Potterton-Dunning

The wedding occurred at Pinckney. Addie Potterton in this village, when her daughter Ruth, became the bride of Myron W. Dunning, on Wednesday afternoon, November 11 at one o'clock. Rev. L. W. Ostrander performed the wedding ceremony in the presence of the immediate relatives of the bride and groom, after which a simple buffet luncheon was served to the guests.

The groom is the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Will Dunning of this place. He is one of Pinckney's hustling young business men and is well and favorably known in this community. The bride is the only daughter of Mrs. Addie Potterton, also of this village. She is one of Pinckney's fairest young ladies and has a host of friends. Both young people are graduates of the Pinckney high school. In fact the romance which culminated in their marriage Wednesday, began during school days.

After a short wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Dunning will be at home in this village after December 1st. They have a bright outlook upon life and their many friends wish them happiness in the journey.

State Is Quarantined

The discovery of foot and mouth disease among some of the fine herds of cattle in Southern Michigan has caused the Department of Agriculture at Washington to place a quarantine on Michigan until the scourge has been killed off.

Just as the quarantine became effective a movement had been started to send some fine cattle from Livingston county to the Ohio Land and Livestock Exposition to be held in Toledo, Ohio, in the near future, the quarantine however has made this impossible. Reed and Knowles have a consignment of cattle in the pavilion at Chicago which have been placed under quarantine. They were to have been shown at the coming live stock Exposition in that city. They were well at last reports and had just completed a tour of the fairs.

Herb Ackley has a bunch of cattle in the stock yards at Detroit that is slow of sale as a result of the quarantine. In some of the southern counties the farmers have suffered heavy losses as a result of the disease but everything is being done to stamp out the malady.—Tidings.

Card of Thanks

I wish to thank the patrons of the postoffice and all those with whom my work has been done, for the seventeen years and more that I have been connected with the Department, for your uniform kindness and consideration, your patience with my mistakes, and appreciation of my honest efforts. I have tried to give you the best service possible and shall carry with me many pleasant memories of the days I have spent in the Pinckney postoffice.

While thanking you most heartily for past support I bespeak for my successor the same kindly consideration that for the past has been accorded me. I feel sure that such confidence will not be misplaced. Cordially yours,

W. S. Jones, Agent

Back to the Smoke House

Farmers in all parts of the country are watching with interest an experiment which is being made in ~~Browne~~ county, Georgia. The Georgia farmers objected to the commercial system under which they were receiving but seven and eight cents a pound for the pork which they raised, while they saw ham and bacon of commerce retailing in their own markets for 25 cents a pound. They resolved to re-establish the antebellum smokehouses on their farms and immediately carried the resolution into effect. Through co-operation they commenced marketing their products in the finished form. They find that the profits which they make from curing their own meats are relatively larger, considering the time and expense involved, than those which they were receiving from marketing hogs on the hoof. The remarkable thing about this profitable experiment is that it has not been worked out in any of the grain centers or near any of the country's great markets, but in a remote county in the extreme southern part of Georgia, in a "one crop" section, and that crop cotton.

Henry M. Padley

With the death of Henry M. Padley another pioneer of Livingston county has crossed the border land from which no traveler ever returns. Henry M. Padley was born at Boston, England on September 20, 1827 and died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Chas. Teeple in this village, Tuesday, November 3.

When nine years of age he came with his parents to America, where they located in the township of Milford, Oakland county, Mich. Nearly all his life was spent in the township of Milford until his marriage to Christiana Gamble on January 3, 1866. The following spring they settled on a farm in Marion where they resided until the death of his wife in '03. To this union two children were born, Mrs. Chas. Teeple of Pinckney and W. H. Padley of Reardon, Washington.

For the past eleven years, Mr. Padley had made his home with his daughter, Mrs. Chas. Teeple in this village. Besides the son and daughter, there remains a large circle of friends to mourn the loss of a man who was a friend to many, an enemy to none.

The funeral was held from his late residence last Thursday, Rev. Camburn, officiating. Interment was made in the Pinckney cemetery.

Card of Thanks

We desire to express our heartfelt thanks to the neighbors and friends for their kindness during the burial of our beloved wife and mother, also to Rev. Coates for comforting words and the choir for their appropriate selections.

OLD LADY NUMBER 5

By LOUISE FORSSLUND

AUTHOR OF "THE STORY OF SARAH," "THE SHIP OF DREAMS," ETC.

The keeper went into the office with a somewhat hurried "Good-night," and soon Abe found himself alone again, the light in the kitchen beyond, no sound in the room save that of the booming of the surf, the rattling of the windows, and now and again the fall of a clinker in the stove.

The old man was surprised to find that he could not fall back into that blissful slumber again. Not sleeping, he had to think. He thought and thought—sober night thoughts—while the oysters "laid like a log in his stummick" and the coffee seemed to stir his brain to greater activity.

"Suppose," said the intoxicated brain, "another big storm should swoop down upon you and the bay should break up, and you and Samuel should be imprisoned on the beach for two or three months with a handful of men-folks!"

"Moo! Moo!" roared the breakers on the shore. "Serve you right for finding fault with the sisters!"

Come to think of it, if he had not been so ungracious of Miss Abigail's concern for him, he would now be in possession of a hop pillow to lull him back to sleep. Well, he had made his bed, and he would have to lie on it, although it was a hard old carpet-covered lounge. Having no hop pillow, he would count sheep.

One sheep going over the fence, two sheep, three—How tired he was! How his bones ached! It's no use talking, you can't make an old dog do the tricks of his puppy days. What an idiot he had been to climb that practise-mast! If he had fallen and broken his leg?

Four sheep. Maybe he was too old for gallivanting, after all. Maybe he was too old for anything except just to be "mollycoddled" by thoughtful old ladies. Now, be honest with yourself, Abe. Did you enjoy yourself today—no, yesterday? Did you? Well, yes and—no! Now, if Angy had been along!

Angy! That was why he could not go to sleep! He had forgotten to kiss her good-by! Wonder if she had noticed it? Wonder if she had missed him more on account of that neglect? Pshaw! What nonsense! Angy knew he wasn't no hand at kissin', and it was apt to give him rheumatism to bend down so far as her sweet old mouth.

He turned to the wall at the side of the narrow lounge, to the emptiness where her pillow should be. "Good-night, mother," he muttered huskily. Mother did not answer for the first time in nights beyond the counting. Mother would not be there to answer for at least six nights to come. A week, thought this old man, as the other old man had reflected a few hours before, is a long time when one has passed his threescore years and ten, and with each day sees the shadows growing longer.

