The Great Contest Is Well Under Way

Increasing Interest Manifested by the Many Contestants
Already in the Field

Time Will Show Which are the Live Ones

Judging from the interest that has been manifested in the great prize voting contest so far there is going to be a great scramble for the $10 in gold to be given to the contestant having the largest number of votes on August 21. The special prize is worth winning and the contestants realize the fact.

The contest is an assured fact. There has never been a contest in this locality where more or better prizes have been offered, or a more strict adherence to justice and equity to all participants. The Dispatch desires to emphasize the point that every contestant will be afforded an absolute fair deal.

The name of the judges will be announced soon. Bear in mind the merchants who are giving coupons with every dollar purchased.

Monks Bros.
W. W. Barnard
People Hardware Co.
Mrs. A. M. Utley
C. G. Meyer
Dinkel & Dunbar

When you trade at these stores be sure and ask for coupons. Every one little piece of paper bearing 25 votes may win some friend of yours the beautiful Obermayer & Sons piano.

Get your friends to subscribe for the Dispatch. For each one year new subscription you will receive 600 votes; renewals for one year, 500; for each one year back subscription 400 votes.

There is already a large list of contestants, but there is opportunity to nominate others. Fill out the nominating blank and send it to this office. Also cut out the vote coupon and cast it for your favorite. In order that every contestant may fully understand the votes during the contest, the Dispatch wishes to state that the contestant having the largest number of votes during the contest will be awarded the piano as first prize; the one having the next largest number of votes will have the second prize, and so on until all the prizes have been distributed.

Use the free coupon in this issue. If you know of any lady who has not been nominated and whom you think would make a good one, use the nominating blank in this issue and send her name to this office, or bring it in in person and it will be entered. It matters not if she be single or married. This is a popular voting contest, not necessarily a young lady voting contest. Read the rules and regulations on inside page and govern yourself accordingly. Some one is going to receive these prizes and you can help decide who it will be.

The first count in the contest will be on Friday, August 21, at which time $10 in gold will be awarded to the contestant receiving the largest number of votes.

These are the names of the contestants who have been nominated. They are authorized to accept money for subscriptions to the Dispatch and give receipt therefor.

Get busy and vote for your choice. The contest will be conducted squarely and no partiality will be shown. Do it now and help some one reap the benefits of this liberal offer.

The nominations so far made are as follows:

VOTE FOR _____

AUGUST 6, 1914.

Laura Bargeas spent the past week at Whitmore Lake.

J. J. Donohue and Nellie spent Sunday at the home of Mrs. A. Harris.

Ambrose Murphy and Fr. Coyle spent last Wednesday in Ann Arbor.

Mrs. A. Monks and Mrs. J. Roobe spent last Thursday in Stockbridge.

Mr. and Mrs. Dink... Windsor, Ont., spent the day at the home of T. Sheban.

Mrs. B. S. Swarthout of Elm is visiting at the home of her sister Mrs. C. Lynch.

W. Coffrey of Kansas City, Mo., is visiting at the home of his sister Mrs. L. A. Devereaux.

Mrs. Patrick Farnam and grand-daughter Catherine of Detroit are at the home of her son...

Summer Constipation Dangerous

Constipation in summer time is more dangerous than in the fall, winter or spring. The food you eat is often contaminated and is more likely to ferment in your stomach. Then you are apt to drink much cold water during the hot weather, thus injuring your stomach. Colic, fever, ptomaine poisoning and other ills are natural results. Fo-Do-Lax will keep you well, as it increases the bile, the natural laxative, which rids the bowels of the congested poisonous waste. Fo-Do-Lax will make you feel better. Pleasant and effective. Take a dose to-night. 50c at your druggist.

Village Tax Notice

The village tax roll for the year 1914 is now in my hands for collection. Fred Swarthout, Village Treasurer

Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Brady and Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Sherman, and children of Detroit motored to Pinckney Saturday. They were guests of Mrs. Brady's aunt, Mrs. Blunt over Sunday. Mrs. Brady will spend the week here.

Gregory

Jas. Stackable, our new postmaster, took possession Monday, August 3rd and will soon move the office in the north room of the H. A. Fick building which was recently purchased by F. A. Howlett. Mr. Howlett will have his bank in the large front room, when necessary improvements are made.

Dr. Waltz and family of Peoria, Ill., are visiting his sister, Mrs. Geo. Marshall.

E. J. Howe and wife of Lansing visited at the home of S. A. Denton one day last week.

W. W. Willard has rented his building to Dick Brearley.

Geo. Marshall and wife of N. Stockbridge spent Sunday with their son, Howard Marshall and wife.

Last Saturday evening Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Denton and Mr. and Mrs. Whitaker attended the grand opera "Martha", rendered by the Denton Opera Co. at Ypsilanti.

F. A. Howlett has sold his general merchandise stock to Howard Marshall.

Mrs. Celers and daughter of Ind., are guests at the home of her sister, Mrs. Willmer Crossman.

Harry Jacobs and family are visiting relatives in Northville.

Summer Coughs are Dangerous

Summer colds are dangerous. They indicate low vitality and often lead to serious throat and lung troubles, including consumption. Dr. King's New Discovery will relieve the cough or cold promptly and prevent complications. It is soothing and antiseptic and makes you feel better at once. To delay is dangerous—get a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery at once. Money back if not satisfied. 50c and $1.00 bottles at your druggist. adv.

Mr. and Mrs. I. Kennedy of Milwaukee, Wis., are visiting at the home of E. W. Kennedy.

Infectious and Insect Bites Dangerous

Mosquitoes, flies and other insects, which breed quickly in garbage piles, ponds or stagnant water, barns, musty places, etc., are carriers of disease. Every time they bite you, they inject poison into your system from which some dread disease may result. Get a bottle of Sloan's Liniment. It is antiseptic and a few drops will neutralize the infection caused by insect bites or rusty nails. Sloan's Liniment disinfects cuts, bruises and sores. You cannot afford to be without it in your home. Money back if not satisfied. Only 25c at your druggist. adv.

Monuments

If you are contemplating getting a monument, marker, or anything for the cemetery, see or write

TRACES WAR TO A CLASH OF TONGUES

Professor Dorsey of Chicago Field Museum Finds Austria's Attitude Sequel to Pan-German Versus Pan-Slav—Content, He Says, Not Economic but Psychologic.

Nations Are Now, as Ever in the Past, Divided by Language—Source of Trouble Is That Political Boundaries Are Not Coterminous With Linguistic Groups.

(George A. Dorsey, Curator of Ethnology, Field Museum, in the Chicago Herald.)

An orphaned mongrel cur having for the first time in 500 years got enough spunk up to take his tail from between his legs, begins to wag it and feel growing pains. Along comes a great big dog and says:

"Put that tail down—and gimme that bone."

We see this sort of thing nearly every day.

Once upon a time little old Serbia was an empire and very nearly overcame the Byzantine empire, which probably would have changed the whole of European history. There might have been no Turkey in Europe.

That was in the fourteenth century, under the mighty Dushan.

Explains Austria's Action.

Serbia is now a poor, wretched little peasant kingdom—out half as big as Illinois in size, with less people than the city of New York.

And now the house of Hapsburg would wipe little Serbia off the map!

