"Sunset and evening star
And one clear call for me,
And may there be no moaning of the bar
When I put out to sea.
But such a tide as moving seems asleep
Too full for sound and foam
When that which draws from out the boundless deep
Turns again home.
Twilight and evening bell
And after that the dark
And may there be no sadness of farewell
When I embark.
For though from out our bourne of time and place
The flood may bear me far
I hope to see my Pilot face to face
When I have crossed the bar."

Card of Thanks

The family of the late H. D. Grieve wishes to express their sincere gratitude to all those who extended sympathy by word or deed in their recent bereavement. The words spoken by Rev. Jones, the beautiful flowers, the comforting hymn sung by the choir are appreciated more than words.

The Livingston Mutual Telephone company has issued a call of $10 per share on its members to meet demands for repair work and new additions.—Livingston Democrat.

Complaints are being received at Pontiac of the larceny of hickory nuts from tree growing by the road side or in the fields near by. There seems to be a misunderstanding of the law on wayside trees. The courts have held that even where the trees grow outside the fence line of a farm, they are the property of the land owner.—South Lyon Herald.

Battle Creek, Oct. 28.—George D. Connors, secretary of the Detroit Driving club and one of the most prominent horsemen in Michigan, died at his home here today. He was 57 years old.—Ann Arbor News.

Sunday was field day in Oxford for auto speeders and Deputy Sheriff Drahnner made high score with a bag of sixteen who were wheeling through the village's main thoroughfare at speeds which the deputy said ran from 20 to 40 miles, in violation of our 10 miles an hour speed limit.—Oxford Leader.

The Howell Electric Motor Company, recently organized, has broken ground for their factory just across the Ann Arbor railroad north of the Spencer-Smith factory and the foundation walls are well in. The Shafers are after it and it will not take long to put up the walls and get it inclosed.—Livingston Republican.

Two more muskrat hunters from Detroit who had violated the law at Island Lake were brought out Saturday and pleaded guilty in Justice Appleton's court, paying a fine of $16.50 each. There were six in the bunch and four of them have settled. The other two are expected to come across soon.—Brighton Argus.

A Halloween Shower

On last Thursday evening, Oct. 28, Mrs. M. J. Reason entertained a company of ladies at her home, in honor of Miss Florence Reason. The house was beautifully decorated, part being decorated with white in honor of the bride elect and the other part was decorated with halloween trimmings. The evening was spent in a social chat, with music and games. A delicious luncheon was served by the hostess consisting of chicken sandwiches, cake, doughnuts and brick ice cream, covered with hearts. After luncheon the bride elect was presented with many beautiful and useful gifts. The guests departed to their homes after having spent a very enjoyable evening.

School Notes

The foot ball team goes to Stockbridge next Saturday. This is the first game of the season.

Victor Johnson of Detroit visited the school Monday to renew old acquaintances.

The following are honor students for the month of Oct.; Arla Gardner, Raymond Harris, Pearl Hanes, Ambrose Murphy, Zita Harris, Helene Camburn, Roy Campbell, Jenny Docking, Madeline Bowman, and Ferne Tupper.

Report books will be given out every month to each individual student. Parents are requested to examine books and ascertain whether or not children are doing passing work; if they are not the parents should endeavor to see the Supt. and find out what the matter is. Do not delay this matter until next June, for then it will be too late. It takes but little to see to this matter now, and will prove more satisfactory than going about knocking the educational system in general because someone has failed in his work. A list of honor students (those doing excellent work and receiving a high grade in department) will be published in the school notes each month.

GERMANY ASKS FOR POLISH RELIEF

WANTS AMERICANS TO HANDLE SITUATION SIMILAR TO BELGIUM.

THIRTY MILLIONS IN NEED

Russia Joins in Promise That No Supplies For Relief Work Will Be Confiscated for Soldiers.

Washington—Germany has asked the American commission for relief in Belgium to undertake in Poland relief measures similar to those taken in Belgium. Officials of the state department have been informed that the commission has been told that between 20,000,000 and 30,000,000 people in that part of Poland occupied by German troops are destitute and in dire need. Adequately to care for them would mean, it was said, an expenditure of approximately $30,000,000 a month. Substantial negotiations are said to be proceeding, despite great difficulties.

In addition to the financing of such relief measures, it was pointed out Saturday that the commission would have considerable trouble in regard to transportation and distribution of supplies and clothing. All danger of having relief supplies confiscated by men under arms or of supplies never reaching destination was said to have been overcome. The arrangement would be the same as that which prevailed in Belgium.

The state department will not have to be consulted should the commission finally decide to undertake the work. Germany and Russia are reported willing that such work should be placed in the hands of Americans.

NEXT MEETING AT SAGINAW

Osteopaths of State Elect Officers at Grand Rapids Session.

Grand Rapids—Dr. F. J. Harlan, of Flint, was elected president and Saginaw was chosen as the next meeting place at the closing session of the annual convention of the Michigan State Osteopathic association. Other officers named are:

Dr. Margaret Thompson, of Grand Rapids, vice-president; Dr. Kate R. Miller, of Port Huron, secretary; Dr. Bruce L. Hayden, of Saginaw, treasurer; Dr. G. B. F. Clark, of Detroit, statistician.

The average man eats from 25 to 75 per cent too much according to Dr. Balcon Holcomb, of Chicago, who addressed the convention.

Wants City to Pay for Death.

Ionia—Otto Burmeister, of Grand Rapids, has presented a claim against the city of Ionia for damages to Edna Snyder his ward, through the death of Theodore Snyder, who was killed "Dollar Day." Snyder, who came here with a balloonist, climbed a telegraph pole and was electrocuted. The claim is made under the employers' liability act, on the theory that Snyder was working for the "Dollar Day" committee appointed by the council to secure the balloon attraction. The city will deny liability.

Inventor of Sweeper Dead.

Grand Rapids—Charles B. Judd, aged 63 years, one of the founders of the Bissell Carpet Sweeper company, died at midnight Sunday night of paralysis.

Mr. Judd invented a carpet sweeper about 35 years ago. A short time later he combined his invention with the one of M. R. Bissell.

