Merrill-Vaughn

The home of Mrs. Nettie M. Vaughn was the scene of an attractive fall wedding, Wednesday afternoon, November 19, when her daughter Norma was united in marriage to Mr. Geo. Roy Merrill of Webster, Mich., Rev. A. G. Gates of Rochester, officiating.

The living room of the residence was tastefully decorated in green and white. Promptly at two o'clock the bridal party took their appointed places as Miss Hazel Merrill, sister of the groom, played a beautiful wedding march. The impressive ring ceremony was performed, little Miss Norma Virginia Teeple acting as ring bearer. The bridal gown was of white crepe de chine, exquisitely trimmed with draperies of shadow lace, the bouquet was of white roses. Her attendant, Miss Sadie Swarthout, wore a gown of blue crepe de chine and carried white carnations. The groom and best man, Dr. Morley Vaughn of Jackson, brother of the bride, were attired in black.

A dainty buffet luncheon was served to about seventy guests immediately following the ceremony by six young lady friends of the bride.

Mr. and Mrs. Merrill have gone east on their wedding trip. The bride's traveling gown was a blue Bedford cord, the hat being black with a heavy blue plume. Both Miss Vaughn and Mr. Merrill are well and favorably known throughout this community. Miss Vaughn has lived in Pinckney since childhood and has always been a popular young lady in both her home and in social circles. Mr. Merrill is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Merrill, prosperous farmers in Webster. Upon their return from the East, they will be at home to their many friends after January 15th at Webster.

Guests out of town were present from Detroit, Jackson, Howell, Hamburg, Hastings and Ann Arbor.

Several very pretty showers have been given in the bride's honor, among them being a miscellaneous shower at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Laurence Queal of Webster, Friday, November 14, and a kitchen shower November 5, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Teeple.

Howell to Become a City

The question of changing Howell to a city corporation reached the council last week. Under the present law this change is governed by a general statute which has a long list of provisions. The council promptly passed the first action required and hope to have the matter ready to pass up to the board of supervisors when they meet in January.

It will be necessary for a vote upon the question when it is up to that stage. This vote must be by all the territory interested which includes the townships of Howell and Marion.

As to the fairness of the proposition just to illustrate:

A the last town meeting there was about $9,000 voted for roads. Every dollar of this amount is expended for work in the township and not one inside the village corporation. The corporation pays about sixty-seven per cent of the township taxes. Then we turn around and are taxed about $2,500 a year to take care of our streets. And every time a Howell township farmer comes to town he roasts the town people about how good roads the township has and the condition of the streets in town.

This is but one of the many sides of this important question.—Republican.

The Daughter of David Kerr

SYNOPSIS.

Gloria Kerr, a motherless girl, who has spent most of her life in school, arrives at her father's home in Belmont. David Kerr is the political boss of the town, and is anxious to prevent his daughter learning of his real character. Kendall, representing the Chicago packers, is negotiating with Judge Gilbert, Kerr's chief adviser, for a valuable franchise. They fear the opposition of Joe Wright, editor of the reform paper. Kerr asks the assistance of Judge Gilbert in introducing Gloria to Belmont society, and promises to help him put through the packers' franchise and let him have all the graft. Gloria meets Joe Wright at the Gilberts. It appears they are on intimate terms, having met previously in a touring party in Europe. The Gilberts invite Gloria to stay with them pending the refurbishing of the Kerr home. Wright begins his fight against the proposed franchise in the columns of his paper, the Belmont News. Kerr, through his henchmen, exerts every influence to hamper Wright in the publication of his paper. Gloria realizes she is not being received by the best society and is unhappy. She takes up settlement work. Kerr and his lieutenants decide to buy Kerr's paper and ask the editor to meet them at Gilbert's office. Calling at Gilbert's office to solicit a donation, Gloria meets Wright.

"Some time soon, I hope. I'm sick and tired of it all here, Gloria. Today it has seemed like the game isn't worth the candle. What do you think?"

"I'm all in the dark, too," was her confession. Slowly and surely in the shadow of her shattered hopes and his unhappy conflict of duty and desire were they being drawn closer together than even they had been when they laughed with the spring and dreamed of the days to come in a radiant sunshine of unwhispered love.

"I don't know what to think," Gloria went on in a low tone. "I don't seem to understand Belmont."

"Why don't you go away? Don't you want to?"

"What for? I know the life out there." She made a sweeping gesture which seemed to encompass all the world outside the four walls which shut them in together. "It wouldn't really satisfy me any more—to live as I used to live."

"Yet your life here—" He left the rest to her.

"No, this doesn't satisfy me either."

"In a word, Gloria, you're not happy."

Instead of replying directly, she asked with a dropping of her hands to her sides in a hopeless fashion:

"Is anybody in the whole world happy? Are you happy?"

"Don't you think I am?"

"I'm afraid not."

The appealing way she looked at him, her whole soul welling up in her eyes, brought him to his feet and set him to pacing nervously up and down. He looked fatigued, distressed, beside himself with care. She forgave him everything but his studied refusal to let her share whatever weighed upon him. Could he not see, she thought, how she yearned to tell him that whither he went there she would go also, that his joys would be all her joys and that his burdens would be divided with her, that love divided all sorrow and doubled all joy?

Wright could stand it no longer. He saw her before him, trembling with that same emotion that shook him, aflame with the same fire that burned within him, mutely questioning him with her big, soulful eyes. How could he make amends for that month of neglect except by telling her what she long ago had guessed, but what more recently she had a right to doubt? He felt weak where he wanted to be strong. To hear from her lips that she loved him was all that he needed to make him invincible. With her acknowledged love in his heart there was nothing he could not do.

"Oh, Gloria, I can't tell you what a fight I'm making. You wouldn't understand. Business is business, outside a woman's realm, but I've missed you so much this last month."

At this declaration she caught her breath. Joy, she found, could sometimes prove the twin of pain. That this man, this strong, fearless man, who she had missed her, had had a longing for dependence made her heart bound. Love, she thought, had been the breeze leagues before the wall is reached, never a surprise when at last the gate is heard.

"I don't know what to think," Gloria went on in a low tone. "I don't seem to understand Belmont."

"Why don't you go away? Don't you want to?"

"What for? I know the life out there." She made a sweeping gesture which seemed to encompass all the world outside the four walls which shut them in together. "It wouldn't really satisfy me any more—to live as I used to live."

"Yet your life here—" He left the rest to her.

"No, this doesn't satisfy me either."

"In a word, Gloria, you're not happy."

"No, Gloria, you must hear me. I didn't mean to speak now, of all times, but it had to be some day, and perhaps it is all for the best now."

The woman leaned her hand upon the table for support, turning half away from him.

"Don't Joe, please don't," she murmured. "I must go."