Even though the process involve more lives and money than any war of any time!

That is the life. You or I in the house of Hapsburg's shoes would do the same thing. It is the law of existence. Nature works today as in the stone age or when saber-toothed tiger fought the mastodon.

Why does Austria-Hungary, the Dual Monarchy, want poor peasant Serbia? Hasn't the Dual Monarchy, with its internal babel of confusion, enough trouble already?

Why Others Are Interested.

Suppose the Dual Monarchy does want Serbia, what is it to Russia?

Suppose Russia does object, what is it to Germany? Suppose Germany objects to Russia's objecting, what business is it to France—or of England? Supremacy.

Balance of power. Human nature. Life.

I propose to analyze this whole situation. And right here let us clearly recognize the fact—two facts:

The contest is not economic but psychological in its fundamental nature; psychologic laws are not economic laws.

To put it another way, the desires which lead to action in eastern Europe are not based on Christian ethics or rational procedure, but on certain thoughts.

Things are what we think they are; and thinking depends on the point of view.

Illustrating the Point.

Germanism vs. Pan-Slavism. If we understand this, we have traveled a long way. Let me give an illustration:

Vienna, an important city of Austria, is a city where I would get a better in shops and other things than in any English first. Of course, English is not generally understood in Vienna, but German is. We speak of German as the language of Austria, and proud as the capital of Bohemia was once, Vienna has the purpose of a German city, and new tries to forget, and won't let you forget if she can possibly help it.

In Vienna, all the term pan-Germanism stands for a movement which seeks the common welfare of the Germanic peoples of Europe at the expense of pan-Slavism or common question of Tongues.

Can you understand the significance of these two movements we speak of—the "Nationalism" and "Pan-Slavism"? It is some-question either of tongues, or of fundamental

Before flags and religions men knew friend from foe by the language test. More than half of the wars of Europe have been fought by parties mutually unintelligible.

Broadly speaking, all European languages belong to the Aryan group. The most important exception is the Magyar, a dialect of the same language spoken by Turks and Finns.

How Divided by Language.

Of the Aryan tongue there are three great general divisions in Europe—Romance, Teutonic, Slavic. We are interested only in the latter two. And of the Teutonic German is spoken by 80,000,000, of which 10,000,000 are in Austria and 2,000,000 in Hungary. There are 140,000,000 Slavs in Europe.

From this it appears that the present political boundaries are not coterminous with linguistic groups.

Right here in this fact we have the seed of present and future trouble and a clue to the cause of most of the wars in eastern Europe; through 2,000 years.

Slav Situation in Europe.

To get before us the full significance of the fact suggested by the map let us consider the linguistic complexion of these countries.

Russia is a veritable hodgepodge of tongues, but of her Slav population alone we have at least two distinct elements today bitterly opposed to each other, with the possibility, if not the probability, of a third, which will seek recognition.

As against Russians proper there are over 10,000,000 Poles, and of the remaining Slavs there are 8,000,000 Ruthenians, or Little of White-Russians, as they are sometimes called. Of the general Polish situation I shall speak later.

In Germany there are over 3,000,000 Slavs, chiefly Polish. Of Austria's 30,000,000 population only about a third is German, the remainder being Slav, of which there are over 6,000,000 Czechs or Bohemians, 5,000,000 Poles, 3,500,000 Ruthenians, and a million and a quarter Slovenes.

Many Tongues in Hungary.

Hungary is even more diversified in tongue. The Magyar element (10,000,000) is equaled by the non-Magyar made up roughly of 2,000,000 Germans, 2,000,000 Slovaks, one-half a million Ruthenians, 3,000,000 Serbo-Croates, all of the Slavonic tongue, and about 3,000,000 Roumanians who do not speak Slav at all, but a Romance language.

We need not here consider the linguistic affinities of the Balkan states. It is enough to say that Serbia is purely Servian and Slav, Bulgaria is Bulgarian and Slav (though the basis of blood of Bulgars is, like that of the Magyar, Asiatic).

The population of Montenegro, about half a million, are Slavs of the Servian branch. Roumanians are of mixed origin, but the Roumanian tongue is spoken by 12,000,000 people, of which five and a half million are in Roumania (92 per cent of its total population), the remaining millions are found in the Dual Monarchy, Serbia, Bulgaria and Russia.

People Develop Languages.

Millions of people today speak Polish whose ancestors a few generations ago weren't conscious of the fact that they spoke any language at all. Today there is a Slavonic literature; 50 years ago no one even thought of such a thing. The millions of Bohemians had become almost entirely Germans, and never before have they been so thoroughly Slavonic as today.

Bohemian hostility to Germany has been called a passion. It was not so very long ago that the language of the Hungarian parliament was Latin; Magyar was held fit only for peasant talk. Today the bitterness between Magyar and Slav is as strong as between German and Pole.

A few years ago there was no consciousness in Galicia of linguistic distinction between Poles and Ruthenians; Ruthenian peasants were content to remain serfs of Polish nobility. There was no Ruthenian literature; Ruthenian was not a polite language. Today there are distinguished scholars who seek to found a Ruthenian university.

Rouses National Spirit.

And this brings us to a strange and interesting phenomenon that has swept across Europe, now even around the world, in the last half century; the rise of a linguistic consciousness, which in so many instances has sought expression in statehood.

Primitive man knew his enemy as one of strange tongue, and language was the basis of social organization.

That was the condition in Europe till Greece, and later Rome, began the game of conquest.

The holy Roman empire gathered these diverse savage hordes under a single government, but never into a homogeneous state.

The modern empires of Germany, Russia, Austria have continued the old game. And the tendency to centralize and build up even larger empires grows apace on the one hand, with the other tendency equally strong for the diverse elements of these modern states to resolve themselves into ancient tribal elements, based on linguistic lines.

Trouble in Barring Language.

And the whole trouble is due to the fact that European statesmen were not far-sighted enough to know that often the easiest way to get something is by pretending you don't want it.

The Polish language was never so dear to the Poles of the kingdom as when Russia forbade its use in public places and for public purposes.

The sympathies of the Roumanians of Hungary are not so much with the flag of their country, or their loyalty so much for the emperor of the Dual Monarchy as for the flag and the king of Roumania.

The case of Poland is probably familiar to all. It is enough here to recall that by a process of dismemberment, which took place about 100 years ago, the ancient and honorable kingdom of Poland, which had had a long and illustrious career, ceased to exist.

Lion's Share to Russia.

The greater part of the kingdom fell to the lot of Russia, with the ancient Polish city of Warsaw as its center.

A smaller portion fell into the hands of Austria, and today forms the province of Galicia, with its two important cities, Lemberg and Cracow.

A still smaller portion, with Posen as its center, passed into German hands.

Russian Poland was permitted to have a constitution of its own from 1815 to 1831, and its own government till 1864, at which time it quite lost its administrative independence. Four years later its government was absolutely incorporated with that of Russia, and the Polish language was denied a legal existence.

Coercion Causes Discontent.

Possibly Russia governs Poland better than the Poles could have governed it themselves. It is conceivable that in the substitution of the Russian for the Polish language (and the two are closely allied) the Poles would have little, if anything, to lose.