Mr. Judd was manager and secretary until he retired from active business several years ago.

Marries Husband She Had Arrested.

Ludington—When Mrs. Agnes Dorow failed in getting her divorced husband, Joseph Dyodowicz, convicted of improper conduct she had him arrested and fined $5 for assault and battery.

The trouble rekindled the fires of love in the hearts of Joseph and his wife, who had been divorced about a year, and they were remarried by the justice who imposed the fine.

ITEMS OF STATE INTEREST

Reports from various sources of the county show that hog cholera cost the farmers of Lenawee county $40,000 during 1914.

Florida authorities have asked the Michigan state dairy and food commissioner to warn the people against eating unripe grapefruit. There is a report in Michigan which covers the state.

MICHIGAN TEACHERS ARE TOLD OF PEACE PLANS

DR. DAVID STARR JORDAN.

Saginaw—At the great meeting of the teachers of the state here Dr. Jordan, president of Leland Stanford university, told of the peace movement to which he is devoting much of his energies. He said:

"We do not ask national disarmament because we know our request would not be granted, and because we realize that preparedness may be utilized as a preventive," said Dr. Jordan. "Neither do we bind ourselves absolutely to the slogan, 'Peace at any price,' for the price of peace is sometimes greater than the cost of war.

"This European war is an outgrowth of dissatisfaction of the lower classes, a struggle on the privileges. It is not necessarily the wish of the masses. In every nation the so-called upper classes saw the growing dissatisfaction of the lower classes and the custom of the ancients was followed."

TWENTY DIE IN SCHOOL FIRE

Terrible Loss of Life When Parochial School Building at Peabody Is Destroyed.

Peabody, Mass.—Twenty pupils of St. John's parochial school lost their lives in a fire that, starting in the basement a few minutes after the morning session had opened Thursday, swept through the three stories of the brick and wooden school building in less than five minutes.

Nineteen of the boys and girls, none of whom was out of their teens, were burned or crushed to death while attempting to escape. A score of others were injured, some dangerously. Of the latter one, Mildred Mead, aged 16, died after having been removed to a hospital.

All the sisters escaped, but Mother Superior Marie Carmelita, was seriously burned. At the convent house it was said her injuries probably were not fatal, although she is prostrated by the disaster and the suffering of her charges.

The first word of the fire is believed to have come from a tardy pupil who smelled smoke and reported it to the mother superior. The children had just finished morning prayer, when the gong sounded for fire drill. Mother Marie hurried to tell the sisters of the actual danger, and the movements of the fire drill were started quickly.

A few days ago in a practice drill the building was emptied within two minutes. It would have been cleared in almost the same time Thursday, in the opinion of Rev. Nicholas J. Murphy, pastor of St. Joseph's Roman Catholic church, but for the falling of a child believed to be a cripple, in the front vestibule. Over her body child after child, fearful of the flames, and pressed on by the crowd behind, stumbled and fell the opening was choked and further escape was in this way stopped.

Claim All Laws Complied With.

Criticism by citizens of the lack of fire escapes on the school building were met by statements from state and town officials that every requirement of law had been met. Deputy Chief George C. Neal of the state police said that the loss of life "apparently was not due to any lack of fire precautions, but simply to the unfortunate place in which the fire started, almost under the front steps, and the accident which blocked the front door."

The building was a three-story brick structure, of 11 rooms, nine of which were used as classrooms. Within, it was finished in wood and the flames ran entirely through it, so that only the outer walls were standing.

Seventy-five survivors of the Thirtieth Michigan infantry attended the 300th annual reunion of the regiment at Kalamazoo Thursday and Friday.

GARRISON FAVORS NATIONAL GUARD

WOULD PRACTICALLY DOUBLE APPROPRIATIONS TO STATE MILITIA.

SECRETARY TELLS OF PLANS

Would Receive State Organizations Into the Continental Army In-tact Recognizing the Same Rank.

Washington—Practically doubled federal appropriations for the state militia and opening of the proposed continental army to any organization or individual of the national guard desirous to enter and free to do so, are contemplated in the army side of the administration's national defense program.

Details of the provision to be made for the militia were made public for the first time in a statement issued Sunday by Secretary Garrison, commenting upon the conference held at the war department during the past week by the executive committee of the National guard association. Although opposition to the continental army idea was expressed at first by some of the National guard officers, when the conference closed it was announced that a mutual viewpoint had been reached.

"In my proposition," said Mr. Garrison, "the membership of the National guard is offered alternatively, based upon this full recognition and meeting every proper point of view with respect to their relationship to the matter of military policy. In other words, I propose that any and every organization of the National guard that is free to do so, insofar as its state obligations are concerned, may come over into the national force intact and be accorded exactly the same position therein that it now holds. Any individual who prefers the intensive training and other features of the national force will likewise be admitted there to, rank for rank, and grade for grade."

"With respect to the National guard in the states the plan not only contemplates continuing the financial and personal aid on behalf of the national government, but largely increases the same, practically doubling it the next fiscal year."

SIR CHARLES TUPPER DEAD

Venerable Canadian Statesman Had Been Prominent Since 1867.

Ottawa, Ont.—Sir Charles Tupper, venerable Canadian statesman, died in England Saturday. He was 94 years old.

The news of the death of Sir Charles came in cablegram from Sir George Perley, Canadian high commissioner in London, to Sir Robert Borden, the premier.

From the establishment of the Dominion of Canada in 1867, in which he played a prominent part, up to within a few years ago, Sir Charles Tupper was so prominent in Canadian statesmanship that, upon his retirement, he, like the late Lord Strathcona, was called "Canada's Grand Old Man."

BLANCHE WALSH IS DEAD

Great Actress Had Been On Stage for More Than Twenty Years.

Cleveland, O.—Blanche Walsh, the actress, died Sunday night in a hospital, where she was taken two weeks ago for an illness which required an operation.

Miss Walsh's refusal to disappoint an audience caused a relapse, from which she died. After she went under the knife, she insisted on keeping an engagement at Youngstown, O., where she collapsed and was brought back to the hospital here.

