A Realistic R. R. Play

Containing its most successful invasion of the central section of the country, "Midnight Express" sensational R. R. comedy drama is headed this way and will be with us for one night only, Saturday evening, October 25. It is his company of players that has been capturing theatre goers throughout the entire country and by virtue of the genuinely clever performance rendered is meeting with great success. The amusement public is clamoring for just such attractions as the "Midnight Express," and its startling and sensational scenes which is a relaxation from the cares and worry of the day. Its sole purpose being to entertain and amuse its patrons as a vehicle of realism and merriment. The play is one of the most startling attractions on the road and absolutely nothing has been left undone to give the production proper settings and effects and the result has brought forth words of high commendation from the press and public to the strong acting company that Mr. Edwin Gary, the popular producer, has given "Midnight Express," in his great success. Bear the date in mind, Pinckney opera house, Saturday evening, October 25, as this will be its only visit to this city this season. adv.

A Class Picnic

Saturday afternoon about sixteen or seventeen of the pupils in E. C. Glenn's Sunday school class, "Este Fideles," gathered in Pinckney and were driven out to the Glennbrook farm behind the staid old farm horses who pricked up their ears in response to the frolic of the crowd and appeared to fully appreciate the fun. The ride in itself was thoroughly enjoyed by all fortunate enough to be members of the class. Upon their arrival at the farm, the young people found that a Nutting Bee was to be the order of the day. Thus they spent the afternoon and toward dusk returned to the farm house where Mrs. Glenn had prepared a delicious nut supper. Games and music were indulged in during the evening. All good times must have an end however, and a ride along the moon-lighted road toward home in the "wee sma' hours" certainly was a most fitting close to the delightful hours spent under the hospitable roof of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Glenn.

The New Game Law

The hunting season is open. Already sportsmen are renovating hunting clothes, oiling guns and preparing camping outfits for a long sojourn in the woods.

Likewise the farmer is nailing up signs reading; "No trespass." And so the old squabble between the city hunter and the farmer will continue.

But the farmer is now placed in a better position than former. The last legislature passed an act which gives him the much-sought method of holding the hunter at bay. The farmer under this act, may establish a game refuge on his land by filing with the state game warden at Lansing a written application to come under the law.

Under the provisions of this law he can retain control of the hunting privileges on his land, up to 640 acres in any one township. Upon receipt of the farmer's application to set aside certain lands as a game refuge, the state game warden will take instant action to that end, and thereafter it will be unlawful for anyone to hunt, trap or shoot game within 150 feet of the boundaries of the farmer's game refuge.

Under the law the farmer may foster his own game, and squirrels, chipmunk, wild duck and other species of game are privileged to cavort right under the nose of the city man with a gun with the full protection of the law thrown around them.

However, the farmer is not allowed to hunt at will in his own game refuge. He is restricted by the game laws just the same as if he were not the owner of a patch of woods, and likewise all the game therein.

The Daughter of David Kerr

SYNOPSIS.

Gloria Kerr, a motherless girl, who has spent most of her life in school, arrives at her father's home in Belmont. David Kerr is the political boss of the town, and is anxious to prevent his daughter from inheriting his real character. Kendall, representing the Chicago packers, is negotiating with Judge Gilbert, Kerr's chief adviser, for a valuable franchise. They fear the opposition of Joe Wright, editor of the reform paper. Kerr asks the assistance of Judge Gilbert in introducing Gloria to Belmont society, and promises to help him put through the packers' franchise and let him have all the graft. Gloria meets Joe Wright at the Gilberts. It appears they are on intimate terms, having met previously in a touring party in Europe. Gloria twits Wright on his failure to keep an engagement to meet her in Paris. He explains that the death of his mother prevented his going to Paris. The Gilberts invite Gloria to stay with them pending the furnishing of the Kerr home. One society bud who refused to meet Gloria is forced to do so when her father is made to feel Kerr's power.

"I knew one thing the book said," she confessed. "It was what I said—and said more times than one:

Come over the sea to me, to me,
Come over the sea to me,
The little ships go sailing by,
But never a ship brings thee!"

They danced, forgetful of everything but that they were together. A man had cried in the wilderness of the world for his mate and she had answered.

Wright would have gone further, have made a formal declaration, but first he wanted several things settled. He felt that he could not stay in Belmont if he married Gloria. How to get rid of the paper was a question. He hoped through a newspaper broker to trade it for one in some other place. Then he and Gloria could begin life there together. The News was beginning to make money, paying its way and leaving something for future payments on the property. Best of all, there was no fight on his hands which would hold him in Belmont.

Mrs. Gilbert came into Gloria's room to kiss her good night after the ball. When they had talked over the affair for an hour the girl cried in the ecstasy of her joy.

"Oh, Mrs. Gilbert, tonight I am the happiest girl in the whole wide world."

On that very night Alderman Grunewald introduced an ordinance giving the Belmont Interurban Railway, a new corporation, right of way down Maple Avenue and making provision that a small depot should be provided for the convenience of patrons at Benton Park.

CHAPTER VIII.