Abraham put out his hard time-shrunken hand and touched in thought his wife's pillow, as if to persuade himself that she was really there in her place beside him. He remembered when first he had actually touched her pillow to convince himself that she was really there, too awed and too happy to believe that his youth's dream had come true; and he remembered now how his gentle, strong hand had crept along the linen until it cupped itself around her cheek; and he had felt the cheek grow hot with blushes in the darkness. She had not been "mother" then; she had been "dearest!" Would she think that he was growing childish if he should call her "dearest" now?

Smiling to himself, he concluded that he would try the effect of the tender term when he reached home again. He drew his hand back, whispering once more, "Good-night, mother." Then he fancied he could hear her say in her soft, reassuring tone, "Good-night, father." Father turned his back on the empty wall, praying with a sudden rush of passionate love that when the last call should come for him, it would be after he had said "Good-night, mother," to Angy and after she had said "Good-night, father," to him, and that they might meet somewhere, somehow, together with God, saying, "Good-morning, mother!" "Good-morning, father!" "What day is the day?"

CHAPTER XVII

The Doctor.

At dawn the station was wide awake and everybody out of bed. Samuel awoke downstairs in his stocking feet and stood in his hand, his eyes heavy with sleeplessness, and his nose sniffling.

He shivered as he drew close to the fire, and asked in one breath for a prescription for chilblains and where might Abe be. Abe's lounge was empty and his blankets neatly folded upon it.

The sunrise patrol from the east, who had just returned, made reply that he had met Captain Abe walking along the surf to get up an appetite for his griddlecakes and salt pork. Samuel sat down suddenly on the lounge and opened his mouth.

"Didn't he have enough exercise yest' day, for marcy's sake! Put'nigh killed me. I was that tired last night I couldn't sleep a wink. I declar', ef I wanst fer that fool newspaper a-comin' out ter night I'd go home terday. Yer a-gwine acrost, hain't yer, Havens?"

Havens laughed in response. Samuel glowered at him.

"I want home comforts back," he vowed sullenly. "The beach hain't what it used ter be. Goin' on a picnic with Abe Rose is like settin' yer teeth into a cast-iron stove lid covered with a thin layer o' puddin'. I'm a-goin' home."

The keeper assured him that no one would attempt to detain him if he found the station uncomfortable, and that if he preferred to leave Abraham behind the whole force would take pleasure in entertaining the more active old man.

Samuel Rushed to the Window.

"That old feller bates a phonograph," affirmed the Irishman. "It's good ter hear that he'll be left any-how fer comp'ny with this storm a-comin' up."

Samuel rushed to the window, for upstairs the panes had been too frosty for him to see out. A storm coming up? The beach did look gray and desolate, dun-colored in the dull light of the early day, with the winter-killed grass and the stunted green growth of cedar and holly and pine only making splotches of darkness under a gray sky which was filled with scurrying clouds. The wind, too, had risen during the night, and the increased roar of the surf was telling of foul weather at sea.

A storm threatening! And the pleasant prospect of being shut in at the beach with the cast-iron Abraham and these husky life-savers for the remainder of the winter! No doubt Abe would insist upon helping the men with the double duties imposed by thick weather, and drag Samuel out on patrol.

"When dew-yew start, Havens?" demanded Samuel in shaking tones. "Le's get off afore Abe git back an' tries ter hold me. He seems ter be so plagued stuck on the life over here, he'll think I must be taw."

But, though Havens had to wait for the return of the man who had gone on duty yesterday morning, still Abe had not put in an appearance when Samuel and the life-saver trudged down the trail through the woods of the bay. As he stepped into the seaman's consciousness at last began to prick him.

"Now sure the man will look arter the old fellow well an' not let him overdo!"

But the voices of the night had already begun, and the seagulls' voices were set toward Twin Coves. The soft chattering ended with the ring of the steel against the ice over the shining surface of the bay.

"Law, yes," Samuel eased his conscience; "of course they will. They couldn't hurt him, anyhow. I never seen anybody take so kindly ter hard-enin' as that air Abe."

CHAPTER XVIII.

Samuel's Welcome.

The shore at Twin Coves was a somewhat lonely spot, owing to stretches of marshland and a sweep of pine wood that reached almost to the edge of the water.

Samuel, however, having indicated that he wished to be landed at the foot of a path through the pines, found himself on the home shore scarcely ten minutes after he had left Bleak Hill—Havens already speeding toward his home some miles to the eastward, the bay seemingly deserted except for his sail, a high wind blowing, and the snow beginning to fall in scattered flakes.

Samuel picked up his grip, trudged through the heavy sand of the narrow beach, and entered the sweet-smelling pine wood. He was stiff with cold after the rough, swift voyage; his feet alone were hot—burning hot with chilblains. Away down in his heart he was uneasy lest some harm should come to Abe and the old man be caught in the approaching storm on the beach. But, oh, wasn't he glad to be home!

His house was still half a mile away; but he was once more on good, solid, dry land.

"I'll tell Blossey haow that air Abe Rose behaved," he reassured himself, when he pictured his wife's astonished and perhaps reproachful greeting, "an' then she won't wonder that I had ter quit him an' come back."

He recollects that Angy would be there, and hoped fervently that she might not prove so strenuous a charge as Abraham. Moreover, he hoped that she would not so absorb Blossey's attention as to preclude a wifely ministering to his aching feet and the application of "St. Jerushy Ile" to his lame and sore back.

The torture of the feet and back made walking harder, too, than he had believed possible with the prospect of relief so near. As he limped along he was forced to pause every now and again and set down the carpetbag, sometimes to rub his back, sometimes to seat himself on a stump and nurse for a few moments one of those demon-possessed feet. Could he have made any progress at all if he had not known that at home, no matter if there was company, there would at least be no Abe Rose to keep him going, to spur him on to unwelcome action, to force him to prove himself out of sheer self-respect the equal, if not the superior, in masculine strength?

Abe had led him that chase over at the station. Samuel was convinced, "a-purpose" to punish him for having so soundly berated him when he lay abed. That was all the thanks you ever got for doing things for "some folks."

Samuel hobbled onward, his brow knit with angry resentment. Did ever a half-mile seem so long, and had he actually been only twenty-three hours from home and Blossey? Oh, oh! his back and his feet! Oh, the weight of that bag! How much he needed sleep! How good it would be to have Blossey tuck him under the covers, and give him a hot lemonade with a stick of ginger in it!