In private life she was Mrs. William H. Travers.

Blanche Walsh was born in New York city, January 4, 1873, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Walsh. Her father at that time was a locally well known politician of the old sixth ward. He was once warden of the Tombs prison. She had been on the American stage for more than twenty years.

Seen and Heard in Michigan

Marlette.—Orson Clark, for many years a resident of Marlette, died suddenly at his home. He was one of the few Sanilac county survivors of the Civil war.

Cadillac.—Clayton Cool and Albert Briggs of Leroy told Justice McDowell of Tustin they didn't know the trout season was closed when arraigned on a charge of catching trout out of season. They paid fines totaling $30.

Kalamazoo.—Rev. William J. Campbell, pastor of the First Congregational church, who came to Kalamazoo three years ago from Port Huron, has accepted a call to the First Congregational church of Portland, Me.

Munising.—Earl McKenzie, while hunting near here, slipped from a stump and his shotgun was accidentally discharged. The contents of the cartridge entered his abdomen, killing him almost at once.

Adrian.—More than $40,000 loss has been suffered by farmers of Lenawee county this season through the ravages of hog cholera. County Agent Coffeen in a detailed report, places the estimated loss at that figure.

Flint.—Genesee's board bill for its county prisoners, $8,000, staggered the supervisors when it was discussed. A kitchen in which prisoners may do their own cooking is being considered. An addition to the jail is another possibility.

Jackson.—Officers were elected by the Albion District Ministerial association. Rev. Hugh Kennedy, district superintendent, was made president; Rev. D. N. Lacey, Jackson, vice-president, and Rev. H. R. E. Quant of Jackson secretary-treasurer.

Lansing.—The state railroad commission has approved the application of the Chicago & Northwestern railroad for authority to issue bonds amounting to $1,545,000. The railroad commission of Wisconsin has passed favorably on this application.

Albion.—Albion will hold a special election November 9, on its proposed new city charter, which provides for the city manager form of government, and another December 14, when the question of bonding the city for $10,000 additional toward the erection of the new municipal water plant will be settled.

Saginaw.—John Greggratis, Jr., nine-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Greggratis, was drowned in the Saginaw river. When his body was taken out of the water it was still warm. The boy is believed to have been playing on the Pere Marquette belt line bridge in South Saginaw. Bert Richardson found the body.

Paw Paw.—The Van Buren county supervisors met in special session at the call of the state tax commission to hear the result of an appeal of the supervisors from Alma township from the equalization made by the board at its annual session. The commissioners decided there was not sufficient evidence to disturb the valuations fixed by the supervisors.

Battle Creek.—For the first time in several months Battle Creek went jitneyless following the passage of an ordinance controlling these buses at the last council meeting. The new ordinance requires a $4,000 bond and a license fee of from $10 to $20, depending on the size of the car. It also compels the jitneys to go to the city limits on the streets they use as their routes.

Muskegon.—When Henry Lyman, sixty-nine years old, the "golden rule" resident of Twin Lake, near here, dies, his body will be wrapped in a linen shroud and placed in a sepulchre, "Our Lord," Lyman declares, "was not buried in the ground, and my body shall not be." Lyman has built a little brick sepulchre on a wooded hillside in a secluded portion of his 60-acre farm.

Flint.—While playing in the street Eldon Cross, five years old, son of Ray Cross, was crushed by an automobile driven by John C. Fox, superintendent of a local coal mine. The child died a few minutes later. Fox had allowed his machine down to pass a wagon which was crossing the street in front of him. The child darted out from behind the wagon right into the path of the automobile. Witnesses said Fox was blameless.

Flint.—Genesee county authorities are in a quandary over Eli Sakindre, an Austrian, who is insane. As Austria is at war he cannot be deported. Sakindre was picked up by the police a week ago and sent to Hurley hospital. He became violent and when patients there threatened to leave the institution, he was transferred to the county jail. The state asylum will not accept him, the county cannot give him proper attention and the authorities dare not release him. An appeal has been made by the county physician to the probate judge and the immigration officer at Port Huron in an attempt to find a solution for the case.

SYNOPSIS.

Confederate Sergeant Wyatt is sent as a spy to his native country in the Green Briar. He meets a mountaineer named Jim Taylor. At a house beyond Hot Springs they meet Major Harwood. Wyatt is sent to bed. He becomes suspicious, and finds that Taylor has murdered Harwood and escaped. Wyatt changes to U. S. uniform, and to a detachment of Federal cavalry identifies himself as Lieutenant Raymond. Third U. S. Cavalry, Captain Fox and Harwood's body. The detachment is ambushed. Wyatt escapes to the Green Briar country and goes to Harwood's home, where he finds Noreen Harwood. He introduces himself as Lieutenant Raymond. Parson Nichols comes to the house and tells Noreen of her father's death. Wyatt forces Parson Nichols to confess that he has been sent in advance of Anse Cowan, who proposes to marry Noreen at once, and so quiet little to the land in dispute between the Cowans and Noreen's dead father. Anse Cowan and his gang arrive and find the preacher bound in a closet. Wyatt and Noreen have concealed themselves in the attic. The Cowan gang ransacks the house, but fails to find the hidden couple. Wyatt tells Noreen who he is. They return to the second floor and await the next move of the gang, forcing the preacher to silence.

CHAPTER XI—Continued.

She left us quietly, crouching close against the wall, until she could safely peer out from behind the fold of a chintz curtain. The glow from without reddened the entire room. Nichols began to groan, and mutter, but whether the words were those of prayer, or not, I was uncertain. That the fellow's brain tottered on the brink of total collapse was evident, and I was too fearful he might create alarm to desert my guard. Eager to learn what had occurred I called across to the girl:

"Is it the stable, Miss Noreen?"
"Yes," with a quick glance backward. "The whole west end is ablaze. I think there are horses picketed beyond in the orchard, but am not sure—yes, there are men there with them. The fire, as it blazes up, gives me a better view."

