FIRST COUNT ONLY ONE DAY OFF

Remember the Date--Friday, August 21

Votes will be counted and a $10.00 gold piece will be awarded to the lady having the largest number of votes. Ballot box will close promptly at 7:30 p. m.

The big prize voting contest is attracting more attention every day and the young ladies and their friends are working with a vim. Why? Because they see and appreciate the spirit of fairness. We are offering no bonuses, in other words we are not making it possible for some one of the contestants to come in the last minute and get a great big bonus for holding their votes. The rules state clearly the number of votes you can secure by getting subscriptions, either new, renewal or back, and these votes will not be changed or added to during the contest. Everyone has an equal chance, therefore, bring in your subscriptions each day and do not forget the merchants' coupons.

The ballot box will close promptly at 7:30 p. m. on Friday, August 21, at which time the votes will be counted by the judges who will award the $10.00 in gold to the contestant who received the largest number of votes up to the first count. Remember the $10.00 in gold to be given to the contestant having the highest number of votes on August 21 is a special prize. It will in no way effect the standing of the winner of the contest. A few of the contestants thought that the winning of the $10.00 would effect the votes for the piano; it will not. All votes found in the box on August 21 will be included in the final count which will decide the winner of the piano and other prizes.

The following names have been suggested to act as awarded committee and count the ballots, and if no objections are offered they will constitute the committee:

E. E. Hoyt
Percy Swarthout
H. W. Crofoot

Get busy and vote for your choice. The contest will be conducted equably and no partiality will be shown. Do it now and help some one reap the benefits of this liberal offer.

Remember to have your friends save the merchants' coupons.

Infection and Insect Bites Dangerous

Mosquitoes, flies and other insects, which breed quickly in garbage pails, ponds or stagnant water, barns, mucky places, etc., are carriers of disease. Every time they bite you, they inject poison into your system from which some dread disease may result. Get a bottle of Sloan's Linctant. It is antiseptic and a few drops will neutralize the infection caused by insect bites or stings. Sloan's Linctant disinfects cuts, abrasions and sores. You cannot afford to be without it in your home. Money back if unsatisfied. Only 25c at your drug store.

The St. Mary's Picnic

People of Pinckney and surrounding localities always look forward with great anticipation to the annual St. Mary's picnic and this year was no exception to the general rule. The weather was perfect, the recent rains having settled the dust and cooled the atmosphere, putting everyone in the best of spirits to fully enjoy the excellent repast for which the ladies of this parish are noted for providing.

The North Lake Band furnished splendid music for the occasion and kept everyone in a joyful mood.

There were approximately 800 dinner tickets sold. The Home Coming, the previous week, did not interfere any with the large crowd which attended. Take it all around, the picnic was a grand success and netted the society $800.

The Hon. James Hammel of Lansing was toast-master of the day and was fully equal to the occasion. The other speakers were Wm. H. McKeighan of Flint and Frank L. Dodge of Lansing. Their talks were much enjoyed by all present.

The dance in the evening was attended by people from Gregory, Howell and Dexter besides our townpeople. The music was furnished by Barnard's orchestra of Howell. The music being good the crowd congenial, everyone enjoyed a royal time.

The ball-game between Gregory and Fowlerville after dinner was a feature of the day. Guy Kuhn and Roche McClear were the battery for Gregory and Kuhn was easily the hero of the hour, the visitors being completely at his mercy during the entire game and was on the job when at bat, getting two three base hits. The Fowlerville pitcher did good work but received poor support. The game was a swift one and closed by a score of 7 to 4 in favor of Gregory.

Children Free

On Tuesday, September 1st, the first day of the Livingston County Fair, all school children 10 years of age or under will be admitted to the grounds free of charge when accompanied by their parents or teacher. Please remember that the first day will be as good as any other day, as all the special attractions including flights by the airship will be pulled off Tuesday the same as Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. The management will be pleased to see all the school children of the county as their guests on the opening day. adv.

On Paper Only

The Paper has 6 fans instead of the usual 3 or 4. The shige is therefore elevated in a steady stream instead of in bunches. The Paper is the lightest draft of all and filters, due to the fact that the 6 fans divide the load to be elevated, and prevents clogging. adv.

JAPANESE SEND ULTIMATUM TO THE GERMANS

Kaiser Given One Week to Get All Warships Out of the East

TEUTONS ADVANCE IN SPITE OF REPORTED REVERSES

United States Government Takes the High Ground That to Loan Money to Warring Nation is Not in Accordance With Neutrality.

Tokio—The Japanese government sent an ultimatum to Germany Sunday night demanding that German warships in the far east be withdrawn or dismantled, and that the German-leased colony of Kiau-Chau be surrendered.

The ultimatum expires next Sunday, giving Germany just one week in which to send her reply to the Tokio government. If Germany within this week of grace does not accede to the Japanese demands, the Japanese government will take such steps as it sees fit.

The fact that the Japanese fleet left Japan some days ago for an unannounced destination and that a considerable body of Japanese troops, estimated at 50,000, have been on transports awaiting an order to sail for a similar length of time, indicates that Japan is prepared to use such force as may be necessary to enforce her demands.

