not far from the present town of Port Royal, and by the Huguenots. This colony came out under the leadership of Jean Ribaut in the spring of 1562. This settlement of South Carolina by a Protestant colony antedates that of the English settlement of Virginia by 45 years, and was 58 years before the arrival of the pilgrim fathers at Plymouth, Mass. But this settlement at Port Royal did not have the success that was hoped for it, and had to be abandoned—not before seed had been planted, however, that bears its fruit to this day.

On landing, one of the first things the Huguenots did was to unite in a service of thanksgiving to God for their safe arrival. They erected a monument to commemorate the occasion. To quote from the Rev. Dr. Vedder, "The stone pillar of John Ribaut was the corner stone of the temple of Protestantism in the Western hemisphere."

It was not until after the edict of Nantes, October, 1685, that the great immigration of Huguenots to South Carolina took place. Four prominent settlements were made—one on the Santee river, one on the Cooper river, one at St. Johns, Berkeley, and the other in the city of Charleston. One of the first steps taken by each of these colonies was toward the establishment of a church wherein they might worship according to their faith.

The Huguenots of Charleston make two distinct claims outside that of having the only Huguenot church in Where Huguenots Worshipped.

America. One is that theirs is the first church organization established in South Carolina; and the other that they were the first to carry the gospel to the state outside the city of Charleston.

The first Huguenot church organization was about 1681-2. In the cemetery surrounding it lies entombed the dust of many who have slept there for more than two centuries, the pioneers of the church. On the tombs are engraved names that have become historic in the annals of South Carolina.

The present building was erected in 1845. It is stone, in Gothic style, with ornamental masonry extending in pointed columns above the roof. It suffered greatly, as did all of the churches of Charleston, from the terrible earthquake of 1886. The first church building was burned in 1740. The congregation took steps to erect another, which shared the same fate; and still another, which was also burned. The present building stands today unique in history, the only Huguenot church in America.

KEEPS GIANT SONS IN BED

Under Mother's Hypnotic Influence They Fear to Move—All in Good Health.

Northville, N. Y.—Hypnotized by their mother into the belief that they are suffering from hereditary heart disease in an aggravated form, three grown men have been lying in bed for years in their home here. Physicians have examined the three men and declare they are in as sound physical trim as can be three six-footers who have remained in bed such a length of time.

The men are sons of John Bennett, a farmer. The mother is a robust woman, intelligent in appearance, about sixty years old. The sons are George, thirty-two years old; Ward, twenty-nine, and Frank, twenty-seven years. They are under the impression that the slightest shock will result in sudden death. George has been in bed for eight years, Ward ten years and Frank six years.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Bennett insist the men are awful sufferers. They had trouble this summer with a firm of contractors putting through a state highway near their home because the blasting had a serious effect on their sons' condition.

Trolley Car Sets Man Afire. Philadelphia, Pa.—Edward Higgins, sixty-seven years old, was carrying a package of matches in a back pocket of his trousers when he was struck by a trolley car. The matches were ignited and before the flames were extinguished Higgins was badly burned.

Barnes Storme—Ah! me boy, but we had the run of our life in Oskaloosa. Friend—H'm, ain't it lucky they couldn't catch you?

CHANGE IN WOMAN'S LIFE

Made Safe by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Graniteville, Vt.—"I was passing through the Change of Life and suffered from nervousness and other annoying symptoms and I can truly say that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has proved worth mountains of gold to me, as it restored my health and strength. I never forget to tell my friends what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me during this trying period. Complete restoration to health means so much to me that for the sake of other suffering women I am willing to make my trouble public so you may publish this letter."—Mrs. CHAS. BARCLAY, 11 F. D., Graniteville, Vt.

No other medicine for woman's ills has received such wide-spread and unqualified endorsement. No other medicine we know of has such a record of cures as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

For more than 30 years it has been curing woman's ills such as inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pain, and nervous prostration, and it is unequalled for carrying women safely through the period of change of life.

Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., invites all sick women to write her for advice, or advice is free, and always helpful.

THE SEARCHLIGHT UTILITY

RETURN FLUE FLOOR HEATER

FAMOUS FOR BURNING HARD COAL

The Searchlight Consumes Gases That Every Other Base Burner Wastes

Facts About the Searchlight

The following are a few facts about the Searchlight which we guarantee to be authentic.

Will Save $3.50 on Every Ton of Coal Used

Whereas the ordinary Base Burner uses only one half the heating power of hard coal when it allows the gases to escape, the searchlight utilizes all the ingredients, thus saving $3.50 on every ton of coal.

Will Hold Fire Seven Days and Seven Nights

This, mind you, with one filling.

Will Heat Floor Five Foot From Stove

Not necessary to put your feet up on the stove to warm them. With a Searchlight the exposed fire pot radiates the heat to the FLOOR for a space of 5 and 6 feet around stove.

Will Circulate Heat into 5 or 6 Rooms

And they will all be just as comfortable to sit in as the room in which the Searchlight is placed.

Not One Degree Variation in Temperature

Set the Searchlight Combustion Damper when you go to bed at night, and when you get up in the morning not one degree of variation in temperature will be noticed, even though the thermometer registers 10 degrees below zero.

