Cannot Use Primary Money To Pay Teachers

Of utmost importance to many city, village and rural districts in Michigan is the opinion just given by Attorney General Franz C. Kuhn in regard to the use of the primary money which will be apportioned in July of this year. No part of it can be used to pay teachers for services rendered before the money is received by the district treasurer. If there is no primary money on hand, the districts must pay the teachers from the general fund and this is not to be replaced by primary money, when the latter is received.

The general school law provides that when the primary fund is exhausted, the teachers are to be paid out of the general fund. If there not sufficient funds on hand, the school board may vote a tax sufficient and then borrow money on the amount voted, no action of the people being necessary. Special provision for the year 1912 is made in compiler's section 23 of the school laws as follows: "Provided, that, if any deficiency shall be caused in the teachers' wages fund in any school district by the changing of the date of the apportionment of the primary school interest fund by the superintendent of public instruction, the school board or board of education of said district shall have authority, first to borrow on the warrant of the district for the sum of such deficiency or, second, to borrow and issue bonds of the school district for the sum of such deficiency for a period not to exceed five years."

This deficiency or the bonds must be paid out of the general fund and not from the primary money.

SYNOPSIS.

Richard Lightnut, an American with an affected English accent, receives a present from a friend in China. The present proves to be a pair of pajamas. A letter hints of surprise to the wearer. Lightnut dons the pajamas and late at night gets up for a smoke. His servant Jenkins comes in and failing to recognize Lightnut, attempts to put him out. Thinking the servant crazy, Lightnut changes his clothes intending to summon help. When he reappears Jenkins falls on his neck with joy, confirming Lightnut's belief that he is crazy. Jenkins tells Lightnut of the encounter he had with a hideous Chinaman dressed in pajamas in a message from his friend, Jack Billings. Lightnut is asked to put up "the kid" for the night on his way home from college. Later Lightnut finds a beautiful girl in black pajamas in his room. Lightnut is shocked by the girl's drinking, smoking and slangy talk. She tells him her name is Frances and puzzles him with a story of her love for her sister's room-mate, named Frances. Next morning the girl is missing and Lightnut hurries to the boat to see her off. He is accompanied by a husky college boy, who calls him "Dicky" but he does not see the girl. Jack Billings calls to spend the night with Lightnut. They discover priceless rubies hidden in the buttons of the pajamas. Billings dons the pajamas and retires. Lightnut later discovers in his apartment a beefy person in mutt-chop whiskers and wearing pajamas. Jenkins calls the police and the intruder is to be a criminal, called "Foxy Grandpa." The intruder declares he is Lightnut's guest and appeals to the latter in vain. He is hustled off to jail. In the morning Lightnut is astonished to find Billings gone, and more astonished when he gets a message from the latter, demanding his clothes. Lightnut, bound for Tarrytown, Billings' home, discovers "Frances," the girl of the pajamas. Lightnut speaks to her and she alludes to the night before. She declares indignantly that Lightnut never saw her in black pajamas. At Tarrytown, Lightnut meets a jumpy college youth, who calls Lightnut as "Dicky." The latter ignores the boy, who then threatens to throw him over the side of the train. Lightnut takes the next train home. Billings storms over the outrage of his arrest. He and Lightnut discover mysterious Chinese characters on the pajamas. Professor Doosenberry is called in to interpret the hieroglyphics. He reads over what is the last silk of a Ling-Chi. The writing declares that a person wearing the pajamas will take on the semblance of the previous wearer. The professor borrows the pajamas for experiment.

"Poor Francis," she said lightly. "Do you know," she added, "I believe I can forgive a Harvard man almost anything, Mr. Lightnut."

"By Jove! The angel! And before I knew what I was doing or thought about the frump, I had stretched out a hand to her, looking her straight in the eye and smiling. She hesitated an instant only, then laughed, and I felt her little fingers just brush my palm—but it was enough.

She flushed a little shyly and addressed the frump.

"Are we going to keep Mr. Lightnut standing like this all day?" she asked.

"Half on earth and half in heaven—like what's-his-name's coffin," I suggested. Devilish good, that, don't you think? She thought so, for she opened the door herself as the frump turned, murmuring some silly thing about China and the open door to America. What did China have to do with it?

And it was just then that Jenkins boomed wildly from the building.

"Mr. Lightnut—quick, sir! Mr. Billings, sir!"

I thought of the telephone ring off, but he just caught my arm. First time ever knew Jenkins to take a liberty.

"Come quick, sir!" he exclaimed. "He's up-stairs and, oh, off his nut, sir—awful!"

"By Jove!" I gasped. "Excuse me—will you—come right back and tell me—I feared this last night." And I rushed to the elevator with Jenkins.

"He's in them black pajamas he was talking about," said Jenkins gloomily, "and he's run the professor off. Lemme see, he ain't there, and his man can't get Mr. Billings to go. He came down for me, but I couldn't do a thing with him, either."

I knew—I understood. It was the dwelling of his mind upon the rubies! He had gone back in the night for them—in his sleep, for all I knew. But I thought most likely awake, for recent experience with him showed me that he didn't think anything of wandering around the neighborhood in his pajamas.

The janitor's pale face met us at the landing.

"I sent for the police, sir, and it would be a good idea, don't you think, if you could get him away before they come. I don't want to get Mr. Billings into no trouble."

"Good idea," I agreed. "We'll just rush him to the par—but, h'm!"

I suddenly remembered he was in pajamas. It might be all right to rush him to wander around in public places—and vehicles in his night clothes, but certainly wouldn't do under the present circumstances. He might get away, but then, there were the feelings of the girls to consider. And besides, dash it, I had some sort of ink it was against the law.

Billings was standing by the window looking at a glass thermometer that he had just withdrawn from his mouth.

"H'm!" he grunted complacently. "My fever and a little—my usual healthy subnormal temperature. Temperature—regulation—twenty-two and one-half—excellent, except lent! I am myself. Ha!" And he whirled triumphantly.

"Ah!" he said, advancing eagerly and rubbing his hands. "It is you! You have heard, then? Marvelous, isn't it—wholly incredible! But do you know—here he plucked at my shirt front, took a pinch, as it were, just as he had seen the professor do—I cannot find any transmigration. The materialization appears to be wholly optical."

"Never mind," I said anxiously, for I knew he was talking about the rubies; "we don't care." I smiled brightly. "Let's go down and see the car—nice car!" And I tried to get hold of his fat side, but missed it.

"Car?" Billings looked puzzled. Then his face broke into a smile. "Carpe diem—eh, am I not right? True, true! Whither you say." He looked about on a table. "Um—my notes, now," he muttered; and he caught up a small book and a pencil.

The professor's man protested: "Professor Doosenberry don't like—"

"Oh, dash it, let him have them!" I exclaimed, for Billings was already chuckling happily and writing in the little blank book.

"Come on," I pleaded, catching a fold of the pajamas. "Wouldn't you like to come get some clothes on?"

He drew back in alarm. "No, no—not yet—not until I complete my notes," was his crazy answer. "You know! subita causa, tollitur effectus!" And he looked as though he thought this would finish me.

"But your friend," he exclaimed suddenly, as he allowed me to throw a blanket about his shoulders and we moved out of the door, "the gentleman I met last night—Billings—is not that the name?"

I looked at him miserably as we entered the car to go down.

"Oh, I say, Billings, old chap," I protested earnestly, "don't you know me?" I pointed to the little panel of mirror in the cage. "Don't you know you are Billings? Can't you see?"

His fat head pecked at the glass for an instant. Then he looked at me with eager, batting eyes. He chuckled hoarsely, gurglingly, and out came the note-book and pencil from his sleeve.

