Marcus Crippen

Marcus Crippen was born in Washtenaw county, Mich., June 12, 1832 and died at his home in Pinckney May 24, 1912, aged 79 years, 11 months and 12 days. He was a son of Ichabod and Betsy Crippen.

Early in life he was united in marriage to Miss Mary Ann Martin of Ireland, and to this union were born four children: George, Ichabod, Marcus Robert and John Thomas, the first three of whom, with their mother, preceded him to the better land.

He was united in marriage to Martha M. Gawley, January 1st, 1864, and to this union were born three children: Mrs. Alice Golden of Elsie, Mich., Fred of the U. S. army, Linas S. of Detroit, all of whom, with their mother, and J. T. of Detroit, are left to mourn their loss.

In young manhood he was converted and united with the M. E. church and has continued a faithful member, holding at different times, the office of S. S. Supt. Besides the immediate family he is survived by one sister, Mrs. Phebe Martin of Ann Arbor, and four grandchildren: Harry Crippen and John T. Jr., of Detroit, and Eleanor and Ruth Golden of Elsie. A number of nephews and a large circle of friends will also cherish his memory.

The funeral services were conducted by his pastor, Rev. A. Balgooyan, at his late home, Sunday afternoon, May 26, and he was laid to rest in the Pinckney cemetery.

Those of the friends from out of town who attended the funeral were: John T. Crippen and Mrs. Linas Crippen of Detroit; Mrs. Alice Golden and daughter of Elsie; Robt. Martin and wife, Robt. Martin Jr. and wife, Miss Gracia Martin, Chester Martin and wife of Ann Arbor; C. Burrell and wife, Robt. Lambie and wife, Mrs. James Rice of Ypsilanti.

Parcels Post Abroad

Pursuant to a senate resolution, the state department has gathered reports on the operation of the parcels post from thirty-four nations which pretty nearly cover the earth, excluding the United States. The reports include "specific information as to whether shop keepers in small towns claim that the parcels post militates against them and in favor of the large department or city store." The reports disclose hostility to the parcels post on the part of country merchants in only one country—Peru. In a great majority of cases reports say the country retailer is benefited. English country retailers some years ago protested when it was proposed that the postoffices do a "collection-delivery" business—transporting the parcel and collecting the bill for it; but the bald statement sometimes heard that parcels post has vastly injured country retailers in England and Germany is unsupported by evidence. True, our conditions of retailing are not just like those in any other country; but are they so radically different that what is beneficial elsewhere would be ruinous in the United States.—Saturday Evening Post.

Card of Thanks

Miss Mary L. Sprout wishes to thank the kind friends from whom she received the shower of lovely postal cards. It was a very pleasant surprise, which was greatly appreciated and surely helped to brighten the tedious monotony of her life.

The Glow of the Rubies

SYNOPSIS.

Richard Lightnut, an American with an affected English accent, receives a present from a friend in China. The present proves to be a pair of pajamas. A letter hints of surprise to the wearer. Lightnut dons the pajamas and late at night gets up for a smoke. His servant, Jenkins, comes in and, failing to recognize Lightnut, attempts to put him out. Thinking the servant crazy, Lightnut changes his clothes intending to summon help. When he reappears Jenkins falls on his neck with joy, confirming Lightnut's belief that he is crazy. Jenkins tells Lightnut of the encounter he had with a hideous Chinaman dressed in pajamas. In a message from his friend, Jack Billings, Lightnut is asked to put up "the kid" for the night on his way home from college. Later Lightnut finds a beautiful girl in black pajamas in his room. Lightnut is shocked by the girl's drinking, smoking and slangy talk. She tells him her name is Frances and puzzles him with a story of her love for her sister's room-mate, named Frances. Next morning the girl is missing and Lightnut hurries to the boat to see her off. He is accosted by a husky college boy, who calls him "Dicky," but he does not see the girl. Jack Billings calls to spend the night with Lightnut. They discover priceless rubies hidden in the buttons of the pajamas. Billings dons the pajamas and retires. Lightnut later discovers in his apartment a beefy person in mutton-chop whiskers and wearing pajamas. Jenkins calls the police, who declare the intruder to be a criminal, called "Foxy Grandpa." The intruder declares he is Lightnut's guest and appeals to the latter to vouch for him. Lightnut is astonished to find Billings gone, and more astonished when he gets a message from the latter, demanding his clothes. Lightnut, bound for Tarrytown, Billings' home, discovers "Frances," the girl of the pajamas, on the train. Lightnut speaks to her and alludes to the night before. She declares indignantly that Lightnut never saw her in black pajamas. At Tarrytown Frances is met by a husky college youth, who calls Lightnut "Dicky." The latter is notified by the boy who then threatens to thrash him for offending Frances. Lightnut takes the next train home.

I Swung Aboard.

"Lightnut!" he called. I just stared up at the castle on the hill. I felt devilish annoyed, though. I recalled a conversation the other day at the club in which Van Dyne remarked that the intimacy affected now by chauffeurs was growing inausferable. Declared his man had asked him for a light that morning.

The fellow stared a little; then he came toward me, smirking in a jocular, impertinent way.

"Say, stop your kidding, old man," he muttered; "girls have no sense of humor, you know. Come along—I've just been telling them you are my best friend."

I stole another look at the car, but Frances avoided me; so I came to a decision. I turned shortly on the driver.

"See here now, my good fellow," I said sharply, "you stop subjecting those ladies to annoyance. Drive on, or I'll report you to my friends."

He stared—seemed to be trying to stare me out of countenance, in fact.

"Why, Dicky!" he exclaimed in an aggrieved tone, "don't you remember me—don't you know me?"

"I certainly do not," I answered with decision. I felt my face getting red with vexation. "And what's more, my name is not 'Dicky.'"

His hand slowly swept his chin and he whistled.