"Can you tell how many?"
"No, but I didn't suppose Anse Cowan had so many with him, did you?"
"Why, really I cannot tell, for I have no conception either way. There must have been a dozen altogether in the house, and doubtless others were on guard without. Hasn't it ceased storming?"

"Yes; I wonder what time it is; why I actually believe the sky is becoming lighter in the east already."
She stared out intently, and then sank to her knees.

"Come over here quick! They are getting ready for something."
I swept my eyes over Nichols, who lay motionless, his arms folded across his face. To my mind the fellow was acting a part, and was not half as badly injured as he pretended to be. However, he could do us no great harm at present, and I stole silently across the room, and knelt beside her. She held the curtain aside, leaving just space enough for my eyes. For an instant the glow of the burning building blinded me, and intensified the surrounding darkness. I shadowed my eyes with my hand.

"Where are the men you saw? To the left?"
"Yes—back under the trees, close to the first negro cabin; see! just where I point."

Once located I could perceive the shadowy outline, which grew more distinct as I gazed. There were men there beyond doubt; it seemed to me twenty or thirty, although it was impossible to judge the number. But the shadow seemed to be disintegrating. Even as my eyes focused it, a section moved to the right, and then another swung into the open, circling along the orchard fence.

"There is a slew of them," I muttered unthinkingly. "Anse meant to have company at his wedding."
"Oh, hush!" her hand caught my sleeve. "They—they are coming back to the house now."

CHAPTER XII.

A Marriage by Deceit.
Daylight was coming; the gang meant to search the house again, perhaps fire it as they had the stable, and then ride away before the Federal garrison at Lewisburg could receive the alarm. I turned away from the window to perceive Nichols sitting up on the edge of the bed.

"What's alive?" he asked.
"The girls," I answered, crossing the room. "Get down in the corner where you cannot be seen from the window. Oh, yes you can; you are not so badly hurt. Miss Noreen, is there any other place better than this in which to hide?"

She shook her head.

"Well, then we must fight it out here if they come; you have your revolver—ah! the squad is already below; listen!"

We stood side by side, scarcely breathing, close to the bolted door. The flames of the burning stable were dying down, yet there was sufficient light to render every object in the room plainly visible. Intent as I was on every slight sound below and without, I kept my eyes on Nichols, seated dejectedly in one corner. Feet tramped noisily back and forth in the lower hall, and the sound of voices reached us, the words indistinguishable. There was an echo of splintered wood, the crash of dishes, and a loud laugh. The fellows seemed to be looting the kitchen and pantry, destroying whatever they could not use. Suddenly there arose a sound of smashing glass at the front of the house, and the tinkling of a piano as if some rough hand swept across the keys. Noreen pressed closer, lifting her eyes in appeal.

"They—they are searching the house," she whispered, her voice shaking, "and—looting it. Do you hear that? They are even tearing the carpet from the floor. Some of them will come up here."

"I am afraid so—but you must not lose your nerve. We shall have to fight!"

"Fight? yes; but what use?" and she grasped my arm with both hands. "I—I would not be so afraid, only for that man. I cannot fall into his power. I will kill myself first! You do not know Anse Cowan; but I do. I would rather die than have his hands touch me. I hate and despise him; he is an incarnate brute—and—and he is here after me!"

"Hush," I urged, holding her tightly, her slight form trembling. "Do not let go yet; they may not even come up the stairs."

"But they will," she insisted. "I tell you I know the man. He—he swore he would marry me two years ago; he told me so, and I laughed at him. He stopped my father on the road, held a rifle to his head, and boasted that some day he would make me pay his debts. This is no mere incident of war—it is revenge! I—I would not be frightened but for that—that awful alternative. Tell me—tell me what to do!"

She stared pleadingly into my face, but, reading no answer there to her wild appeal, sank to her knees, and buried her face in her hands. All that was strong about the girl seemed swept away by sudden uncontrollable terror—by dread of Anse Cowan. A hoarse, strange voice roared out an order, seemingly from the very foot of the stairs.

"That's enough of that, Samuels! Here, take your men up above. Be lively now, and don't let a rat get away."

The girl lifted her head; then got to her feet, clinging to the bedpost. I could see the glitter of a pistol in her hand. A thought swept through my brain—so daring, so reckless, I gasped at the mere wildness of the suggestion. Yet it might answer; it might succeed! But would she consent; even in her desperation, in the extreme of her terror, would she grasp at such a straw? There was nothing else—not another chance. This might not be one—yet it would surely serve to delay; it would place me in between her and Anse Cowan. She could not legally marry him, if she were once my wife! Only the girl whose eyes just then met mine—

"I—I have thought of one way," I said eagerly, the words coming forth almost incoherently. "That is if you will listen to what I propose. There is nothing else feasible so far as I can see. They—they are in the front rooms now—hear them! We haven't a moment to lose. Will you—will you consent to marry me?"

She shrank back a step, staring at me with wide-opened eyes, breathing heavily.

"Marry! marry you?" she faltered wildly. "Why what can you mean! I—I do not understand!"

"Of course not—the conception is wild, impractical, perhaps. It must seem so to you—yet listen. It is the one way left open to save you from Anse Cowan. You can trust me? You do trust me, do you not?"

"Yes—but—"
"This is no time to hesitate. They are coming here now, those fellows with Anse Cowan's—their guns! You know what for. The question is not do you wish to marry me; but do you trust me more than you do Anse Cowan? Listen! it will be a form only—I am not concealed enough to believe you desire me for your husband. But you know who I am; you have confidence in my honor. He cannot marry you if you are already my wife—"

"He—he could kill you."

"Yes, there are enough of them; but that might happen anyway. No doubt it would, for otherwise I should fight to the end. I do not think being your husband will add in the least to my danger—and it will possibly, legally, protect you."

"But how can I? Will it be legal?"
"Noreen, don't stop to argue, or doubt," I urged, grasping her hand in eagerness. "We haven't time. Listen to those voices in the hall! Of course it will be legal—Nichols is an ordained minister, and no license is required. I shall never attempt to hold you, Noreen, and any court will set you free the moment you tell the story. The one, the only thing, for you to consider now, is escape from Anse Cowan."

