A RARE TREAT

Free To Those Holding Lecture Course Tickets

Thursday Evening, April 25

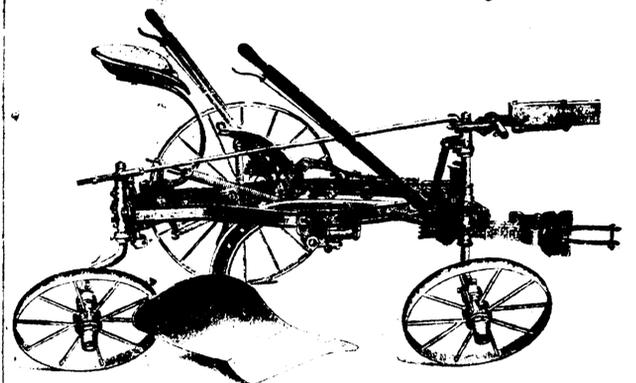

Owing to the dissatisfaction manifested with the Concert Trio, the third number on the lecture course the committee have made arrangements whereby the lecture bureau will send here free of charge to all holders of season tickets, The Orchestral Entertainers.

The Orchestral Entertainers is a company composed of four sisters—the Misses Gladys, Edith, Francis and Inez Maurer. For versatility on musical instruments and "making good," their parallel is seldom found. The instruments are the cornet, the cello, violin and the flute. In this respect they fill an important part on the Lyceum platform for there is much demand for just such a combination and the only reason is that there are comparatively few such combinations, is because versatility in music is so apt to be accompanied by mediocrity. The members of this company have rightly worked their way up to a place on the Redpath list of talent. The Redpath Bureau, as the oldest bureau in the world, has a reputation at stake which must not be sacrificed by inferior talent. For that reason, at the request of the committee they are sending this extra number free of charge.

Features of the Orchestral Entertainers' Program—Cornet Solos with Orchestral Accompaniment; Flute Solos with Piano Accompaniment; Violin Solos with Piano Accompaniment; Whistling Solos; Cello Solo; Violin and Flute Duet; Humorous Readings; Orchestral Numbers with Piano, Violin, Flute and Cornet; Ensemble Vocal Numbers Rendered in Conjunction with Orchestral Music.

Remember this number is free of charge to those holding lecture course tickets. Be sure and bring tickets with you as they will be taken up at the door. Single admission, 50c.

Save your lambs, ewes, yearlings, kids, put your flock in condition to gain fast and get the good of what you feed them. Every sheep feeder and breeder knows how worms cut down his profits. Some try to dose the worst cases with gasoline, tobacco, and other disagreeable mixtures. But that don't get rid of all the worms. That don't stop your biggest losses. Here is a better way.

Sal-Vet will positively rid your animal on your place of all stomach and free intestinal worms and keep them so. No pay if it fails. Sal-Vet is a medicated salt—the sheep like it. All you need to do is to let them run to it freely—they will doctor themselves. Then watch them all put on flesh and gain fast. ### CITIZENS LECTURE COURSE

Last Number of the Course Booked For Monday Evening, April 22

The last number on the Citizens Lecture Course is booked for Monday evening, April 22, by the Strollers Quartette.

As a mark of genuine appreciation of the high grade programs of this quartet, a delighted populace has inscribed over their name the word "super-fine," and "Strollers" has become one of the most popular of musical companies in the west. A sufficient evidence of this assertion is found in the fact that during the season of 1909-10, The Strollers were asked for in many more places than there were days in the season.

It is considered a mark of musical excellence to be able to entertain a mixed audience, but the Strollers do not halt there. In keeping with the idea that is dominant in each of the four men they seek to inspire. Never satisfied with ordinary achievements they have pushed toward the ideal. The people are not tardy in generous response to this. The result is a musical revival in every community visited by The Strollers. Remember the date—Monday evening, April, 22.

Another Adjournment

In the case against L. N. Brayton and Edward Scully, attorney Chandler appeared and asked for an adjournment until June, presenting an affidavit to the effect that two important witnesses, L. C. Fosket and Al Fishbeck could not be produced at this time, the former being tied up on a dredging contract down in Mississippi, from where he will not return until June, and the whereabouts of the latter being unknown. After some deliberation, the motion was granted, which means that the case will not be tried until October as the June term of circuit court is not usually a jury term.

The Home Merchant

A portion of our people seem disinclined to patronize the home merchant except when they can't help it. They will ask the grocer to deliver a yeast cake to the back door, but when it comes to ordering a winters supply of canned goods they send to a distant department store.

It should be needless to say, that if everyone did this we should have fewer opportunities for people to earn a living at home. On the contrary, if we all bought everything possible at home, our stores could keep even better stocks. It is a great convenience to be able to make selections from a good line of goods at home. This becomes possible where everyone loyally supports the home merchant.

Under such circumstances existing stores could do a larger business, employ more people, and new concerns would start. Every person owning real estate or a business here would see it grow more valuable.

Even the man with nothing would gain. There would be more property to tax, hence more public improvements. With more money in circulation our churches, fraternal societies and business men could serve the community more efficiently.

The home merchant is one of the main standbys of the country town.

FARM AND BEES

VENTILATE HOT-BED FRAMES

Temperature Carried Down Greatly on Crop Being Grown—Prevent Plants Becoming "Drawn."

By W. R. BEATTIE.

The temperature at which the air of hotbeds should be carried will depend entirely upon the crop being grown. Thermometers should be placed at intervals in the beds, as it is not safe to judge the temperature by personal sensation. If lettuce, parsley, or radishes are growing in the beds, the temperature should not go above 70 degrees F. before ventilation is given; on the other hand, if the frames are filled with cucumbers, egg-plants, or peppers, the temperature may run 8 to 10 degrees higher. It should be borne in mind that any covering, whether cloth or sash, will exclude a part of the light, and every precaution is necessary to prevent the plants becoming "drawn." The safest plan is to keep the temperature a trifle low and thus retain the plants in a strong, thrifty condition. Where tender plants are being grown under cloth there is greater danger of injury from keeping them covered too tightly than from exposure to moderate cold.

Sash-Covered Frames, Showing a Fence Used to Break the Force of the Wind, and Notched Sticks Used Under the Sash for Ventilating the Beds.

In the case of cloth-covered frames the covers are left off during bright weather and the plants subjected to open-air conditions. When there is danger of cold the covers are put on at night, and during unfavorable weather they are frequently left on during the day. While the cloth covers conserve the heat, they at the same time exclude the sunlight, and if they are kept on too great a portion of the time the crops will become drawn and spindling.

FEEDING FOR EARLY SWARMS

Little Honey Gatherers So Stimulated by Feed That Brood Rearing Will Be Rapidly Increased.

By H. F. GRINSTEAD.

Ten pounds of sugar fed to the bees when maples are in bloom will make them swarm two weeks earlier than otherwise, and we all know the value of having the swarms at their best during white clover and basswood flow. No matter if they have plenty of honey, they will be so stimulated by the feeding that brood rearing will be rapidly increased. It seems that bees require more than honey for brood rearing, and the first pollen bearing flowers are worked on by the bees.

I don't know what a bee could get out of flour unless it would be something like pollen, but bran, shorts or flour placed in a box near the hives will soon be a working mass of bees. They will continue to work on this till there is an abundance of flowers, and I have never known any ill effects from feeding it to them. After they have worked on it the bran or flour appears drier, but is still fit for animals.

Raising Squash.

A man who raised a 300-pound squash says he did it by the following method. Two wheelbarrow loads of old hen manure was mixed with the soil in the hill, being put in quite deep and over a wide area. Then only one plant was allowed to remain in the hill, and only one specimen of fruit was allowed to remain on that plant.

Work of Hive of Bees.

A hive of bees will produce 150 pounds of honey in an average season if they have honey producing flowers to work on. At the price honey sells at it can easily be seen that a few stands of bees will pay. Bees work well with alfalfa.

Ordering Queen Bee.

A queen bee may be ordered through the mail for from $1 to $2. When a queen dies and the swarm is unable to produce another a new queen may be ordered.

Wet Lands.

Working the soil when it is wet will make a coarse and lumpy the whole

BEE KEEPING IS DECREASING

United States Department of Agriculture Attributes Cause to Brood Diseases of Insects.

The census of 1910 shows a decrease of almost 800,000 colonies of bees on the farms of the United States. There is also a considerable decrease in the number of farms reporting bees. Since bee keeping is one of the important and profitable minor branches of agriculture, this decrease among farmer bee keepers is unfortunate.

Bee keeping is fast becoming the business of the specialist, and the number of men who devote their entire attention to the business is rapidly increasing. However, there is no reason why the average farmer can not keep a few colonies of bees to supply honey for home consumption with perhaps some surplus for sale in good years.

