Pinckney Public Schools

Will Open for Classification and Assignment of Seats Monday, September 2

The Pinckney Public Schools will open Monday, Sept. 2 for classification and assignment of seats.

"Ignorance is the curse of God. Knowledge the wing wherewith We fly to heaven."

—Shakespeare

The school has for its general aim the making of good citizens and by its prescribed course of study aims to give the student a good, sound, practical education and to prepare them for advanced work in Normals and colleges where they are accepted without examinations.

Non-resident pupils receive a cordial welcome and so far as is consistent with the general grading of the school, a special effort will be made to afford all such a classification as is best suited to their needs. 60 percent of our high school enrollment last year were non-residents. Non-residents that have not passed the county examination before classification. Pupils who wish to enter grades below the high school will be permitted to do so on presentation of satisfactory certificates, otherwise they will be subject to such examinations as the superintendent deems necessary in order to determine their classification.

Children are admitted at five years of age. Beginners classes are formed but once a year and that is in September, hence the only time of entrance for children is in the fall.

Miss Leona Heine of Mt. Clemens and M. S. N. C., 1912 will occupy the preceptress chair. She comes highly recommended as an instructor and disciplinarian by those who know her best from observation along educational lines, and we assure you that the good work of her predecessor will be carried on with the additional improvements made each year.

Superintendent H. D. McDougall will be pleased to meet parents or pupils at his residence on Unadilla St. who may wish to interview him before the opening of school. Now for another year of drawing out, unfolding, enlarging, developing and strengthening all the powers, faculties and susceptibilities of human nature.

Changing Ideals Of Funeral Music

The minister who advocated the abolishing of singing at funerals because music is a sign of joy and gladness and has no place at a funeral, takes rather a narrow view of music for one of his calling. The Christian religion not only teaches that death is the gateway to a more glorious life and not an occasion of mourning, but also that music is an expression of spiritual exaltation and of hope of faith—all sentiments that should prevail as the services to the departed. Indeed, it might rather be suggested that the melancholy wailing kind of music too often chosen for funerals be succeeded by uplifting songs of hope and triumph. It would be a happy change if we could reform away the plaintive, airs that now so often make a part of the funeral ceremony and seemingly only serve the purpose of harrowing the feelings of the bereaved instead of promoting the feeling of serene and comforting quiet that should prevail at the last sad rites. It seems to be the effort of those who select the music to choose the saddest of tunes even for words that have in them something of hope, and the dismal strains merely add new grief to the sore hearts of the bereaved. The changing ideals in funeral music are following the changes in the refinement in funeral service in general, which is to soften the grief and to infuse a spirit of subdued sorrow for the agony of physical mourning of the "old fashioned kind."—Ex.

A Hammock? -

These summer days a hammock is a cool and comfortable place to rest no matter how hot the weather may be. You can't pass a long, hot summer day more pleasantly than in a hammock. You will enjoy a half hour of quiet repose after lunch, or an afternoon spent with a magazine or good book.

But the hammock must be well made—it must be correctly proportioned and stoutly woven—it must not be the kind that sags and goes to pieces and hangs uneven. We handle the hammocks that experience has taught us to be of the finest make and they are marked at prices that will add pleasure to your leisure hours.

WITHOUT THE COLLAR

WAISTS THAT ARE COMFORTABLE AND BECOMING.

Many Styles to Select From, and Wide Variety Admits of Choice That Will Suit the Individual Style.

The collarless waist makes a superb setting for a pretty head, and as the season advances one sees more and more of such comfortable and becoming styles. Any sort of a stock on a very warm day gives a warm look, and so the women who can wear the throat-line, or semi-decollete thing, and wear it with an extra advantage to her appearance, is in her element. For her less blessed sister there are wonderful coquettish in high collars, the Robespierre, an immensely high turnover of lace or tucked muslin attached to a silk stock and cravat, being the favorite. For the very thin throat, and those injured by the wings of time, there are also collar gimpes of flesh colored tulle, these giving quite a look of a low cut at a distance while hiding such physical defects as exist.

Very plain bodice lines are affected by many stylish women who know that their figures look better without fullness and the patchy effect of much trimming, and the illustration demonstrates a model of this sort for the home sewer who has the same needs. The waist is a scant double-breasted affair, with kimono shoulder cut, the low armhole and long tight sleeves. A flat collar and "rabit" of lace prettily finish the neck, but the long sleeves also permit the Robespierre collar, and chiffon, as these fabrics would not give the tailored stamp needed. Many very dressy summer waists are made up entirely without linings, but this easy-going method does not supply the best results, as some protection is always needed at the shoulders of the bodice, if not all the way down. A thin lawn or silk gimpes, made separately and worn under the waist, will solve the problem of keeping the waist clean, however, while a high separate blouse in a thin silk would be even better. The under-blouses can be bought ready made for a dollar and a half or two dollars, and they require little material and less bother when they are made at home. An inside belt is required for a good set of a fitted waist, whether it is part of a dress or not.

Fighting Freckles or Tan.
A little lemon juice upon rubbing at night, a good facial bath in buttermilk allowed to remain on the skin for at least ten minutes, the inner rim of a cucumber rubbed over the entire face at least once a day—these are the weapons with which the girl who freckles or tans is fighting off her enemies so that she may be viewed with envy by her less fortunate sisters and with admiration by the brothers of these same sisters when warm weather and lingerie frocks come to abide with us for a while.

If one is in doubt as to how to make this detail it can be found in any good shop in materials of all degrees of simplicity and elegance. Lavender poplinette, a fabric half silk and half cotton, is the texture of the waist and its attendant skirt, but the model is particularly convenient for a separate waist, and it can be made in all the solid fabrics used. The lines are a little too severe for lace or net or

SWEETNESS THAT ALL ADMIRE

Favorite Old Recipe for Pot Pourri Guaranteed to Give the Best Results.

