The New Farm Laws

Among the many enactments of the state legislature just closed were the following that relates to the agriculture interest of Michigan.

Providing that buyers of cream and butter, who own a string of stations, must not pay more at one point for these products than at another with the idea of crushing competition.

To regulate the packing and crating of fruit and vegetable with the idea of preventing deception on customers.

Requiring all farm and orchard produce commission merchants to secure a license from the state dairy and food department to do business. Giving the commissioner authority to cancel a license and put any such merchant out of business who isn't doing business on the square.

Requiring all applicants for certificate to teach in district school must undergo an examination in agriculture as well as other subjects before the county school commissioners.

To allow the formation of county agricultural department and employ county agricultural experts to work among farmers. A majority of the electors must first sanction the creation of such a department.

Making mandatory, instead of optional, on board of supervisors to submit, when a specified percentage of the taxpayers sign the request, to a proposition to build and maintain a county agricultural college.

Mrs. W. T. Allison

Orville Carson, a life long resident of Livingston county died at her home north of Pinckney, Saturday, July 13, at the age of 66 years.

In the year 1869 she was married to W. T. Allison. To this union was born one child, Mark Allison, who resides in Putnam.

Her husband and son with two sisters, Mrs. Frank Lewis of Iosco and Mrs. D. Bennett of Putnam are left to mourn their loss. She also leaves two granddaughters.

Funeral services were held from the late home Tuesday afternoon, Rev. W. G. Stephens of Stockbridge, officiating.

Another New Law.

After August 15 men who buy guns in Michigan will be forced to leave a clue behind them with the hardware man. A new law enacted by the solons as part of the 1913 batch of legislation directs that henceforth every person purchasing firearms must register with the dealer.

The man buying rifles, pistols, silencers or other tools of destruction will be required to write his name, age, occupation and residence in the dealer's book. Of course this also applies to women.

Others means of identification also will be demanded. These will be the number of the gun purchased or other marks which may distinguish the weapon from other weapons.

New York has had experience with a law compelling purchasers of firearms to register. In the eastern states it was found that persons who sought to do harm to other people merely chose other agents of destruction. The poniard and the dagger because popular. Whether or not Michigan will have a similar story to tell remains to be seen.

SPORT THAT COSTS $26,600 A DAY

H racing is the sport of kings, polo is the sport of millionaires. Any king, even though he may be an insignificant Indian potentate or a ruler of a Balkan state, with a pocketbook of slim proportions, may own a racing stable, but only a man of great wealth can afford to maintain a big string of polo ponies. For race horses, if they are fast, can earn their keep and make a profit for their owner. But a polo pony is nothing but an expense from the day he is bought until the day of his death. The only thing he can earn is a modicum of glory and a few cups which as a rule do not cost as much as his saddle and bridle. From this it may be gleaned that between racing and polo there is a distinction with a difference. Harry Payne Whitney spent $20,000 on the international polo series of games played at Meadowbrook, L. I. The duke of Westminster's expenses for the polo challenges amounted to $60,000. All this for the sake of a silver trophy worth $4,000.

The cost of polo depends largely upon the inclination and desire of the poloists to spend money. Some men can enjoy the sport at an outlay of a few hundred dollars a week, while others will spend as many thousands. H. L. Herbert, chairman of the Polo association, recently said in reference to the cost of polo: "It all depends on how much a man wishes to spend on the game. One man may be satisfied to own and maintain three ponies, while another will want at least thirty at his command. The expense is much like that of the opera. One man can enjoy it for a dollar, while it will cost another thousands for a box."

Harry Payne Whitney and the duke of Westminster own and keep in training the largest string of polo ponies in America or England. The maintenance of these ponies costs them thousands of dollars each year. They are the financial backbone of the sport in this country and abroad. Both enjoy the sport thoroughly, and as they are experts at the sport the money that they spend yearly is to them but a trivial matter.

But for their generous support of the game, there would not have been any international matches during 1909, 1911 and 1913. Mr. Whitney supplied the "sinews of war" which sent abroad in 1909 the American team, of which he was the captain. It was his outlay of money and purchase of many great polo ponies that enabled the Americans to win the cup which the Englishmen had won and kept for 23 years.