"Better and better," he muttered. "Now, if we could only go to him!"

about her beauty! Beauty! Poor old Jack! If I had been sad about him before, it was a devilish sight worse now—

Worse? Why, dash it, she kissed him!

And to see him standing there, kind of batting and rolling his eyes and looking like a girl does when she's trying a strange piece of candy out of the box—oh, it just broke me all up!

No wonder he was crazy! Why, dash it, he would have to be crazy!

He was muttering to himself.

"Remarkable!" I heard. "Singularly sensate and exhilarating! Now, I never would have thought—um!"

And then he very deliberately took her head between his hands and—kissed her. Then he looked upward thoughtfully and did it again—like a chicken drinks water—you know!

And then while we—that is, Jenkins and I—were trying to urge him on, out came the note-book again and he scribbled rapidly, muttering audibly: "Labial osculation—extraordinary stimulation—sensatory ganglia—mucous membrane—"

"Police!" I whispered brutally in the frump's ear. "Better let's get him away!" And, by Jove, that woke her out of her trance! In two minutes she had calmed him to the car and we had him inside on the cushions. We bunched blankets and rugs about him to hide the pajamas.

"Jacky, dear," gushed the Chinese freak, "wouldn't you like for me to sit by you and hold your poor hand?"

It looked as if he would.

The frump turned to me. "Can you drive the car, Mr. Lightnut?"

Could I? Well, I would show her! Especially as Frances had changed to the front as she saw us bringing out Billings.

"Take the train—get Billings' things from the club," I called to Jenkins. "Sharp, now! And here, unhook that number there on the back—give it here!"

Jenkins hesitated. "I think there's a heavy fine, sir," he hinted.

I snapped my fingers at him and he jumped to obey.

"Worse things than a jolly fine," I said, looking at poor Billings smiling crazily over the frump. I threw the number plate into the car.

She looked back, waving her head at the figure of O'Keefe trotting from around the corner, and her laughter pealed joyously, deliciously in my ear.

"Oh, I think American men are great—are wonderful!" she cried, striking her little hands together. "Especially Harvard men—and especially—"

She stopped with the faintest catch.

"By Jove!" I cried. "Do you mean it?"

And for the briefest instant the hands were three; but her scream brought me back to earth just in time to save the lives of a man and a boy. Devilish ungrateful, too, for I could see the man, three blocks behind, and still shaking his fist. The way with these pedestrians!

At Fifty-ninth street we caromed with a hansom trotting too leisurely across the plaza, and I listened for nearly a block to the remarks of a bicycle cop before he dropped behind. What dashed me not a little was Billings' indifference to the record I was making for his car—didn't seem to care a jolly hang.

The frump was still hanging on him in a way to make you sick, and cooing and going on in a nervous, half-hysterical way I never would have thought her able to chirp up to. And Billings was holding her hand!

"Hello!" I called to him, just after we clipped Yonkers.

He looked up at me, smiling and nodding.

"Feel all right now, old man?" I inquired cheerily.

Billings looked at me hard, and then, dash it, he winked! And I began to wonder, by Jove, if it was just plain drunk.

CHAPTER XX.

My Darling is Standered.

Seemed to be only about a minute more and we were clipping through the curves of the Wolhurst park—Frances pointed the way—and had slowed down under the porte-cochere. The frump whispered to the man who opened the door.

"As quietly as possible, Wilkes," she said, "and without his father seeing him."

"The judge is away, miss," said the man. "He drove down to the village with Senator Soakem, who had to catch a train back to Albany; but I'm looking for him every—"

"Be quick, then," jerked the frump. "You know what to do."

"I guess I do, miss," answered the butler gloomily. "I've had to do it often enough—Perkins and me. A good cold sose—that's the thing—and then bed. I know!"

Billings waved his hand to the frump as he mounted the stairway inside. And then, dash it, he kissed his fingers.

The frump kind of glared down the deserted vista of the fine old hall and shrugged her shoulders.

"Everybody loafing, as usual," she muttered sourly, and she hurled her coat at the carven back of a great cathedral chair—and missed it.

It was clear that her type scorned conventionalities and knew how to make themselves thoroughly at home.

"I hope you'll be made comfortable here, Mr. Lightnut," she said, peeling a glove with a jerk, "but I have my doubts."

And she gave a kind of hollow laugh. "Awwfully tiresome, these country places," I said sympathetically. "I screwed my glass at a couple of footmen who came into view at the far end of the hall, and who were whispering and chuckling about something. "Things seem to be run a bit loose, don't you know—that's a fact. Don't mind for myself, but fancy a girl might find it rather trying visiting here."

By Jove, how she opened her eyes at me—surprised, I knew, at finding me such a devilish keen observer. My sympathy touched her, too, for her eyeballs shone moist of a sudden and I saw her lip tremble as she stared. Then she swallowed hard and slipped her gloves sharply across her palm.

"It's Francis that's to blame for that sort of thing," she rasped, nodding down the hall.

"Frances?" I ejaculated in protest.

"Oh, here, I say, now—"

"You don't know Francis, Mr. Lightnut!" Her jaw grounded with a snap, and what a look she gave me! "Wait till you do—just wait!" And eyes and hands lifted to the ceiling.

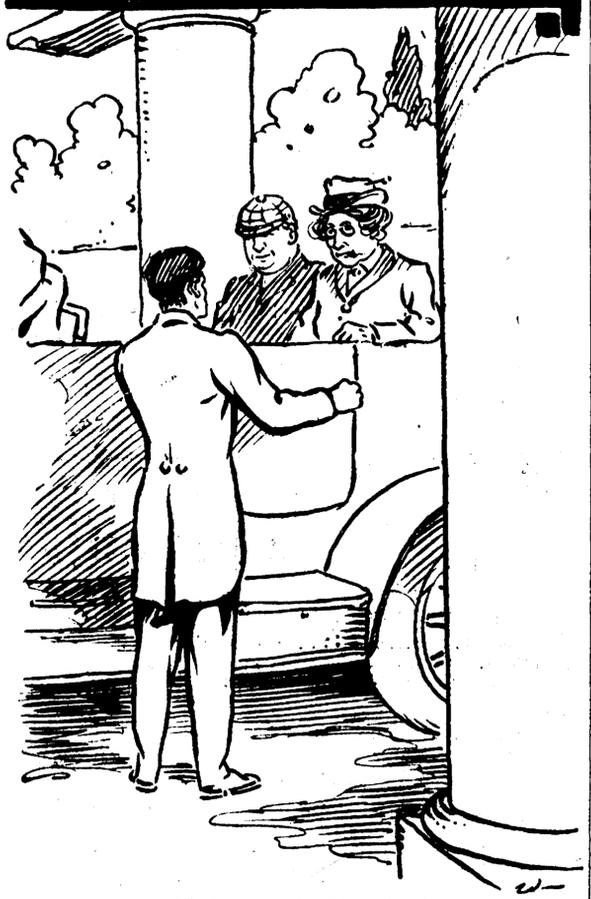

I coughed again.

"The cat! And this was my darling's friend!"

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Reicks of the Guillotine.

At the prison of St. Paul's, at Lyons, France, there is a curious collection of pens. They are the pens with which the executioners have signed the regulation receipts for the prisoners handed over to them to be guillotined. At each execution a fresh pen is used for the purpose, and the ink is left to dry upon it.

"As quietly as possible, Wilkes."

He caught my arm. "In the interest of this investigation of scientific phenomena, would he consider a call intrusive—could we not seek your friend, Mr. Billings?"

"It's all right, you know," I gently reassured him. "Yes, we're going to him—going right there. Just a little ride, you know."

By Jove, the way he cackled made my heart ache! I whispered to Jenkins to run ahead and prepare the ladies. But the first thing we saw as the cage hit the bottom was a woman—dash it, the frump from China!

She gave a little scream and fell on Billings' neck, almost bearing him to the ground.