A favorite old recipe for pot pourri is made up thus: The proportions may be lessened or increased as desired: Take one-half pound of common salt, one-fourth of saltpetre, one-fourth ounce of storax, half a dozen cloves, a handful of dried bay leaves, a handful of dried lavender flowers. Mix these well together to form the basis of the pot pourri, and it will last for years. Rose petals and the leaves or flowers of other fragrant plants gathered on dry days may be added to the jar from time to time, or a few drops of the essential oil of perfume mixed with oil of geranium, roses, etc., may be added to make up a delicate, fragrant perfume. It liked also powdered benzoin—do not confuse with benzoin resin—of sandalwood, cinnamon, etc.—indeed, almost any pleasing aromatic plant, dried, may be mixed in. The lid of the glass jar may be lifted from time to time to allow the fragrance to exhale into the room and should some time afterward be replaced to preserve the perfume.

MUCH VIRTUE IN REST ROOM

Part of Home That Must Not Be Overlooked and is Deserving of a Lot of Attention.

The rest room is one of the latest contributions to the wearing life of today, or rather, in an allegation of that term, giving opportunities to those who want quietude to obtain it within bounds of their own domains. Instead of seeking it elsewhere. How is it to be made?

In Germany what is called the inclosed "sun parlor" is an excellent resource. An outdoor sitting room is constructed on any wide balcony or veranda, and fitted with glass screens. These are adjusted so that the sitting room may be used all the year round, and even in summer, and more particularly at the seaside, are a protection against too strong breezes. The screens, it should be mentioned, are made so as to fold backward and forward, and should have green shades. Japanese lanterns serve for a decoration and for lighting at night, and the big leaved plants make a cool background.
In an inclosed rest room grass matting is suitable and cool on the floor, and long cushioned lounges and arm-chairs, including a rocking chair, invite one to repose.
For breakfast, afternoon tea and the picnic luncheon such a room is an ideal one, as well as for the rest cure.

Summer Dresses.
There are little details connected with dresses that will be worn for summer that mark them as new models, but the general style is much the same as seen previously. No collars will be worn, but the sleeves are quite long, reaching to the wrists. The long sleeve is not new, for it has been worn for some time, but the outlines have changed. Formerly the sleeve was very tight, but now it is full, and even baggy, at the elbow. Often it ends in a broad cuff, with perhaps an increased bagginess where they join.

LOST WITH ALL ON BOARD

Many Ocean Liners Have Disappeared, Leaving No Survivor to Tell of the Disaster.

A writer in Chambers Journal calls the number of vessels which have from time to time disappeared mysteriously, leaving not a single survivor to tell the story.
In the North Atlantic service alone, between 1841 and 1890, no fewer than 24 big steamers were totally blotted out of human knowledge, together with their crews and passengers, numbering 1,451. The President, with 136 souls on board, was the first of these to be lost forever in 1842. The City of Glasgow disappeared in 1854 without leaving a trace, and she had 480 souls on board. In 1856 the Pacific, with a living freight of 240, sailed from Liverpool in June, and was never more heard of. The Tempest, with 150 souls, mysteriously disappeared in 1859. The City of Boston, with 170 persons, vanished in 1870. The Huronian, an Allan liner, disappeared in 1902; and the British gunboat, Condor, was lost in the Pacific in 1901. In 1893 a cattle steamer, the Naronic, with 77 aboard, was lost.

As to the possible causes of the catastrophes, it is only possible to surmise. Capsizing, damage from within, such as explosion, breakdown of machinery, or fire; or damage from without, such as collision with an iceberg or with a derelict hulk, have all been suggested to explain the losses of vessels. The Captain capsized, and hundreds of lives were lost, and it is now generally assumed that the Warathah capsized by reason of top-heaviness. As to the damage to machinery, there is the case of the City of Paris, which had a big smash in one of her engine rooms in 1890. She was near the Irish coast, but though both engine rooms were filled with water in ten minutes, she was kept afloat owing to her watertight compartments for three days till help came to tow her into Queenstown. In the case of a fire, everything, probably, would be consumed to the water's edge, and if this happened far from land, the chances of rescue would be remote. Heavy weather and tidal waves with the older vessels, at any rate, were probably other reasons for shipwreck.

Tracing the Dog's Descent.

It seems to be generally accepted by naturalists and the world at large that the domestic dog is in some sense a collateral descendant of the wolf or jackal, says a writer in Harper's Weekly.

A professor at the Natural History Museum in Paris has communicated results of his study of various canine skulls to the academy of sciences. He appears to have noticed certain peculiarities of growth which have hitherto escaped zoologists. He states that the skull of almost every species of wolf and jackal differs from the skull of the shepherd dog to an extent that makes it impossible that this dog should belong in the same classification. The skull of the Indian wolf, on the contrary, shows some points of resemblance. This, indeed, is the only savage canine the top of whose head projects like that of the dog.

There are, moreover, other characteristics which the Indian wolf has in common with the dog, and which the ordinary wolf does not share with them, although his origin and that of the dog have long been supposed to be a common one.
The conclusion of this scientist is that the Indian wolf is the progenitor of the shepherd dog and the bloodhound. There were two primitive races of dogs analogous to these which were first domesticated in central Asia, whence they passed to Europe, and there seems no reason to doubt that the bloodhound of today is the direct descendant of the dog spoken of by the ancients as "the dog of the age of bronze."

Berlin's News of Waterloo.