When Wright reached his office the morning after the ball, he found his attorney, Arthur Morrison, waiting for him. He had been drawn to Morrison the first time he had met him and had asked him to take care of the paper's legal business. In this his judgment had not been warped by a sudden friendship, for the young lawyer was worthy of his confidence. Like Judge Gilbert, he had risen from a humble home, but unlike the adviser of Belmont corporations he had made his way independently of the malign influences which constantly seem to seek to attract young men of talent who follow the law as a profession. To him both as his legal adviser and his friend, Wright had talked freely and had rejected to learn that Morrison's ideals and hopes for Belmont were the same as his own.

"Even if you hadn't asked me to watch things with you while you are still a stranger to Belmont," Morrison began, "I think I would have come to you. Last night while we were enjoying ourselves a bill was introduced in the council for a car line down Maple Avenue."

"I saw an account of it in the Banner, and thought it strange nothing had been made public before it was introduced. Who wants the franchise?"

"They're under cover. It's the Belmont Interurban Company, a New Jersey corporation, and the men named as incorporators are only dummies."

"That isn't usual, is it, with honest men?"

"I don't know any more about it than you do, but you'd better investigate."

"When does the bill have its next reading?" asked Wright, after considering what was the paper's best move.

"Not until Tuesday night."

"That gives us five days. If we make a noise won't they call a special meeting and push it through?"

"Kerr isn't likely to do that. He's interested, I suppose, but how?"

"We'll get busy today," Wright said decisively. "A few pointed questions on the front page may bring them out from under cover."

In the conference which ensued the two men discussed every possible phase of the question, yet they never dreamed that it was part of the stock-yards scheme. What aroused suspicion as much as anything else was that there was nothing they could find on which to base suspicion. When Morrison left it was with the intention of scrutinizing a copy of the proposed ordinance carefully.

Wright sent a reporter to interview Alderman Grunewald, and all other reporters were instructed to find out what the public thought of it and any definite facts that could be brought to light. The city editor himself took an hour off to go to the office of Rosenbaum & Rosenbaum, who it was learned had given Grunewald the bill to present for them.

The drag net which the News spread did not seem productive of results calculated to bring anything to light. Alderman Grunewald had introduced it at the request of his good friends Rosenbaum & Rosenbaum and knew nothing about it.

Rosenbaum & Rosenbaum said that the proposed franchise spoke for itself, and that the road would prove of inestimable benefit to Belmont, since in the near future it would be extended to Corona, and all the people of that little town and the villages along the line would do their shopping in Belmont. The incorporators were Chicago men with plenty of capital back of them.

Wright telegraphed a Chicago news agency to find out who the incorporators were. At his suggestion the city editor tried to get Kerr at Esmeralda Springs by telephone, but was unsuccessful.

Only one clue was found which of itself was suspicious, and it was not one which could be used that afternoon. The courthouse reporter had dropped into the county surveyor's office, and talked about surveying in general and the work in Belmont county in particular. Was anything going on just then? This elicited the reply that the spring was not far enough advanced for the usual work, but that the stock-yards company had had men out. What were they doing? They were seeing how they could save their tracks along the river and rearranging the quarantine tracks for Texas cattle which were by themselves to the east of the main yards. This was all the courthouse man brought back to the office, but it was duly presented to Wright by the city editor.

That afternoon Belmont rubbed its eyes as it looked at the front page of the News. In the last column under an extended head was a story about the proposed car line down Maple Avenue. It was not replete with facts and figures, but it asked a great many questions and contained several interviews which said nothing. Even the property owners along Maple Avenue who had consented to the line and then been pledged to secrecy until the matter was made public by the introduction of the bill in the council, knew nothing more than that Rosenbaum & Rosenbaum had secured their consent.

The Chicago news agency did not send what information it gathered until too late for use on that day.

Sam Hayes bought a paper on the street, read the story, and rushed for a telephone. He paid two dollars and thirty cents for the privilege, one could not call it pleasure, of talking with Kerr at Esmeralda Springs. He read the paper to the boss, the front page story and the trenchant short editorial in inquiry. Kerr asked that he be connected with Gilbert, but already the judge was trying to get Esmeralda Springs, having seen the News just a few minutes after Hayes. Their conversation was short, Kerr knew the facts, and it was mainly a discussion of how the Banner should treat the matter in the morning. "The boss decided his paper should insist that the News was trying to knock the town. The attack was to be upon the News, thus diverting attention from the real issue. This command, properly phrased, was dropped into the eager ear of Deacon Winthrow, and he proceeded to write a scathing editorial holding up to scorn the paper which would try to barricade the path of the car of progress. The deacon felt proud of his editorial when he read it in the proof, and was warmed with a self-satisfied glow to think that he had thought of it. He still lived in the age of personal journalism and to lambast the other fellow personally was part of his editorial creed.

Before the paper came out, Wright telephoned Gloria that he would be unable to drive with her but that he would call in the evening. They had reached the point in their fast friendship where she was not unwilling to put and let him know how disappointed she was.

It was four o'clock when Morrison arrived at the News office with a copy of the proposed franchise. As he threw it on the table in Wright's private office he exclaimed:

"If that goes through, the company can do anything according to its provision except commit murder."

"I suspected as much," replied Wright. "What right of way have they?"

Morrison went to the map of Belmont on the wall and located the city terminus of the proposed line.