It is quite within the bounds of imagination to believe that Poland as a part of Russia could participate in a much larger world than could have been possible to her had she remained Poland.

But it is contrary to human nature to be coerced; it is contrary to human nature to be compelled to give up that to which we have become habituated.

The Poles of Russia naturally have been discontented. They have not been satisfied with their representation in the Russian duma; they are dissatisfied with Russia's treatment of the Jewish question in the kingdom.

Russia's efforts at repression not only double but redouble Polish effort to gain recognition, to win freedom. There are millions of Poles who dream of and hope for a reunited, free, and independent kingdom of Poland.

"Dull! I should say it was," replied Bates; "it's been so dull I've been refusing to sell alcohol all night, thinking it was Sunday."—New York Tribune.

UNSIGHTLY PIMPLES ON FACE

New Sharon, Iowa.—"Two or three years ago pimples began to come on my face and I had dandruff. The pimples made a very unsightly appearance. They were red and numerous, some came to a head and festered and the itching caused me to scratch them. The dandruff on my head could be plainly seen.

"I tried several remedies but they only temporarily relieved me. I had been bothered with the trouble two or three years when I decided to try Cuticura Soap and Ointment. So I sent for a free sample and I noticed relief from them, and I bought more. I used two cakes of Cuticura Soap and two boxes of Cuticura Ointment and am now free from pimples and dandruff." Way the Moon Changes.

It was the tenth week after the honeymoon. The great round moon rolled up above the trees.

"Jack," she said, romantically, "do you remember how the moon used to affect you when you were calling on me? Why, every time it went under a cloud you used to kiss me. You don't do it now."

"No," yawned Jack, as he lit his pipe, "the moon affects the tides, but not the tides. The honeymoon ends all moon nonsense."

And then she said he was the meanest man in town and went over to call on the neighbors.

FOUR NATIONS ARE ENGAGED IN GREAT EUROPEAN WAR

Germany Mobilizes Troops and Declares War on Russia

ARMY OF KAISER INVADES FRENCH SOIL ON SUNDAY

News of Great Conflict is Fragmentary Owing to Strict Censorship Maintained By Nations Involved.

Paris—With Count Von Schoen, the German ambassador, still in Paris, Germany began hostilities against France Sunday and at 6 o'clock messages from the east reported cannonading in the direction of Longwy.

Previous messages, however, said the invasion of French territory by German troops was at Longlaville village, which has 800 inhabitants and is near Longwy, and at Bertrambois, a village of 1,000 inhabitants, near Cirey Sur Vezouze in the department of Meurthe Et Moselle.

At the same time the important customs station at Petit Croix, six miles from Belfort was shelled by German troops.

A train filled with troops arrived in Luxembourg Sunday morning and the government of the Grand duchy is now in the hands of the German military authorities, who have installed headquarters at the government house. All railroads and telegraphic communication was immediately cut off.

News of the progress of hostilities is vague and conflicting, owing to the severe censorship everywhere imposed.

From the Russo-German frontier come reports that Russians invaded Germany near Schwinden.

Serbia, the original cause of the upheaval, seems to have been almost lost sight of. The Austrians, according to reports from Nish, have virtually ceased operations against Serbia in order to meet the greater danger in Russia.

Montenegro has mobilized to assist Serbia and is reported to be bombarding Cattaro, in Dalmantia.

It would appear that Germany is taking the fullest possible advantage of her supposed superiority in rapid mobilization over France. The plan of the German emperor, according to military observers here, is to vanquish France in the interval before Russia will be able to create serious trouble on her northern frontier.

It is supposed that Russia mobilization will take about three weeks.

First Battle in Air.

Brussels—The first conflict in the air in history was waged Sunday night over the little village of Toul. At sunset the villagers were sent into a panic by the air of a monster Zeppelin dirigible hovering above them.

It was momentarily expected that the war airship would drip bombs into the village and excitement ran high when a French military aviator got out his machine and rose to a great height above the Zeppelin and began riddling it with bullets.

The huge air craft fell to the ground and in descending the French aviator lost control of his monoplane, fell and was instantly killed.

To Finance Marooned Americans.

Washington—The state department Sunday evolved a scheme for financing Americans who have been marooned abroad.

Announcement was made by Secretary of State Bryan Sunday night that the department will accept deposits of cash to be placed to the credit of Americans in Europe. Consular and diplomatic agents of the United States will thereupon be instructed to issue to Americans thus provided with a credit at Washington, cash to the amount of credits deposited.

If consuls are unable to obtain cash to deliver to the Americans thus provided for, they will issue a special certificate guaranteed by the United States government to be offered as legal tender. Mr. Bryan is of the opinion that in cases where actual cash is not obtainable by the American officials abroad, these certificates will answer the purpose admirably and will be accepted generally in payment for food, lodging and transportation. Approval of this plan was voiced by bankers in Washington.

German Mobilizes Her Troops.

Berlin—Events in the European crisis developed Saturday with startling rapidity. The German ultimatum to Russia, demanding that Russia cease the mobilization of her army,

DECLARES WAR ON THE CZAR

KAISER WILHELM.

expired at noon and at 5:15 p. m. the German emperor signed a mobilization order.

At 7:30 p. m. the German ambassador at St. Petersburg, Count Von Pourtales, delivered a declaration of war in the name of his government to the Russian government and the entire staff of the embassy left St. Petersburg immediately.

Although after the warlike speeches delivered by the German emperor and the imperial chancellor at Berlin on Friday, no other result could be expected, hopes that the dread event might be averted had been raised by the intervention of King George of England in St. Petersburg and the fact that the German reichstag was not to be convened until Tuesday. Hence the actual declaration of war had not been expected for another day or two.

Now the die is cast and Europe is to be plunged into a general war, which has been the apprehension of European statesmen for generations. Mobilization orders to the German army affected 5,000,000 men and a similar number were under arms in Russia.

The German emperor and his advisers have maintained to the last that they made supreme efforts for the sake of peace and that the last of the series of earnest appeals from Emperor William to Emperor Nicholas was a telegram repudiating responsibility for the calamity threatening the world, on the ground that while Germany was engaged in mediating with Austria-Hungary at Russia's request, Russia by her general mobilization, was threatening Germany's safety.

The first shots in the Russo-German war were exchanged between patrols Saturday afternoon near Prostken, 120 miles to the southeast of Konigsberg. There was no bloodshed, however.

FRENCH SOCIALIST KILLED

Jean Leon Juarez is Shot By Student in Paris Who is Thought Crazy.

Paris—Jean Leon Juarez, leader of the Socialist wing in the chamber of deputies and editor of L'Humanite, was assassinated Friday night as he sat down to dine in the Croissant, a famous restaurant near the Bourse.

The man who shot him down is Raoul Vilain, 29 years old, and a student at the Archaeological school. His mother has been a lunatic for years and he himself is known as a crank. He is a member of the Parti Sillonist, which is hostile to the Camelots du Roi.

His only explanation for his act was that in opposing the three years' military service measure introduced by Premier Viviani, the Socialist had shown himself an enemy of his country and it was necessary that some one put him out of the way. He did not resist arrest and went quietly to the police. For some time he refused to identify himself.

