RINGLING CIRCUS IS ANNOUNCED

World's Greatest Shows and Spectacle "Solomon and the Queen of Sheba" Now on way.

Official information confirms the announcement that on June 29, Ringling Brothers circus will give two performances in Jackson.

Many new features have been added this year, the most notable of which is the spectacle "Solomon and the Queen of Sheba." This colossal production is presented with a cast of 1,250 people, a ballet of 300 dancing girls, 735 horses, 32 camels and a trainload of scenery, costumes and properties on the biggest stage in the world.

Following the spectacle, a circus program of unusual brilliancy will be presented, including an array of foreign and American acts new to the circus world. The menagerie contains 1,003 wild animals, 41 elephants, five giraffes and a "baby zoo." The circus is transported on 89 double length cars. Special arrangements have been made by the railroads to accommodate the crowds that visit the circus from this city and the surrounding country.

Baccalaureate Address

The graduating class of the Pinckney high school listened to a most inspiring baccalaureate address given by Rev. Fr. Joseph Coyle in St. Mary's church, Sunday evening. Besides the seniors, who were attended by Prof. J. P. Doyle and Miss Joie Devereaux, a large audience was present to hear the splendid sermon.

Fr. Coyle took as his subject, "The Necessity of Religion," using the senior class motto, "Tonight we launch, where shall we anchor," as the theme of his lecture. Life was compared to a frail bark launched into a stream, causing perhaps at first a slight ripple of waters, which soon closed in leaving not a trace of its passage. Religion, alone, can guide this ship into its harbor. Which eternity, Heaven or Hell, rests entirely with the soul who pilots the boat down the stream of life into the gates of death. The address was one of the finest literary efforts heard in Pinckney in some time. The speaker drove home his message in a manner which should leave a lasting impression in the hearts and minds of all those who had the pleasure of listening to his ennobling discourse.

FABLES IN SLANG

BY GEORGE ADE

THE NEW FABLE OF THE DIVINE SPARK THAT HAD A SHORT CIRCUIT.

One Evening at a converted Rink known as the Grand Opera House, a flock of intrepid Amateurs put on a War Drama.

Lila, principal Child of the Egg and Poultry King, played a Daughter of the Southland, and her Hair shaken out and Lamp Black on her Eye-Winkers, so as to look like Maxine.

All of her Relations and the other Members of the Pocahontas Bridge Whist and Pleasure Club were in Front, and they gave her a Hand every time she stepped out from behind a Tree.

At 11 P. M. she was up on a lonesome Eminence, right between Sara Bernhardt and Julia Marlowe, waiting for a Telegram from C. F. to come on and tackle the Role that was too Heavy for Maude Adams.

The proud Parents awoke next Morning to discover that Lady Macbeth was boarding with them.

A local Haberdasher, who had been plotting to surround her with a new Bungalow and a lot of Mission Furniture, went to call as per Usual and found her away Up Stage, trying to look like Margaret Anglin in the Big Scene.

She was too busy to Hold Hands, caused by the Retirement of Ellen Terry, while Papa went back to the little Office in one corner of the Warehouse and began to sign Checks.

At last she came home With a Diploma showing that she was an Actress.

She took her Diploma and the Local Press Notices up to New York to see what she could get on them, and found 10,000 other inept Modjeskas hitting the worn Trail that led from one Agency to another.

She had an offer at the Hippodrome to walk in front of an Elephant waving a prop Palm, but she spurned it, because she was ready to do Desdemona at a Moment's Notice.

In order to get Experience, she signed up with a No. 4 Company, playing the Part of the deaf-and-dumb Lady who crosses the Stage and removes the Tea Things early in the Second Act.

When the Troupe went on the Rocks at Mauch Chunk, Penna., the erstwhile Favorite of the Pocahontas Club found herself sitting on a Trunk marked "Theater" standing off a Deputy Sheriff and waiting for an Answer to her Wire.

The First Old Woman, who remembered Edwin Booth, came and sat beside her.

"Do not be discouraged, Honey," said She. "Go right back and start all for she was mapping out a Career which terminated with an Electric Sign on Broadway and the Street Jammed with up-town Limousines.

Lila had the Bacillus Theatricalus gnawing away in every part of her System.

She could see the magnificent Play House crowded from Pit to Dome, just as the Producing Manager sees it every August when the Pipe is drawing freely.

She could hear the Leading Man in the Dress Suit say, as he pointed up the Marble Stairway, "Ah, here comes the Countess Ziska now." And then She would enter trippingly, wearing $900 worth of spangled Raiment, whereupon the vast Audience would stand up and Cheer.

Whilst enjoying this Trance she wore a Yellow Kimono and had her Meals sent to the Room.

Father saw that he was Hooked, so he loaded her into a Parlor Car and took her up to a School of Dramatic Art to have her searched for Talent.

The Head Crimp of this refined Shake-Down watched her do the Scene in which Ophelia goes Dotty and picks the imaginary Hellybecks, and when it was all over and Shakespeare had been reduced to a Quip, he slipped old Henny Money on the Back and told him his Daughter was a Phenom.

With a couple of hundred Lessons in Correct Breathing, and the Vocal Chords loosened up with a Glove-Stretcher, and a row of Scallops put on the "Pocahontas," Mary Anderson would be right back in our midst.