The United States department of agriculture attributes most of the reported decrease to the brood diseases of bees which are now found widely distributed in the United States. Where disease exists the bee keepers often lose colonies and attribute their loss to some other cause. It is quite possible to keep bees with profit with disease prevalent in the neighborhood provided the bee keeper knows how to treat the disease.

MAKING HEAVY WAGON JACK

List of Material Required Includes Four Pieces of Wood, Three Bolts and Two Screws.

By W. J. GORDON.

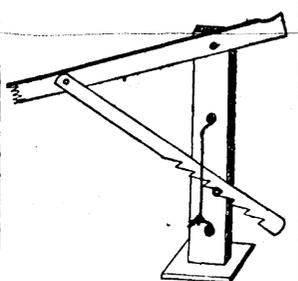

Four pieces of wood, three bolts, two screws and one piece of wire completes the list of material required for a very simple and handy wagon-jack.

One piece of 2x4 hardwood, two feet six inches long, for the main upright; one piece of 1x4 hardwood, two feet long, for lever; one piece 1x4 hardwood, with notches.

One piece of two-inch stuff 10 inches square for the base.

The lever is secured to the upright with half-inch bolt 3 1/2 inches long.

The piece with the notches is fastened to the lever with a half-inch bolt, and the piece of wire that holds the notched piece in place is fastened to the upright piece with screws.

Keeping Bees.

The census shows a decrease of almost 800,000 colonies of bees on the farms of the United States. There is also a considerable decrease in the number of farms reporting bees. Since bee keeping is one of the important and profitable minor branches of agriculture, this decrease among farmer bee keepers is unfortunate. No returns are available for bee keepers in towns and cities.

Bee keeping is fast becoming the business of the specialist, and the number of men who devote their entire attention to the business is rapidly increasing. However, there is no reason why the average farmer can not keep a few colonies of bees to supply honey for home consumption with perhaps some surplus for sale in good years.

Bees and Farm Notes

Poultry manure is a fine dressing for the vegetable garden.

A practical system of rotation can be worked out for every farm.

Poultry manure is particularly good for forcing the growth of onions.

Sheep-killing dogs and egg-sucking dogs make real nice soft robes and rugs. Tan their hides.

The size of the farm is not so much importance as the manner in which the work is done.

Too much care can hardly be taken in making sure that no weed seeds are sown with your grain seed.

It is well to remember that commercial fertilizers should not replace farm manures, but simply reinforce them.

Hollyhocks and golden-glow may be grown along the fence at the back or side of the house, and require but little room.

Squash bugs may be trapped by laying shingles near the plants. The bugs will be found under them early in the morning.

Rotation of crops is one of the simple, practical methods of increasing the productivity of the farm and distributing labor.

There is but little fertilizing value in coal ashes, but they will improve a stiff clay soil by putting it in better physical condition.

There are very few farms on which additional labor expended in preparing the seed-bed would not yield handsome returns.

The life of a bee during the busy season is very short. Often during the honey season they do not live longer than six or eight weeks.

125,000 AMERICANS GO TO CANADA IN 1911.

THE YEAR 1912 WILL SHOW A GREAT INCREASE.

In a report of the House Committee (Washington) appears the following: "Canada offers a three-year home-stead upon good land, easily reclaimed and cultivated, with six months' leave of absence each year and most lenient regulations."

All of which is true and it is now the part of the careful reader to consider the opportunities that exist in Western Canada which, in addition to the above, are attractive features. The evidence of these is found in the letters contributed by some of the settlers. For instance: A former Minnesotan, writing from Warner, Southern Alberta, speaks of that district, but what he says, applies generally to all of Southern Alberta. He says:

"I have seen six crops, four of them were first class, one of them a very good crop, and the other a poor crop. Government statistics for the last fifteen years show that this country has averaged about fifteen or sixteen inches of moisture. In 1910 there was only seven inches, and in 1911 twenty-two inches. The 1909 crop was about as good as I have seen in this country and we had about twelve inches of moisture, so that I am thoroughly convinced that with normal conditions, that is, from twelve to fifteen inches of moisture, and with the natural increase of population and immigration, that Southern Alberta will be one of the very best mixed farming districts in the world. We have good soil, good water, and a good climate, and altogether just as desirable a country to live in as Dakota, Minnesota, Iowa, or Wisconsin."

Hundreds of letters are on file from former American settlers, which give good reasons why the Western Canada lands are being settled so rapidly. Full particulars can be had of any Canadian Government Agent, who will furnish literature and give low rate certificates. Excursions are being run daily.

A Believer.

Gifford Pinchot, at his brother's house, in Park avenue, New York, listened quizzically to a political story that was being submitted to him for verification by a popular reporter.

"When the reporter finished his narrative Mr. Pinchot laughed and said: 'I'll reply to that as the old Italian peasant replied to the statement that his fellow-countryman loved birds too well ever to eat them: 'Well, I don't mind believing that myself, the old man said, 'but there's a good many who wouldn't.'"

Markewomanship.

"I am afraid those militant suffragettes are going to give us serious trouble," said one London policeman.

"They mean business."

"Why do you think so?" inquired the other.

"A lot of them have quit giving parades and making speeches and are practicing with quills and baseballs."

What She Wanted.

Before the fire on Christmas Eve, two old maids were planning for the holiday.

"Sister Mallie," said the younger, "would a long stocking hold all you want for a Christmas gift?"

"No, Elvira," said the older, "but a pair of socks would."

Wins Again.

The International Pure Food Show held in Paris March 1912 has just awarded Calumet Baking Powder the highest honors, giving them the Grand Prize and Gold Medal.

This, in addition to the Highest Award that Calumet won at the World's Pure Food Exposition in Chicago, gives Calumet the highest honors issued by two of the largest Pure Food Shows ever held and proves conclusively the superior wholesomeness, purity and uniformity of Calumet Baking Powder.

Dr. R. E. Eskildson, of Omaha, Neb., says: "I find your Castoria to be a standard family remedy. It is the best thing for infants and children I have ever known and I recommend it."

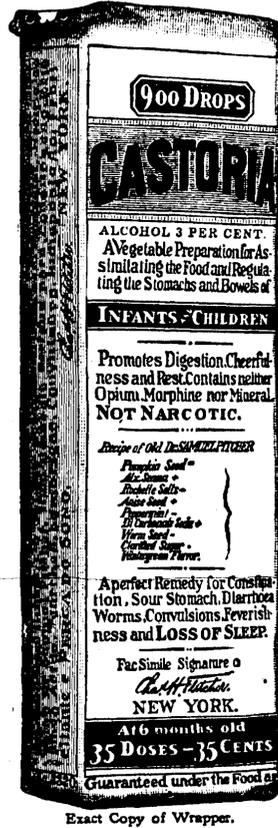

Dr. L. R. Robinson, of Kansas City, Mo., says: "Your Castoria certainly has merit. Is not its age, its continued use by mothers through all these years, and the many attempts to imitate it, sufficient recommendation? What can a physician add? Leave it to the mothers."

Dr. Edwin F. Pardee, of New York City, says: "For several years I have recommended your Castoria and shall always continue to do so, as it has invariably produced beneficial results."

Dr. N. E. Sizer, of Brooklyn, N. Y., says: "I object to what are called patent medicines, where maker alone knows what ingredients are put in them, but I know the formula of your Castoria and advise its use."

There Are Reasons—Good Reasons, Why You Should Buy

Rouge Rex Shoes

First. They are economical—not cheap, mind you—but economical in that they give more real wearing service to the dollar than any other make of shoes.

Second. They are comfortable. It is not necessary in order that a shoe give service that it be made of stiff, hard leather that irritates and blisters the feet, and that cannot be made of responsive looking lasts. The leather in our work shoes is as soft and pliable as buckskin, but tough as wrought iron. And ROUGE REX SHOES FIT. They please from the day they are first put on until they are worn out.

Look for the above trade-mark in colors on your dealer's shelves, and when you find it, ask to see the shoes. Note the mark well—an Indian head on a skin. # REPUBLICAN STATE CONVENTION

GATHERING AT BAY CITY ELECTS TWO SETS OF DELEGATES TO CHICAGO.

ROOSEVELT DELEGATES ELECT DELEGATES AND LEAVE HALL.

State Chairman Knox Refused to Call Convention to Order and the Taft Delegates Proceed With-out Him.

The Republican state convention, for selection of delegates to the national convention held in Bay City on the 11th, was one of most extraordinary features in which the state militia and the city's police force were prominent figures, and the result is a delegation composed of Taft supporters and one of Roosevelt adherents. This will give the national convention a very bitter contest to settle as to which delegation shall be seated. The two factions fought for control of the Bay City convention with a fierceness rarely, if ever before, equaled in a Michigan convention. There were some very unusual methods employed, there was much bitter incrimination, and finally a split, two conventions, two sets of delegates and as a result, not favorably to a harmonious settlement even in the national convention, where final decision as to which delegation is the legally chosen one.