"Here's where they start on their own tracks," he explained. "You see, there's a provision in the charter of the Belmont Traction Company whereby any interurban line can use its tracks into the heart of the city upon payment of a fair rental. Here's the Townsend Park Line coming down Bluff Street, and right here where Bluff Street crosses Maple Avenue the interurban's own tracks will start."

"Then how does it run?"

"South on Maple Avenue and Maple road, to a private right of way which begins east of the stock-yards and parallels the county road to Corona."

Wright studied the map earnestly. "You see, I'm too new to know that neighborhood," he said. "Why did they pick Maple Avenue?"

"It's the only street they can use in that part of town. It's the natural artery for that new district out there, since there are hills on both sides of it."

Wright still puzzled over the map. "What are those red lines crossing Maple Avenue about two blocks south of Bluff Street?" was his next question.

"Those? They are the railway tracks of all the lines entering Belmont except those that come down the river from the north."

"Are they going to build a viaduct there?"

"Nothing is said about it."

The new venture would be a good thing for Belmont—if the company would confine itself to good works. The most objectionable thing was the lack of frankness on the part of the men back of the enterprise. Here was a corporation seeking to serve the public and not taking the public into its confidence.

While Morrison and the publisher of the News were canvassing the situation, a telegram from the Chicago News Agency was delivered to Wright. It read:

"Are They Going to Build a Viaduct There?"

"Hammersley is the private secretary of Adolphus Koerner, Koerner & Co., packers. Others are clerks in law office of Kendall, Strang & Kendall."

"By George!" exclaimed Wright. "The stock-yards company!"

Then he remembered what the county surveyor had innocently told. There could be no doubt of it. The stock-yards company was making some move which it did not dare make openly.

"It looks like it," assented Morrison. "Have you any idea what they want?"

"Not the slightest. They're not fighting the traction company, I know."

This, thought Wright, explained Gilbert's many visits to Chicago recently. The stock-yards attorney had apparently no connection with the new company, but Wright and Morrison, too, when it was explained to him, were both of the opinion that he was directing every move. If he was in it, David Kerr was in it; and if David Kerr was in it, he was not in it for his health.

In seeking to unravel the tangled skein they now had a loose end to work with. They could not imagine, however, why the stock-yards company was entering the street car field in such a peculiar manner.

Wright sat with his chair tilted back against the wall, his hands behind his head, gazing at the map on the wall opposite.

"Morrison, a newspaper man has to trust in many cases to his sixth sense; that's his nose for news, for the big story. Often he misses it, but when he does hit the bull's-eye everybody knows it." Such was Wright's preamble as he brought his chair down on the floor and prepared to tell the lawyer what his sixth sense had made him feel was the real object of the game. "The stock-yards company is preparing to steal a street."

"What?" gasped Morrison. "What makes you think so?"

"Everything. See how the river is eating up the only tracks to the stock-yards. They've got to get to the yards farther east. Maple Avenue is the easiest way. The franchise says nothing about what kind of cars are to run, how they are to be propelled, or what they are to carry. I'll bet they are going to run cattle cars filled with hogs and sheep and cattle down Maple Avenue, and pull them with steam engines, too."

"I won't believe it," protested the lawyer. "Maple Avenue is a residence street!"

"The stock-yards company is a foreign corporation interested only in dividends."

"Look at Benton Park!"

"Yes, take a good look; you won't want to in a year from now."

"I don't believe it."

"Anyway, that's the theory I'm going on. If it is correct, I've struck the nail on the head with my first guess. If it is wrong, I'll keep hammering away until the public demands and is given the truth. If I'm wrong, then they'll soon be smoked out. They can't stand being so misinterpreted when asking the public for a favor. But I'm right, I tell you. They're going to connect with the railway tracks where they cross Maple Avenue two blocks below Bluff Street. Such a belt line railway will be extremely valuable."

It was after six o'clock before they decided to leave the office. As every pro and con of the situation had not been exhausted, they adjourned to the Belmont Club for dinner and there continued puzzling over the franchise and its meaning.

Shortly before eight o'clock Wright drained his coffee cup and looked across the table at his companion.

"Doing anything tonight?" he inquired.

"No. Nothing on hand that I know of."

"I'm calling on Miss Kerr tonight. I want you to go with me; I can't go alone."

"I shall be very glad to," replied the young lawyer, successfully concealing his surprise.

Wright realized the fight was on. He also knew what Gloria had come to mean to him, and after what they had said last night he was afraid to see her alone. Now his first duty was to the public, that public which so often accepts benefits and sacrifices all unconscious of its own gain and what the cost has been. For the general good, for an ideal, for his belief in what a paper should be, he was putting aside—just for the time, his heart told him—the one woman who could make him supremely happy.

The deferring of hope was heavy upon Wright's heart as with Morrison he walked in silence to Gilbert's house. To himself he kept repeating some verses from their "birthday book":

In the twilight we parted,
In the light broken-hearted
We dreamed a sweet dream,
Then we met and we parted
Again broken-hearted,
But dreams come again.

Golgotha.