So Lila got ready to fill the Vacancy over, and possibly sometime Next Year you will again have the blessed Privilege of going up a neglected Alley twice a Day and changing your Clothes in a Barn. Any Girl with your Looks and Family Connections can curl up in a Four-Poster at night and then saunter to the Bath over a soft Rug in the Morning, but only a throbbing Genius can make these Night Jumps in a Day Coach and stop at a Hotel which is operated as an Auxiliary to a first-class Saloon. It will be Hard Sledding for the first 15 or 20 years, but by the time you are 45 you may reasonably count on getting 20 weeks out of every 52, running around in front of a Kinestoscope.

Lila pulled into the Scene of her Early Triumphs with a mere suggestion of No. 4 Grease Paint still lingering behind her Ears.

As the Train rolled through the Yards, the Foreman of the Section Gang narrowly escaped being hit in the Head with a tin Make-Up Box, hurled from the rear of the Observation Car.

Next day she had a strip of Red Carpet spread for the Haberdasher and was learning to Cook in Paper Bags.

Whenever she hears of a Good Show coming to Town, she invites all of her Friends to come out to the Bungalow and Play Skum on the Mission Furniture.

FOR FIRELESS COOKER

EXPERT ADVISES SOME NEW AND DELICIOUS DISHES.

How Requisites for Any Meal May Be Prepared Through the Agency of the Latest Kitchen Labor-Saving Device.

Some new things which may be prepared in the fireless cooker were presented by Miss Fannie Merritt Farmer. Following are the recipes:

Cracked Wheat.—Soak one cupful of cracked wheat in five cupfuls of cold water two hours. Put over flame and bring to the boiling point; add salt and let boil for three minutes, stirring constantly. Set pan into a larger one containing boiling water and cook in a fireless cooker over night. Serve with sugar and cream.

Smothered Haddock.—Cut fish into fillets and season with salt, pepper, and lemon juice. Arrange fish in kettle, cover with prepared tomato soup; over this put a second layer. Place Kettle in a larger one containing boiling water and let water continue to boil for three minutes. Cook with or without radiator about 45 minutes.

Roly Poly.—Remove fat, skin and bones from a loin of lamb. Remove meat from eight veal chops, arrange the eight pieces of veal, separated by a thin piece of fat salt pork, close to the lean meat of the loin. Season with salt and pepper and sprinkle with a rounding tablespoonful each of finely chopped carrot, celery and parsley. Roll as tight as possible, put over a few strips of very thin fat salt pork and fasten with a string to keep meat in shape. Dredge, roll with flour and brown in a pan placed over gas flame. Cook between two radiators two and one-half hours.

Scalloped Egg and Potato With Cheese.—Arrange alternate layers of cold sliced boiled potatoes and sliced hard boiled eggs, and on each layer of egg arrange one-half of thin sliced onion which has been parboiled for one minute. Pour over a thin sauce flavored with cheese, salt and pepper to taste. Cook over one radiator one and one half to two hours.

String Beans With Cheese.—Remove strings by cutting entire length of each side, then cut beans into two-inch lengths. Plunge into cold water and allow them to remain until all the beans drop out, which may afterwards be discarded. Cook pods in boiling water, allowing one-quarter teaspoon of soda to two quarts of beans, for five minutes; then cook over one radiator two hours. Drain thoroughly, put in serving-dish, season with salt and cayenne, add one-half cup of graded rarebit cheese and one-quarter cup of heavy cream. Stir until well mixed, sprinkle generously over top grated Parmesan cheese and dot over with one tablespoon of soft butter. Reheat in hot oven or under gas flame.

Nut Butter.—Mix and sift two cups of bread flour, one cup of graham flour, one cup of brown sugar, two teaspoons of baking powder and one teaspoon each of soda and salt; then add two cups of sour milk and one cup of chopped or coarsely cut English walnut meat. Turn into bread pan and bake in fireless gas range with the gas on for 18 minutes and about an hour after gas is turned off.

Normandy Salad.

Take one pint of peas. If canned ones are used, wash, drain and dry. If fresh, cook and chill. Blanch one cupful walnut meats by pouring hot water over them and removing the skin. Cut them into bits the size of the peas, mix peas and nuts, arrange on lettuce leaves and pour over them mayonnaise dressing. Garnish with nasturtiums. This will serve ten people. Chestnuts may be substituted for walnuts.

A Good Flavor.

Horseradish sauce adds a piquant flavor to the boiled meat, as well as to roasts of beef. Grate a tablespoonful of horseradish, mix it with a gill of cream, a teaspoonful of vinegar, one of sugar, a saikspoonful of salt and the same quantity of mustard.

To Prevent Jam Burning.

To prevent jam or marmalade or anything of that kind from burning butter the bottom of the preserving pan before putting the contents into it. This also prevents them boiling over.

Regent's Punch.

Three lemons, 1 pound sugar, 2 quarts pineapple juice, 1 quart very strong oolong tea and 1 quart carbonated water. (Served in the center of a large block of ice, hollowed out to make a bowl, it is very attractive.)

Strawberry Sponge.

Try this dessert: Take sponge cake, cut in slices, put preserved strawberries between slices and pour the juice over it, then cover with whipped cream and dot over the top with strawberries.