Both sides adopted resolutions commendatory of candidates they favor and both maintained their organization the legal one. It was a fight to a finish and both sides claim to have won.

GEN. GRANT DIES IN NEW YORK

Distinguished Soldier Dies Before Medical Aid Could Reach Him

MAJ. GEN. FREDERICK D. GRANT

National honors will be paid at the funeral of Frederick D. Grant, commander of the department of the east, U. S. A., and son of Ulysses S. Grant, who died suddenly of heart failure in the Hotel Buckingham in New York. At the time of his death Gen. Grant was absent from his post on sick leave, although emphatic denial had been made of reports that he was seriously ill from the same throat ailment which caused the death of his distinguished father.

With Gen. Grant at the time of his death were only his wife and a nurse. Dr. Robert H. Abbe and Dr. Edward B. Dench arrived too late.

Gen. Grant had been secretly taken to the Buckingham by his physicians. His presence in the city was not known until the news that he had been suddenly stricken was flashed to newspaper offices by the police.

Although there had been rumors of Gen. Grant's illness and reports that he would never again take up his duties on Governor's Island, news came as a distinct shock to the public.

While no definite arrangements have been made for the funeral, Gen. Grant will be buried in the memorial cemetery of West Point. The funeral will depend on the arrival of Princess Julia Cantuzene, daughter of Gen. Grant, who is in Russia. A cablegram was sent to her telling her of her father's death. When the princess arrives the funeral will be held, and arrangements will have been made for it meantime.

PLOT TO KILL MADERO.

25 Conspirators Arrested; Also Planned to Dynamite Public Buildings.

Tremendous excitement was caused throughout Mexico by the discovery of a plot to kill President Madero and dynamite public buildings. Twenty-five arrests have been made. While the police are secretive, they admit that further arrests will be made. There is said to be a possibility that a man high in the Diaz regime may be implicated.

The majority of the prisoners are of the peon class but electrical appliances for setting off dynamite charges, found on the person of some of them, and the discovery of code messages, corroborated, in the minds of the authorities, the theory that men of the higher class were concerned.

CLARA BARTON IS DEAD

Founder of the Red Cross Society Dies at Her Home in Glen Echo, Md.

Miss Clara Barton, founder of the American Red Cross society, died at her home in Glen Echo, Md.

The cause of her death was chronic pneumonia, with which she was stricken about a year ago. Her brother, Stephen Barton, of Boston, was with her when she died.

Clara Barton was born at Oxford, Mass., in 1821. Early in the civil war she was a clerk in the patent office at Washington. Day after day she read accounts of the suffering of soldiers in camp and in hospital until she could endure no longer the heart-ache it gave her. The national military hospital department was at first quite unprepared for the task suddenly thrust upon it. At length Miss Barton resigned her clerkship to go as a volunteer unpaid nurse in hospital and on the battlefield. She likewise called on generous civilians to contribute to the relief of the soldiers.

So much good did she and her helpers do that in 1863 she was appointed to take charge of the hospital of the army in front of Richmond. She was on the field in several battles.

The road at that point runs close along the shore. A gale from the east forced huge masses of ice out of the bay, covering the tracks to a depth of eight feet. Into this obstruction the train crashed. Two coaches were derailed, but none of the passengers was injured beyond a severe shaking up.

NEWS OF MICHIGAN

Mt. Clemens.—Sitting too near the water's edge, and dividing their attention between their fishing lines and reading books, came near proving fatal to Samantha and Priscilla Duboise, twin sisters of middle age, from near New Baltimore. They came here from their home with the express intention of fishing in the Clinton river. Near the sugar factory, a mile east of the city, they pitched their camp, set their lines and, sitting upon the bank, waited patiently for a "bite." The frost having left the ground the earth was soft and while the women sat reading the bank gave way and they were precipitated into the cold stream.

Fowlerville.—Mrs. Mary Cook, wife of the local liveryman, jumped from the roof of her husband's feed barn with her year-old baby in her arms to escape death in flames which destroyed the livery and their living apartments. Mrs. Cook was seriously injured in the fall, but the baby was uninjured. The lower part of the building was ablaze before the fire was discovered. Mrs. Cook took her infant from its crib, stepped out of a window upon the roof of the one-story barn annex and leaped to the ground, a distance of 20 feet.

Kalamazoo.—Officers are puzzled over an attempt that was made to kill George Miller of Oshtemo. Miller reported to the sheriff here that during the night several bullets were shot into his house and that he narrowly escaped being hit by one. That an effort was made to kill Miller is evident, say officers, from the fact that the bullets were fired only at parts of the house where members of the Miller family were supposed to be. Miller knows of no reason why he should be attacked.

Potoskey.—Edward Coleman, a negro, was arrested by Edward O'Donnell, deputy United States marshal, and A. B. Buser, a postal inspector of St. Louis, Mo. The negro was taken before Commissioner Halstead and charged with forging the signature on a money order last November at St. Louis. In default of $2,500 bonds he was given into custody of Kent county officers until the necessary steps are taken to remove him to St. Louis.

Jackson.—Josiah T. Hammond, one of the oldest attorneys of the Jackson county bar and well known throughout the state, died at his home, 136 Maple avenue, at the age of seventy-three. He had been ill but a short time. He was born in Tecumseh, November 11, 1839, and is survived by his mother, a widow and two children. He served in the Civil war, being a member of the Twentieth Michigan infantry. For 16 years he was judge of the probate court of Jackson county.

Battle Creek.—The dedication of the new $50,000 Elks' temple and the installation of new officers took place. The following new officers took the oath of office: Exalted ruler, William R. Alden; esteemed loyal knight, Dr. S. M. Fowler; esteemed lecturing knight, Leon R. Snyder; Tyler, J. J. Crosby. Special trains from Grand Rapids and Kalamazoo brought about 200 Elks for the occasion and Elks were present from all over the state.

Grand Rapids.—The Michigan Classis of the Reformed Church of America completed its spring sessions. The new officers are: President, Rev. P. Moerdijk, South Road, Ind.; vice-president, Rev. W. T. Mullenberg, Kalamazoo; temporary secretary, Rev. H. Hondelink, Kalamazoo; Rev. G. Kooker of this city is the state clerk. The committee on religion reported an increase along all lines.

Lansing.—J. H. Teare, a representative of the United States Fuel and Supply company of Buffalo, secured permission of the public domain commission to drill for oil on the state lands in Montmorency county. In the contract it is stipulated that the state shall receive 50 and one-tenth of the output from each well.

Richmond.—Christopher Lepstreuer, aged seventy-two years, a pioneer German farmer of this place, was found dead in bed when his wife went to call him to breakfast. He had been ailing with heart trouble for several months and had just moved into his home in town.

PA WAS ON THE JURY

My pa, w'y, he has been away—
Th' shurr't's had him ever day.
An' my pa he jest had to walk
An' out an' sit an' sleep an' talk
Th' way th' shurr't he told him to,
Er they'd yanked him up, I'm tellin' you!
But th' pris'n'r man wuz out on ball
An' never went anigh th' jail.

Th' pris'n'r man he lived right well;
They don't keep him in no hotel
Hid off in rooms all by hisself.
An' search th' wardrobe an' th' shelf
To see that he don't get no notes,
Nor watch his hats an' overcoats,
So th' jury men—my pa wuz one—
They're mighty glad th' trile is done.

My pa—you see they picked him out
B'cause they hadn't any doubt
That he wuz honest an' won't lie
Ner fool nobody, hope-to-die!
An' then th' shurr't he took my pa
An' bet him 'cordin' to th' law—
But th' pris'n'r man don't haf to stay,
He can see his family ever day.

My pa he dasen't wave his hand,
Fer fear th' shurr't won't understand,
An' he dasen't look at folks he knows
Er they'd prison him then, I suppose.
An' he haf to go one place to eat—
An' march jest so along th' street—
So we're purty glad he's home again,
But he talks right cross-like now an' then.

My pa he sez th' pris'n'r men
Should sit right in th' jury pen,
With th' shurr't right there to keep 'em straight.
An' a bull'n'r, too, at th' court room gate,
An' th' jury men might be as free
As th' pris'n'r men is now, sez whiz!
Fer, he sez to ma, he sez: "Gee whiz!
It's hard to tell who th' pris'n'r is!"

HOARDED WEALTH.

"My face is my fortune, sir," she said.

"Ah! then you are two-faced," he remarked.

Leaving her to ponder over it at her leisure, he went on his way.

A Stage "Aside."

The Excitable Leading Lady, hearing footstep passing her dressing room, thought it was the irascible Stage Manager, against whom she harbored enmity.

"Say, you lobster," she called, in her sweet, cultivated accents, "I want you to—"

"Excuse me," interrupted the Producer of the Footstep, "I am not the lobster. I am only the supe."

