Contest Makes a Good Start

Many Nominations of Popular Young Ladies Already Been Made. Still More to Follow. Get in the Race

First Count Friday, Aug. 21st

Read the Announcement and Particulars in This Paper and Get in the Game Immediately

The big prize voting contest announced in these columns last week is creating more interest than we imagined it would in the beginning. Nominations of contestants are being sent to this office daily and soon there will be many who would be willing recipients of a fine $400 Obermeyer & Sons piano or other valuable prizes enumerated in this list.

All of these handsome prizes are enumerated in the announcement on another page and will be given to some of the young ladies of this vicinity.

The question is how can I do it? All that is necessary is to get your relatives and friends to trade with the merchants who are donating prizes in this popular voting contest.

For every dollar spent with the merchants you will receive 25 votes which can be voted for any of the contestants. Also to get your friends to subscribe for this paper. For each one year new subscription you will receive 600 votes; for each one year renewal 500 votes; for each year back subscription 400 votes. Of course, it is to be understood that under no circumstances are coupons issued by merchants except upon cash purchases.

We have been asked if the wife or daughter of merchants who are co-operating with this paper in this voting contest may compete for any prize; neither can the wife nor daughter or any of the merchants who are co-operating with this paper in this contest enter the competition.

The reasons for this are obvious, and we are very sure that all the merchants will feel just as we do in regard to the matter. We want this contest to be conducted with the greatest possible fairness, with no occasion or opportunity for anybody to criticize. The ballot box is now at our office, ready to receive votes. The box will not be opened until the first count is made on August 21. The judges will be absolutely disinterested people, in whom everybody will have confidence, and every count will be participated in by representatives of the Publishers' Music Co., who are managing this contest. There will be no favoritism. The lady who secures the largest number of votes will win the piano and so on down for the rest of the prizes. We wish there were pianos enough to go around for all the girls, but there are not, and all but one will have to be content with one of the many other beautiful prizes offered.

Voting may commence at any time in a ballot box now in this office and the keys to the box will be given to the awarding committee whose names will be announced in another issue of this paper.

Use the free vote coupon in this issue. If you know of any lady who has not been nominated and whom you think would make a good race use the nominating blank in the announcement and send her name to this paper or bring it in in person and her name will be entered. It matters not if she be married or single.

Read the rules in the large ad on another page of this issue or we will mail them upon request. Inspect the offerings of the merchants and learn how you may secure votes for yourself or friend. Be sure to ask these merchants for coupons.

Those who do not understand the rules and regulations of this contest can call at this office or write us and we will be pleased to go over the proposition with you.

Extra Prize of $10. In Gold

The first count in the contest will be made on Friday, August 21st at which time $10. in gold will be awarded to the contestant having the highest number of votes at that time. This prize is extra, in addition to the other prizes offered, and its winning will not bar the winner from securing the piano or any of the merchants prizes.

Do it now and help someone reap the benefits of this liberal offer. Remember that many of the merchants of this town are interested in this contest and give a 25 vote coupon with every $1. cash purchase.

This contest is between individuals and no lodge or other organization will be permitted to stand as a candidate of any particular organization with the understanding that if she wins the piano or other prizes it is to go to the organization. Such an agreement would be manifestly unfair to the other contestants. Any candidate so detected will be disqualified. Remember to have your friends trade with the merchants who are giving coupons. The names of the merchants who are giving handsome prizes and helping to make this contest a big success are:

Monks Bros.
W. W. Barnard
Teepie Hardware Co.
Mrs. A. M. Utley
C. G. Meyer
Dinkel & Dunbar

We want new subscribers and a lot of them, and these girls will get them for us by seeing their friends and inducing them to subscribe or renew for this paper. We guarantee to make the paper well worth the money of every subscriber, and we expect to hold all these new subscribers for many years to come. That is the only way we can make this contest make money for us.

The following young ladies have been nominated in this contest:

Yes, and we have it RIGHT. This community knows that you can DEPEND upon anything that comes from our drug store. Those who deal with us have always found what we gave them was reliable; they have FAITH in us.

We shall not abuse that faith, but shall always give you the BEST that can be got.

We give you what you ASK for

One More Week

There is only one more week before the meeting of the Old Boys and Girls Association. Arrangements have been made as far as possible, and the promise is that there will be a large attendance of the "old ones", and if you want a chance to shake their hands be sure you are here next Wednesday and Thursday.

There will be ball games each day. Our home team have this part of the program in their hands and promise us a treat. Read ad. on another page for all particulars.

Now remember that membership in the association means that you must pay your dues of 25 cents and that will entitle you to a badge and you will surely want one as a souvenir. If you have not already ordered one, see that you get one at once upon arrival in Pinckney. Of course it is expected that every citizen of the village will join the association.

Already some of the far away boys and girls have arrived and others promised when they sent in their dues, they will be here.

We would like to have all old boys and girls register their names with the secretary upon their arrival as a list of those from away will be published in this paper after the meeting.

Notice

Everybody is expected or requested to decorate their homes and places of business in patriotic colors and if possible with Japanese lanterns. Mr. Meyer's will send for decorations if ordered on time.

Important!

It is reported that a herd of hogs at Holly are affected with cholera. Two farmers there have lost 21 porkers. A quarantine has been established.

