High School Foot-ball Team Re-organized

The High School football team has been re-organized, electing the following officers: Manager Roche Shehan, Captain, Curtis Brown.

The team will be coached by Supt. Doyle who is endeavoring to make out a good schedule with teams throughout the county. The following men set out every day working hard to make the undertaking a success: Captain Brown, Manager Shehan, Louis Mackable, Verne Kenedy, Harlow Shehan, Carter Brown, Hazen Smith, Roy Harris, Bryan McCluskey, Bert McClear and Ambrose Murphy.

The B Sharp Club

The B Sharp Club met on Sept. 26th, at the home of Mrs. Myron Dunning.

Mrs. Pearson was leader and chose for her composer, Mozart. The program was good and enjoyed by all members present. After the program a dairy buffet luncheon was served, after which the meeting adjourned.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Miss Harris with Mrs. Wm Gardner as leader.

A Close Call

While out hunting rabbits with a bunch of boys Monday afternoon, Glenn Darrow, was accidentally shot, the charge entering the lower limbs about the knees and also in the hands. A passing rig was hailed and Glenn was taken to Dr. Sigler's office where the wound was treated. About sixteen shot entered the limbs, but were buried too deep to be removed. Just how serious the accident will turn out is not known as yet.

Obituary

On Sunday, Sept. 24th, while visiting at the home of her grand-mother, Mrs. Culleton of Fowlerville, Catherine Driver of this place was suddenly called to her eternal reward. Of her it might be truly said "None knew her but to love her, none named her but to praise," and her unexpected death brought sorrow to a multitude of relatives and friends.

She called upon in the course of her brief years to face many trials and bereavements, Catherine Driver allowed no shadow of gloominess to darken her spirit but went serenely on her way scattering sunshine in the lives of all with whom she came in contact by the cheery smile and the kindly deed. Deeply respectful and thoughtful toward elders, gay and affable with those of her own age, tender and tactful with little children she endeared herself to all hearts and her gentle presence will be greatly missed by many a fireside. But if it be true that no life can be pure in its purpose and strong in its strife and all life not be stronger and purer thereby, then this young girl accomplished much in her short eighteen years.

Fulfilling literally the command of Holy Scripture "Remember now thy Creator in the days of thy youth." Catherine led a truly beautiful Christian life. A faithful member of the League of the Sacred Heart and the Young Ladies' Sodality of St. Mary's Church, her generous helpful spirit made her a foremost figure in every line of church activity. We might dwell long upon her virtues but suffice it to say that her example was an inspiration, her memory is a benediction for she wore ever upon her heart "The white flower of a blameless life".

In such a death as this there little is cause for sadness but even the drooping of the lily arings pain to those who love its fragrance and tears were mingled with rejoicing round the casket.

She is survived by her father, Samuel Driver of Lansing, two brothers, Thos. and Daniel and four sisters, Elizabeth, Margaret, Lucille and Mary who have the sympathy of a host of friends in their hour of loneliness.

The funeral from St. Agnes Church,

Fowlerville was conducted by her pastor, Rev. J. V. Coyle, who choosing as his text, the Beatitude "Blessed are the Clean of Heart for They Shall See

God" paid, in touching words, a fitting tribute to the rare qualities of the deceased.

FR. COMERFORD

CRITICALLY ILL

Twenty-eight hundred regular church attendants at St. Mathews church yesterday listened to the announcement of the resignation of Fr. Michael J. Cumerford from the pastorate of the congregation that he founded in Flint five years ago. The resignation becomes effective on Sunday, October 1st, the fifth anniversary of the parish. Coupled with this announcement came a statement from Rev. Fr. F. F. Van Antwerp, the assistant pastor, to the effect that Fr. Cumerford is in a critical condition in a Detroit hospital and his death is momentarily expected. The members of the congregation were asked to remember their pastor in their prayers.

Confined to a Flint hospital in broken health since early in June, Fr. Cumerford was removed about two weeks ago to Detroit in the hope that care and attention of specialists might regain for him his health. He had been in ill health since 1914, when he took a three months vacation in South America and returned feeling much better. His condition, however, gradually grew worse and early in the summer Fr. Cumerford left the parish in charge of his assistant, Fr. Van Antwerp. The difficult task of establishing a new parish here and the financing of property purchases and the erection of church buildings are thought to have been responsible for the failing health of the pastor.