"No, no, I must tell you. You've asked me if you could help me. I want you to help me; you can help me always. I love you. I want you to be my wife. I have loved you, oh, so long; and, most of all, I've felt that you have needed me. Don't tell me that it was just selfishness, dear, that made me feel that my protecting arms should be about you always. Love is love, a law unto itself alone. We must recognize it and bow to it, because it brings us happiness."

He came a step nearer, but she did not turn to him. She stood half turned away, her eyes downcast, her lips parted into half a smile. Her breath came fast and she could feel her heart beat. Then she heard him say in a lower tone, so gently:

"Nothing to say, Gloria? Can't you believe me?"

She turned to find herself gazing into his eyes.

"Yes, I believe in you—as I believe in my father."

This answer was not enough. He had asked her to be his wife. Not yet had she replied.

"Say that you care for me, Gloria; tell me that you love me."

"I've always cared, Joe; I do love you."

"For better or worse?" He held out his arms.

"To the end of the world," she whispered as his arms were folded about her.

And as their lips met in their first kiss, Wright saw in her eyes the light that never yet has shone on land or sea.

CHAPTER XIV.

Even as Wright held Gloria in his arms there came back to him her words:

"Yes, I believe in you—as I believe in my father."

They were like lead about his heart, and cautioned him that he must get her away from Belmont as quickly as possible. Words of love must be postponed, new-found bliss be treated as commonplace, until he had finished his hard task of persuading her to go away.

"You've made me supremely happy, Gloria. I want you to believe in me and trust me—always."

She smiled up at him her love and confidence as she answered, "I do, I do."

"I want you to be happy, and I know you're not happy in Belmont. You must go away at once. I'll follow you."

"But why?" she questioned. The smile was still there, but surprise peeped forth from her eyes. "I'm happy now."

Wright laughed at her with that delightfully patronizing air of possession that lovers assume, caught her in his arms once more and kissed her.

"I know, dear, but you'll be happier. I can't explain. You wouldn't understand. Can't you trust me?"

"Yes, but father would—"

"He won't oppose your going. I know he won't." At thought of David Kerr and the fierce fight they were waging Wright became insistent. "Do this for me, Gloria. You can get a late train for St. Louis tonight. I'll have Mrs. Gilbert go with you. Next week I'll join you, and we'll make plans for the wedding."

"But, Joe, that's so foolish," she complained. "I like Belmont immensely now." Then she struck a more serious note. "Besides, it wouldn't be fair to father. He's put me through, and I'm not going to disappoint him. To go away—well, I feel it would be disloyal."

"You can write him we're engaged," he pleaded. "Then I'll go to see him."

Gloria could not altogether understand his insistence. Then, too, to send her away just after they had found each other was something she could not explain to her father.

Further discussion was put out of the question by the appearance of Judge Gilbert.

"Would you object to waiting for Mrs. Hayes in this office?" he asked, pointing to the room next to that in which the men had been conferring.

As he added, "Mr. Wright came on business, you know."

"I think he transacted it with me," she could not help

replying. Then she asked Wright with a smile, "You won't be long?"

He walked with her to the door, to Gilbert's surprise, crossed the threshold and went into the little office. Somehow or other—such things are always mysteries, certainly they are accidents—the door seemed to close of its own accord.

"Wait for me a little while," he said, taking both her hands in his. "It's going to be such a glorious world for us. I never knew what happiness meant till now. To be wherever you were has always made life sweet, but now everything takes on a new meaning transmuted by the glory of being loved by you."

She loosed one hand from his grasp and put it over his mouth.

"Naughty boy, you must go back to work. You're playing truant here. I mustn't listen to you. When I listen to you, you make me forget everything but that I love you. And now I want to be alone and think."

To leave her for an instant was like having his life's sun in eclipse. At last she freed herself from his arms and bade him go. He had gone as far as the door, his hand upon the knob, when she quickly crossed the small space between them, threw her arms around his neck and whispered:

"Remember, dear, in whatever you do, I'm with you. May my love and my confidence support you ever."

It seemed to him like a benediction. Again were his arms around her, again their lips pledged their hearts' lasting love. Gently he released himself from her embrace, and with a parting smile was gone.

Wright stepped into the library, his eyes upon Gloria until the closed door shut her from his sight. He turned to find himself face to face with David Kerr.

While Wright had been talking to Gloria, Kerr and Kendall had joined the attorney in the library. As soon as the editor saw with whom he had to deal, he recognized how hard pressed were his friends the enemy, since no go-between was employed. He was being asked to treat with the boss of Belmont, himself.

"You know Mr. Kendall and Mr. Kerr," Gilbert said, without resorting to his social manner, as was his custom. This he knew to be a case of diamond cut diamond, and there was no occasion for any seeming show of friendliness.

"I had the pleasure of meeting them at your house."

It was easy to see from the direct opening of the conversation that there was to be little beating around the bush. Gilbert took a chair at the head of the long library table. Wright sat to his left, where he could see the door of the room in which Gloria waited for him. Opposite to him were Kerr and Kendall.

"It's been a hot campaign," were the boss' first words, "but we can afford to let bygones be bygones."

Wright was not to be led into any admission which might be used against him later, and therefore would not assent to this.

"What I can afford has nothing to do with it. The one question is: Can Belmont afford to give itself up to this terminal trust that leaves no stone unturned in its effort to steal the streets and parks of the town? That is only the first step. Where do you propose it shall end?"

"That's where you misrepresent our side, Mr. Wright," said Kendall. "The undertaking you speak of is perfectly legitimate for the street boys of of Belmont. I challenge you to prove that what you have accused us of being about to do is really the intention of this company. Nothing, sir, is farther from it."

"That's all been gone over," Wright said, turning to the lawyer at the head of the table. "There's nothing new to be said along that line. Was it for this you sent for me, Judge Gilbert?"

"No. I asked you to come over here to consider an offer for your paper. Is the News for sale?"

"That depends. 'For sale' when applied to a newspaper may sometimes have an ugly meaning."

"Of course," Gilbert was quick to add, "I mean as a newspaper property."

"I'm a poor man, Judge Gilbert," Wright began slowly. "I couldn't refuse to consider an offer."

He got no further, for Kendall exclaimed:

"That's what I thought."

"Wait a minute," Wright asked him, lifting his hand in warning that he had not finished. "You interrupted me before I was through. What I say is this: I couldn't refuse to consider an offer from a proper quarter."

"What does the source matter to you?" Kendall inquired. "You're human. You want money as bad as any of us."

Before replying, Wright's gaze rested for an instant on the door behind which his heart's happiness waited. Her words came to him, strengthening him to meet the tempter: "Remember, dear, in whatever you do, I'm with you. May my love and my confidence support you ever."

"I may want money—need it—worse than any of you," he confessed. "But it must come only one way—honestly."

"Nothin' dishonest 'bout sellin' a paper, is there?" growled Kerr.

"I can't tell in this case until I hear what Judge Gilbert's offer is."

"It's simply this: I have some clients who wish to purchase your paper."