TEMPTATION WAS TOO GREAT

Little Edwin Resisted Long but Finally Made Trade for Newly Arrived Baby Sister.

Little Edwin, three-years-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Crosby Prior of Bremen, Long Island, has been rejoicing over the advent of a baby sister in the home, and as he proudly announced to all, "she is all mine." A neighbor desired to purchase the baby of Edwin, but he would not trade. A hen and chickens, toys, candy, many things dear to the heart of a small boy, were offered and stoutly refused. "I want you to think of this over night, Edwin," said the man, "and tomorrow I'll see you again." The following morning Edwin was around. "I have one last offer to make to you for that baby sister," were the words that greeted Edwin. "I'll give you my motor boat for the baby." The youngster was almost staggered for a moment and then said: "You may have her. I was going lobstering this summer, and the boat is just what I need. Think I'll go out by Mohegan. Will you be there and did pretty well," then he added a little remorsefully: "Perhaps you'd better take some of my playthings when you take her, she may get lonesome without me."—Kennebec Journal.

Capitalizing a Weather Report.

One day a fruit dealer in Iowa roused the curiosity of the local weather observer by a telephone inquiry about the weather prospects in the grape belt of Western New York which, at that season, supplied a large part of the demand from the territory just west of the Mississippi river.

"Rain," was the answer. "It's going to rain there tomorrow and probably the day after."

A week or two later the observer met the merchant and asked what use he made of the information.

"It was worth to me," replied the fruit man, "about $200. You see grapes can't be picked in wet weather so I knew if it was going to rain out there grapes would be scarce here. As soon as I got your answer I ordered a double shipment—two cars instead of one. It rained in New York for three days running, and the price of grapes here rose to a figure that let me sell my shipment at a fine profit. The only mistake I made was in not ordering four cars instead of two."—World's Work.

The Source of Uric Acid

Eating too much is a common habit that does a lot of harm. Meat, especially, forms uric acid and the constant filtering of acid-laden blood weakens the kidneys. Uric acid causes rheumatic and nervous trouble, weakens the eyes, forms gravel and leads to dropsy and Bright's disease. Kidney weakness gives early warnings, however, such as backache and urinary disorders and can be stopped by prompt treatment. Use Doan's Kidney Pills, the best recommended and most widely used kidney remedy.

A Michigan Case

"I was so bad with kidney trouble," says Mrs. G. Kessler, of W. Main St., Paw Paw, Mich., "that the doctor had to give me morphine. The rheumatic pains in my feet, back and limbs were awful and for three months I was confined to bed. My whole body swelled and I gave up in despair. Often I was unconscious for hours. Two boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills brought me relief and in six weeks I was up and around, a well woman. I owe my life to Doan's Kidney Pills."

MICHIGAN HAPPENINGS

Evart.—Wayne Gibbs, a farmer living near Evart, is dead as the result of injuries suffered in a runaway.

Mount Morris.—Doctors worked all night on ten cases of ptomaine poisoning caused by eating of pressed meat. All parties are resting easier and it is thought that all will recover.

Jackson.—John Bartig, aged seventy-eight, a resident of Mumith for many years, ended his life by hanging. His body, suspended by a rope from the headboard of his bed, was found by his son. He had been ill for many months.

Jackson.—Dressed in a man's clothing, Miss Helen McGregor, aged twenty, was arrested walking the streets. The girl told the officers she had donned the unusual garb with the intention of starting on a hobo trip to California. She was released.

Grand Rapids.—Anthony Tajawas, because of the excessive heat, tied a gunny sack about a whirling shaft to stir up a breeze. He raised his arms with the first whiff of air and his right arm caught in the sack and was torn from his body. Physicians said he would recover.

Hastings.—Humane Officer Randolph of Kent county has made complaint against Lee Reynolds, Rutland township farmer, whom he accuses of overworking and underfeeding three horses. Reynolds, it is alleged, pounded to death with stones one of the animals after it dropped from exhaustion.

St. Johns.—Elmer Evans of St. Johns, whose conviction in 1912 on a charge of violating the local option law was set aside by the supreme court, changed his plea to one of guilty and was fined $50. His sale of two gallons of cider to Charles Lang of Gratiot county constituted a technical violation of the law.

Jackson.—The fourth annual reunion of the Odell family of the United States was held at Hague park with 150 persons in attendance. Officers were elected as follows: President, Dr. T. A. Odell, Indianapolis, Ind.; vice-president, John Odell, Allegan; secretary and treasurer, Frank B. Odell, Lansing. The next reunion will be held at Hague park, June 18, 1915.

St. Joseph.—H. T. Hulscher, state deputy food inspector, raided the office of the Berrien Springs Dispenser company at Berrien Springs, and seized a portion of the correspondence and files. This action, it is believed, is the forerunner of prosecution against officers of the concern for the sale of an alleged fake cure for the drug habit. The company is said to have been doing a thriving business.

Detroit.—Grand Trunk passenger train No. 8, north-bound, crashed into a Thompson Cartage company truck driven by Earl Hess, thirty-seven years old, 68 Richmond avenue, at Dequindre street and Trombly avenue. The truck was demolished, but Hess escaped with a wrenched right shoulder and numerous bruises. He was taken to Grace hospital. The horses attached to the truck were uninjured.