In its ultimatum, as the terms of that instrument are described by the usually well informed newspaper, Jiji Shimpo, the Japanese government demands that Kiau-Chau be turned over to Japan pending its return to China under the terms of the 99-year lease under which it came into German control in 1897. It also demands that German warships in far eastern waters be disarmed and that Germany withdraw all her warships from the China sea.

Will Uphold China's Integrity.

The sending of the ultimatum to Germany was announced Sunday. At the same time Takaaki Kato, Japanese minister of foreign affairs, after a conference with George W. Guthrie, the American ambassador at Tokio, issued a statement which was intended to allay any apprehensions on the part of the United States government and people regarding Japan's intentions.

The statement in broad terms assured the United States that American interests in the far east would be safeguarded by Japan and that Japan would uphold the integrity of China.

Germans Slowly Advance.

London—Pushing forward by mere weight of numbers, the German advance across Belgium is slowly but steadily proceeding and soon must come in contact with the allied armies, which, according to an official communication from Brussels are in battle order at some point unnamed.

The Belgians in the outpost skirmishing are said to have inflicted severe checks on the German forces, but on the whole the German wing has kept on its way and has reached a line from north of Namur to Haslen which suggests that the first big battle will be fought somewhere between Louvain and Diest, where the allies probably will try to block the roads to Brussels and Antwerp and prevent the Germans attempt to render north Belgium untenable.

French Army Moving.

Further south, French troops have entered Belgium through Charleroi going to the relief of their neighbors and to aid in any attack directed toward Namur, while in the east the French are reported to have secured possession of ridges in the Vosges mountains and to hold the passes of Le Bonhomme and Sainte Marie-Aumines, through which important roads pass and which it is declared gives them great strategic advantage.

It is declared officially in Paris that a union of the French and Belgian armies has been effected and an interchange of commanders brought about.

Hordes of Russians are reported to be marching toward Prussia on the one side and to Austrian Galicia on the other. In the latter country they are said to be in the vicinity of the Stry river, which is on the route to Limberg.

The official news bureau of the army and admiralty has issued a warning to the public against placing the slightest reliance in the many rumors current daily regarding alleged victories or defeats or concerning the arrival of wounded soldiers or disabled ships of Great Britain.

"These are, without exception, baseless," the warning says.

Germany Reported Repulsed.

All along the Alsace-Lorraine frontier the advance guard armies have come in contact and, according to reports from Paris, the Germans have been driven back everywhere, with loss.

After a brilliant action, the French have recaptured Biamont and Cirey, two points on the Lorraine frontier, due west of Strassburg, and, putting to flight the Bavarian corps, have found a footing in the long-lost province. The French also have retaken Thann, in upper Alsace.

Strong French forces are now in possession of all the passes of the Vosges mountains, from the west as far as those leading down to Kolmar. Further south, French forces are ready to proceed over the flat country toward Mulhausen.

Woman Tried and Shot.

Geneva—Mme. Favre Schwartz, of Basel, a young and beautiful Swiss lady, married to one of the richest men in Alsace-Lorraine, was shot after a court-martial. She was accused of attempting to blow up an important tunnel on the railway line near Leopoldshall.

Mme. Schwarz made no secret of her intense French sympathies. Having been found guilty and sentenced to death she shouted "Vive la France," and she died with this cry upon her lips.

She was well known in the best cosmopolitan society not only of Basel but of Berlin.

Government Does Not Approve Loans.

Washington—The United States government announced itself Saturday as opposed to the floating of loans in this country for the benefit of any of the belligerent powers of Europe.

Switzerland, a neutral country, inquired through her charge d'affaires if she might float a loan in the United States and was informed that the restriction would not apply to neutral countries.

J. P. Morgan & Co. was approached by a group of private bankers who wished to know if a loan ever should be desired by the French government, whether it could be floated in the United States. The Morgan firm announced that regardless of its legal right to engage in private commercial transactions at its own risk, it would take no action which the state department might disapprove.

Inquiry was made of Secretary Bryan several days ago by the bankers as to what the attitude of the American government would be. Saturday the Swiss charge d'affaires also presented an inquiry.

To cover both inquiries, the following pronouncement of policy was issued by Secretary Bryan at the direction of President Wilson: "Inquiry having been made as to the attitude of this government in case American bankers are asked to make loans to foreign governments during the war in Europe, the following announcement is made:

"There is no reason why loans should not be made to the governments of neutral nations, but in the judgment of this government loans by American bankers to any foreign nation which is at war is inconsistent with the true spirit of neutrality."

Is a Step Forward.

This principle represents an advanced attitude on the part of the United States on a much mooted question. Hitherto loans have been floated in the United States as well as other neutral countries for the benefit of belligerents. During the Russo-Japanese war loans for Japan were floated in this country and in Europe while Russia obtained money from different countries in Europe.

