Taxpayers - Attention!

The Increased Expense For Street Lighting the Coming Year Increased Nearly Fifty Per Cent

At a meeting of the common council of the village of Pinckney last Wednesday evening a new contract for lighting the village streets was granted to the Clinton Electric Light & Power Co. The new contract provides for 45 lights, same to be lighted one-half hour after sunset and to run until 11:30 p. m., standard time, at the rate of $18.00 per light per year. The lights are to be run 20 nights each month and all the lamps, 75 watts each in size, must be purchased by the village at once.

The contract lasts for one year only beginning December 14, 1913 and running to December 14, 1914. That, to the best of our knowledge at least, is the wisest and most far seeing move of the whole deal. Perhaps our meaning should be explained that the above statement may be more fully understood.

Under the old contract the village was paying $15.00 per light per year, lights running from dusk until 10:30 p. m. for 17 nights each month, 39 lights in number, the company furnishing the lamps. According to the new contract the village must pay $3.00 more per light, also must purchase the lamps themselves at a cost of 60c per lamp, total $27.00 for the 45 lights, all future breakage to be paid by said village.

Our total village income will not exceed $2,000. Practically half of that income has already been contracted out for street lighting. With that portion of the village income already gone and no other expenses figured in, there will be practically nothing left at the end of the year. How the council figure out that they can pay this $275.00 above the usual annual amount is a questionable problem. Ross Read and Pres. O. L. Sigler were the only council members opposed to such action.

The council proceedings should be published in the Pinckney Dispatch so that the people may know how their money is proportioned out each year, but $12.00 per year, for such publication, was beyond the means of the council and consequently they are not published. Funny isn't it how large some things appear, and yet how small are others?

A GREAT WOMAN ORATOR.

Leouora Marie Lake was born in Ireland of Catholic parentage in 1849. Two and a half years later her parents brought her to this country. She lived all her girlhood on a farm in northern New York. The summer she was sixteen she taught district school and "boarded round." She married when quite young and was widowed within three years. With three children looking to her for necessities of life, work was an imperative demand. Precipitated thus suddenly into a hitherto unknown field, she became deeply interested in the conditions under which toiled the great industrial army of our land and soon developed into a champion of working women and children.

The Knights of Labor, at that time the most prominent labor organization in the country, appealed to her for many reasons, but most particularly because of the plank in its platform of principles demanding "equal pay for equal work." Under the auspices of this organization, which created for her the office of general investigator of the conditions of wage earning women and children, she was launched into public service. While an incumbent of this office she drafted a bill which afterward became the factory inspection law of Pennsylvania.

Her God fearing character, her sense of honor, justice and righteousness which had been instilled into her by her early training, were aroused by the many evils that existed. Her conscience would not sleep, and she has kept up her work on the platform, making her plea for sobriety, right living and fair dealing.

Mrs. Lake has been lecturing for more than sixteen years and is considered one of the strongest speakers of the day. She is a woman of plain speech, but ponderous thinking, a woman who bravely casts convention to the winds and tells wherein a purer social and political life is needed.

Chicago Stock Show

Pres. H. J. Waters of the Kansas Agricultural College, on a recent occasion expressed himself as follows on the Chicago Stock Show: "The International Live Stock Exposition, which will this year be held from November 29th to December 6th, is the court of last resort in all matters pertaining to the improvement of live stock. It is the place where all controversies regarding superior merit are settled for the year, and as such contributes more to live stock improvement than any other single agency in America. As an object lesson it is unequalled on the continent. As a means of awakening interest in improved live stock, it and similar shows are indispensable. It is a liberal education in live stock production for any farmer, breeder or student to attend the International."

The Fact Remains

No amount of misrepresentation by the peddlers of alum baking powders, no juggling with chemicals, or pretended analysis, or cooked-up certificates, or falsehoods of any kind, can change the fact that

Royal Baking Powder has been found by the official examinations to be of the highest leavening efficiency, free from alum, and of absolute purity and wholesomeness.

Royal Baking Powder is indispensable for making finest and most economical food.

Give Us A Trial

We presume there never was a newspaper in any locality that gave all the local happenings. It is often that someone comes or goes that the reporter does not see. It happens that the family is missed several times. They get the impression that the editor does not care to mention them. This is a mistake. In most towns the local work is the hardest work connected with a newspaper. A man may be a good editorial writer, but a flat failure in local work, and vice versa. Editorial material is obtained by study, by reading newspapers, sometimes by using scissors. Personal and local happenings cannot be read and clipped from other papers, not by a juggle. It takes physical as well as mental exertions to get out 6 or 8 columns of local news in a town of this size. Most people take a local paper to get the local happenings. Don't be afraid to tell the editor or reporter that you have friends visiting you. There are lots of people who are interested in your friends. You owe it as a duty to them to let your friends know of their doings. Perhaps you think the paper shows partiality, but just see if the paper doesn't treat you right if you give it a chance.

Putnam and Hamburg Farmer's Club

The Putnam and Hamburg Farmer's Club will meet Saturday November 29, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Silas Swarhout for their regular annual meeting and corn show. Members are requested to come early as the chicken dinner will be served at twelve o'clock sharp. There will be a speaker from the M. A. C. to address the club.

The DAUGHTER of DAVID KERR

By Harry King Tootle

SYNOPSIS.

Gloria Kerr, a motherless girl, who has spent most of her life in school, arrives at her father's home in Belmont. David Kerr is the political boss of the town, and is anxious to prevent his daughter learning of his real character. Kendall, representing the Chicago packers, is negotiating with Judge Gilbert, Kerr's chief adviser, for a valuable franchise. They fear the opposition of Joe Wright, editor of the reform paper. Kerr asks the assistance of Judge Gilbert in introducing Gloria to Belmont society, and promises to help him put through the packers franchise and let him have all the graft. Gloria meets Joe Wright at the Gilberts. It appears they are on intimate terms, having met previously in a touring party in Europe. The Gilberts invite Gloria to stay with them pending the refunding of the Kerr home. Wright begins his fight against the proposed franchise in the columns of his paper, the Belmont News. Kerr, through his henchmen, exerts every influence to hamper Wright in the publication of his paper. Gloria realizes she is not being received by the best society and is unhappy. She takes up settlement work. Kerr and his lieutenants decide to buy Kerr's paper and ask the editor to meet them at Gilbert's office. Calling at Gilbert's office to solicit a donation Gloria meets Wright. He proposes and is accepted while waiting to be called into the conference. Wright refuses to sell his paper and declares he will fight to a finish.

"You are just a little nasty in your judgment, Mr. Wright," Judge Gilbert said, when he saw that the publisher seemed to regard his answer as final. "If you'll consider the matter carefully I think it'll appear to you in this light: Here's a paper that isn't making expenses. A good offer is made you which if you are wise enough to accept will permit you to leave Belmont far richer than when you came. There are other lances to be broken elsewhere. Why tilt here against a stone wall?"

"If it were a stone wall there'd have been no offer." Wright was shrewd enough to know that they must be in desperate straits.

"See here, young man," Kerr blazed. "you won't be able to make a go of it. If you don't sell now I'll see to it that some day the sheriff will."

This direct threat was more than he could bear. Rising from his chair and leaning across the table the publisher shook his fist in Kerr's face and told him just what he thought of the situation. Remembering who was on the other side of the door he was facing, he did not raise his voice, but into his low tones he put all the fire of his honest indignation.