This year the duke of Westminster defrayed the expenses of the English challengers. Until he came to the financial rescue the English players had abandoned all hope of bringing the ponies over here to play for the trophy.

Whitney and the duke of Westminster each own 30 polo ponies. They hire trainers to develop the speed of the ponies and teach them the elementary parts of the game. The salary of these trainers is $4,000 each. In addition to that there are a big corps of stable lads to support, for the attendants not only receive salaries ranging from $25 to $40 a month, but in addition are allowed their lodging and board. This, with the cost of food, saddles, bridles, bandages, lotions, medicine and the attendance of a veterinarian costs many thousands of dollars. A good polo pony these days costs many thousands of dollars. In many respects his value is as great as a race horse, though his earning capacity is considerably less than that of the latter. The best ponies are bred in Ireland and England, but of late years the ponies bred in Texas, California and the Hawaiian islands are equal, if not superior, to the foreign-bred horses.

There is now such a great demand for polo ponies that they are generally bred for that purpose. In 1876, when the first games of polo were played in New York, it was possible to buy ponies for prices ranging from $35 to $100. Mr. Herbert once bought a pony for $35 that afterward developed into a crackerjack and his value soared to $2,000. Of course that was an exception. Nowadays ponies suitable for polo cost from $600 to $2,000 each.

When Mr. Whitney prepared for his campaign in England in 1909 he spent $85,000 for ponies. Since then he has added many more to his string and has spent at least $40,000. It will be seen by this that he has expended in the neighborhood of $125,000 for ponies alone. One of his ponies cost him $15,000. This was the high-water mark paid for any pony, but many good ponies have cost $5,000. The duke of Westminster has spent in the neighborhood of $125,000 for his aggregation of ponies. The ponies that were used in the international matches were made up in large part of those owned by Mr. Whitney and the duke of Westminster. Several ponies, however, have been donated for the use of the players by various Americans and Englishmen who are interested in the game.

"It takes several years of hard training to make a pony suitable for polo playing. He is usually bought when three years of age and for two years is taught the elementary parts of the game, such as not to shy at the mallet, to follow the ball, to "break" quickly and to obey the slightest touch of the reins on his neck. Most ponies are trained so that the rider may guide them by simply touching them on the right or left side of the neck with the reins.

Many persons not familiar with polo consider the fastest pony the best pony. This is an erroneous idea. While speed is an essential qualification for a pony, he is utterly worthless if he does not know the game thoroughly and is not subject to instant control. If his speed cannot be checked he'll run over the ball and carry his rider out of the zone of play. A pony that will twist and turn as though on a pivot and then "break" and race at top speed and stop instantly at command is the ideal polo mount. His value is beyond price.

There are many poloists who cannot afford to maintain large strings of ponies and hire a trainer. Most of these men have from three to six ponies in their string. They place the ponies in a public training stable. The cost is $30 a month for each pony. These public trainers hire stable lads to exercise and take care of the ponies. One boy looks after four ponies. The actual cost of feed for a pony is $12 a month.

Some of the expenses other than those of buying and maintaining the ponies, cost the players many dollars. The balls, made of light willow, are furnished to the Polo association at ten cents each. One firm has a contract to furnish the polo associations with 25,000 balls. The mallets are worth from $2 to $3.50 each. The heads of the mallet are frequently broken in the game or during practice. It costs a dollar to replace the heads. The helmets the players wear cost from $1 to $7 each. The riding boots are worth from $15 to $25. The riding breeches cost from $8 to $12.

Device to Keep Record of Hens.

To record hens' egg-laying capacities two New Yorkers have patented a simple nest, in leaving which a hen is forced to mark a board with crayon attached to a foot, different colors being used to distinguish different hens.

Valuable Feathers Destroyed.

Approximately ten tons of feathers plucked from birds by poachers four or five years ago in the Hawaiian islands have been burned by the government scientists in Honolulu.

A Good Example of an Attractive Farm Table.

White table-linen is important in making things attractive. If white table-linen is not within the reach of everyone, it is surely in everyone's power to set the table well.