The one spot which more than any other has controlled the history of Europe lies, strangely enough, not in Europe itself, but in Asia. For the possession of the site where Christ "suffered, was buried and rose again" more blood has been shed than for any other. An immense number of lives were laid down during the Crusades; and for 600 years before the Crusades, and even to the present time, a constant stream of pilgrims has poured into Jerusalem to worship at the spot made sacred by the crucifixion of Christ.

From the fourth century after Christ until fifty years ago this site was generally conceded to be within the Church of the Holy Sepulchre. Now two sites dispute the claim of being the actual Golgotha. The latter claimant is known as "Gordon's Calvary" though to an American, Dr. Harlan P. Beach of Yale University, is due the actual discovery of it. Gen. Gordon, the hero of Khartoum, having first secured for it general recognition.—Christian Herald.

SURELY HAD DONE HIS BEST

This Husband, Like Many Others Unable to Reason Why Wife Should Make Any Complaint.

A typical "mover" of the ultra-shiftable type was passing a few days at a cow camp in Arizona, preparatory to going into the desert on a prospecting trip. His wife, a tired-out, faded-out creature, complained to some of the cowhands of the hardness of her lot; and the foreman took it upon himself to remonstrate with the husband for his shiftlessness and his indifference to his wife's welfare.

"The old woman ain't got no kick comin'!" said the husband when he had heard the foreman's remarks. "She ain't got no kick at all. Why, stranger, when we was fixin' to camp of a night many a time I've driv' the team half a mile out of the way so's wood and water would be handy for the old woman to fetch!"—Saturday Evening Post.

Golden Key of Brick.

Prof. Stephen H. Langdon, an Oxford specialist in old-world lore, is coming here to examine the "Sumerian" tablets in the museum of the University of Pennsylvania. This heap of brick fragments is esteemed as of more value than its weight in diamonds. Scientists the world over have an eye upon this precious pile. It is composed of what are known as Babylonian tablets—little oblong tiles of ridged and sun-baked clay so ancient and weather-beaten they would never be noticed among the mortar scraps of an old Philadelphia house dismantled. Yet these museum treasures dug up from Nippur and other burial spots of ancient libraries situate in the neighborhood of modern Bagdad contain the secret of remotest civilization. In them lies the golden key to knowledge of the most primitive commerce, sciences and arts, possibly including the invention of figures and letters and the first attempt at making a language.—Philadelphia Press.

MOTHERS!

Why Let Your Children Die for Want of Remedies That Would Save Their Lives?

Thousands have died from what the physicians call fever. You employ a physician. He says it is not worms that ail your darling child. He continues to call. Your child is not cured. It was worms and worm fever that ailed your child. It was a great expense to you and the child was not cured. Children have died from WORM FEVER, SPASMS, FITS, FOUL BREATH, RESTLESS AND NIGHT, and many times start frequently when asleep. Worms cause your child to be nervous. All these symptoms are of worms. And many times it's the PIN or SEAT WORM that causes you or your child to have rectal trouble. Soon after retiring for the night the pin worm appears. It bites and stings and causes scratching—scratching and aching. This makes the child nervous and many times the child is punished for not going to sleep. And the mother who reads this knows what it means when her child cries out: "Mamma, something is biting me!" And sure enough, upon examining her child she finds the naughty white pin worm, sharp pointed at both ends, imbedded in the child's anus. This worm causes more nervousness to young and old persons than any other disease. The harmless remedy for this is STEKETEE'S PIN WORM DESTROYER.

Has Your Darling Child a Fever? First of all give it Stetekee's Worm Destroyer. HAS IT A FOUL BREATH? Give it Stetekee's Worm Destroyer. It cleanses the stomach. HAS IT SPASMS? Give it Stetekee's Worm Destroyer. IS YOUR CHILD RESTLESS AT NIGHT? It is worms that ail your child. HAS IT FAINTING FITS? A sure sign of worms. The child is restless at night and starts frequently when asleep. Itching and scratching of the ANUS is a sure sign of pin worms. Young and old are troubled with worms. Use no salve. Use STEKETEE'S WORM DESTROYER. Stetekee's Pin Worm Destroyer, in powdered form, in tablets, chocolate coated. When you call at the drug store or when ordering direct from the undersigned, state the kind wanted. Price for each, 25c. By mail 25c. Ask druggists for Stetekee's Pin Worm Destroyer. Address: GEO. Eat the Egg Shells.
A teaspoonful of chloride of calcium, three times a day, dissolved in water, is healthful and nourishing, according to the German professors, Emerich and Leow. Lime, if taken in slight quantities as food, they contend, is a preventive and a cure of many physical ills which now afflict humanity, increasing the vitality of the organism, protecting it from harmful microbes and curing inflammatory affections.

Instead of throwing away the shells when one eats eggs, it would be better to eat the shells and discard the yolk and white, according to the personal view of these professors.

"Waiter," asked the important customer, "do you call this an oyster stew?"
"Yes sir," replied Mr. Erastus Pinkley.

"Why, the oyster in this stew isn't big enough to favor it."
"It wasn't put in to favor it, sub. He is jes' supposed to christen it."

NOW THAT AUTUMN IS HERE

Some Good Ways of Taking Advantage of the Season's Fruits and Vegetables.