International authorities have been agreed that while the loaning of money is forbidden to any neutral government her subjects might engage in the practice of involving the responsibility of their government. Many writers, however, have argued that by furnishing the wherewithal to continue a war, the loaning of money was inconsistent with a true spirit of neutrality and Washington government has decided to adopt this view.

Investigation Under Way.

Washington—The movement of the Federal government to investigate increases in food prices with a view to possibly criminal prosecution is under full headway. Attorney-General McReynolds has sent to every United States district attorney this circular: "The department, by its special agents in various parts of the country, has instituted an investigation into the marked increases in the prices of foodstuffs since the outbreak of the European war with a view of ascertaining whether the increases are due to any combination or combinations in restraint of trade or other unlawful actions. Please co-operate by communication to the department information which you can obtain on the subject together with your opinion in respect of the appropriate action to be taken."

BRIEF NOTES OF GREAT WAR

Paris—Ambassador Herrick has personally guaranteed the expenses of the full accommodations of the French line steamships Rochambeau and Espagne, for the carrying home of stranded Americans.

London—A dispatch to the Daily News from Rotterdam says that the Holland-American steamship line has placed its large premises in the Hook of Holland at the disposal of the Dutch Red Cross, with special view of the need in event of a naval battle in the North Sea.

Honolulu—One of the results of the European war that is being felt here is a growing shortage of coal. Hawaii is entirely dependent upon shipping for her fuel supply and practically all of the coal brought here for commercial purposes has been carried in foreign bottoms.

Brussels—Reports that General von Emmich, the German commander who failed in the first attempt to take Liege by storm, is dead, are widely circulated here. The war office says that these reports were brought in by wounded German prisoners and that they are unconfirmed.

TWO SCHOOLS OF STRATEGY CLASH

French and German Methods Put to Test.

THEORIES EXACTLY OPPOSITE

Outflanking of Enemy Chief Feature of German Tactics—French System is More Varied and Less Simple.

The clash between the armies of the French republic and the German empire will prove of extraordinary interest to military tacticians for many reasons. Results should settle, for some time to come, conflicting principles of strategy which at present are somewhat of a puzzle.

There is only one element capable of confusing the issue, namely, the totally different racial characteristics and temperaments, in so far as they interfere with the practical application of the tactical theories which have been worked out by the ablest minds of the two great military organizations of these powers.

As far as can be learned, little fault can be found with the condition of preparedness of both armies of the Franco-German frontier. The German forces, if anything, outnumber those of France, but when one is dealing in millions the difference, proportionately considered, is really not so great as it seems at a glance. Even a slight superiority in maneuvering the huge army corps, and a little greater ability to have them in the right place at the right time, may more than overbalance any discrepancy in the total number of men in the field.

The German organization is the older. Its present system is built on the foundation supplied by the victorious armies of the Franco-Prussian war. In discipline, training, mobilization and principles of moving large bodies of troops, it is the logical successor that one would expect to find, making allowance for the development of modern weapons, transportation facilities and equipment.

Both nations have efficient aviation corps. Germany has the advantage in the number of dirigibles, while France has some 750 aeroplanes already in commission, against about 400 of the Germans.

French Artillery Superior.

In the artillery arm it is generally admitted that the French are superior. The gunners are faultlessly trained, and the guns themselves are of a more modern, powerful and efficient type.

To sum up, Germany outnumbers France approximately 5,000,000 to 4,000,000 in total war strength. She is supposed to be slightly superior in general discipline and training, while in two special arms, aviation division and artillery, France has a noticeable advantage. This is how the materials with which the rival tacticians will have to work, compare.

Strangely enough, the underlying principle or spirit of the military organization of each nation would seem to fit the other better. It is the French who have given the greater emphasis to complex dispositions of troops for purposes of security and sureness, and the Germans who permeate themselves with the idea that simplicity of tactics, coupled with energy and fierceness of attack, brings success.

Col. de Grandmaison, a French tactical authority, lecturing to a class in a school of military instruction recently, drew a sharp distinction between the two systems, pointing out the strength and weakness of the practical application of the German theories, at the same time sharply criticizing certain phases of the French tactical system which, he said, tended toward confusion and lack of decisive action on the field of battle.

Outflanking Paramount.

The single thought embodied in the German tactics is the outflanking of the enemy. It is more than a thought; it is a rule. The German commander, brigade or corps commander, never stops to consider what he will do. It goes without saying that he will attempt to outflank his adversary.

The only question he has to decide is how he will do it.

Eternal, energetic offense is his other rule. Once he has laid his plans for the attack, and made his disposition of troops, he gives the final order for the advance. The thing is settled. The various units of his command go forward, either to victory or complete repulse. There is no withdrawing or rearrangement of troops during the progress of the fight, no change in plans. Everything is supposed to have been provided for before the engagement. The units of his command are to receive no further orders which would cause the slightest hesitation in their mechanical and complete carrying out of the prearranged plan.

One cannot help but admire the spirit of determination and confidence necessary to the successful carrying out of such a system. The German troops have been trained with this idea specially in view, and they are permeated with a spirit of self-confidence and fierce contempt for their adversaries. The morale of the German soldier is wonderful. No matter what he is brought to face with, he will fight unflinchingly until he drops.