"Mr. Kerr and Mr. Kendall, I suppose."

"Does it make any difference to you?"

"It may to Belmont."

"What's Belmont got to do with it?" asked Kerr.

"A newspaper can't change hands like a stack of groceries," Wright retorted impatiently.

"You know I want to be open and above board with you, Mr. Wright," soothed Gilbert. "So I'll tell you that Mr. Kendall and Mr. Kerr are interested in this offer. I know the paper's mortgaged. What'll you sell for, the purchasers to assume the mortgage and all other debts, and possession to be given this afternoon?"

Wright merely looked at him and shook his head. What he thought he almost hated to say. It hurt him to think that they could believe he would even listen to such a proposition.

"Then," continued Gilbert, "another basis on which to deal would give you nominal control until after election, but my clients would not expect the paper to be so vehement in its denunciations in the next few days."

"Judge Gilbert," the editor replied quietly, but with great earnestness, "that's an offer I don't thank you for. These men haven't enough money to buy my paper."

"You bought the paper," snarled Kerr in an ugly manner.

"Yes," came the answer right back at him, "but you want to buy my self-respect."

The two men glared at each other, but the boss did not deny the assertion. The elder man was beginning to rage inwardly. So accustomed had he become to the exercise of autocratic power in Belmont that he could not reconcile himself to being thwarted, especially when success was so vital to him.

"There's a good profit in it for you," was the conciliatory remark of Judge Gilbert.

"In dollars and cents, perhaps," admitted Wright, "but there are some things that have a greater value than mere money; peace of mind, for instance, and the deserved respect of the community, and honor. I can't sell out the people who are depending on me, the people of Belmont."

The men across the table looked at him as if they thought him crazy. They knew he had foolish ideas, but they had not dreamed he would let such an opportunity slip through his fingers. He was the owner of a newspaper that was losing money every day, and they had as much as asked him to name his own figure for his property. They could not understand how honor was part of the transaction in the sale of a newspaper, even in the last days of a strong fight against the organization. What should he care about the respect of the community when he had money enough to take him out of that community and keep him comfortable until he was ready to get another paper somewhere else to exploit his insane ideas of civic righteousness?

FAMILY OF FIVE

All Drink Coffee From Infancy.

It is a common thing in this country to see whole families growing up with nervous systems weakened by coffee drinking.

That is because many parents do not realize that coffee contains a drug—caffeine—which causes the trouble. (The same drug is found in tea.)

"There are five children in my family," writes an Iowa mother, "all of whom drank coffee from infancy up to two years ago."

"My husband and I had heart trouble and were advised to quit coffee. We did so and began to use Postum. We now are doing without medicine and are entirely relieved of heart trouble. (Caffeine causes heart trouble when continually used as in coffee drinking.)"

"Our eleven-year-old boy had a weak digestion from birth, and yet always craved and was given coffee. When we changed to Postum he liked it and we gave him all he wanted. He has been restored to health by Postum and still likes it."

Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Write for the little book, "The Road to Wellville."

Postum comes in two forms: Regular Postum—must be boiled. Instant Postum is a soluble powder. A teaspoonful dissolves quickly in a cup of hot water and, with cream and sugar, makes a delicious beverage instantly. Grocers sell both kinds.

IS SEASON FOR BEAUTY

FEMININE FINERY NEVER SO LUXURIOUS AS NOW.

Showing of Imported Frocks by One New York House Reveals the Extravagance That is to Be Marked.

The shops are all displaying feminine finery calculated to arouse the enthusiasm even of the most indifferent observer, but one house on lower Broadway had on view last week a collection of imported frocks which struck the high note of the season with regard to extravagance.

After a general survey of the exhibit, one was left with a dazed impression as of a riot of velvets and furs, chiffons and laces, wonderful gleaming embroideries and supple silken stuffs in lines of indescribable beauty.

Our sketch shows a gown of chantilly lace and chiffon. A bright bit of color was added in the way of a deep reddish-purple belt and garlands of roses of harmonizing tones.

The profusion of intricate embroidery and beads is one of the most pronounced features of the handsome evening frocks and a quantity of dull gold and silver is another thing that leaves a distinct impression.

MANY NOVELTIES FOR FALL

Wonderful Selection From Which the Woman of Fashion May Pick Her Favorite.

Milady of fashion who is seeking for novelties in fall fabrics will have a wonderful selection to choose from this year. The soft colors which blend so well in furs show to special advantage in the new materials.

The demand for soft clinging folds and draperies this year has taxed the manufacturer's skill to the greatest degree.

Pompons With Beads. Pretty pompons for slippers are made in this way: Gather a doubled strip of chiffon—about three inches wide when folded—into a rosette.

If you are not versed in the ways of making roses from satin, make two rosettes, as you made the chiffon one, one smaller than the other, and fasten them together, and they will look flower-like.

Use bright crystal beads for the flower center, and dot beads around the edges of the petals of the satin rose. Pure, clear glass beads give the best effect, but gold or silver beads would also be pretty.

A Good Work.

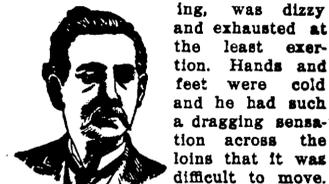

Edith was light-hearted and merry over everything. Nothing appealed to her seriously. So, one day, her mother decided to invite a very serious young parson to dinner, and he was placed next the light-hearted girl.

"You speak of everybody having a mission. What is yours?" "My mission," said the parson, "is to save young men."

"Good," replied the girl. "I'm glad to meet you. I wish you'd save one for me."

NOT A HERO OF ROMANCE

Matter-of-Fact Bridegroom Evidently Would Quote Poetry to His Wife.

Only six hours had intervened since they had become man and wife. The guests had made their departure and the two were alone, spending their honeymoon at the scene of the wedding—her father's house.

The bride laid her hand tenderly on his brawny arm—and spoke. Not an unusual thing for a bride to do.

"Do you love me, Hiram?" "Didn't you hear me tell the minister so?"

"Yes; but that was part of the ceremony. I want to hear you say it to me when nobody else can hear you."

Once again he infringed upon somebody else's copyright and told her in stereotyped phrases the story which, though old, is never out of print.

A happy, satisfied expression shone in her eyes.

"I could not live without you, Hiram," she murmured, in a low tone. Then, in a matter-of-fact, every-day tone, he concluded:

"I don't see why not; you have for twenty-five years."

35 Bushels Per Acre

Was the yield of wheat on many farms in Western Canada in 1913, some yields being reported as high as fifty bushels per acre.

As high as one hundred bushels were recorded in some districts for oats, fifty bushels for barley, and from ten to twenty bushels for flax.

J. Keys arrived in the country five years ago from Denmark, with very little means. He homesteaded, worked hard, is now the owner of 320 acres of land, in 1913 had a crop of 300 acres, which will net him about four thousand dollars.