"Wha— Well, I'll be jiggered!" He whirled toward the car.

"On me, this time, I guess! You're right!"

Then his face clouded and he moved down upon me.

"Here, you get along now about your business, whoever you are!" His hand waved as though sweeping me away. "I've a mind to kick you for annoying that young lady."

He looked toward Frances and I could see he was showing off. But I thought she looked a bit disgusted. As for the frump, she suddenly opened the door, stepped down and then up again, but this time behind the steering wheel.

"If you don't come on, I'm going," she said quietly.

"Just a minute," he said, scowling back at her. He faced me.

"Look here, if I hit you once—the leveled his finger—"well, they'll have to piss you up with a sponge, that's all!"

to catch my darling's eye at last just as they curved. And, by Jove, she looked amused—and pleased.

As for the frump, she frankly and harshly laughed, and then moved up a speed, just as a south-bound express took the station.

And I swung aboard it, back for little old New York. Didn't see what the chauffeur did. Wasn't interested, you know, about that.

CHAPTER XV.

Billings' Symptoms Alarm Me.

"Most infernal outrage of the century, I tell you!" Billings stormed. For an hour I had sat there in my rooms, limp and bewildered under the tempest of his wrath. The wild and incoherent sputter over the phone that Jenkins reported upon my return had sent me on a hunt for my friend.

I had found him sullenly dining alone over at the club, and as soon as I entered he started to bolt from the room. Only through the greatest pleading had I managed to coax him back to my chambers, hoping I might screw out of him some explanation.

I had received it, by Jove! Of course, I recognized it all as impossible and crazy, you know, but when I said so to Billings his remarks were so violent, and he turned such a dangerous apoplectic purple, dashed if I didn't renege.

"But then the old man, you know!" I protested weakly.

Billings leveled his big arm at me, mouthing wordlessly for a minute.

"That—that'll do, about that old man!" he choked at last. "Not—not another word about him!" And finally he collapsed into his seat from sheer exhaustion. Just sat there panting and glaring at me like a jolly bulldog.

Gradually he became calmer.

"Tell you what: the only thing that lets you out, Dicky, is the way Van Dyne and Blakesley did, in turn, when I got them there."

He spoke savagely, but I brightened a little.

"Oh!" I said. "Didn't they recognize you, either?"

Billings' snort made me jump.

"Recognise!" he bellowed. "They went back, mad as hell!"

"By Jove!" I said soothingly.

"That's not all," continued Billings grimly. "I was so sure it was a put-up job, some asinine, fool joke, I wrote a cautious note to the governor. After a lot of pleading, I got the fools to send it. He came."

Billings paused dramatically.

and address me as 'Foxy,' and want me to send for my clothes or else send out and buy some. Finally, a big brute came and threw me some dirty rags and said I'd have to put on those or else buy some others.

"And I had just got into the togs and stuffed the rubies and pajamas out of sight in my pocket, when the particular brigand who had charge of my coop came back. He almost threw a fit when he saw me. 'Where's Twenty-seven?' he wanted to know. And then, before I could say a word, he blustered up to me with: 'And say, what business you got in here? Clear out!' And you bet I didn't lose a single golden minute—I cleared. You should have seen me beat it down that corridor! The fellow followed me a little, grumbling to himself: Then he called to a cop who was just coming in: 'Say, O'Keefe, run that young fat freak out of here, will you? It's one of that bunch of visitors that went through just now. Fresh thing—snoothing into the cells!'"

"And so the same cop that brought me there—the very same—was the one that shoved me out of the door, warning me that I'd best not go poking into the prisoners' cells again if I knew what was good for me!"

"By the way, old chap," puffed Billings, his pipe and good humor improving under the spell of a cigar, "I was sorry to return the pajamas torn and dusty and wrinkled as they were. But you see, on account of the rubies, I was leary about having them pressed or fussed over. So I wrapped and sealed them myself, just as one does a jewel package. Got them, did you?"

I stared at Billings through my glass.

"Didn't you get them?" he questioned in alarm.

"Yes, yes—it's all right, old chap," I said hastily and as pleasantly as I could. "Eugene delivered the box to Jenkins and I opened it myself. Thought it was—h'm—thought it was something else." Then I proceeded soothingly: "But you're just a little mistaken about the dust and wrinkles, old chap—and about them being torn. Ha, ha! Good joke!"

But Billings' face was unresponsive.

"Why, old goop," he said with cheerful contempt, "there's a triangular tear in the back of the coat you could stick your head through; and one of the sleeves is in ribbons."

I just opened the drawer of the table and took out the box—glove box, I think it was—containing the pajamas. I had read something somewhere about the clearing effect—the reaction, and that sort of thing, produced sometimes by a shock.

"See for yourself, old chap," I said gently. And I lifted out the gossamer fabrics and again spread their crimson glory under the lamp. Billings examined them eagerly, but just looked confounded.

"Don't understand it," he said, biting his nails. "Why, hang it, they look smooth, too, as though never worn. And the rubies are all right, too."

He rested his chin upon his hands and gloomed at the red sweep.

I caught a few sentences of his mumbling.

"By George, I'm half a mind to think there's something in the pajamas," he muttered—"something uncanny and disagreeable—something they're alive with!"

I sprang up and back, overturning my chair.

"Good heavens—oh, I say!" I exclaimed in consternation, as I fixed my glass on the garments. "It's your fall, then, you know—"

And suddenly I made a discovery; and I forgot about keeping still.

"By Jove, Billings!" I exclaimed excitedly. "Here's something inside the collar—some sort of jolly writing!"

"What's that?" said Billings sharply. He jerked the garment from my hand and held it in the light. All round the circle within the collar band ran four or five darker red lines of queer little crisscross characters.

"Chinese laundry marks, you idiot," he commented carelessly. And then he ducked his head closer with a quick intake of breath.