The knives, forks and spoons are sometimes apparently thrown at the table, with no idea of order. One has to be careful to get his own water glass, etc. The knives and spoons should be placed on the right, and the forks on the left of the plate, at even distance from the edge of the table, with the water glass at the end of the knife. The napkin is usually placed at the left of the fork. All dishes should be placed inside the line of plates, and so be out of one's way in eating. Cracked and broken dishes are not permissible at any time. The cracks and chipped places hold dirt and microbes, and are unhealthful, beside being ugly to look at.

A little garnish of parsley on a cold-meat dish, or a hard-boiled egg sliced on the greens, or the butter made into neat pats or slices will help wonderfully in making the meal attractive.

In this connection we might mention the use of flowers on the table. Most farm tables I have seen have been too crowded for flowers, but when we do away with some of the unnecessary things, there will be room for a flowering plant, or a vase of pretty cut flowers.

WITH TAILORED SUITS

STRIKINGLY PRETTY EFFECTS IN SEPARATE BLOUSES.

Relieve Costume From Appearance of Severity—Loose Lines Are Imperative if One Would Follow Caprice of Fashion.

Those summer blouses of lacy fabric mounted over flesh tinted net or chiffon to increase the effect of transparency are almost shockingly sheer, and the decollete cut of many of the waists, designed for wear with tailored street suits, is also rather shocking to old-fashioned propriety which believes that a shirtwaist intended for general utility wear should be rather humble and withal a very modest and unostentatious little garment. But no one can say that the new blouses are not pretty. Never has the separate waist been as becoming as it is at this moment, and one of these new lace or net blouses, chic with its touch of Parisian cachet, enlivens a simple and severe tailored coat and skirt suit considerably.

Washable nets tucked in groups of minute pintucks, embroidered nets, lace and net combinations and all-over laces in fine Val. and shadow patterns, are used for these transparent blouses, and the dainty camisole—an old-fashioned term revived—which goes under the blouse, is an important part of its prettiness. The camisole may be of sheer white net or of chiffon. Sometimes, when the blouse is of lace, the camisole is of lace, but flash colored chiffon or net is used under the majority of these blouses, so that the filmy outer fabric appears to be clinging to the bare flesh of shoulders and arms.

Very loose lines are insisted upon by fashion in all blouses now. Not only does the blouse hang in full, graceful folds from long shoulders, but it also hangs over the girdle at the waistline. Net is pintucked, and chiffon is laid in half-inch or quarter-inch tucks to emphasize this effect of fullness, and some of the most fetching blouses are of white chiffon tucked all the way across in evenly spaced, quarter-inch tucks. Sometimes a band of pastel colored ribbon passes under the tucked chiffon and over the net or lace camisole beneath, the fringed ends of the ribbon emerging at the front of the blouse through buttonholed slashes in the chiffon, where the ribbon is tied in a small, soft bow.

Sometimes when the blouse is made of chiffon or other very sheer material, broad ribbon in some delicate color is run under the hem, the fringed ends emerging where the fronts cross at the bust.

MARY DEAN.

Corset Sachets.

A very nice little accessory for the bride's trousseau would be a cluster of heart-shaped corset sachets.

Make small heart-shaped sachets, measuring two by one and one-half inches. Gilt safety pins are attached to the top of each heart, so that they can easily be fastened in place, and to the safety pins are tied varied lengths of narrow ribbons. The bunch of hearts are then fastened to a bouquet of ribbon rosebuds. Five sachets will be enough to make a good looking shower bouquet, but if desired more could be added.

Odd bits of satin and silk can be used to make these little sachets. A dainty gift of this sort could not help but please the girl who is preparing her trousseau.

Delightful Summer Portiere.

Red bordered white toweling, held together with wide rick-rack braid, makes a pretty portiere to hang in a girl's room.

SUMMER GIRL'S BRIGHT IDEA

Simple Scheme by Which One Camper Secured Lively and Preserved Her Complexion.

At the summer camp in the mountains last year there was a young woman whose color and complexion were the envy and admiration of everyone. She never appeared until about ten o'clock, when the other campers, after a leisurely breakfast and half an hour or so spent in waiting for the mail, had gathered to receive it on the steps of the lodge where they ate and danced together. Then this girl of the lovely complexion would appear, radiant, enthusiastic, fresh-dressed for tennis, golf, tramping or boating.