French School of Tactics.

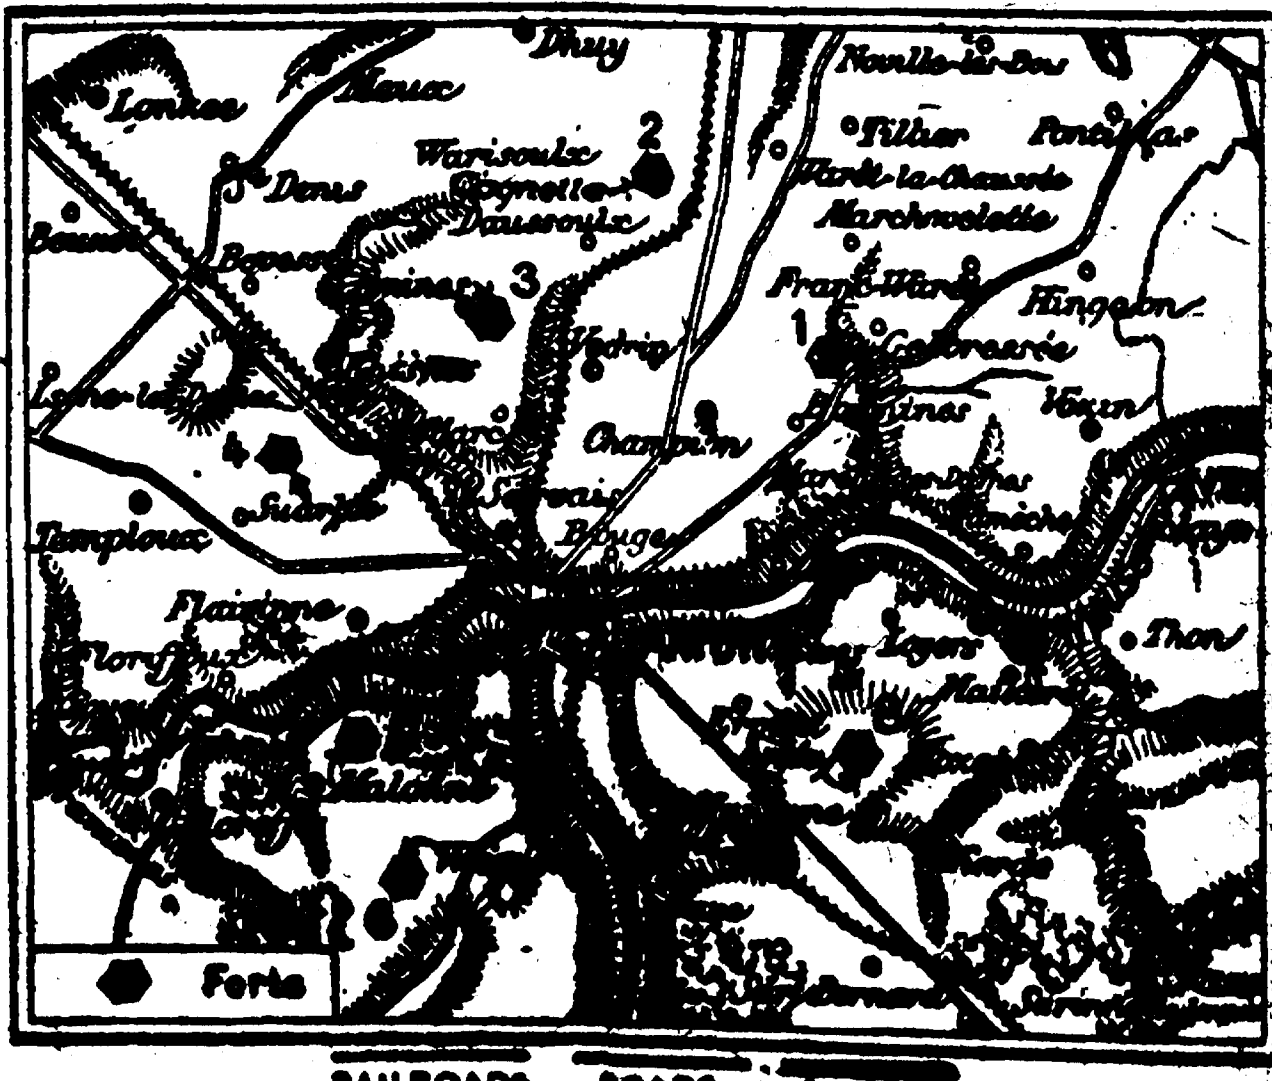

The French tactics, on the other hand, are considerably more varied and less simple. The maneuvers of the French commander depend largely on the formation of the enemy. Greater stress is laid on finding out the exact disposition of his troops before formulating the battle plans, and the officer in command retains his troops subject to his control throughout the engagement. While frontal attacks are admittedly dangerous, the French theories provide for their use in certain contingencies, and the commander is not tied down to the use of flanking movements exclusively.