If only he had held of Abe Rose now to tell him the opinion of him! Well, he reflected, you have to remember and winter with a person before you can know them. This one December day and night with Abe had been equal to the revelations of a dozen seasons. The next time Samuel tried to do good to anybody more than sixty-five, he'd know it. The next time he was persuaded into leaving his wife for over night, he'd know that, too. Various manuals for the young husband, which he had consulted, to the contrary notwithstanding, the place for a married man was at home.

Samuel sat down on a fallen tree which marked the half-way point between his place and the bay. The last half of the journey would seem shorter, and, at the end, there would be Blossey smiling a welcome, for he never doubted but that Blossey would be glad to see him. She thought a good deal of him, nor had she been especially anxious for that week of separation.

His face smoothed its troubled frown into a look of shining anticipation—the look that Samuel's face had worn when first he ushered Blossey into his tidy little home and murmured huskily:

"Mis' Darby, you're master o' the vessel now; I'm jest fo'castle hand."

Forgetting all his aches, his pains, his resentments, Samuel took a peppermint lozenge out of his pocket, rolled it under his tongue, and walked on. Presently, as he saw the light of the clearing through the trees, he broke into a run—an old man's trot—thus proving conclusively that his worry of lumbago and chilblains had been merely a wrongly diagnosed case of homesickness.

He grinned as he pictured Abe's dismay on returning to the station to find him gone. Still, he reflected, maybe Abe would have a better time alone with the young fellows; he had grown so plagued young himself all of a sudden. Samuel surely need not worry about him.

More and more good-natured grew Samuel's face, until a sociable rabbit, peeping at him from behind a bush, decided to run a race with the old gentleman, and hopped fearlessly out into the open.

MADE UP OF SMALL THINGS

Even the Most Insignificant Words and Acts May Be Productive of Joy or the Reverse.

A wild bird's song is a little thing—lost in the depths of a frowning sky. And yet as it falls on a listening ear and leaves its message of melody, earth's green seems brighter and life is sweeter, all through an autumn day.

The coo of a babe is a little thing—meaningless sound from a vacant mind.

But 'tis the only sound that all nations heed; the one clear language all races know.

A mother's love is a little thing—too soon, alas, forgot.

But it typifies to blind humankind the love and trust and hope divine that bear with patience calm and sweet the wilful wrongs in these lives of ours.

A passing smile is a little thing—lost in a world of toil and care.

And yet the soul with gloom oppressed and the life grown wearied with burdens hard will happier be in the after-glow of a smile that is warmly kind.

A kindly word is a little thing—a breath that goes and a sound that dies.

But the heart that gives and the heart that hears may know that it sings and sings and sings till at last it blends with the wild bird's song, and the coo of babes in what men call the celestial choir.—Utica Sunday Globe.

Lighting His Credibility.
Do you believe that George Washington chopped the cherry tree?

"Yes," replied Mr. Growther; "I'm willing to believe anything they tell me about American history, provided they don't get in a mess."

Recovered Napoleon's "Loot."

Perugia, who stole the Mona Lisa, is not the first who for patriotic reasons has despoiled the Louvre—the great picture gallery of Paris, which acquired the majority of its treasures by "patriotic" plundering. In 1815, after the fall of Napoleon, the allied powers of Europe gave orders that the art treasures carried off by the conqueror should be restored to their original owners. Fifteen states sent commissioners to Paris to claim their property, and more than 2,000 pictures were taken from the Louvre, together with almost innumerable statues, ornaments, knickknacks, and so forth.

The gallery was left with only 270 pictures and had to be closed for a while until the vacant spaces could be filled by gift or purchase.

Here and Hereafter.

The Tatler tells the story of an old Scotchman whose wit was edged with pessimism. One morning he met at her gate a neighbor whose husband was seriously ill.

"And how's yer husband this morning, Mrs. Tamson?" he asked, noticing.

"Oh, he's awfu' bad! The doctor said his temperature has gone to 150!"

"Nee, nee, you've made a mistake! Sandy's temperature could never be as much as 150—at least not in this world," he added, as an afterthought.

NEWSPAPER AS LIFE SAVER

Much to Be Gained, in Many Ways, by a Careful Perusal of Current Periodicals.

Some weeks ago a number of people in Baltimore died from eating toadstools which they thought were mushrooms. During a recent week some half dozen others have been poisoned in the same way. One of two conclusions must be drawn from these incidents: either that a great many persons do not read the newspapers, or that they are willing to jeopardize their lives for a savory dish. All the probabilities are that the explanation of the second occurrence is not recklessness, but failure to keep up with current events. People who read newspapers regularly not only get information about the state of the world in general and of their own community in particular, but they get many valuable pointers as to what to avoid and what not to do. The newspaper acts, in fact, as a sort of life preserver if it is read carefully. That is, for people of average intelligence. There are always some persons who, in spite of conspicuous warnings, will walk on the railroad track and will not look out for the locomotive.—Baltimore Sun.

GERMANS RENEW ATTACK ON LEFT WING OF ALLIES

With Strong Reinforcements
Try to Pierce Line
at Ypres

PARIS DISPATCHES CLAIM FRENCH MAKING GAINS

Italy Sends Troops to Tripoli for Inevitable Struggle With Turks
Who May Attempt to Retake Province.

London—The Germans Sunday launched another attempt to pierce the Allied lines at Ypres, the center of the fighting in Belgium for the last week, in their campaign to reach the French coast cities of Dunkirk and Calais.

Reinforced by thousands of fresh troops, who for three days had been pouring into the region about Ypres, the great German armies hurled themselves at the British and French forces, strongly entrenched both east and west of Ypres, and fought with a ferocity that showed plainly the desperation of their attack.

As to the outcome of the day's fighting, Berlin is silent, the only news from the German capital during the day referring to Saturday's developments. Paris, however, in its night communiqué, declares the German attack to have been without result.

Paris Claimed Important Gains.

The Paris official reports of the fighting indicate that the Allies are driving the Germans from the fortified crests along the Aisne, the bulwark of the invaders' extended line in northern France.

Elsewhere, from Ypres to the Croonne region, the Allies made slight advances of firmly held their ground, but the important feature of the government's latest statement is the successful attack by the Allies northeast of Soissons. Sunday they claim they drove the Germans from the plateau of Vregny, the most notable advance in that region which has been attained since the siege operations began seven weeks ago.