"For, indeed, it was the young man who, each matinee and evening announced that the carriage was waiting."

His Subsequent Valuation.

"I married you for your money," she cried bitterly.

Then, by a visible effort controlling her sob, she went on, hoarsely: "And that is why you look like 30 cents to me now."

Verily, chagrin would be a great tax assessor.

Family Secrets.

"Those people in front of our cage say they are descended from us," observed the First Monkey.

"Well," commented the Second Monkey, "we are about the only ones of their ancestors that they would pay an admission to see."

Hints of Fashion.

Mr. Goodleigh—Sister Gabbagh, you don't know how much you are missing by not attending church regularly.

Miss Gabbagh—I don't miss so much as you think. I have subscribed for two fashion magazines.

A BLOOD MEDICINE WITHOUT ALCOHOL.

Recently it has been definitely proven by experiments on animals that alcohol lowers the germicidal power of the body and that alcohol paralyzes the white corpuscles of the blood and renders them unable to take up and destroy disease germs.

A blood medicine, made entirely without alcohol, which is a pure glyceric extract of roots, such as Bloodroot, Queen's root, Golden Seal root, Mandrake and Stone root, has been extensively sold by druggists for the past forty years as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. The refreshing influence of this extract is like Nature's influence—the blood is bathed in the tonic which gives life to the blood—the vital fires of the body burn brighter and their increased activity consumes the tissue rubbish which has accumulated during the winter.

Mrs. Heyes

Dr. R. V. Pierce, the founder of the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, and a physician of large experience and practice, was the first to make up an ALCOHOL-FREE EXTRACT OF ROOTS, without a particle of alcohol or narcotic.

"It is with the greatest of pleasure that I write to let you know of the great benefit I received from the use of your medicines and self-treatment at home," writes Mrs. Wm. Heyes, of Ladyman, B. C. "I suffered for three years from a running sore. Consulted four doctors but they failed to mend or give relief. Finally I was told I was in consumption and would have to consult a specialist concerning my ear, that the dead bone must be cut out before the wound would heal. A kind friend advised me to write to Dr. Pierce, which I did, and after seven months' use of the treatment the sore is healed, and I enjoy better health than I ever did. I dropped the wound with Dr. Pierce's All-Healing Salve, took the Golden Medical Discovery, and 'Pleasant Pellets' for my troubles. I shall always recommend your medicines."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate liver and bowels.

THE Astonished Ladies

Many of them have been very much astonished when they ask the price of the beautiful Trimmed Hats in the Millinery Dept. of Lyndon's store and find that he can save them from $1.00 to $3.00 on a Hat, and still get the Latest Styles and Best Braids.

How Can Lyndon Do It?

Read and you will know

HE DOES NOT have two or three high priced trimmers to pay.

HE DOES NOT depend upon it the whole year for a business.

HE DOES NOT have that store expense—light, fuel and rent—it is only one department of his store.

HE DOES NOT want to make a big profit on one hat but would rather sell two for that profit and have two pleased customers.

He wants the business and to get it he is working to please the people.

Now, ladies, you can see how Lyndon can sell
Hats at those prices.

But Does He Have the Latest Styles?

He certainly does, receiving new Hats from the East every few days, getting the latest styles, up-to-the minute. Not only that, but he will take your order for any style of Hat and get it for you at those prices.

At Lyndon's they are always glad to show their stock whether you buy or not, and he gives you all an invitation to visit this one department especially.

Going To Law

By WAIT MASON

Old Wax and I lived side by side,
And never had a row,
Until he lammed the hide,
Of my old brindle cow.

He said she ate a suit of clothes,
That hung upon his line,
And so I biffed him on the nose,
And he soaked me on mine.

We owned our homes, were out of debt,
Had money in the bank,
That day he lammed my brindle pet,
And I gave him a spank.

Awhile we stood around and cussed,
And wagged the fluent jaw,
Until surcharged with deep disgust,
We turned and went to law.

Oh, that was bum and beastly sport!
Our lawyers smooth and deft,
Conveyed the case from court to court,
And taxed us right and left.

Now at the poor house Wax and I,
Put in our fading years;
I lean on him and heave a sigh,
And he bursts into tears.

Sometimes we ramble up the road,
Where once we did our biz;
A lawyer lives in my abode,
Another lives in his.

Then to the poorhouse back we go,
And seek our cousin of straw,
And think of joys we used to know,
Before we went to law.

Almost a Miracle

One of the most startling changes ever seen in any man, according to W. B. Holsclaw, Clarendon, Tex., was effected years ago in his brother. "He had such a dreadful cough he writes that all our family thought that he was going into consumption, but he began to use Dr. King's New Discovery, and was completely cured by ten bottles. Now he is sound and weighs 218 pounds. For many years our family has used this wonderful remedy for Coughs and Colds with excellent results." It's quick, safe, reliable and guaranteed. Price 50 cents and $1.00 Trial bottle free at Brown's Drug Store.

Interesting Point.

At a spiritualistic meeting in Wichita the spirit of Elijah Crosser was called for. Elijah Crosser had died there many years before, but was remembered for his immense stature, six feet five inches. A voice in the darkness said he was Elijah. "Are you in heaven?" asked an old-timer. "Yes," came the answer. "Are you an angel, Lige?" "Yes." The questioner paused, evidently having exhausted his fund of questions, and then suddenly inquired: "What do you measure from tip to tip, Lige?"

Professional Chaperons.

In a girls' finishing school in New York they have professional chaperons who do nothing but take young women out, walk them around and fetch them back again. They take their charges to trains and meet them at trains. They are paid, not by the week or month, but by the job, so much an assignment. And the curious thing about it is that they are bonded. They are actually bonded. The girls themselves have never been able to find out why they should be bonded.

The Danger After Grip

lies often in a run-down system. Weakness, nervousness, lack of appetite, energy and ambition, with disordered liver and kidneys often follow an attack of this wretched disease. The greatest need then is Electric Bitters, the glorious tonic, blood purifier and regulator of the stomach, liver and kidneys. Thousands have proved that they have wonderfully strengthened the nerves, built up the system and restored to health and good spirits after an attack of Grip. If suffering try them. Only 50 cents. Sold and perfect satisfaction guaranteed by W. E. Brown.

Dark Problem.

There are those who are dreadfully intolerant of ignorance about New York. The other day, for instance, a lady, obviously from many hundred miles away, boarded a Broadway car at Times square. "Does this car go to Third avenue?" she asked. A look composed of equal parts of pity, rage and disgust spread over the conductor's face. "Will you please tell me, lady, how this car could get onto Third avenue?" he asked coldly, as soon as he could enunciate.

Bill the Philosopher.

Wise remark, by Bill, the Philosopher: "There's one good thing about it. Anybody who talks about himself all the time hasn't time to be a knocker."

POULTRY

TO KEEP LICE FROM POULTRY

One of Most Difficult Problems That Confronts Chicken Fancier—Proper Procedure.

(By R. G. WEATHERSTONE)

One of the most difficult problems which the poultry keeper has to meet is that of keeping his poultry houses and stock reasonably free from lice, mites and other external parasites.

In keeping a poultry plant free from lice there are two points of attack: One, the birds themselves; the other, the houses, nest boxes, roosting boards, etc.

In using any kind of lice powder on the birds themselves, it should always be remembered that a single application of powder is not sufficient. When there are lice present on a bird there are always unhatched eggs of lice ("nits") present, too. The proper procedure is to follow up a first application of powder with a second at an interval of four days to a week. If the birds are badly infested at the beginning it may be necessary to make still a third application. To clean the cracks and crevices of the woodwork of houses and nests of lice and vermin a liquid spray or paint is probably the most desirable form of application.

A splendid lice powder may be made at a cost of only a few cents a pound in the following way: Take three parts of gasoline and one part of crude carbolic acid; mix these together and add gradually with stirring, enough plaster of Paris to take up all the moisture. The liquid and the dry plaster should be thoroughly mixed and stirred so that the liquid will be uniformly distributed through the mass of plaster. When enough plaster has been added the resulting mixture should be a dry, pinkish brown powder having a fairly strong carbolic odor and a rather less pronounced gasoline odor.

Do not use more plaster in mixing than is necessary to blot up the liquid. This powder is to be worked into the feathers of the birds affected with vermin. The bulk of the application should be in the fluff around the vent and on the ventral side of the body and in the fluff under the wings. Its efficiency, which is greater than that of any other lice powder known to the writer, can be very easily demonstrated by anyone to his own satisfaction. Take a bird that is covered with lice and apply the powder in the manner just described. After a lapse of about a minute, shake the bird, loosening its feathers with the fingers at the same time, over a clean piece of paper. Dead and dying lice will drop on the paper in great numbers. Anyone who will try this experiment will have no further doubt of the wonderful efficiency and value of this powder.