ITEMS OF STATE INTEREST

A memorial archway over Military street, at the southern limits of the city, to commemorate the centenary of peace and the establishment of Old Fort Gratiot, is planned by citizens of Port Huron.

John Davison, 74, a veteran of the civil war, walked in front of a Pere Marquette switch engine at Grand Rapids as he was pushing a wheelbarrow of ice along the road and was instantly killed.

Trees and shrubs in public parks and in school house yards at Port Huron have been found to be infested with San Jose scale, and many have been cut down and burned to avoid a spread of the scale.

FAMILY SECRETS.

A pretty governess was remonstrating with her young hopeful, aged eight, on the ground of his incorrigible laziness, endeavoring to impress him with the seriousness of his offense.

"You must remember also, Harry," she continued, "that you've got to work while you're young if you want to be a successful man when you grow up. Look at your father, for instance. Why do you think he stays late in his office three or four hours every week?"

"D'you know, Miss Jones?" he exclaimed.

"Of course I do," she replied. "Well," he muttered, as he drove his hands deeper into his pockets, "you keep it to yourself. If mother got to know there'd be a nice old row."

Soul and Sole.

"Good night, my sweet; farewell, my love; my soul goes out to thee. But time is speeding fast, my love, and I must quickly flee! 'Tis but a few short hours, my love, and you must think of me, till we meet again tomorrow, love—my soul goes out to thee!"

Thus spoke a lover to his lass. Deep in her eyes gazed he. Now, one fond kiss, one fond embrace—how sweet it was of thee!

Oh, horror! Then her pa appeared. "What means this, sir?" said he. Then, with an angry snarl, he roared: "My sole goes out to thee!"

Unwhitewashable.

"If some of these financiers keep telling on one another they'll all end with the character that Cal Clay gave the deacon."

The speaker was Gifford Pinchot. He resumed: "Cal Clay was a witness in behalf of the deacon, who was up for chicken stealing."

"Calhoun, my man," the lawyer said, "what do you know of the deacon's character?"

"Hit am unbleachable, sah," Cal replied.

Permission Granted.

"When may I expect you to pay me what you owe me?"

"At any time when you are optimistic."

A Girl Just Can't Help Admiring a Young Man Who Flirts with Her.

There would be more perfectly honest people in the world if it wasn't so easy to separate a fool from his money.

Expert Testimony.

"They say," declared Brown, "that twins are always alike in disposition—do the same things at the same time. How is it, Jones?"

"All I can say," replied Jones, the father of twin babies, "is that I wish mine would sleep at the same time."

The "Password."

At an eastern military academy the night guard heard a noise. "Halt! Who goes there?" he called, in accordance with army regulations. It was another student, bent on midnight frolic, and he answered, "Moses."

This frivolous and utter disregard of military rule brought back the command, the guard probably suspecting the other's identity, "Advance, Moses, and give the Ten Commandments."

Was Positive Proof.

Some little uptown boys were playing "Judge," a game invented by the daddy of two of the boys. They think it's lots of fun. One of the boys in the game impersonates a judge, another the district attorney, another a criminal, while others are the foreman of the jury, a policeman, a jailer and the attorney for the defense. Any that remain are jurymen. After one of the youngsters commits a "crime" he is arrested and brought to trial with all the legal formalities the children can remember.

This time one of the youngsters was supposed to have killed another, but he protested his innocence vigorously. Then up rose the "victim."

"Of course you did it!" he said. "Can't you see I'm dead?"—New York Tribune.

Family Secrets.

A pretty governess was remonstrating with her young hopeful, aged eight, on the ground of his incorrigible laziness, endeavoring to impress him with the seriousness of his offense.

"You must remember also, Harry," she continued, "that you've got to work while you're young if you want to be a successful man when you grow up. Look at your father, for instance. Why do you think he stays late in his office three or four hours every week?"

"D'you know, Miss Jones?" he exclaimed.

"Of course I do," she replied. "Well," he muttered, as he drove his hands deeper into his pockets, "you keep it to yourself. If mother got to know there'd be a nice old row."

Soul and Sole.

"Good night, my sweet; farewell, my love; my soul goes out to thee. But time is speeding fast, my love, and I must quickly flee! 'Tis but a few short hours, my love, and you must think of me, till we meet again tomorrow, love—my soul goes out to thee!"

Thus spoke a lover to his lass. Deep in her eyes gazed he. Now, one fond kiss, one fond embrace—how sweet it was of thee!

Oh, horror! Then her pa appeared. "What means this, sir?" said he. Then, with an angry snarl, he roared: "My sole goes out to thee!"

Unwhitewashable.

"If some of these financiers keep telling on one another they'll all end with the character that Cal Clay gave the deacon."

The speaker was Gifford Pinchot. He resumed: "Cal Clay was a witness in behalf of the deacon, who was up for chicken stealing."

"Calhoun, my man," the lawyer said, "what do you know of the deacon's character?"

"Hit am unbleachable, sah," Cal replied.

Permission Granted.

"When may I expect you to pay me what you owe me?"

"At any time when you are optimistic."

An Ounce of Prevention

Most people who enjoy a frequent drink of beer or liquor fail to realize its weakening effect on the kidneys.

Kidney weakness sets up backache, headache, rheumatic pain, nervousness, and disorders of the urine and if neglected leads to dropsy, gravel, and Bright's disease. In the early stages kidney weakness can be corrected. Doan's Kidney Pills tone and strengthen weak kidneys and are used with success all over the civilized world. There's no other kidney remedy so well recommended.

A Michigan Case

Peter Loucks, retired farmer, Leclaire St., Frankfort, Mich., says: "Hard work, exposure brought on backache and gravel and for months I was miserable. Mornings, I was so lame and tired, I could hardly get up and I had to use an instrument to help me pass the kidney secretions. My back ached terribly and so did my head. Doan's Kidney Pills helped me as soon as I took them and six boxes cured me."

Gregory E. McCluskey spent several days recently at the home of his parents, having completed a full business course at Cleary's, Ypsilanti.

Dr. Byron Defendorf of Chelsea will visit Pinckney on Friday, Aug. 7, for optical work. He will be at the Pinckney Hotel and persons in need of this kind of work should call and see him. adv.

The Fowlerville Review celebrated its fortieth anniversary last week. Editor Adams has always published a clean newspaper standing for the best interests of Fowlerville and vicinity. Here's wishing him many more years of success.

The great piece of "bunk" going the rounds of the country press is that the rural carriers are soon to have their routes increased to 50 miles, their salaries raised to $1,800, and will have to buy an auto. If the average country printer would stop to think that six months of the year in Michigan are winter and the roads are what Sherman said about war they would have spotted that piece of news as auto gossip from the start.—South Lyon Herald.

Every train for the past two days has brought guests for the home-coming. Weather permitting, this will be the best home-coming Pinckney has ever held. At the last moment a balloon ascension has been arranged for, to take place after the ball game Thursday afternoon. Everyone seems to be looking forward to a good time shaking hands with boyhood and girlhood friends in the old home town. A feeling of good fellowship prevails at such a time.

Stephen Aldrich of Howell was a Pinckney visitor Friday.

Wm. Dunbar transacted business in Howell last Friday.

If Woodrow Wilson is loyal to his friends he will buy one of those Ford automobiles.