His wheat weighed 68 pounds to the bushel and averaged over 35 bushels to the acre.

Thousands of similar instances might be related of the homesteaders in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta.

The crop of 1913 was an abundant one everywhere in Western Canada.

When the grasshopper ceases to hop and the old cow quits her bawling; when the fishes no longer hop and the baby stops its squalling; when the dunners no longer dun—and the owl quits his hooting; when the riders have ceased to run and the burglar stops his looting; when the vine no longer runs and the skylark stops its larking; when the sun no longer shines and the young man stops his sparking; when the heavens begin to drop and the old maids stop advising, then it is time to shut up shop and quit your advertising.

It should be known by everybody in these days of gasoline lamps and stoves that gasoline will not explode until its fumes have been mixed with at least six parts of atmospheric air. Gasoline will catch fire as quickly as any liquid known, but let it alone and it will burn out, doing no damage and leaving no scar or sign of fire. Mixed with air in proportions mentioned it is far more dangerous than dynamite. No receptacle of this liquid should ever be left uncorked, for to do so is to make the room where it is kept far worse than a powder magazine. This matter of safely handling gasoline is very easy, and no one should be ignorant of how it is done.

LAUREL

STOVES & RANGES

"WHY BETTER?"

Because of the Laurel Two Flue Construction. This construction makes it possible to heat six griddles, without heating the oven, with the direct draft damper open.

Isn't it apparent that your fuel thus gives more service? No heat wasted on the outside air.

Maximum baking power is another result of this feature. The Heat force travels down one flue at side of oven, circulates entire bottom and returns by another side flue, thereby heating every inch of available oven space.

Come in and examine our Laurel Range Specialties.

WELL, WELL, WELL, Who Said Purity Flour?

Why it was the talk of the town last Saturday evening when people saw what nice bread their neighbors made out of it. Ten of as fine loaves of bread were on exhibition at the Ladie's Fair as any anybody ever saw. In fact the loaves were all so nice that it was hard to tell any difference in them. You can obtain just as good flour as any of them had, at any grocery. If they won't get it for you or don't have it, let us know and we will see that you get it some way.

We now have Buckwheat Flour on sale; it is PURE Buckwheat flour too. Those who wish to have Buckwheat ground will be asked to leave it here for a few days as we are not going to have a special day for grinding this year, but will grind Buckwheat nights.

Is $10 to $20 Saved on Fuel Bills Worth While to You?

If it is, we want you to come and see us, and we will show you a base burner that will not only save you dollars in fuel bills, but will also give you continuous heat day and night---upstairs and down---all winter long.

There are many reasons why the FAVORITE BASE BURNER is the best and most economical heating stove in existence. In its wonderful system of warm-air flues you will find one reason why it maintains an even temperature throughout the entire house on the coldest days of winter, regardless of whistling winds and driving blizzards outside.

In its "paper-tight" construction---for the Favorite is accurately and tightly fitted by special patented machinery---is found the explanation why it will hold fire unattended for five successive days and nights without going out, always pouring forth an unvarying amount of pure, warm air from a steady fire. Flowers and delicate plants thrive in the fresh, healthful atmosphere supplied by a FAVORITE BASE BURNER; it is the best method of heating for fragile women and children.

If you want your family to be warm, healthy and happy during the cold months you cannot afford to buy any heating stove but a Favorite. It will keep Florida atmosphere in your house all winter long. It will give your wife a cozy and comfortable home in which to live. It will furnish your children with warm bedrooms in which to undress and go to bed.

Buying a Favorite Base Burner is like putting money in the bank, because it saves its own cost in a few years use, and brings such luxury and happiness into the home.

Port Huron, Mich.—It was discovered that the ship which has been overturned in Lake Huron near this city since the storm of November 9th, is the Charles S. Price.

William Baker, a diver of Detroit, made the discovery, accompanied on the tug Sport by Captain Robert Thompson. It took only a short time for Baker in his diving suit to decipher the steamer's name in black letters upon a white background.

No bodies were discovered by the diver although he asserts he was on the lookout for them. He adds that he believes there are some bodies in the steamer, but he was unable to get inside to verify his conjecture.

The diver declares there is no boat under the Price nor near it. Captain Thompson dragged his anchor around the wreck but met no obstacle. Captain Thompson believes the washing away of the Price's hatches, and the shifting of the cargo in the storm, combined to throw the vessel on its side, capsizing it without warning to the crew.

The Price is one of the Hanna fleet of Cleveland. It is valued at $350,000. The ship is 504 feet long and was built in 1910 by the American Shipbuilding company, of Lorain, O. It is the belief of owners' representatives that the steamer will be recovered without great loss.

Miner Killed at Negaunee.

Negaunee, Mich.—Thomas Garrett, Ishpeming, was killed and Fred Borlace and William Andrews were injured while being lowered to work in the new Breitung shaft Monday.

Garrett and Borlace were riding in a bucket and were down about 100 feet when a cross bar which guides the bucket fell, knocking Garrett to the bottom of the shaft and striking Borlace on the head. Andrews, who went to rescue Garrett, was injured when a bucket turned over on him.

New Resort is Planned.

Benton Harbor, Mich.—Bids were opened by the backers of "Ormsby Beach," the proposed $25,000 summer resort and sanitarium to be located on the shores of Lake Michigan, near here, for the construction of 20 cottages and the main building, which will be one of the finest on the east shore.

A mineral well, said to have curative powers, has been found on the proposed site. Dance halls, amusement features and a board walk from St. Joseph, along the lake, are proposed.

Plan Approved by Attorney General.

Lansing, Mich.—After a conference with the attorney-general's department, members of the state board of health have decided to issue the order connecting the Highland Park sewerage system with that of Detroit. At a recent meeting in Ann Arbor the board of health determined on such action but withheld the order until the attorney-general could be consulted.

FACTORY FOR STUDENTS

Attendance at University Can be Increased if Employment for Young Men Could be Found.

Ann Arbor, Mich.—"One thousand more young men of the state of Michigan would attend the university each year if they could only be assured permanent work for their spare hours by which they could earn school funds."

This statement was made by a member of the working students' committee. The two employment bureaus find it very difficult to find jobs enough to go around here. Most of them are waiting table for board, tending furnace for rooms, or doing odd cash jobs about the city. A city no larger than Ann Arbor cannot furnish continuous work for several hundred students.

A number of plans have been suggested. A factory of some kind seems the most plausible. It would need to be one that would not be compelled to depend upon rush order work, for the amount of labor would vary greatly from day to day. Some days there would be several hundred workers every hour, while other days, such as periods before examinations, the numbers would undoubtedly dwindle to almost nothing. The idea is to have the kind of work such that a student can drop into the factory at any hour of the day he happens to have some spare time, work as long as he likes at so much per hour, and quit when he wishes to. The main thing to plan for it to always have work for all at any time.

The product will need to be something for which there is a steady demand, and which can be sold as fast as finished. A basket factory has been suggested as meeting these requirements. Another suggestion has been a cement block factory.