For a spray or paint to be applied to roosting boards, nest boxes or walls and floor of the hen houses the following preparation is used:—3 parts of kerosene and 1 part crude carbolic acid. This is stirred up when used and may be applied with any of the hand spray pumps or with a brush. In both of these formulae it is highly important that crude carbolic acid be used instead of the purified product. Be sure and insist to the druggist on getting crude carbolic acid. It is a dark brown, dirty looking liquid, and its value depends on the fact that it contains tar oil and tar bases in addition to the pure phenol (carbolic acid).

Guineas in Winter.

The guinea fowl is a native of warm countries and has a natural fear of snow, so in the north when guineas are caught out in a snowstorm there is a good chance for trouble if we undertake to force them to walk through snow to the poultry house. The guineas will take to flight rather than wade in snow and rather than light on the ground when covered with snow they will light in trees, or if there are no trees they will light on the tops of buildings.

It saves trouble to house the guineas as soon as it is apparent that snow will cover the ground and keep them housed until the storm is past.

Dressing a Duckling.

The manager of one of the largest duck farms claims that an expert can scald and dress a duckling in ten minutes.

ELECTRICITY AS CURATIVE.

Electricity was formerly the mystic remedy of the quack, but since electrical apparatus has become so essential for X-ray work, more serious attention has been given by regular physicians to the physiological effects of this powerful agent. Among the notable results has been an electrical method of arresting the degeneration of the arteries so common in premature old age. A new announcement is that of Dr. Laborde, a French medical man, who gives details of a method of treating sciatica by ionization with sodium hyposulphite, and shows what appears to be an effective cure for a painful disease. The effects are attributed in this treatment to sulphur oxide from electrolytic decomposition instead of the direct action of the electric current itself. A thick layer of absorbent tissue saturated with a 5 per cent solution of the sodium hyposulphite was covered over a piece of tin as the negative electrode, which was placed on the rear of the thigh over the sciatic nerve. The positive pole, wet with water, was put in contact with the calf of the leg. The patient had been unable to use his legs for ten months, but after ten sittings of forty minutes he could walk a mile and recovery seems to have been complete.

Experiments at the Pasteur Institute in Paris have demonstrated that chickens can thrive without bacteria, though most vertebrates seem to require them. The experiments were made by Doctor Cohendy at the suggestion of Professor Metchnikoff. Doctor Cohendy used a sterilized incubator. He introduced three eggs which were about hatching. He sterilized them on the outside, the air apparatus was carefully filtered and all the food was perfectly sterilized. Several sets of chickens raised in this way were found after six weeks to be too big for the incubator and were taken out and compared with chickens which had been raised in the ordinary way. The tests showed that the incubator chickens were absolutely free of microbes, though after some hours of unsterilized life their digestive tubes contained thousands of them.

Physicians tell us that 65 per cent of the children in the public schools of Boston are physically defective, says the Boston Globe. The trained nurses who attend the pupils have performed good service in correcting temporary defects. Now it is proposed seriously to not only feed the hungry, but to furnish medicated baths for children suffering from skin troubles. It is also urged that more attention should be paid to school clinics by teachers and parents co-operating for that purpose. A wise medical suggestion is made that there should be less competitive work in the schools and that the pupils should be relieved of some studies, home lessons abolished and children promoted or graduated with more regard to their actual mental capacity as shown by their daily efforts.

As the output of real gold was $500,000,000 in 1911, it seems strange that some men should care to buy the imitation article in bricks, says the Chicago News. But the trouble is that if these men get $25,000 worth of real gold they have to put up $25,000 for it; while the alleged $25,000 of gold bricks can be had for a beggarly $500.

Nine people were killed in January and nearly forty maimed by automobiles in the streets of New York. In every city of any size a toll of either life or limb is demanded as the price of carelessness or speed mania on the part of motor car drivers. It is time that strict laws guarded the right of way of the pedestrian and put the burden of care on the vehicle. It is a hardship not to be tolerated in these times of law, order and equal rights that the pleasure of a few should exact this toll from the many.

Painting and sculpture are conducive to long life. Yet music kills men young. Schubert, with all his wealth of song, died at 31; Mozart, who danced and laughed his melodies into being, died at 35, the same age as Bellini; Bizet, the composer of "Carmen," died, like Purcell, at 37; Mendelssohn survived to 38; Chopin, who loved life so well, had done with it at 39, while Weber expired at the age of 40 and Schuman at 46. But Verdi lived and flourished as a nonagenarian.

Russia threatens to retaliate by ceasing to purchase American-made sewing machines. This leaves us helpless. We can't get even by refusing to consume Russian caviar, because our entire supply comes from Sardusky, Ohio.

A Boston social scientist wants women to do the proposing. This will be a terrible strain on the remnant of male chivalry which is left in these sneaky times.

LEVY WON'T SELL

He Declines to Let Uncle Sam Buy Monticello.

IT WAS HOME OF JEFFERSON

Preparations for Unveiling of Columbus Memorial on Union Station Plaza in Washington—Rubey's Good Roads Plan.

By GEORGE CLINTON.

Washington.—There is a bill in congress providing for the purchase of Monticello, the home of Thomas Jefferson. The government lost the place many years ago, and the present owner declares he does not wish to sell the property to Uncle Sam or anyone else.

The wife of Representative Martin W. Littleton of New York has written much about Monticello with a view to arousing enthusiasm for its purchase. She wrote a little book called "One Wish" not long ago, and to this she intends to add a chapter to increase the sentiment in favor of government ownership of the old Virginia residence of the third president.

The new chapter in Mrs. Littleton's book shows how the government once lost Monticello. It appears that Commodore Uriah P. Levy, a descendant of Jefferson on the female side, purchased the estate at auction following the death of the great American, and later willed the property to the United States. Relatives interposed, took the matter into court, and managed to break the will, and in this way the famous property came into the possession of Jefferson M. Levy of New York, a nephew of Commodore Levy, and now a representative in congress from the Empire state.

Will Honor Columbus' Memory.
The Knights of Columbus have been holding a quarterly meeting in the city of Washington. They prepared to take part in the ceremonies of the unveiling of the statue of Christopher Columbus, which will stand on the plaza of the new Union station. There are to be elaborate ceremonies in Washington when the Columbus memorial is unveiled in a few weeks' time. The Knights of Columbus will have 25,000 men in line in full regalia, with scores of floats, elaborate and historical, depicting incidents in connection with the discovery of America by the great Italian who sailed under Spanish colors.

Other organizations, of course, will take part. The navy and the army will help in the ceremonies, and there will be an address by the president of the United States.

Rubey's Good Roads Bill.
Representative Rubey of Missouri has introduced a bill into congress "to distribute the surplus in the treasury of the United States to the several states, territories and the District of Columbia for the sole purpose of improving the roads therein." The measure is introduced by Mr. Rubey makes it the duty of the secretary of the treasury at the end of each fiscal year to take an account of all the funds under his charge and after deducting from the sum the amount required by law to be kept in the treasury, to declare the remainder, if any, a surplus for which immediate provision shall be made to distribute in a sum not exceeding $25,000,000 annually on a per capita basis to the states and territories and District of Columbia for the improvement of the postal roads.

There is not very much chance that the Rubey bill will become a law, even though it avoids constitutional difficulties by making the money available only for roads which are used by the government for postal purposes. The interest in good roads, however, has been spurred recently in congress.

Uncle Sam's Relics.
Uncle Sam is a hoarder of relics and a collector of curios. He has one advantage over private collectors in that people know what zealous care he exercises to preserve things and how willing he is to give credit where credit is due. So it is that many holders of things historic present them to Uncle Sam, certain that they will be spread before the gaze of the admiring thousands with the name of the donor attached in large letters set up and printed after the best manner of the government composing room and printery.

Sometimes, however, Uncle Sam has to buy something and preliminary to doing it he tries to find out how much it is to cost and if there is any chance of getting it for nothing. Sometime ago, for instance, he negotiated with a Portland, Ore., man for the purchase at the price of $500 of a manuscript order book, once the property of Gen. Arthur Saint Clair, who was governor of the Western Territory and commander of its military forces during the administrations of Presidents Washington and Adams. Uncle Sam gets his money to buy manuscripts from the secretary of the treasury after congress by joint resolution has given him permission to make the purchase.

Had Grant's Field Orders.
It is said in Washington that in the city of Utica, N. Y., there is an historic treasure which surpasses in interest a mere order book of Arthur Saint Clair, sterling soldier though he was. There died recently in Utica a man who owned scores of General Grant's field orders, written entirely in the general's own hand, and every one bearing the signature of the general of the United States army. Grant, it is said, wrote these various orders and dispatches and gave them to his telegraph operator to put in cipher and transmit over the wires. The operator did the translating and transmitting and then naturally, knowing the probable future value of the material, did not destroy the originals, but put them in a safe place where no unauthorized person could see them, and kept possession of them until long after the war.