The above article was copied from last week's paper.

Now, Mr. Farmer, isn't it up to you to get busy? Feed Sal-Medico the GUARANTEED preventative of hog cholera and save yourself dollars.

Sal-Medico, while it is truly a preventative of hog cholera, also keeps your hogs free from worms and acts as a tonic and conditioner, making your pork finer and of better quality, thereby adding quite materially to their value in the fall.

Sal-Medico

COMES PACKED IN

Katherine quailed before this sudden outburst. Then the hope of influencing the woman to divorce her husband spurred her on and she replied:

"Yes, there is."
"Is she—?" Mary was unprepared for the admission in spite of all she had said. Her voice broke—"Is she young?"

"Yes," came from Katherine. Even at that moment it occurred to her that the situation was unparalleled—this wife asking her—the other woman—about herself.

"Many years' difference in our ages?"

"I think so."
"Is she pretty?"

"People say she is."
Mary experienced a sudden revulsion of feeling.

"I don't believe it," she cried, refusing to believe what was not pleasant to believe. "Dan Slade wouldn't. You're mistaken."

As Katherine made no reply, she went on. "But you seem to be sure?" "I'm certain," answered Katherine, evenly and without emotion.

"Do you know her?"

The lace at Katherine's throat fluttered with her rapid breathing.

"I—yes, slightly."

"Why, Dan Slade have another woman in my old place! So that's it?" as Katherine remained silent. "I'm much obliged. I'll keep my word. He can have his divorce any way he wants it. She can have him and his name and his money," her voice became shrill.

"Here, I'll give you something to give him," and she darted into the adjoining bedroom. "It will remind her of something she hasn't got—his youth! His youth! His youth! See?" and she thrust before Katherine's eyes the picture of Dan Slade when they were first married, the picture she had always worn. "That's the way he looked when he was young. Tell her she can keep it." And she forced the brooch into Katherine's reluctant fingers.

"She can see what she's missed! Well, I'm done with it—and with both of them. There!" and weak from her frenzied outburst, she sank into a chair. There was intense silence for a moment. Katherine stood as if petrified. Mary sat with brooding eyes, thinking. She was the first to speak, trying hard to be brave.

"Well, there's one comfort. It ain't as though I had any children. Who'd ever have thought we would have come to this—here in this house. If I had had a baby, here's where it would have been born—and that's the real reason I stick to this house—it ain't spunk."

"We were both very young," she talked meditatively, more to herself than to Katherine. "I was awfully happy. I couldn't wish you any better, dear," and she turned impulsively to the girl, who sat amazed, breathlessly watching her, "than hoping to have a child by some young man you cared for. There's no happiness like it. But one day there was an accident in the mine and they came and told me he was hurt—and I thought, 'Praps, he was dead—and my sudden fear for him robbed us of our little child and me of all the hope of ever—'" Her voice broke with the agony of all childless good women since the beginning of time.

"See—in there," she pointed through the open door into the next room, "in the bureau drawer—the one by the window—there's all the little things I got ready years and years ago," her voice quivered piteously. "And now I'm old and there's another woman—a younger," the tears were streaming down her cheeks now and Katherine's heart ached in sympathy with her. The girl's throat was dry and her eyes blinded by tears as she repeated over and over again to her accusing conscience: "I didn't know. I didn't know."

"If we'd only had children," Mary sobbed, losing herself in complete collapse. "Nothing counts but children. They're all we get out of marriage when we're old. If we'd only had children, he couldn't have left me like this," her shoulders shook.

Katherine started to her feet, unable longer to bear the sight of the woman's suffering.

"Don't cry, Mrs. Slade, don't cry," she pleaded.

"My God!" Mary exclaimed. "How can I again live out my life! I can't. I can't. I'm used to him, and now he's going to have another woman near him." There was renunciation and anguish and anger in her outburst. "And I've lived with him all these years. I can't help lovin' him," she sobbed.

Katherine watched her, aghast at the vision of a love such as she had never before realized. The hot tears filled her eyes and her lips trembled. Unable to fight any longer, she stretched out her hand and touched the older woman gently, almost reverently.

"Oh, please—please don't cry like that," she begged. "I can't stand it. Oh, please don't," and suddenly her emotions swept away her control—her remembrance of why she had come—of everything but this slender, sobbing little woman. She flung her arms around Mary, burying her face on her shoulder. The woman in her rose up and rebelled at what she had been about to do. Love, not of the world, mastered the worldly in her, as the tears overflowed.

"Mrs. Slade, you fight," she sobbed, breathlessly. "Never mind what! You fight! He loves you best after all. I've seen that. Don't you give in! You'll get him back. She's an out-and-out bad, heartless, selfish creature. She's bad—bad, stifling every good, honest impulse for money—money! You're right to hate it. It is a dirty thing. If he were poor she wouldn't look at him. Don't you mind and don't you cry, Mrs. Slade. You fight—fight them—all," and she loosened her arms and sank sobbing and heartbroken, into a chair, throwing her head on her outstretched arms in a perfect abandonment of repentance and grief.

For a few moments the two women sobbed brokenly. Mary was the first to recover.

"There, there," she cried, patting Katherine tenderly on the shoulder, "don't you cry for me."