Instead of the cool greens of summer, so refreshing and grateful during the extreme heat and dryness, in the markets we now find the late peach and pear, the pumpkin and sweet potato, the luscious tomato and all the other vegetables and fruits so abundant in autumn.

Baked Beets.—Take well-grown new beets and bake instead of boiling them. Take off the hard outside and you will be agreeably surprised with the sweetness of the beet. Slice into a heated vegetable dish and pour over them two tablespoonfuls of melted butter (not oily), mixed with the juice of half a lemon and half a teaspoonful of salt and a dash of pepper.

Sugar Beet Pudding.—Here is a favorite Carolina dish: Boil the beets until just tender; peel and cut in small dices. Allow a pint of milk to a pint of beets, two or three well-beaten eggs, salt and pepper to taste and a high grating of nutmeg. Put all into an earthen or heavy baking dish that can be sent to the table, and bake until the custard is set in the middle. Serve hot, as a vegetable.

Holland Cabbage.—A Dutch housewife contributes this good, substantial dish: Take a small head of white cabbage; cut it in fine shreds; four tart apples, peeled and sliced; one large tablespoonful of butter or drippings; a tablespoonful of salt, half a teaspoonful of pepper, a sprinkling of cheese or nutmeg. Stir over a slow fire for at least three hours. Mix together one tablespoonful of vinegar, a little flour (not more than a level teaspoonful) and a tablespoonful of jelly. Just before taking from the fire add this mixture to the cabbage; let it boil up once or twice, and serve.

MEASURING POTS AND PANS

Knowledge of Just How Much Each Holds Will Be Found to Make for Economy.

It seems that only in catalogues do we know or learn how large our pans are. But the housewife who really measures the quantity held by her pots and pans will be a better cook and more efficient housewife. What do you wish this pot for? Merely to warm a can of tomatoes, or to cook two quarts of spinach? How much should this pot hold to be just the right size for your purpose? Do you know how much, for instance, your yellow mixing bowls hold? Have you ever been deceived, and prepared to use a bowl for a certain purpose and find you had to take a larger one? Are you sure that your frying pan is the best depth for your special purpose? Is it nine, or ten, or eleven inches across? If you knew just how big it was, perhaps you wouldn't need two pans, or three or five, if you could estimate just the best depth and diameter for your needs.

Hindu Curried Potatoes.

Cut two large potatoes in cubes about an inch square, place in saucepan with one tablespoon melted butter. Season to taste with salt, cayenne pepper and one teaspoon curry powder. Stir thoroughly, then add one pint hot water. Let cook till potatoes are well done, but not mushy. Leave enough liquid to form a gravy when they are served. If you like a milk sauce an East Indian would put one-eighth cup of milk in a bowl, add one-half cup of cold water and with his fingers he would blend in two tablespoons of flour. Pour this over the potatoes and cook till quantity of liquid is reduced about one-half.

When Sprinkling Clothes.

If you wish to iron your clothes immediately after you sprinkle them, try dampening them with hot water. Roll them tightly for a moment or two, shake them out well and iron with a hot iron.

Shrimp Wiggle.

Three tablespoons of melted butter, two tablespoons of flour stirred in, 1 1/4 cups of milk; cook until it thickens. Then add two cans of shrimp and one can of peas; drain the liquid off of each and add them to the mixture, then stir all together; salt to taste; serve on toasted bread. But we have ours with mashed potato.

Bureau Drawers.

To make bureau drawers slide easily rub the parts that catch with common yellow soap.

To Flatten Rug.

Rugs often become turned up at the edges. To improve the appearance, fold an old towel or piece of cloth and ring out of water and lay along edge of rug and then take a flatiron (not hot) and press until cloth is dry, when the edge will be straight and flat as when sew.

To Make Carpets Wear Longer.

Go over your carpets once a week with a broom dipped in hot water to which a little turpentine has been added.

TWENTY-EIGHT DIE IN EXPLOSION

DESTRUCTION OF ZEPPELIN AIRSHIP COSTS LIVES OF PROMINENT GERMANS.

ONLY ONE PASSENGER SURVIVES DISASTER.

Entire Admiralty Trial Board of Germany Wiped Out When New Dirigible Burns and Falls Near Johannisthal.

Berlin.—The new naval Zeppelin airship, "Z," exploded in the air near Johannisthal Friday, and was completely wrecked.

Of 29 on board 28 were killed. Lieut. Baron Von Bleu, of the Queen Augusta Grenadier Guards, who was making the trip as a guest, was the only survivor of the wreck. He was badly injured.

The party included the entire admiralty trial board, headed by Commander Benisch, conducting the final trials prior to the acceptance of the new craft as part of the new German aerial navy.

The crew was under command of Lieut. Freyer of the navy and Capt. Gland, of Count Zeppelin's veteran dirigible pilots.

The airship exploded while it was over the outskirts of Johannisthal, sailing at a height of about 900 feet.

The craft fell on the main highway leading into Johannisthal, its blackened wreck of twisted aluminum framework blocking the road.

The exact cause of the accident is unknown. The dirigible had just left its shed and had traversed barely a quarter of a mile in the direction of Berlin.

Spectators suddenly saw a mighty pillar of fire shoot from the middle of the balloon, and the next instant the craft was a mass of flame, plunging to earth, burying those aboard beneath its wreckage.