From time to time it is said that this operator disposed of some of the original Grant manuscripts to William Blakie, who was a well-known druggist of Utica and who is now dead, his heirs presumably having the Grant papers. Among these documents it is said is Grant's despatch congratulating Sherman on the capture of Savannah and on the end of his march to the sea. Nearly all the despatches to Sheridan in the Shenandoah Valley are there and also the despatch to Abraham Lincoln telling him that General Weitzel had entered Richmond, and that the army was following.

Congress is likely to pass a bill which will enable the government to send the National Guard regiments of the states out of the country if their services there should be necessary as an auxiliary to the army. The regular army officers want the law to read so that the National Guard shall become a part of the regular force to be officered by regulars, but the National Guardsmen are opposed to this, and if the bill is passed it probably will provide that the state troops shall preserve their identity and go out with their own officers. The Mexican situation has been instrumental in securing immediate attention for several army measures, this militia bill being included.

Seek to Save Wild Fowl.
Representative Anthony of Kansas, representing the west, and Representative Weeks of Massachusetts, representing the east, have introduced into congress two bills to save the wild fowl of the United States, which under the onslaught of the gunners are likely before long to be exterminated. Years ago it was thought that the wild ducks, the geese, the brant, the snipe, the quail and the other game birds were so plentiful in the United States that the supply never would be exhausted, but today it is a different tale and the fear of the sportsmen and bird lovers is that posterity will know of many of the game birds of America only by tradition.

It must be remembered that the United States has control in the individual states only in certain matters, largely matters which affect interstate commerce. The Weeks and Anthony bills both are based on the right of Uncle Sam to regulate the commerce of the United States. Migratory birds fly from one state to another. Hence by what is perhaps a seeming stretch of the constitution some of the legislators think that they have the right to bring the birds under federal control.

Need of Protection Not Denied.
No Democrat or Republican has been found in congress to deny that the migratory birds need protection. They start on their northward journey in the spring just prior to the mating season, many of them in fact mating on the way, and all along the line of flight in, on and over upland, marsh and forest, they are made targets of double-barrel and repeating shotguns.

For years sportsmen of the proper spirit and the bird protective organizations have tried to induce the legislatures of the different states to pass laws prohibiting spring shooting. If a law of this kind had been passed by every state ten years ago and enforced, Uncle Sam would not feel today the necessity of becoming a game warden for the country. Spring shooting is recognized by everybody who knows anything about bird life as an evil. Several states have forbidden the killing of migratory birds during the time of the northern flight, but other states have refused to stop the spring slaughter, the refusal being due in most cases to the pressure brought to bear on the legislators by the appeals of hunters. Some real sportsmen have held that with the spring shooting cut out there would be no shooting at all in their sections of the country.

Why the Bills Are Opposed.
There is considerable opposition in congress to the passage of either bill to give the federal authorities power to protect the game. The opposition springs from the belief of some of the members that either law proposed would constitute an "invasion of state rights." The necessity of the law is admitted, but its constitutionality is doubted. It is held generally, however, that unless Uncle Sam does act and the states rights quibble is dropped, there will in a decade be few birds to protect.

Representative Anthony has said that if congress thinks that the bill of Mr. Weeks is better than his bill, he hopes that it will be accepted and passed. The Kansas man's bill fixes a closed season for game in all parts of the United States from January 10 to August 15 of each year and provides a penalty of not less than $100 or more than $1,000 for a violation of the act.

Seemingly the Weeks measure, from the sportsman's and the bird protector's point of view, is preferable. It permits members of the biological survey of the department of agriculture to fix various periods of non-shooting in different parts of the country in accordance with the known flight habits of the birds.

A Wild Guess.
"Why do you consider this play artistic?"
"It is so deadly dull that it must be artistic or they wouldn't be playing it."

OUTRAGES IN MEXICO MUST STOP AT ONCE

STRONG REPRESENTATIONS TO MADERO GOVERNMENT MADE BY STATE DEPARTMENT.

UNITED STATES WON'T TOLERATE MORE BRUTALITY.

Will Not Under Any Circumstances Recognize Belligerency of Insurgents or Permit Escape of Leaders.

The state department has made strong representations to the Madero government against Orozco, the Mexican rebel leader. President Madero has been given to understand that this government may not longer tolerate the brutal treatment of innocent Americans, the killing of American citizens, the rifling of American mails and other insults to this government on the part of Orozco and his followers.

Fountain Killing a Murder.

In presenting to Madero the case of Albert Fountain, an enlisted soldier who was captured and assassinated, Mr. Heberlin, an American mining engineer, who was taken prisoner, and a number of other cases, the state department declared that the recognized government must be held responsible for these outrages. Madero has been informed that the killing of Fountain was nothing less than a cold-blooded, premeditated murder.

The Mexican government has been asked to try Orozco on the charge of murder in the Fountain case and if Orozco is ever found in the United States he will be arrested on that charge and returned to Mexico under a demand for trial.

Congressman Jefferson M. Levy has no intention of selling Monticello, once the home of Thomas Jefferson, to the government or any one else. The idea of the purchase of Monticello by the government, recently proposed by patriotic societies in Washington, is distasteful to him, he declares.

Good roads as a means of promoting courtship in the rural districts were advocated by Bishop Samuel Fallows, in an address before the Illinois women's state good roads convention, in Chicago. "Good roads are necessary first to make courtship easy," he said. "After courtship comes the home and the home supports the church. So you see that the matter of good roads is really of great importance."

The sugar beet has more enemies than any other important agricultural produce of the country. In the south flea beetles and blister beetles attack it; in the states from Michigan to Kansas the grasshopper, and in other sections the white grub, the curly top leafhopper, the web worm, the wire worm, the beet army worm and the beet aphid. The department of agriculture estimates that the annual loss to the sugar beet growers from insect pests runs from $5,000,000 to $10,000,000. The department is conducting experiments to find means of preventing this loss.

A Chicago family which employs as its butler an old-fashioned negro was constantly annoyed by the doorman of the house getting out of order. On several occasions an electrician who used some sort of white powder in his work, had been called in to fix the bell.

One evening when there were guests at dinner, one of them complained of a sore throat. The mistress of the house turned to the butler and said:

"Sam, when dinner is over, go to the drug store and get a small bottle of Dobell's solution."

"Before de Lawd!" exclaimed the negro in genuine distress. "Is dat do'bell out of ordah ag'in?"—Popular Magazine.

COFFEE HURTS
One in Three.

It is difficult to make people believe that coffee is a poison to at least one person out of every three, but people are slowly finding it out, although thousands of them suffer terribly before they discover the fact.

A New York hotel man says: "Each time after drinking coffee I became restless, nervous and excited, so that I was unable to sit five minutes in one place, was also inclined to vomit and suffer from loss of sleep, which got worse and worse."

"A lady said that perhaps coffee was the cause of my trouble, and suggested that I try Postum. I laughed at the thought that coffee hurt me, but she insisted so hard that I finally had some Postum made. I have been using it in place of coffee ever since, for I noticed that all my former nervousness and irritation disappeared. I began to sleep perfectly, and the Postum tasted as good or better than the old coffee, so what was the use of sticking to a beverage that was injuring me?"

"One day on an excursion up the country I remarked to a young lady friend on her greatly improved appearance. She explained that some time before she had quit using coffee and taken to Postum. She had gained a number of pounds and her former pallidness of the face, huming in the ears, trembling of the hands and legs and other disagreeable feelings had disappeared. She recommended me to quit coffee and take Postum and was very much surprised to find that I had already made the change."

"She said her brother had also received great benefits from leaving off coffee and taking on Postum." "There's reason."

SYNOPSIS.

Richard Lightout, an American with an affected English accent, receives a present from a friend in China. The present proves to be a pair of pajamas. A letter hints of a surprise to the wearer. Lightout dons the pajamas and late at night gets up for a smoke. His servant, Jenkins, comes in and, failing to recognize Lightout, attempts to put him out. Thinking the servant crazy, Lightout changes his clothes intending to summon help. When he reappears, Jenkins falls on his neck with joy, confirming Lightout's belief that he is crazy. Jenkins tells Lightout of the encounter he had with a hideous Chinaman dressed in pajamas. In a message from his friend, Jack Billings, Lightout is asked to put up "the kid" for the night on his way home from college. Later Lightout finds a beautiful girl in black pajamas in his room. Lightout is shocked by the girl's drinking, smoking and stinky talk.

CHAPTER VII.—(Continued.)

And just then my upward reaching hand found hers. And yet no, it couldn't be her hand, either; it felt like the crash cover of the cushion—rough and fibrous. And yet, by Jove, it was a hand, for it gave mine a grip that almost broke my fingers and then dropped them. By the time I looked up, I saw only her little palm resting upward on her knee.