Harrison.—While in bathing in Budd lake at Harrison, Clinton Bower, twenty-one years old, a cigar-maker and a good swimmer, was taken with cramps and sank in full sight of a dozen people. Several went to his rescue without success, as the drowning man had sunk for the third time and had been gone for five minutes. A. R. D. Collins dove from a boat and brought the body to the surface. Bower was revived, but is very ill. Collins is a nineteen-year-old boy and a graduate of high school.

Grand Rapids.—Seven-year-old Laura E. Deissler was kidnaped by a stranger from the porch of the home of her mother, a Mrs. Terry, thrown into a waiting automobile and whirled away. No trace of her or the kidnapers has been found. Mrs. Terry secured a divorce from Joseph Deissler, December 3, 1913, in superior court. Under the decree she was given the custody of the child, Laura. January 13, 1914, she was married to Mr. Terry. Until recently Laura had resided with an aunt in Philadelphia, having come to her mother but a short time ago.

Kalamazoo.—Forty-six years ago Josef Rewa, a young German soldier, left his native land and came to America, settling in Detroit. He severed all connection with his family, leaving behind a four-year-old brother, Onipah. The brothers met on the convention floor of the forty-sixth annual assembly of the Michigan United Arbeiterbund, now in session here. Both were delegates to the convention. Onipah lives in Byron, having come to this country 20 years ago. Rather than that the other was in this country. They will leave for Detroit where, after a short stay at the older brother's home, they will leave for an extended visit at their home in Germany.

400,000 Settlers a Year

Immigration figures show that the population of Canada increased during 1913, by the addition of 400,000 new settlers from the United States and Europe. Most of these have gone on farms in provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta.

Lord William Paey, an English Nobleman, says:

"The possibilities and opportunities offered by the Canadian West are so infinitely greater than those which exist in England, that it seems absurd to think that people should be impeded from coming to the country where they can most easily and certainly improve their position."

New districts are being opened up, which will make accessible a great number of homesteads in districts especially adapted to mixed farming and grain raising.

Puzzled Wallie.

When Wallie went to a restaurant with his father he was told they would have something which mother did not serve—pie a la mode, in fact. This quite common dessert was a revelation to the youngster, who talked about it for some time. A couple of weeks later he and his father went to a restaurant once more. Father, needing something solid, ordered beef a la mode.

"Say, pop," said Wallie before the meat was served. "This is a funny world, isn't it? One time we get ice cream on pie, and now we're going to have ice cream on beef."

But when the meat was brought on he marveled greatly at the gastronomic versatility of the language.

Patriotic.

"Do you know," asked the impertinent boarder, when the landlady had passed him a stinky dish of strawberries, "why all this reminds me of old glory?"

"I can't imagine," she replied. "The berries are red, the dish in which you serve them is reasonably white and the milk is blue. I congratulate you on your patriotism."—Judge.

Broke.

"Did he remain in New York long?" "I don't know about that, but I know he came away short."

THE TREE HELIOTROPE

By JOSEPHINE DE MARR.

A novel, decorative plant, sweet and beautiful, is the heliotrope, when grown as a "standard." Early in the spring secure a small heliotrope, a seedling, if possible, and grow it rapidly all summer by giving it sun, water and repotting it when required, for it is essential that this plant never become stunted from drought or pot-bound.

Let the main stem grow unchecked until it is three or four feet high, but pinch, or rather rub off all the side shoots. When the stem is the desired length, say four feet, pinch out its top, and when the side shoots appear and are five or six inches long they, too, are topped. This pinching is given all shoots until the head is the desired size.

All this time the shifting has been kept up, and by the time the head of our specimen is 2½ feet through it is growing in a 12-inch pot. When they have attained a 16-inch pot they are considered full grown, and the shoots allowed to grow and bloom as they will, which is almost continually from June to frost.

Keep the plants out of doors all summer, and at the approach of frost remove to a cool room, greenhouse or light cellar. Bear in mind that any plant grown as a standard must be well staked at all times, often and generously top-dressed, given liquid manure and never allowed to become pot-bound.

New to Her.

"Can your baby brother talk now, Jamie?"

"Yessum. He can say lots of words."

"What are they?"

"I don't know. They're words I've never used before."

Abstruse Question.

"Is politics singular or plural?" asked the man who pays attention to grammar.

"I don't know," replied Senator Sorghum, "but in my recent personal experience it seems distinctly singular, owing to a conspicuous lack of plurality."

A Good Example of the Double Peony. Easy to Grow and of Great Beauty.

Novel Lawn-Mower.

We have a small lawn of Kentucky bluegrass and sweet clover, and every member of the family being busy, we could scarcely find time to keep it mowed until we thought of the plan of having our six white rabbits do the work.

We made a movable pen for them seven by ten feet, which we placed on the lawn, moving it as fast as the rabbits mow the grass, which they do to the satisfaction of all concerned.—Christian Endeavor World.

Firting With Fame.

"Nell is just crazy over Ibsen." "So he's her latest, is he? Where'd she meet him?"

When Short Jenks Raged.