To Reduce Price of Eggs.

New York.—A campaign against the high price of eggs, it was announced by Mrs. Julian Heath, president of the Housewives' league, will be started at once in which 700,000 women organized in every state will take part.

Eggs are selling for 45 cents a dozen in New York city. Those same eggs, Mrs. Heath declared, were put into cold storage last April at a cost of 18 to 20 cents a dozen, and she declared that they could be sold at 30 cents and a reasonable profit be realized.

JUAREZ TAKEN BY REBEL ARMY

FEDERAL OFFICERS SHOT BY ORDER OF GENERAL VILLA.

FORTY PERSONS ARE KILLED IN BATTLE.

Provisional Government of State of Chihuahua is Established in Juarez. No Looting Allowed By Victors.

El Paso, Texas. By the cleverest coup yet executed by the Mexican constitutionalists Juarez fell into their hands early Saturday morning. The rebel army under General Villa were in the center of the city before a shot was fired. In the ensuing battle about forty persons were killed, one of them an American auto driver from El Paso.

The rebels took 125 federal prisoners, 95,000 rounds of ammunition, two field pieces and two machine guns. General Francisco Castro made his escape, but the other federal officers were taken and executed on the order of Villa.

"No Looting" was the order given to the victorious men after the town had surrendered. No cases of theft were reported.

The provisional government of the state of Chihuahua has been established at Juarez. Col. John N. Medina has been named as governor.

Order was quickly restored in Juarez after the capitulation, and Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock street car service between El Paso and Juarez was resumed, and Americans began to flock to the Mexican city. Little damage was done in Juarez, as the rebels had no cannon.

Villa assured Mayor C. E. Kelly, of El Paso, that all Americans would receive protection. They met in the center of the international bridge at noon Saturday and later Mayor Kelly accompanied Villa to the Juarez customs house, the new rebel headquarters, where they talked for a few minutes. Mayor Kelly on his return ordered the bridges opened and traffic between the towns was resumed.

Passengers Saved by "S. O. S."

New Orleans.—A wireless message from Bermuda states that the Spanish steamers Balmes was destroyed by fire at sea.

One hundred and twenty-five passengers and the crew of 42 were rescued by the Cunarder Pannonia, a sister ship to the famous Carpathia which pickled up the Titanic survivors.

The disaster occurred about 600 miles east of Bermuda while the Balmes was bound from Havana to Cadiz with a cargo of rum and cotton. The fire is believed to have been caused by spontaneous combustion.

The Pannonia is thought to have been the only vessel to receive the "S. O. S." call sent out by the Balmes. The Pannonia reached the burning vessel within four hours and reported by wireless that all passengers had been taken off without mishap.

Eaton Must Reduce Road Work.

Charlotte, Mich.—State Highway Commissioner Rogers advises the county road commission that he made a blunder in interpreting the new trunk line act and instead of Eaton county receiving $1,700 a mile for this class of construction, only $850 will be paid, which will result in a loss of $3,000 to this county and will force the county commissioners to reduce their 1914 work to that extent, as they were figuring on using the reward money to make up the cut made by the supervisors.

Canadian Ship is Lost.

Montreal.—The steam collier Bridgeport, sailing from Sydney, Cape Breton, with a crew of 42 and a cargo of 10,000 tons of coal, has been lost and probably all aboard have perished, according to an official announcement made by the Dominion Coal Co., which chartered the vessel.

Wreckage found on the shores of Bird Rock island, in the St. Lawrence river, told the story of the tragedy.

ANOTHER GOOD YEAR IN WESTERN CANADA

MANITOBA, SASKATCHEWAN AND ALBERTA HAVE SPLENDID CROPS.

The results of the threshing throughout Western Canada shows a more wonderful yield than usual of wheat, oats, barley and flax, all of which was harvested and threshed in perfect order. Not only was the average yield excellent over the entire country, but the quality was of the highest standard. Without going into figures, it is sufficient to say that wheat graded almost universally very near the top. Reports are to hand showing yields of wheat from many fields which averaged forty bushels per acre, and weighing 65 pounds to the measured bushel. Oats were very heavy, running from fifty to one hundred and fifteen bushels to the acre. Barley also was a very heavy yielder and kept up the reputation of Western Canada as a producer of that cereal. In many parts of the country the yield of flax exceeded the earlier expectations, but in other parts, there was some loss on account of winds blowing off the boll. Hundreds of farmers who have only been in the country three or four years, with but little means when they arrived, will, out of the crop of this year, clean up all their indebtedness, and be able to put something aside for further improvements on their farms and homes which are now freed of incumbrance. The writer has just heard of the experience of a man in the Battleford district that is worth repeating. He went to the district seven or eight years ago, with no money, worked for a time got a team of horses, did some freighting and homesteaded a quarter section of land. He now owns 480 acres of land, clear of all incumbrances, and has wheat, oats, barley and hay, as well as a good number of horses, cattle and hogs, feeding rough grain to the stock. He is a firm believer in mixed farming. The fifty dollars that he first earned in the country has now increased to $25,000. He has never had a crop failure. Instances of this kind could be repeated over and over again.

There is a Dane, named Key, east of Saskatoon, whose oats this year went 110 bushels to the acre, and his wheat 40 bushels. He has paid off the mortgage on his farm, and now contemplates a trip to Denmark, to visit his old home. He has no more cares or worries, but is anxious to have more of his people settle in that part. It is not only the farmer with limited means and small area of land who is doing well, and has done wonderfully in Western Canada this year, but the man with means, the man who is able to conduct successful farming on a large scale and many opportunities offer for such in Western Canada, also has increased his bank account handsomely. A farmer in Southern Alberta raised 350,000 bushels of grain in 1913, and made almost a fortune out of it. In Saskatchewan and in Manitoba is to be heard the same story of what has been done by the farmer working a large area, which he is able to do successfully, by the use of improved farm machinery, enabling him to cut hundreds of acres a day, and plow the land immediately with large traction outfits. No better recommendation could be given the country than the fact that during the past year, upwards of 400,000 settlers arrived in Canada, the greater number of whom went to the farm. There are still many thousands of homesteads still available, capable of producing such crops and maintaining such herds as has made rich men out of the thousands whose experiences could be reproduced were it necessary.—Advertisement.

Naming the Twins.

Like Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch, "Mis' Dane" had a taste for geographical names, and "Mis' Dane" is very loyal, so she wanted to call the little firstborn "Missouri." Mr. Dane said she might, but that if she did he would call the other "Arkansas." Sometimes homesickness would almost master her. She would hug up the little red baby and murmur "Missouri," and then daddy would growl playfully to "Arkansas." It went on that way for a long time and at last she remembered that Sedalia was in Missouri, so she felt glad and really named the older baby Sedalia. But she could think of nothing to match the name and was in constant fear that the father would name the other baby "Little Rock."