Suddenly Hayes appeared in the doorway. He looked first at Mary, then at Katherine. Katherine, her face still buried, her sobs still uncontrolled, had not heard him open the door. One sight of the two women was enough to convince him that in the encounter the stronger had been defeated and that the gentle little woman whom he loved had come off the victor.

Mary stood looking from Hayes to Katherine in bewildered perplexity. Suddenly her eyes lighted with a thought. She began to read her answer in Bob's eyes, but he turned to avoid her glance. She looked again at the sobbing girl and as she did so the conviction came to her that

"What did that girl come here for—Miss—er—"

"Oh—forgotten her name?" came from Mary, mockingly. "Miss Strickland came just for a visit."

"Well, what did she want?" Slade demanded.

"She came to find out what I meant to do." There was a world of irony in Mary's tone.

"What has that got to do with her? I don't approve of a woman coming into my house to find out what you—I don't like it! It's a bit of impudence. What else did she have to say? Did she—er—"

"She's not a very confidential girl," returned Mary, evasively.

"I see. So she and Robert have made up?" Slade considered this rather a master stroke. By continuing such questions he might get at the real state of affairs.

"Yes."

"Well, well—I'll have to do something for them." Slade was paternally patronizing, but he did not deceive Mary.

"Your business out here today must be very urgent. What is it?"

Slade tried frantically to find a reason for his visit. When he had left town it was for the one reason of trying to bully Mary into leaving the cottage and agreeing to a divorce. With the complexion of matters so changed, he was at a complete loss to explain his visit. He was irritated and annoyed. He was not used to having the tables so completely turned on him. More than that, the little cottage never looked more inviting. As a matter of fact, Slade had often found the demands of his new life considerable of a nuisance, and as a whiff of the savory lamb stew came to his nostrils, a memory of the peace and contentment of the old life flashed through his mind. Nothing at the club had been especially tasty of late. More than that,

Bob, too surprised to believe his own eyes, came up to her.

"Katherine!" he exclaimed.

"Oh, Bob, I'm so ashamed," Katherine confessed as she got to her feet and stumbled into his arms, crying out for forgiveness and the love she had so cruelly and so thoughtlessly flung aside.

"I understand, I understand." Bob was very gentle and forgiving as he took her in his arms.

"I love you, Bob," she sobbed. "I don't care who hears me say it. I don't care. I love you."

"Come," he said, leading her tenderly toward the door. "We'll talk it over on the way home."

CHAPTER XI.

Before Bob could open the door it was pushed in from the outside, and as Katherine looked up, she looked straight into the eyes of Dan Slade. For a moment the room was electric with the intensity of the situation. Then the girl lifted her head proudly and met Slade's eyes again. In them he saw a light he had never seen there before, a light of soft tenderness and deep joy, a look that made his heart start as he realized what he had lost.

"Good morning, Mr. Slade," she said coldly as Bob led her out into the summer sunshine and to life and love.

As Slade, hat in hand, stood gazing at his wife, Mary realized that for the first time in all their married life she had the advantage. For once the roles of the humble and the domineering were reversed. There was a long pause, awkward only for Slade, for Mary was quite at ease. He coughed several times, and then, in a manner he thought quite appropriate, asked:

"What did that girl come here for—Miss—er—"

"Oh—forgotten her name?" came from Mary, mockingly. "Miss Strickland came just for a visit."

"Well, what did she want?" Slade demanded.

"She came to find out what I meant to do." There was a world of irony in Mary's tone.

Nothing at the club had been especially tasty of late. More than that, the drive down had given him an appetite.

"Cooking a stew, Mary?" he asked rather abruptly and inconsequentially.

"Just one of my old stews," Mary's voice was indifferent. She was thoroughly disgusted with her husband,

"But they're unhandy things, too. A bootmaker showed me the other day a slipper with a tiny purse-pocket hidden in the heel."

"An absolute necessity," he said, "for the present-day gown affords no chance for the purse's concealment on any other part of the person."

"There, There, Don't You Cry for Me."

Katherine was the woman her husband was planning to marry. She opened her mouth as if to speak, and turned questioning again to Bob. But Hayes could not meet her eyes. Suddenly Mary pointed an accusing finger at Katherine's bowed head. "She! Oh-h!" she gasped.

Katherine, unconscious of the revelation that had just taken place, was still sobbing bitterly, but with sweet or tears than she had shed for many, many years. The sight of the girl's misery called for all the treasures of love and sympathy in Mary's nature, sweetened by long years of forgiving and self-sacrifice.

"There, there, there," she crooned, as she patted Katherine's head. Overcome with an emotion she could not control, Katherine clasped her arms about her comforter and wept softly and quietly on her breast.

SAVAGES KIND TO ANIMALS

French Scientist Cites Astonishing Examples Noted Among Primitive Tribes.

If there were no cruelty to animals there certainly could be no cruelty to humans. Etienne Reclus, the French scientist, instances astonishing examples among savage tribes in South America and in Africa, of primitive humanity and the animals making common cause in their life and labors together.

The llama, which carries enormous burdens over the Andes, would lie down in wrath and refuse to rise should his master strike or abuse him; it is only caresses and encouragement that lead him over impossible deserts and roadways.

The horse of the Bedouin Arab sleeps in his tent with his children. In civilization men train horses by bit, whip and spur and then complain that they have no brains, initiative or real affection. To feed the better upon them men make of sheep and cattle artificial creatures, incapable of self-support in the freedom of nature.