Four Times More Direct Radiating Surface and five times more circulating capacity than any other Base Burner on Earth.

No Check Damper

The check damper on the average Base Burner does not stop the fuel from burning as it is represented. It only derdens the fire, causing a cold house in the morning. The fire in the Searchlight is regulated entirely by the Combustion Damper.

No Fine Dust or Ashes

There are no poke holes in the Searchlight. Everything is air tight. The fine ash is carried up a dust flue and not on to your furniture.

No Clinkers or Unburnt Coal

The Searchlight burns the coal to a fine ash, as fine as powder.

Fire Pot Guaranteed for 25 Years

The only Fire Pot that was ever guaranteed for that length of time.

The Rolling Top

The nickled jacket top on the ordinary Base Burner bottles up the heat and sends it up the chimney. The Rolling Top leaves the top clear and acts the same as a register in a hot air furnace.

We Guarantee You Perfect Satisfaction.

Lost, Strayed or Stolen

Last Monday night the office cat who owns this paper was heard scratching vigorously at the front door. Upon being admitted the following screed was found tied to her tail. The Final Game With Stockbridge

We motored out to Fowlerville, To see the county fair And Stockbridge came, a sturdy bunch, With grim determined air. They said the game would be a cinch, They had it all sewed up. But well we knew there's many a slip, Betwixt the lip and cup.

The afternoon sped swiftly on, The time to play drew nigh, The Pinckney boys looked meekly 'round And each one heaved a sigh. Two-thirty came alas! too soon, Pete Connors said play ball, Then on the crowd assembled there A mighty hush did fall.

Young Jeffy Dodge assumed the mound With a fierce look of late, Doc Roche spat deftly on his palms And stepped up to the plate. Young Dodge right swiftly flung the ball, Doc swung his bat and then, The ball fell lightly in Bert's hands, But hopped right out again.

I wish you could have heard the groan, The Stockbridge crowd sent up, I wish you could have seen their tears, I think they'd fit a cup. Well Leo bawled like a goat And Doc to second sped, Brave Herby heaved the ball to first, "One out," the umpire said.

Then Ade picked up a nifty bat, And sauntered to the plate, He took three healthy, hearty swings, Alas! they were too late. Then Michael swung his bat in air And to the plate did talk Dodge took one look at his gray hair And let the old chap walk.

This walking stunt brought Dunning up His chin protruding out, And when Dodge sped the ball again He fetched it one fine clout, Doc swiftly ambled round the path To where he cashed his run, And though they threw out Mike at third I tell you it was fun.

Then Herb picked up a likely stick And strolled up to the plate, The look he gave our little Bob Seemed filled with direst hate, But Bobbie winked his other eye And said, "I'm not the worst," Then Herbie swung and Harold boy Slung Herbie out at first.

And so the battle fiercely raged, Our Bob more stung grew, The scoreman counted all their hits And found they had but two, And when Doc grabbed a shoestring ball And threw one out to Ade; It almost made the steeps fall To hear the roar they made.

'Twas then Geo. Westfall loudly howled, Some think Bert Morgan swore, While brave Bill Lyons chewed his out And bet one dollar more. Gurn Dancer said that he could see Where he was out a five, Bert White now said he really wished That he was in his bive.

The Pinckney boys plugged bravely on Getting one—now two, Until they had four little runs And wisely thought 'twould do, Poor Stockbridge tried through every gap, To get one little run, But Bobbie's teeth shut with a snap, He said they have none.

But why prolong this woeful tale That made them feel so sore, We'll have to wait until next year When we may meet once more, Then when we've tried and done our best, No matter how it ends, We'll gaily toddle home to rest And always part good friends.

Jelly Roll Recipe

Only Two Eggs Required

By Mrs. Janet McKenzie Hill, Editor of the Boston Cooking School Magazine

This Jelly Roll is fast becoming very popular on account of the way it keeps fresh. With proper handling it should keep fresh a whole week, providing it isn't eaten up in the meantime, for it is every bit as good as it looks.

K C Jelly Roll

One cup sifted flour; scant half teaspoonful salt; 2 level teaspoonsful K C Baking Powder; grated rind of 1 lemon; 2 eggs; beaten light; 1 cup sugar; 1/2 cup hot milk; glass of jelly; powdered sugar.

Beat the sugar into the eggs; add the lemon rind, then the flour, sifted three times with the salt and baking powder; and, lastly, the milk. Bake in a buttered dripping pan; turn out on a damp cloth, trim off the crisp edges; spread with jelly and turn over and over into a roll while still warm. Dredge the top with powdered sugar.

Hot milk used in the jelly roll enables it to be rolled without danger of cracking. Have the milk scalding hot, also be careful to have the eggs and sugar beaten together until very light and creamy. Bake in a moderate oven.

K C Jelly Roll is illustrated on page thirty-two of the new and handsomely illustrated 64-page K C Cook's Book, which may be secured free by sending the certificate packed in every 25-cent can of K C Baking Powder to the JAGURS MFG. CO., Chicago, Ill.