Previously, for a month, the French had been slowly and at painful efforts winning the advanced trenches of the Germans above the Aisne, and had seized half of the plateau north of Soissons. The capture of the crest of Vregny means that they now have a foothold in the highlands which will enable the heavy French guns to combat the German artillery on equal terms.

Italy Prepares to Fight.

Rome—Italy is sending troops to Tripoli to defend her settlements and territorial possession, for Turkey has disregarded the promise made to Italy by Germany that the Porte would not threaten Italian colonies and that Turkey had no designs on Tripoli.

Egyptians are tending more and more to force Italy into the war on the side of the Allies. The newest, most momentous, crisis has developed in Cyrenaica, due to the aggressions of Bedouins stirred by the preachers of Turkish and German agents.

Newspapers here Sunday indicates Turkey's intention to drive the Italians out of Tripoli and to regain the provinces lost in the war between Italy and Turkey. For a week Bedouins in the interior have waylaid small detachments of troops and have fired upon and wounded Italian soldiers. Bedouins appeared in force at Derna, on the eastern extremity of the Cyrenaica promontory, and made a savage effort to destroy the encampments there. The desert marauders were driven off by Italian infantrymen.

Germans Retreat in East.

Berlin—The first reference showing the direction and extent of the German retirement from before Warsaw was contained Saturday in a report mentioning the defeat of the Russian cavalry near Bole, 35 miles from the German frontier.

This shows that the Germans have retired behind the Warthe river, which roughly parallels the German eastern frontier and, according to Major Moritz, military correspondent of the Berliner Tageblatt, indicated that the German forces have also probably been withdrawn north of the Warthe on the East Prussian frontier.

Put That Pain to Use

As to Doan's Kidney Pills, read the following enthusiastic endorsement by one who has tested them.

GAVE UP HOPE Weak and Discouraged with Kidney Ills

"I can hardly straighten up."

William Hough, 918 Alderman St., Beidling, Mich., says: "I think I contracted kidney trouble in 1863 when I was in the army. The secretions from my kidneys contained a thick white sediment and the passages were accompanied by terrible pain. The flow was scanty and the passages too frequent. My back and limbs were stiff and lame and my fingers were crippled up. The joints in my fingers were swollen. I could hardly move my fingers or limbs. I got so bad I couldn't do any work and was laid up. I doctor'd, but physicians gave me only temporary relief. I didn't think I would ever get better and was discouraged. One day a druggist told me to try Doan's Kidney Pills and I used half a box. I soon felt better and by the time I had used two boxes I was able to go back to work. I kept on taking them and enjoyed the best of health. I have been feeling in good shape ever since and a short time ago I was able to run for an increase in pension the physician said my kidneys were in the best of shape. Doan's Kidney Pills have worked wonders in my case and I am anxious to have others profit by my experience. I shall be pleased to give Doan's Kidney Pills my endorsement whenever a favorable opportunity occurs."

Mr. Peaslee's Retort.
The pretty little waitress in the hotel in Dilmouth was very prompt and efficient—as if at home for the cuisine of the hotel, which was frankly bad. She was perhaps inclined to be a little pert at times, but that may have been merely her means of defense against the complaints of the patrons about the quality of the food and drink.

So when Mr. Peaslee asked his fourth cup of coffee, she brought it speedily. As he thoughtfully stirred the weak, yellowish solution, the waitress remarked:

"You seem to be fond of coffee."

Mr. Peaslee, nothing abashed, smiled upon her benignly.

"I'm fond of coffee," he admitted, placidly. "My! Ain't you quick to notice things! I'm dreatful fond of it. If I wasn't," he concluded, slowly, while his pleasant old face lighted whimsically, "I don't believe I'd drink so much water for the sake of getting a little coffee."—Youth's Companion.

How to Dodge the Snuffles.

"If you want to dodge the 'snuffles,'" says a well-known physician, "the time to begin is right now. Don't cuddle yourself. Don't hug the radiator. Don't wear heavy underwear. Don't stay indoors. Don't eat too much. Don't bundle up. Don't be too comfortable. And girls, go right on wearing your low-necked dresses. It is the most sensible style that woman has adopted in years. Keep to it. But do not make the mistake of changing from low to high and then back again. To get into condition for the winter and the rout of the 'snuffles' you must extend the unprotected area."

Cure For Nosebleed.
I sometimes read in the daily papers of death caused by bleeding at the nose. Here is a cure discovered by me and not known or practiced by any physician. I am an old shipmaster, have tried it in a number of cases and never knew it to fail. It is very simple. Any one can perform the operation.

Place the patient in a sitting position or propped up in bed, and with the forefinger press gently in the hollow of the throat just above the breast bone, and the bleeding will gradually cease.

To avoid bleeding at the nose, especially in the case of children, get a large bead the size of a large marble, put it on a silk or woolen string and tie it around the neck so that the bead hangs in the hollow of the throat and wear it night and day.—New York Sun.

A Remarkable Stork.
The whale billed stork is found on a lake south of the White Nile. The lake has never been mapped and is bordered by extensive swamps. It is hard to tell where swamp ends and lake begins, for most of the water surface is covered with a dense mat of tangled vegetation. On this mat the whale billed stork builds its nest. It is a very rare bird and is known to the Arabs as the Father of the Shoe, because of its huge shoe shaped bill. It is of solitary habits, blackish gray in color, with wide spreading long toed feet adapted for standing on the quaking surface of a floating field of vegetation. Its habits are sluggish, and it lives mainly on fish. Colonel Roosevelt describes it as "hunting sedately in muddy shallows or standing motionless for hours, surrounded by reed beds, or by long reaches of treacherous ooze."

Don't Delay Treating Your Cough
A slight cough often becomes serious. Lungs get congested, Bronchial Tubes fill with mucus. Your vitality is reduced. You need Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar-Honey. It soothes your irritated air passages, loosens mucus and makes your system resist those Colds. Give the Baby and Children Dr. Bell's Pine Tar Honey. It's guaranteed to help them. Only 25¢ at your Druggist.

Downfall of an Astronomer.
M. Gudule was the aged cook of the French astronomer Lalande. Like many men of distinction in his country and era, Lalande at one time dabbed a little in the culinary art himself. He contrived a sauce or two which Gudule pronounced promising for an amateur, and he was an expert maker of salads, which he was wont to prepare at table for the delectation of his guests.