"By George, Dicky!" he cried, his voice tremulous with some excitement. "Can't be that either; it's woven in—awfully fine, neat job, too. Now, what do you suppose—"

He broke off wonderingly.

CHAPTER XVI.

An Inscription and a Mystery.

Billings rubbed his chin perplexedly. "By Jigger, now, I wonder what those hen tracks mean?" he uttered musingly. Then he looked up at me with sudden animation in his face.

"Look here, Dicky," he exclaimed, "do you happen to know Doozenberry?"

I tried to remember. I shut one eye and studied the marks closely through my glass, but had to shake my head at last.

"Why, man, he's a member of all the great societies of the world. Got a string of letters after his name like a universal keyboard, and is the main squeeze, the great scream, among all the scientific push over here and in Europe. Lots of dough, but off his trolley with learning."

"And in this building?" I said wonderingly. "What's he like?"

"Awfully large head," said Billings, elevating his hands some two feet apart, "pear-shaped affair—big end up—bumps on it like halves of grape fruit, porcupine eyebrows, and—"

"Oh, I know," I said, nodding eagerly; "and a little, shriveled—well, kind of mashed sort of face, eyes beadlike and jolly small. I've got him now! I've gone down with him in the elevator."

Billings nodded. "You've got him painted," he said drily. "That's the professor; only, his eyes are anything but 'jolly.' I've ridden in the elevator with him myself. Always manages to look like he was traveling with a bad smell!"

"Devilish sensitive, I dare say." Billings looked at me suspiciously, but I had got hold of the thing I was trying to recollect and I went on quickly:

"By Jove, you know, I believe Jenkins knows his man—fellow who butlers, and, I believe, cooks, for him. He and Jenkins belong to the same—how do they call it?—same club of gentlemen's gentlemen."

"Let's have Jenkins in," he suggested. And we did.

"I say, Jenkins," I began, "this Professor Doozenbug above us—"

"Doozenberry!" Billings sharply corrected.

"Well, some jolly run thing about him, don't you know, Jenkins—something you said his man told you—remember, eh?"

"Why, sir, he told me that every night he had to turn down the professor's bed and go all over it with a two-gallon watering can—"

"Watering can!" gasped Billings. "I'm telling you what he says, sir. Then he covers it all up again, and in about a half-hour the professor turns the covers down; and if it's what he calls 'fine'—that is, damp all over—he climbs in and sleeps like a top."

"Cold-water bug, you know," I explained, but Billings shrugged his shoulders.

"That's all right. Bug or not, he's the goods, all the same. Greatest ever." He spoke with quiet conviction.

He deliberated a moment and turned to me.

"Tell you what, Dicky: I'm going up and ask him down. He's the one to give us the right dope on these crazy letters—Eh, what you say, Jenkins?"

"Beg pardon, sir, I was saying that the professor don't visit nobody; and he never sees nobody but the big lit'ry and scientific sharps."

"Oh, he don't, eh?" Billings snorted contemptuously. "Well, Jenkins, I haven't been a prize fisherman in my time for nothing; I guess I know how to select my 'fly.' I know what will fetch him: 'Mr. Lightnut's compliments, and will be pleased to honor or him by passing upon an Oriental curio of rare scientific interest'—that sort of merry rot! Why, you couldn't hold him back with a block and tackle. Oh, you needn't worry; I'll do the proper curyes all right." He turned toward the door. "And, Jenkins, you come along and work me into the lodge."

Ten-cent grand opera is fast nearing a reality.

A patent was granted last week to C. Milton of London, Eng., for combining a phonograph and a moving picture machine, so that they will operate in absolute harmony.

As soon as this patent is placed on the market, it will in all probability mean that moving picture shows will soon have phonographs in their houses, and will reproduce the words or songs of the now "silent actors" at the same time that the film is being projected on the screen.

Startling Silo Sensation: New Saginaw Feature

Anchoring the base of stave silos as the giant roots anchor for centuries the great oak—the final step in making complete the stave silo.

Eventually all silo users will recognize the fact that the stave silo keeps silage perfectly; and to overcome the last objection, and to make an even better and stronger silo, we have been eagerly searching for new ideas. Many years ago we developed the Saginaw All-Steel Door Frame, adding convenience, solidity and great strength to the entire structure.

The same enterprise, together with keen foresight, developed in 1911, the one of the great successes in modern silo construction.

And now—1912—with all wondering what possibly could be added to the Saginaw Silo, our engineering department has created and proved through exhaustive tests, a device wonderfully effective and remarkably simple in design and construction, and like all great inventions, "It's a wonder it wasn't thought of before." This invention will be known to the world as

The Saginaw Base Anchor

Like all important Silo improvements you get the Base Anchor only in the Saginaw. We will be glad to tell you more about this wonderful improvement.

We have a new book showing dozens of interesting views of our four large plants. This new Book, entitled "The Building of a Silo", also contains very recent and complete information on silage. We have a copy for you. Write for it—better, come in and get your Book and we'll talk it over.

Guard Your Children

Against Bowel Trouble

Many children at an early age become constipated, and frequently serious consequences result. Not being able to defecate, his own condition, a child's bowels should be constantly watched, and a gentle laxative given when necessary. Dr. Miles' Laxative Tablets are especially well adapted to women and children. The Sisters of Christian Charity, 531 Charles St., Luzerne, Pa., who attend many cases of sickness say of them:

"Some time ago we began using Dr. Miles' Laxative Tablets and find that we like them very much. Their action is excellent and we are grateful for having been made acquainted with them. We have had good results in every case and the Sisters are very much pleased."

The form and flavor of any medicine is very important, no matter who is to take it. The taste and appearance are especially important when children are concerned. All parents know how hard it is to give the average child "medicine," even though the taste is partially disguised. In using Dr. Miles' Laxative Tablets, however, this difficulty is overcome. The shape of the tablets, their appearance and candy-like taste at once appeal to any child, with the result that they are taken without objection.