"You may put me down and out, as you boast you can, but you can't buy me out. You've scared advertisers so they're afraid to use my paper, you've had me sued for libel, you've raised my taxes, you've made the railroads hold up my white paper, you've annoyed me in a thousand petty ways, but I'm getting out a paper every day, and I'm telling the truth. That's what hurts," he hurled across the table. "I'm telling the truth. You can't stand it."

"God knows Belmont needs somebody to tell the truth! If you took my paper today, who'd stand between the people of Belmont and the wolves? The town's being robbed blind. I'm telling about it, and I believe there are enough honest people to see me through and set the town right. But they need a leader—a newspaper—and I won't sell 'em out.

"For what's coming," he announced sternly, "hold yourself responsible, not me. You forced me to come out with the bald truth of the matter. Maybe you know and maybe you don't know that you of all men are the one I would least care to hold up for the public to see. Today—for the first time—I printed my name at the head of my editorial page. I want people to know that back of the paper's a man—a man that won't sell out, and back of the man I'm going to have the people. Do you hear? Belmont's going to be a clean city."

He leaned across the table and looked the boss straight in the eye, emphasizing his last words by bringing his fist down on the table with each telling point he drove home. "You'd better go slow, young man," cautioned Kerr. "I ain't played my hand, you know. You've put up a good fight; that's why I'm giving you a good chance to git out without admitting you've been licked."

"Licked! Licked!" echoed Wright with fine disdain. "I've just begun to fight. You're nearer a worse defeat at this minute than you ever were before in all your life. You're going down and the people of Belmont are going to keep you down if I have anything to do with it. Don't insult me by trying to buy my paper. I've the dearest reason in the world for wanting money and for leaving Belmont—but if I go without a dollar I can still hold up my head and look every man in the eye."

Kerr now looked at him without visible show of anger, in that cold, calculating manner he had taught every one to fear.

"Then you won't sell?" he said. "No," shouted Wright, beside himself with indignation at the offer; "I'll see you in hell first."

What further might have been said there is no telling. The words were scarcely out of Wright's mouth when he saw the door opposite him open and Gloria appear. Instantly he relaxed from his tense, strained manner, and, noting his change, the other men turned to find that David Kerr's daughter was the cause. She stood in the doorway hesitatingly, recognizing that she was interrupting a business meeting.

"I beg your pardon," she said, "but from the window I saw Mrs. Hayes on the street, and I thought I'd go to her."

"I'll join you," Wright announced. He left his place at the table and walked over to where Gloria was standing.

"I suppose the meeting is over," ventured Gilbert.

"It is, as far as I'm concerned," said the newspaper man. Then, looking at Kerr, he added, "I think I've made my position perfectly clear."

CHAPTER XV.

Gloria's announced intention of rejoining Mrs. Hayes was not the only motive that had brought her into the library. The angry hum of voices had been borne to her even through the closed door, and with a woman's impatience and curiosity she was anxious to know what was going on. Greater, than all else, however, was her desire to be with Wright. She thought that by appearing she could bring matters to a conclusion and carry off with her the man she loved. Now that she was in the library and Wright had said that he was ready to go whenever she was, David Kerr's daughter forgot about her desire to go to Mrs. Hayes.

Dr. Hayes and his wife were returning to Judge Gilbert's office when Gloria had seen them, and soon Williams ushered them into the library. The presence of the two women prevented all open discussion of political matters. Even had it not been for Miss Kerr and Mrs. Hayes there could have been no controversy, because after Wright had made his position clear he would not talk further about it. Now he was merely waiting for Gloria.

"I thought you said you wouldn't be long," was the way, in a playful attempt at seriousness, Gloria upbraided her sovereign lord when they found themselves a little apart from the others.

"It wasn't my fault," was all he could say.

"You haven't told father, have you?" "No. He wasn't in the mood for such a pleasing revelation. I hope you've thought about leaving for St. Louis tonight. It's now imperative that you go."

"I thought about it, dear, but I can't go. What would I say to father?"

Wright was on the point of again urging her to leave Belmont when he heard the faint cries of newsboys far down the street. Nearer and nearer came the boys. Louder and louder were their cries. Street sales in Belmont were so small that the little urchins who sold papers to chance customers were never very noisy. An unusual clamor on their part betokened some extraordinary piece of news. Their shouts at last began to attract the attention of others in the room. Kerr, Kendall and Hayes looked at Wright questioning. Then, as they began to distinguish the cries of one boy in advance of the others, the three men walked hastily to the window and looked out on the street. Everyone was rushing for a paper, or else standing with the sheet in his hand staring at the first page with its big black type.

Recovering himself suddenly, Wright tried to talk to Gloria to drown the noise, but it was too late.

"What is that noise? What are they shouting for?" she asked. "Listen." She put her hand on his arm as a signal to say nothing while she tried to hear what the boys were saying.

"Extry Extry! Get a News! All about the grafters! Extry! Read the big steal! Full account of the railroad grab! Big men and boodlers in combine! Extry! Extry!"

It was now a flood of sound as the boys came under the window. "What's it all about?" the girl asked.

"That's nothing, only a crowd of newsboys raising a racket. Gloria, listen to me. We must get away from here. Even if you're happy in Belmont, I'm not. Won't you do this for me? Let's get away from this office and talk it over."

She shook her head, and refused to move.

"Gloria, you must do as I say without question. Just this once, please."

Both turned at this instant, as did the others, startled by a hubbub in the outer office. Suddenly the door was burst open violently by young Jim Winthrow, the Banner's political reporter. He rushed breathlessly into the room, flourishing a copy of the Belmont News. Following him came Williams with a look of amazement on his face as he read the headlines of the copy of the paper he had.

"Judge Gilbert! Judge Gilbert!" gasped the reporter, with eyes for no one else. "Have you seen the News? Big story 'bout the belt line railway and the 'lection! Gimme the facts so I can show the News up."

"Let me see your paper."

"Here it is—with big headlines." Wright knew better than anyone else in the room what was in the paper. What was written there was not for Gloria's eyes to see, nor for her ears to hear.

"You must go, Gloria. Don't stay for this; I'll drive you to Locust Lawn." He was almost out of the room with her when something the reporter said caused her to stop.

"The News says David Kerr is back of it," exclaimed Winthrow, holding up the paper for Judge Gilbert to see, "and that it's the biggest steal in the history of Belmont."

"What's that?" Kerr demanded, coming forward.

"I didn't see you, Mr. Kerr," the reporter apologized, "but here it is on the front page."

"Come, Gloria," Wright pleaded with her.

"I can't go yet." Beside her stood Williams, still engaged in reading the flaring headlines of the paper he had brought into the room with him. She seized his paper from him and began to read the startling words.

"It's an infamous lie!" shouted Gilbert, crushing in his hands the paper he had been scanning. "Dr. Hayes, will you please escort Miss Gloria and Mrs. Hayes to their carriage?"

"Stop!" commanded Gloria. The hum of indignation sweeping over the room was stilled. All turned to the daughter of David Kerr. "Is this true?"

"What?" asked Gilbert.

"What the paper says?" She held up the paper, her hands trembling. Then she began to read: "If the party now in power wins, Belmont will surely be sold to the merciless stockyards terminal trust. The deal, which means millions for the unscrupulous promoters and nothing for Belmont, has been engineered by that king of underhand manipulators, one no less unscrupulous than the very men to whom he would sell his town, David Kerr!"

There was horror in her tones and she held the paper from her as a thing unclean.