Yesterday Short Jenks came to the Globe office and spit fire about an item that stated his father was ill. He denounced newspapers in general, said reporters were boneheads and deliberately malicious, and that freedom of the press was folly. His father died this morning.—Atchison Globe.

The Combination.

"My dear, I saw your husband this morning when he was putting the baby to sleep in the cradle, with a bottle by his side."

"La, ma, that's only a case of rock and rye."

Not All.

"Matches are not made in heaven," observed the sage.

"No," replied the fool. "Some of them seem to have been framed up in the other place."

Near-Greatness.

He—Will you have some pate de fols gras? Have you ever had any? She—No, but I've been where it was.

And many a man who imagined himself necessary to the world's progress has been interred in a pine box without trimmings.

The man who never kicks generally needs kicking.

The bark of a scandal monger is always worse than his bite.

There are many little things to annoy us, under present conditions of life. The hurry, hard work, noise and strain all tell on us and tend to provoke nervousness and irritability. We are frequently so worn out we can neither eat, sleep nor work with any comfort. We are out of line with ourselves and others as well.

A good thing to do under such circumstances is to take something like

Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills

"I have on several occasions been vastly relieved by the use of your medicine, especially the Anti-Pain Pills, which I keep constantly on hand for the use of myself, husband and two sons. Nothing in the world equals them as a headache remedy. Often I am enabled by the use of one or two of the Pills to continue my household when otherwise I would be in bed. My husband joins me in my praise of the Anti-Pain Pills and Nervine."

PRESIDENT WINS FIGHT FOR TOLLS

HOUSE CONCURS WITH SENATE IN AMENDMENT AND BILL IS SIGNED.

FINAL VOTE IS 216 TO 171

Measure Repealing Clause of Panama Canal Act Exempting American Coastwise Trade From Tolls Stands Repealed.

Washington—The long and bitter fight in congress for the repeal of the clause of the Panama Canal act exempting American coastwise shipping from tolls, came to an end Friday when the house, after brief debate and without the formality of a conference, accepted, by a vote of 216 to 71, the senate amendment specifically reserving all rights the United States may have under the Hay-Pauncefote treaty or otherwise.

The president signed the measure Monday. It was just a little more than three months ago that he addressed the house and senate in joint session, urgently asking for repeal of the exemption clause that the nation might keep its treaty obligations.

Before ending the contest by concurring in the senate amendment, the house voted down, 174 to 108, a proposal advanced by Rep. Moss, of West Virginia, to attach to the repeal a flat declaration of the right of the United States to exempt its vessels from tolls and of the sovereignty of the United States over the canal zone.

Thirty-seven republicans and three progressives joined the democrats in support of the motion.

Washington. — President Wilson next March personally will lead the great international fleet of warships from Hampton Roads to Colon to participate in the formal opening of the Panama canal by passing through on the bridge of the world-famous old battleship Oregon as leader of the long line of fighting craft of all nations and then after proceeding northward enter the Golden Gate at the head of this immense armada and attend the Panama-Pacific exposition at San Francisco.

This announcement was made Saturday by Secretary Daniels, who has been working a long time to bring this notable program about. FLETCHER TO HAVE HIGHEST HONOR

AMBITION OF ALL NAVAL MEN

Other Heroes of Vera Cruz Receive Recognition in Form of Gratitudes, Medals and Commendatory Letters.

Washington—Command of the great Atlantic fleet, goal of every American naval officer's ambition, is to be the reward of Rear Admiral Frank F. Fletcher for his work in Mexican waters. Secretary Daniels announced Sunday night he will recommend Admiral Fletcher for commander-in-chief of the fleet to succeed Rear Admiral Badger, when the latter completes his tour of service within the next few weeks.

Several of the navy's higher officers outrank him, but the secretary holds that the conspicuously masterful conduct of Admiral Fletcher at Vera Cruz entitles him to special recognition. Moreover, if congress passes the pending bill creating the rank of vice admiral, Fletcher will be among the first to be advanced to that grade.

A general order has been issued, awarding a medal of honor and a gratuity of $100 to 11 enlisted men for extraordinary heroism.

To 42 officers and 55 enlisted men, the secretary has written highly commendatory letters. Each letter recites the gallant acts for which Rear Admiral Fletcher recommended that they be rewarded and to this recital the department added commendatory paragraphs suited to the particular cases.

HOW TO TREAT PIMPLES AND BLACKHEADS

For pimples and blackheads the following is a most effective and economical treatment: Gently smear the affected parts with Cuticura Ointment, on the end of the finger, but do not rub. Wash off the Cuticura Ointment in five minutes with Cuticura Soap and hot water and continue bathing for some minutes. This treatment is best on rising and retiring. At other times use Cuticura Soap freely for the toilet and bath, to assist in preventing inflammation, irritation and clogging of the pores, the common cause of pimples, blackheads, redness and roughness, yellow, oily, mothy and other unwholesome conditions of the skin.

Cuticura Soap and Ointment sold throughout the world. Sample of each free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address postcard "Cuticura, Dept. L, Boston."—Adv.

Where His Thoughts Were.

You'd scarcely expect this of a boy, but here is what happened:

It was the last half of the ninth, and the Indians were one run behind. With that gameness that has characterized their play this season they worked a runner around and tied the score. Then the battle for the winning run began. An Indian walked and stole second. One was out and a hit would win the game.