Following so shortly upon the disaster of Sept. 9 last, when a similar craft just launched for the navy as "Z-1" was destroyed in a hurricane with the loss of 15 men, the news of today's catastrophe has caused consternation in aeronautical circles.

Huerta Will Not Resign.

Mexico City.—Provisional President Huerta has not resigned, nor has he fled from the capitol. When seen at the national palace at 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon he said he had no intention of doing either.

"When I resign," said Gen. Huerta "it will be to seek a resting place six feet in the soil. When I flee the capitol it will be to shoulder a rifle and take my place in the ranks to fight the rebels."

This was his answer to queries as to whether there was any foundation for the reports which have freely circulated in the capitol and found their way to the United States.

New Court House Dedicated.

Cadillac, Mich.—Wexford county's new $85,000 courthouse was dedicated Friday, Gov. W. N. Ferris delivering the principal address. It was a public holiday in the city and business was suspended during the afternoon in order to give an opportunity to attend the exercises. Hundreds of people were present.

Judge Fred S. Lamb officiated as chairman. Charles C. Dunham, former probate judge and sheriff for many years, made the final report of the building committee. A large silk American flag was presented to the county by Mrs. C. E. Miller for the local chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution.

Missouri Is Getting Rich.

Jefferson City, Mo.—The state board of equalization fixed the valuation of property in Missouri at $1,756,000,000. This is an increase of $20,800,000 over the property assessment of last year.

Railroads and other public utilities are valued at $188,700,000, and increase of nearly $5,000,000. Nearly half the increase in valuation of real and personal property fell on Kansas City and St. Louis.

Last Officer of Light Brigade.

London.—The death Friday of Sir George Orby Wombell removes the last of the heroic officers who led the desperate charge of the Light Brigade at Balaklava, the most famous of modern English feats of arms, and relegates to the pages of history, without a living link to the present, that splendid and useless sacrifice.

SULZER GIVEN LOVING CUP

Crowd of Admirers Call On Deposed Governor and Give Expressions of Confidence.

Albany, N. Y.—There was red fire, oratory and music by a brass band over at the executive mansion Saturday night when fifteen hundred admirers of William Sulzer called to present him with a loving cup.

A driving rain fell while the marchers were en route to the mansion. Sulzer started to shake hands with all of his callers, but he never completed the task. They crowded around him and refused to move. Some one said a few words of consolation to him only to be interrupted by Mrs. Sulzer.

"The action of the court is the least of our troubles," she said. The crowd began to cheer. "We'll have you back here next year, Bill!" one man yelled.

Chester C. Platt, Sulzer's secretary, read a speech assuring Sulzer that he had been removed because he would not obey the bosses. Mention of the name of Charles F. Murphy brought hisses. "Lynch him," shouted one man, at the mention of the name of an assemblyman. The cup presented to Sulzer was inscribed, "To William Sulzer. A victim of corrupt bossism, October 17, 1913."

Mrs. Sulzer was presented with a bouquet.

Hooper Wins in Tennessee.

Nashville.—Legislation prohibiting inter-county liquor shipments in Tennessee and a prohibiting interstate shipments in quantities over a gallon for personal use became effective with the signing of two bills by Gov. Hooper. They were passed at the extraordinary session of the legislature.

Another law which makes saloons, disorderly houses or gambling places nuisances, to be abated on the motion of 16 property holders, will become effective March 1.

Thus Hooper, the young republican governor of a democratic state—a man who was once a nameless waif—has won his spectacular fight against the liquor interests of his state. Defeated in the regular session, Hooper called a special session.

Rodman Law Nearly Killed.

New York.—Rodman Law, the rare-devil aviator and parachute jumper, again narrowly escaped death while attempting a stunt for a moving picture concern. Law had contracted to dive from a flying aeroplane and "rescue" a "drowning" man. He neglected to take the speed of the machine into his calculations, and when he dove from the hydroplane, operated by William Thaw and Steve MacGorden, he was whirled headlong, striking on his back in the water.

Chinese Brigands Kill 300.

Pekin.—Chinese brigands commanded by Gen. Hwang Li-Ang have slain 300 persons in the province of Fo-Kien and also burned two mission churches, the property of American missionary societies.

The American missionaries from the disturbed district are still in Fu-Chow, where they took refuge during the recent trouble.

The annual assessment of the Citizens' Mutual Fire Insurance Co., of Marshall, which suffered the heaviest losses in the last year since its organization, is 44 cents on each $100.

Fire did $20,000 damage at Brimley, a village 12 miles west of Sault Ste. Marie. Alex. Clark suffered the heaviest loss, his hotel, home and sales stables being destroyed. A. J. Belanger was seriously burned while fighting the fire.

MEMBERS OF COMPANIES 29 AND 170 COAST ARTILERY KILLED.

Terrible Loss of Life When Train On Which United States Regulars Travel to State Fair Is Derailed.

Meridan, Miss.—Twenty soldiers of Companies 29 and 170, United States coast artillery, were killed and about one hundred others injured Sunday afternoon when special troop train on the Mobile & Ohio railroad crashed through a trestle near State Line, Miss. Division Supt. Pigford, of the Mobile & Ohio, in a report sent to headquarters of the road at Mobile, gives this number as the extent of the casualties.