The secret of her freshness lay in an egg and an orange. Instead of eating breakfast in the usual way, she ate an egg soft boiled over a spirit lamp and the juice of an orange. She ate this meager but sustaining breakfast in her room and so was not tempted by the hot breads and cakes, muffins and meat dishes which were served in the camp dining room. Hence her lovely complexion. Moreover, she saved much time. She could eat her breakfast slowly in ten minutes, and she could eat it without dressing. Then she had an hour or so undisturbed in which she could write letters, mend, sew or do anything else which needed daily attention. By ten, freshly dressed for the day's sport, she would make an appearance.

The other girls, who had perhaps over-eaten at breakfast, to their complexions' harm, had wasted an hour or so idly waiting about for the mail. Their mending and letter writing were an ever-unfinished task and burden to them. And more than that, they had gained little from their early morning chat and idling. The camp never really woke up until the middle of the morning. The talk at breakfast and just after it was not inspiring.

The method of this girl might be practiced by anyone away for the summer to the improvement of health, appearance and state of mind.

EASY TO MAKE SUMMER RUGS

Artistic Floor Coverings to Correspond With Any Desired Color Scheme Need Not Be Costly.

Any woman may make at very small cost the most artistic rugs to correspond with any desired color scheme. After cutting rugs in the usual way, sew them bit or miss, and then color them. This will produce a blended effect of many tones of the same color that is very effective. They should have a border of a good plain corresponding tone with a thread of contrasting color. These hit-or-miss rugs put through a bronze green dye, and woven with a thread of old gold and a dull green border are beautiful.

Blue and white makes a dainty combination that, while delicate, will endure laundering. Another lovely rug is made by coloring the mixed center in buff. Edge this with a narrow strip of old rose, and have a border of deep shaded brown, edged with just a thread of black. Many other artistic combinations may be used to suit the taste.

PARISIAN IDEAS FOR GIRLS

At the Left—White marquisette, or voile, with black velvet girdle embroidered in cherries; a deep square border of tulle with a band of lace around it and joined on shoulders with close-set buttons in cherry color. At the Right—A little Directoire dress with skirt of plaited voile and a very sporty bodice embroidered in bright colors.

A Practical Gift.

Her club, composed of five members besides herself, each gave to the bride a beautiful gift for a skirt. The upper part of the skirt was made of a plain material, and arranged so that the buttons could be fastened on when changing was required.

WISE JUDGMENT IN TURKEY

How Scutari Magistrate Determined Ownership of a Cow That Had Been Stolen.

All readers of the Arabian Nights are familiar with the manner in which the Oriental magistrates dispensed justice, with more regard to equity than to law. Instances of the same kind are not wanting in modern Turkey.

A judgment worthy of Solomon, as homely and almost as wise, was pronounced by a magistrate in Scutari. It came about in this way:

A peasant living near that place lost his cow. About two months later he happened to be standing at a railway station, watching a trainload of cattle about to be sent across the frontier. Suddenly he gave a shout. He had seen his cow among those cattle.

The trainmen only laughed at him, however, when he demanded that cow. The good man thereupon sought out a magistrate, who listened patiently to his story. Then he pronounced this judgment: "The cow shall be taken to the public square and milked. Then, if it goes of its own accord to the plaintiff's stable, it shall belong to him."

The order of the court was executed. The cow, in spite of its two months' absence, took without hesitation the lane which brought it, a few minutes later, into the peasant's stable.

IT WAS BLOT ON HIS LIFE

Horrible Use to Which the Guillotine Was Put Greatly Saddened its Inventor.

The man whose name has acquired so painful a celebrity by being assimilated to his invention, was M. Guillotin, a learned physician, who had invented, two years before, the instrument of death which he deemed best calculated to abridge the sufferings of the culprits condemned to forfeit their lives by the sentence of the laws. The invention was laid hold of for the purpose of "expediting" a greater number of victims. Such was the expression used by a member of the convention.

M. Guillotin was inconsolable for what he considered as an involuntary blemish in his existence. His venerable countenance bore the impress of a settled gloom, and his hair, of a snowy whiteness, afforded a clear indication of his mental sufferings. He had aimed at relieving the sorrows of human nature, and he unintentionally contributed to the destruction of a greater number of human beings. Had they been put to death in a less expeditious manner, the people might have soon grown weary of those executions, which they showed the same eagerness to behold as they would have done a theatrical representation.