"Is this true?" she demanded imperiously.

"Not a word of it," Judge Gilbert was quick to answer.

"Not you." She turned to David Kerr. "Father, is it true?"

The boss of Belmont looked like some wounded wild animal brought to bay. He gazed with speechless rage at Joe Wright, and then looked at his daughter. She stood with arm outstretched to him, a mute but eloquent appeal for a denial. The big man shook himself, as if calling forth all his strength for a final effort, and straightened himself to his full height. Looking her squarely in the eye he replied firmly:

"No, Gloria, it ain't true."

The sigh she gave as her arm dropped to her side seemed to be a prayer of thanksgiving that he had come through the ordeal unscathed. She knew he would, but she wanted the words of denial from his own lips. Her next order showed every one that she was the daughter of David Kerr.

"Then punish the man who published the lie."

Wright's heart seemed to stop beating as he heard the words that had in them all the finality of a funeral bell.

Kerr had his own reasons for wishing to minimize the matter. Joe Wright he would willingly, gladly have sacrificed, but he did not know how it would react on Gloria. He could find means to make the newspaper man suffer without Gloria being cognizant of the fact.

"That's just Western politics." The boss tried to pass it off lightly. "Don't let that bother you."

"He must be punished, I say." Her indignation knew no bounds. "Would you let it go unchallenged that I am the daughter of such a man?"

Kerr was aroused by her spirited manner. It would be necessary, he saw, for him to carry it through to the end.

"Suppose it was Joe Wright?" he asked.

The occasion was too serious for a smile, but in her heart she laughed away the suggestion. She wanted to show her contempt for a man who through a newspaper would utter such lies, and she therefore replied:

"That can't be. He isn't that kind of a man. But if he did, I would still say—"

"It is Joe Wright," Kerr roared.

All leaned forward to hear what the girl would say.

"Then I would still say, 'Punish Joe Wright.'"

From Wright's lips there burst forth one word:

"Gloria!"

He came a step toward her, and she turned to him with an assuring smile.

"I don't believe it, Joe." Again she addressed her father and with fine scorn declared, "It's a lie. He couldn't do it. You don't know him as I do." Turning once more to the man she loved, she said proudly, "Say it's a lie, Joe."

The two stood gazing at each other, utterly oblivious of everything else in the world. In her eyes there was nothing of doubt. She put into her look all the love and confidence she had promised would always be his. With Wright it was far otherwise. No matter what he said, the fact could not be kept from her. She would investigate. At the top of his editorial page that day were the words, "Owned and edited by Joseph Wright." He had just sworn that he would be the champion of the people of Belmont, and here at his first trial he was quailing under the eyes of the woman he loved. With a wrench he tore himself away from his dear desire to save her from pain and answered huskily:

"You don't understand."

"You!" she cried in an agony of despair as she realized he was confessing.

A single movement of his head showed his assent.

"Oh, you coward!" Her disgust was overpowering. The withering contempt she put into her words was equaled by her look of scorn. He started to speak, but with a gesture of impatience she stopped him.

"All your words are lies, lies, lies! And to think that I promised within this hour to be your wife! You make me hate myself for ever having looked at you. Now I understand why you urged me to leave Belmont." Again he tried to speak. "Not a word. I'll not listen to you. Father, take me home."

She shrank from Wright as if to look at him were dishonor.

All the great love he had for her welled forth in one cry:

"Gloria!"

The girl could not, would not hear. She had but one refuge for her breaking heart. Turning to her father she flung herself into his arms with only a single word: "Father!"

With never a word, with never a look to right or left, the man she had promised to love and who had promised to love her, walked out of the room.

Bobbing as if her heart would break Gloria rested in her father's arms.

FOR QUINCE PRESERVE

THIS FRUIT REQUIRES ESPECIAL PREPARATION.

Natural Quality Requires That They Should Be Boiled and Steamed Before They Are Put into the Sirup.

Just as soon as quinces turn yellow they are ready for preserving. It might be said at the start that quinces require boiling or steaming before being put into the sirup, differing from the usual order of preserving.

This is because they are a very hard fruit, and the hot sugar only tends to make them harder. To proceed: Pare, core, and quarter the fruit, dropping into cold water to preserve the color. Put skins and cores into a separate vessel.

When all are prepared put two layers or so into the kettle and cover with cold water. Cook over a slow fire until tender. Take out carefully, and when all are cooked, strain the water and allow three-quarters of a pound of sugar to one pint of juice.

Cook for ten minutes, skimming until the sirup is clear, then put in as much fruit as it will cover. Simmer very gently for half an hour, or if the quinces turn red before this they are ready to be removed to the jars. Let the sirup cook a little longer, then pour over the fruit and seal the jars.

Quinces Preserved With Apples.—Sweet apples should be used. The two fruits make a delicious preserve, and will cost less than the quinces alone. The proportions are one-third of quartered apples to two-thirds of quince. The apples will take less time to cook than the quinces, both in the water and in the sirup. In filling the jars, put alternate layers of the fruit and pour boiling sirup over, sealing at once.

Quinces With Cider and Molasses.—This is a favorite southern recipe. The fruit is to be pared, cored and halved, then boiled in sweet cider until tender. Take out and add to the liquid one quart of molasses and one pound of sugar to five pounds of quinces.

Beat up the white of an egg and put into the sirup to clear it, bringing to a boil and skimming until quite clear. Take off the fire, and when half cold put in the fruit and boil for fifteen minutes. More cider may be added if necessary. A little green ginger boiled in the sirup is an improvement.

Quince Marmalade.—Cores, peel and imperfect fruit can be made into a marmalade or a cheese. After thoroughly cooking the fruit, strain through a sieve and allow three-quarters of a pound of sugar to one pound of fruit. Boil, stirring constantly until smooth and firm, then pack into jars. A little orange peel chopped fine will add to the flavor.

Quince Cheese.—This is made by cooking the marmalade until it is very thick. If packed into small jars it can be turned out and may be cut like cheese.

Quince Water Ice.—To make this unusual confection, pare and cut into thin slices three large quinces. Cover with four cupsful of water and one of sugar. Bring all to a boil, keeping at that temperature for fifteen minutes. Strain and put into the freezer.

Roasted Tripe.

Take about a pound and a half of tripe, wash and boil it in milk and water for an hour. Cut into two oblong pieces of equal size. Spread on the fat side of one piece some good veal force meat and lay upon it the other piece, the fat inside inwards. Roll and skewer the tripe securely, tie it round with a thin string. Place in the roasting pan, dredge with flour and baste liberally. When done enough, serve on a hot dish and garnish with sliced lemon. Send melted butter to table in a tureen. Time to roast, half an hour or more. Sufficient for three or four persons.

Lemon Apple Pie.

Grate the rind and strain the juice of two lemons. Pare, core and chop fine one large tart apple. Round two crackers very fine. Mix with two teaspoons of melted butter. Mix the lemon juice and rind and apple with two scant cups of sugar. Beat the yolks of two eggs to a thick froth and the whites stiff, mix and beat together and mix with the lemon, apple and sugar and add crumbs and butter. Beat thoroughly and line two pie tins as for custard pie. Pour in filling and bake until crust is done.

Help in Jelly-Making.

No doubt every housewife has at some time or another discovered to her dismay that the jelly with which she has been laboring "won't jell." Let her then add a pinch of powdered alum, and the result will be most gratifying.

Luncheon Cake.