Rev. J. W. Mitchell and wife were attending camp-meeting at Eaton Rapids last week.

Blanche Martin attended the home-coming at Stockbridge as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Lantis.

The Livingston County Association of Ex. Soldiers and Sailors will hold its annual reunion at Howell, Friday, August 14.

Fowlerville Fair will have a new addition to its floral hall this year, also a new poultry building. Their fair dates are October 6-9.

Rev. Ostrander is entertaining his son, Master Claude, of Flint, for several days. They have taken a number of long hikes across country.

South Lyon is making a grand success of its Saturday night band concerts and athletic sports. South Lyon is wide awake and ever forging to the front.

Miss Agnes McCluskey having finished a stenographers course at Joliet, Ill., is spending her vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward McCluskey.

Jay Everett, a venerable citizen of Chelsea, crossed the Isthmus of Panama in 1852 in company with Michael Heydlauff of Waterloo and Henry Weir of Manchester. This was before the building of the railroad in that district.

The state fair authorities have sent the Dispatch office a limited number of admittance tickets that we are at liberty to sell at 35c each or three for a dollar in the advance sale. This sale must close the week before the fair begins at Detroit, Monday September 7. They are the regular 50c admittance tickets but in the advance sale go at 35 cents or three for a dollar. 324

A man who goes to see a girl twice a week, and takes her to places, is legally engaged to her according to a recent decision, whether he says anything to her about marriage or not, and she could recover damages for breach of promise. Young men have a habit of loafing around a girl's house for years and then drifting off without a word of marriage. While a young man is loafing about a girl's house he probably keeps someone away who would talk business. Some of our "mashers" might do well to take warning.

C. L. Cook of Howell discovered one of the army worms which are causing such wide spread damage thruout the state in his garden yesterday afternoon. He brought the worm up town and showed it to a number of people. The worm had made an attack on a squash vine in his garden and had almost completely destroyed it. It was about an inch and a half in length and about as large around as a lead pencil. Persons having vegetable gardens or growing crops of any kind had better keep an eye on them for reports from all portions of the state show the terrible ravages which they are making.—Livingston Tidings. It is reported that the army worms devoured a field of oats on the Conklin farm in White Oak and they have made their appearance in Iosco.

Miss Mae Kennedy is visiting relatives at Niagara Falls.

Chester Erewell of Toledo was drowned in Devil's Basin at Lakeland Sunday afternoon. His body has not as yet been recovered. As far as anyone can remember this is the first drowning which has ever occurred at Lakeland.

The biggest thing that has ever taken place in Howell will be the Chautauqua, beginning on Saturday, August 15 and lasting five days. Only $1.50 for a season ticket, including a program consisting of lectures, music and art. The Sunday program will be modified to suit the day.

Mrs. Jacob Bowers and daughter Mrs. Geo. Leoffler spent one day last week with Ed. Bowers in Ann Arbor. Mr. Bowers has just returned from an extended European tour. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Bowers of this place and was on his way to Pinckney when met at Lakeland by his sister and mother and they all returned to Ann Arbor for the day.

R. D. Roche and L. E. Howlett, attorneys at Howell have started a suit for William F. Schrotzberger and wife against Dr. Daniel A. McLaughlin of Detroit for the sum of ten thousand dollars for alleged false misrepresentations and fraud. The trouble grew out of the purchase of the old Nancy Beebe farm in Putnam township by Schrotzberger from Dr. McLaughlin. When Supervisor James Harris was taking the assessment of Putnam township he marked this farm at $4500 but upon consideration he decided he had made it a little high and asked Mr. Schrotzberger about it. The ensuing conversation brought out the real condition of affairs and led Mr. Schrotzberger to seek redress, he having signed a contract to pay $15,375 for the farm and personal property with six per cent interest. He had traded to Dr. McLaughlin a $3000 house and lot in Detroit in part payment for the farm. Sheriff Wimbles of Howell served papers on McLaughlin at eleven o'clock Saturday night July 25 at Anderson.

From Factory to the Consumer

"Teach Your Dollars to Have More Cents"

...Introductory...

We have on hand a large number of the Consumers Price Guides which we are now offering to the public with the full assurance that we are now in position to supply you with all your merchandise needs at prices which will save you money. By our being on the ground and taking all the risk in ordering any merchandise for you which we do not carry in stock, we offer you many advantages, such as saving you the trouble of correspondence, worry of returning merchandise and adjusting freight claims and other conditions too numerous to mention, which often arise when you mail the order direct.

Our "From the Factory to the Consumer" method, with our "Only One Profit" which is based on the fact that we receive cash for the merchandise, and not having it to carry in stock, makes it possible for us to put our "One Profit" price to you at a very low figure.

We agree to refund any money you pay us for any goods not perfectly satisfactory in every way.

You do not owe us any business because we are located in your own home town. We are giving equal or better quality in our merchandise for the same or less money than you pay elsewhere.

Give us an order and satisfy yourself of the correctness of our claims.

We believe once you are satisfied, that you would prefer to give us the business for reasons of convenience and economy to yourself. We respectfully submit our catalogs and will be glad to explain our new mail order system to any interested customer.

"There's a Reason"

Our purchases are combined with hundreds of other stores, obtaining for us the lowest possible wholesale prices.

We are not compelled to carry the goods in stock.

Being a cash business, we have no credit losses on merchandise shown.

Give us your orders and let us prove what we say.

Practical People.

A tourist found himself in a German village far out of the beaten track of his kind. There was, however, a linden tree in the village square. The tree was plastered over with advertisements like this: "Get Your House Furnishings at Ober's," "Engagement Rings - a Marvelous Selection - at Liebling's, the Watchmaker and Jeweler," "Kitchen Utensils at Muller's," "Just the Place for Your Wedding Breakfast - the Little Dining Room in the Post Hotel," and so forth. The stranger read the advertisements attentively.

"And why," asked he, turning to a villager who stood by, "why is this linden used as a billboard?"

"Simplest thing in the world," replied the villager. "All the courting couples come here and cut their names in the bark of this tree. Their right before them are the addresses of the very people they'll need to set 'em up in housekeeping once they decide to get married." - New York Post.

Hands That Make Beauty.

The father of Saint Gaudens, the sculptor, was a bootmaker and put the same enthusiasm into making a good boot that his son put into modeling statues. Millions are spent on paintings and sculptures, but just as many millions are spent on other productions of the human hand and brain. They may not be classed as works of art, yet are they the beautiful handicraft of men and women. The products of the cabinet makers of the eighteenth century, the weaving of the Hindu men and women since the days of the Arabian Nights, the laces and tapestries worked by peasant girls, nuns or queens, the creations of the potter, the brassmonger, the ironmonger, the silversmith, the goldsmith, the printer and the bookbinder were wrought by joyful workers, and millions compete with kings to possess them. - Boston Globe.

$100 Reward, $100

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address: F. K. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O. Sold by all druggists, 75c. For Family Pills for constipation.

Wealth of Detail.

Former Governor Proctor Knott of Kentucky used to tell a story of a native who appeared as a witness in a mountain murder trial where Knott was an attorney. The mountaineer took the stand, chewing tobacco, and gave his name, his age and his place of residence. Then one of the lawyers asked him to describe his first meeting with a certain person who figured in the case.