Up in the stand sat mother, father and young son. Mother and father had their eyes riveted on the man at bat, casting an occasional glance at the runner on second to be sure he wasn't caught napping. The boy's mind seemed suddenly to leave the game and, just when the excitement was tensest, he turned to his mother and said:

"Mother, how much is thirteen times a dollar and a half?"—Indianapolis News.

EYE STRAIN Relieved by Quitting Coffee.

Many cases of defective vision are caused by the habitual use of coffee.

It is said that in Arabia where coffee is used in large quantities, many lose their eyesight at about fifty. Tea contains the same drug, caffeine, as coffee.

A N. J. woman writes to the point concerning eye trouble and coffee. She says:

"My son was for years troubled with his eyes. He tried several kinds of glasses without relief. The optician said there was a defect in his eyes which was hard to reach.

"He used to drink coffee, as we all did, and finally quit it and began to use Postum. That was three years ago and he has not had to wear glasses and has had no trouble with his eyes since.

"I was always fond of tea and coffee and finally became so nervous I could hardly sit still long enough to eat a meal. My heart was in such a condition I thought I might die at any time.

"Medicine did not give me relief and I was almost desperate. It was about this time we decided to quit coffee and use Postum, and have used it ever since. I am in perfect health. No trouble now with my heart and never felt better in my life.

"Postum has been a great blessing to us all, particularly to my son and myself."

Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read "The Road to Wellville," in pkg.

Postum now comes in two forms: Regular Postum—must be well boiled. 15c and 25c packages.

Instant Postum—is a soluble powder. A teaspoonful dissolves quickly in a cup of hot water and, with cream and sugar, makes a delicious beverage instantly. 30c and 50c tins.

The cost per cup of both kinds is about the same.

SYNOPSIS.

Daniel Slade suddenly advances from a penniless miner to a millionaire. He is ambitious to become governor of the state. His simple, home-loving wife fails to rise to the new conditions. Slade meets Katherine, daughter of Senator Strickland, and sees in her all that Mary is not. Slade decides to separate from his wife and takes rooms at his club. His desertion of his wife and his constant attendance on Katherine Strickland causes public comment.

CHAPTER V—Continued.

"Well, I don't care how you get it—I want it. It's vital. I've got to have ten thousand to go to Europe. Everybody's going—Mrs. Webb, Mrs. O'Donnell—and her voice trailed off into a pettish whine.

"Yes, I know all about that crowd," Merritt snarled. "Sunny places for shady people."

"Wesley! I need clothes. I've told everybody I'm going," and the peevish woman glared at her husband. Then she added suddenly: "Can't the senator ask Slade?"

"Oh, my God, Fannie!" the hectoring man groaned. "Can I suggest that? A rival candidate! I've mortgaged my property up to the hilt now for clothes—but sooner than—"

"I don't care—I need clothes," his wife interrupted, rising and walking restlessly about the room. "I've got to go to Europe. The devil take your excuses."

Then, with a sudden change of thought, she cooed. "Wesley!"

Merritt stood with his elbow on the mantel, looking moodily into the fire.

"Wesley," she cooed again. "Why don't you—if you can't get in—why don't you boom Slade? They say he's buying everybody."

"Well, we've been bought." Her husband's tone indicated just how little consideration such a plan would have from him.

"No, but you've been defeated six times," she objected, determined to argue, this new possibility, that had just occurred to her. "Wes—if the senator has gone back on you—look out. Sell out. I must have clothes."

She stopped as the senator himself entered from the smoking room.

"They're asking for you, Wesley," and Merritt, glad of the interruption, hurried out.

"Ah—good evening, Fannie," Strickland took her hand in his smooth, affable way. "I'm sorry, Fannie, that Wesley doesn't take more to Slade. It's a great mistake. Why don't you tell him so?"

"Oh, my gracious!" her manner changing to suit the occasion. "What influence could I possibly have with my husband? He's a man of iron will. Why, I have to do everything he tells me myself. I wouldn't dare to meddle with his affairs."

"Well, just coax him, Fannie, the way a nice, sweet, womanly woman can," urged the senator, knowing full well that the Merritts had one message for private use and quite another for publication.

"I want to go to Europe and my husband says he can't afford it." Her voice dropped to a sugary whine.

"We can't all be millionaires like Mr. Slade, can we?" Just think. It would cost $10,000, to say nothing of clothes."

"Don't worry about that trip to Europe, Fannie," the senator advised, meaningly. "I think," and he paused significantly, "I think you'll earn it." With that he started toward the smoking-room. "Wesley," he called, and as Merritt appeared in the doorway, remarked: "I believe your wife has something to say to you."

"Oh, yes, Wesley—I have something most important to say."

"Well, if it's about that trip to Europe," growled Merritt, asserting himself as he would never dare to do when he was alone with her.

"Now, Wesley, come with me to the balcony," Fannie coaxed in what she considered her prettiest manner. "You'll excuse us, senator?"

As Fannie dragged her husband out of the room Hayes, returning from the smoking-room, and Katherine, returning from her talk with the reporter, found themselves alone. Katherine was nervous and ill at ease. Immediately she began to busy herself folding copies of her father's speech and inserting them into mailing envelopes.