Two eggs, one cup sugar, one-half cup butter, one-half cup cold water, two cups flour, one teaspoon cream of tartar, one-half teaspoon of soda; flavor to taste.

ERUPTION SPREAD ON FACE

810 East Elm St., Streator, Ill.—"A running sore broke out above my right eye, which spread over my entire face. It started as a small pimple. I scratched it open and the contents of this small pimple ran down my face. Wherever this ran a new sore appeared. They itched and burned terribly; I couldn't touch my face it burned so. It disfigured my face terribly and I couldn't be seen for everyone was afraid of it. It looked like a disease of some kind; it was all red and a heavy white crust on it. Everybody kept out of my way, afraid it would spread. I lost rest at night and I couldn't bear to have anything touch my face, not even the pillow. I had to lie on the back of the head. I was always glad when morning came so I could get up. It was extremely painful.

Why It Wearied Tommy.

Good old school days was the topic that was being talked in the lobby of a Washington hotel the other day when Congressman George W. Fairchild of New York was reminded of an incident that happened in Gotham.

Some time since little Tommy, the heir of a happy home in that village, started to go to school, and since nothing was said to the contrary, the youngster's father thought he was hugely enjoying himself.

It soon developed, however, that papa was making a bum guess. After about a week Tommy sauntered into the dining room one morning and languidly dropped into an easy chair.

"Papa," he remarked to the paternal relative who was at breakfast, "I'm getting rather tired of going to school. I think I will stop."

"Think you'll stop!" exclaimed the surprised father. "What is your objection to going to school?"

"It's just this way, pap," yawnfully answered the youngster. "It breaks up the day so."—Philadelphia Telegraph.

FULLY NOURISHED Grape-Nuts a Perfectly Balanced Food.

No chemist's analysis of Grape-Nuts can begin to show the real value of the food—the practical value as shown by personal experience.

It is a food that is perfectly balanced, supplies the needed elements for both brain and body in all stages of life from the infant, through the strenuous times of active middle life, and is a comfort and support in old age.

"For two years I have used Grape-Nuts with milk and a little cream, for breakfast. I am comfortably hungry for my dinner at noon.

"I use little meat, plenty of vegetables and fruit, in season, for the noon meal, and if tired at tea time, take Grape-Nuts alone and feel perfectly nourished.

"Nerve and brain power and memory are much improved since using Grape-Nuts. I am over sixty and weigh 155 lbs. My son and husband seeing how I had improved are now using Grape-Nuts.

"My son, who is a traveling man, eats nothing for breakfast but Grape-Nuts and a glass of milk. An aunt, over 70, seems fully nourished on Grape-Nuts and cream." "There's a Reason."

GO NOW TO WESTERN CANADA

The opportunity of securing free homesteads of 160 acres each, and the low priced lands of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, will soon have passed. Canada offers a hearty welcome to the settler, to the man with a family looking for a home; to the farmer's son, to the renter, to all who wish to live under better conditions. CANADA'S GRAIN YIELD in 1913 is the talk of the world. Luxuriant Grasses give cheap fodder for large herds, cost of raising and fattening for market is a trifle. Rayo Lamps in 3,000,000 Homes

Our eyes are certainly entitled to the best attention and treatment. They are our most faithful servants. Kerosene lamps give the best light for reading and studying. All authorities agree on this. But not any kind of kerosene lamp will do. A Rayo Lamp will cost you very little — if any more — than an ordinary lamp. But it is the most satisfactory that money affords. This is proved by its great universal use. Three million families — over ten million men, women and children — live and work and read and study by its clear, mellow light. A host like this can't be mistaken in their judgment. No glare or flicker to contend with, when you get the genuine Rayo. Just good, reliable, eye-restful light — and plenty of it. Every acre of land in Michigan, except that especially exempt by the law, must now pay school taxes. The legislature of 1913 made it compulsory for township boards in the state to attach all unorganized territory to some organized school district or districts. This not only requires all land to be assessed for school taxes hereafter but also extends the compulsory school attendance law to every family in the state.

There are fourteen questions to be answered and sworn to before a notary public before an automobilist can obtain a license for 1914. The horse power of the machine, the diameter of the cylinder, if a gasoline engine, and other information pertaining to the machine must be given. The Department of Public Instruction at Lansing has recently published a comprehensive digest of the school law which will be of valuable service to school officers. It presents the various school laws in a clear, concise manner and also gives instructions concerning the keeping of the district books and making out the annual reports.

There are innumerable ways to boost your town a little without any expense to yourself. One is to buy your ticket at the local stations before getting on the trains. The request is made at the depot by a sign; in cities this is required. The larger the revenue from the local offices, the more important Pinckney will be considered by the railways. This may be of no present benefit, but when the question of building a new depot, enlarging the accommodations or any proposition involving the village and the company, it will help. There is only one reason why you should not buy a ticket, and that is the chance that you may be skipped in the collection. There is but little chance of this; there is a state law providing against free rides and it is just as bad to steal a ride as it is to steal anything else. Moral: Buy your ticket at the local depot.

The wearied searcher for apartments in New York had ended his hunt. When he announced the result to a friend he delivered himself of this epigram:

"There are just two kinds of apartments in New York, those you can't afford to live in and those you wouldn't live in anyhow."

"Oh," said the searcher's wife, "we followed New York fashion and took one we couldn't afford to live in."—

TROOPERS STEAL ARMY SUPPLIES

ARMS AND AMMUNITION TAKEN ACROSS BORDER TO MEXICAN REBELS.

ARRESTS FOLLOW BOLD AUTO DELIVERY.

Soldier Who Protests Is Drugged and Taken to Rebel Camp. Returns and Tells On Guilty Troopers.

Douglas, Ariz.—Twelve troopers of the Ninth United States cavalry (Negro) and a quartermaster sergeant named Shepard were arrested charged with selling government arms, ammunition and accoutrement to the Mexican rebels.

For three months there had been noticed a systematic disappearance of large quantities of ammunitions of war from the headquarters in both the Douglas and Naco squadron camps. Both of these border towns are separated from Mexico by only an imaginary "frontier line" and the camp of soldiers who entered into a compact to supply the rebels encountered few obstacles once they had slipped the articles from the quartermaster's stores.

Becoming bold through the continued success of their operations, two high powered automobiles were driven into camp, the sentinel being bribed to permit them to pass. The machines were then loaded with rifles, revolvers and 3,200 rounds of government ammunition, the troopers, it is alleged, aiding in the work of loading. The cars were then driven back across the international border at a point about one mile east of Douglas and only 400 yards from the army camp. One trooper was drugged and taken on to the rebel camp at Agua illegal sale of the government supplies. He returned to camp after an absence of 24 hours, telling his experiences.

The American officers immediately sent a terse demand that the supplies be returned without loss of time. This demand was complied with and the ammunition which had already been distributed among the soldiers of the rebel garrison was brought to the international line by an armed Mexican guard and turned over to a detail of American troopers.

Delinquent List Is Small.

Lansing, Mich.—Out of 36,000,000 acres of land in Michigan, only 22,627 acres and 7,081 lots in villages and cities will be subject to non-payment of taxes for the past five years and more, according to information given out by Auditor-General Fuller. The 22,627 acres constitute 415 descriptions. Luce county has the largest acreage to be deduced to the state, 4,794, and Mason county leads in the number of lots, 2,620.