Then, too, the rules laid down elaborate formations of outposts, advance guards, supports and reserves for protection against surprise. The only criticism made by Col. de Grandmaison is that the system, while theoretically perfect, has become so elaborate as to be somewhat difficult to handle in the field, and that the officer who follows their spirit to the logical limit will be likely to find his troops so dispersed in small parties as to be scattered over as large a front as the Germans, an extreme tendency which is somewhat to be deplored in the light of the lessons of the Russo-Japanese war, in which engagement after engagement was won by both the Russians and the Japanese, traceable directly to the employment of desperate frontal attack and bayonet charge, notwithstanding the terrific efficiency of fire or the modern rifle.

However, it would seem that the advantage lies with France, for they control their system, and are not controlled by it, as are the Germans.

The first moves of the German campaign, the invasion through Luxembourg, the crossing of the frontier at Cirey—where, by the way, the machine seems to have encountered a snag in the preliminary engagement—indicate that an attempt is made to duplicate the campaigns of former years, but it is an entirely different French organization which will have to be overcome if Germany is to avoid a crushing defeat in which the life of the empire may be ground out between the upper and nether millstone.

This sale must close the week before the fair begins at Detroit, Monday September 7. They are the regular 50c admittance tickets but in the advance sale go at 35 cents or three for a dollar. 32t5

At Northville they are gaining municipal ownership experience in an unusual manner. The village conducts the business of electric wiring and some time ago Village President Scotten had a sizable job done at his house. He paid part of the bill but refused to pay the balance of $33.50 claiming he was over charged. The council have been trying for some time to get the mayor to pay up as his example has a bad effect on other delinquents and some $300 similar accounts are outstanding. The council are getting mad and threaten to shut off the mayor's "juice." The mayor says "go ahead and see what happens." The end is not in sight.

Summer Constipation Dangerous

Constipation in summer time is more dangerous than in the fall, winter or spring.
The food you eat is often contaminated and is more likely to ferment in your stomach. Then you are apt to drink much cold water during the hot weather, thus injuring your stomach. Colic, fever, stom-achic poisoning and other ills are natural results. Fo-De-Lax will keep you well, as it increases the bile, the natural laxative, which aids the movement of the congested poisonous waste. Fo-De-Lax will make you feel better. Pleasant and effective.

Livingston County Fair

Howell, Mich., Sept. 1, 2, 3 & 4

A good, old fashioned county fair—combined with all the funs and fixings that the present day public wants! That's the Livingston County fair.

The men and women who like racing will see some of the classiest horses on the turf in three days of racing for $2,000 in purses.
Livingston county will see its first aeroplane flight at the fair. "Bert" Williams, in a bi-plane, will fly every day. "No fly, no pay" is the way his contract reads. He's a former Michigan boy. See him. Capt. Webb's famous trained seals will also be a feature.

Livingston county is coming nobly to the front with its exhibitions. You can't afford to miss them. Exhibitors from many parts in the United States will also be here.

DOMESTIC BREEDS OF SHEEP IN AMERICA

Three Representative Shropshire Ewes.

Three Representative Rambouillets (French Merinos).

All the domestic sheep in America have originated from importations, most of which have been made from European countries since the beginning of the nineteenth century. The fine wools are found upon the western ranges and to a lesser extent through the Ohio fine-wool region. They are undergoing some changes to improve the carcass and increase the length of wool; some foreign blood is being used to do it; nevertheless these sections may still be regarded as being fine wool in character.

In Tennessee, Virginia and Kentucky, the spring lamb region of America, Southdown rams are very popular. Through the central farming sections of the country the medium-wool breeds have taken possession, the long wools largely being in locations more favorable to them in the North and Northwest, notably Canada, Utah, Montana and Oregon.

It is not always possible to say that there is one best breed for any section. There may be two or three that would do equally as well, but it is undeniable that some breeds are far more suitable than others for a given location. All the breeds have their good qualities and most of them, if properly handled, will give good results in some section of America. The problem is to get the ones best adapted to particular conditions. Some breeds have a larger number of high quality individuals than others, but a successful breeder can improve any of them.

As a rule, but one breed should be selected. Where there is more than one breed upon a farm it is a difficult matter to keep the gates all closed at the proper time and prevent crossing. If several farms are available more breeds can be handled, but the difficulties in management are much increased. The most successful sheep breeders in America handle but one breed. The fact that there are more breeds than in any other class of farm animals may in itself make the selection of one breed rather difficult. Some of the deciding factors should be the conditions, feeds available, altitude, the particular line of the industry to be followed, and popularity of the breed in the section in which the farmer is located.

The effect of climate is strikingly illustrated in the evolution of the sheep industry of the extreme Northwest. The Willamette Valley in Oregon, now so famous for its long wools, was once partly occupied by fine-wool sheep. The large amount of rainfall, which comes in a long-continued drizzle, caused the wool to mat and become matted upon the sheep's back. The Merino breeds were driven out of that area. After a few years and other long-wool breeds were introduced and the industry assumed a different aspect. Their long locks act as a thatch, carrying the water off, and these breeds thrive as they do in few places except their native counties in England.