"Well," drawled the native, "he rid through our place a-straddle of a dun colored critter a-blowin' of a fox huntin' horn and a-wearin' of a bearskin overcoat, and hit was hot weather. I axed him if the critter he were a-ridin' were a geldin' or a 'riginal, which he 'lowed it were and driv on." - Saturday Evening Post.

Musical Tones in Architecture.

It has long been believed that each of the mammoth buildings of the world will vibrate in response to some special musical tone. Architects believe they have found the tones for such famous structures as the cathedral at Cologne, Notre Dame in Paris and St. Paul's in London. Certainly it is true that each of these buildings returns to the ear of the listener that one tone intensified and augmented to a surprising extent. The corollary statement that this keynote, if sounded long enough and with sufficient force, would bring disaster has never been proved. - Christian Herald.

A Goat in a Studio.

Among other stories in the "Reminiscences of Augustus Saint Gaudens" by father and son is a confession by the son. When he was a boy in Cornish he had a pet goat which he had trained to play a button game. The goat would butt, Homer would dodge, and then, to his great glee, the goat would butt the wrong thing or the air. One day at dinner time when the studio barn was deserted Homer was playing this game. Beyond the open barn door stood the wax model of the Logan horse "waiting to be cast in plaster. This time when Homer dodged the goat butted the back of the horse; but, since it did not fall or break, the relieved child thought it wasn't hurt and didn't tell. Before any one noticed that "the rear of the animal was strangely askew" the horse had been cast in plaster and the enlargement begun. This meant the loss of a whole summer's work - just one more of the accidents and errors that increased the "toughness of the sculptor's life." - Ariadne Gilbert in St. Nicholas.

The Japanese Yen.

The coin called yen in Japan is 50 cents in our money, 100 yen being equivalent to $50.

Profane Dancing.

Harriet Beecher Stowe records that in her girlhood she and her friends used to dance a jig entitled "Go to the Devil and Shake Yourself." This dance must have enjoyed a long spell of popularity. The first Duke of Buckingham and Chandos was indignant when, deigning to attend an assembly ball at Airedale, his request for a dance, addressed to a local rector's wife, met with the reply, "Go to the Devil and Shake Yourself!" He complained to the rector, and it then transpired that the lady, who was somewhat deaf, thought his grace had asked her what dance was then being played. This incident occurred in 1796, and twenty years later Crabbe, in his "Tales," alludes to the music of a dance with such a profane title. - Manchester Courier.

It Scared Him.

After spending a few weeks one year at a watering place, where he took his daily swim in the open air pool of warm sulphur water, a little fellow was the next year at the seaside. In his tiny bathing suit he gazed out over the vast ocean in silence. Then he protested: "I'm not goin' in. Dat ain't water for boys. Dat's for boats." - Chicago News.

Hit It.

Polly (to big sister's admirer) - Guess what father said about you last night. Adolphus - Oh, I couldn't guess, wearily. Polly - I'll give you a peach if you can guess. Adolphus (fustered) - Oh, Polly, I haven't an idea in the world. Polly - Urr - you was listening. - Sydney Bulletin.

Good Time Lost.

"Why do you insist upon having the biggest piece of pie, Harry?" asked the mother of a small boy. "Isn't your older brother entitled to it?" "No, he isn't," replied the little fellow. "He was eating pie two years before I was born." - Chicago News.

Likes It.

Miss Goodrich - I hear your husband is a great lover of the aesthetic. Mrs. Nurdich - Oh, yes! He takes one every time he gets a tooth pulled. - Stanford Chaparral.

Dear Old Sew!

"There are some people who believe that the whole human race will be saved," said an old lady, "but for my part I hope for better things."

Real Happiness.

To be truly happy is a question of how we begin and not of how we end, of what we want and not of what we have. - Stevenson.

CHAPTER XI—Continued.

"I came out here today to remonstrate with you for living in this house," Slade blurted out, after a pause, "but—I've sort of changed my mind, and you reached for the pickle jar. These pickles fairly make my mouth water. They're very good," he went on, appreciatively.

"Well, what's changed you?" Mary refused to be diverted by the subject of dinner at noon or the all-important matter of pickles.

"You know I'm kind of glad to see the place again, and you know, I like this stew," and he proceeded to tuck himself with the matter of eating—anything to gain time under Mary's mesmeric, persistent questioning.

"Have a biscuit," suggested Mary, "and—tell me why you came out here."

Slade looked longingly toward the window, as if he expected to find an inspiration for a suitable answer there.

"Why, the old rosebush out there yet, holding the fort!" he exclaimed. "I must have a look at it," and leaving his dinner, he went over to the window.

Mary hurriedly refilled his plate with stew the moment his back was turned.

"I declare!" He was still enthusing over the rosebush. "Quite a bush!" He was beginning to feel more at ease. He had the satisfied feeling that comes to every man when his stomach is full. He felt very benign toward Mary, even toward Katherine and Hayes.

"I'll tell you what I am going to do, Mary," he began. "You like this house—always did. Well, you can stay here. I won't oppose it. There's nothing in the world you want I wouldn't give you—nothing. Now, what can I do for you? What can I—"

Mary shook her head and laughed quietly.

"Why, Mary!" Slade was distressed at having his patronizing advances treated in such a manner.

"Oh, Dan, Dan!" Mary laughed, mockingly, unable longer to conceal her feelings. Slade realized in an instant that Mary knew everything.

"Well, I'll tell you one thing!" he blurted out. "I never cared a button for that girl—if that's what you mean! I swear I didn't!"

"Who said you did, Dan?" Mary's manner was provokingly calm.

"I never did! I'm not that kind of a man, and you know it," he protested.

"Who's accusing you? I never mentioned her name. But, Dan, she's very young and very pretty, and I don't blame you as long as you were going to try another wife. You might as well have had one who was young and pretty."

Slade pook-pooked vigorously.

"I hope the next one you get will be just as pretty, for your sake."

"There isn't going to be a next one," protested Slade, after the manner of all men.

"Oh, yes there is; you've got the idea now. The mere fact that you missed this time will keep you at it."

"I've got enough." Slade saw that frankness was the only way out of it. "I'm not going to make a devilish fool of myself again."

"Don't let your coffee get cold," reminded Mary, tantalizingly. "Now, Dan, you wanted me to go away, and I will. I've made up my mind."

of things. There! We'll make the best of things."

"How can we?" argued Mary. "If I was old-fashioned and behind the times and held you back a week ago, why wouldn't I now? Try as hard as I might, you said I couldn't help you. I'm just the same today as I was a week ago. I haven't changed a bit. I'm just the plain little dud I always was. What's true Monday is true Tuesday. We can't get back to where we were once."

"You meet me half way and I'll do my part." Dan had never known her to be obstinate like this before. Usually his slightest wish had been her keenest desire.

"Dan, you wanted that divorce?" The question was ominous, but Slade had to admit the point.

"Well, you're going to get it!" "But I don't want it now."

"You're going to have it, Dan Slade, and Mary's mouth set like a steel trap. "You're going to have it if I have to get it myself!"

"What do you want with a divorce when I'm willing to give in?" stormed Slade, losing his patience.