It was funny; but I had other things to think about than puzzles.

She sighed. "Well, I'm the one that can feel for you, Dicky." Here the sigh lifted and her laugh pealed like a chime of silver bells. "I guess Brother Jack doesn't know as much about your affairs as he thinks, does he—eh? Why, he told me you were more afraid of a girl than of a mad dog."

And a slapping grip fell on my shoulder that made me tingle from head to foot. And yet I wished she wouldn't do that; if she did it again, I should just lose my head—I knew I should.

But here she rose, stretched her arms, and dropped into the wicker arm-chair. She hitched it nearer to me.

"You see, it's like this," she began, assuming a confidential air. "You know my sister's up at school at Cambridge, too."

"At Radcliffe college—yes," I nodded.

"Why, yes. Well, it's her room-mate."

"Eh? I don't believe I—" I paused perplexedly.

"That's right—her room-mate, I tell you! And in a day or two she's coming home with Sis for a visit. I want you to come up for a week end—won't you—and look her over—I mean, see her and tell me what you think of her. You'll go crazy about her—oh, I know you will!"

I entered a protest. "Oh, I say now, you know, there's only one girl I ever saw I would care to look at twice."

She smiled adorably. "Oh, don't I know all about how you feel? But I just want you to see this girl—she's the prettiest and sweetest that's been around Boston for many a day; and on Sunday morning she could give the flag to all the avenue. Why, Dicky, she's from China!"

"China!" I must have looked the scorn I felt. "Oh, come now, you don't think a Chinese girl is—"

"Not Chinese, Dicky." In her eagerness, she moved so near, the silk of her pajamas brushed my hand. "She's English. Her dad's the British Governor General of Hong Kong—Colonel Francis Kirkland, you know—beefy-looking old chap with white mutton chops—I saw his picture."

"Hong Kong!" I wondered if she knew Mastermann, the chap who had sent me the red pajamas. Why, dash it, of course she would; for this fellow Mastermann was out there on government business, and he and the governor must be thrown together a good deal.

Her musical laugh broke in on my speculations. "But the funniest thing is, Dicky, her name's the same as mine."

Her name! By Jove, and until this moment, I had not thought—

"Oh, I say," I exclaimed eagerly, "what is your name, anyway?"

The lustrous eyes opened wide. "Why, you mean to say you don't know? Thought you knew I was named after the governor. And she's named after hers—Frances, from Francis, you know—just the difference in a letter. See?"

"Frances!" I murmured lingeringly. "So your name's Frances?"

"Yes, and here is Frances—odd, isn't it?"

I assented, but I wished she would drop the other girl—I wasn't interested there, except just because she was.

Her bosom lifted with a sigh. "Don't you think Frances is a peach of a name?"

"It's heavenly!" I whispered. "And I'm glad to hear about your friend, too."

Her sweet face clouded. "Not much of a friend; she don't lose any sleep over me," she commented gloomily. "Then there's Sis double-crossing me with her influence ever since I got hauled up before Proxy at Easter. Sis is awfully plucky."

Her tone was almost savage. I strained incredulously after her meaning.

"Did I understand you to say you were brought up before the president there at Radcliffe?"

"Radcliffe?" Her head shook. "No—Harvard." And I nodded, recalling the affiliation between the two institutions at Cambridge.

She sighed and her beautiful lashes drooped sadly. By Jove, I was so jolly floored I couldn't manage a word. I knew, of course, that my heart was broken, but it didn't matter. I loved her just the same; I should always love her; and she had tried to let me know she loved me better than any man she had ever met. What the deuce did anything else matter, anyhow? We would marry and go out on a ranch or something of that sort, where the false, polished what-you-call-it civilization didn't count, and no rude rebuff or sneer of society would ever chill her warm impulsiveness.

She smiled archly. "See here, Dicky, I thought we were going to tell each other the story of our lives. Your turn now; tell me how she looks to you, this girl that came at last—there's always the one girl comes at last, they say, if you wait long enough. Go on—tell me—what's she like?"

"Of course, you don't know!" I said significantly.

"Me? Of course I wouldn't know—I want you to tell me. Say, is she really so pretty?"

"Pretty," indeed! It was like this adorable child of nature not to understand that she was the most perfect and faultless creation on earth! I leaned toward her. "Is she pretty?" I repeated reproachfully.

She eyed me slyly.

"Oh, of course I know how you feel," she said, "but draw me a picture of her."

"A picture!" I laughed. "All right, here goes: Eighteen, a daughter of the gods, divinely tall and most divinely fair—that sort of thing. Features classic—perfect oval, you know, and profile to set an artist mad with joy. Eyes? Blue as Hebe's, but big and true and tender; hair, a great, shining nugget of virgin gold. Form divine—the ideal of a poet's dream—the alluring, the elusive, the unattainable, the despair of the sculptor's chisel."

"My!" said Miss Billings, starting.

But I was not through. "Complexion? Her skin as smooth as the heart of a seashell and as delicately warm as its rosy blush when kissed by the amorous tide."

"Gee!" ejaculated my darling.

I looked at her closely. "And in one matchless cheek a dimple divine such as might have been left by the barbed arrow of Cupid when it awoke Psyche from her swoon of death. In short, she might be the dainty fairy princess of our childhood fantasies, were she less superb in figure. On the other hand, she might be the sunny-haired daughter of a Viking king, were she not too delicately featured and molded."

That was all I could remember from the description as I had read it in a novel, but I was glad I had stored it up, by Jove, for it suited her to a dot. She didn't say a word for a moment, but just sat there eying me kind of sidewise, her little upper lip lifted in an odd way. Then of a sudden she shook her head and swung her knees up over the arm of her chair.

"Well, Dicky, as a describer you sure are the stushy spreader. Say, you've got Eleanor Glyn backed off the boards."

She went on eagerly: "I don't care, though; slushy or no, your picture's just perfect for her. Why, your girl must be a ringer for the girl at Radcliffe. Only thing you left out was the freckle on the chin."

Freckle on the chin! By Jove, I left it out on purpose, for I thought she might not like it. I wondered if all girls at Radcliffe had freckles on the chin.

She lay back, regarding me inscrutinably. "If she looks like that," she sighed, "you ought to love her very much, Dicky."

I couldn't say anything, for words are so deuced inadequate, you know. But I just made an effort to look it all. "Of course," sighing, "you ought to feel that way; and, another thing, Dicky, you'll never forget where you first saw her, will you? One of the things one never forgets."

"Right in this room," I murmured; "and in that wicker chair."

"Really?" Her surprised ejaculation was delicious. By Jove, how entrancingly coquettish of her! How jolly clever!

"Go on; tell me how she was dressed—never mind any more picture business; just tell me in four or five words. Bet you can't do it!" She slipped over again to the arm of my chair.

In her eyes was a challenge and I took it up.

"In black silk pajamas," I said daintily.

Her blue eyes opened wide. For a moment I feared she would be offended at my audacity, but her birdlike carol of laughter reassured me.

"Say, you're not so slow, are you?"

And her hand came down on my back with a force that made me jumpy.

"Only shows," she gurgled merrily, "how little Jack knows about you. Say, you'd better never tell him about those black pajamas!"

She spoke chokingly through a storm of laughter as she rocked there against my shoulder.

"And say—the joke of it!" She banged me on the back with a clublike blow, incredible from that little hand. "The joke of it is, he thought I'd be so safe with you! Oh, mamma!"

And off she went again.

"But I'll never say a word, Dicky," she said, coming out of her laughter and panting breathlessly.

"Never! And don't you, Dicky, don't you ever! Understand? Mum's the word!"

"But—"

"Oh, but me no 'buts'—promise!"

"Why, then—er—of course, if you wish it."

"That's right, because I want to come again—that is, if you want me. But if Brother Jack was on to you, Dicky, as I am, he would sooner have me at a hotel, that's all."

"But my dear Frances—"

"I tell you I know, Dicky; he doesn't approve of young ladies in pajamas." She chuckled. "Not even black ones."

of questionable taste to present them to her attention.

"Great idea, this, having pajamas in your college colors," she said. I thought so, too, as I noted admiringly the rich effect of her golden head above the black silk. But I thought the color a devilish odd one—somber, you know—for colors of a young girl's school.

"My! my!" she murmured, "wouldn't I just love to live in pajamas—just go about in 'em all the time, you know! Why can't we, I wonder?" Her face flashed me a ravishing smile; and while I was blinking over her question, she went on: "Funny how the girls even are taking to 'em—even Sis wears 'em!" She chuckled. "Here are gray flannellette. But the girl I'm telling you about—she don't; Sis told the mater about it. It seems that before she left China, some high muck-muck gave her governor a swell pair of silk ones—something like these, I guess, but I don't know of what color. But, anyhow, they were too delicate and fine to be wasted on an old stiff like that, and he had sense enough to know it. So he passed 'em down the line to her—Frances, you know. Well, sir—" Here she sidled to the table and half leaned, half perched, upon its edge; and I was so distracted watching her graceful poise and gestures, that I lost what she was saying, by Jove.