"You do this to—to save me?"
"To keep you from falling helplessly into the clutches of a beast—tell me yes! My God, girl, there they are now trying the door! Answer—will you?"
"Yes—yes, Tom Wyatt—"

With one leap past her I had Nichols by the collar, the muzzle of my revolver at his head. A heavy foot crashed against the locked door, and a voice without gave utterance to an oath.

"Marry me to this girl," I commanded sternly. "Come now, not a word; don't wait to ask a question. Noreen, take my hand—"

"Open up in there or we'll break down the door!" came hoarsely from the hallway.

My eyes never left Nichols' face. What he read of threat I know not, but his lips began to stumble through the form, though I could scarcely distinguish a word. His face was gray with terror, and I dared not look aside at the silent girl—only I vaguely realized that the hand held in mine trembled, and once, when she had to speak, the two words uttered were almost a sob.

Never surely was there a stranger marriage in all the world. The dying embers of the stable fire shot red gleams of flame over us through the unshaded windows, giving Nichols a ghastly look, and glowing on the steel barrel of the revolver I held poised at his head. His voice faltered and broke, and clotted blood rendered hideous one side of his face, while his hands shook as if with palsy. All the sneaking coward in him was manifest. Outside a dozen voices roared, one rising gruff above the others shouting orders. Once a single shot crashed through the upper panel of the door and broke the glass of a window opposite. The girl, startled, reeled against me, and the preacher stopped, gasping for breath.

"And Now I Pronounce You Man and Wife."

"No firing, you fool!" roared a deep voice angrily. "We don't want any dead ones—beat down the door!"
"Go on!" I ordered grimly, and thrust the black muzzle hard against his cheek. The preacher choked, but the usual words of the ritual—sounding almost like mockery—dropped mechanically from his tongue.

"And now I pronounce you man and wife, and whom God hath joined together, let not man put asunder. Amen."

She gave vent to a little sobbing cry, half stifled in her throat, and shrank away from me. I knew that her face was buried in her hands, yet had no time to look that way, or utter a word. Rifle butts were crashing in the panels of the door; I could perceive already dim figures revealed through the jagged openings made in the light wood, a vista of faces, a gleam of weapons.

"Sit lower down!" yelled the same gruff voice of command. "There is a bolt that holds fast—reach in, Saunders!"

"Get back—beyond the bed," I called, pushing her behind me, and bracing myself for the first shock. The door gave, sagging aside on its hinges, and half falling inward, and through the opening men tumbled forward, carbines gripped in their hands. The red light gleamed ghostly across their faces and revealed—the blue uniform of Federal cavalry.

CHAPTER XIII.

Before Lieutenant Raymond.

The headlong rush stopped in startled amazement at sight of us, and I stood there staring at them, unable to speak, my revolver lowered. In that instant of pause, an officer thrust the men aside and faced me, sword in hand.

"What does this mean, sir? Who are you?" he questioned, sweeping his glance over my uniform, and then beyond me at the two others.

"I would ask the same question," I returned, not yet assured as to whom I confronted, and suspecting some trick. "We believed ourselves attacked by guerrillas. Are you soldiers?"

"Well, rather," with a short, grim laugh. "These are Pennsylvania cavalrymen. My name is Raymond, and I demand to know, first of all, where you got possession of that Third U. S. cavalry uniform."

Perhaps in his excitement he had not really recognized her before; but these words were scarcely out of his mouth when the lady stood beside me, facing him. I caught one swift flash of her eyes as though warning me to silence. Whatever fear she had formerly felt seemed to have left her in this crisis, for she stood erect, her cheeks flushed, her eyes frankly meeting those of the surprised officer.

"You will, however, recognize me, lieutenant," she said pleasantly, and extended her hand, "and if you will listen I think I can clear up the mystery."

"Miss—Miss Harwood," he murmured, slightly embarrassed, but still belligerent, his glance wandering from her face to mine. "Certainly—we hoped to find you here. It was to rescue you we came—at least it was that hope which led me to request the sending of troops, and to accompany them. This outrage has been committed, I believe, by Cowan's gang, and this man here—"

"Is my friend," she interrupted quietly. "Lieutenant Raymond, if you will kindly order your men to retire I will gladly explain his presence in the house."

"You wish to speak to me alone?"
"Not necessarily; but I certainly prefer greater privacy than this. You are in command?"

"No; Captain Whitlock is below." He turned toward the crowd blocking the doorway and I grasped the opportunity to breathe a hasty word of warning into the ear of Nichols. The girl never glanced again at either of us.

"Take the men back into the hall, sergeant," the lieutenant ordered, "and look through whatever rooms have not been visited. Request Captain Whitlock to join me here."

We waited motionless, the lieutenant's hand on the butt of his revolver, as though he half suspected treachery. Twice he endeavored to open conversation with the lady, but her response was not encouraging, and he evidently did not feel safe except with his eyes on me. Raymond frowned me, a tall, well-proportioned fellow, with incipient mustache, black and curled at the points; a rather long face, and eyes sternly serious. There was about him an appearance of force—a bit of a bully I should say—and his uniform was new, and carefully fitted.

A man stood in the doorway, bowing, his mild blue eyes surveying us nervously. He sported a light beard, closely trimmed, the top of his head scarcely reaching to the lieutenant's shoulder. Miss Noreen greeted him with a welcoming smile, and he stepped gallantly forward, bending low as he accepted her hand.

"So pleased, so delighted, Miss Harwood, to find you safe and well. We were, indeed, greatly worried at the thought of your being here alone," he exclaimed, a slight lip in his voice. "You have not suffered, I trust?"

"Not seriously, Captain Whitlock; the guerrillas—outwitted—"

"Ah! do not attempt to explain, I beg. We understand what you have passed through, as we have captured two of the villains. You sent for me, Lieutenant Raymond?"

"Yes, sir, I did," the young officer's expression exhibiting clearly the contempt he felt for his superior. "I preferred that you decide what shall be done with this fellow," pointing at Sagar at me. "Miss Harwood vouches for him, but I fail to understand how he comes to be in the uniform of my regiment."