There has just been published Blücher's dispatch which gave Berlin the first news of the victory of Waterloo. It was addressed to the governor, and read:

"I inform your excellency that in conjunction with the English army under Field Marshal the Duke of Wellington I yesterday gained the most complete victory over Napoleon Bonaparte that could possibly be won.
"The battle was fought in the neighborhood of some isolated buildings on the road from here to Brussels bearing the name 'La Belle Alliance,' and a better name can hardly be given to this important day. The French army is in complete dissolution and an extraordinary number of guns have been captured.
"Time does not at this moment permit me to send further details to your excellency. I reserve them for a future occasion and beg you duly to communicate this joyful news to the good Berliners."
BLÜCHER.
The dispatch reached Berlin on June 24, 1812.—From London Globe.

Has Them All Beaten.

A fashion has sprung up among Paris taxicab drivers of exhibiting notices on their cabs, saying "The driver talks German." "The driver talks English," and the like. Fired by their example a negro taxicab driver, who was formerly chauffeur to the king of Siam in Bangkok, has affixed the following notice to his car: "I talk Siamese."

Had Just Tried It.
"Pa, what's a blue funk?"
"It's the thing a man who has never been camping before gets into about the second day out."

POPULAR SYMBOL OF VALUE

Young Man Evidently Was Lacking in His Appreciation of the Country's Statements.

There is plenty of food for cynical thoughts in the national capital, as is shown by the following incident which happened on a Washington street car:
A worldly young man, prone to criticize, was gazing at the advertisements which decorate the interior of the car. One advertised a new kind of collar for men. The dome of the capitol was represented encircled by one of the collars, and on the other side and house wings of the building were placards giving prices and sizes. The placard on the senate end of the capitol read, "Quarter size," and that on the other end said, "Two for a quarter."
The worldly cynical young man turned to his companion.
"That," he remarked, "just about expresses my opinion of some of these here congressmen."—Judge.

Instinctive.

"So you took your wife to the baseball game?"
"Yes," replied Mr. Meekton.
"Did she enjoy it?"
"Only part of it. She thought they wasted a great deal of time running around the lot, but she thought the arguments with the umpire were quite interesting."—Washington Star.

CHILD'S FACE ALL RED SPOTS

632 N. 5th St., Terre Haute, Ind.—
"My little nephew, a boy of four years, had a breaking out on his face. It was little red spots at first, then he would rub and scratch and water blisters would form, and wherever the water would run another would come until his face was covered with them. He would cry and fret. His mother got some medicine, but it did not do any good. He would scream and cry and say it hurt. We hardly knew him, his little face was all red spots and blisters. So I begged him to let me put some Cuticura Ointment on them. The next morning I made a strong soap suds with Cuticura Soap and washed his face in the warm suds. The little blisters burst by pressing the cloth on them. After I had his face washed, I put the Cuticura Ointment on and in a short time his little face was all red and dry. I kept using the Cuticura Soap and putting on the Cuticura Ointment and his face got as well and it did not leave a scar. He was entirely cured in about one week and a half." (Signed) Mrs. Arthur Haworth, Jan. 10, 1912.
Cuticura Soap and Ointment sold throughout the world. Sample of each free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. L, Dorton."

Child's Fear of the Dark.

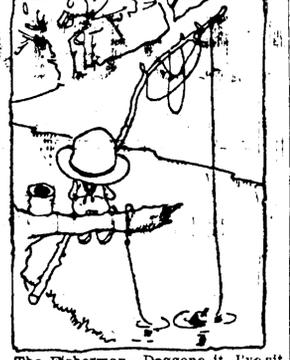

If mothers notice that the brains of very susceptible organization and the sights and thoughts from the shadows of a room more or less dark, let the light burn brightly. To force a child to become accustomed to the darkness is a grave error, if its nervous system is so organized that this forcing is productive of a fright.
The nervous system of a child is a very susceptible organization and the deleterious impressions made upon it will often make their influence felt throughout its whole after life. If the child asks for a light under such circumstances do not refuse it.

The Fisherman—Doggone it, I've sit here for an hour and ain't even got a bite yet.

Really Had Best of It.

John Burroughs is well known as one of the foremost of nature writers in this country. Some time ago he visited his brother, Eden Burroughs, who lives in the Catskills, at a place called Hobart. The two brothers went fox hunting together. The honor of the hunt came to Eden, who shot the only fox. It so happened that foxskins were worth five dollars at that time, and the successful Nimrod took much pride in telling how he got the first specimens to offer to his friends about it in the presence of his brother, John, he was interrupted by, "You have bragged about that fox hunt long enough. You shot the fox, sold the skin and got five dollars. I wrote a little account of the hunt, and got $75 from the magazine which published it. So there you are!"

The Other Way 'Round.

A good little story, long current in England, is just now gaining American circulation. It has for leading characters Rudyard Kipling and Dorothy Drew, Mr. Gladstone's little grandchild. Kipling was visiting Hawarden, and, being fond of children, devoted himself to little Miss Dorothy until her anxious mother expressed the hope that the child had not been wearying the great author.
"Oh, no, mamma," spoke up Dorothy, before any one else had a chance to say anything, "but you have no idea how Mr. Kipling has been wearying me!"

The Democrats fired the first gun here last Wednesday evening. Ed. Shields, Democratic state chairman, made a brief speech defining the issues from a Democratic standpoint. He then introduced Alva M. Cummins, of Lansing, Democratic candidate for congress in the sixth district. Mr. Cummins spoke for some length of time stating his platform and attacking his opponent's record. Eugene Stowe Democrat candidate for judge of probate, then mounted into the auto which was being used as the stage and stated that the object of their coming was to form a Wilson-Marshall-Ferris club and called for nominations for president and secretary. Jerry Dunn was nominated and declared unanimously elected president and Leo Monks secretary.