For three years poor Gale was just "tother one." Then the Danes went to Green River where some lodge was having a parade. They were watching the drill when a "bystander that was standing by" said something about the "fine regalia." Instantly "Mis' Lane" thought of her unnamed child, so since that Gale has had a name.—Atlantic.

Grounds for Fear.

"Why are you trying to keep that young electrician away from the girls?" "Don't you know there is always danger when a spark gets too near so much powder?"

Always Meant Hearty Feeding

THE DAYS OF REAL THANKSGIVING

EVEN those early Thanksgivings that crop up in history are associated with much—usually too much—turkey and cranberry sauce and pie. As a child, of course, he was thankful that Thanksgiving day had to come on Thursday every year, instead of flopping all over the week and coming in turn on Saturday and Sunday, when there would be holiday anyway. For is there anything so tragic as a holiday that does not fall on a school day?

Thursday is just right, for then, you see, the school people reason that there is no use bringing the children back for one day, and they might as well have Friday, too. Thanksgiving on Wednesday would be overstepping the mark, since they would not allow two extra days, and Friday meant only one day off, Thursday was the one to choose, and looking back now you cannot help wondering how the president ever happened to hit upon such an altogether satisfactory day.

On Wednesday, you will remember, not much work was done, for everybody was looking forward to the "entertainment." Perhaps you even spoke a piece. If you did your selection was limited, for the poets seem to be kept so busy grinding the mills for Christmas that they have not one little inspiration left for Thanksgiving. But what Thanksgiving poetry there is agrees on one point—a lively veneration for the "eats." No matter how the poem starts dinner will be served by the end of the last verse.

Take that one you recited about "Thanksgiving Eve." Sentiment riots in the opening lines. The snow falls gently outdoors, for the scene is not laid in Baltimore, Md., where they usually reserve snow for a Christmas treat. We have a touching picture of the little ones creeping silently to bed, you get in a melting good, sort of anticipating that when the youngsters reach the attic the poet is going to spring a vacant crib at you. But no. Listen!

It was Thanksgiving eve, don't you think, The pies were in rows on the pantry shelves, And nice things to eat, and nice things to drink, Resignedly looked for the morrow to bring A miserable end to everything.

Not that it rhymes especially and the last line is painfully ambiguous as to where the miserable end is going to strike, but what matter when the rows of pies and various beverages are safe on the shelf.

After you had stumbled through this, getting purple-red in the face and wondering why all those "fellers" you could lick with one hand down in the school yard should look so terrifying assembled before the platform, you beat a precipitous retreat, falling over a hole in the carpet on the way.

The next number on the program was "The First Proclamation," done by another boy. The family of that other boy had suffered because of "The First Proclamation," for it was to be recited in costume. Now, how should a plain American mother know in what garb Governor Bradford delivered that first proclamation? Father found a picture of the Pilgrim Father in the history and thought that would do well enough, and grandfather said: "Oh, pahaw now; don't he look like one of them big-hat fellers around Pen-Mar?" Finally they borrowed a suit that a neighbor's son had worn when he went as John Alden to a mask ball, though it was much too large, and Johnny protested violently against wearing it. Just so does a simple thing change the course of a noble life. If the suit had not been too large Johnny might have been able to take his mind from his appearance and divert it to the lines he was to speak, but error that the boys would guy him occupied his young brain to the exclusion of all else.

THE THANKSGIVING PIE

"And now," said the governor, "gazing abroad," he began.

Pause.

"And now," said the governor—

Pause.

"And now—"

And now Johnny burst into tears and rushed from the platform, stumbling over the hole in the carpet on the way. Then teacher got up, you remember, and said if you would all excuse Johnny she would read the poem, and there being nothing else to do under the circumstances but to excuse Johnny, you permitted her to go on with "The First Proclamation." The poem was no exception, for you found that in even those early days Governor Bradford's Thanksgiving greeting had to do with "eats."

So shoulder your matchlocks, masters, there is hunting of all degrees; And fisherman, take your tackle and scour for spoils the seas. And maidens and dames of Plymouth, your delicate crafts employ, To honor our first Thanksgiving and make it a feast of joy.

We fall of the fruits and dainties so close at our hand in Devon, Ah! they are the lightest losses we suffer for sake of Heaven; But see in our open clearings how golden the melons lie; Enrich them with sweets and spices and give us the pumpkin pie.

Remember it, don't you? But even then it perplexed you to know why you were hearing so much about pumpkin pie as an attribute of Thanksgiving when in all your innocent young life you had never tasted a pumpkin. You did not know then that "pumpkin" is sort of poetic license for any kind of Thanksgiving pie.

One of the very limited collection of poems for this season was dedicated to "Thanksgiving Pies," and this was delivered by a girl of the school, because of her deeper understanding of the subject.

Such baking, boiling, tasting, beating! Such preparation made for eating! Such unremitted joys For little hungry girls and boys.

You could hardly wait for tomorrow to come when you heard these lines. It was a very long poem, all about how the hungry girls and boys of a certain household appeased their hunger with pies cooling on the pantry shelf, and you thought how nice it must have been to eat those pies "twelve in number, brown as amber," though you had not the remotest idea what amber was for, save to rhyme with number. But you had a very definite idea that what would happen if you and your hungry little playmates should go and do likewise with the pies cooling right then out on your mother's shelf.

And right when your mouth was "watering like anything," that elocutionist from the big girls' class came and told teacher she was going to recite a Thanksgiving poem for the little children and teacher said: "Very well, if you wish to." As for you, you didn't wish her to. You did not like her brand of poems. "Cur-few Shall Not Ring Tonight" was high in her repertoire, and "The Polish Boy" and "Spartacus of the Gladiators" and another about Robespierre in an unspeakable place where the poet would never have sent him if he had been better behaved. Naturally you did not know the names of the poems then. These you have learned since from constant reading. At that time you knew what she was going to give by the gestures with which she began, and every piece she ever spoke struck terror to your young soul. Even her Thanksgiving treat for the children made you feel shamefaced about having been so excited over the holiday.

"Thanksgiving—for what?"—and he muttered a curse— For the plainest of food and an empty purse? But it is idle to talk of a poor man's woes.

Even after this lapse of years, these features of the Thanksgiving entertainment linger in your memory and spring up when you pick up the paper and read the president's Thanksgiving proclamation or the youngsters come in from school and announce: "Say, pop, I got to speak a piece Thanksgiving. Do you know any?"

After a while, of course, Thanksgiving came to have other significance, too. There was the first year you wore long trousers and a flower in your buttonhole. It would be more appropriate to say bouquet in your lapel, for that was the season that men wore the most enormous chrysanthemum they could find as a boutonniere. They simply could not get the flower big enough. Remember how the cartoonists took it up and depicted the gilded youth wearing huge cabbages in their buttonholes? But it was a very serious matter to you, the selection of your chrysanthemum the Thanksgiving you donned long trousers, and you finally decided upon a great yellow one that made you appear to be bearing a glowing pumpkin to the Thanksgiving feast.