"Oh, Jacky, Jacky!" she sobbed.

By Jove, I almost fell myself! No, that was the way the wind lay! And I had never even so much as suspected. That was why he had raved so

PURE-WHOLESOME-RELIABLE

MADE FROM CREAM OF TARTAR DERIVED SOLELY FROM GRAPES, THE MOST DELICIOUS AND WHOLE-SOME OF ALL FRUIT ACIDS

Its superiority is unquestioned
Its fame world-wide
Its use a protection and a guarantee against alum food

Alum baking powders are classed by physicians detrimental to health.

Many consumers use alum baking powders unaware. They are allured to the danger by the cry of cheapness, by fake tests and exhibitions and false and flippant advertisements in the newspapers. Alum baking powders do not make a "pure, wholesome and delicious food" any more than two and two make ten.

If you wish to avoid a danger to your food, READ THE LABEL and decline to buy or use any baking powder that is not plainly designated as a cream of tartar powder.

The Only Way.

An elder while baptizing converts at a revival meeting advanced with a wiry, sharp-eyed old chap into the water. He asked the usual question, whether there was any reason why the ordinance of baptism should not be administered. After a pause a tall, powerful-looking man who was looking quietly on remarked:

"Elder, I don't want to interfere in yer business, but I want to say that this is an old sinner you have got hold of, and that one dip won't do him any good; you'll have to anchor him out in deep water over night."—Life.

IT IS CRIMINAL TO NEGLECT THE SKIN AND HAIR

Think of the suffering entailed by neglected skin troubles—mental because of disfiguration, physical because of pain. Think of the pleasure of a clear skin, soft, white hands, and good hair. These blessings, so essential to happiness and even success in life, are often only a matter of a little thoughtful care in the selection of effective remedial agents. Cuticura Soap and Ointment do so much for poor complexions, red, rough hands, and dry, thin and falling hair, and cost so little, that it is almost criminal not to use them. Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold everywhere, a postal to "Cuticura," Dept. L, Boston, will secure a liberal sample of each, with 32-page booklet on skin and scalp treatment.

Vogue in Outer Garments.

According to the Dry Goods Economist, at the present time retailers are featuring wraps of charmeuse and satin. The best sellers are the medium-priced numbers retailing from $10 to $30. These are usually attractively lined in some bright color, giving a pleasing contrast. Lace collars and cuffs are often used as a finishing touch and are very effective, while white lace is used largely for this purpose. Some garments are shown trimmed with black lace, which is out away to show the lining underneath.

What She Wants.

"I want you to build me a fashionable home."

"Have you any special ideas as to the style of house you want?" asked the architect.

"Not exactly. I want one of those modern places. You know the kind I mean—one with a living room too big to keep warm and a kitchen too small to cook in."—Detroit Free Press.

Starting Silo Sensation! New Saginaw Feature

Anchoring the base of stave silos as the giant roots anchor for centuries the great oak—the final step in making complete the stave silo.

Eventually all silo users will recognize the fact that the stave silo keeps silage perfectly; and to overcome the last objection, the fear of the stave silo blowing down, and to make an even better and stronger silo, we have been eagerly searching for new ideas. Many years ago we developed the Saginaw All-Steel Door Frame, adding convenience, solidity and great strength to the entire structure. The same enterprise, together with keen foresight, developed in 1911, the

Saginaw Inner Anchoring Hoop

one of the great successes in modern silo construction. And now—1912—with all wondering what possibly could be added to the Saginaw Silo, our engineering department has created and proved through exhaustive tests, a device wonderfully effective and remarkably simple in design and construction, and like all great inventions, "It's a wonder it wasn't thought of before." This invention will be known to the world as

The Saginaw Base Anchor

Like all important Silo improvements you get the Base Anchor only in the Saginaw. We will be glad to tell you more about this wonderful improvement. We have a new book showing dozens of interesting views of our four large plants. This new Book, entitled "The Building of a Silo", also contains very recent and complete information on silage. We have a copy for you. Write for it—or better, come in and get your Book and we'll talk it over.

Pinckney Defeats South Lyon

Pinckney defeated South Lyon at South Lyon Saturday by a score of 10 to 2. Pinckney again changed her line-up, Moran going to third, VanHorn to second and Hendee to left. Ward Swarhout was in the box for Pinckney and had South Lyon eating from his hand at all stages of the game.

The Pinckney infield hogged all the chances allowing four hits. The fact that the Pinckney outfield never got a chance, shows the brand of ball that he pitched. His control was good as he only issued two passes. The Pinckney team fielded in fine shape only making three errors which were on hard chances. H. Swarhout secured a double and a triple and Kennedy two singles.

The Pinckney Grammer school was defeated by the South Lyon Grammer school last Saturday by a score of 12 to 6. The features of the game were the batting of L. Murphy for Pinckney who secured 8 hits in 4 times up and the fielding of the South Lyon team. Pinckney's line-up was as follows: L. Harris, 2, C. Reason, c, D. Lavey, 3, VanHorn, p, Cook, 1b, L. Woman Finally Recovers From Nervous Breakdown Impoverished nerves destroy many people before their time. Often before a sufferer realizes what the trouble is, he is on the verge of a complete nervous breakdown. It is of the utmost importance to keep your nervous system in good condition, as the nerves are the source of all bodily power.

"For many years I suffered from nervous prostration; I was unable to do any house work and doctors failed to help me. Remedies I tried from druggists did not do me a particle of good. A neighbor told my husband about and he procured a bottle. After the first few doses I showed a marked improvement and after taking two bottles I was entirely cured. I have been perfectly well for years and cannot praise Dr. Miles' Nervine too highly."

If you are troubled with loss of appetite, poor digestion, weakness, inability to sleep; if you are in a general run down condition and unable to bear your part of the daily grind of life, you need something to strengthen your nerves. You may not realize what is the matter with you, but that is no reason why you should delay treatment.

Dr. Miles' Nervine

has proven its value in nervous disorders for thirty years, and merits a trial, no matter how many other remedies have failed to help you. Sold by all druggists. If first bottle fails to benefit your money is returned. MILES MEDICAL CO., Elkhart, Ind.

MISTAKES AND MOTIVES.

The world is freer to criticize a mistake than to consider a motive. It is working the fiddle-strings of popular applause for all they are worth. The man who, refusing to play to the galleries, goes on doing the best he knows how, acting from a sincere motive, suffers some disparagement. He does not succeed often in getting the world to see the why and wherefore of his action, because it is not in line with what at the time the world regards as proper, says the Omaha Bee. The truth is, words are overvalued in the mart of public discussion and deeds pay the penalty of the shorts. There is too much watered stock in one and too little attention to the intrinsic value of the other. "Words are good and only so when backed by deeds." That is the maxim of the man with a motive to hinge his "mistake" upon, however unfairly some of the old friends of this truism may be treating it. An ancient wise man phrased the same principle another way: "For as he thinketh in his heart, so is he." He who moves from the standpoint of stern conviction may make mistakes, but he is a much safer man to follow than the one who trails his wireless to catch the currents of popular thought.

You can buy an almanac now for a penny or less, and a tradesman will send you one with his compliments for nothing, but the first printed specimen published at Nuremberg, in 1475, was thought such a wonderful thing that it was sold at ten golden crowns a copy—more than its weight in gold. The first English printed almanac was the "Shepherds' Calendar," translated from the French, and printed by Richard Pynson in 1497, and the first popular almanac of the "Old Moore" type was the "Pronostycon of Master John Thybaut, medyciner and astronomer of the Emperall Majestie of the year of our Lorde MCCCXXXIIJ." Besides prophesying "wars, revolutions and the death of kings," that early almanac told you the proper day to take physic, Monday was the day for ailments of the legs, Tuesday for affections of the head, etc. But what the unfortunate sufferer was to do who had a pain on the wrong day it does not state, says the London Chronicle. You must take pains at the proper time.