Wayne county has no acreage, and but 340 lots. The counties of Calhoun, Cass, Clinton, Hilldale, Jackson, Macomb, Monroe, Oakland, Oceana, St. Joseph and Van Buren have no lots or acreage on which taxes have not been paid.

Passenger Pigeons Are Found.

Lansing, Mich.—Chief Deputy Game Warden David R. Jones has received a letter from Richard O'Reilly, of Brutus, Emmet county, in which the state department is informed that there is a flock of passenger pigeons on the O'Reilly farm. The state game warden's department will investigate. If the assertions of O'Reilly are true, the discovery of the pigeons is of great importance, for Jones declares that scientists have said there was no trace anywhere in the world of any passenger pigeons left.

Jones says he remembers years ago, especially in 1880, when Michigan was a feeding ground for these birds, although no trace of any has been found since that time. Jones also says that museums have offered as high as $5,000 for a single pair of the birds. O'Reilly is a naturalist of some note.

Jackson prison now has 804 inmates, the largest number since 1896.

The postoffice at Bunyee, five miles west of Cadillac, on the Ann Arbor railroad, is to be discontinued after December. The residents of that section will get mail from Cadillac.

Thieves again worked successfully on Tuesday night in the downtown district of Grand Rapids when the M. E. M. Shirt Co. lost its entire lot of fine silk, valued at more than $1,000. It was the third of a series of burglaries consummated by exceptionally expert crooks, which have netted the barbers alone $7,000.

AGAIN HEADS A. F. OF L.

Samuel Gompers was unanimously chosen to succeed himself as president of the American Federation of Labor at the national convention at Seattle.

FOOTBALL FATALITIES

Fourteen Killed By Pastime During Season Just Closed. Many Are Injured.

Chicago—Fourteen killed and 185 injured players comprise the levy exacted by King Football during the season of 1913, which practically closed with Saturday's games. This grim record is slightly above that of 1912, when 13 met death and 183 were injured.

These figures are taken from press reports which often do not give the full number of injured. The 185 represents only the injured who were incapacitated for several days at least. Instances where a player was stunned during a game and taken out but later returned to the line-up are not included. Only those in which broken bones, torn ligaments, broken tendons, internal injuries and severe sprains, strains and wrenches are considered in compiling the record.

Hammel Is Hotel Inspector.

Lansing, Mich.—The state labor, health, dairy and food departments have finally solved the question of a hotel inspector and at a meeting of the three departments, James F. Hammel, of Lansing, former mayor of the city, and present chief clerk of the labor department, was appointed. He will have his office in the state labor department and all correspondence will be handled by him.

Factory inspectors of the department and special agents are given the title of deputy hotel inspectors. W. T. Thorne, of Owosso, recently appointed hotel inspector but who could not serve, due to a ruling of the attorney-general that the law did not make an extra appropriation for carrying on the work, was named as special agent of the labor department. In short, the inspectors of the three departments will act as hotel inspectors under Hammel and the departments will pay for the work.

Harry Is Arrested Again.

Concord, N. H.—Judge Aldrich Tuesday ordered the rearrest of Harry K. Thaw, an action which follows the governor's decision to permit the extradition of Stanford White's slayer. The decision of the court was a formal one for the purpose of clearing the record, and immediately precipitated a row among the attorneys over the custody of Thaw. The new-arrest was, as a consequence, delayed pending the discussion of the technicalities involved.

Senate to Give Tea Set.

Washington—A solid silver tea set, costing $1,000, was selected by a committee composed of Senators Martineau, Overman and Bacon, as a wedding present from the United States senate for Miss Jessie Wilson. The set is of colonial design and comprises a water kettle, one tray, a chocolate pot and ice cream dish, two comports and four candlesticks.

Father of Labor Day Dead.

Manchester, N. H.—George McGuire, known as the "father of Labor day," died here. McGuire, who was a cigar-maker, first made the suggestion of a labor holiday at a labor convention in Chicago in 1884. He continued to urge the suggestion at later conventions until observation of the day became general.

Col. John B. Kirk, of Ypsilanti, will undoubtedly be promoted to brigadier-general and chief of staff upon the retirement of Brig.-Gen. P. L. Abbey, of the M. N. G., January 18, and Col. Louis C. Covell, of Grand Rapids, probably will be appointed to a place on the state military board. Col. Kirk is now the senior colonel in the state.

GOMPERS AGAIN CHOSEN LEADER

RADICALS FAIL TO DEVELOP STRENGTH IN AMERICAN FEDERATION OF LABOR.

PHILADELPHIA GETS THE NEXT CONVENTION.

John Mitchell Retires From Office and Wins Fight for John P. White to Succeed Him On Executive Board.

Seattle, Wash.—The American Federation of Labor adjourned Saturday night after electing officers and choosing Philadelphia as the place of its next convention, which will assemble on the second Monday of November, 1914. The officers chosen are: President, Samuel Gompers. First vice-president, James Duncanson. Second vice-president, James O'Connell. Third vice-president, Joseph H. Valentine. Fifth vice-president, John R. Alpin. Sixth vice-president, H. B. Perham.

Seventh vice-president, John P. White, president of the United States Mine Workers of America.

Eighth vice-president, Frank Duffy, general secretary of the Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners. Treasurer, John B. Lennon. Secretary, Frank Morrison.

In this list are only two new men, White and Duffy. Second Vice-President John Mitchell and Fifth Vice-President William D. Huber retired voluntarily. For delegates to the British trade union congress, W. D. Mahon, international president of the Brotherhood of Street and Electric railways Employees, was elected over Councilman Frank L. Wheeler, of Los Angeles, by a vote of 14,603 to 3,884. John Mitchell nominated Mahon and Wheeler's vote was looked on as a test of Socialist strength.

A conference of delegates was held at which it was agreed to place John P. White on the executive board, as John Mitchell had desired. This removed all talk of opposition to Samuel Gompers for the presidency. The election of Mr. Gompers was unanimous.

The vote on convention city was: Philadelphia, 10,634; Fort Worth, Texas, 8,432.

Confesses to Killing Field.

Los Angeles, Cal.—A calm confession that she killed Marshall Field, Jr., in the Everleigh club in Chicago several years ago was the striking feature of the story of a vampire woman, told by herself following her arrest here. The woman, Mrs. Vera Scott, has been sentenced to six months for alleged extortion of over $60,000 from rich men of Los Angeles and Pasadena. The woman also confesses that it was she that shot and killed Reese Prosser, her former husband, and son of a Cleveland millionaire on a train in Montana. She says that after they had been divorced he tried to get her to return to him, and finally tried to choke her.

Will Appoint Three Commissioners.

Washington—Power to control the interstate commerce commission, so that a majority of its members shall be either pro-railroad or anti-railroad, is now vested in President Wilson, if he chooses to exercise it.

The date of John H. Marble recently virtually leaves these vacancies on the commission of seven members. Commissioner Clements' term will expire next month, and Commissioner Prouty has resigned to take charge of the physical valuation appraisalment. The president says he has not yet decided on the personnel of the commission as he will reconstruct it.

Commissioner Rules Rates Excessive.

Washington—Finding that the joint through rate of the transportation of boilers from Kalamazoo to various points in Wisconsin are in excess of aggregate of the intermediate rates, the interstate commerce commission held that they are unreasonable. The complaint which resulted in the opinion was filed by Lindsay Bros., of Milwaukee, against the Grand Rapids & Indiana Railway Co.

The annual poultry and pet stock show of the Emmet County Poultry association will be held in Petoskey, December 30-31 and January 1-2.