The wreck was caused by the engine tender jumping the track when about 200 feet from a trestle. The engine was not derailed and passed over the trestle. The tender broke loose from the engine, however, and with the baggage car and three coaches, plunged 25 feet to the ground.

Some of the dead are: Joseph Teben, Ernest Parquette, Clyde Teel, H. B. Bishop, G. C. Burleson, Joseph Provence, W. H. Brin, Goodes, Remsen, Gruckle Acres, Capt. Johnson, of Eighth Regiment band.

One hundred and seventy-nine soldiers were on the special train. They were from Fort Morgan and Fort Parancas, and were on their way to Meridan to participate in the Mississippi-Alabama joint state fair.

The men had gone to Mobile early Sunday and at noon their ill-fated special left Mobile. As meager news of the wreck filtered into Meridan a special relief train bearing physicians and nurses left for the scene. Other trains left from Mobile and Whistler, Ala.

The coaches were well filled and when the three cars plunged through the trestle the men had little chance to escape. The dead and injured were mangled in a twisted mass of wreckage, making it difficult to remove dead bodies or rescue injured.

Senate Passes Clapp Bill.

Washington.—The first direct results of the congressional investigation of campaign expenditures came when the senate passed Senator Clapp's bill prohibiting the sending of campaign funds from one state to another.

The bill prohibits the carrying or sending of funds from one state to another, to be used in the election of president, vice president, presidential electors, or congressmen. The senate passed the bill without debate. In previous discussions it was made clear that its purpose was to prevent the financing of campaigns in a secret manner by organizations or individuals who did not come directly under the campaign publicity laws.

Last Zulu King Is Dead.

Cape Town.—Dinizulu, the last of the warrior kings of the former Zulu nation of South Africa, is dead.

He was a son of Cetuywayo, the king who led the Zulu nation against the British troops in the war of 1879. Cetuywayo was eventually defeated after he had inflicted a crushing blow on the British army at the battle of Isandhiwana, when practically the entire Twenty-fourth infantry regiment was massacred.

Dinizulu led two or three rebellions against the British. He was once captured and exiled to the island of St. Helena.

Prospects Bright for Currency Bill.

Washington.—President Wilson has further cleared the path for currency reform in the senate through conferences opened with the republicans on the senate committee now in charge of the bill. As a result of a conference with Senator Nelson, the president has received assurances that the republican members are not holding up legislation, nor trying to impede action on the currency bill in the senate. It is believed that it will not be made a party measure and will be supported by republicans and democrats alike.

TORTURING TWINGES

Much so-called rheumatism is caused by weakened kidneys. When the kidneys fail to clear the blood of uric acid, the acid forms into crystals like bits of broken glass in the muscles, joints and on the nerve casings. Torturing pains dart through the affected part whenever it is moved. By curing the kidneys, Doan's Kidney Pills have eased thousands of rheumatic cases, lumbago, sciatica, gravel, neuralgia and urinary disorders.

AN ILLINOIS CASE

Charles Easter, E. Walnut St., Waukegan, Ill., says: "I had sciatic rheumatism and kidney trouble for years. I was laid up for months and spent hundreds of dollars unsuccessfully for doctors' treatment. After hope had fled, Doan's Kidney Pills came to my aid. They cured the awful misery and I have never suffered since."

COUGHS AND COLDS

NEW TAILORED SUITS

HAVE MARKED DISTINCTNESS IN CUT AND FINISH.

Departure From the Mannish Feature is Noted—Tendency to Drapery on Both Skirts and Coats—Much Fur Will Be Used.

Fall tailored suits will be characterized by various eccentricities of cut and finish. Occasionally a mannish model is to be noted among the new consignments, but for the most part they are more on the costume order, and, although plain and exceedingly well tailored, nevertheless have a more formal appearance than the coat and skirt of other seasons.

Much fur will be used, and there is a decided tendency to drape not only the skirts but the coats, or at least to have them hint of drapery. Skirts are still narrow at the foot, but usually have some fullness, variously arranged, at the top—that is, there may be a few gathers distributed along the sides only or across the back and front or strung uniformly around the top, and there is usually a break in the folds at the knee line or ankles, caused by raising or lowering the material where it is attached to the waistband. Generally this marks the extent of attempts at draping.

Today's sketch shows a suit that is typical of fall's fashion. It is developed in the wedgwood blue velours de laine, and has for trimming band cuffs and a rolling collar of gray fox fur.

The cutaway jacket is extremely smart, fitting smoothly in front and blousing a little in back. A sash of black moire is run through an eyelet on either side of the front at the bust line, and from there is carried downward and tied in a bow below the waist in back, with two not very long sash ends.

The fronts are left open for a space of five or six inches, disclosing a crossed vest of white wool ratine, with a row of tiny steel buttons in the center.

The material is used diagonally throughout, and in the skirt there are just two seams, directly in front and in back. The lower part of the front of the skirt is lifted up in draped folds that are held in place under a narrow perpendicular band of self-material, and there is a small curved opening above the feet.

At the raised waist line in back a row of gathers is covered by another narrow band of self-material, finished at either end with a steel button.—Washington Star.