"How long have you been willing to give in, Dan? What did you come out here for?" She paused, but he did not answer. "You came to force me out of this house. Don't tell me you didn't, because I know. And I know why you didn't do it. You came in here and suddenly you got a look at that girl and me! And it staggered you! For once, something swept you off your feet! You knew then that I'd found it all out. You knew I knew everything. And now you've been thrown over by that girl. She's thrown you over! Between the two of us—you're caught. And that's the real reason that you're not standing here shaking your finger in my face and telling me to go out, to get out, to go."

Mary stopped for breath, and walked up and down the room before she proceeded with her bitter denunciation.

"And the worst of it is that after the girl's gone you actually ask me to take yer back—to take yer back—just as they all do. It's another man 'come home to mother.' Well, here's one woman that's not going to 'take her husband back!' No, sir! If you pushed me aside for ambition, I might think it over, but you've pushed me aside for that girl's twenty-seven years of prettiness," and she pointed an accusing finger at the door through which Katherine Strickland had gone hand-in-hand with her sweetheart.

"That's what you've done—for twenty-seven years of youth, for twenty-seven years of figure and eyes and freshness and all the rest of it. You put me aside for a younger woman—the very utterance almost lost Mary her courage, but she kept on. "You put me aside for a younger woman. Now, no matter what you do, you can't get me back!"

"Now, Mary," Slade begged, beginning to feel that he was losing everything worth while.

"I take off my ring," Mary continued, ignoring his interruption.

"Now it's ended," she finished as she laid the ring on the table.

Slade strode up to her in the manner which had kept her subdued all the 30 years of their married life. "You put that ring on again," he commanded. "It's yours! You put that ring on."

"No, sir! It's off for good." For the first time Mary's attitude was one of stubborn temper. She was enjoying complete mastery for the first time in her life. "Wild horses couldn't have got it off yesterday—I thought it was part of my nature! But now, now I'm going to ask you to go. I've got work to do. I'm closing the house. I'm closing it for good—forever."

Mary had said all she had to say. Now that her mind was made up, it was characteristic of her to turn to action. She started hurriedly and noisily to clear up the table, scraping the plates and piling them up ready to carry into the kitchen.

"For God's sake, Mary, don't!" protested Slade, too bewildered to know what to do or say.

"Go along," urged Mary, as she put the sugar bowl in its place on the sideboard.

"Mary, if you persist in this, I'll go back and I'll smash that house in town—I'll smash it to pieces," he threatened. "I'll sell it. I'll give it away—break it up! That's what made all this trouble! You know that! Trying to live up to that d—d house. You told me not to build it, and this is what I get for it."

"Go back and smash it. You've smashed other things that hurt me worse."

"Mary, you're not going to turn me out of this house where we've lived so long together?"

"You've turned yourself out. Go, now." Mary's wrath gathered force as she repeated her command.

"Ah, come now, Mary—" "You go," warned Mary, "before I say something I'll regret." She was scarcely hearing what Slade was saying now—her ears were full of the things he had said to her in her own home, and that night in Senator Strickland's library.

"Mary!" The one word was full of protest and a plea for forgiveness. "Go before I say it!" It was all Mary could do to speak quietly.

"Mary!" again the word spoke volumes.

"No use," she replied, as she picked up a pile of dishes. "You pushed me aside for a younger woman, and now you go," and with both hands full of dishes she kicked the kitchen door open with an angry foot, and proceeded to busy herself at the sink.

"Mary! See here!" he called. There was no reply.

He walked absently to the sugar bowl selected a lump of sugar and started to eat it, brushing one hand with the other, and then, still absent-minded, ignored the napkin within easy reach and wiped his fingers down the front of his coat. It was the old Dan Slade, a reversion to type.

"You Go!" Warned Mary.

Then he quietly picked up his hat and gloves and coat. Mary heard him going, and came back into the room.

"Dan," she said as she stretched out her hand to him. "I can't hate you—I just can't. We're going to say good-by like two old friends." He took her hand eagerly and held it. After a moment she pulled it away and resumed picking up the dinner things. Slade looked at her longingly for a moment, then quietly opened the door and was gone.

CHAPTER XII.

New York was knee deep in a blizzard that had been raging all day. Sleet and snow swept and eddied in blustering gales at every street corner. Taxicabs and motors plowed their way along, their occupants bundled up to their eyes in wraps and furs. The few pedestrians braving the bitter east wind felt the cold to their very marrow. With their shoulders hunched and their heads bent

LITTLE HARM FROM METEORS

Narrow Escapes Have Been Recorded, but Deaths or Serious Injuries Have Been Few.

The area of the earth's surface occupied by towns and villages being comparatively small, the possibility of a shower of stones falling within a town is extremely minute; the likelihood of a living creature being struck, says Lazarus Fletcher in the new Encyclopaedia Britannica, is still remote.

The first Yorkshire stone—that of the Wild Cottage—struck the ground only ten yards from a laborer; the second, that of Middlesboro, fell on the railroad only 40 yards away from some plate layers at work; a stone completely buried itself in the highway of Kaba; one fell between two carters on the road at Charsonville, throwing the ground up to a height of six feet; the Tournaies-la-Grosse meteorite broke the pavement and was broken itself.

The Krahenberg stone fell within a few paces of a little girl; the Angers stone fell close to a lady stand-forward, they hurried along under the lee of the buildings, envying the fortunates who could afford the shelter of a cab.

One woman struggled bravely to keep her umbrella up until she came to the bright lights of a cheap restaurant, where, out of breath and covered with snow, she closed the unwieldy and inadequate protection and went in. In her long fur coat and her trim hat covered by a soft gray veil, she seemed out of place as she made her way to an empty table. All around her were shabby figures, chorus girls having some toast and cocoa after the show, a pair of red-faced chauffeurs, and all the other typical patrons of the griddle-cake restaurant.

Laying aside her wraps and putting her umbrella against the table, mindful of the numerous signs which betrayed the fact that the management was not responsible for lost articles, she ordered a cup of coffee and some crackers and milk.

"Talk about your western blizzards!" exclaimed one of the chauffeurs. "If this is a sample of your eastern weather I'll stick to my job with Governor Slade and you can keep your job with Governor Sulzer."

"Why didn't you go into the hall and listen to your boss talk?" asked his companion.

"Say, did you ever hear the same speech over and over? It's a great speech, but hearing it ever since we left home—" the pause was significant.

"Do you go everywhere with your boss?"

"You bet," answered the other, "but this is the first time we've been East."

"Say, they call your old man the 'divorced' governor, don't they?" queried Sulzer's man.

"Yep." Slade's chauffeur lapsed monosyllabic.

"Great note—a man runnin' for office and being divorced at the same time," came the comment. "But he got elected just the same. Governor Sulzer said he was all right when he put our car at his disposal."

"But you noticed my old man wanted me on the box, too?" chuckled the other. "When I'm not drivin' I'm along jest the same."

"What do you do?"

"Oh, answer questions mostly. He's a great responsibility—a governor is—I have to keep my eye on him."

"Why? Did they ever try to assassinate him?"

"Nope! Nearest they came to it was takin' him through Central park on your New York city pavements. But they did present him with a baby cutamount in Carson City. I had to receive it."