The price of hard coal continues to keep the consumer guessing. Dealers are quoting $8 as the price per ton for chestnut coal. With this summer price it looks dubious for this winter. Scarcity at the mines is given as the reason for the climb in prices.—Ex.

It will be well for all voters in the primaries to remember that if they wish to vote for a Progressive candidate they must change their party enrollment. No voter enrolled as a Republican can cast his vote in the primaries for a new party candidate and have it counted that way without changing his party enrollment.

Claiming that the people of the state should be given every opportunity to see the kind of cattle and stock raised at the Michigan Agricultural College, A. J. Dougherty at a meeting of the board Wednesday afternoon submitted a proposition to exhibit some of the best specimens at three big fairs in the State this fall. This suggestion seemed to meet with the approval of the entire board and Dean Shaw will be instructed to prepare the stock for the fair and assume entire charge of the exhibits.

Truth Always Wins

As shown By The Following Letter From Supt. of Public Instruction through some unaccountable source, the report has gone out that Miss Maude Benjamin, County Commissioner of Schools, has received a fee from teachers who attended the summer school at Ypsilanti.

W. H. Callaghan of Tyrone having heard the report and desirous of knowing the exact truth as regards the rumor, wrote the office of Supt. of Public Instruction for the required information and received the following letter in reply, which will be seen brands the report as false, and has been circulated only for the purpose of injuring Miss Benjamin's prospects at the Primary August 27.

Lansing, Aug. 12, 1912. Mr. W. H. Callaghan, Tyrone, Mich.

Dear Sir:—Replying to your letter of August 9, will say that Miss Benjamin does not receive one cent for the teachers from Livingston County who attend the summer school at Ypsilanti.

We are holding the Summer Institute at the State Normal and as Livingston County is near Ypsilanti we call the Livingston County Institute at Ypsilanti.

Yours very truly, L. L. Wright.

L. V. Walsh

L. V. Walsh was born in Livingston county in 1895 and died in Ann Arbor, August 16 1912 aged 17 years.

He leaves a father and two sisters, aged 14 and 5 years to mourn their loss. He was the mainstay of the family, his father and sisters depending greatly upon him. It is sad that one of his age and promise should be taken away but such is life. Those we depend upon the most are often called first. He was an exemplary young man leading a good moral life.

The funeral services were held at the Pinckney M. E. church Monday, August 19, conducted by Rev. A. Balgootan. Interment in Pinckney cemetery.

Women Finally Recovers From Nervous Breakdown

Impoverished nerves destroy many people before their time. Often before a sufferer realizes what the trouble is, he is on the verge of a complete nervous breakdown. It is of the utmost importance to keep your nervous system in good condition, as the nerves are the source of all bodily power. Mrs. Anna Kounz, 211 Mechanic St., Pueblo, Colo., says:

"For many years I suffered from nervous prostration; I was unable to do any house work and doctors failed to help me. Remedies I tried from druggists did not do me a particle of good. A neighbor told my husband about Dr. Miles' Nervine and he procured a bottle. After the first few doses I showed a marked improvement and after taking two bottles I was entirely cured. I have been perfectly well for years and cannot praise Dr. Miles' Nervine too highly."

If you are troubled with loss of appetite, poor digestion, weakness, inability to sleep; if you are in a general run down condition and unable to bear your part of the daily grind of life, you need something to strengthen your nerves. You may not realize what is the matter with you, but that is no reason why you should delay treatment.

Dr. Miles' Nervine

has proven its value in nervous disorders for thirty years, and merits a trial, no matter how many other remedies have failed to help you. Sold by all druggists. If direct bottles fail to benefit you, money is returned. MILES MEDICAL CO., Elkhart, Ind.

MICHIGAN'S GREAT STATE FAIR

An Unexcelled Exhibition for 50c THE FAIR OF INNOVATIONS An Unexcelled Exhibition for 50c COMBINING THE AGRICULTURAL AND INDUSTRIAL

THE EVENT THE ANNUAL STATE FAIR OF MICHIGAN to be held this year the week of Sept. 16.

A FAIR WITHOUT A PARALLEL and the Fair of a thousand wonders, combining more real, strong drawing attractions than any other Fair.

NEW FEATURES AROUND ON EVERY SIDE and the agricultural and industrial exhibits have been made more interesting than ever without abating an iota from the interest in other events of the great Fair.

THERE WILL BE THE GRAND CIRCUIT HORSE RACES with all the fastest horses in the world in a record breaking carnival of speed and with the keenest sort of competition.

AND THE AUTOMOBILE RACES take on interest this year owing to the arrival of Leslie Dierow, the marvelous driver of the 200 H. P. Jay Eye car, the record breaking juggernaut with which Dierow comes to the State Fair to lower all mile track records; and also the presence of many other great record breaking drivers in a long list of races open to the entire automobile racing fraternity.

IN THE WAY OF AIR SHIPS the State Fair will not be short in spite of the heavy loss sustained by Lieut. Noyes, who first flew from Paris to Madrid and from Paris to Rome, using a biplane monoplane, will fly at the Fair. This great air has won international reputations and is the strongest attraction today among the air men.

AND ALL OF THE FINEST HORSES SHOWN at events of the sort will be at the State Fair show, which has always been a leading feature of the Fair and will outdo this year any previous show, both in size and importance.

OF COURSE THE STATE FAIR HAS MANY OTHER INTERESTING FEATURES and in every way a Fair worth while visiting owing to the many remarkable innovations introduced this year.