A general workers' conference of the Baptist churches of the Thumb will be held in Bad Axe December 3

"BUCKEYE" BOYS' CORN SPECIAL

One Thousand Lads Will Enjoy Great Educational Trip at State Commission's Expense.

Thousands of boys from the state of Ohio will leave Cleveland, Cincinnati, Columbus, Toledo and other points, in special trains on the Pennsylvania Lines, for Washington, D. C., Dec. 1st.

This trip of the "Buckeye Boys' Corn Special" is to be made under the auspices of the Agricultural Commission of Ohio, for the winners of prizes in the Buckeye Boys' corn growing contest. The journey will include short sight-seeing visits to Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, Harrisburg, and other points on the Pennsylvania Lines.

A number of leading state officials and members of the Commission will accompany the boys. There will be special entertainment in Pittsburgh; a reception by Pennsylvania's governor at Harrisburg, a daylight ride through the Allegheny Mountains, two days in Washington and a day in Philadelphia.

An elaborate program has been prepared, and both state and railroad officials are determined to give the boys the time of their young lives.

The excursionists will meet President Wilson, Secretary Bryan, and Senators and Representatives without number. Many of the young corn experts will be accompanied by their parents and friends, and the Pennsylvania management is preparing to handle one of the largest and happiest crowds it has ever carried to the National Capital.

Several Pennsylvania trains will be run from the different points, making many stops to take on the prize winners and their friends. The first important stop after the trains leave Ohio will be Pittsburgh, which will be reached Monday night, Dec. 1.

FASCINATION OF THE POPPY

Has Effect on Bees and Animals the Same as It Has on the Human Race.

The direful effects of opium upon animals and the fearful temptation it is to some of them are set forth in a recent number of the French Gazette des Hopitaux, which quotes some strange evidences gathered by Francis Garnier in China in 1873.

"The culture of the poppy," writes Garnier, "has caused a most important article—wax—to disappear from the market of Yunnan. According to the natives, the bees, formerly very numerous in this part of China, have experienced for the poppy flower the same morbid liking that the Chinese feel for the juice that is drawn from its fruit. In the season when the poppy fields are in bloom these insects come in crowds to ransack them, but they are unable afterward to regain their taste for other food, and they perish after two successive seasons.

"Another example of this singular attraction that the poppy exerts upon animals as well as upon men was called to our attention. In an opium refinery in the city it was noticed that the rats came every evening in great numbers to sniff the fumes that arose from the furnaces. Following the sudden occupation of Yunnan by the Mohammedans the refinery was closed down and was abandoned for a time. When a new owner took possession he found upon the wattling that remained in place many dead rats. These had died of hunger while waiting for the pleasure they had been accustomed to enjoy in breathing the opium fumes."

Count Transfers by Weight.

Several electric railway companies, including those in Detroit and Philadelphia are using a machine for weighing them. This machine is so delicate that it can be used for counting items weighing from 1-25,000 ounce to 15 pounds each in capacities ranging from eight to six tons.—Electric Railway Journal.

Arranging a Program.

"What did you do in vaudeville on the Crimson Gulch circuit?" asked the blonde lady.

"I sang," replied the lady who was still more blonde.

"You sang in Crimson gulch! Was it safe?"

"Perfectly. My husband does a sharpshooting act. By letting him precede me on the bill I was assured of perfect politeness."

Rough on Dad.

Baby had been displayed in his best bib and tucker to a number of admiring callers. The last one looked him over and was evidently trying to think of something nice to say. Finally she remarked: "Dear me, how much he looks like his father!"

"It's only the warm weather," replied his mother, somewhat testily. "The child is usually right cheerful and handsome."

Very Proper.

Hewitt—He always sings at his work.

Jewett—He is in a grand opera company.

CANADA WINS AGAIN

This Time at the International Soil Products in Oklahoma.

Last year and the year before, and the year before that, the farm products of Western Canada carried off first premiums, championships and honors, together with medals and diplomas, feats that were likely to give a swelled head to any other people than those who had so much more behind. At Columbus, Ohio, and then again at Columbia, North Carolina, a farmer of Saskatchewan carried off the highest prize for oats, and in another year, will become the possessor of the $1,500 Colorado Trophy; another farmer made two successful exhibits of wheat at the biggest shows in the United States; another farmer of Manitoba won championships and sweepstakes at the live stock show in Chicago, and this year expects to duplicate his successes of last year. These winnings are the more creditable as none of the cattle were ever fed any corn, but raised and fattened on nature grasses and small grains.

At the Dry Farming Congress held at Lethbridge in 1912, Alberta and Saskatchewan, farmers carried off the principal prizes competing with the world. The most recent winnings of Canada have been made at Tulsa, Oklahoma, where seven of the eighteen sweepstakes rewards at the International Soil Products Exposition were taken by Canada in competition with eleven states.

The chief prize, a thrashing machine, valued at $1,200 for the best bushel of hard wheat, went to Peter Gerlack of Allan, Saskatchewan. Montana took four of the sweepstakes, Oklahoma four, and Nebraska two. Russia sent one delegate, Spain had two, Belgium three, China four, Canada fifty, Mexico five, Norway one, Brazil three.

In the district in which the wheat was grown that won this prize, there were thousands of acres this year that would have done as well. Mr. Gerlack is to be congratulated as well as the Province of Saskatchewan, and Western Canada as a whole, for the great success that has been achieved in both grain and cattle.—Advertisement.

JUDGE COULDN'T SEE JOKE

Prison Sentence Followed Atrocious Pun Perpetrated by Prisoner in Dock.

"You are charged," said the justice, "as a suspected person carrying firearms."

"Well, your honor—I mean, your worship—that is, your lord," stammered the defendant, "it's a mistake. It wasn't an offense; it was all a joke—and a good one."

"Explain yourself!" said the justice, gazing at him solemnly.

"Well, sir, it's all a rather elaborate preparation for an excellent pun I am in the habit of perpetrating on occasion. It takes a long time to explain, but it's very funny."

"Go on!" said the J. P., sternly.

"Well, sir; first you get a pair of old pistols and put them in your pocket. You see? Then you get the company to speak about balloons. It's rather difficult sometimes; but you can lead up to it by calling the last speaker a gas bag, if he's a little fellow."

"Get on!" roared the justice.

"Then you say your life was once saved by parachutes."

"Well?"

The corners of the J. P.'s mouth were now twitching with anger.

"Then, when they say 'Nonsense!' you draw out the pistols."

"What!"

"Fair-o-shoots! See?" screamed the defendant, in convulsions.

"Splendid!" said the J. P. "Three months' hard labor."—London Tit-bits.

Along With the Rail.

A dorky named Dick was known as a notorious thief, so much so, in fact that all the thefts in the neighborhood were charged to him. Finally one man had all his turkeys stolen and he had Dick arrested.

"You stole Mr. King's turkeys?" asked the judge.

"Well," said Dick slowly, "I'll tell you, sir, I didn't steal them turkeys; but last night I went 'cross Mr. King's pasture and saw one of my rails on de fence, so I jes' brought it home, and confounded it, when I come to look, der was nine turkeys settin' on de rail."—National Food Magazine.

Some Job, Surely.

"Eight hours' work is enough for any man," said Farmer Coratossel.

"Yes," replied his wife, as she dropped an armful of stovewood on the floor; "the question is, how are you going to get any man to do that much work?"

Restraint.

"You never went trout fishing?"