"What did Mrs. Slade do?" Sulzer's man was patently more interested in the divorce than any other matter connected with Governor Slade. "Was she a high-stepper?"

"Now," came the disgusted reply.

"Well, what'd he do then that they got divorced?"

"Say, are you looking for trouble? Where I come from they don't criticize my old man. He runs things out there. I've had enough of this 'divorced governor' business. I don't know whose fault it is. She wanted it and he didn't, and she got it! When a woman knows what she wants," and he banged his fist down on the table, "she's going to get it! Now, shut up and have another cup of coffee."

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

ENTHUSIASM WENT TOO FAR

Managing Editor's Bright Idea Might Have Displeased Some of His Irish Readers.

Charles Edward Russell in "These Shifting Scenes" tells many amusing anecdotes of a managing editor named Goodman to signalize the Pigott disclosures which defeated the case that the London Times and the English Tories had worked up against Parnell. Mr. Russell writes:

On the night when Parnell's vindication became overwhelming and complete, Mr. Goodman issued an order that every article and every item in the whole paper, big or little, should end with the exclamation: "A Great Day for Ireland!" It was tempting fate to do such a thing, and, of course, the inevitable happened.

"One Hennessey, the janitor of a public building in Brooklyn, playing on the top floor with his children, fell over the railing of the air well and was killed. 'A Great Day for Ireland!'"

"William Mulrooney, a widely known philanthropist of the East side, choked to death on a chicken bone. 'A Great Day for Ireland!'"

The editor-in-chief Col. John A. Cockerill, saw the proofs in time to prevent a riot and extra compositors were called in to take out the offending lines.

Domestic Tragedy.

"It must be done!" "With the air of an empress the young wife swept from the room. The young husband groaned aloud and prepared for the worst.

There was a dread pause. "It is done!" she exclaimed, triumphantly, as she placed on the table the first pie she had ever made in all her life.

NEW IDEA

Helped Wisconsin Couple.

It doesn't pay to stick too closely to old notions of things. New ideas often lead to better health, success and happiness.

A Wis. couple examined an idea new to them and stepped up several rounds on the health ladder. The husband writes:

"Several years ago we suffered from coffee drinking, were sleepless, nervous, sallow, weak and irritable. My wife and I both loved coffee and thought it was a bracer." (Delusion.)

"Finally, after years of suffering, we read of Postum and the harmfulness of coffee, and believing that to grow we should give some attention to new ideas, we decided to test Postum.

"When we made it right we liked it and were free of ills caused by coffee. Our friends noticed the change—fresher skin, sturdier nerves, better temper, etc.

"These changes were not sudden, but increased as we continued to drink and enjoy Postum, and we lost the desire for coffee.

"Many of our friends did not like Postum at first, because they did not make it right. But when they made Postum according to directions on pkg., they liked it better than coffee and were benefited by the change."

Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. Postum now comes in two forms: Regular Postum—must be well boiled. 15c and 25c packages. Instant Postum—is a soluble powder. Made in the cup with hot water—no boiling. 30c and 50c tins. The cost per cup of both kinds is about the same. "There's a Reason" for Postum. —sold by Grocers.

POULTRY SHOW GREATEST EVER

Fair Gives Impetus to Industry in State.

PREMIUMS ARE INCREASED.

Special Award Will Be Made to County Organization Which Shows Largest Array of Prize Winners at the Fair.

Special plans are being made for the poultry exhibit at the Michigan State Fair, Sept. 7-18. The Fair in past seasons has given impetus to this industry, and the coming exhibition will excel in its scope and attractiveness anything the organization so far has done. A contract recently was closed by George W. Dickinson, general manager of the Fair, for uniform cooping, in which the birds will be housed. This cooping is of wire, so as to permit a complete examination of the birds by the passerby. It is perfectly sanitary, and by being uniform no one entry has an advantage over another.

In addition to the premiums given for the various classes, the Fair management has announced that a special premium of $50 will be awarded the county organization which shows the greatest number of winning birds at the Fair.

Keeps Its Fascination.
Frank Coward of Bronson is the board member in charge of the poultry department; Daniel Thomas of Pontiac is superintendent and J. W. Mullinix of Toledo and Earl Hemenway of South Haven the judges.

"The fascination of poultry raising for both city and country dweller has not lost any of its force," says Dr. Dickinson. "In fact, we are looking at it as a matter of necessity. The city man finds that a flock of chickens helps him cut the cost of living, and the prices eggs and fowls are bringing make poultry raising pretty profitable for the farmer. The State Fair means to help in every way possible, and its exhibit this year has never been equalled in Michigan."

ADDS TWO NEW DEPARTMENTS

China and Fine Arts Exhibition Shewn in Main Building.

In response to a demand which has been growing steadily for the past few years, the Michigan State Agricultural society has added materially to the scope of its needlework department for the sixty-fifth annual Fair, which will be held at Detroit Sept. 7-18. The department hereafter will be known as the needlework, china and fine arts exhibition and will be housed, as before, in the Michigan building. China painting has come to be an occupation in many Michigan homes, and hundreds of women are busying themselves in their spare moments with brush and palette.

Four classes in the department have been devoted to these subjects, as follows: China painting, amateur; china painting, professional; paintings, original productions, water and oil; paintings, student class, oil paintings and water colors. The premiums cover almost every specimen of china that is painted, including the conventional and naturalistic, and are so liberal that many displays will be attracted. In the fine arts section exceptional premiums have been listed for portraits, landscapes, easel subjects, studies in still life, animal subjects and marine studies.

These useful arts beautify and make happy the home, and the State Fair plans to give them unstinted encouragement.

"A President in Shirt Sleeves.
The Swiss president's unassuming status has given rise to many stories. Edmund d'Anvergne, visiting the government buildings at Bern, "noticed the word 'Bundespraesident' (president of the confederation) inscribed over an inconspicuous door. Just as you might see the word 'Cashier' or 'District Registrar.' I called to mind now an important English railway contractor once knocked at this door and was answered by a man in shirt sleeves, whom he took to be a clerk. It was the president himself." In Sir Horace Rumbold's time (the sixties) the story was that a diplomatist, calling at the president's private abode, was admitted by a lady with tucked up sleeves and soap sudsed arms—Mrs. la Presidente straight from the wash-tub.—London Standard.

CHEAPEST MILK PRODUCER "MALT SUGAR GRAINS"

(DISTILLER'S BY-PRODUCT)

Composed of Barley, Corn and Malt Grains. Contains no screenings, sweepings or foul stuff of any kind. A clean, wholesome, safe feed, thoroughly cooked and highly digestible.

Contains twice as much protein as wheat bran—six times more than corn or corn meal. Protein 30 to 36 per cent, Fat 6 to 12 per cent.

Malt Sugar Grains are a bulky feed, and can be used to lighten up the heavier feeds, the same as bran. Can be used alone as a grain ration, or combined with any other feed desired.

In a feed test at one of Ohio's big dairy farms the highest milk record was made with Malt Sugar Grains. The owner of the farm is now a regular buyer.

W. J. Mann, Dairyman, Jackson, increased the milk production of his whole herd nearly three quarts per cow per day on a 10 day's milk test with Malt Sugar Grains.