The rich chocolate flavor and absence of other tastes, make Dr. Miles' Laxative Tablets the ideal remedy for children.

Recently addressing a body of New England students, Richard Olney, secretary of state under President Cleveland, urged them to the duty of subordinating interests of their respective future crafts to the highest claims of citizenship.

From Copenhagen comes information which will be received with interest by all who are alert to electric progress. Professor Hannover, president of the Polytechnic academy of that capital, is asserted to have invented an electrical accumulator that has five times the capacity of the accumulators now in existence without any increase over them in size and weight.

A Chicago boy carried away a model aeroplane prize with a machine which had curved wings like a letter U. Some men have such a trust in fate that the things they do, trusting to immunity, make this trust really pathetic. Such a man in a New York town lately tried to start a balky mule by giving the animal ammonia to smell. It may be difficult to make him realize how exceptionally lucky he was in merely being carted off to a hospital instead of to an undertaker's.

One of our historians arises to remark that the temple of Solomon cost $5,000,000,000. As it was a government job, we are tempted to wonder what politicians or set of politicians, got away with the $4,999,000,000.

RICHESON PAYS PENALTY OF DEATH

SLAYER OF AVIS LINNELL INSTANTLY KILLED WHEN CURRENT IS APPLIED

EXECUTED AT 12:17 TUESDAY MORNING IN BOSTON

Went to the Chair Smiling. "I Forgive Everybody" Were His Final Words as Current was Applied

Clarence V. T. Richeson confessed murderer of Avis Linnell and a former Baptist preacher, was put to death by electricity in Charlestown state prison early Tuesday morning. At 12:10 o'clock the electrician threw a lever that sent a powerful current of electricity through the condemned man's body as he sat strapped in the death chair.

Richeson went to his death with composure, as he said he would do. He stepped from his cell into the corridor and through a door into the death chamber. When he had taken 13 paces he was in front of the electric chair. He took his seat in it and the straps and electrodes were quickly put in place.

Richeson walked to the chair erect, eyes straight ahead, until he kept them shut until the end. Seated in the chair, he was asked a series of questions by Pastor Herbert S. Johnson, of Warren Avenue Baptist church, his spiritual adviser. During his answers he said: "God will take of my soul and I pray for all. I forgive everybody." The last question was: "Are you willing to die for Jesus' sake?" The reply, in an even well-formulated tone, was simply, "I am willing to die."

The current applied was of 1900 volts, eight amperes. Kalamazoo Corset Makers' Strike. There is an imminent possibility that the state troops will be called out for action in the Kalamazoo corset makers' strike before the week is out.

Ann Arbor Train Turns Over. An Ann Arbor passenger train left the rails at Piquette, near Milan, and although the combination mail and passenger car and a passenger coach turned over, none of the 100 passengers was even scratched. Spreading rails caused the wreck. The tender of the locomotive, baggage car, combination car and passenger coach all left the track and ploughed up the road bed for a distance of a hundred yards.

M. C. Passenger Train Marooned. The Michigan Central southbound passenger train due at St. Charles last evening was caught between two washouts at Paine's Station and is still imprisoned. The train was forced to stop by a washout and before the track could be repaired, the swirling water on either side of the right of way, carried out a portion of the track in the rear. Both washouts were more than 50 feet long.

DEAF SCHOOL AT FLINT BURNS

The 250 Inmates Were Roused From Sleep and All Were Saved.

Fire believed to have been started from a lot of lightning, destroyed all of the buildings of the Michigan School for the Deaf in Flint, except the residence of Dr. F. S. Clarke, superintendent. Brown hall and a few minor workshops. The flames were discovered at 1:45 a. m. in the cupola of the administration building.

The loss is placed at $400,000, with no insurance. Three firemen were seriously hurt. One Parkhurst will lose an eye as a result of being struck by a firebrand. Welch was seriously injured when a ladder broke, throwing him to the ground.

Price, the chief of the department, had a miraculous escape from death. While directing the fighting on the third floor, a steel ceiling caved in upon him. Water was turned upon the flames above him and the men succeeded in pulling him from the debris. Although half unconscious when rescued and severely burned about the body, he refused to leave the work.

The 250 inmates of the school who were in the dormitories at the time the fire started, are huddled in Brown hall, where recitations are usually held. They range in age from 5 to 18 years. There were also 34 attendants and nurses in the buildings. They directed the rescue of the children.

The children were awakened by knocking on their beds and telling them in sign language of the fire. They were marshalled together and marched from the building in a few minutes. None seemed unduly excited. The younger ones were immediately put into improvised beds in Brown hall and Dr. Clarke's residence. Most of the children saved little but their night clothing. A few were able to snatch a few things as they were leaving.

HOT BATTLE IN OHIO PRIMARIES

BOTH FACTIONS WILL TRY FOR SIX DELEGATES AT-LARGE

TAFT CONFIDENT; CONTEST TO BE WAGED ON FLOOR

Roosevelt has 32 Delegates to President Taft 10; While Governor Harmon is Assured Of 48

According to returns in hand from approximately 4,500 of the 5,192 precincts in the state, Col. Theodore Roosevelt's delegates to the national republican convention carried Ohio primaries by a plurality of about 25,000. It now seems scarcely possible that final results from the primary poll will change the number of district delegates for either side, by more than one or two. The best figures available show that Roosevelt has 32 of the 42 district delegates selected and President Taft has 10.

Although later returns on the democratic presidential preference primary vote, give Woodrow Wilson a fighting chance for one or two more delegates, the New Jersey man's standing will not be known for several days, when certain belated rural returns have been secured from dilatory judges, who refused to complete the counts in their precincts before taking a night's sleep. However, Governor Harmon practically is assured a complete delegation of 48 delegates to the Baltimore convention. His lead now gives him control of the state democratic convention which will select delegates at large. Also it is said that the convention will provide for the unit rule, which will force the Wilson delegates selected by districts, to vote for the Ohio executive.