"Slade's going it," Bob remarked. "They are nearly all wiped out in there. Those who haven't been bearded, have been bearded or bought—hold on! That sounds like the head-line in a Socialist paper."

"What's happened to you?" he broke off abruptly. "I can't find a trace of you left. Ever since you came back—"

I've been hunting for one sign of the girl I knew. Your notes—the very letters you wrote me from Europe sounded as if some one else had written them. Who is it who's occupying your mind, Katherine?"

"I don't know what you mean," the girl evaded.

"You used to care a lot for me," reflectively, his mind recalling the warm, eager welcome of her arms the day he had declared his love for her, six years before.

"I only thought I did," she declared, but her eyes dropped before his steady gaze.

"You did care," positively. "You did care. I could tell. When you went away the first time you did. Why, it was only a question of my luck turning. You were going to wait for me. I always knew that. Then I met Slade. Even the senator's got a good word for me now. But you—" his voice broke and he leaned forward and laid his hand over hers as it rested idly on the table.

"Heavens!" he exclaimed, as he snatched his hand away. "What I ought to have done was to have ridden up here, taken you over my shoulder and galloped off with you on a broncho."

"Oh, Rob," she breathed, really pleased at his domineering tone.

"That's the sort of a man to get on with a woman like you," he accused. "A brute! A man could do anything with you if he once conquered you. There's nothing in these long understandings," he broke off, disgustedly. "I've lost you and I don't know how, or why. I do know you liked me better than anyone else, and I adore you yet," he finished, impulsively clasping her hand with both of his. Katherine patted his strong fingers with her free hand.

"Please, Rob, I know you do," and she left him to pass back and forth the length of the room. "I can't," she sighed. Then hurriedly: "If I only had the courage. Oh, Rob!" and she turned on him with a helpless little gesture.

"What do you mean by courage?" he demanded.

"I mean I'd have to—live here in this little hole in the West," she burst forth, vehemently. "No—no, I can't face it—always!"

"Well, suppose it did mean to stay here?" Bob stood with folded arms. "It's a home. Everyone vegetates more or less at home. Katherine!" his voice became more tender, "do you really mean that?" And he put his arms around her shoulders and looked long and earnestly into her upraised face.

"I couldn't—Oh, Rob, I couldn't," she protested. "All this month I've been weakening—but I—"

"Ah," he interrupted, his face close to hers. "You're wanting my flowers, too—I saw that when I came in. And my picture—you are still keeping that."

"But I—I can't quite," she began. "I'm—" from his embrace. "We'd be poor and then we'd be like the Merritts," with a tragic spread of her arms. "I'm used to the world. I want to live—everywhere—to see things. I'd die here, vegetating!"

"Oh, no you wouldn't," Hayes started to remonstrate, when the door of the smoking room opened and Slade appeared.

"I was just going to look you up, Robert. I thought you wouldn't go without seeing me, but—"

"No, of course not." Hayes did not attempt to conceal his annoyance at the interruption. Katherine moved slowly toward the door.

"I'm not driving you away, am I, Miss Katherine?"

Before she could answer Fannie Merritt came sweeping in. She was radiant. Her beaming face and Merritt's sullen one made the situation plain to all in the room.

"My dear," she exclaimed, turning to Katherine. "You were quite right! Mr. Slade is a great man. I'm leaving my Wesley here to work for him. I'm off for Europe next week," she gushed as Hayes helped her into her evening wrap, "leaving my poor, dear boy all alone. You will be good to him, won't you? Good night, Mr. Slade; thank you," and, closely followed by Katherine, she hurried out to her waiting motor.

Slade's face was a study in amused complacency as he realized that he need fear nothing more from Wesley Merritt or his "tin-horn tooting sheet." The self-esteem that was slowly but completely obscuring clear vision, prevented him from seeing that his money, not himself, had brought about the change. The money he had made was his—was he—himself. He confused its vast power to bend the Merritts and their world with his own strength.

CHAPTER VI.

"Mrs. Slade won't sign over the cottage," Hayes began abruptly. "I can't do anything more."

"She must," Slade uttered the words through set teeth. "She can't live there. Robert, you are the only person who knows us both thoroughly. I want you to bring this matter to a finish quietly and kindly and—now."

"Why don't you see her and have it out with her?" Hayes suggested.

"We had it out the night I left the house and told her not to wait up for me," Slade reminded him. "I never quarrel with anyone more than once."

He eyed Hayes critically for a minute. "You're with me, aren't you?" as if an idea had just occurred to him.

"I'm awfully sorry for Mrs. Slade," Hayes began, when Slade interrupted.

"Look here, Hayes—I want a divorce," and he seated himself squarely in front of the astonished Hayes.

"A divorce?"

"That's what I want," and his lips shut grimly.

"But, my God!" Hayes was amazed. "You didn't want it in the first place. All you wanted was to live your own life. Do you expect me to help you get rid of Mrs. Slade?"

"Don't go crazy," Slade advised, not a suggestion of feeling evident in his voice or manner.

"If you do you are due for a surprise. I can't go sticking a knife into that woman's heart. I won't."

"You're a h—l of a lawyer!" Slade's anger was rising.

"I'm not that sort of a lawyer," Hayes rose as if to dismiss the subject.