The Difference in Men.

One man will settle down into the routine of his calling, digging the rut deeper each day, until he loses power to see out from them. Another, in the same vocation, shows an ability to make each day's work a source of new growth in power and in appreciation. So, one person will rest passively on the fact of some well-established love or friendship, and thus lose, after a time, the beauty of the relationship and the meaning it once possessed for his life; while another actively woos the love of his friend every day, and so finds a deep, ever opening below deep in the relationship, with an ever fresh realization of the truth and wonder of life.—Edward Howard Griggs.

Suited Him All Right.

It was early in the history of the new household. "What have we got for breakfast, dear?" asked Mr. Just-married. His wife looked at him with troubled eyes. "It was to have been bacon," she said, "but poor cook's burnt it." "Poor cook! I should think so, indeed!" exclaimed Mr. Just-married. "Confound her! Have you given her notice?" "Oh, no; we mustn't be too cross with her, darling," said his wife. "She's so young and inexperienced. Won't you be satisfied with a kiss for breakfast?" she coaxed archly. "All right, dear," replied Mr. Just-married, suddenly pacified. "Call her in!"

Doctors' Fees of Old.

Doctors nowadays don't get so much more than they used to get. At the beginning of the eighteenth century the usual fee to a graduate in physic was about $2.50, though he usually asked twice that amount. Old Sawbones, who was only a licensed physician, couldn't very well expect more than $1.66, though he usually had hopes of getting $2.50 a visit. A surgeon's fee was a quarter a mile, whether the journey were far or near, and to that charge he added a quarter for blood-letting, and if the patient wanted his arm or leg cut off it cost him $35.

TENDENCY TO STANDARDIZE.

A startling question comes from an inquirer: "Can you obtain any information why all railway tickets of card board are the same size all over England and the continent and America, viz.: 2 1/4 inches by 1 1/4 inches, and have been so for the last 50 years? What is the reason?" Well, are they? If the railway ticket is the same size all over the world, it only shows our tendency to standardize, says the London Chronicle. You may step through the civilized world, and wherever the steps are placed the standard is 23 inches, upward or onward. Every builder's ladder is built to scale, and the fireman's ladder is on the scale of the seaman's run up the ratlines, not the bricklayer's trudge up the wooden rungs. But perhaps the greatest triumph of standardizing is that of the circus. There are big and little circuses in the world—thousands of boxed spectators at the Hippodrome or hundreds of boys in New Mexico. But the ring is always of the same diameter, for the bareback rider has discovered the exact angle at which he can square the circle. The circus ring never varies by a foot.

Not many people guard their health so carefully as Sir Tatton Sykes, who in winter wore five or six coats when out riding, and shed some of them as he became warmer. Prince Poutiakine, however, took even stronger precautions against illness. If there was a touch of cold in the air he had fires lit in his grounds before venturing to stroll in them. His waistcoats were made in two separate pieces, joined at the sides by buttons, so that he could take them off or put additional ones on without removing his coat. If caught in a shower he sheltered himself with an umbrella nearly two feet wide, which came down below his waist and was pierced with little windows. In very hot weather the prince wore boots coated with tin, as a protection against mad dogs, and carried sponges soaked with vinegar in his shirt front to ward off unpleasant smells.

The astonishing statement was recently made by the agricultural department that the loss to the country through insects in vegetables, flowers, fruits and trees amounts to $800,000,000 annually, and in connection with immense loss is the significant statement that thousands of song birds, which are the natural insect destroyers, are wantonly killed in violation of law. A situation fraught with such staggering loss ought to have some drastic remedy made possible.

It is said by a statistician that this country spends on music in various ways the enormous sum of $600,000,000, or three times the amount expended on the army and navy. Which only proves the truth of the old saying that music hath charms to soothe the savage breast. That we prefer the sweetest of the arts to war is also proof of our perfected civilization.

Milwaukee minister says that when a man is made happy through marriage, it is alright for a minister to accept a dollar or so as a marriage fee. But there are some husbands who, as time goes by, attain such a degree of "happiness" they wish they had their "dollar or so" back.