MIXED IN HIS METAPHORS

Many Who Have Addressed Public Meetings Will Sympathize With Speaker Who Got "Rattled."

The chairman of the committee was addressing a meeting at a teachers' institute:

"My friends, the schoolwork is the bulwark of civilization. I mean—ah ah—"

He began to feel frightened.

"The bulwark is the schoolwork of civ—" A smile could be felt.

"The workhouse is the bulwark of—"

He was evidently twisted.

"The schoolbul is the housework—" An audible snigger spread over the audience.

"The bulwark—"

He was getting wild. So were his hearers. He mopped his perspiration, gritted his teeth, and made a fresh start.

A sigh of relief went up. Hamlet was himself again!

He gazed serenely around. The light of triumphant self-confidence was enthroned upon his brow.

"Is the woolbark—"
And that is when he lost consciousness.—Answers.

MOTHER'S "NOTIONS"

Good for Young People to Follow.

"My little grandson often comes up to show me how large the muscles of his arms are."

"He was a delicate child, but has developed into a strong, healthy boy and Postum has been the principal factor."

"I was induced to give him the Postum because of my own experience with it."

"I am sixty years old, and have been a victim of nervous dyspepsia for many years. Have tried all sorts of medicines and had treatment from many physicians, but no permanent relief came."

"I used to read the Postum advertisements in our paper. At first I gave but little attention to them, but finally something in one of the advertisements made me conclude to try Postum."

"I was very particular to have it prepared strictly according to directions, and used good, rich cream. It was very nice indeed, and about bedtime I said to the members of the family that I believed I felt better. One of them laughed and said, 'That's another of mother's notions, but the notion has not left me yet.'"

"I continued to improve right along after leaving off coffee and taking Postum, and now after three years' use I feel so well that I am almost young again. I know Postum was the cause of the change in my health and I cannot say the much in its favor. I wish I could persuade all nervous people to use it."

Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Postum comes in two forms: Postum Cereal—the original form—must be well boiled. 15c and 25c packages.

Instant Postum—a soluble powder—dissolves quickly in a cup of hot water, and, with cream and sugar, makes a delicious beverage instantly. 30c and 50c tins.

Both kinds are equally delicious and cost about the same per cup.

"Thank a Reason" for Postum.

COMING BACK TO HOWELL

UNITED DOCTORS SPECIALIST WILL AGAIN BE AT THE

Livingston Hotel, Wednesday November 10, 1915 One Day Only

Hours 10 A. M. to 8 P. M. Remarkable success of these talented physicians in the treatment of chronic diseases offer their services free of charge

The United Doctors, licensed by the State of Michigan for the treatment of deformities and all nervous and chronic diseases of men, women and children, offer to all who call on this trip, consultation, examination, advice free making no charge whatever except the actual cost of treatment. All that is asked in return for these valuable services is that every person treated will state the result obtained to their friends and thus prove to the sick and afflicted in every city and locality, that at last treatments have been discovered that are reasonably sure and certain in their effect.

These doctors are among America's leading stomach and nerve specialists and are experts in the treatment of chronic diseases and so great and wonderful have been their results that in many cases it is hard to find the dividing line between skill and miracle.

Diseases of the stomach, intestines, liver, blood, skin, nerves, heart, spleen, kidneys, or bladder, rheumatism, sciatica, diabetes, bed-wetting, tape worm, leg ulcers, weak lungs and those long standing, deep seated chronic diseases, that have baffled the skill of the family physicians, should not fail to call. Deafness often has been cured in sixty days.

According to their system no more operations for appendicitis, gall stones, tumors, goiter, piles, etc., as these diseases are treated without operations or hypodermic injection.

They were among the first in America to earn the name of 'Bloodless Surgeons' by doing away with the knife with blood and with all pain in the successful treatment of these dangerous diseases.

If you have kidney or bladder troubles bring a two ounce bottle of your urine for chemical analysis and microscopic examination.

No matter what your ailment may be, no matter what others may have told you, no matter what experience you may have had with other physicians, it will be to your advantage to see them at once. Have it forever settled in your mind. If your case is incurable they will give you such advice as may relieve and stay the disease. Do not put off this duty you owe yourself or friends or relatives who are suffering because of your sickness, as a visit at this time may help you.

Worn-out and run-down men or women, no matter what your ailment, consult them as it costs nothing.

Remember, this last free offer is for this visit only.

Married ladies come with their husbands and minors with their parents.

From All Around

The prohibitionists of Hyde Park, Chicago, are after Congressman Mann's seat because of his anti-prohibition vote on the Hobson bill.

A new law which went into effect in Florida this month forbids the drinking of intoxicating liquors on the premises where they are publicly sold.

Hartford City, Ind., has gone dry after twenty-five years of license, and fifteen saloons were put out of business.

Every state officer of Kansas, according to the Capital, a paper published at Topeka, is a teetotaler. Would that the same might be said of Michigan.

Liquor gives employment to three-tenths of one per cent of all employed labor. Against this there is 110,000 who die annually from drinking liquor.—The Cleveland Press.

Hard on the heels of Sunday closing in Chicago, a movement has been launched to make liquor the chief issue in the next Illinois state campaign and to frame the fight in the Republican primaries on wet and dry lines. Two Iowa breweries have decided to quit the business of making poisoned drinks and use their plants for useful manufacturing purposes. One at Cedar Rapids will be turned into a yeast factory, and one at Iowa City into a creamery.—M. E. S.

THE CHARM OF MOTHERHOOD

Enhanced By Perfect Physical Health.

The experience of Motherhood is a trying one to most women and marks distinctly an epoch in their lives. Not one woman in a hundred is prepared or understands how to properly care for herself. Of course nearly every woman nowadays has medical treatment at such times, but many approach the experience with an organism unfitted for the trial of strength, and when it is over her system has received a shock from which it is hard to recover. Following right upon this comes the nervous strain of caring for the child, and a distinct change in the mother results.