"Whatever sort of a lawyer you are I made you, Hayes."

"I know you did," returned Hayes, bitterly. "You've told me that before and this is what comes of letting a man make you!"

"You bet, rank ingratitude," hotly.

Hayes leaned forward, his arms on his knees and looked Slade square in the eyes.

"I honestly think you're drunk with all this power and prosperity. That little woman was the apple of your eye. I always said to myself: 'There's one man who does stick to his wife!' I didn't believe wild horses could drag you away from home—"

"One minute!" interrupted Slade. "All that has nothing to do with you. Neither you nor anyone living can interfere with me now. Have you stopped to figure out, and I say it with all kindness and with all respect, what sort of a governor's lady Mrs. Slade would make, feeling as she does?"

"Well, what sort of a governor would you make if you were divorced?" Hayes questioned, mockingly. "Those men in there, and he jerked his thumb toward the smoking-room door; "will they stand for that?"

"They've got to—I own them, boots and all!"

"But you don't own public opinion," thundered Hayes, banging his fist down on the table, scattering the copies of the senator's speech in all directions.

"Why don't I?" Slade questioned with an arrogant smile, swinging his mouth. "I'm going to buy half of Merritt's paper tonight. I guess that will be public opinion enough for me. Here then that I'll stand as a man whose wife has deserted him. That's how it will end. Mrs. Slade will decide where she's to live—but it must be at some distance."

"You won't get your divorce through desertion," Hayes scoffed. "I know her. You can't do it."

"I can't do it, eh?" Slade's eyes held a nasty expression. "That's what they've been telling me all my life. Ever since I was a barefooted little brat running around the mines they've said to me: 'You can't do this and you can't do that.' But I always did it. Let me tell you, young man, after all I've conquered no woman is going to stop me!"

"Can't do it, eh?" he repeated, pugnaciously. "You watch me do it! You young jackanapes! I'm as good as deserted—how. The only question is: Are you going to see Mrs. Slade—put her aboard a train east or not?"

"Mrs. Slade has been my best friend," Hayes answered quietly. "I love her dearly—I—" his voice broke.

"All right. That settles it. You turn over every scrap of paper of mine you have by—"

he thought a moment—"by tomorrow night. Then you can walk the ties to the devil, young man, and go back where I found you."

As Hayes turned to go, Strickland hurried into the room.

"Merritt has just introduced a very unexpected subject in the smoking-room—the question of—well, you've got to know it, Slade—the question of Mrs. Slade."

Hayes wheeled around and watched to see what effect this announcement would have on Slade.

INDOLENCE A NATIONAL TRAIT

What Are Known as "Leaners" Declined in the Majority Among the Natives of Mexico.

"Mexican indolence has always had something to do with making Mexican national history," said a traveler. "Mexico has a class of natives called 'leaners' from their habit of leaning against the side of a building to roll a cigarette. Once in this position the leaner adheres to it for hours."

"Tradition declares that a Mexican leaner once sued an American railroad builder for pulling down a building against which the plaintiff had been leaning. Damages were awarded for severe shock and inconvenience, and the court took occasion to recommend a law requiring one hour's notice under similar circumstances."

"Mexican military forces are to some extent recruited from leaners. Mexican history has record of an insurgent force which was being pushed forward victoriously when it came to a stream which had swollen over night. The general was a leaner. He bivouacked to wait till the stream should subside, but it did not subside and he withdrew. He could easily have bridged a narrow cascade less than a mile from his camp, but that would have required a fresh initiative, which has no place in the practical philosophy of a leaner."

"But he succeeded, anyhow, because his adversary was also a leaner. When the river fell the insurgent force came back, crossed without opposition, and casually took possession of the contested territory."

TOO QUICK WITH HIS ANSWER

Response of Court Witness Put Him Unnecessarily in a Somewhat Unfavorable Light.

At a session of county court in an outlying country, a village merchant was prosecuted for "arson." It developed that the business men of the town had retained a "special prosecutor" to assist in the case. The attorney for the defendant invariably asked each witness if he had ever contributed anything toward the support of the "special prosecutor." One old man was very zealous in his efforts to convict the defendant. The attorney started to ask him the regular "contribution" question, but the witness interrupted him and gave his answer in the middle of the question, with the following result:

"Q. Have you ever contributed anything toward the support—"

"A. No, sir; I never did—not a cent!"

"—of your family?"

The witness was excused amid the laughter of the court, jury and audience. He left the room, mad as a hornet, and was heard to mutter: "I ain't got no family."—West Publishing company.

To Those Concerned in the 8th Grade Examination

The County Board of Examiners have taken a good deal of time, have looked over the papers of applicants very carefully and impartially and have granted diplomas to those who in their judgement are sufficiently well prepared to entitle them to one. If there should be anyone who feels dissatisfied with their grades received, the commissioner will gladly go over his papers with him if he will come to the office any Saturday.

The Board would be only too glad to give a diploma to all who apply, but we would be doing many boys and girls an injustice by giving them a diploma. One should be WELL prepared for high school before entering, then the work will be of such a character that it will be a credit to the student as well as to the school from which they come.

So do not for a moment think That when you cut out printer's ink You're saving money on the side; 'Tis merely business suicide. —Ex.