The duchess of Marlborough advises British mothers that "a dinner well cooked is better antidote for drink than any possible legislation." Without going into the actual verity of the aphorism, it is pertinent to suggest that the noble duchess proceed to the real antidote by personally teaching the British mothers to prepare a dinner well cooked.

A Chinaman in New York has sued for false arrest, claiming damages which, he says, may to some extent reimburse him for the loss of his usual calm and happy disposition, as his arrest brought on a fit of melancholy. The poetic sentiment of this oriental appeal ought to touch the most hardened practical occidental jury's heart.

Writing of whooping cough in a medical journal, a physician remarks: "Any disease which kills 10,000 children a year is serious." Certainly this particular scientist can't be accused of a hysterical and exaggerated habit of speech.

SENATE BEGINS TARIFF DEBATE

BILL AS REPORTED OUT, CALLS FOR LOWER DUTIES THAN HOUSE MEASURE:

MANY ARTICLES ADDED TO THE FREE LIST.

Committee Explains Elimination of House Amendments by Statement That "They Were Entirely Too Drastic."

An average reduction of 27.64 per cent under the rates of the existing Payne-Aldrich tariff law is proposed by the democrat Underwood-Simmons tariff bill on which the senate began general debate according to the report of the finance committee majority submitted by the chairman, Senator F. M. Simmons.

The report also shows that the bill as reported to the senate provides rates 4.22 per cent lower than the Underwood bill as it passed the house and that from it, together with other government receipts for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1914, there will be an estimated surplus in the government treasury of $2,020,000.

A salient feature of this bill, it is pointed out, is the large increase of imports to be admitted free of duty. Under the house bill the value of free listed imports, on the basis of 1912 importations, was $103,000,000, whereas the democrats of the senate in caucus, by sweeping changes, propose to free list imports valued at $147,367,000, an increase in undutiable imports over the house bill of $43,367,000.

In analyzing its changes in the house administrative features of the bill, the committee "deemed the amendments of the house entirely too drastic," particularly those authorizing examination of books of foreign manufacturers, a five per cent tariff discount on imports in American ships and other like features which were stricken out. Particular attention is called to the senate provision "designed to furnish the president with power to impose tariff duties of a retaliatory character on all articles comprised in a specified list," which includes many agricultural products.

At the school election the voters of Owosso, for the second time in a month, voted down a proposition to bond for $34,000 to buy two additional sites and build one new school.

Fr. Louis M. Prudhomme, pastor of St. Mary's church, Manistee, died after but an hour's illness. He was seized with a fit of coughing. It brought on hemorrhage of the lungs. Fr. Prudhomme went to Manistee two years ago from Saginaw, and had held charges at Traverse City and Cadillac before going to Saginaw.

Students at Ann Arbor may have to pay more for board when they return next fall than they have been paying in the past. Boarding house keepers declare that never in the history of the boarding business in that city have the profits per individual boarder been so small as during the latter-part of the year just closed.

Dr. R. L. Dixon, secretary of the state board of health, will soon begin an investigation to the end that proper precautions may be taken to prevent the spread of disease through the insufficient washing of glasses in saloons, restaurants and soda fountains. It is alleged that in many places they are not properly washed after being used, and are thus made the agency for the spreading of disease.

"We have been preaching Christian union for years; it is time we were taking some practical steps toward cultivating the spirit of union," declared Judge H. C. Barnett in the Tabernacle Christian church at Franklin, Ind. He then proposed that the entire congregation go across the street to the Presbyterian church and worship, as an evidence of good will and Christian brotherhood. All the 250 members of the congregation fell in with the plan, and, headed by the pastor, Rev. William J. Wright, crossed to the other church. They were given a hearty welcome.

BRYAN FAVORS NEW TREATY

Would Establish An American Protectorate Over Nicaragua Similar to That Over Cuba.

Secretary of State Bryan laid before the senate committee on foreign relations a proposal to establish by treaty what amounts to an American protectorate over the republic of Nicaragua.

Secretary Bryan proposes to incorporate in the pending treaty with Nicaragua three clauses of the so-called "Platt amendment," which constitute the effective control that the United States now exercises over Cuba.