There is nothing more charming than a happy and healthy mother of children, and indeed child-birth under the right conditions need be no hazard to health or beauty. The unexplainable thing is that, with all the evidence of shattered nerves and broken health resulting from an unprepared condition, and with ample time in which to prepare, women will persist in going blindly to the trial.

Every woman at this time should rely upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a most valuable tonic and invigorator of the female organism.

In many homes once childless there are now children because of the fact that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound makes women normal, healthy and strong.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

The HOME BEAUTIFUL

Flowers and Shrubbery—
Their Care and Cultivation

A Fine Display of Asters.

FUN AND MONEY IN ASTERS

By LIMA R. ROSE.

Asters should be started in the house. Two hundred seedlings can be started in one cigar box, which is a most convenient shape and size for standing on the window sill.

Fill boxes to within one-half inch of the top with a loose loam. It is always well in sowing seeds in boxes to sift the top layer. Make four trenches the length of the box. Place seeds in trenches and cover.

Before watering cover with a cloth. A strip torn from a coarse linen towel is good. Water thoroughly. The cloth will prevent the water from washing out the seeds the first time you dampen them and subsequently will prevent rapid evaporation.

If possible, set the box where it will have bottom heat for three or four days, and be sure to keep moist, when, if your seeds were fresh, you will find the rows all cracked open and the green seed leaves peeking out.

Remove cover and take away from heat immediately. Place in a strong light.

These directions you will find applicable to all small seeds, vegetable as well as flower. Never forget to water, however, and keep covered with cloth until removed to the window. Do not let them grow long stems. Spindling seedlings are a calamity.

When the plants have their fourth leaf, transplant to flat an inch apart each way. These transplantings cause a wonderful root development, which tells later in the quality of bloom.

HOUSE PLANTS

Don't neglect the potted plants; water well and shade from the afternoon sun.

When shade is recommended, darkness or dense shade are not meant. All plants require a good light.

Many plants will bear strong sky light that would be badly damaged if set in strong sunshine.

For potted plants that must have sunshine, set the pots in a jardiniere, ing for winter bloomers plants that bloom only in summer. Some geraniums bloom more freely than others.

Plants that are not growing need no fertilizer.

Large pots for foliage. Small pots for flowers. Plenty of sunshine for geraniums.

If soil in the bulb pot in the cellar seems dry, moisten moderately, but don't keep wet or the bulb will rot.

Work every day to keep the plants comfortable. They are like children. Don't let the insects get at them if you love them.

Leave fuchsias in the cellar until March.

Be ready for the cold days. They are at hand.

Keep window garden clean. Remove dead leaves, scrub pots, shower foliage. Keep window glass clean.

MAKING MOST OF THE PHLOX

By L. M. BENNINGTON.

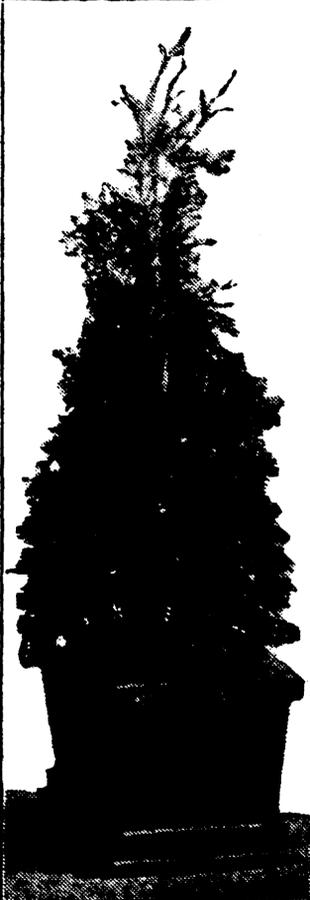

Nearly everyone can grow phlox and have what is regarded as great success, yet few, even among professional gardeners know how to coax the greatest growth and beauty out of this plant.

Hardy phlox can be transplanted at any time, preferably in the fall or early spring, by dividing old clumps, or they can be grown from seeds planted very shallow as soon as they are ripe. When allowed to become dry they are more or less disappointing in germination, so that we may say that division is the best method. If string divisions are taken early in April and planted about 15 or 18 inches apart and the tops are pinched back when about 4 inches high to make them spread and not more than two or three growths are allowed, they will give a very large head of bloom with a maximum of forets. Give clean culture and an occasional dressing of manure or sewage water.

By this method of culture the phlox becomes an exceptional sower when compared with the big clumps that most people allow to grow. To get best results they should be planted new each fall or spring and give plenty of water while in bloom.

When big masses of plants are desired, about one-third of the stems should be pinched back. This will produce a much longer season of blooming.

House plants that are buggy and shaggy and refuse to improve should be thrown out. They are an expense. Better diminish the window garden than to make nature with the clemency of ignorance or neglect.

Don't Forget the Potted Plants—Water Well and Shade From Afternoon Sun.

or set in a box with a packing of moss around them to encourage moisture. Root geraniums like wet, if you want water geraniums. They grow best in a box and plant all kinds. Do not make the mistake of neglecting them.

Gowns Fit Better Over ATHENA Underwear

1. Not the fit of ordinary underwear but "glove fit."
2. Woven and tailored to really fit the figure—patented features of merit.
3. Athena garments are durable and have a dainty elegance—they are tailored to fit—therefore wear right.

Here are the features that give Athena its comfort, its daintiness and its tailored fit

Low-Neck Sleeveless Suit

Just as a woman is fuller across the bust than the back, so this garment is made with extra fullness in front.

Sloping Shoulders and Sleeves

Conform to the shoulders without wrinkling under arms.

Perfected Shoulder-Stay

Keeps garment from stretching across the shoulder, and holds sleeve in place.

Curved Armhole

Brings arm seams to the natural curve of the shoulder and holds garment snugly and smoothly up under arm, doing away with unnecessary cloth.

Patent Seat

This consists of a plait on each side of the back, instead of extra cloth in the middle where it causes discomfort. Always stays closed and allows sufficient room, sitting or standing.

Three-Cornered Gusset

Is so shaped as to relieve the usual strain at the thigh. Insures greater comfort and longer wear.

POOR SEED MEANS LOW YIELD.