AMONG THE MANY STARTLINGLY NEW FEATURES are the Boys' State Fair School, with 150 boys in camp and going to school in reality to learn scientific farming; and then there is the Mixture Model Farms that will be worth seeing; as city boys have been working on these farms for months to bring forth a prize crop and win the automobile and other prizes offered.

IN THE FIELD OF DAIRYING there is the new dairy barn of last year and the dairy building of this year, showing throughout the most modern dairy methods, a demonstration of modern devices to increase dairy and to bring this down to a scientific basis.

THE MODEL POULTRY FARM is interesting, and the good rooster building, the automobile show with many of the 1913 models on exhibition and other exhibits typical of Michigan, will serve to interest you.

WHAT OF THE MIDWAY YOU SAY—well there is a midway and it will be a dandy this year, composed of all pit shows and take shows and refreshment, but interesting in every way.

BUT IT CAN'T ALL BE SOLD HERE. Space is limited. The 3rd Annual State Fair of Michigan will not be a side show to the horse races and other contests, but a typical agricultural exhibit with all sorts of industrial features added, including:

AN INDUSTRIAL BUILDING in which manufacturing progress will be shown in each exhibit, every exhibit working overtime to create the goods shown.

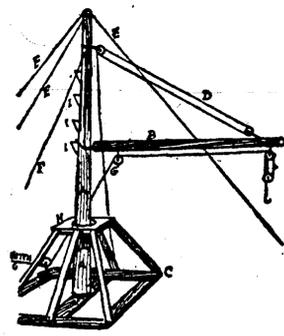

It Will Be the One Fair in All America. Come and See It and Be Satisfied

PLAN FOR DERRICK STACKER

One Feature of Implement Shown in Illustration is That It Always Drops Load in Center.

This drawing shows a derrick stacker which is different from any I have yet seen, writes Alfred Peterson in the Farmers' Mail and Breeze. It will build a stack twice as long as the length of the arm, as high as the mast, and as wide as the arm is long. The skids C are made of 8 by 14 inch plank and the base is 7 feet wide. The braces are 2 by 6's and should be still further braced by cross braces not given in the drawing. The hole in the platform H is 3 inches larger than the diameter of the mast which allows the mast to lean over towards the stack so the load will carry itself to any place on the stack. The mast is a telephone pole 35 feet long and rests on a pivot on the skids. The arm B is a smaller pole 25 feet long at the inner end of which a crotch shaped iron holds it in place against the mast. From this crotch a rod passes up and around the mast over the iron catches marked I. The arm is raised or lowered by means of the rope F. At the upper end of the mast is a large ring to which guy ropes E are fastened. The derrick must be solidly guyed when in use. The rope D is for bringing the load in place on the stack. G is the rope to which the horse is hitched. The feature of this stacker is that it will always drop the load in the center of the stack whether at the ends or in the middle. A stationary arm stacker will not do this. This stacker may be successfully used on a windy day and will handle as much hay in a day as any boughten one.

IMPROVED SEEDS ARE BEST

One Quart of New Variety of Corn Would Grow Enough to Plant Big Acreage at Small Cost.

(By M. W. KELLEY.)

I believe that every farmer would find it profitable to devote a certain portion of his farm to growing seed for the coming year. In this way he could buy seed each year and plant it on his test grounds and grow all that would be required for his next year's crops.

One quart of some new variety of field corn would grow enough seed to plant quite an acreage and the cost would be comparatively small. A peck of some new kind of potatoes would furnish seed for quite a patch next year. One bushel of seed oats would furnish enough seed for a number of acres the next year.

This would give the seed an opportunity to become better acclimated and he could select the best seeds for home use, which is an opportunity that seldom comes to a farmer who buys seed from the seedmen who sell it from the general crop which is raised by farmers especially for them.

Then there is always an opportunity for a farmer to sell choice seed oats, corn or potatoes to his nearby friends for a better price than his general crops will bring. The time is coming when good seed will be better appreciated by farmers.

Cultivating Potatoes Late.

The Virginia truck experiment station has found that the best results in growing potatoes are obtained where the soil is kept level during the earlier cultivations, but as the season advances earth may be worked toward the vines by means of winged cultivators in order to keep the tubers thoroughly covered and free from sun scald.

It has also been found best to continue cultivation as late in the season as possible. Many eastern Virginia growers do not stop cultivating until two or three weeks before digging is started.

GOOD USES FOR WHITEWASH

Purifier is Needed in Poultry House, in Barns, Hog Pens and Other Places—It is Cheap.

Everybody should know how to mix a good whitewash. It is needed in the poultry house, in the barns, looks well on the fences, hog pens, etc. It is a purifier because it is antiseptic and deodorant. It is cheap, looks well, and when rightly made and put on is a good preserver.

The standard "government whitewash" is made as follows: Slack a half bushel of quick lime in boiling water, keeping it just covered with water during the process. Strain this, then add a speck of salt dissolved in warm water, three pounds of ground rice boiled in water to a thin paste, one-half pound Spanish whiting, and a pound of glue together in warm water. Mix these thoroughly and let stand for a few days. Apply hot. Coloring matter can be added if desired. Dry paint pigments are used for this purpose.

Another good outside whitewash is made as follows: Slack a half bushel of lime in boiling water as described above. Add to this after straining two pounds sulphate of zinc and one pound salt dissolved in water. If you want a cream color, add three pounds of yellow ochre, or any shade may be given the whitewash by adding different paint pigments.

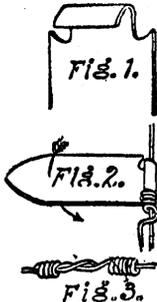

Another good whitewash is made thus: Proceed as in second formula above, but add half a pound of whiting in addition to the zinc and salt. Dilute to proper consistency with skim milk. Apply hot. This wash will stick well for outside work.