"But there is now no more of that," Gudule lamented. "With his head full of miserable stars he hardly knows oil from vinegar. He makes no more salads, the unhappy man, and those which I prepare for him with the utmost care and serve charmingly—salads to tempt a king—he devours without a glance, without a word, without savoring, without appreciating, as if they were no more than boiled cabbage! A donkey eating thistles along the highway is more grateful for his dinner. Stars are well enough in the sky, look you, but it is imbecile to permit them to interfere with your meals here on earth. Heaven, which created victims and inspires cooks, never intended it. I, Gudule, say so."

Bravery of the Belgians.

When Caesar in his "Commentaries" pronounced the Belgae the bravest of all the Gauls he was merely recording the reputation that they had earned on many a battlefield and which they maintained even in defeat. Caesar overwhelmed more than a quarter of a million of them in the year 57 B. C. on the banks of the Aisne. After the crushing defeat on the Aisne several tribes, headed by the Nervii, made a last stand on the Sambre, taking the offensive against the Roman legions and very nearly defeating them by the intensity of their onslaught. But the training and discipline of Rome saved Caesar, and the final result of the heroic resistance of the Nervii was their practical annihilation. Their peace emissaries said, "Of 6,000 senators we have lost all but three; of 60,000 fighting men but 500 remain." It is from this stock that the Belgians of today are descended.—F. J. Splitstone in Leslie's.

Heat, Health and Happiness are Yours if the Home is Heated With a 718 or 821 Series Laurel Furnace.

Having the air in your home pure, fresh and properly moistened is just as important to the health of your family as having it thoroughly heated.

DRY BURNED-OUT AIR CAUSES UNTOLD SICKNESS

To many people overlook this fact in the selection of a furnace; with the result that the "burned" unhealthy, dry air in their home soon affects their health with attacks of grippe, coughs, colds and other winter ailments.

THE 718 AND 821 SERIES

Laurel Furnace reproduces in the home that evenly heated, fresh, warm air which nature furnishes during the summer months.

CONSTRUCTION FEATURES

that you would ordinarily think could only be shown on high-priced furnaces are regular equipment on the new 718 and 821 Series Laurel.

FULL CAST FRONT AND STRAIGHT CASING

Ash Pit. Large and roomy. Straight side walls allowing the use of a Laurel Ash Pan, thereby, doing away with shoveling ashes in basement.

Grate. Triplex, removable through ash pit door without the use of a tool.

Dust Flue. Connects ash pit with combustion chamber. Fitted with swing damper which eliminates dust when shaking grate.

Fire Pot. Is deep and made in two sections. Large cup joints.

Chain Plate Regular. Nickelized and connected to drafts by strong chains, enabling user to regulate draft from first floor.

Casings. Galvanized iron with asbestos and black iron linings, reducing heat radiation in basement.

Water Pan. Goodsized, insuring moisture in heat.

PINCKNEY DISPATCH

GERMANS SURRENDER FORT OF TSING TAO

Allies Win Position After Siege
Lasting Nearly Three Months.

IMPORTANT IN THAT IT RELEASES
"BRITISH AND JAPANESE FLEETS."

Naval Battle Reported in Progress Off
Chilean Coast—Two Thousand British Sailors Drowned When German Sink Enemy's Warships—Turkey
Declares "Holy War"—Russians Report Victories in Poland, East Prussia and Galicia.

Tokyo, Nov. 7.—It was officially announced here today that the German fortress of Tsing Tao has surrendered to the Japanese and British forces.

The announcement states that the first step in bringing about the surrender of the fortress occurred at midnight, when the infantry charged and occupied the middle fort of the line of defense. In this operation they took 200 prisoners.

The greatest advantage which will come to the allies by the fall of Tsing Tao will be the release of the fleets now before that stronghold. They will be freed to take part in naval activity in other seas.

It has been announced that the release of these vessels will be followed by an active campaign to drive the German cruisers which have been raiding shipping in all parts of the world from the high seas. It is not known whether the first action will be against the Germans now off the west coast of South America or the Karlsruhe and other raiders in the Indian ocean.

Japs Lose 1,078 in Battle.

London, Nov. 8.—The allies casualties before Tsing Tao are two British which had been sent to join the cruisers on the Pacific station, was not at the scene of the action.

2,000 Lost on British Warships.

Valparaiso, Chile, Nov. 6.—Officers of the German cruiser Scharnhorst expressed the belief that nearly two thousand British officers and sailors had been killed in the naval engagement off Coronel. The British cruiser Monmouth, which was sunk, carried a complement of 678 officers and men, and the cruiser Good Hope, the flag ship of Rear Admiral Sir Christopher Cradock, carried 900 officers and men.
In addition the British cruiser Glasgow and the transport Otranto were struck by shells from the German ships and damaged.

The German cruisers Scharnhorst, Gneisenau and the Nurnberg, which came into this harbor on Sunday night after the engagement, showed but little effect of the fight and Admiral Graf von Spee, commander of the German fleet in the Pacific, reported that only two men had been wounded on the Gneisenau.

German Warship Sunk; 266 Die.

London, Nov. 6.—The German cruiser Yorck struck a mine and was sunk in Jahde bay, near the mouth of the Weser, and of her crew of 266 officers and men are lost, according to an official announcement issued here. Neither of the contestants have been able to break the mighty deadlock.

"Great Victory" for Allies.
London, Nov. 7.—"The greatest success gained on the side of the allies since the beginning of the war has been the complete victory of the Russian army against the Germans in Poland, East Prussia and Galicia."

This was the word conveyed to General Joffre and Lord Kitchener in telegrams by Grand Duke Nicholas of Russia, commander of the czar's army.

"Following our successes upon the Vistula," said the telegram, "a complete victory has just been gained by our troops along the whole of the front in Galicia. I am most confident of the speedy and entire accomplishment of our common task, persuaded as I am that decisive victory will be gained by the allied armies."

This stirring news was followed by dispatches from Petrograd telling of the recapture by the Russians of the Galician town of Jaroslav with 5,000
Austrian prisoners.

Armies Fail to End Deadlock.

Paris, Nov. 7.—The bloody battle between the Germans and the allies in the region between Dixmude and the River Lys is still undecided, according to an official announcement issued here. Neither of the contestants have been able to break the mighty dead-
lock.

Lille Is in Flames.

Fired by the shells of the allies' artillery, Lille is burning in several places. Several villages surrounding that city have been burned to the ground. The fighting in that region of northern France continues night and day, but thus far the Germans have balked the efforts of the allies to drive them from Lille.

1,750,000 Germans Lost.

London, Nov. 6.—Hilaire Belloc, war expert in Land and Water, estimates that the German losses up to date amount to about 1,750,000 men.
He says that he arrived at these figures by scientific calculations.