That some of the men who were rescued from the Titanic were less heroic than those who went down with the ship is a moderate way of putting an unpleasant truth. Mrs. Hippach of Chicago, one of the women survivors, said that the boat in which she and her daughter (who saved contained 31 women and two men, one of the latter being a Spaniard who carried a poodle dog in his arms. The women, who were rowing, asked him to take an oar and help, but he said he couldn't as he had to mind his dog.

For the first time in the history of the world, airships have been used as war machines. The Italian dirigibles which wiped out a Turkish camp by bombs dropped from above, themselves out of range, indicate what a terrible thing the war of the near future will be with all the engines of destruction made possible by new inventions and new resources.

One little German town alone does an annual business in toys aggregating $4,000,000 in value. Amusing the little ones is more of a serious business enterprise than many think. In fact, it ranks among the trades of vast proportions. And it is safe to say that its products give more solid satisfaction in the world than those of most any other manufacture.

The Swiss plumber at Zurich who has been sentenced to a year's imprisonment for fraud, because he was found to be engaged to 16 girls at the same time, apparently needed a helper if ever a plumber did. It is only natural that he should feel relieved at being sent to jail, for all the girls still want to marry him.

A Pennsylvania man lost his life in the effort to win the proud record of drinking 15 glasses of gin in one sitting. And the wits of the press had themselves deadlocked over the question whether he died in good or bad spirits.

A stir boarder in Philadelphia poured hot water over his landlady when she demanded pay for his board. The remonstrance was rather novel, but naturally, the law proceeded to pour cold water on the form of his objection to pay.

We shouldn't be at all surprised to hear that the man in Portland, Ore., who has been fined $100 and sent to jail for six months for speaking over the telephone is swearing softly to himself.

Congress May Sanction the Parole of Federal Life Prisoners—Superintendent of House Press Gallery Proves Himself a Veteran.

By GEORGE CLINTON.
Washington.—Representative Gardner of the Sixth district of Massachusetts acted as a showman before an audience in the bureau of the coast and geodetic survey the other day. He presented a series of moving pictures, one of which showed a French fishing schooner in the North Sea dragging up fish by means of what are called otter trawls.

There is a movement to give legislative force to an international agreement which will prevent the use of trawls of this kind by fishermen. The trawls go down deep, the object being to catch big fish, but in their operation it is said they kill thousands of small fish and unless their use be prohibited, it is possible, even probable, it is said, that the world before many years would be confronted with a famine in sea food. It is said that if this should come the problem of feeding the world would become one absolutely unsolvable.

The house of representatives has passed a bill, which also has been favorably reported by a senate committee, to allow the paroling of United States prisoners, who are serving life sentences, at the expiration of the fifteenth year of their imprisonment. Recently there has been a movement in many of the states to extend the parole laws to men serving life sentences and as has been marked in a number of instances recently, the government seems to be inclined to follow examples set by the individual states. As things are at present, a man who is sentenced by a federal court to life imprisonment has only two chances of having his liberty restored, one by bringing forward incontrovertible proof that he was innocent and was sentenced under a mistake, and the other by the pardon of the president.

Story About Charles H. Mann.
Not long ago in one of these dispatches there was a short sketch of Col. Charles H. Mann, superintendent of the house press gallery. As was said then, Mr. Mann has been looking after the interests of Washington correspondents for so many years that he has virtually forgotten when his service began.

The other day Louis Brownlow of Tennessee, a Washington correspondent, made a discovery. Mr. Brownlow had been going through the files of old newspapers in the library of congress. He walked over to the press gallery and said that in a copy of the Harrisburg Keystone of 1839 he had found mention of the fact that Charles H. Mann had just been appointed postmaster in the town of Doylestown, Pa. The superintendent of the press gallery overheard what Brownlow said and instantly speaking up said: "What did you say was the name of the town in which my namesake was appointed postmaster?"

"Doylestown, Pa.," said Brownlow.

"Now, I am going to prove to you that I am the man mentioned in that report," said Mr. Mann.

The correspondents know that Mr. Mann is a veteran, but they were all fairly sure that he never had been appointed postmaster in any place in the year 1839.

Made Himself Out Ninety-Four.
Mr. Mann went over to his office and in a few minutes returned with a commission made out to Charles H. Mann as postmaster at Doylestown, Pa., in the year 1839. It was signed by Ames Kendall, secretary of the treasury. Mr. Mann showed the commission triumphantly.

The correspondents took out their pencils and worked out a problem, the result of which showed that if their gallery superintendent, Charles H. Mann, had been appointed postmaster at Doylestown, Pa., in 1839, when he must have been at least twenty-one years old in order to be commissioned, he today had reached the age of ninety-four.

Then it was that "Charlie" Mann explained that his namesake who had been postmaster under the Jackson administration was his father and that he had kept the commission as a family heirloom.

Titanic Memorial Progresses.
The movement started in Washington to raise money for a memorial to those who perished in the Titanic disaster with special intention to honor the heroic manhood shown on that occasion is progressing rapidly. The plan of the "Women's Titanic Memorial," as the organization is called, has received a peculiarly warm welcome in the capital. One of the reasons of this is that to no other single American community was the horror of the disaster brought more closely home.

Maj. Archibald W. Butt, aid to President Taft, was unquestionably the best known and perhaps the most popular figure in all social events here, but the manner of his death and the tribute which was paid by surviving women to his labors on their behalf in the last hour on board the Titanic have proved that he had every quality of a soldier, a man and a hero.

The late Frank D. Millet held a place in the art circles of Washington which hardly can be filled. It is believed that the tribute paid by Senator Lodge to Mr. Millet at a recent memorial service will remain as his most lasting "written monument."

Women's Tribute to Manhood.

The memorial, such as the women promoters propose, will add to the capital a feature of art of a kind which Washington possesses few. There are monuments and statues here by hundreds, but only a few of them exploit any phase of human life except military glory. The present endeavor has for its object something which will commemorate "the bravery and self-sacrifice of men who far at sea on a starlit night stepped aside to die three women might live." It also will commemorate the devotion of one woman who preferred to stay with her husband to share death with him, and of another woman who stepped aside and gave a seat in the lifeboat to a woman who had children awaiting her at home.

The plan for the memorial was conceived by women and is being carried forward by women. Mrs. John Hay, widow of the former great secretary of state, is president of the association and Mrs. John Hayes Hammond, wife of the famous mining engineer, is its secretary. Mrs. Helen H. Taft, wife of the president of the United States, started the memorial fund by giving the first dollar. The wife of the vice-president of the United States, Mrs. Sherman, has pledged herself to obtain a contribution of one dollar from each of one thousand women.

Rucker's Novel Dinner.

A dinner which was in a sense a commemorative service was given here on the night of Memorial day by Representative A. W. Rucker of Colorado, who in the days of his youth was a soldier in the army of the Confederacy. Mr. Rucker was the host to 12 men in official position in the United States, most of them members of one or the other branch of congress, who wore the gray in the years from '61 to '65.

Never before this has anything of the kind been attempted in Washington. It is regarded here as a most graceful way of commemorating the northern Memorial day by veterans of the south. The guests were Chief Justice Edward D. White of the United States Supreme court, Louisiana; Associate Justice Horace H. Lurton, Tennessee; Senator John H. Bankhead, Alabama; Senator Augustus O. Bacon, Georgia; Senator Joseph P. Johnson, Alabama; Senator John R. Thornton, Louisiana; Senator Thomas B. Catron, New Mexico; and Representatives William Richardson, Alabama; George W. Taylor, Alabama; Albert Estopinal, Louisiana; John Lamb, Virginia; Joshua F. C. Talbot, Maryland; and Charles M. Stedman, North Carolina.