"How could I go trout fishing," responded Mr. Meekton. "I never leave the house, without Henrietta's calling after me, and telling me not to get my feet wet."

JESSIE WILSON NOW MRS. SAYRE

Second Daughter of President Wedded in White House.

SIMPLICITY MARKS CEREMONY

Bride Makes Charming Appearance in Ivory Satin and Old Lace—Wedding Gifts Many and Beautiful, but Are Not Displayed.

Washington, Nov. 25.—Late this afternoon Francis Bowes Sayre and Jessie Woodrow Wilson, second of President Wilson's three daughters, stood before Rev. Sylvester Beach in the east room of the White House and were made man and wife.

The entire affair was very simple, as had been requested by the bride, and the number of guests was rather small—distressingly so to many persons in official and social circles of Washington who had expected to receive invitations but were disappointed.

Miss Margaret Woodrow Wilson, eldest of the three daughters, acted as maid of honor to her sister, and Miss Eleanor Randolph Wilson, the youngest, was one of the bridesmaids. The three other bridesmaids were Miss Adeline Mitchell Scott of Princeton, daughter of Prof. William B. Scott; Miss Marjorie Brown of Atlanta, Pa., daughter of Mrs. Wilson's cousin, Col. E. F. Brown, and Miss Mary G. White of Baltimore, a college friend of the bride.

Mrs. Francis B. Sayre.

Dr. Grenfell is Best Man.

Mr. Sayre was attended by his best man, Dr. Wilfred T. Grenfell, the famous medical missionary to the fishermen of the Labrador coast. The two men have long been fast friends and Mr. Sayre spent two summers helping Dr. Grenfell with his work.

The ushers were Charles E. Hughes, Jr., son of Justice Hughes of the Supreme court and a classmate of Mr. Sayre in the Harvard law school; Dr. Gilbert Horax of Montclair, N. J., who was a classmate at Williams college in 1909 and now at Johns Hopkins university; Benjamin Hurton of New York city, and Dr. Scoville Clark of Salem, Mass., who was Mr. Sayre's companion in Labrador and Newfoundland.

Wedding Gown of Ivory Satin.

The bride's gown was of satin, of a soft ivory tint, trimmed with beautiful lace, both old and rare. It was made in New York and the women connoisseurs declared that it was a masterpiece. The lingerie in the trousseau is of the most dainty material and is all hand made. The maid of honor and bridesmaids were beautifully gowned and all looked their best.

Coming right in the midst of the chrysanthemum season, this was made a chrysanthemum wedding and that flower was used most profusely in adorning the White House. As the bride's favorite color is mauve, that was made the prevailing color in the decorations. The east room, and indeed all the rooms in the president's mansion, were beautiful indeed.

Depart on Their Honeymoon.

After the ceremony was completed and the couple had received the congratulations of the guests, refreshments were served, and then Mr. and Mrs. Sayre departed for their honeymoon. Their plans include a visit to the home of Miss Nevin, Mr. Sayre's aunt, at Windsor Forges, near Churchtown, Pa., where they first met. After January 1 they will live in Williams-town, Mass., for Mr. Sayre is to sever his connection with the office of District Attorney Whitman in New York and become assistant to Harry A. Garfield, president of Williams college.

There was one disappointment for those who attended the wedding, for the gifts were not put on display. It is known that these included many beautiful and valuable articles sent by relatives and personal friends of the bride and groom and of their families and by admirers of President Wilson. Handsome presents were sent by both the senate and the house, that of the latter being a diamond lavalliere which Miss Genevieve Clark, daughter of the speaker, bought for the representatives in New York.

Francis Bowes Sayre.

The gift of the senate was a magnificent silver service. The French ambassador, M. Jusserand, presented the bride with some priceless tapestries, very much like those he gave to Alice Roosevelt when she was married. The Marquis Cusani Confalonieri, retiring ambassador from Italy, and the marchioness gave four massive silver candlesticks, a foot high and elaborately engraved. From the representatives of many other countries, including Japan, Cuba and Panama, handsome presents were received.

The Russian ambassador and Mme. Bakhmeteff gave the bride a jeweled umbrella handle, the product of a Moscow firm of goldsmiths, heavily studded with precious and semi-precious stones, all of which were mined in the domains of the czar.

Guests Limited to 400.

Those who were invited to witness the wedding were mostly personal friends and the number was kept down close to four hundred. The list was pared and revised several times, and as has been said, the operation resulted in many heartburnings. From the house of representatives' circle, for instance, the only guests were Speaker Champ Clark, Mrs. Clark and Miss Genevieve Clark, Marjory Leader Underwood and Mrs. Underwood, and Minority Leader Mann and Mrs. Mann.

As might be expected, the streets outside the White House were as crowded as the police would permit with curious persons eager to watch the arrival and departure of the guests and trying to obtain through the windows a glimpse of the doings within. The police arrangements were admirable and nothing happened, in the White House or outside, to mar the happy occasion.

Immense Wedding Cake.

Jessie Wilson's wedding cake was a triumph of the pastry cook's art. It was two and a half feet tall, counting the white orchids that were placed on top of it, and weighed 135 pounds. The first layer was four inches thick and 22 inches across. The cake contained 19 ingredients and its cost was about $500. Over the body of the cake was molded a thick white icing scroll work, on its top was a design for the initials of the bride and groom, done in silver, and around the sides were lilacs of the valley in white sugar. This delicious confection was distributed in 2,000 dainty white boxes tied with satin ribbon and each of the proper size to go under the pillow of the recipient to bring dreams.

The wedding of Mr. Sayre and Miss Wilson was the thirteenth to be celebrated in the White House, but the bride has always considered 13 her lucky number instead of a hoodoo. There have been more than twenty weddings in which either the bride or groom resided in the White House, and the last wedding ceremony performed there was the one which united Alice Roosevelt and Nicholas Longworth. Today's event was much quieter than that one, and the guests not nearly so numerous.

Mrs. Sayre a Social Worker.

Mrs. Sayre was born in Gainesville, Pa., twenty-five years ago. She attended the Women's college at Baltimore and was an honor member of the class of 1908, being also elected a member of Phi Beta Kappa. For two years after her graduation she engaged in settlement work in Kensington, Pa., and she is a member of the executive board of the National Young Woman's Christian association. She has delivered several excellent addresses in public.

In appearance she does not resemble her father as much as do her sisters, having rather the features of her mother's family, the Axsons. She is an accomplished swimmer, rider and tennis player and also something of an actress.

Something About the Groom.

Francis Bowes Sayre is twenty-eight years old, and was born at South Bethlehem, Pa., a son of the late Robert Heysham Sayre, who built the Lehigh Valley railroad and at one time was assistant to the president of the Bethlehem iron works, since known as the Bethlehem steel works. He was also once president of the board of trustees of the Lehigh university.

Francis Bowes Sayre graduated from Lawrenceville school, Lawrenceville, N. J., in 1904, and from Williams college in 1909. He entered Harvard law school and graduated "cum laude." He was a member of the Sigma Phi fraternity, Gargoyle society and the Phi Beta Kappa at Williams. For the past year he has been working in the office of District Attorney Whitman of New York. During the summer he was admitted to the bar of New York state.

Mr. Sayre's mother is Mrs. Martha Finlay Sayre, daughter of the late William Nevin, who was president of Franklin and Marshall college at Lancaster, Pa. She is a descendant of Hugh Williamson of North Carolina, one of the framers of the Constitution of the United States, and is a sister of the late Robert Nevin, head of the American church at Rome, and a cousin of Ethelbert Nevin, the composer.