It was her trill of laughter at something she had said, and the question:

"Keep it Dark."

"Wasn't that funny?" that brought me back to what she was telling me.

"Yes, sir—said she just scared her maid—oh, batty! Because she looked so ugly in 'em—that's what she thinks, but of course—shucks! Anyhow, she never wore 'em any more, and a day or two later some coolie stole them—sold 'em probably."

Suddenly she yawned, stretched her arms above her head, and flashed me a dazzling smile. By Jove, in the loose-fitting garments she looked for all the world like an Oriental houri, or some jolly lovely thing like that.

"Gee, but I'm sleepy!" she said behind her little hand. "If you'll excuse me, Dicky, I believe it will be off to the springs—the bed springs, for little Frankie. Good night, then. See you in the morning."

And with another radiant smile, she moved toward her room.

"Good night," I said wistfully.

By Jove, somehow I had hoped she would offer to kiss me, now that we were engaged in a way. But then, of course, it wouldn't do—she knew that. So I ought I. Perhaps in the morning at the boat!

But all in vain my early rise the next morning, my careful toilet and my dash in a taxi to a florist and then to Tiffany's for a ring. At the pier I dodged about in the crowd, the boy trailing behind me with the big purple box, but not a devilish thing could I see of Frances. By Jove, I almost broke my monocle straining! At last I was sure she must be left, for the last passengers were passing over the gang-plank.

"Hello, Dicky!"

The voice, coarse and hearty, came from an athletic young man in a hurrah suit. On his head, perched jauntily above a mass of yellow hair, was a straw hat with a crimson band.

I stared at him through my glass, but it was any one I knew at all. I looked at him coldly, for there's nothing so devilish annoying as familiarities from strangers. I thought I could freeze him off.

But he only grinned. "Looking for Miss Billings?"

"I haven't seen her," I answered stiffly. But his question alarmed me.

He chuckled in my face. "Guess you don't know her in her clothes, eh, Dicky?" And I did not need the punch he gave me in the side to make me stagger backward. "A thousand thanks, and good-by, old chap. I see they're hauling in the plank."

He lingered for one bearlike grab at my hand.

"And say, don't forget—for I know Jack Billings better than you do—don't ever let him know about all that Scotch last night."

He called over his shoulder with a grin: "Keep it dark—as dark as those black pajamas, Dicky!"

And as long as I could see, he stood on the deck, waving his hat at me, as I stood here with my mouth open, my eyes following him with horror.

By Jove, who was he, and what did he know?

Busy All the Time.

Little Howard came in the other day crying and rubbing several bumps, caused by a series of butts administered by a pet sheep.

"Well, Howard," said his sympathetic auntie, "what did you do when the sheep knocked you down?"

"I didn't do anything. I was getting up all the time."—National Monthly.

Probably Made a Hit.

A young woman who presides over one of the kindergarten schools of Cambridge appeared at her desk recently attired in a new close-fitting skirt. With no thought other than the conducting of her regular routine work, the teacher went about her duties. She noticed, however, that one of her charges was paying little attention to his work, but following her with his eyes wherever she changed to go. Approaching the little fellow with the intention of ascertaining the trouble, she said: "Well, Tommy— Before she could go any further the youngster shook his boyish head and said: "Say, teacher, that's a classy skirt you've got on!"—Boston Post.

Marie Tempest's Nose.

At the Lenten musicale at the Waldorf-Astoria a young matron related a bon-mot of Marie Tempest's.

"Miss Tempest's nose is frightfully pug, isn't it?" she began. "Well, I met her at a tea once, and she joked about her nose as if it belonged to someone else.

"When the Creator," she said, "was looking for a nose for me he took, you see, the first one that turned up."

PIMPLES ON FACE 3 YEARS

"I was troubled with acne for three long years. My face was the only part affected, but it caused great disfigurement, also suffering and loss of sleep. At first there appeared red, hard pimples which later contained white matter. I suffered a great deal caused by the itching. I was in a state of perplexity when walking the streets or anywhere before the public.

"I used pills and other remedies but they failed completely. I thought of giving up when nothing would help, but something told me to try the Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I sent for a Cuticura Booklet which I read carefully. Then I bought some Cuticura Soap and Ointment and by following the directions I was relieved in a few days. I used Cuticura Soap for washing my face, and applied the Cuticura Ointment morning and evening. This treatment brought marvelous results so I continued with it for a few weeks and was cured completely. I can truthfully say that the Cuticura Remedies are not only all, but more than they claim to be." (Signed) G. Baume, 1015 W. 20th Place, Chicago, Ill., May 28, 1911. Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold by druggists and dealers everywhere, a sample of each, with 32-page book, will be mailed free on application to "Cuticura," Dept. J, Boston.

The Marquis of Queensberry, apropos of the long sentence of Foulke E. Brandt, said at a dinner in New York: "It reminds me of an incident in London. A certain peer drove in a taxicab to Westminster and, when he got out, gave the driver a very small tip.

"The driver mistook him for a member of the house of commons and snarled:

"I hope you get turned out next election and don't never get in again!"

"Don't worry, my friend," said the peer, as he set off for the house of lords. "Don't worry—I'm in for life."

WHAT WILL CURE MY BACK?

Common sense will do more to cure backache than anything else. "Will tell you whether the kidneys are sore, swollen and aching. It will tell you in that case that there is no use trying to cure it with a plaster. If the passages are scant or too frequent, proof that there is kidney trouble is complete. Then common sense will tell you to use Doan's Kidney Pills, the best recommended special kidney remedy.

king, were she not too delicately featured and molded."

That was all I could remember from the description as I had read it in a novel, but I was glad I had stored it up, by Jove, for it suited her to a dot. She didn't say a word for a moment, but just sat there eying me kind of sidewise, her little upper lip lifted in an odd way. Then of a sudden she shook her head and swung her knees up over the arm of her chair.

"Well, Dicky, as a describer you sure are the stushy spreader. Say,

She stood up, looking at herself and performing a graceful pirouette before the long pier glass.

Women

From Forty-Five to Fifty Are Much Benefited by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

The "change of life" is a most critical period in a woman's existence, and the anxiety felt by women as it draws near is not without reason.

When her system is in a deranged condition, she may be predisposed to apoplexy, or congestion of some organ. At this time, also, cancers and tumors are more liable to form and begin their destructive work.

Such warning symptoms as sense of suffocation, hot flashes, headaches, backaches, dread of impending evil, timidity, sounds in the ears, palpitation of the heart, sparks before the eyes, irregularities, constipation, variable appetite, weakness and inquietude, and dizziness, are promptly heeded by intelligent women who are approaching the period in life when woman's great change may be expected.

Mrs. Estella Gillispie

ONE CASE OUT OF MANY TO PROVE OUR CLAIMS.

St. Anne, Ill.—"I was passing through the change of life and I was a perfect wreck from female troubles. I had a displacement and bearing down pains, weak fainting spells, dizziness, then numb and cold feelings. Sometimes my feet and limbs were swollen. I was irregular and had so much backache and headache, was nervous, irritable and was despondent. Sometimes my appetite was good but more often it was not. My kidneys troubled me at times and I could walk only a short distance.

"I saw your advertisement in a paper and took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I was helped from the first. At the end of two months the swelling had gone down, I was relieved of pain, and could walk with ease. I continued with the medicine and now I do almost all my housework. I know your medicine has saved me from the grave and I am willing for you to publish anything I write to you, for the good of others."—Mrs. ESTELLA GILLISPIE, R.F.D. No. 4, Box 24, St. Anne, Illinois.

These symptoms are calls from nature for help. The nerves are crying out for assistance and the cry should be heeded in time.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is prepared to meet the needs of women's system at this trying period of her life. It invigorates and strengthens the female organism and builds up the weakened nervous system. It has carried many women safely through this crisis.

Many an automobile drives straight from the dealer into the "For Sale" columns of the newspaper. High Up-keep is the name of the chauffeur, but he never drives a Ford Model
"T."

On a gallon of fuel, the Ford can run from 20 to 25 miles; on a single set of tires the Ford can run from 5,000 to 10,000 miles, and on its strong chassis of vanadium, the Ford can go anywhere, anytime, everytime, and all the time.

This matter of up-keep is one of the biggest factors to consider in buying your car. It will pay you to get the Ford figures and compare them with others, also to get in touch with some of your neighbors who drive Fords—some of the more than 100,000 satisfied owners.

Ford branches and dealers in all cities, towns, and villages are at your elbow with Ford service for Ford owners.