The treaty with Nicaragua, to which the vital clauses of the Platt amendment would be added, was negotiated in the closing days of the Taft administration and provides for the payment by the United States of $3,000,000 to Nicaragua. In return Nicaragua accedes to the United States the exclusive right to construct an inter-oceanic canal across that country, thus foreclosing this route to any European power, and in addition gives the United States a naval base in the Gulf of Fonseca, and several unimportant islands on the Atlantic coast of Nicaragua.

Bacon Elected Senator by People.

Senator A. O. Bacon, of Georgia, has the distinction of being the first man ever elected to the senate by a direct vote of the people without the intervening action of a legislature. He was elected by popular vote under the provision of the new constitutional amendment. Senator Bacon was nominated last spring. Since March 3 he has been serving under appointment by the governor. When the legislature met in June, it ordered a special election as required under the amendment. Senator Bacon had no opposition.

SCALP TROUBLE FOR YEARS

268 Harrison St., Elyria, Ohio.—"My case was a scalp trouble. I first noticed small bunches on my scalp which commenced to itch and I would scratch them and in time they got larger, forming a scale or scab with a little pus, and chunks of hair would come out when I would scratch them off. It caused me to lose most of my hair. It became thin and dry and lifeless. I was troubled for over ten years with it until it got so bad I was ashamed to go to a barber to get my hair cut.

"I tried everything I could get hold of, and received no cure until I commenced using Cuticura Soap and Ointment when the scale commenced to disappear. The way I used the Cuticura Soap and Ointment was to wash my scalp twice a day with warm water and Cuticura Soap and rub on the Cuticura Ointment. I received benefit in a couple of weeks and was cured in two months." (Signed) F. J. Busher, Jan. 28, 1913.

PAINFUL, TRYING TIMES

Housework is hard enough for a healthy woman. The wife who has a bad back, who is weak or tired all the time, finds her duties a heavy burden. Thousands of nervous, discouraged, sickly women have traced their troubles to stick kidneys — have found quick and thorough relief through using Doan's Kidney Pills. The painful, trying times of woman's life are much easier to bear if the kidneys are well.

At Iowa Case Mrs. J. Hunt, 209 S. 9th St., Fairfield, Ia., says: "For thirty years I suffered from kidney trouble. I had severe backache, headaches and dizzy spells, and my legs ached so I couldn't walk. Doan's Kidney Pills cured me when everything else failed. I cannot praise them too highly."

FIGHTING THE DREADED FLY

Housekeeper May Do Much Toward Getting Rid of This Deadly Menace to Human Life.

It has been demonstrated by physicians and other experts that the common house fly carries typhoid germs. Therefore, it is necessary that great care be taken not to breed them.

The old adage "an ounce of prevention is better than a pound of cure" may be applied especially to flies, for measures to prevent their coming can be used more effectively than methods for destroying them after they arrive.

The housekeeper should insist that not a drop of slop of any kind be thrown about the door, and that all sink-drains and cess pools be securely covered and that no open slop pails be allowed to stand near the house, inviting a congregation of these summer pests.

Owners of country homes sometimes forget that the manure pile is a menace to the health of the family, particularly in this case when within easy reach of the dwelling.

Screens ought to be placed in all the windows and doors before flies and other insects make their appearance.

Spraying slop pails, garbage cans or ponds with kerosene is said to destroy the larva of both flies and mosquitoes.

Perfect cleanliness in the kitchen, the free use of borax and ammonia in washing floors, tables and sinks will go a long way in preventing trouble from flies.

ICED TEA WITH FINE FLAVOR

Addition of Jasmine or Orange Blossoms Makes a Most Delicious Summer Beverage.

If you want tea with a delicious flavor, try the following experiment: Get half a pound of very fine tea and add to it a dozen jasmine or orange blossoms. Put this mixture into a perfectly tight jar away from the light and do not open for a month. If you cannot get the orange blossoms or jasmine, purchase some orange flower water and soak your tea in enough of this water to cover it. In a few hours it will be ready to use.

To make the tea have the water hot, pour it over the tea and allow to stand at least twelve hours. Tea made in this way has a beautiful flavor and a delicious perfumed flavor, that can be obtained in no other way. Try combining it with orange sherbet. There is no way of preparing iced tea that can compare with this. After sweetening, and when you are ready to serve it, place the sherbet in a bowl, pour the cold tea over it, and bring them to the table together.