Only Flag There Old Glory.

The dinner was given in the apartments of Representative Rucker in the Rochambeau. While this was a reunion of Confederate veterans, there were no decorations of Confederate flags. The only flag was the "Stars and Stripes" which hung above the head of the table. Chief Justice White of the Supreme court at the request of the host acted as toastmaster. Each guest had a story to tell of the Civil war, including some of his personal experiences. There were no outsiders present to hear the old soldiers fight their battles over.

The chief justice of the United States was a private in the Confederate army and so was his colleague of the bench, Mr. Justice Lurton. Lurton served with General Buckner and was present at Fort Donelson when it was captured by General Grant. Lurton was among the prisoners. He was only a boy at that time and the chances are that the northern general had no thought that among the men whom he had captured after they had made a heroic resistance was a future justice of the Supreme court.

This reunion of Confederates was intentionally set for the National Memorial day as a tribute to the south to the heroes of the Federal army against whom the guests of the reunion fought for four long years on many battle fields. The dinner was cooked by southern black "mammies" who were known to be experts in the art of preparing food after the famous southern style.

Big Gettysburg Reunion.

Government aid has been asked of congress to forward the interests of the grand reunion of the soldiers of the blue and the gray at the fiftieth anniversary of the battle of Gettysburg. Committees have been appointed composed of northern and southern veterans to appear before the committees of congress on behalf of monetary aid for the reunion. The attempt will be to secure from the law makers authorization for the secretary of war to order a board of army officers to go to Gettysburg to make arrangements for the camp of the veterans, to see to it that there is adequate and proper water supply, and that the sanitation and sewerage of the camping ground are perfect, and that the best hospital facilities are afforded.

Further than this the secretary of war, if congress agrees, will be asked to provide all the equipment and the rations for the blue and the gray veterans during the continuance of the encampment. The program of the events will be in charge of the Gettysburg commission and everything is to be carried out under the instructions of army officers. It is expected that an appropriation of $150,000 will be granted, which will cover about half the "living expenses" of the reunion. It is expected that another $150,000 will be granted from the sum of $250,000 appropriated by the state of Pennsylvania within whose borders the reunion occurs.

INCIDENTS BEFORE THE BIG REPUBLICAN CONTEST IN THE COLISEUM AT CHICAGO

Chicago, June 16.—The chief duty of the Chicago hotel clerk just now is to point out the political celebrities. It has been necessary to describe big men of the convention for persons seeking them so many times that John Burk, head clerk of the Annex, can give finest identifying details of attire and build of a statesman in a moment.

A great part of the population of the hotel consists of newspaper, magazine, and free lance photographers. Twelve snaphotters were in an arc about Senator J. M. Dixon of Montana, Colonel Roosevelt's manager, when he consented to be photographed on his arrival.

Before the senator reached the hotel on Wednesday two men had been led out on Michigan avenue by the camera squad in the belief that each of the accommodating strangers was the Montana. One photographer would be "tipped off" that "the tall, white haired man in the Panama is Senator Dixon."

The stranger at once would be invited out in the street for different poses in the sun. Of the two cases of mistaken identity one was A. B. Butler of Washington, a Taft camp aid. It is said the other was a Boston linen salesman. He did not deny he was Senator Dixon, and posed graciously with and without his hat and facing in different advantageous angles.

A New One From Texas.

Col. Cecil Lyon of the Texas delegation, and an irrespressible supporter of Roosevelt, had a new story to tell to take the place of his old one about the cataclysm in Yoakum county, Texas, where a Democratic county convention instructed for Roosevelt, causing Wilson supporters to bolt.

"I was walking down the street with Charles Hilles in Washington the other day," began Colonel Lyon, after some one had said President Taft's secretary had arrived at the Blackstone hotel.

"A small delivery wagon passed," the colonel continued. "I looked up and saw four large volumes stacked on top with the titles facing us. Three of the books were reports of the Republican conventions of 1900, 1904 and 1908. The fourth was 'Programs of the Day,' by William H. Taft. I directed Mr. Hilles' attention to the load of books. He seemed offended."

Borah's Bushy Hair.

Senator Borah of Idaho is one of the few big men of the convention who cannot be called picturesque, unless his bushy hair entitles him to that description. It is said his only reason for wearing so much hair is to conceal a bad scar on the back of his head received in an accident in his youth.

Mr. Borah, like Jonah K. Kalanianohe, Hawaiian delegate, has a round, chubby, Buster Brown type of physiognomy. His dignity, however, is such that none would think of calling him "Cupid"—and that is the brown skinned islander's nickname in congress.

Has His Name on $5 Bill.

A southern delegate was much excited over the appearance of a tall negro at the Coliseum annex who figured in several conferences.

"Have you a $5 bill?" asked a friend. When the currency was produced the friend called attention to the signature of the registrar of the treasury, Judson Lyon.

"That same dark person over there is Judson Lyon, delegate from Georgia," was the explanation.

Urey Woodson's Story.

Urey Woodson, secretary of the Democratic national committee, is telling a story which has what he claims is a moral.

"You Republicans," says Mr. Woodson, "remind me of old Colonel Gunfire, who, although a Democrat, lived in a stronghold of Republicanism. One winter he blew in and asked to be sworn in as a member of the Democratic legislature.

"Colonel, did you sure enough beat a Republican?"

"Sub, I beat three of 'em at once."

"Now that is what we are going to do in less numbers. Get together and scrap, but after it is over watch us Democrats beat two of you, Taft and Teddy, all at once."

Want Sherman Renominated.

Former Governor Franklin Murphy of New Jersey took his seat with the national committee minus the vice-presidential boom which he had with him four years ago. This year Mr. Murphy is singing the praises of Vice-President Sherman for another term.

"I know that custom is against renominating a vice-president," he said, "but there is a strong current in favor of renominating Vice-President Sherman. It will probably be an eastern man and all the gossip I have heard has been for Sherman."

Mr. Murphy added that the "vice-presidential bee" has ceased to buzz in his direction.

A group of out-of-town newspaper representatives were on the point of making an amputation in the vicinity of the Coliseum of emergency cafes for reference in times of busy sessions.

"Col. Cecil Lyon has just put through a notice making newspaper men guests at a cafe service to be installed in headquarters at once," said a committeeman who left the session before adjournment.

Colonel Lyon was proposed for dark horse candidate—immediately and unanimously.

Good Nature the Rule.

Good nature is the rule among all of the national committeemen and delegates. None is too harassed by dizzying political entanglements to deny any one a smile and handshake.

"An old crab has lots of luck in this game—I don't think!" laughed Senator Dixon, Roosevelt's manager, after he had passed out a dozen pulsating hand grasps. Then he walked over to former Senator Dick—Taft contest director—in the lobby of national committee headquarters at the Coliseum annex and slapped him on the back.

"Lo," said Mr. Dixon.

"Right back at you, senator," smiled Mr. Dick.

Those who were near the two chiefs of the hostile camps could hear a boyish "Joe" and "Charley" being exchanged at times. They were like old college chums. Friendly eye twinkling scenes between chiefs and lieutenants and subalterns of the opposing forces were common.

One noteworthy meeting that started amicably and ended in a torrid argument was between Joseph Keating of Indiana and Congressman Lucius C. Littauer of New York.

Importance of the Bell Boys.

The bell boys of the big hotels have been pressed into service for all sorts of duties. They not only carry ice water and life preservers to the various headquarters and rooms of delegates, but also serve in the capacity of page, "state house messenger," marshal of delegations, office boy, introducer, and general headquarters attaché.

There are hundreds of different documents to be exchanged between headquarters, with verbal explanations to go to the men in charge.