Then after you attained to the dignity of a sweetheart to take to the Thanksgiving matinee. How did the theater come to be so inseparably connected with Thanksgiving celebration? It is, at any rate, so that when you present yourself at the box office as the afternoon performance is about to begin—the man inside is apt to ask superiorly: "Do you prefer to stand on the first floor or the second?" But you did not stand. You sat.

"Eats" got shoved into the background around this period, and, dinner being late, as Thanksgiving dinner usually is, you instantly had to ask to have your pie saved for supper, the clock pointing perilously near the hour of two, and the girl yet to be "called for."

Many Thanksgivings have come and gone since that time and the celebration for you now probably means lining up your little family and marching them down to grandmother's where they will have a long, happy day playing and fighting with cousins from other offshoots of the parent tree, for about the only distinctive feature of Thanksgiving, save the church service and "eats" and the football game, is the homecoming it inspires.

Then there is a hurry and bustle in the old house that it has not known since the boys and girls married and left one by one. The newest baby must be admired by all, and the family connection is called upon to notice that Bob's youngest no longer wears greases.

Then the women go into the kitchen, and by and by there is wafted out aromas from cooking things that ought never have been thought up in these days of high prices. But for once the housemother forgets the high cost of living. She beats up eggs as if they were selling around a cent apiece and, honestly, the way she drops hunks of butter into pots and pans you would think it just most nothing at all. But, like Christmas, Thanksgiving comes but once a year, and if we can't be a bit extravagant then, what is the use of having the old holiday?

Practical Fashions

LADY'S DRESS.

In this original model we have a blouse with sleeves in one with it, a rounding collar continuing down the front as part of the trimming and an inner vest, which is carried down the front of the skirt as well. An extra back is applied and may be detached to give an overblouse effect. The skirt is a two gore design, and fastens in front.

The dress pattern (6406) is cut in sizes 34 to 42 inches bust measure. Medium size requires 4 3/4 yards of 36 inch figured goods, 5/8 yard of 27 inch plain goods 3/4 yard of 36 inch satin for collar and girdle and 1 yard of lace plaiting.

To procure this pattern send 10 cents to "Pattern Department," of this paper. Write name and address plainly, and be sure to give size and number of pattern.

How Cat Caused Fire.

A cat caused a fire in a dwelling house at Port Glasgow, (Renfrew), recently. A hot cinder fell on the cat lying in front of the hearth. The animal darted under the bed, and the cinder fell among some clothing and set the place on fire.

Is Your Body Poisoned?

Well kidneys keep the blood free of uric acid, a deadly poison that is constantly forming inside the body.

Sluggish kidneys allow the uric acid to accumulate, causing rheumatic attacks, headache, dizziness, gravel, urinary troubles, weak eyes, dropsy, and heart disease.

Doan's Kidney Pills restore the normal blood-filtering action of the kidneys. This drives out uric acid and ends uric acid poisoning.

AN ILLINOIS CASE

"Every Picture Tells a Story." Charles Easter, 22 Walnut St., Watseka, Ill., says: "I had rheumatism and kidney trouble for years. The pain started in my back and went to my limbs. I was laid up for months and doctors said they could not help me. On a friend's advice, I used Doan's Kidney Pills and the first box relieved me. Half a dozen boxes fixed me up in good shape."

Lameness

Sloan's Liniment is a speedy, reliable remedy for lameness in horses and farm stock. Here's proof.

Lameness Gone
 "I had a horse sprain his shoulder by pulling, and he was so lame he could not carry foot at all. I got a bottle of your Liniment and put it on four times, and in three days he showed no lameness at all, and made a thirty mile trip besides."—Walter B. Alonzo, La Salle, Ill.

For Splint and Thrush
 "I have used Sloan's Liniment on a fine mare for splint and cured her. This makes the third horse I've cured. It was recommended to me by my neighbors for thrush and they say it is fine. I find it the best Liniment I ever used. I keep on hand your Sure Cure for myself and neighbors, and I can certainly recommend it for Colic."—S. E. Smith, McDonough, Ga.

The Flame of Acetylene Light Is Small and the Burner Peculiar

You have probably noticed that a Pilot Country Home Acetylene burner is shaped like the letter "Y."

And, that the little gas openings in the arms of the burner are only pin hole size.

So small they let out only half of a cubic foot of Acetylene in an hour.

You might leave one of these Acetylene burners open by accident all day—and even then there wouldn't be gas enough in the air of the room to enable you to set fire to it if you tried.

As a matter of fact, you would have to leave the burner open fully three days and nights in a room twelve by fourteen, with windows and doors closed tight, before there would be any fire or explosion danger whatever.

And the chance of your leaving a burner open that long is not worth considering. The pungent odor of the escaping gas would be certain to attract attention in a few seconds.

Insurance Reports Say

That in a list of 10,000 recent fires and accidents caused by illuminants, 9990 were charged to the misuse and abuse of electricity, kerosene, gasoline and city gas and only ten to the misuse and abuse of Acetylene.

That's why the engineers of the National Insurance Board have endorsed Acetylene. They say it's safer than oil illuminants it is rapidly displacing.

Comparing Country Home Acetylene to its first cousin, city gas, we find:
 That a standard city gas burner actually passes over ten times more gas in given time than a standard Acetylene burner.

That one hundred feet of Acetylene actually gives more light than a thousand feet of city gas.

That you could sleep under an open, unlighted Acetylene burner without harm—whereas escaping city gas would put you out in short order.

This does not mean that the twenty million people who use city gas with safety and comfort are not enjoying the greatest of all city conveniences.

The farmer's pure white Acetylene light shining from handsome brass and bronze chandeliers makes the most beautiful home illuminant in the world. It makes, too, an equally effective light in the special fixtures fastened solidly to the timbers and ceiling of his porches, barns and outbuildings.

He can and usually does equip all these lights with ignition attachments to light with the pull of a slender chain or rod—without matches.

For the Woman Folks

There is also the Acetylene cooking range.

These ranges are very similar to those used in city homes throughout the world. They have the four top burners, high ovens, glass panel door, the heat indicator and all the modern labor saving features.

No less than two hundred and fifty thousand country families will tonight gather around Acetylene lighted tables and eat food cooked on Acetylene ranges.

Most of these families make their own gas. Those who make it to best advantage use

Pilot Lighting Plants

These Pilot plants are strictly automatic. They simply require filling—with Union Carbide and water—once a month—they do all the rest.

We have been making and perfecting them since Acetylene was introduced fifteen years ago. Today we are the largest manufacturers of light plants in the world. We sell them through representatives in a thousand towns and cities and ship plants complete—Pilot machines—lighting fixtures and hose, from our three big factories.