Fight for Delegates-at-Large. The delegate at large situation in the republican party will not be known or settled until June 3, when the state republican convention is convened here. The Taft leaders claim that they will control the state convention, and designate the delegates at large for the president. But the Roosevelt managers declared that late returns show the number of Taft delegates to the state convention to be dwindling. Instead of increasing, as was announced. There is no question, but that the Taft-Roosevelt fight will be carried on to the floor of the state convention, when the final struggle in Ohio will be made for the half dozen delegates at large.

In only 23 of the 88 counties of the state were delegates to the state convention chosen. In the remaining counties, the delegates will be named by county conventions.

Even in the matter of district delegates, an official count will be necessary to determine exact results. An instance of this sort arose in the thirtieth congressional district (Sandusky) where late returns indicate that the district will be divided almost evenly between Taft and Roosevelt delegates, and Harmon and Wilson.

Early figures gave the two delegates in this district on the republican ticket to Mr. Taft. Colonel Roosevelt may now get one of the delegates, and thus increase his total of district delegates to 33. This would leave Mr. Taft nine delegates.

CANADA'S PROSPERITY.

The New York Times of March 23, 1912, in an article dealing with Canada's progress, says:

"At the present moment eight shiploads of European immigrants are afloat for Canada, while there are signs that the outward movement which is customary with us during labor troubles will be marked this year. There is no such startling record of our loss to Canada. Our citizens quietly slip over the border in groups or trainloads, but their going is not advertised.

"There is no mystery why Canada is the 'good thing' the United States used to be. It is because Canada is following in its neighbor's footsteps that it is repeating the fortunate experience which its neighbor is enjoying, even while deliberately turning its back on the teachings of the past.

A fortnight ago the Dominion budget speech reported the unprecedented surplus of $39,000,000, and on Thursday the Government passed through the Committee on Supply credits of $38,000,000 for railways and canals. With this assistance the railways themselves are both enabled and compelled to increase their facilities. Accordingly we find a single road allotting ten millions for work of its own. Naturally the Canadian newspapers contain announcements calling for fifty thousand men for construction work. This influx is apart from those Americans who go with money in their pockets obtained by cashing in their high-priced American lands.

"A St. Paul dispatch says that within a fortnight two thousand carloads of farm animals and machinery have passed toward Canada, the property of men who expect to pay for their farms with the first crop."

Decrease in Death Rate From Tuberculosis Means Saving of 27,000 Lives in Ten Years.

In the decade from 1901 to 1910, the death rate from tuberculosis in the United States declined from 198.9 for each 100,000 persons living to 160.3, a decrease of 18.7 per cent, while the general death rate, including all causes of death, declined only one-half as fast, or at the rate of 9.7 per cent, from 1655.0 to 1495.8, according to figures given out by the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis. The figures are based on data abstracted from the reports of the United States Bureau of the Census, and cover the registration area in this country. According to the statement, the tuberculosis death rate has declined steadily since 1904, when it was 201.6. On the other hand, the general death rate shows a fluctuation downward in general trend, but not as steady as the tuberculosis rate. The decline in the tuberculosis death rate in the last ten years means a saving of 27,000 lives at the present time.

Best Business Creator.

As a business creator, what is there better than advertising? Have you ever asked that question of yourself? The millions that advertising has made for merchants are uncountable, yet there are business men who even now don't believe in advertising. Just as there are people who still think it is safer and more convenient to travel in a prairie schooner behind a pair of slow oxen than in a Pullman palace car. Yet this type of business man is seldom rated in commercial rating books.—Exchange.

In Memory of Naval Heroes

Photograph by Underwood & Underwood, N. Y.

A BEAUTIFUL and touching tribute is paid to the memory of the sailors who gave up their lives during the Civil war by Tent No. 18 of the National Alliance, Daughters of the Veterans of the United States. A little boat filled with carnations, roses, lilies, jessamine and arbutus, is borne by G. A. R. veterans to the edge of the river and given, amid prayer, to the crew of a launch who take it to midstream. There it is launched, and amid the booming of a salute and the strains of the "Star-Spangled Banner," it sinks quietly and slowly, leaving the water around it dotted with blossoms.

Memorial Day Sermon

By REV. CHARLES F. WEEDE
Pastor of Harvard Church
Boston

IN the foremost rank of memorials stands the monument to the soldier. The myriad mounds of rank and file stir tender and deep emotions. The veterans of the thrilling scenes of '61 and '65 are passing. Over forty-eight thousand in 1909 answered the last taps. Memorial Day should be sacredly kept and should most properly recall the stirring events of the Civil war. "What mean ye by these stones?" the descendants of Joshua asked, as they saw the memorial pile by the River Jordan. So the youth of today inquire of the silent sentinels raised to commemorate the soldier of '61.

I am reminded of an example of patriotism not usually known. Colonel Shaw, whose monument of bronze stands upon Boston Common, is not alone in deserving such a memorial. Up among the Berkshire Hills there is a modest shaft that marks the grave of another gallant leader of negro troops. I refer to Colonel Chauncey Bassett, of the Bassett Grand Army post of Michigan, the grandfather of my children and the father of that elect lady, my wife. How Colonel Bassett inspired his men is illustrated by the heroism of a negro lad who was the color-bearer. As Colonel Bassett handed the flag to the lad, he gave this charge: "My boy, bring back the colors or tell to God the reason why." All through the fierce fight they watched that standard. Once it was seen to fall—the lad's arm had been shot. But grasping the staff with his left hand, the flag moved forward again, waving over the dusky troops. Once more it swayed and dropped. But after the battle they found the little fellow prostrate upon the flag wet with his blood. He could never bring the colors back. He had told to God the reason why.