Other White House Weddings.

Of the twelve previous weddings in the White House the first was that of Anna Todd, a niece of Dolly Madison's first husband, and John G. Jackson. Then Mrs. Madison's sister, Lucy, was married to Judge Todd of Kentucky. The third wedding, that of Maria Monroe, daughter of President Monroe, to Samuel Lawrence Gouverneur in 1820 marked the first social use of the east room. Eight years later John, the second son of President John Quincy Adams, married his cousin, Mary Hellen, in the blue room. While General Jackson was president there were three weddings in the White House, those of Della Lewis to Alphonse Joseph Yver Pageot of the French legation; Mary Eaton to Lucien B. Polk, and Emily Martin to Louis Randolph. Many years passed before there was another marriage ceremony in the president's mansion, the next being of Nellie, the only daughter of General Grant, and Algernon C. F. Sartoris. In 1876 Emily Platt, a niece of Mrs. Hayes, was married in the blue room to Gen. Russell Hastings. The eleventh of this series of weddings was that of President Cleveland to Frances Folson, and the twelfth that of President Roosevelt's daughter Alice, to Nicholas Longworth.

At a late hour the guests departed wishing Mr. Teeple many happy returns of the day.

FIRST TO EXPLORE COUNTRY

English and Austrian Savant Tell of Tour Through South American Jungle.

Dr. Hamilton Rice, noted English explorer, and his companion, Lieut. P. P. Ritter von Bauer of the Sixth Dragoons, Vienna, have arrived at New York from Manaus, Brazil. Both men had many thrilling stories to relate of their experiences when exploring in the South American jungles. For 30 months they searched for the sources of the Amazon and the Orinoco rivers and traversed country through which no human being ever before had gone. "The country we entered," said Dr. Rice, "was wilder than Africa at the time Livingstone first entered it."

"We discovered that the Amazon and the Orinoco both have their origin near the same spot; in fact, their small feed streams interlock, and are not, as most maps indicate, widely separated. We came across tigers and tapirs which were almost as tame as a household pet. For 60 days at a time we did not see a human being outside of our own party of 12; so you see we passed through country which never before had been entered by a human being."

Fair Algeriennes.

In Algiers, and indeed in all Mohammedan cities, says the National Magazine, the "High Society" ladies of the harem never go outside the harem walls, save veiled in closed carriages, and attended by trusty servants. It is the middle class and the serving people one meets on the streets, and in the shops and cemeteries.

The Mohammedan men are intensely jealous and suspicious of women. Keeping them in utter ignorance, as they do, they know that the women have no guiding principles to save them from being foolish and indiscreet; and the men know, too, that their women are governed by their appetites, vanities and passions, and so keep them as wholly as possible from temptation. Yet these temptations reach them now and then, and the women who are allowed to go out alone, or even in twos or threes, however heavily veiled, sometimes find opportunities for intrigue.

QUALITY FIRST

QUALITY should be the first and main consideration in buying Lumber and Building Material.

Don't forget that.

Lumber that costs you $2 a thousand more may really be worth $20 more to you in the long run, because good lumber, in the first place, means less repair bills.

True, there are certain parts of buildings where the cheaper grades of stock can be economically and successfully used, but when it comes to the outside and places that have lots of wear and tear on them, get the best lumber possible, and not the cheapest.

No matter what kind of Lumber you buy here — the cheaper or better grades—we always give you the highest quality for the price.

When the Wedge Came Out.

A very small man—not only small as to stature, but lacking also in width of beam—sat in a street car until he became tightly wedged in from both sides. Then there entered the car a large, handsome woman upholstered to the minute. She took the strap in front of the small man and was hanging to it in discomfort when the small man arose, with a flourish of politeness, and touched her on the arm.

"Take my seat, madam," he said, with a bow and a smile.

"Oh, thank you very much," she replied and turned toward the seat. Then, smiling genially again, she asked, "Where did you get up from?"

Sampling Mother's Doughnuts

HUNGRY kids are sampling them today just as they did in your doughnut days.

Our artist has taken the old familiar story and brought it up to date. He has given Mother a modern up to date Acetylene cooking range.

It may surprise you to learn that such ranges are actually being used by the women folks in over two hundred thousand country homes.

As you will note from the picture, they are duplicates of city gas ranges used throughout the world. They furnish heat on tap—and have the high ovens with glass doors and all other modern features.

If you feel that your folks would appreciate the convenience of gas for lighting and cooking—if you feel that they have battled long enough with kindling, oil, coal, ashes and soot, you should without delay look into my home made Acetylene proposition.

I am the representative for this district, of the largest manufacturers of country home Acetylene plants in the world—namely, the Oxweld Acetylene Co.—manufacturers of the famous Pilot Acetylene Light Plants.

Pilot plants are different from any of the other hundreds of American Acetylene machines. They work on a different principle. They are not storage systems—they are automatic—they make gas—a little at a time, while the stove or the lights are in use. At other times the plant stands idle.

Pilot lighting plants are built upon honor to last a lifetime. They are permanent features of the homes in which they are installed.

In fifteen years only two accidents have been charged to the misuse and abuse of Pilot plants. While during the same period over one hundred thousand fires and accidents have been charged to other illuminants.

For these reasons you should not judge Acetylene until you have seen it made by a Pilot plant. The Pilot is the one plant that is mechanically perfect. This is proven by the fact that there are over sixty thousand of them in actual use today.

At your convenience I can call at your home with a portable demonstrating plant and show you how the Pilot works—how it generates home made Acetylene—how it automatically mixes the Union Carbide and water to make this gas.

I can show you also how this home made Acetylene is used to produce the most brilliant and beautiful light known—how it is used in cooking ranges which do away with the work and bother of handling fuel and ashes.

If you wish, I can send you also the Oxweld Acetylene Company's advertising books. These books tell how Acetylene is used for over a hundred different purposes—how the government uses Acetylene machines, on account of their reliability, to light the coast of Alaska and the whole Panama canal.

With these books I will gladly furnish you free estimates of the cost of a Pilot lighting plant with capacity to fit your requirements. Just write me how many rooms you have and also how many barns and outbuildings you would light. Just address—

"Clean Up the Bowels and Keep Them Clean"

There are many remedies to be had for constipation, but the difficulty is to procure one that acts without violence. A remedy that does not perform by force what should be accomplished by persuasion is Dr. Miles' Laxative Tablets.

After using them, Mr. N. A. Waddell, 315 Washington St., Waco, Tex., says: "Almost all my life I have been troubled with constipation, and have tried many remedies, all of which seemed to cause pain without giving much relief. I finally tried Dr. Miles' Laxative Tablets and found them excellent. Their action is pleasant and mild, and their chocolate taste makes them easy to take. I am more than glad to recommend them."

"Clean up the bowels and keep them clean," is the advice of all physicians, because they realize the danger resulting from habitual constipation. Do not delay too long, but begin proper curative measures.

Dr. Miles' Laxative Tablets are a new remedy for this old complaint, and a great improvement over the cathartics you have been using in the past. They taste like candy and work like a charm. A trial will convince you.

Dr. Miles' Laxative Tablets are sold by all druggists, at 25 cents a box containing 25 doses. If not found satisfactory after trial, return the box to your druggist and he will return your money. MILES MEDICAL CO., Elkhart, Ind.