Reclus insists that in many respects the domestication of animals, as we practise it today, produces a veritable moral backsliding, for far from having improved them we have deformed, degraded and corrupted them.

An Outrage.

Pa—The nerve of this geek! Here's a Chinese who says that he doesn't like the American women because they are so much like the American men.

Ma—The idea! He ought to be lynched! That's a positive insult to American womanhood.

Headed in the Right Direction.

The young man caught smoking a cigarette in a powder mill said he was looking for a place where he could rest without being annoyed. If they'd left him alone a few minutes longer he'd have found what he was looking for.

IN SUCH PAIN WOMAN CRIED

Suffered Everything Until Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Florence, So. Dakota.—"I used to be very sick every month with bearing down pains and headache, and had a good deal of the time and very little appetite. The pains were so bad that I used to sit right down on the floor and cry, because it hurt me so and I could not do any work at those times. An old woman advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I got a bottle. I felt better the next month so I took three more bottles of it and got well so I could work all the time. I hope every woman who suffers like I did will try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound." — Mrs. P. W. LANSENG, Route No. 1, Florence, South Dakota.

Why will women continue to suffer day in and day out or drag out a sickly, half-hearted existence, missing three-fourths of the joy of living, when they can find health in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?

For thirty years it has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has restored the health of thousands of women who have been troubled with such ailments as displacements, inflammation, ulceration, tumors, irregularities, etc.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

His Wife the Hand Laundry.

The hungry tramp told his tale. It touched the kind heart of the lady of the house. He ate the food she gave him and started wearily on his way.

"And how," said she, sympathetically, "did the hand laundry you were managing come to fall on you?"

He glanced around, it might be as if he suspected the dog were within call. Then, passing out and closing the gate, he said: "She quit and went home to her mother."—Kansas City Star.

ECZEMA ITCHED AND BURNED

R. F. D. No. 4, Box 55, Holland, Mich.—"My child's trouble began by getting red and sore around her neck, and her face, behind her ears, under her arms, and different parts of her body were affected. The eczema appeared in a rash first. It was wet and looked as if it was sweaty. It seemed to itch and burn so that she could not sleep or rest. It got so bad at last that behind her ears was one crust or sore so that I had to cut her hair. There was a hard crust covering her neck. She could not have her clothes buttoned at all. I could hardly change her clothes. It caused an awful disfigurement for the time. She would cry when I had to wash her. "We had her treated for some time but without success. I got one cake of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment and I had not used more than half of what I bought when she was all cured." (Signed) Mrs. G. C. Riemersma, Mar. 21, 1914.

FABLES IN SLANG

BY GEORGE ADE

The New Fable of the Same Old Thing, With Improved Trimmings.

Once there was a Husky employed to crack the Whip around a smoky Works that did not offer an attractive Vista from the Car Window, although it blossomed with a fragrant crop of Dividends every time the Directors got together in the Back Room.

Most of the American Workingmen employed in this Hive of Industry came from remote parts of Europe. Each wore his Head entirely in front of his Ears and had taken an Oath to support the Constitution. It was the duty of the Husky to keep these imported Rabbits on the Jump and increase the Output.

He made himself so strong with the big Center Poles that they declared him in every time a Melon was sliced and when it came time to Scramble the Eggs and pull off the grand Whack-Up, he was standing at the head of the Line with a Basket on his Arm.

So it came about that one who started in a Thatched Cottage and grew up on cold Spuds and never saw a Manicure Set until he was 38 years of age, went home one day to find Gold Fish swimming about in every Room and Servants blocking the Hallways.

He had some trouble finding Rings that would go over his Knuckles and the Silk Kind felt itchy for quite a while, but finally he adjusted himself to his new Prosperity and began to deplore the apparent Growth of Socialism.

This rugged and forceful Character, to whom the Muck-Rakers referred as a Baron, had a Daughter who started out as Katie when she carried the Hot Coffee over to Dad every Noon.

When she got her first Chip Diamond and Father switched from the Duesen to Cigars, she was known in High School Circles as Katherine.

And when Pop got in on the main Divvy and began to take an interest in Paintings, the name went down on the Register at the Waldorf as Kathryn, in those peaked Sierra Nevada Letters about four inches high.

Katie used to go to St. Joseph's Hall once in a while with Martin, the Lad who helped around the Grocery.

Katherine regarded with much Favor a Pallid Drug Clerk who acted as a Clearing House for all Local Scandal.

But say, when Kathryn came back from a vine-clad Institute overlooking the historic Hudson and devoted to the embossing and polishing of the Female Progeny of those who have got away with it, she began working the Snuffer on all the Would-Bes back in the Mill Town, and when she got through extinguishing, the little Group that remained looked like the Remnant of the Old Guard at Waterloo.

Father had to stick around because occasionally the eight thousand Good Tempered Boys on the Pay Roll would begin to burn with Wood Alcohol and the Wrongs of Labor and pull off a few Murders, merely to hasten the Triumph of Justice.

By the way, Kathryn had a Mother who used to hide in a room upstairs and timidly inspect her new Silk Dresses.

Kathryn applied the Acid Test to her People and decided that they never could Belong.