But I recall a memorial which comes close to every veteran in the land. It is the name, endeared to you by a thousand recollections and sends the warm blood throbbing through your veins. It is the dear name of Comrade, Comrade!

Your companions in arms! They have fallen, but your thoughts bring the old familiar forms and scenes back again. You sleep in the same tent and perchance share the same blanket or you watch by the campfire warming and sheltering your comrade from the cold and the storm as he has done for you. You divide your scanty rations or you dispense the lucky catch of poultry or bacon; you cheer him on the hot and dusty march; he stretches his hand or smashes to you in the struggle through the dangerous swamp; he fights by your side in the din and smoke of attack; he runs and cheers with you in the gallant charge or he stands near you on the man-of-war's deck and hurls defiance at the enemies' shot. He laughs, he sings, he shouts; he turns with stern resolve and face like flint to meet the bullet-storm. His joys, his sorrows, his glory, his hardship, are yours, for all the while it is comrade. It may be one today, another tomorrow, but always Comrade!

I cannot forbear to mention one more important lesson from the monuments of the war. It is this:

The God of Nations Gave the Victory.

The Almighty's hand has never been withdrawn from history. In the darkest hour a Lincoln's brain and heart—a true statesman's hand—grasped the helm and held the nation to her course through whirlwind, victory and dire disaster. In critical hours when foreign powers would smile encouragement to our foe God sent a strong man across the waters to speak for us—a man of silver tongue, the orator's fire and the patriot's soul, who averted the threatened blow. Some well remember what utter consternation swept over the north when the "Mer-rimac" sank the "Cumberland" and the "Congress" surrendered. When that same evening the news spread over the wires that the "Monitor" had arrived at Hampton Roads, the air rang with shouts and men who seldom acknowledged divine interference were saying, "How providential!" Merchants of war-time will not forget the terrible depression in business. For ten years previous two thirds of the country's exports consisted of cotton from the south. How could the great loss be met? In '61 and '62 there was drought in England and Europe. Then the farmer stepped to the front. The fields of America, particularly in the west, were, in these years, unusually abundant, and foreign ports were opened to receive "a value of over two hundred million dollars of the products of our soil. England sent us more than sixty million dollars of gold." At the last when the nation was weary the indomitable Grant came into leadership and by his sledge hammer blows, "By the left flank, forward!" gave the Confederacy the fatal stroke. Thus did the King of Nations shield this land.

Think not, fellow-citizens, that your duty is done; that in rearing colossal statues your obligations are fulfilled. The peculiar institutions of this country are the memorials God commands you to build, support and protect. See to it, you who fought gallantly for your country and you who today reap the harvest of heroism, see to it that your influence goes abroad for pure morals, and guard as your life the liberties handed down to you.

"The future of our nation lies in what citizens make it today. The world is looking to America. There are no new continents. There is no other race that possesses, as does the Anglo-Saxon, liberty and a pure religion," and these are the mighty factors that will determine the future of the world for good.

Friends, we are still in the "bivouac of life," still in the "bivouac of life." Who will be the hero? Your answer will be in the sincerity and courage with which you defend the institutions and the liberties of your citizenship. Hold the nation's life sacred. Bury your head beneath the folds of the flag, bathed in the blood of your fathers and countrymen!—Farm and Firearm.

One of the Newest Models Offered for Hot Weather Wear is Comfortable Bodice That Can Be Worn While Traveling.

If the dress is to see hard service, have it in a dark color and match it with a hat suitably tailored yet capable of being changed with a bit of dressy trimming on occasions. The London hats, or the trim shapes which imitate these imported styles, are very useful for both long and short trips, and as some of these have only one bit of decking put on at the side, it is an easy enough matter to carry along a pretty "pole" of flowers—one of the high, tightly massed lifts—to put in place of the feather or cockade worn at more strenuous times.

The next useful garment for the suit case traveler is the shirt waist, and with three in suitable fabrics she can successfully go through a week end at a fine country house or stop several days at a good hotel. The fabric of soft and washable sort is to be preferred for all three garments to a stiff material, wash silks, unstiffened batiste and pongee supplying about the best materials. For the traveling models offered for hot weather wear, and a very young woman might wear it while traveling with perfect propriety, as a good throat and arms are its chief requirements. There are some lovely wash silks striped with the new dress colors, and while rather of the negligee species such little bodices, made up in this manner, would be very effective with a wool suit on a hot day. If the silk is of a very stylish sort, too, it would be a good idea to hem a bias of it for a hat scarf, and a proper hat for this would be one of the duck tourist or outing shapes which are selling from 50 cents up.

A "dicky," or front, made to eke out the possibilities of a plain waist, is likewise a useful trifle for the traveler to take along, and if she looks about the shops she will find many pretty styles in these. As to underwear, unstiffened dimity, from which every garment needed is made, could be used for the more intimate lingerie, while for the long petticoat there is a wide range of light and reasonably priced materials. In several of the shops the smartest underwear imaginable is made of tan pongee, and this is much sought for traveling use.

When selecting footwear remember that tan leather is cooler than any other and that white wash leather gloves are about the smartest worn. A little pair of 50-cent Turkish slippers will also add to the traveler's comfort and contribute nothing to the weight of the suit case.

waist the pongee in natural color, a rich tan or pale gold, would be useful and effective. The dressy waist could be of the batiste or of a fine lawn with a dainty lace and hand run tucks, and there could be a negligee blouse in the wash silk for tired moments and very informal occasions. The last, in fact, could do duty as a wrapper, that is, serve instead of one, for it cannot be expected that there will be room in the suit case for all the comforts of the toilet.

RED KID BOOTS IN VOGUE

Fleety Colored Footwear Will Be Worn With White Suits, According to Dictates of Fashion.