"Here's the list of delegates from Alabama with the Twenty-third district left out," a delegation chief explains to the boy in buttons. "Take it up to Senator Blank with my compliments, and inform him I will send the rest to him in half an hour."

When a hop was dispatched with a copy of the recommendations of the rules committee, to be submitted to the national committee, a senator remarked:

"That young man has a mission of more widespread influence than that of any other boy in America."

"Whoo-ee," sighed a bell boy. He was counting change. "Nine hours on the hop and only $1.60 in tips. I am going to vote the Democratic ticket straight."

Teddy's Bulldog.

When the Roosevelt press bureau arrived from Washington they brought with them a new campaign song, which is causing a smile even among the Taft delegations. It is to the tune of "Casey Jones."

Teddy's gotta dawg, but he aint no hound,
He's a square jawed bull, and his face is round,
His legs is short, and he's close to the ground,
And you bet they ain't kickin' Teddy's dawg around.

CHORUS.

Square jawed bull, and his face is round,
Squared jawed bull, and his face is round,
Short legged bull, close to the ground,
And you bet they ain't kickin' Teddy's bull around.

The Democratic dawg, the unlucky hound
That the boys have all been kickin' around
Is the same old dawg that's been stickin' in 'round'
Since old Abe Lincoln came to Washington town.

And now he comes back, the measley hound,
With his face and his tail still hangin' down,
The hungry sly old lop eared hound,
No wonder the boys have been kickin' round.

All Taft Types.
It has been noticed that a great part of the delegates that have arrived are robust men. "All Taft types," commented an admirer of the president, Chief among the heavyweights is A. M. Stevenson, Colorado national committeeman, who hails from Denver. Mr. Stevenson weighs more than 300 pounds.

Delegation From Hawaii.
Seated in a corner of the Pompeian room at the Congress hotel was a little party composed of the Hawaiian delegation. Prince Kalanianohe, generally called "Prince Cupid," and C. A. Rice, delegates from the island; H. L. Holstein, national committeeman; A. Horner, secretary to the delegation, and Colonel S. Parker, the "Mark Hanna of Hawaii," made up the party.

"It can't be all work and no play," said the prince.

Since a Roosevelt delegation came into the Congress singing a parody on the "Houn' Dog," Taft supporters have begun to put themselves in practice for the campaign yells.

Short, lungy, foud' and sharp, they come in all varieties. Some are for use before and some after the nomination. A mourning song is being written, denouncing the fate of "Teddy," and several in jubilation, in anticipation of the success of Taft. A tarwell yell will be put in use later. The last line tells the whole story: "We're going home, we're broke."

HOW GIRLS MAY AVOID PERIODIC PAINS

The Experience of Two Girls Here Related For The Benefit of Others.

Rochester, N. Y.—"I have a daughter 13 years old who has always been very healthy until recently when she complained of dizziness and cramps every month, so bad that I would have to keep her home from school and put her to bed to get relief.

"After giving her only two bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound she is now enjoying the best of health. I cannot praise your Compound too highly. I want every good mother to read what your medicine has done for my child."—Mrs. RICHARD N. DUNHAM, 811 Exchange St., Rochester, N. Y.

Stoutsville, Ohio.—"I suffered from headaches, backache and was very irritable. A friend advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and before I had taken the whole of two bottles I found relief. I am only sixteen years old, but I have better health than for two or three years.

I cannot express my thanks for what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I had taken other medicines but did not find relief."—Miss CORA B. FOSTADGE, Stoutsville, Ohio, R.F.D., No. 1.

Hundreds of such letters from mothers expressing their gratitude for what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has accomplished for their daughters have been received by the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Company, Lynn, Mass.

Hundreds of people who would be horror-stricken at the suggestion of suicide by the rope-and-rafter method, are daily killing their best selves with the poison of self-pity.

Heard on the Waterfront.

Some ancient mariners were sitting in a seaport tavern relating their experiences of fogs.

"Ah!" said one old salt. "I've seen some pretty thick fogs in my time. Why, off the coast of Newfoundland the fog was sometimes so thick that we used to sit on the deck rail and lean against it! We were sitting one night as usual, with our backs to the fog, when suddenly the fog lifted, and we all went flop into the sea. A bit thick, wasn't it?"—San Francisco Chronicle.

Slow Travel.

Down in Oklahoma they have a railroad called the Midland Valley, which is noted for its slow trains. It is told that a young man of Tulsa asked the hand of a daughter from her parents and was refused on the ground that the daughter was too young.

"My daughter is going to Pawhuska tomorrow for a visit," said the father, who is a traveling man, "and if she doesn't remain more than a day or two she will be old enough when she gets back."

"But she may be an old maid by that time," protested the young man.—Kansas City Star.

WELL POSTED.

A California Doctor With Forty Years' Experience.

"In my forty years' experience as a teacher and practitioner along hygienic lines," says a Los Angeles physician, "I have never found a food to compare with Grape-Nuts for the benefit of the general health of all classes of people.

"I have recommended Grape-Nuts for a number of years to patients with the greatest success and every year's experience makes me more enthusiastic regarding its use.

"I make it a rule to always recommend Grape-Nuts, and Postum in place of coffee, when giving my patients instructions as to diet, for I know both Grape-Nuts and Postum can be digested by anyone.

"As for myself, when engaged in much mental work, my diet, twice a day consists of Grape-Nuts and Rich cream. I find it just the thing to build up gray matter and keep the brain in good working order.

"In addition to its wonderful effects as a brain and nerve food Grape-Nuts always keeps the digestive organs in perfect, healthy tone. I carry it with me when I travel, otherwise I am almost certain to have trouble with my stomach." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Strong endorsements like the above from physicians all over the country have stamped Grape-Nuts the most scientific food in the world. "There's a reason."

GOOD SOIL FOR AN ORCHARD

Must Be Prepared Sufficiently Deep and Drained So That Roots May Reach Into Subsoil.

First of all, the soil must be well drained and prepared sufficiently deep so that the roots may reach deep into the subsoil. Second, the surface soil must be cultivated frequently and a rotation of cover crops and catch crops employed so that a sufficient amount of plant food will be made available to promote a rapid, healthy growth rather than forcing the growth of the trees by the use of manures and fertilizers rich in nitrogen. In some rare instances the soil may be deficient in plant food, and the intelligent use of mineral plant foods will prove very beneficial.

It is when the orchards begin to produce large crops of fruit that the demands for plant food must be met if profitable crops of superior fruit are secured. At this time the roots of the trees have taken possession of practically all of the soil, and have utilized the larger portion of the available plant food so that the addition of manure or fertilizer is essential.

The function of the soil in furnishing the trees with nourishment is an exceedingly complex one, and there are certain well-defined laws that must be kept in mind for improvement and maintenance of the fertility of the soil that is occupied by the trees. Some orchardists advocate sod mulch, others depend upon cultivation and the liberal use of fertilizers and barn manures, others cover crops and mineral fertilizers as a means of improving and maintaining the fertility of orchard soils.

The fact that no two soils required the same line of treatment has caused a confusion of ideas in the management of orchard soils.

PROTECTION GIVEN TO TREES

Danger of Barking Can Be Avoided by Driving Stakes or Wrapping With Wire Fencing.

Many fruit trees are seriously injured, or even killed, by being barked with a singletree in cultivating. It takes a very careful man to get through the season in cultivating the orchard without doing any injury. On the average farm where the orchard is of minor importance, the farm hands and even the owner are careless and bark many trees. This danger can be avoided by driving three or four stout stakes around the tree as shown in the cuts and nailing some pieces at the top to hold them firm, says the Farm and Home. If wrapped with woven wire fencing, not even the pigs can injure your trees.

EFFECT OF WATER ON PLANTS

Kentucky Wonder Beans Thrive Surprisingly While Small Bed of Cannas Were Failure.