The best way to apply whitewash is with a spray pump. It can then be rubbed in with a brush if desired, though a good job of spraying makes an even coat.

EXCELLENT AS WIRE SPLICER

Neat and Strong Splice May Be Made by Use of Little Instrument Shown in Illustration.

The neatest and strongest splice can be made with this little instrument. It is made of a strap of iron one inch wide and one-eighth inch thick. One end is cut narrow and is bent into a hook large enough to fit neatly the largest wire to be spliced, says the Iowa Homestead. At the sides of this two notches are filed, as shown in Fig. 1. In Fig. 2 the splice is seen in position on the wire. The arrow indicates the direction in which to turn to make the splice. A pair of large pliers or a vise should be used to hold the two wires between the coils while turning the splicer. In Fig. 3 the splice is shown as finished. The length of the handle may vary. If the splicer is to be used for net wire, of course, the handle cannot be longer than the width of the mesh. Other wise, six or seven inches is about right for No. 8 wire, the length of the handle should be reduced for the sake of convenience.

GARDEN and FARM NOTES

Rye may be cut for hay and used for all classes of live stock.

The demand for agricultural experts far exceeds the supply.

Poultry manure is particularly good for forcing the growth of onions.

Stock raising is the best insurance against an impoverished agriculture.

A clover sod turned down makes an excellent foundation for a corn crop.

Use nitrate of soda or liquid manure for crops that are growing slowly.

Whenever a farmer gets the auto fever he at once becomes a good-road preacher.

"Worn-out" manure from old hotbeds is just the thing for mushroom beds in the cellar.

Keep the stables and the yards clean so that flies and insects have no breeding place.

To kill Canada thistle in a field, put the field in some cultivated crop and keep the weeds down.

In a corn-growing territory cow peas are mostly grown with corn, sowing broadcast and otherwise.

Bag, borrow or buy all the wood ashes you can use in the garden; work it well into the soil.

If the house is damp scatter some dry ashes and air-slaked lime about. They are good absorbents.

If there are plants which show particular vigor save the seeds from them to be used next year.

If your plants grow tall and spindly thin them out. Do not be afraid to cut—go at them courageously.

Reverse ends of window blinds or curtains when bottom becomes worn. It gives them a new lease at the window.

ABOUT "GROUNDING" LIGHTNING RODS

By A. R. Sawyer, Professor of Electrical Engineering.

An interesting experience in connection with the protection of buildings from lightning by means of "lightning rods" has just come to notice.

In the southern part of the state a barn was rodged and some time last fall (probably) the rod was pulled in two due to the barn being struck. The severed lightning rod was discovered this spring and repaired and since being repaired the barn was struck again and set on fire and four pigs outside the barn but near the rod were killed. The way in which the barn was rodged will throw some light on the cause of this.

In order to protect the copper cable from mechanical injury an inch and a quarter iron pipe was slipped over the rod and allowed to extend into the earth six inches or a foot, the pipe not being well grounded. The agent who put the rod up stated that the copper cable was burned in two about six inches below the top of the iron pipe, supposedly by a stroke which occurred last fall, the severed condition not being found until this spring.

The short piece of rod was taken out and spliced. This piece which was taken out tells the story which is of considerable interest. Upon examining the broken piece it was found that the rod was not burned in two as there is no indication of any burning of wire. On the other hand the part that was in the upper six inches of the pipe was drawn up and expanded which put a tremendous pull on the lower part of the rod, and below the break the copper cable was reduced in diameter from seven-sixteenths to three-eighths, of an inch in diameter, which shows the tremendous pull that it took to break the cable in two.

The question of why the rod was pulled in two needs to be explained. In general, most lightning strokes constitute an alternating current of high frequency and this current in trying to go down the cable induced in the iron pipe by transformer action. The two reacted on each other just as often occurs at the time of a short circuit in connection with commercial circuits.

As stated before, after this was repaired the barn was struck again this spring and the discharge instead of going down the cable inside of the pipe jumped over to the iron track from which a door was hung and went to earth another way, setting fire to the building. At the same time the discharge going down the cable at the diagonally opposite corner met with similar difficulty in going down through the iron pipe surrounding the cable and instead was deflected and killed four pigs standing near.

The lesson to be learned from all this is just what one would predict who is acquainted with the action of alternating currents and just the mistake that is forbidden by the underwriters in wiring a house, that it is not allowable to run a single conductor in an iron pipe.

If one drives an iron pipe down into permanently moist earth and uses that for a ground this is usually approved, but should not be approved where the rod goes through an iron pipe which is not well grounded.

VALUE OF SANDY SOILS EXPLAINED

By J. A. JEFFERY, Professor of Soils, Michigan Agricultural College.

At the present time considerable areas of sandy soil are being offered for sale in Michigan. These soils range from the coarsest dune sands to the finer Miami fine sands. The greater part of the soils offered for sale are properly embraced under what is known as Miami sands.

The dune sands possess little or no agricultural value.

The Miami sands vary from soils that possess much intrinsic agricultural value to soils that can never be profitably productive under ordinary methods of management.

Intrinsic Value.

The value of Miami sand will depend chiefly upon four things:

1. Its origin—Whether made up largely of material produced from the breaking down of granitic rocks and other rocks rich in plant food constituents, or whether made up of material chiefly silicious—pure quartz.

2. Upon the fineness of the material—The finer the material the greater is its water-holding capacity and the greater, also, the amounts of plant foods which it will give up for the use of the plant.