A new fashion note, apropos of the popularity of white goods this spring and summer, was noted in the factory of a maker of women's high-grade shoes, where we saw a large number of red kid button boots being prepared for shipment.

Upon inquiry we learned that these red kid boots were intended for wear with white suits and gowns at fashionable country and seashore resorts as a change from white footwear, it being evident to milady of fashion that she must have footwear that will take her out of the ordinary humdrum of fashion.

Her white suit or gown will have a touch of red trimming to complete the combination of a white dress and red boots.—Shoe Retailer.

Fashion's Fancies

New bar pins for veils are of emerald green crystals in groups set in platinum.

Recent advices from Paris speak of the return of the skirt with a yoke.

Nothing can be considered smart in the way of a handbag that is over an inch thick.

A bunch of artificial flowers at the waist or higher on the bodice is the finishing touch to many afternoon gowns.

The Agreeable Swish of Silk. There is no denying the luxuriously impressive effect of a soft froth of silk in a woman's garments. She may be quite simply dressed, an unobtrusive little figure sitting meekly in a corner of the room—let her rise and walk across the floor with a delicious suggestion of rustling silk following her movements. The severely made gown will take on the contours of a Paquin model.

When several years ago fashion's stern decree substituted the soft mes-saline for the noisy taffeta underskirts deep was the chagrin therein. But at an exhibition of this spring's styles at a fashionable dressmaker's, one of the models created a pleasurable sensation by filling the room with the agreeable swish of taffeta silk.

Fullness in Lingerie.

Lingerie usually keeps pace with fashion and the newest trousseau petticoats and combinations are full—not at the hips, but at the befrilled hem—more so than for three years. This points distinctly to much fuller skirts in muslin frocks, otherwise the ruffles of the petticoats would be bound to make the wearer clumsy and uncomfortable. As embroidered panels are quite the rage in the sheer dresses, any frocks made narrow ahead of the season can easily be pieced out with something of the kind before the time comes for actually wearing them.

Chiffons.

Many of the latest blouses which are worn under coats have lace ruffles at the wrist.

Many of the newest coats still show the side fastening, some starting slightly below the waist line, and others up at the shoulder.

Cape collars extending over the shoulders are a feature not only of many heavy coats, but also of house and street gowns.

UNIQUE PIECE OF HEADWEAR

Striking Example of the Milliner's Art Seen on the Boulevards of Paris.

One of the striking pieces of headwear of the Paris boulevards is an all-silk, close-fitting bonnet, which comes down well over one side of the face and sets jauntily. A bow effect in the back gives it a chic appearance. The colors range in hue from deep red to light pink.

Care of Nails.

The nails should always show that they are well cared for. Carefully manicured nails are indicative of neatness; they should be manicured at least once a week and polished and the cuticles loosened frequently. The equipment costs little and the money is certainly well expended.

TO COOK VEGETABLES

HELPFUL SUGGESTIONS FROM DOMESTIC SCIENCE EXPERT.

Green Peas, Beans, Cabbage, Cauliflower and Such Like Should Be Cooked in Uncovered Dishes to Remove Acid Tasts.

Vegetable foods include the cereals, legumes and tubers, roots and bulbs, green vegetation and vegetable fruits and flowers. Of the whole list the cereals are the most valuable, including as they do the grains from which the bread of nearly all the world is made, but rice and corn are the cereals not commonly referred to in lists of vegetables.

Legumes all belong to the pulse family and the edible portion is in the shape of a pod, usually and though there are many thousand species only a few kinds are used on the table, beans, peas and lentils being the ones most in use. All legumes are rich in nitrogenous matter, and if properly cooked and consumed in reasonable quantities may to some extent replace a portion of meat in the daily dietary. There is scarcely any fat in the leguminous foods, so oil or some fat is wisely added.

When green beans, peas and tender legumes have been removed from their pods they should be cooked gently in simmering water, but when the pods and all are used they should be boiled rapidly.

When the green peas and beans, etc., have grown a little old, but must be cooked, a tiny pinch of soda will make them tender if added to the water they are boiled in and it helps to retain their bright green color.

All green vegetables should be cooked in uncovered pans. Vegetables are blanched when cooking to remove the strong acid taste; this process is sometimes called "par-boiling." With very old, strong flavored tuberous vegetables the water is often changed several times in the cooking process.

To boil cabbage or cauliflower, select small heads of these vegetables, rather than large ones, as they will be more delicately flavored. The cabbage should be cut in quarters and soaked for an hour in salt water. Have a deep stew pan full of boiling water and add a tablespoon of salt. Put in the cabbage and cook briskly without covering for 30 to 40 minutes, according to the age of the cabbage. When cooking open the kitchen windows at the top and there will be no noticeable odor. Drain and chop the cabbage and to every pint of the cooked vegetable allow a teaspoon of butter and add more salt if it requires it and pepper to suit taste. Cooked thus, cabbage will be tender and full of flavor and will no longer be considered a coarse vegetable.

When pork is to be cooked with cabbage put the meat to cook first and when it is commencing to grow tender add the cabbage.

All the above applies to cauliflower, except the latter is never quartered when put to cook and its flavor is so delicate that the water need not be changed during the cooking. The time of cooking this lovely vegetable should never exceed 30 minutes. It may be served with a very rich white sauce or with only drawn butter.—By Henrietta D. Grauel, Domestic Science Lecturer.

Vegetable Cutlets.

Boil separately until tender a half dozen French carrots, a turnip and an onion. Mash thoroughly and mix with a cupful cooked lentils drained perfectly dry. Season with minced parsley, salt and pepper, and a beaten egg and bread crumbs to bind together. Form into croquettes, cutlet shaped, dip into beaten egg, roll in fine crumbs and fry in deep fat. Garnish with parsley and serve hot. A little curry powder may be added to the seasoning if desired.