Delicious Vegetable Roast.

One-half cup boiled corn, either canned or cut from the cob, one-half cup of baked beans mashed to a pulp, one-half cup boiled rice, one-half cup strained stewed tomatoes, half a teaspoonful of minced onion, two tablespoonfuls melted butter, one-quarter cup sweet milk, and salt and pepper to taste. Mix together and add enough stale bread crumbs to make a stiff dough, roll, and bake in greased pan. Serve with tomato sauce.

Swiss Sauce.

Put a teacupful of cream into a saucepan and when it boils mix with it one wineglassful of sherry that has been thickened with a teaspoonful of flour. Sweeten to taste with sugar, grate in a little nutmeg and boil for fifteen minutes. The sauce is then ready.

Housekeeper's Hands.

Mutton tallow with a little sulphur added is healing and whitening. When the hard work of the day is done, rub well into the skin. Keep a supply of Indian meal near your soap dish. Every time you wash your hands rub the meal thickly on them after soaping.

When Baking Potatoes.

When making baked potatoes, you will find it very good to nip the ends off and grease them before placing in the oven. When finished, you can take them out, gently break apart without spoiling their appearance and serve at once.

Laundry Hint.

When ironing sprinkle powdered orris root under the ironing sheet, and this imparts a delicate perfume to the freshly laundered clothing and flat linen that is very agreeable.

Blackberry Salad.

As soon as blackberry season opens try this salad. The berries must be ripe, but firm and large. Mix with tender white celery chopped rather fine and serve with a mayonnaise dressing on a bed of crisp lettuce.

About Hairbrushes.

To clean hairbrushes and make them like new, put a tablespoonful of ammonia into a basin of tepid water and dip the brushes up and down in it until they are clean. They dry with bristles down.

"Then, that is just why I am going to open it," she explained.

"You ought to be afraid to do that."

She tossed her head. "I am afraid of nothing!" she exclaimed defiantly.

TRAINING CHILDREN.

More lies are told by mothers, fathers and nurses to children than all the rest of the lies put together. We lie to them with false threats; we lie to them with false promises; we lie to them with false stories; we teach them by our practice that a child has not a right to truth, and then we wonder that they learn the lesson.

Preparing Him.

"You're goin' to marry sister, ain't you?" her little brother inquired. The young man blushed. "I—I don't know," he replied. "That's funny," said the terrible infant. "Pa has looked you up in the rate books, ma has found out all about your grandfathers, and sister has begun her shoppin'. Gimme a nickel, won't you?"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Murdering Shakespeare.

What, we wonder, would happen to the London manager nowadays who should dare to put on the stage such a version of a Shakespearean tragedy as was played in Ireland over a hundred years ago? Mrs. Earle in her book, "Memoirs and Memories," gives a Dublin playbill of 1793 which is well worth quoting.

The play was "the tragedy of 'Hamlet,' originally written and composed by the celebrated Dan Hayes of Limerick and inserted in Shakespeare's works." The title role is taken by a gentleman "who between the acts will perform several solos on the patent bagpipe which performs two tunes at the same time."

"Nice and Snug."

Duckworth was such a delicate courtier he could afford to jest with a queen on a very unpleasing subject even. Once he was showing Queen Victoria over Westminster abbey. When they came to the spot where kings and queens lie Queen Victoria shivered a little and said, "I should not care to be buried here—it seems so cold and damp." "Madam," replied Duckworth, "I assure you it is perfectly dry. You would be quite nice and snug."—London Saturday Review.

As a Critic Saw Browning.

There was marked vulgarity about Browning, particularly in his accent and in the tone of his voice and a certain indescribable savor of sycophancy of a man eager to be of a grade to which he did not belong, but the poet was there—the poet's keen eye, the poet's heart, obvious in his remarks and descriptions.—Memoirs of John Churton Collins.

Too Busy For Business.

In a small town that was "finished" before the war, two men were playing checkers in the back of a store. A traveling man who was making his first trip to the town was watching the game, and, not being acquainted with the business methods of the citizens, he called the attention of the owner of the store to some customers who had just entered the front door. "Sh! Sh!" answered the storekeeper, making another move on the checker-board. "Keep perfectly quiet and they will go out."—Everybody's.