3. The subsoil—The finer the subsoil the more valuable are these lands for cropping purposes. It is not an uncommon thing to find areas of these Miami sands so coarse in appearance as to cause the observer to wonder at the excellent crops which they produce. The secret is found usually in an underlying subsoil of clay located 18 to 30 inches below the surface and having a depth of a few to several feet. This subsoil of clay is of value that: (a) It acts as a reservoir to hold the water in the soil above, and in itself, which otherwise would disappear downward by gravity, and (b) in that when close enough to the surface the roots of the growing crop above find their way into the clay itself, and thus procure a larger supply of plant food.

4. The distance of the water table from the surface, regardless of the kind of underlying subsoil. That is, the distance which should have to be dug or driven to secure a well.

Indications of Cropping Values. The possible cropping value of these lands is indicated by the original vegetation which they are supporting or have supported.

1. Nearly all of these sands originally covered by hard wood, such as maple, oak, beech, elm, etc., can be depended upon to produce fair to good crops.

2. Areas which originally supported good growths of white pine usually prove reasonably productive, and for some crops, such as potatoes and clover, quite productive.

3. Areas originally covered with Norway pines are uncertain.

4. Areas originally covered with Jack pine can rarely be depended upon for profitable crops, and never under ordinary methods of soil management.

5. Where the original forest vegetation has been removed the productiveness of these soils is indicated by the density of the growth of grass, shrubs, brakes and other plants which occupy the ground.

It sometimes happens that the prospective purchaser of wild lands may form a fair estimate of the cropping value by observing the crops growing upon nearby cultivated areas having the same formation.

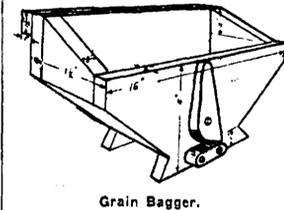

GRAIN BAGGER IS CONVENIENT

By H. H. MUSSELMAN, Instructor in Farm Mechanics.

A cut is presented herewith of a convenient bagger which may be easily constructed by one at all familiar with the hammer and saw. The advantage of its use will be appreciated by the man who is obliged to fill bags with grain and without assistance.

The bagger is designed to be hung up at any convenient place on the wall or bin where screws, nails or spikes may be driven. The bagger may also be moved from one place to another. Another feature of the bag-holding attachment is that it will not tear the bags. In many schemes of this kind the bags are held by wire hooks, by which the bags are very likely to be corn, particularly if any considerable weight comes upon them, as for instance when a short bag is used, or when the bag happens to be hung rather high. In attaching the bag to the holder it is opened and caught over the four points. The right hand still holding the top of the bag is brought over the knob from below, hooking one thickness of the bag over the knob. The bag is then drawn taut and the second thickness brought over the knob and under the clamp which is closed by simply pulling the handle to the right with the right hand. To make the clamp hold more securely the lower end may be notched slightly with a wood rasp or pocket knife.

The dimensions shown in the cut give about the right proportion to take the bag properly. Holes are bored in the back of the bagger, one on each end, for hanging over spikes or nails driven at any convenient place, as for instance, the front of a bin from which the grain is to be bagged.

Wheat as a Food for Horses.

Concerning wheat as a horse food Shepperd of North Dakota writes: "It was with difficulty that they (the horses) were kept from getting 'off feed' and otherwise deranged in digestion, when fed this ration of pure wheat. A large proportion of the kernels were passed through the alimentary tract unbroken, while other grains were broken but only partly digested. The test demonstrated clearly that it is not advisable to use wheat alone as a grain ration for horses, and the less expert the feeder the greater the risk."

Reliable Information.

The most reliable sources of information on farm questions are the experiment stations and agricultural colleges. The results of experiments performed and experiences gained by these institutions are published in bulletin form and these are free for distribution. If you are interested in better farming your name should be on the mailing list, and you should secure a list of the available bulletins of the Michigan experiment station, East Lansing, Mich.

Use for Cow Peas.

On the sandy soils of southern Michigan the cow pea is being much used as a green manuring crop. Peas are sown at the rate of 3 pecks per acre, about the first week in June, and the crop is plowed under from the first to the middle of September. When wheat is sown after cow peas thus plowed under, the yields of wheat are greatly increased; and when clover is seeded with the wheat the following spring, it seldom fails to make an excellent catch.

Man—Vain Man.

He will give his seat in the street car to a feeble old woman—and be proud in the thought that the other passengers consider him the pink of gallantry.

He will give his seat in the street car to a pretty girl and wonder if she doesn't believe in love at first sight.

He will sit up until 1 a. m. at a penny ante game and rejoice more over a winning of 40 cents than he will next day over a business deal that nets him a thousand dollars.

He will lose 50 cents in the same poker game and be angrier with the other players than he would be with a man who sold him a $40 horse for $350.

He jibes at woman because of her vanity and spends an hour before the mirror when he is preparing to call on one of the fair sex.

He tells his wife just how the government should settle the canal question, and has to hire a laborer to map out a drain through his back yard.

He preates about the foolishness of courting public notice, but he never drives through vacant streets.

He preaches punctuality to his office boy—and misses a business engagement because of a game of billiards.

He cannot see a brass band march down the street without wishing he were the drum major.

He sneers at the automobile coats of the women—and wears a golf suit when he doesn't know a cleft from a caddy.

He names his horses after fairies and statesmen—and his children after the womenfolks have decided the matter.

He derides false pride in others, but wears his hat over his eyes and struts when someone says that he looks like Napoleon.

He weeps at the sentimental songs of home and mother at the theater—and only shows up at home for his meals.

The Classical Cannibal.

"But why," asked the sub-chief of the cannibal isles, "do you insist upon having the man who fell while leading the charge against us served up at the banquet this evening? He seems to be as hard as nails."

"Huh!" answered the chief of the cannibal isles. "I read in a book of poetry left by our last meal that 'the bravest are the tenderest.'"