Closing the House.

Before closing the house for the summer see that the brasswork has been thoroughly polished.

Wrap it with newspapers. It can then be uncovered upon your return, and need but little or no rubbing to brighten it up again.

Coat all the plumbing pipes with a good nickel polish, letting it remain during your absence. The pipes will not rust and will be bright and clean when the polish is removed.

A Spotted Parasol.

A light colored sunshade which had been spotted with rain and sea water revived under this treatment: The parasol was wet equally and thoroughly, allowed to dry open, and it came out equally pretty in tint, if not prettier than before. A summer silk can sometimes be restored to usefulness in the same way.

Macaroni With Ham.

Put in a buttered pudding dish boiled macaroni in layers with minced ham. Season the ham with a little mustard or finely chopped onion. Beat one egg and mix with one cup of milk, pour over all and bake in a quick oven for 10 minutes.

Muffins.

A little more than one-half cup of milk, not quite one-half cup sugar, one egg, one and one-half cups of flour, two tablespoons melted butter, one heaping teaspoon baking powder.

Antidrugger Club.

Six women in Chicago have organized a club to lessen household cares. The club is the possessor of an electric vacuum cleaner, one electric washing machine, two electric irons and a fan for drying the washing.

The only dues are those required for the upkeep of these labor savers, and this amount has been estimated to be about three cents a week. The initiation fee consists of the price of the apparatus divided into six equal parts.

The members arrange their work so that a small boy may take the apparatus around to each in turn. They live in one neighborhood, so the affair is easily arranged. How practical; how easily the idea could be explained to take in any number of housekeepers. What a help it would be in solving the servant problem.—American Club Woman.

BABY'S ECZEMA AND BOILS

"My son was about three weeks old when I noticed a breaking-out on his cheeks, from which a watery substance oozed. A short time after, his arms, shoulders and breast broke out also, and in a few days became a solid scab. I became alarmed, and called our family physician who at once pronounced the disease eczema. The little fellow was under treatment for about three months. By the end of that time, he seemed no better. I became discouraged. I dropped the doctor's treatment, and commenced the use of Cuticura Soap and Ointment, and in a few days noticed a marked change. The eruption on his cheeks was almost healed, and his shoulders, arms and breast were decidedly better. When he was about seven months old, all trace of the eczema was gone.

"During his teething period, his head and face were broken out in boils which I cured with Cuticura Soap and Ointment. Surely he must have been a great sufferer. During the time of teething and from the time I dropped the doctor's treatment, I used the Cuticura Soap and Ointment, nothing else, and when two years old he was the picture of health. His complexion was soft and beautiful, and his head a mass of silky curls. I had been afraid that he would never be well, and I feel that I owe a great deal to the Cuticura Remedies." (Signed) Mrs. Mary W. Ramsey, 224 E. Jackson St., Colorado Springs, Col., Sept. 24, 1910. Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold by druggists and dealers everywhere, a sample of each, with 32-page book, will be mailed free on application to "Cuticura," Dept. L, Boston.

WOMEN SHOULD BE PROTECTED

Against So Many Surgical Operations. How Mrs. Bethune and Mrs. Moore Escaped.

Sikeston, Mo.—"For seven years I suffered everything. I was in bed for four or five days at a time every month, and so weak I could hardly walk. I cramp and had headache, and was so nervous and weak that I dreaded to see anyone or have anyone in the room. The doctors gave me medicine to ease me at those times, and said that I ought to have an operation. I would not listen to that, and when a friend of my husband told him about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and what it had done for his wife, I was willing to take it. Now I look the picture of health and feel like it, too. I can do my own housework, hoe my garden, and milk a cow. I can entertain company and enjoy them. I can visit when I choose, and walk as far as any ordinary woman, any day in the month. I wish I could talk to every suffering woman and girl."—Mrs. DANA BETHUNE, Sikeston, Mo.

Murrayville, Ill.—"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for a very bad case of female trouble and it made me a well woman. My health was all broken down, the doctors said I must have an operation, and I was ready to go to the hospital, but I read so that I began taking your Compound. I got along so well that I gave up the doctors and was saved from the operation."—Mrs. CHARLES MOORE, R. R. No. 3, Murrayville, Ill.

Mad Dog Scare

Pinckney had a mad dog scare Tuesday. A strange shepherd dog, came through town between 8 and 9 o'clock. The town dogs as usual tackled the stranger who only poked long enough to bite them and continued on his way. It went east down the Lakeland road biting 3 or 4 farmers dogs which opposed its progress and turned and went down the cross road past Wm. Fisk's farm and when last seen was headed toward Portage Lake. Nearly a dozen dogs are supposed to have been bitten, some of which were killed at once by their owners while a number of the owners are awaiting developments. The men around town have been busy the past two days manufacturing excuses for the hundred as to why they did not shoot the dog.

Pinckney high school lost to Dexter high school at Dexter last Wednesday by a score of 11 to 5. Moran started in the box for Pinckney but on account of poor control withdrew in favor of H. Swarthout in the second. He was also wild and Dexter scored 6 runs at the start by means of free tickets to first. After that he settled down and only one run was scored by Dexter in the last five innings. Pinckney scored all her runs in the first three innings being unable to hit Roper effectively after that. The hitting was light on both sides, Pinckney only getting six safe ones and Dexter seven. Swarthout got a triple in three times up and stole two bases. Eck for Dexter got two hits in twice up and also stole two base and was caught asleep at second, L. Moran to Hendee.

Brighton who was booked to play here last Saturday failed to put in an appearance and Pinckney, if they were so disposed, could claim a forfeit of 9 to 0, as Brighton gave them no notice of a cancellation of date. They will play Howell high school Saturday at Monks Park at 2:00 p. m. Admission 10 and 20 cents. Everybody turn out as this is one of their last home games.