One small eight-ounce ear of corn added to each hill will double the yield and value of the crop and add $1,700,000,000 to its total value.

CORN GROWERS' RULES.

1. Pick seed corn before October 1st, saving at least twice as much as will be needed.
2. Select only ears that will ripen and that are of good quality.
3. Select from strong, vigorous stalks, ears that bend over at medium height on medium length shanks.
4. Hang seed corn in a dry, well ventilated place, so that the ears do not touch.
5. Select seed corn from your own field.
6. If you must buy seed corn, buy in your own locality.
7. In the spring, select the best ears and test each ear.
8. Select 100 of the choicest of these ears and plant in a separate plot to select from next year.

Immature Corn Freezes.

Corn put into the crib in the fall in a sappy condition freezes and thaws repeatedly through the winter. In March and April when the weather warms up, it will be found that the hearts of the kernels have turned to a cheesy color and later become black and are strong to the taste. In this last case I have reference not to soft, immature corn, but to what would be considered as very good corn except that it is large and contains considerable water.

Art. Nobody has yet been able to define art correctly, because every conception of art differs with the individual. Nobody really knows what truth is, yet art is said to be truth plus personality. Personality itself is our most incomprehensible enigma.

Art must possess a supreme and constantly increasing interest. The best and most unerring test of art is when it endures. Time, therefore, is necessary to proclaim it. All masterpieces turned out overnight are not to be trusted.

The true artist is, therefore, most likely to be unknown. Time crowns him master with one hand and destroys him with the other.—Life.

Meyerbeer and Thunder. Meyerbeer, like Handel, composed best in a thunderstorm. He had a room made at the top of his house with glass roof and slides, so that he might enjoy these conditions to the full whenever they presented themselves. It is said that no beast of the field, no raven or nightjar, could scent the approach of a storm more unerringly than Meyerbeer, and nothing was allowed to interfere with his solitary enjoyment of it when it arrived. Whenever he was he would leave at the first premonitory rumble.

COMPLEXION BLEMISH ?

Yes, that sluggish liver often causes it. Dr. King's New Life Pills clears the complexion, throws off impurities and releases bile naturally and easily. Unless the bowels move freely and regularly all the powder in the world will not permanently cover "that muddy complexion." This laxative is mild yet effective. It does not grip or sicken in its effects. You will not disrupt the merits of Dr. King's New Life Pills. Start a treatment to-day.

Light Attendance

The attendance at the Sunday School Convention here last Thursday was very light considering the nice weather and the noted speakers. The following speakers were in attendance; in the a m Mr. VanBaskirk, who has charge of the rural work of the state, and those in the Missionary car from Howell Mr. and Mrs. Rev. Kotesky and Mrs. Bralley of Howell, all speaking on their favorite work. In the p m the following temperance lecturers held the platform; Mrs. Arnold, W. C. T. U., present; Rev Brooks, Home Supt; Mr. Burgess of Detroit and Mr. Adams of Fowlerville. In the evening Rev. Little John, Wm. McPherson and Dr. C. W. Baldwin, spoke on Evangelism and Mrs. Good of Toledo spoke on 'teen age.

COLDS DO NOT LEAVE WILLINGLY

Because a cold is stubborn is no reason why you should be. Instead of "wearing" it out, get sure relief by taking Dr. King's New Discovery. Dangerous bronchial and lung ailments often follow a cold which has been neglected at the beginning. As your body faithfully battles those cold germs, no better aid can be given than the use of this remedy. Its merit has been tested by old and young. Get a bottle to-day. 50c and $1.00.

Must "Dim" Lights

The new auto law which goes into effect next January, is very plain on the subject of "dimmers" Under this law every driver must have his car so equipped next season, that when passing another car he can "dim" or lessen his light so as not to blind a driver coming toward him.

Another matter which the law states positively is that on no highway of the state may an auto be driven lawfully at greater than 25 miles an hour. Some people think that as soon as they get a few miles out in the country they have a perfect right to go 40 or 50 miles an hour.

For cities the rate is 10 miles in the business sections and only 15 miles in other parts. The new law, the same as the old state law, says that no person under the age of 18 years of age may drive an auto, and the attention of fond parents of "kid" drivers is called to this section.

SUDDEN MUSCULAR ACHES AND PAINS—NEED NOT BE!

That is—if you use the right remedy. Sloan's Liniment is a real necessity in every home—for young and old. Its merit is praised in dozens of letters. A stiff neck from colds, children's sprains, those aching muscles, that sharp neuralgia pain—these find guaranteed relief in Sloan's Liniment. Every home needs with sudden aches and accidents. Your home needs a bottle. 25c., 50c. and $1.00.

Cream, Butter and Yellow.

Scientific experiments have demonstrated that, contrary to the general belief, the yellow color of cream and butter is not necessarily an indication of their richness. It was discovered long ago that most vegetable matter contains a yellow substance called "carrotin" because it exists abundantly in carrots. It is this substance contained in the cow's feed that gives rise to the color of milk and butter. Carrotin is most abundant in the green forage available in spring and summer, so that milk and butter produced then are more yellow than in the winter, although the percentage of fat in winter milk often is higher than in the rich looking product obtained in summer.

The First "Lady in Trade."

Perhaps the most notable instance on record of the feminine street trader is that of the "white widow," otherwise the Duchess of Tyrconnell, the Frances Jennings of the De Grammont memoirs, who at the time of the revolution in 1688, according to Horace Walpole, "being reduced to absolute want on her arrival in England and unable for some time to procure secret access to her family, hired one of the stalls under the Royal Exchange and maintained herself by the sale of small articles of haberdashery. She wore a white dress wrapping her whole person and a white mask, which she never removed, and excited much interest and curiosity."—London Chronicle.

IRRITABLE CHILDREN OFTEN NEED KICKAPOO INDIAN WORM KILLER

There is a reason for the disagreeable and fretful nature of many children. Think of the unrest when the child's body is possessed of tiny worms sapping its vitality and clogging its functions. Whatever may be the cause—that children have worms is a fact. Your child's peevishness and irritability has a cause.