"I know," he writes, "that the figure looks startlingly large, but it would be easy by a little manipulation to make out much larger totals. I killed and eight wounded, including two majors, and 200 Japanese killed and 873 wounded.

Naval Battle in Progress.

San Francisco, Nov. 7.—That the naval battle off the coast of Chile, the first engagement of which last Sunday proved so disastrous to the British,
has been renewed is indicated in private advice today to prominent British shipping agents here from their correspondents in Valparaiso.

The messages assert that British,
German and Japanese warships now are engaged in battle. No details are given, however.

The press dispatches telling of last Sunday's sea fight are confirmed in today's messages.

The Gneisenau, Scharnhorst, Nurnberg, Leipzig, and Dresden were the German ships engaged. The British cruiser Monmouth was sunk, the cruiser Good Hope set afire and the cruiser Glasgow partially wrecked. The Otranto was spared.

London Admits Losses.

London, Nov. 6.—The loss of the British cruiser Good Hope was officially announced today in a statement issued by the admiralty, which said that the cruiser foundered in the recent engagement with the German ships off the coast of Chile.

The cruiser Monmouth, which was engaged in the recent engagement with the German ships, was beached, according to the Admiralty statement.

men, according to a proclamation said to have been issued by the Sheik-ul-Islam must either fight the enemies of Turkey or be disloyal to the head of their faith. No serious demonstrations of the Moslem population are feared in India.

Many Loyal to Britain.

The great majority of the followers of Islam there are said to be loyal to Great Britain. This statement is borne out by the proclamation issued by the Nizam of Hyderabad, who is perhaps the most important Moslem potentate in India, calling upon all Moslems in that country to remain loyal to Great Britain. His proclamation reads:

"It is the bounden duty of the Mohammedans of India to adhere to their old and tried loyalty to the British government, in which power they enjoy the highest personal and religious liberty, such as they would under no Moslem or non-Moslem power."

Already there are reports that the Mohammedans of Afghanistan are marching on the Indian frontier. A message from Constantinople via Berlin says that the Amir of Afghanistan has sent out 270,000 men with 136
guns.

The bombardment of the Dardanelles forts continued without much result. A Turkish report states that one British ship was struck by a shell from a fort, and that an explosion followed on board and the vessel was sunk.

have attempted to fix the lowest conceivable minimum."

The total includes the losses by sickness. Strictly adhering to the losses in the field—men hit or caught—B.
Belloc puts the figures at a million and a quarter.

Prince of Wales Will Go to the Front.

London, Nov. 6.—The prince of Wales, who since he joined the army at the beginning of the war has been importuning his father and Lord Kitchener for permission to go to the front, probably will have his wish granted soon. The prince may join Sir John French's staff on the continent, which means he will be kept a safe distance behind the firing line, instead of serving with his regiment, the Grenadier guards.

Germany Massing Submarines.

London, Nov. 6.—German submarines are being concentrated at Bruges for a raid on the English coast. Torpedo boats are being rushed in sections to Belgium on trains. The Germans have fortified the Belgian coast between Nieuport and Seabridge.

German War Minister Ill.

Berlin, Nov. 7.—War Minister von Wartowski is suffering from heart disease. He has left the war zone for Bad Nauheim. General von Deimling of the 80th Infantry has been promoted by a minister from a no response with the army.

DEFENDS POPULAR REMEDIES

Speaker Says Newspapers Should Investigate Merits of Medicines Before Barring Advertisements.

That an organized attempt has been made to blacken the reputation of the popular family remedies of this country, and to mislead the newspaper publishers into rejecting the advertising of such medicines, was the charge made by Carl J. Balliett, of Buffalo, N. Y., at the convention of the Advertizing Affiliation at Detroit.

Mr. Balliett is a director of the Proprietary Association of America, which includes in its membership two hundred firms which make the popular prepared medicines of America.

Mr. Balliett pointed out that it is the duty of the newspaper publisher to refuse the advertising of any fake or fraudulent medicine, just as it is his duty to refuse any fake or fraudulent advertising, but it is not right to shut down on all medical advertising because there have been some fakers, any more than it would be right to refuse to publish all department store advertising because certain stores have made a practice of lying about bargain sales.

Disease and death are mysteries.
People who are perfectly well are skeptical. They laugh at the time-worn patent medicine joke, just as they laugh again and again over the many variations of the operation joke
—"The operation was a success but the patient died." This so-called humor has perhaps hurt the medicine business with well people, but when the hitherto healthy man feels a severe pain or illness, he immediately wants medicine, and will bless the cure whether it be at the hands of a regular doctor, a homeopath, an osteopath, a Christian Scientist or patent medicine. There is nothing more deadly than disease; nothing more honorable than to cure it.

Mr. Balliett refuted the idea sought to be spread about that patent medicines are unpopular by showing that from 1910 to 1912 the amount of prepared medicines consumed in America increased from $100,000,000 to $160, 000,000 annually. He showed that, although the American Medical Association is trying as an organization to exterminate so-called patent medicines, the family doctor, individually, is not fighting them but prescribing them. He estimated that 40% of the prescriptions written by doctors today include proprietary medicines.

The writings of Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, he said, have also aimed to destroy confidence in proprietary medicines; but that Dr. Wiley's ideas are not infallible is shown by cases where his analyses were entirely wrong. Mr.
Balliett mentioned a case where, with all the power of the Government, he fought a preparation as being dangerous to health, and was ingloriously walloped.

There has been spread the idea that a clever faker can mix a few useless ingredients and, by smart advertising, sell tons of it and win sudden wealth;
whereas, as a matter of fact, the medicine business is notoriously difficult, and, where there has been one success
at it, there have been a hundred failures. Any medicine which has no merit cannot live, because persons who are duped into buying it once will not buy it again, and the profit from advertising a medicine can only come from repeat sales to the same, satisfied people. Therefore, any medicine which has been on the market for a number of years, and is still advertised, must have merit behind it to account for its success.

In conclusion Mr. Balliett declared that no newspaper is doing justice to its readers in the matter of medical or other advertising, unless it investigates, not only the wording of the advertisement offered for publication,
but the merits of the article advertised. He pointed out that the few newspapers who have been deluded into the policy of barring out medical advertising have adopted this general policy, rather than to form an investigation bureau of this kind which could,
in a constructive and useful effort, investigate and decide what is a good product and what is a fraud, in not only the medicine business, but in every other business which advertises its wares to the public.