She swung on the General Manager for a Letter of Credit big enough to set Ireland free and went trapping off to the Old World under the chaperonage of a New York Lady who had seen Better Days although she still retained her Lorgnette.

Now it will be admitted that William J. Burns is Some Sleuth, but when it comes to apprehending and running to Earth a prattling American Ingenue with a few Millions stuffed in her Reticule, the Boy with the milled Title who sits on the Boulevard all day and dallies with the green and pink Bottled Goods has got it all over Burns like a Striped Awning.

All the starving members of the Up-Against-It Association were waiting at the Dock to cop the prospective Meal Ticket. Not one of them had ever Shaved or Worked, and each wore his Handkerchief inside his Cuff and had Yellow Gloves stitched down the Back and was fully entitled to sit in an Electric Chair and have 80,000 Volts distributed through the Steel Ribs of his Corset.

As soon as Kathryn began to meet the Roqueforts and Camemberts she discovered that they had Lovely Eyes and certainly knew how to treat a Lady.

Kathryn had been brought up on Philadelphia Literature, and even during her most ambitious Social Flights she had encountered the Type of Man who remains on the opposite side of the Room having trouble with his White Gloves.

She never had been against those Willing Performers from Gascony who wore Red Ribbons and Medals and who rushed over to kiss her Hand and then look deep into her Eyes and throb like a Motor Boat.

This class of Work simply shot her Pulse up to 130 and made her think that she was Cleopatra, floating in the Royal Barge and surrounded by crawling Slaves.

When a certain Markee crawled into her Lap and purred into her Ear and threatened to curl up on the Rug and die if she Refused him, she simply keeled over with Excitement.

After she recovered she found herself actually Engaged to the Representative of one of the Oldest Families in the Saucelion District of the Burgoo Province and as manly a Chap as ever borrowed Money from a Toe-Dancer.

She hurried home to keep it out of the Newspapers and to tell those who would listen that American Men were Impossible.

Then the Markee came over with his Solicitor and a Bottle of Chloroform and a full kit of Surgical Instruments, and the Wedding was fully reported by the Associated Press.

The Captain of Industry sized up Son-in-Law and knew that when the Money was gone, the Markee could always get a job hanging up Hats in the Check-Room of a first-class Table D'Hote Restaurant.

From the window of her Chateau in the Burgoo Province the Lady Cashier can see the American Tourists going by in their hired Motor Cars. Her Cheek flushes with Delight when she happens to remember that in another Three Months or so Friend Husband will come home long enough to show her where to sign her Name.

What is more, she has the Privilege of walking out at any time and picking Flowers with the Understanding that she is not to let it be known that she is related to any of her Relatives on either side of the Atlantic.

MORAL: Europeans have a Right to their own Money.

Mexico Rich in Natural Wealth. In natural wealth Mexico is one of the most favored of all the lands of the earth. Its resources are little short of marvelous. In gold, silver, and the various precious stones its possibilities are tremendous. It is rich in petroleum. Its forests are immensely rich. Its agricultural possibilities are scarcely to be estimated, so great are they. In all the elements of natural wealth the country leads all others. As regards climate, Mexico, in its higher regions, is a paradise; and after what was achieved at Panama, it is safe to say that even the coast regions may be made perfectly wholesome and safe.

Excellent German Roads. Great attention is paid by the city of Maderburg, Prussia, to its bicycle roads. One can ride many miles in the country on smooth stretches of road.

And feel your thirst slip away. You'll finish refreshed, cooled, satisfied.

MOST BEAUTIFUL IN WORLD

American Ethnologist Ungallantly Awards Palm to Women of Tehuantepec, Mexico.

Professor Starr, the ethnologist, holds that the native women of Tehuantepec, Mexico, are the handsomest in the world. These women are not like those we usually term Mexican in a broad sense for the latter have, of course, a mixture of Spanish blood which gives them a special type of beauty, but the territory of Tehuantepec retains the old Indian blood which has been kept pure and has resulted in willowy tall maidens, physically perfect, with creamy skins and beautiful eyes. They wear a curious headdress which resembles somewhat a halo of platted gauze in a bright color. Their dresses are bright with color and the richer among them wear a fortune in jewelry, but it is a fitting setting to the type. Superb in carriage, unblemished morally and physically it is no wonder that Doctor Starr is enthusiastic over these Amazons.

Berlin a Seaport.

Germany proceeds steadily with the development of her canal system, and in the near future a number of important extensions will be open for traffic. The Berlin-Oder canal is a noteworthy engineering feat. It starts on the west side of Berlin and runs in a rough semicircle to Oldenberg, where it falls into the river. It is about sixty miles long and has cost something over £2,000,000 to build. It connects the capital of the empire with the greatest Prussian port; it binds Berlin and Stettin. Berlin and Oder have, of course, been united for some considerable time by the Finow canal, but that waterway, with its score of old-fashioned locks, and the fault of narrowness, has long been out of date. The new canal will carry cargo vessels of 800 tons, and that vessels of such size will now go direct from Stettin to Berlin really means the opening of a new epoch in German internal traffic development. It makes Berlin virtually a seaport.

PRIZE FOOD.

Palatable, Economical, Nourishing.