 An eastern factory in Newark—a central factory in Chicago and a western factory in Los Angeles.
 You will find all the facts and figures in our illustrated catalogue. In writing for it, state how many rooms and buildings you wish to light and how many people in your family. Address:

R. B. WRIGHT

OKWELD ACETYLENE CO.

They surely are—but without question the two hundred and fifty thousand (250,000) families who now use home made Acetylene for lighting and cooking have all the best of it.

Supplement to the Pinckney Dispatch

BOARD OF SUPERVISORS

October Session, 1913

Monday, October 14th, 1913

As provided by law the Board of Supervisors of Livingston County met at their rooms in the court house in the village of Howell, in said county, and was called to order by Clark H. Minner, clerk of said county, and upon roll call by townships the following gentlemen were found to be present:

Brighton—Henry T. Ross
Cochectah—Charles Fuller
Conway—Andrew Mackenzie
Deerfield—Harry H. Stiles
Genesee—Patrick G. Gray
Green Oak—Charles O. Murray
Hamburg—J. Arthur Shehan
Handy—William E. Fear
Hartland—James Grubb
Howell—Albert D. Thompson
Lisco—Elihu M. Smith
Marion—Giles B. Smith
Oceola—Jesse Cook
Putnam—James M. Harris
Tuscola—Bert Clark
Unadilla—Elmer N. Braley

Supr. motion of Supervisor Fuller duly supported, Elmer N. Braley of Unadilla was elected temporary chairman.

Supr. Mackenzie moved that owing to the fact that there being a contest for permanent chairman that we proceed to the election of same before the full board.

Supr. Ross being one of the candidates ask to have the motion of Supr. Mackenzie withdrawn, which request was granted and moved that the rules be suspended and that the clerk be instructed to cast the vote of the board for Supr. Fuller for permanent chairman, the motion prevailed and the clerk cast sixteen votes for Mr. Fuller, who was declared duly elected.

On motion of Supr. Thompson the board took a recess until 3:00 o'clock this afternoon in order to allow the chairman time to appoint the usual standing committees.

AFTERNOON SESSION

Supr. Fuller, chairman of the board, announced the following standing committees:

Committee on Equalization—Messrs. Mackenzie, Murray, Braley, Shehan and Stiles.
Criminal Claims—Messrs. Clark, Grubb and Cook.
Civil Claims—Messrs. Munsell, Ross and Harris.

To apportion State and County tax—Messrs. Smith, Thompson and Fear.

To settle with the County Treasurer—Messrs. Murray, Braley and Harris.

Salaries of County Officers—Messrs. Munsell, Mackenzie and Gray.

Abstracts—Messrs. Grubb, Smith and Shehan.
County Poor Farm—Messrs. Braley, Clark and Gray.

County Drains and Ditches—Messrs. Smith, Thompson and Fear.

Public Grounds and Buildings—Messrs. Ross, Thompson and Stiles.

Public Printing—Messrs. Ross, Grubb and Fear.

On motion of Supr. Braley the rules of last year were adopted for governing the Board this year.

The petition of James L. Roche and fifty eight other resident taxpayers of the village of Pinckney, requesting that this Honorable Board change the boundaries of said village in such a manner as will place the following described lands within the corporate limits of said village:

The southwest quarter (34) of the northeast quarter (34) and the southeast quarter (34) of the north west quarter (34) of section twenty-six (26) in township number one (1) north of range four (4) east Michigan was presented by the clerk.

Supr. Harris moved the adoption of the following resolution which was accented by suptr. Shehan:

Whereas, a petition has been duly filed with the county clerk, asking that the following described lands owned by J. L. Roche, in the village of Pinckney; to wit: The southwest quarter of the northeast quarter and the southeast quarter of the northwest quarter of section twenty-six (26) in township number one (1) north of range four (4) east Michigan be placed in the village of Pinckney, and whereas it appears from affidavits of J. L. Roche filed with said County Clerk that notices of said petition have been duly served and posted as required by law, therefore

Resolved that the prayer of the petitioners be granted and that the boundaries of said Village of Pinckney be and the same hereby changed as to place without the corporate limits thereof the above described lands. Motion carried.

By the Clerk
In conference between Livingston County and the Detroit House of Correction for the care of short term criminals was presented to the Board for consideration.

On motion of Supr. Harris the Chairman and Clerk of this Board was authorized to enter into contract with said House of Correction and sign the same as Chairman and Clerk of said Board.

On motion of Supr. Thompson duly supported it was voted to visit the County Farm as a body and Thursday, Oct. 16 was the day set for said visit.

On motion of Supr. Harris the board adjourned until tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock. Approved.

CLARK H. MINNER, CLARENCE J. FULLER, Clerk, Chairman.

DRAIN COMMISSIONER'S REPORT

In accordance with the provisions of the Statute in such case made and provided, I submit to you my annual report as County Drain Commissioner for the County of Livingston, State of Michigan, covering the period from October 18th, 1912 to October 10th, 1913.

The following named drains are uncompleted: Jones, Taylor, Fuller, Bush, Handy No. 2, Genoa and Oceola, Zahn, Deerfield and Argentine, Walker, Handy No. 5, Conway No. 21, Gregory, Howell Village Drain.

The following named drains have been completed during the year: Gardner, East Cochectah Village, Handy No. 15, Lisco No. 3, Wood Drain.

The following named drains have been commenced during the year: Zahn, Deerfield and Argentine, Walker, Handy No. 5, Conway No. 21, Gregory, Howell Village Drain.

There are two applications for drains no file in my office, one of which is a legal application which I will act upon as soon as my time permits, the other application I returned to the applicants for the reason that it was not a legal application; it has been again returned to me in the same condition, which application is illegal and upon which I refuse to act.

The following is a financial statement of the several drains as shown upon the books in my office, October 10th, 1913.

There has been no orders drawn upon the fund of the Zahn drain and the Walker drain. I have effected contracts upon the Taylor drain and the Jones drain, and up to this time, have not got the two above mentioned drains completed, for the reason that I have been unable to get contractors to do the work. In the construction of Handy No. 5 drain it became necessary to run the said drain across the right-of-way and road bed of the Erie Marquette Railroad Company; the said Railroad Company agreed to construct an opening across its property for said drain, upon the payment to them of $205 which amount I drew an order to them, payable out of the general funds of the County, in accordance with the drainage laws pertaining thereto, I caused notice to be served upon the said Railroad Company to make the necessary opening which they were required and agreed to do. Over sixty days have elapsed since the serving of said notice, and the said Company has not yet made the necessary opening, therefore, it may become necessary for me to institute legal proceedings against the said Railroad Company to compel them to make the required opening for the said drain. I do hereby certify that the above embraces a full report of all drains, constructed, finished or begun under my supervision, and a financial statement of each drain, and that the same is true and correct as near as can be ascertained from the books and records in my office. Dated at Howell, Michigan this 10th day of October, A. D. 1913. JOHN MCGIVNEY, Drain Commissioner.