The audience seemed to agree with Mr. Balliett's ideas on the subject and the chairman decided the question at issue in his favor.

HOROSCOPE"The stars incline, but do not compel"*Copyright by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate
THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 19, 1914.

Astrology finds this a day in which the planetary conditions are comparatively unimportant. Neptune, Mercury and Uranus are all mildly adverse, while the sun is slightly benevolent in aspect.

There is a sinister omen for shipping, which may be imperiled even more than in the past. Bad weather is prognosticated and loss through storms as well as in the fortunes of war is foretold. In this connection it will be recalled that the prognostications of wholesale drownings made in the spring have been strangely fulfilled.

It is not a fortunate time for contracts and agreements of sort, for unexpected events will make difficult the carrying out of plans of commercial importance. It is prophesied, however, that merchants and bankers will reap large rewards after many anxieties, but they will have to cope with the unexpected.

Uranus is in a place held to indicate a temporary cessation of research and study in abstract science and in abstruse philosophies.

The stars presage better times for France. Neptune has entered the ruling sign of the country and "protection and gradual access of power" are foreshadowed.

There is a sinister sign for an American, who has held exalted positions. He will surrender prestige and become unpopular because of ill-advised and impetuous acts and utterances. This month will be exceedingly unlucky for him and he will suffer severely from mental and physical conditions.

Again a great national feminist movement is presaged by the stars. This is not political, the seers declare.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the prognostication of change that will bring success and prosperity.

Children born on this day will enjoy life. They may be high-spirited and headstrong, but they will be able to dominate circumstances and to command success.

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 20, 1914.

He who works early will best succeed today according to the prognostications of the astrologers. Although Saturn exercises an evil influence before daybreak, Mars, Uranus, Mercury and Venus are in benevolent aspect in the morning hours of work. In the afternoon the sun is adverse.

It is held that the planets presage a winter of great trial to the people of all nations, who will suffer poverty and illness.

The seers agree on general predictions of distress, but a London astrologer sees that again Daniel's prophecy is to be fulfilled and that a certain king shall see his kingdom "broken and divided to the four winds and not to his posterity nor according to his dominion which he ruled for his kingdom."

There is an encouraging sign for women today. In business and professional affairs they should benefit. They will organize in new enterprises and will accomplish much for the benefit of humanity in the next year.

Romance is subject to most encouraging conditions. The stars indicate a growth of sentiment and return to less mercenary standards of marriage than have prevailed recently.

Advertising is governed favorably during this configuration. Publicity should be profitable to promoters of world interests.

The afternoon is not a fortunate time for diplomacy or for seeking aid or advice from persons in high places.

Dealers in hardware, hunters, fishermen and woodsmen are subject to lucky guidance today.

Among those on whom Mars smiles are architects, stonemasons, carpenters, laundresses and tobacconists.

Conquerors and tyrants should be aided by the stars as they are poised during this day, which is not fortunate for those who have pity and kindness as their guides.

Greece is warned against sinister intentions that bode ill for those who rule.

Persons whose birthdate it is are counseled to guard the health during the coming year. They may have financial worries.

Children born on this day will be bright, keen and active, but they may have high-strung natures. Violent tempers are often inherited by these subjects of Scorpio, who are on the coop and partake of the characteristics of singularly people.

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 21, 1914.

Venus rules strongly for good in the early hours today. Astrology finds that later the planet changes to evil aspect, while Mars is also adverse.

According to the reading of the stars, the day is rather an unimportant day. Jupiter is in benevolent aspect, but Saturn is adverse, and it is wise to exercise caution.

Persons whose birthdate it is should avoid litigation and quarrels with business associates. Men will have an active year in the commercial world.

This is not a lucky day for starting any new enterprise. It will pay to put off any important venture in business.

Diplomatic blunders are foretold for Greece. The king of Sweden is subject to a sinister sway, which is read as indicating loss of health and practice.

Japan is subject to a government of the moment which is believed to be of Mars when in malefic sway. Much competition in all vocations is foretold, but out of great exigencies will grow large achievements.

Actors, singers, painters and sculptors should benefit in the morning. They have the prognostication of prosperous days after the new year is becoming old. There is a prophecy that the United States will become the new center of artistic life and that music will claim serious attention from the nation.

Theaters are under a government of the stars, which presages many changes in the personnel of managers and players. The outlook is not good for American actors this month or next, but there is promise of ultimate gain in the development of new forces now at work.

Under this sign preparers of medicine are believed to prosper. There is a prediction that American chemists are to win fame and fortune.

Fame for a woman who will dictate the fashions is prophesied, but whether she will succeed as a designer or merely as a demonstrator of modes is not made plain by the seers.

Astrologers who read the signs for South America find little forecast of rapidly increasing trade with the United States, which will be slow to utilize opportunity, it is declared. Bankers are subject to planetary sway which is said to indicate obstacles and problems of grave character.

Socialism is, well, a specter. It will gather astonishing power, the seers declare, owing to a still-unwritten page of history, which is to change public opinion.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of rather a prosperous year. There is a warning against possible indiscretion in dealings with persons of opposite sex.

Children born on this day are likely to enjoy life. Boys should be successful in whatever vocations they choose. Girls probably will be great belles.

SUNDAY, NOVEMBER 22, 1914.

This is a day of contradictory influences, according to astrology. While Neptune, Saturn and Uranus are all adverse, Venus and the sun are in benevolent aspect. Mars changes from evil to good.

The best aspect of the day is for earnest, enthusiastic minds that seek to solve big problems. The sun gives domination, power, vigor and foresight. Rulers and all who have the destinies of nations in their keeping should benefit.

It is a fairly good day for women, who should be fortunate in their love affairs. Marriages and engagements are subject to good ruling.

Neptune presages danger from schemers. Fraud and misrepresentation are believed to flourish under this rule. It is predicted that crimes that have to do with money will multiply during the winter.

Uranus is in place held to be most unfortunate for those who should use good judgment. Important decisions should be delayed until a more auspicious time.

The planets do not give any assurance of speedy ending of war. There is prophecy of a winter campaign more terrible than any that has ever been endured. The seers declare that the crossing of the Alps by Napoleon's army produced less suffering than will be endured during the coming winter.

Persons whose birthdate it is are advised to avoid too much diversion. With attention to business men may have a prosperous year. Those who are employed will benefit. The young will become engaged or will marry.

Children born on this day may have dispositions that are mercurial and difficult to deal with, but they will have bright minds and should succeed in life.