Flower and Fruit Fad.

We are to have a fruit and flower autumn, say the sartorial authorities. Small blossoms are painted, embroidered or appliqued on our chifons and ninon gowns. Roses, orchids or iris we wear in our waistbands, and something that might be apricots or peaches garnishes our hats, to say nothing of clusters of cherries and the grapes in post-impressionist purples and greens.

Place for Pockets.

Latest fashion advices grant women pockets of all sorts, sizes and variety of placing. So oddly draped are some of the late Paris race track gowns that the appearance is suggested of pockets over each hip in true trouser style.

EASY TO WIND THE SKEIN

Little Contrivance Does Away With the Necessity of Impressing Small Boy or Girl.

It is unnecessary to dwell upon the difficulty of winding a skein of wool into a ball without the aid of a second pair of hands, but with the simple little contrivance shown in our sketch, this may be done with ease, and the holder can be made in a few moments.

It merely consists of a piece of board in which a number of holes have been made and into which pegs (ordinary clothes pegs will answer the purpose) can be firmly inserted.

Two picture rings can be screwed into the upper edges of the wood and the holder can be hung upon the wall, and in that case, the pegs should be fastened in the holes at an angle pointing upwards or the board with the skein placed round the pegs can be held in the lap or on the table and so used, and the small sketch on the right illustrates it in this position.

The object of having holes in the board at various distances apart is that the pegs can be placed at different distances apart, so that the holder will take a skein of any size.

WEAR YOUR CLOTHES EASILY

Getting This Effect is More to the Purpose Than Simply the Wearing of Rich Clothing.

A little while ago a Frenchman said that English women were getting so that they wore their clothes more easily than they used to. He rejoiced at the fact. Women should wear their clothes easily. A beautiful gown worn stiffly is no better than an ugly gown worn graciously. In fact, the beautiful gown in this case is not so good as the other.

Was there ever any sight more distressing than that of a simple woman dressed in all her Sunday best? Her clothes were well enough. They were well made and of good material. But she looked afraid of them and wore them stiffly. How much better she looked in gingham house dress, with apron and sunbonnet, perhaps to match.

And then there is the economical young girl who wears her "best" clothes always as if she had their value in mind and was trying to take care of them. She smoothes them out and holds them well away from furniture and neighbors, that they—the clothes—may not be contaminated by touching anything. A young girl always looks better in a simple frock, comfortably and therefore gracefully worn, than in a really elaborate frock which she wears stiffly.

Lovely clothes should be worn joyously, even indifferently. It is not hard to do this now, for clothes are soft and clinging and graceful, and refuse to let their wearers look stiff and "careful." So now, while fashion is with you, cultivate the art of wearing your clothes as if they were glad you had them, as if they were a joy, not a burden, to you.

BETTER THAN OLDER STYLES

Frock for Small Girl is a Compromise Between Two Blouse Effects Long Popular.

A frock for a girl of eight to ten appears in the accompanying drawing. It is a sort of compromise between the Balkan and Russian blouse styles, both of which are so becoming to children of this age. This may be made up in wool material, or if the days of tub dresses have not yet been passed, a dainty linen, chambray or other washable material would be pretty. The blouse has slightly more fullness than the Russian styles and joins a short and rather scant skirt under a broad sash of plaid silk, if the frock has been made of wool material. The wide collar is of the silk, faced with the material. The plaid pipes also the drop shoulder seams, front closing and cuffs.

Lamps and Safety.

Be sure that no bit of charred wick or burned fly or moth is left in the lower part of the burner. There is danger of these igniting and setting fire to the oil in the reservoir. If a lamp has been left standing with a little oil in it, it should not be lighted until filled and the burner carefully wiped. It is possible that gas may have formed, making the lamp unsafe to light before refilling.

On Monday, October 20, a large number of friends and neighbors gathered at the pleasant home of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Martin to remind them of their sixteenth wedding anniversary. The evening was pleasantly spent with music and other amusement after which a sumptuous supper was served. Before returning to their homes, Mrs. David Beaudin, in a few well chosen words, presented in behalf of the company, tokens of esteem consisting of silverware and table linen. The company then departed leaving their best wishes for many returns of the day.

W. S. Swarthout has received instructions from Washington, D. C., which state that the post-office at Anderson is to be discontinued after November 1st and thereafter all mail directed to Anderson shall be sent out from the Pinckney post-office direct. The post-office at Anderson has been for a number of years past in the store owned and operated by Max Ledwidge and Mike Roche who have proven themselves to be efficient servants of the government in every respect. The discontinuance of the office is due to the fact that the Government have decided that the maintenance of all smaller post-offices is a needless expense and they are placing their patrons on rural routes.

Is due here most any time now. Don't wait until it actually hits your back yard before getting in that COAL, or maybe you'll have "a hot bill" from the plumber, and "a long wait" from the coal man, besides.

You know how it is. Putting off ordering your Coal until the last minute means you've got to take your chances with others, who also put it off, and it's a case of waiting your turn.

So be wise in season—order your Coal NOW.

And order it from us, if the cleanest, brightest, hottest-heating and longest-lasting Coal is what you want.

We carry the best coals in their class that are obtainable—both hard and soft, and our prices are right.