The kind of feed produced is of importance. The large breeds have been developed upon land that has produced abundantly. They are capable of taking care of a larger amount of feed, such as the moist fertile lowlands produce, while the smaller breeds succeed better upon the less abundant fare of drier and less fertile pastures. There is evidently some connection between the general high quality of the smaller breeds and the scanty, more nutritious feeds that they receive under natural conditions. If they are removed to the lowlands they lose much of their characteristic type and quality.

The effect of altitude upon a breed is also apparent, but how much of this effect is due to the amounts and kinds of feed it is difficult to determine. Certain it is that the mountain breeds are smaller, more active, more hardy, and better able to care for themselves than their lowland neighbors.

The importance of hardiness in the mountain breeds was shown during the last century along the Scottish border. Whether the breeder expects to specialize upon some particular line of sheep farming should likewise be instrumental in making a decision. If winter lambs are to be produced a breed must be secured that will breed at the right season of the year, and not all will do this. The Dorset, Merino and Tunis have given the best satisfaction thus far.

The popularity of a breed will often have its effect in influencing one's decision. Some breeds have been developed under conditions that are more general, or else they have a wider range of adaptability than others. The popularity of several breeds in this country is due to this fact. No better illustrations of these can be mentioned than the Merinos and Shropshires that are found from Maine to California. Some of the minor breeds need men who will place them before the public, as there can be no doubt as to the effect of a wide-awake breed association in advancing a breed.

Some breeds are regarded as needing more care than others; at any rate they become more unsightly if denied this attention. However, no flock will thrive upon mismanagement. Good appearance is always desirable, and sometimes it is of prime importance. The use of sheep for keeping the lawns of parks and country places in trim has been in effect in this country for years and here attractiveness is indispensable.

Take Care of Your Sheep.
There is an old adage which if kept in mind and acted on by every feeder not only with his sheep, but with all his live stock, he would do much better than the average feeder; and that adage is simply this: "An animal well summered is half wintered, and an animal well wintered is half summered," which means that the year through you should keep your animals in nice smooth plump condition.

Produce Succulent Food.
Generally speaking it is more economical to produce succulent feed in the form of roots for a small number of cows than to produce it in the form of silage, though small silos are now manufactured and used to some extent.

NEW FABRIC FOR CAPES

IS CALLED THE TEDDY BEAR, AND IS POPULAR.

Sort of Woolen Velour, Light of Weight But Warm—Shirtings and Plaittings for the Autumn and Winter Seasons.

(By MARY DEAN.)

Capes have become too common, excepting those made from the new material called teddy bear; this fabric is very popular. The teddy bear material is a sort of woolen velour, woven with long, hairy threads, exceedingly soft, and supple, and although light of weight it has considerable warmth and is ideal for wear at shore resorts.

Another new material not less favored for mountain or shore resort wear or for excursion trips is a rough woolen weave which is likely to be much in vogue during the coming winter. This goods is of a silky texture and has a ground work of color subdued by the long dark hairs.

The increasing fullness of the skirt is exciting interest among students of the modes and there seems no shadow of doubt that we are in for an autumn and winter of shirtings and plaittings. Just how far the movement will go remains to be seen. The flowing movement of sheer supple stuffs over clinging foundations which characterize many of the midsummer models is a very different thing from fullness and drapery in heavier material.

Sleeves are becoming longer, and a Paris correspondent writes that women are wearing high-necked bodices. One such frock described was of white taffeta and buttoned down neck to foot. The waistband was twisted round the hips, from it a deep embroidered tulle flounce fell nearly to the bottom of the skirt, hiding it entirely. A narrow band of taffeta encircled this flounce at the bottom, which was shaped in scallops. The bodice was made high at the neck and had long sleeves.

As has been said, capes are becoming too common, but occasionally one sees a model with perhaps some individual touch, or made of novel material which differentiates it from the general display. Among those recently seen, for instance, was an unusually attractive wrap, the distinctive Crepe de Chine and note being the shaped collar at the back, which falls in graceful folds from a black velvet ribbon which encircles the neck and is held in place at the back of a pearl buckle. This cape was lined throughout with lobster red silk. There was a fold of the red silk on each side of the cape collar at the back, and down the front.

GAY STRIPE NOT FOR STREET is a Little Too Much in the Livelier Effect—Good Taste Suggests Quieter Ones.

Striped gaberdine is the material much in favor for costumes made in the sleeveless bolero style. The skirt is rather full at the hips, made with a seam down the front, on the diagonal. The small bolero hangs loosely over a draped band, showing the long sleeve in white muslin, with a band of embroidery and another of velvet giving a touch of novelty.

A straight jacket in the same striped material is worn with this skirt and bolero, making the costume a little less sensational for the streets. But it must be acknowledged that the striped materials are not tempting women of taste, unless these stripes be of the darkest description of green and blue.

The hats now worn in Paris are small or large, with a ruffling of taffeta and a couple of wings.