A Nebr. woman has outlined the prize food in a few words, and that from personal experience. She writes:

"After our long experience with Grape-Nuts, I cannot say enough in its favor. We have used this food almost continually for seven years. "We sometimes tried other advertised breakfast foods but we invariably returned to Grape-Nuts as the most palatable, economical and nourishing of all.

"When I quit tea and coffee and began to use Postum and Grape-Nuts, I was almost a nervous wreck. I was so irritable I could not sleep nights, had no interest in life.

"After using Grape-Nuts a short time I began to improve and all these ailments have disappeared and now I am a well woman. My two children have been almost raised on Grape-Nuts, which they eat three times a day.

"They are pictures of health and have never had the least symptom of stomach trouble, even through the most severe siege of whooping cough they could retain Grape-Nuts when all else failed.

"Grape-Nuts food has saved doctor bills, and has been, therefore, a most economical food for us."

Kerosene for the Hands.

Kerosene will clean your hands better than anything else after blacking a range or stove. Pour a little in the water, wash your hands in it, then wash them in tepid water, and finally with plenty of soap and a stiff nail brush in hot water. Finish up by rubbing the hands with lemon juice, rose-water or glycerine.

Howell business men are emphasizing a new line of community interest, which includes the smaller near-by towns. The theory is that the smaller villages within a reasonable radius should be considered just one big neighborhood, and that all should work together for their mutual interest. The first step in the campaign is a series of automobile rides from Howell, the business men going out just to sell upon and get acquainted with the business men in the smaller towns.

It isn't Your Town; It's You

If you want to live in the kind of a town
Like the kind of a town you like,
You needn't slip your clothes in a grip
And start on a long, long hike.

You'll find only what you left behind,
For there's nothing that's really new.
It's a knock at yourself when you knock your town,
It isn't your town—it's you.

Real towns are not made by men afraid
Lest somebody else gets ahead.
When everybody works and nobody shirks
You can raise a town from the dead.

And if while you make your present stake
Your neighbor can make one, too,
Your town will be what you want to see.
It isn't your town—it's YOU.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh, Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. CYCLONE SWEEPS TWO COUNTIES

GREAT DAMAGE TO NORTHERN BRANCH AND SOUTHERN CALHOUN.

$60,000 LOSS AT UNION CITY

Destructive Storm Uproots Orchards, Unroofs Houses and Barns, Destroys Telephone Lines and Levels Crops.

Coldwater, Mich.—A cyclone swept over northern Branch, southwestern Calhoun and northern Hillsdale Friday afternoon shortly after 2 o'clock, uprooting orchards, blowing down barns and destroying telephone lines.

The destruction was especially heavy at Union City, where lightning temporarily crippled the lighting plant and wind unroofed the Peerless Portland Cement company's factory and the Michigan Central freight house. Many dwellings were also unroofed and two barns near town, belonging to Alex McCrary and Herbert Johnson, were blown down. A barn belonging to L. Guilford was struck by lightning and burned.

Corn fields were blown flat and fences were carried away. Whole orchards were uprooted.

In Union City the streets were left an almost impassable tangle of uprooted shade trees and telephone poles. It is considered almost a miracle that no one was injured.

Great damage is also reported from Athens, several miles northwest of Union City in Calhoun county. The lighting plant there was also struck by lightning and disabled.

The storm, which apparently moved toward the southeast, lasted about half an hour and was accompanied by driving rain.

The damage in Union City is at least $60,000 and the damage in the neighborhood and at Athens will raise the total for this vicinity to at least $100,000.

Donald Shoemaker, an employe on the Doubleday farm near Athens, was seriously injured when a team attached to a binder ran away and threw him under a barn, which a few minutes later collapsed under the terrific winds.

Ninety per cent of the barns and sheds in Union township, Branch county, and in Burlington township Calhoun county were ruined.

WILL TEACH BOOKKEEPING

M. A. C. Will Instruct Farmers in Better Business Methods.

East Lansing, Mich.—To make every farmer his own bookkeeper will be the purpose of a special extension course to be established this fall by the Michigan Agricultural college. The effort is to be part of a broad movement contemplated with a view to inducing husbandmen to conduct their farms on a more business-like basis, and the lessons in accounting will be taught in connection with the proposed one-week schools to be held under the auspices of the college in various towns and rural communities throughout the state. Through the medium of the new course the East Lansing institution hopes to make each farm a well-organized business unit.

Lumber Plant Is Burned.

Saginaw, Mich.—The plant of the Bliss & Van Auken Lumber Co. was partly destroyed by fire Thursday night. The loss is estimated at upwards of $50,000. The blaze is believed to have started from a small electric motor which furnished power for the log conveyor. The plant will be rebuilt at once.

The Bliss & Van Auken plant was the first lumber mill built on the Saginaw river, and the last of them to remain in operation.

Change Name of Stag Island.

Port Huron, Mich.—Stag Island, in the St. Clair river, about six miles south of this city, has been purchased by the International Peace Assembly association, and will hereafter be known as DeCoeur island, it being said by its new purchasers that the name "Stag" is indicative of a resort for men only. It is planned to hold annual peace meetings on the island. Special boat service between the island and Detroit and this city and Sarnia, Ont., is being arranged.

TELEGRAPHIC FLASHES

Lottie Crockett, of Leslie, walked in front of a Grand Trunk passenger train in Jackson Monday night and was instantly killed.