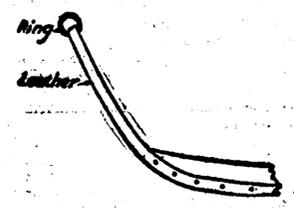

Last summer I undertook to keep alive a small bed of cannas, made by laying down the tire from the front wheel of a wagon, says a writer in the Florist. In another portion of the garden eight hills of Kentucky wonder beans were planted late in the summer in a circle about four feet in diameter. Eight superannuated sunflower stalks nine to ten feet tall were tied together by their tops to act as supports. An old can filled with fine, well-rotted manure and watered every other day was sunk in the center of the circle. The beans ran to the top of their supports and until frost came yielded a very liberal supply for a small family.

In the case of the cannas several barrels of water and countless adjectives were used. In the case of the beans a painful every other day. On this plan I have no patent and none applied for, nor expectations of reward of any kind. Without cost, it will save labor, plants and adjectives. Some critic might suggest that the beans were planted rather close together. So they were, but the garden soil was rich and strong. Besides this, they were of the "close communion" type in a Baptist garden. It was water that saved them.

SINGLETREE FOR AN ORCHARD

One Described and Illustrated That Has Been Used to Advantage in New York State.

In response to a query regarding singletree for use in cultivating young trees, I will endeavor to describe one I have seen used to good advantage in this section, writes Edwin Haight in the Rural New Yorker. The whiffletree is flat instead of rounded and each end is rounded from the back edge. A heavy strap, usually a piece of trace, is then bolted, or securely fastened, along the back edge and around the rounded end, leaving an end to the strap of about 18 inches or two feet, in which an iron ring is fastened, in which to hook the trace. I give a rough sketch of one end, showing ing how strap is fastened to whiffletree. This trap should be made long enough to hook directly on the handle. If desired, leaving nothing but smooth leather to come in contact with the trees.

Young Trees in Orchards.
Young trees planted in an old orchard very seldom give satisfaction. This is largely for the reason that young trees need different care from old ones, and also because the young trees will hardly receive as much sunshine as they should because of the shade they will get from the older trees.

Watering Plants.
When you water your plants do not merely sprinkle a little with the watering pot. It is better to take off the spout, turn a week and give the ground a thorough soaking.

DEVICE FOR PULLING TREES

Apparatus Shown in Illustration Found Entirely Satisfactory in Removing Brush.

For removing bushes and small trees the device illustrated herewith has proved very satisfactory. It consists of a five or six-foot stick of round, tough wood such as hickory, and, say, three inches in diameter, with a single-tree attached at one end and a trace chain at the other. The chain is passed around the sapling and hooked to the pole, says the Orange Judd Farmer. While a horse pulls the roots are cut with an ax on the opposite side, and soon the tree comes out with a rush.

Life of Peach Trees.
It is claimed that the most profitable period in the life of a peach tree is from 4 to 8 years. From a peach census taken last year in Orange county, N. Y., it seems that thorough cultivation is more essential to the peach tree than either pruning or spraying.

HORTICULTURAL NOTES

Fruit can be harvested at one-half the cost from low-headed trees. Fall is the best season for planting all deciduous trees and bushes. Cherries will not thrive planted on low, moist or cold, heavy soils. Any good dry land that will grow the regular farm crops will grow cherries. The future of apple growing has never looked so bright as it does today.

The fungicidal value of lime-sulphur is increased by the addition of arsenate of lead. Grapes are apt to overbear and it is never safe to let them set all the fruit they will. Healthy foliage held late in the season enables the trees to build stronger buds for the next crop.

Arsenate of lead which is held over from the year before will be good if it has not dried out and become a hard lump. Where the San Jose scale is troublesome the currant is objectionable in the orchard as it affords a great harbor for these pests. Don't expect a small knapsack sprayer will do the work for large fruit trees. It is not large or strong enough. You need a barrel pump.

The common Bordeaux mixtures, sometimes called the 4-4-4 mixture, is composed of 4 pounds bluestone, 4 pounds quicklime and 40 gallons of water. For scab, leaf spot, brown rot, mildew and leaf blight, use the Bordeaux mixture before leaves or blossoms open on apple, peach, pear, plum or cherry trees.

If a cold wet spell comes when apples are in bloom, spray with Bordeaux mixture to prevent scab. This fungus is always most destructive in a cool, wet spring. An interesting scheme of selection in growing annuals is to start with the A's in the seed catalogue and plant a certain number each year until the entire alphabet has been covered.

UNVEIL STATUE OF COLUMBUS

GREAT THROG OF 100,000 PRESENT FOR UNVEILING OF MAGNIFICENT MEMORIAL.

VISITORS COME FROM ALL PARTS OF THE COUNTRY.

Memorial is in Granite and Stands Forty-five Feet High at the Gates of the National Capital.

The United States paid homage to the discoverer of America by the unveiling of a beautiful memorial fountain erected at Washington by congress to Christopher Columbus, the humble Genoese navigator who opened the portals of this hemisphere to civilization, Christianity and liberty.

Standing at the very gates of the nation's capital the memorial seemed a gigantic magnet drawing a representative throng from every corner of America. One hundred thousand visitors crowded within the city, according to the estimates of committees conducting the ceremonies. Half of that number were members of the Knights of Columbus, gathered from near and far to give tribute to the patron of their order.

President Taft spoke his praises of the man who made the United States possible. In recollection of the allegiance of Columbus to the king of Italy, the Marquis Cusani Confalonieri, the Italian ambassador at Washington, unveiled the memorial by releasing two huge American flags, whose folds hung to the granite shaft and marble statue of Columbus surmounting the fountain.

A mammoth pageant of military splendor and civic simplicity accompanied the unveiling ceremonies. Simultaneously with the beginning of the exercises the parade formed in front of the White House, moved along the broad expanse of Pennsylvania avenue and the Union station, before which the memorial is erected.

Masqued about President Taft on the stands surrounding the memorial were members of the cabinet and congress, justices of the supreme court and practically the entire diplomatic corps. Mr. Thos. A. Shaahan, rector of the Catholic university, opened the ceremonies with an invocation; Justice Victor J. Dowling, of the supreme court of New York, delivered the initial oration, reciting the encomiums of the ages upon America's discoverer, and Jas. T. McCleary, of the Columbus memorial commission, followed with an eulogy just before the Italian ambassador, with a few words of tribute to his illustrious countryman, revealed the monument to the view of the world.

MAGREGOR CONVICTED.

Uby Physician Found Guilty of Poisoning Cyril Sparling.

Dr. Robert A. MacGregor was found guilty of murder in the first degree in causing the death of Cyril Sparling of Uby in August, 1911, by arsenical poisoning. The jury was out three hours and as the hours slipped by the great crowd that has been daily in attendance dwindled until but a few remained to hear the verdict. At 11:50 o'clock the jury announced it had agreed. Judge Beach was called, and "Guilty in the first degree!" fell from the foreman's lips.

Mrs. Carrie Bodie Sparling, mother of the alleged victim, will be tried on the same charge. She was bound over to the circuit court several weeks ago after having been held jointly with the doctor. She is at present at liberty on bail.

Two freights on the Lake Shore railroad crashed head on in the yards at Hillsdale. Both engines were badly damaged, and a couple of cars derailed. Fireman Fred Squires sustained a sprained ankle when he jumped from the engine.

Regulations for transportation of baggage proposed by nearly every railroad in the United States which in effect would advance the rates on "excess" were suspended by the interstate commerce commission. The suspension becomes effective on July 1 and continues in force for 120 days.