Handsome Afternoon Frock.

Black chiffon is mounted over a tight-fitting foundation of satin in this summer frock. Sash of black velvet tied below the hips in the back is a feature.

HAIR ORNAMENTS THE FAD

May Be as Elaborate as One Wishes, Always Within the Bounds of Good Taste.

Elaborate hair ornaments are worn by young girls this season. There are shell pins with hinged tops with gems that may be turned in different directions to suit the coiffure, and simulated caps of strings of pearls with tiny chin straps of pearls to match to wear in the evenings.

Narrow bandeaux of rhinestones that widen out in a barrette in the back and which are matched by the high spans in combs set with rhinestones are very pretty.

There are also caps formed of strings of jewels set wide apart, with two straight feathers up the front, their quills outlined with gems.

Square-topped pins, inlaid with gold, matching gold-topped side combs and a high open-work back comb with a filigree design in the gold, are all shown, as are also hairpins with filigree gold tops, shaped like a ball, the center filled with compressed sachet balls and tiffin bands of gold ending in gold tassels to wear across the front of the hair, the tassels hanging back of the ears like simulated earrings.

Glass as a material for coiffure ornaments is steadily making its way into favor. Under a strong light spun glass aigrettes are most effective, especially when of white combined with emerald green, sapphire, blue, ruby, red or golden yellow.

Some glass tiaras show a design in flowers and leaves attached to a skeleton latticing in silver or gold. Rosebuds with their foliage are favorites, but so are white wild daisies and any of the smaller field blooms.

Clusters of oak or mistletoe leaves are used with good effect in glass tiaras, and, in fact, any sort of foliage that is not overlaid may correctly be used, excepting, of course, the strawberry leaves sacred to the English duchess.

Coiffure ornaments and tiaras in amber or in amber colored glass are stunning looking on a brunette beauty, and for blondes there are fetching effects in all-jet or in jet combined with paste, pearls or opals.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY

A cupful of strong coffee will remove the odor of onions from the breath.

One in a faint should be laid flat on the back, the clothes loosened and let sleep.

A cupful of hot water drunk before meals will sometimes relieve nausea and dyspepsia.

It is not practical to wash the hands too often during the day, neither is it advisable to use hard water; either makes the skin hard. But should the hands get hard, use olive oil or cocoa butter.

GOOD JOKE ON DOCTOR WILEY

Darky Coachman Probably Did Not Mean to Be Sarcastic, but the Remark Seemed Personal.

Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, our foremost pure food expert, tells of a trip he made to a place in Carolina to make a propagandist speech. It goes something like this:

"I checked my bag at the station, and engaged an old darky hackman to drive me to the hall. He seemed very much worried over my lack of baggage.

"Most every gent what comes here's got something to sell," he said. "Maybe youse got something to sell, boss?"

"Oh, yes, I told him, 'I've got something to sell.' For a moment he seemed satisfied. But his curiosity got the better of him, and he broke out with another question:

"What might dat something be you got to sell, boss?" he asked.

"I thought it over for a while, and decided that I should have to give some kind of an answer, so I said, 'I sell wit and wisdom.'

"The old negro scratched his head and cogitated.

"Well boss," he said finally, 'you is de first man I ever toted what didn't carry no samples.'—National Food Magazine.

Proves Arctic Was Hot.

Corroborating the report of soundings in the Arctic sea made by the Karluk expedition that revealed the presence of coral is a recent note in science that the fossil flora of that icy climate show the presence of abundant and luxuriant ferns and palmlike plants produced by the tropical conditions of late paleozoic and middle cenozoic geologic time. F. H. Knowlton of the United States geological survey has published a description of such plants found about Cape Lisburne, 100 miles north of the arctic circle on the western coast of Alaska.

Modest Admission.

The intensely patriotic Cambrian, of course, took a personal interest in the recent victory of "Freddie" Welsh at Olympia. A flushed and elated man from Cardiff was asked who had won the fight. "Welsh," he replied—"if I do say it myself."—London Globe.

Possibly Both.

If amateur golf players are to be considered as jeopardizing their status because they write newspaper articles describing their game, golf literature will suffer a serious eclipse—or should it be called a reform?—New York World.

The Speed Mania.

"I heard an Austrian tell a Serbian in the street the other day that his meek little country was out of the running."

"What happened?"
"The last I saw of the speaker he was still running."

Last Words.

Teacher—What were Webster's last words?
Pupil—I don't remember, ma'am, but they all began with Z.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Both Changed.

"You used to sit and hold my hands before we were married."
"And you used to sit and hold your tongue."

DISAPPEARED

Coffee Aids Vanish Before Postum.

It seems almost too good to be true, the way headache, nervousness, insomnia, and many other obscure troubles vanish when coffee is dismissed and Postum used as the regular table beverage.

The reason is clear. Coffee contains a poisonous drug—caffeine—which causes the trouble, but Postum contains only the food elements in choice hard wheat with a little molasses.