Unrepentant.

Alice—So Maud is divorced. I know when she married in such haste that she would repent at leisure.

Mother's Lingual Attainment.

The mother of a little boy in Kansas City, Kan., recites negro dialect stories charmingly. Her small son is quite proud of her accomplishment and frequently boasts of it. One day recently, when some of his playmates were vaunting the achievements of their several mothers, the little boy braggingly remarked:

"My mother is smarter than any of yours; she can talk two languages." "What are they?" demanded his companions.

"White and colored."

How He Left.

The servants were discussing the matter below stairs.

"Master and mistress 'ad something of a row last night, I 'ear," said the butler ponderously.

"You should have heard 'em," answered the parlor maid in a shocked tone. "Scandalous is what I calls it!"

"They tell me 'e ran out, cranked 'is motor car and left in it."

"No," said the maid, positively, "he didn't leave in his machine; I distinctly heard the mistress say he left in a huff."—London Answers.

Births in the Air.

The International Congress on Aerial Legislation, sitting at Geneva, Switzerland, is evolving a very detailed code of laws. One of its suggested paragraphs reads: "In the event of a birth occurring in an air craft the pilot is to enter the event in his log book and must notify the fact to the authorities at the first place at which he descends."

Got His Answer.

When Oscar Wilde came to the United States to lecture on aesthetics in his highly aesthetic velvet costume—and incidentally to prepare the public mind for the proper appreciation of Gilbert and Sullivan's "Patience," in which the aesthetic movement was held up to ridicule—he used to complain that America was very uninteresting since it had "no antiquities and no curiosities." But he ventured on this disparagement once too often, for in the course of his travels he uttered it to the American Girl, and she replied with the demure depravity of candid innocence that this was not quite a fair reproach, since "we shall have the antiquities in time, and we are already importing the curiosities."

Carrying It Too Far.

"Scientific management, like any other good thing, may be carried to excess."

The speaker was R. Marriott Thompson, the San Francisco scientific management expert. He continued, says the New York Tribune:

"We scientific managers mustn't go as far as Hussler went."

"Hussler was the proprietor of a tremendous factory where scientific management had reduced the motions of every hand from 800 to 17.

Hussler attended a very fashionable wedding one day, a wedding where the ceremony was performed by a bishop, assisted by a dean and a canon, and in the most impressive part of the writ Hussler, overcome by his scientific management ideas, rushed up to the altar and pushed the bishop and canon rudely back.

"Here, boys," he said, "one's quite enough for a little job like this."

W. H. HILL, of Detroit

Candidate for Congressman-at-large on the Progressive Ticket.

This office has just been created. Michigan is now represented by 13 congressmen and two senators, of which 12 are lawyers and only two are businessmen. Would it not be well to inject a little more business common sense and less technicalities into our laws?

I have been a manufacturer of furniture and drug specialties in Detroit for 27 years. I stand squarely on the Progressive platform adopted at Chicago.

All my opponents for this nomination are lawyers.

I will appreciate your vote and influence at the primaries of Aug. 27th.

Every elector, irrespective of former party affiliation, and irrespective of whether or not he is supported in any particular party, who desires to support some candidate on the Progressive ticket, has the right to enroll at the Primaries Aug. 27th, as a Progressive, and vote for one or all candidates on that ticket. That will not bar him from voting in the November election for any person he wishes, whether Progressive or Republican or Democrat.

Communication

August 17, 1912

Roy W. Caverly, Pinckney, Mich.

Dear Sir:—

Permit me to thank you for the privilege of speaking to your readers through the columns of your paper. No doubt they are aware of the fact that I have opposition for my re-nomination for Congress.

It remains for the Republicans of the 6th District to decide whether or not they care to be longer represented by a Republican who has had several years of legislative experience, and who has sought at all times, and under all circumstances, to extend every courtesy and kindness possible to all his constituents, or one who I am sure makes no claim of having had any legislative experience whatever. In a word, and in all kindness, I respectfully ask the Republicans to look up the fitness and qualifications of my Republican opponent and decide for themselves.

Owing to the fact that Congress is still in session, I have been handicapped in making my contest, believing it to be my duty to remain in Washington during the closing hours of the session, rather than to return to Michigan to look after my contest in the primaries. I believe this course will be much more satisfactory to my constituents, and for this reason, I shall all the more appreciate the efforts of my friends in my behalf.

I hope every Republican will be at primaries August 27th, using his influence and vote for my re-nomination which will be greatly appreciated.

Sincerely yours,
S. W. SMITH

HUGH G. ALDRICH
Candidate For County School Commissioner

The Man For The Place

Mr. Aldrich was born in Livingston County thirty two years ago and has spent his entire life within its boundaries excepting when attending or teaching school. After graduating at Howell High School, he taught successfully in the district schools of the county for two years giving excellent satisfaction in every instance. With the money he saved from teaching, he was enabled to attend the State Normal at Ypsilanti from which Institution he graduated five years ago. He has also had one year at the University of Michigan. After finishing school he taught successfully at Alton and Galesburg, Illinois, at which last named place, he was offered a substantial increase of salary if he would remain.

HUGH G. ALDRICH

Home duties and business reasons combined induced him to return to Livingston county. As will be seen by the above Mr. Aldrich is thoroughly equipped from an educational standpoint and has had the experience teaching both in district and graded schools to pre-eminently qualify him for the duties of School Commissioner. His kindly manner, gentility and example coupled with his excellent moral character makes Mr. Aldrich an inspiration to every young person with whom he comes in contact. To know him is to appreciate him.

Vote for Aldrich in the primaries and give us an opportunity to vote for him at the election. 341