BRINGS LIBEL SUIT AGAINST ROOSEVELT

WM. BARNES, JR.

Oyster Bay, N. Y.—Theodore Roosevelt has been served with papers in the $50,000 libel brought against him by Wm. Barnes, Jr., chairman of the New York state republican committee. Col. Roosevelt said he would not be deterred from attacking Mr. Barnes by the suit, but on the contrary would assail him the harder. He expressed the hope that he would have the opportunity to take the stand against Mr. Barnes before election.

BOARD DISAPPROVES PLANS

Limited Liability Policies Will Not be Recognized Hereafter by Compensation Board.

Lansing, Mich.—Since the workmen's compensation law was enacted two years ago there have sprung up in Michigan what are called inter-insurance or reciprocal exchanges. These exchanges operate under power of attorney given them by each employer operating under them.

At the 1913 session of the legislature agents of these exchanges had a law passed authorizing them to write limited insurance policies.

The industrial accident board now officially decides that it will not recognize any of these limited policies on the ground that beneficiaries under the compensation act might, in certain cases, be deprived of a material portion of the money benefits they are entitled to. For illustration: A corporation might take out a limited policy for $10,000 in one of these reciprocal exchanges, which would be as far as its liability would go in any one accident. If the corporation had an accident where the injuries and fatalities were as great as at the Mexican Crude Rubber Co. plant in Detroit a few months ago, and had to settle each case by itself, the cost to the corporation, by the strict terms of the compensation act, would be about $40,000. But, if it had a limited policy of one of the reciprocal exchanges it could not be liable for claims in excess of the face value of its $10,000 policy.

Decides Policemen are Employees.

Lansing, Mich.—The industrial accident board decided Thursday that a city policeman is legally an "employee" and not an "officer" and being an "employee," the city that employs him must pay him compensation if he is injured in line of duty or must pay his dependents if he loses his life on duty. According to the workmen's compensation act, "officers" of corporations, municipal or private, do not come under the act, but only "employees."

Big Fire at Grand Haven.

Grand Haven, Mich.—Fire of unknown origin early Thursday morning destroyed the Grand Trunk elevator and the Manitowoc freight shed here, with an estimated loss of $50,000. The elevator, which was empty, had a capacity of 56,000 bushels. The Grand Trunk car ferry Milwaukee, which was lying at its dock, was scorched, but not badly damaged, and a large quantity of material intended by the railway for a new car ferry slip was burned.

MINISTER GIVEN PASSPORTS

Proposal to Submit Portion of Demands to the Hague for Settlement Not Accepted.

London.—Sunday's developments appear to furnish new proofs that Austria is fully determined to make war on Serbia, and the possibilities of a general European war seem greater than have ever confronted the present generation.

The Serbian reply to the Austro-Hungarian ultimatum concerning the recent assassination of the grand duke and his wife was an acceptance of almost all the imperious demands, except that Austrian officials shall participate in the investigation and fix the responsibility for the anti-Austrian propaganda. Serbia proposed an appeal to the powers at The Hague for the settlement of that feature.

Notwithstanding this humiliating surrender, which was more than Europe expected of the proud little nation, the Austrian government Sunday gave the Serbian minister his passports, which may be construed as a virtual declaration of war.

Austria committed an act of war by arresting the chief of the Serbian general staff, Gen. Putnik, near Budapest, but he was soon released by the emperor's direct command.

A formal declaration of war is not expected because Serbia is not a party to The Hague convention, which requires this. The suspension of all parliamentary and judicial institution has been decreed in Austria and an iron-clad censorship has drawn a cordon of secrecy around the country so that the outside world is in complete ignorance of everything happening there except what the government wants the world to know.

COMPANY IS FINED $10,000

National Cash Register Loses Important Suit in Supreme Court.

Lansing, Mich.—The supreme court Saturday found the National Cash Register Co. guilty of unlawful restraint of trade and fined the concern $10,000.

The company will be restrained from doing business in this state until the fine is paid.

This decision was made by the court in the case of Henry J. James, started in 1909. James, representing the American Cash Register Co., charged that the National Cash Register Co. was violating the anti-trust law, and Attorney General John E. Bird, on this complaint, started action against the Dayton manufacturers.

The court's decision declared that the National Cash Register Co. "has offended by acts of misuser, but the ends of justice will be satisfied by a substantial fine." The defendants must also pay the costs in addition to the fine.

The court took the view that inasmuch as there are from 17,000 to 18,000 users of National cash registers in this state, these business men would be greatly embarrassed if the Ohio company was ousted from Michigan.

Heat Causes Judge to Relent.

Saginaw, Mich.—All of the prisoners sentenced to the city jail Friday were released by Judge H. W. Martin, of the recorder's court, late Saturday night. The judge went to headquarters and said it was so hot in his home that it was uncomfortable and he knew the prisoners must be suffering. There were but three prisoners in the pen. None of them stopped to thank the judge as they left the station, but all of their faces showed plainly that they were appreciative.

ITEMS OF STATE INTEREST

A joint convention of the librarians of Michigan and Wisconsin will be held in Menominee and Marinette Wednesday, July 29. About 200 visitors are expected.

Mrs. Thomas Hill, of Memphis, is dead as a result of injuries received while handling a hay rake. A whiffle tree broke and Mrs. Hill was struck on the body. Mrs. Hill had just taken her daughter's place at driving the team.