A Phila. man grew enthusiastic and wrote as follows:

"Until 18 months ago I used coffee regularly every day and suffered from headache, bitter taste in my mouth, and indigestion; was gloomy and irritable, had variable or absent appetite, loss of flesh, depressed in spirits, etc."

"I attribute these things to coffee, because since I quit it and have drank Postum I feel better than I had for 30 years, am less susceptible to cold, have gained 20 lbs. and the symptoms have disappeared—vanished before Postum."

Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

Postum comes in two forms: Regular Postum—must be well boiled. 15c and 35c packages.

Instant Postum—is a soluble powder. A teaspoonful dissolves quickly in a cup of hot water and, with cream and sugar, makes a delicious beverage instantly. 30c and 50c tins.

The cost per cup of both kinds is about the same.

"There's a Reason" for Postum.

SWEET CLOVER GAINS FAVOR

Increasing Attention Being Given Crop as Forage Plant—Used Successfully as Ensilage.

Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)
For the past two years increasing attention has been given to sweet clover as a forage plant. County agricultural agents in several states last year gave the crop some attention in an experimental way. Those in Kansas and South Dakota were particularly active; and the results were so satisfactory that the area seeded this year has been enormously increased. Last year more than 2,000 acres were seeded in that county this year. Last year a farmer in Clinton county, Iowa, conducted an excursion to a farm on which is grown annually 60 to 100 acres of sweet clover for hay and pasture on land worth more than $100 per acre. On June 9 and 10 this year two Illinois county agents joined in an excursion to a 300-acre sweet clover farm in Ogles county, Illinois. One county sent 21 automobiles with 109 farmers representing 25 townships. A total of 45 automobiles made up the train. Among the interesting things done on the farm visited is the pasturing of 60 head of cattle on 40 acres of sweet clover. The clover is also used successfully as ensilage.

Backache Is a Warning

Nature always gives fair warning whenever anything is going wrong inside the body. When warned of kidney weakness by an aching back or disordered urination, give the kidneys prompt help and avoid more serious troubles.

Kidney trouble is a dangerous thing, because the kidneys are the blood filters, and weak kidneys soon upset the healthiest system, causing rheumatic attacks, gravel, dropsy and Bright's disease.
 Doan's Kidney Pills is a most reliable kidney remedy. Doan's are used successfully all over the civilized world and publicly recommended by thousands of grateful people.

A Michigan Case.

Mrs. J. L. Benham, 404 Washington St., Albion, Mich., says: "I spent nearly five hundred dollars trying to find a cure from kidney complaint, but to no avail. I was in the hospital for five weeks. The pain in the small of my back was awful and I had headaches, dizzy spells and urinary troubles. Doan's Kidney Pills permanently cured me and I can't praise them too much."

Polo for Women.
 Englishwomen were ever splendid horsewomen, so one wonders why it has been left to American women to be first in the field with polo for women. Many a hard match has been played in the United States during the last twelve months by mixed teams, sometimes consisting of three men captained by one woman, and by women's teams. As one thinks of the wonderful pluck of our women here who ride to hounds, their dash and enthusiasm, it naturally occurs to one that they are born for polo if ever women were.—London Daily Mail.

The Teacher Taught.
 Miss Dixon, a charming society girl, had spent the entire summer in trying to elevate the simple country people with whom she was boarding. When she was about to leave she said:
 "Good-by, Mr. Ingersoll. I hope my visit here hasn't been entirely without good results."
 "Martin not," replied the old farmer; "you've learnt a heap since you first come; but, by heck, you was about the greenest one we ever had on our hands."—National Monthly.

Chinese Forest Reserves.
 The Chinese national conservation bureau is considering reforestation at the headwaters of the Yellow river. The government report shows that this will ameliorate the torrents and cause a more regular flow from the now denuded uplands. It is acknowledged, however, that this reforestation may not have an appreciable effect within the lifetime of the present generation.—Popular Mechanics.

ERUPTION OVER CHILD'S BODY

Route No. 3, Box 67, Little Falls, Minn.—"Our little boy was taken sick with a fever and after the fever he broke out with a sore eruption all over his body. We could get nothing to help him. The sores were large and red and bleeding. They started with blisters as if he were burned and when they broke they would bleed and they itched so that he could not sleep for some time. We had him all tied up with bandages and then we had to soak them off every day.
 "We bought a cake of Cuticura Soap and a box of Cuticura Ointment which soon gave him relief. Now he is as well as can be for in three weeks he was all healed by the Cuticura Soap and Ointment." (Signed) George Wolters, Jan. 29, 1914.
 Cuticura Soap and Ointment sold throughout the world. Sample of each free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. L, Boston."—Adv.

Deserves Mention

Although this item may be a little late, it is nevertheless worth mentioning. The show windows of the various stores were all tastefully decorated in honor of the "Old Boys and Girls," but that of the hardware firm of Dinkel & Dunbar outshone them all. The background of each window was composed of white lattice-work in which lavender chrysanthemums were interwoven, together with dark green foliage. The wonderful effect of the massive brass bed placed in one window and the dark-colored mission library set in the other, against the white background can well be imagined. It was indeed beautiful.