NEWS OF MICHIGAN

Traverse City.—Delegates from all over western Michigan to the number of 125, attended the twelfth annual convention of the Companion Foresters. One of the features of the meeting was exhibition drills by crack degree teams. Chief High Ranger R. J. McDonald of Muskegon, and several other high officers were in attendance.

Battle Creek.—A running fight occurred here between officers and two youths from Charlotte and two brakemen on a Grand Trunk freight train. The youths, Philip Morehouse and William Paul, robbed a barber shop in Charlotte and made their escape on a freight. Officers there notified the police here and two detectives went to the Grand Trunk yards to await the arrival of the train. When it slowed down near the city the young men jumped off and ran through the yards. The brakemen opened fire, also the officers, and one of the youths returned it. The chase lasted ten minutes until Morehouse ducked into a swamp. Paul, being wounded, gave up.

Kalamazoo.—Pastors and lay delegates from the Christian churches of Michigan, in convention here, heard an address by T. B. Preston of Ionia in which he declared that it was just as important for a preacher to be a good business man as a good preacher. The church during the course of a year handles great sums of money. The church also is forced to raise much money. For these reasons, he said, preachers ought to be good business men.

Marshall.—Louis E. Stewart, county manager for the "dry" forces, has announced that the campaign to turn Calhoun county back to the "dry" column will open next month. He claims that he will have the best organization that the "drys" have had in previous campaigns. A canvass for funds will start as soon as the organization is perfected.

Bad Axe.—Dr. Robert A. MacGregor was found guilty of murder in the first degree. MacGregor is the Uby physician who was accused of murdering Seyrel Sparling by the administration of poison. Special Prosecutor Snow began the closing argument for the state, occupying nearly the entire day's session in presenting his case.

Battle Creek.—What may develop into a poisoning case happened here when Jay Preston Roberts, eight-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Roberts of Newton township, died in convulsions in the waiting room of the Michigan Central here. Mother and child, accompanied by Doctor Leland of East Leroy, were on their way to Ann Arbor, where the child was to be given treatment, when death occurred before help could be given. Mrs. Roberts is a frail woman and had parted with her husband several months ago and was living at the home of a cousin. A post-mortem examination will be held.

Hillsdale.—David Millar was arraigned before Justice Weaver charged with cruelty to his five-year-old stepdaughter, Beatrice Bowen. The precise charge is whipping her until welts were raised, but the prosecutor has a witness who says Millar hung the girl up by thumbs half an hour, and on another occasion tied her to a bed post for many hours. The examination is set for the last of the week. He failed to furnish $1,000 bail.

Morrice.—Hiram Lovejoy, aged seventy years, died from the effects of a paralytic stroke. A peculiar coincidence was that his wife died just two weeks ago to the day but half an hour earlier. Mr. Lovejoy was an old soldier and was settling up his affairs to move to California to finish his days, after living on a farm in Locke 43 years. He leaves one daughter.

Ironwood.—Pending the investigation of the affairs of the German bank of Sheboygan, Wis., the Bank of Ironwood has closed its doors. The two institutions were closely allied and, following a run of $30,000 on the Ironwood bank, business was suspended.

Owosso.—For the second time Charles Holman, an Owosso tobacco merchant, has been granted a divorce from Janette Holman, whom he remarried several years ago after a separation in Canada. Mrs. Holman is given the custody of their two children.

Lapeer.—Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Winn of Oregon township lost their nine-months-old son in a peculiar way. She placed the little fellow in his cab on the porch. The heavy wind overturned the cab and the child's neck was broken.

Traverse City.—Mrs. Olive M. Lytle, aged seventy-five, was killed here in a very peculiar manner when a small outbuilding fell upon her, crushing her in such a manner that death followed half an hour after. There was a clothes-line stretched from the house to the outbuilding and as the family was house-cleaning the line had been filled with heavy bedding, the weight of which pulled the small structure from its anchorage. As Mrs. Lytle opened the door the weight on the line pulled the building forward, pinning her beneath.

THE REPUBLICAN CONVENTION

UP TO SATURDAY NIGHT 72 CONTESTS HAD BEEN DECIDED IN FAVOR OF TAFT.

LIVELY TIME EXPECTED WITH SOUTHERN CONTESTS.

Convention May Be Held Up Until Credentials Committee Can Hear All Cases That Will Be Taken To It On Appeal.

Decisions of contested delegates before the convention up to Saturday night are:

- FOR TAFT.
  - Saturday's decisions: Arkansas—Delegates in third, fourth, fifth and seventh districts—8.
  - Florida—Delegates at large, 6; delegates in first, second and third districts—6.
  - Georgia—Delegates at large, 4; delegates in 12 districts—24.
  - Total Saturday, 48.
  - Total Friday, 24.
  - Total for Taft, 72.

For Roosevelt—None.

Seventy-two contests have been decided up to Saturday night and Taft is the winner of every one.

Friday gave him 26, Alabama's 16 and 10 in Arkansas.

Saturday gave him 46 more, six in Arkansas, 12 in Florida and 28 in Georgia.

Roosevelt workers have agreed tacitly to let the national committee make all possible speed with the southern contests, demanding only that enough time be taken to admit of putting the cases on record, so that they may be brought before the credentials committee of the convention. There is an indication that the convention may be held up until the credentials committee can hear all the cases that will be taken to it on appeal. Of course, the tactical advantage lies with Taft on the credentials committee since the state delegations that elect the members to the credentials committee will be the delegations as made up by the temporary role of the national committee. Taft men declare they will dominate the credentials committee by at least 10 to 5.

President Gomez is Unable to Protect Property of Foreigners.

With the sending of 450 United States marines into Cuban territory, followed by the order for four battle-ships of the Atlantic fleet carrying 1,000 marines to proceed at once to Guantanamo, the Cuban situation advanced one step further toward a third American intervention. The moves made were accompanied by and in response to most alarming reports of conditions in Cuba.

All information received in Washington from numerous sources realized fears previously entertained by the progress of the negro uprising. Deprivations on American property by negro rebels are increasing and Americans in Cuba are now demanding that the United States afford that protection to American interests which the Cuban government has failed to provide.

What has become of the old-fashioned girl who used to chew "wax"?

For years Garfield Tea has been on the market. This must mean a remedy worth while.

Even the thirst for glory may have its dreiful after effects.

Only Thinking. "Where are you thinking of going this summer?" "Im thinking of England, Norway, and Scotland, but I'll probably go to Punk Beach."

His Changed Fortune. "Wow! There went Smithkins in his new six. When I knew him a few years ago he had a junk shop." "He still has. Only he moved it to a fashionable street, kept the same stock, and labeled it 'Antiques.'"—Judge.

Delicate Point. They are a happy Sewickley couple. They haven't been married very long. In fact, the honeymoon has barely waned. An elderly friend met the bridegroom downtown yesterday and slapped him on the back.

"Well, happy as a lark, I suppose?" "Oh, yes." "How's the cooking?" "I have one trouble there. It's just this, my wife has been preparing angel food every day for dinner."

"You must be getting tired of it." "I am. Yet I feel a hesitancy about saying anything. How soon after the honeymoon would it be proper to ask for beefsteak and onions?"—Pittsburg Post.

Oddities of Justice.
That the whole theory of penal codes is practically unsound and opposed to the modern conceptions of the relation of the state to crime, is the contention of Eugene Smith of the New York bar, writing in the May number of Case and Comment, the lawyers' magazine. Illustrating the absurdity and disparity between penalty for crimes in different states, Mr. Smith says: "The average sentence for perjury in Florida is ten years, in Maine one year; for larceny, in Delaware ten years, in the District of Columbia ten months; the penalty for arson in Pennsylvania is twice that of burglary, but in Connecticut the guilt of burglary is twice that of arson; the guilt of counterfeiting in Ohio is twice that of perjury, but in Rhode Island the guilt of perjury is twice that of counterfeiting."