MONDAY, NOVEMBER 23, 1914.

According to the reading of the stars, this is rather an unimportant day. Jupiter is in benevolent aspect, but Saturn is adverse, and it is wise to exercise caution.

The rule is fairly good for bankers, merchants and lawyers, who should find the day's activities important chiefly because they lead to broadened fields of industry.

The Panama canal is subject to a rule that will cause added anxiety, it is said, for new problems will be presented by conditions that follow the war. This prophecy does not refer to the war. This prophecy does not refer to any complication that can be foreseen by statesmen and diplomats, but to something quite unexpected.

The exposition in San Francisco has a guidance of the planets which promises much good luck.

While Saturn is unfriendly, it is wise to avoid dark places and unknown routes of travel. Accidents are believed to be common while the planet is in evil aspect.

This is not a lucky day for starting any new enterprise. It will pay to put off any important venture in business.

Diplomatic blunders are foretold for Greece. The king of Sweden is subject to a sinister sway, which is read as indicating loss of health and practice.

Japan is subject to a government of the moment which is believed to be seers to be exceedingly interesting to the United States.

Neptune in Leo will continue to trouble France, it is said by foreign astrologers, but Paris is safe, and the future of the country is brilliant.

The president of the United States is warned against the possibility of blunders on the part of a trusted diplomat, whom he will send on secret mission.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a successful year. Both men and women will prosper financially. Young persons will have romances.

Children born on this day should prosper all through life. They will enjoy work as well as play. Boys should like outdoor sports and have great physical strength.

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 24, 1914.

This is rather an unfortunate day, for while in the early hours, Mercury and Saturn are in benevolent aspect, the sun and Venus are strongly adverse later.

It is a most unlucky time for seeking positions or for attempting any enterprise depending upon the assistance of men in power, financially or commercially.

Women are warned to be cautious. The planets indicate that the next few months will not be favorable to feminist movements or to agitation along reform lines.

Astrologers hold that, owing to the great loss of men in the European war, women will be forced into prominence in many lines of work, but they foresee danger in any tendency to force great issues.

The death of a woman prominent in society and philanthropic activities is foretold. She has attained world-wide fame, it is said, and her loss will be mourned in other countries.

Saturn today gives encouragement to agriculturists, florists, miners and all who find wealth in the ground. The new year will bring prosperity to all who sell land or till it, the seers declare.

It is an exceedingly unlucky day for love affairs. Domestic conditions are likely to be disturbed while this rule prevails.

Vanity, indulgence in useless luxuries, and selfishness are believed to be produced in persons susceptible to the influence of Venus, when the star is unfriendly. Self-control should be practiced while the government prevails.

Jupiter is believed to presage the passing of laws favorable to labor and industry, but strikes are foretold.

Persons whose birthdate it is may have worries in the family circle. Men should be wise in conducting their affairs.

Children born on this day have rather a menacing omen. They may often need money, and they will demand much of life. These subjects of Sagittarius should be honorable, persevering, and not easily discouraged.

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 25, 1914.

Good and evil balance in the scales today, according to the reading of the stars. While Mercury is in a place strongly benevolent in its influence, Mars rules stubbornly for evil. Neptune is slightly adverse and Jupiter rather favorable.

Editors, publishers and advertisers should benefit while this configuration lasts. The signs indicate a revival of interest in books and a change in methods of obtaining publicity.

Writers should derive aid while this sway continues. Again the rise of a new poet is prognosticated, and the beginning of a great epoch in American letters.

Young persons are believed to be especially fortunate when Mercury rules. Astrologers declare that the future will give them greater opportunities than have been enjoyed by any generation. The year in the colleges will be most extraordinary in good influences, it is prognosticated.

This should be a fortunate day for the presentation of any musical or artistic entertainment. The planetary influences are believed to produce a receptive, responsive frame of mind on the part of audiences.

Soldiers are under a malign rule today. Suffering from weather conditions, disease and famine, as well as peril from shot and shell, are indicated for this week.

Mexico's stars are still threatening, and there is little promise of lasting peace for many months. Americans are warned of unexpected developments that will cause the president added anxieties.

Again the stars foreshadow much sorrow to members of royal families in Europe. Bereavement in the household of King George and Queen Mary is indicated.

Persons whose birthdate it is should avoid litigation and quarrels with business associates. Men will have an active year in the commercial world.

Children born on this day probably will be exceedingly bright, but quick-tempered. Boys may be headstrong, fond of pleasure, and exceedingly active. Girls will be fortunate. Their subjects of Sagittarius have a positive influence on their emotional nature.

This is not a lucky day for starting any new enterprise. It will pay to put off any important venture in business.

Diplomatic blunders are foretold for Greece. The king of Sweden is subject to a sinister sway, which is read as indicating loss of health and practice.

Japan is subject to a government of the moment which is believed to be

The opinion of a candid person is seldom sought a second time.

When some men fail to make a hit they try to fix the responsibility on the hammer.

Almost Back.

"I hear your son is back in college."
"No—quarter back."

If you wish beautiful, clear, white clothes, use Red Cross Ball Bluc. At all good grocers. Adv.

For every fault we find in our neighbor we overlook a dozen or more in ourselves.

It is far better for a woman to laugh than cry—unless she has occasion to work her husband for a new hat.

A Busy Day.

When Doppel gets hold of his Sunday newspaper he reads through it without stopping.

Doesn't he even stop for dinner?"

"My dear fellow, I'm referring to a metropolitan Sunday newspaper. He doesn't have time to stop for dinner."

Yes, waiting for every farmer or farmer's son — any industrious American who is anxious to establish for himself a happy home and prosperity. Canada's hearty invitation this year is more attractive than ever. Wheat is higher but her farm land just as cheap and in the provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta.

150 Acre Homesteads are Actually Free to Settlers and Other Land at From $15 to $20 per Acre

The people of European countries as well as the American continent must be fed—thus an even greater demand for Canadian Wheat will keep up the price. Any farmer who can buy land at $15.00 to $20.00 per acre is bound to make money—that's what you can expect in Western Canada. Wonderful yields also of Oats, Barley and Flax. Mixed Farming is fully as profitable an industry as grain raising. The excellent granite soil of northern markets convenient, climate excellent.

Mail-order service is not necessary but there is an unusual demand for settlers in the provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta. Call or write to the nearest office of the Canadian Government, Ottawa, Ontario, Canada, or to the Canadian Government, Ottawa, Ontario, Canada.