HOW TO KEEP FOODS

HINTS FOR THE HOUSEKEEPER WHO HAS NO ICE.

Purchase Perishable Foods in Smaller Quantities and More Frequently—A Little Intelligent Care All That is Necessary.

The care of foods in the home is a problem that has solved itself to some extent in the last decade. At least, it is not so serious a question as it was, for the food supply is more easily reached by both city and village dwellers daily. This allows purchasing perishable foods in smaller quantities and more frequently where one has no refrigerator.

Ice is one of our greatest blessings in summer weather and cool running water or a cool basement is in the same class. After once having these comforts it seems as though it would not be possible to do without them. Yet there are thousands of women who have kept house for years and never have had ice or a basement for cooling and preserving food. It is not economy to do without these things, but it is good to know that it can be done.

Some foods have better keeping qualities than others; with meat, lamb, veal, young chickens and fish are most troublesome to keep.

If meat is to be kept any length of time it should be well cooked, as this destroys all germs and bacteria. After it is cooked it must be kept so no more can reach it by being closely covered. However, it must not be absolutely air tight and it must not be covered until it is quite cool. As often as any of the meat is used it should all be heated, as this heating is really the best preservative.

The best receptacle to keep any food in is unglazed crockery. Lettuce, radishes and such fresh vegetables should be wrapped in heavy, wet paper and placed in a wet, empty flower pot with a cover over it.

Milk will keep sweet longer in a large vessel than in a small one. The best way to keep it without ice is to pour it into an unglazed, wide dish or crock and cover it over with a sheet of cotton. This cotton permits the air to reach the milk, but keeps out all impurities. Set the crock in cold water in the coolest spot you can find.

Almost everything can be canned now, and this is the best means of saving left-over fruits.

Where you have a cellar, but no ice, keep it cool by airing it for an hour every morning, and then, before the sun grows hot, close it as tightly as possible. See that it is well screened from flies and clean and sweet as it can be made.

If you have no cellar, but have a yard, look for a shaded place, and have a hole dug there and walled with unglazed brick. Fit this with a trap door, and inside place a sink or sheet iron box with a close cover. In this you can place a crock of butter, a dozen or two of eggs and a pot of cream and keep them reasonably cool. Such a receptacle is called a "camp-box."

If you live within reach of ice, by all means try to have a refrigerator, for you can save the cost of ice and its container many times over by buying food in quantities. Many neighbors share their iceboxes, and this is sensible co-operation. If you plan to do that, have a refrigerator with two food compartments and the ice well in the center. Place it in the basement or on the back porch so each can use it without intruding on the privacy of the other.

Blackberry Jelly.

In making blackberry jelly it is a good plan to have one-third of the juice from barberries or rhubarb, and the other two-thirds from blackberries. The sugar should be in the same proportion as for strawberry jelly.

Baked Egg With Cheese.

Make a cream sauce, season and pour half into a baking dish. Break in four eggs. Stir a tablespoonful of cheese into remaining sauce, pour over the top and bake, standing the dish in another containing hot water. Bake 15 minutes.

Sandwich to Serve With Tea.

Spread wheat bread with mayonnaise dressing and chopped stuffed olives on one place, cream cheese and the dressing on the other, then fold together.

Plaster Statues.

Plaster statues can be cleaned by making an ordinary cooked starch, as if for the laundry, only not quite so stiff. While it is still hot, cover the whole of the cast with it; set aside for a day or so and then peel off the starch. If the statue is badly soiled may need a second application.—National Magazine.

To Take Out Stains.

To remove obstinate stains from hardwood floors, rub them with a cloth wet with turpentine.

Artistic Temperament Cured.

It will be news to many of her myriads of admirers to hear that that noble artist, Titiens "used to suffer from a bad temper, and in these outbursts she felt a strong desire to smash anything that came handy." How Titiens was ultimately cured of the habit Mr. Ganz relates in his reminiscences: "She was sitting at supper after a concert in a provincial town when the manager made some remark which annoyed her. As usual, she took the first thing that came to hand, a soda water bottle, and flung it at him." The manager was sitting at the table with his back to the window. The bottle missed him, smashed through the window and "nearly killed a casual passerby. This, said Titiens, gave her such a shock that she was completely cured of her falling."—Pall Mall Gazette.

CHEAPEST MILK PRODUCER "MALT SUGAR GRAINS"

[DISTILLER'S BY-PRODUCT]

Composed of Barley, Corn and Malt Grains. Contains no screenings, or foul stuff of any kind. A clean, wholesome, safe feed, thoroughly cooked and highly digestible.

Contains twice as much protein as wheat bran—six times more than corn meal. Protein 20 to 25 per cent, Fat 6 to 12 per cent.

Malt Sugar Grains are a bulky feed, and can be used to lighten up the heaviest feeds, the same as bran. Can be used alone as a grain ration, or combined with any other feed desired.

In a feed test at one of Ohio's big dairy farms the highest milk record was made with Malt Sugar Grains. The owner of the farm is now a car lot buyer.

W. J. Mann, Dairyman, Jackson, increased the milk production of his whole herd nearly three quarts per cow per day on a 10 day's milk test with Malt Sugar Grains.