Fr. Cumerford is about 46 years of age. He was born in Detroit in the year 1869 and attended the University of Detroit. He later went to St. Francis seminary at Monroe and finished at St. Mary's seminary at Baltimore. He was awarded the degree of S. T. B. from the Baltimore school and was ordained a priest by Rt. Rev. John S. Foley at Sts. Peter and Paul's cathedral, Detroit, 1887. Given the honor of the first appointment to the pastorate of the Pinckney church in Livingston county, Fr. Cumerford spent 16 years in developing the parish. At the call of Bishop Foley, he came to Flint and has conducted a most successful pastorate during his five years here.—Flint Journal.

Owosso—A. B. Cook of Maple River, president of the Michigan Bean Growers' association, has circulated a paper among bean growers of the county by signing which they agreed not to patronize in any way any dealer or jobber who buys beans at a price lower than the scale established last week by the Michigan Bean Grower's Association. The association fixed its price for beans for October delivery at $1 a bushel with an advance every month until it shall reach $1.50 by January.—Alma Journal.

Help Those Sick Kidneys!

How many times have you had your work, your sleep, or your leisure hours interrupted by recurring pains in the region of the kidneys?

Did you ever experience anything more unpleasant or annoying

You probably neglected it to—let yourself believe it was not serious—be over it in a day or two. When the kidneys give you warning of inability to perform their duty, assist them in every way—help them get rid of poisons that are accumulating—waste matter they cannot throw off.

They are weak and need strengthening. See that they are built up—back to normal—and it won't be many days until you are built up, eager for work and enjoying your rest and leisure hours. It's your own fault if you don't.

COPYRIGHT BY LOUIS JOSEPH VANCE.

A FAMOUS neurologist said recently in a lecture: "We don't give our patients much medicine any more. We give them something to think about. If we can make a man put his thoughts on something constructive and shift the focus of his mind from his bodily ills, we can give him a good start on the road to health." And this is the big idea out of which the story of "The Destroying Angel" is woven. If any of our readers need to get their minds entirely off themselves and their troubles, they will find in this new serial an uncommonly strong magnet. For Louis Joseph Vance, you know, never wrote a tiresome yarn. He keeps your mind electrified and your interest eager from start to finish.

CHAPTER I

Doom.

"When I'm to understand there's no hope for me?"

"I'm afraid not..." Greyerson said reluctantly, sympathy in his eyes.

"Please whatever." The verdict was then basquely emphasized by Hartt, one of the two consulting specialists.

Having spoken, he glanced at his watch, then at the face of his colleague, Bushnell, who contented himself with a tolerant waggle of his head, apparently meant to imply that the subject of their deliberations really must be reasonable.

Whitaker looked quickly from one to the other of his three judges, acutely sensitive to the dread significance to be detected in the expression of each.

Failing to extract the least glimmering of hope from the attitude of any one of them, he drew a long breath, unconsciously bracing himself in his chair.

"It's funny," he said with his nervous smile—"hard to realize, I mean. You see, I feel so fit—"

"Between attacks," Hartt interjected quickly.

"Yes," Whitaker had to admit, dashed.

"Attacks," said Bushnell, heavily, "occur at intervals constantly more brief, each a trifle more severe than its predecessor."

Evidently Bushnell considered the last word his prerogative.

There was a brief uneasy silence in the gloomy consulting room. Then Whitaker rose.

"Well, how long will you give me?" he asked in a strained voice.

"Six months," said Greyerson, mischievously avoiding his eye.

"Three," Hartt corrected jerkily.

"Perhaps..." The proprietor of the last word stroked his chin with a contemplative air.

"Thanks," said Whitaker, without rousy. He stood for an instant with at his desk and fishing a box of cigars from one of the drawers.

"Married?" Hartt inquired.

"No. That's the only mitigating circumstance," said Greyerson, distributing glasses. "He's quite alone in the world, as far as I know—no near relatives, at least. He's junior partner in a young law firm down-town—senior a friend or classmate of his, I understand: Drummond & Whitaker. Moves with the right sort of people. Young Stark—Peter Stark—is his closet friend."

Hugh Whitaker stood for a long time—how long he never knew—bare-headed on a corner, just as he had left Greyerson's office: scowling at nothing, considering the enormity of the wrong that had been put upon him. Later, realizing that people were staring, he clapped on his hat to satisfy them and strode aimlessly down Sixth Avenue.

He turned across town toward Fifth Avenue, came to his club, and went in. Passing through the office, force of habit swung his gaze to the letter-rack. There was a square white envelope in the W pigeonhole, and it proved to be addressed to him. He knew the handwriting very well—too well; his heart gave a great jump as he recognized it, and then sank like a stone; for not only must he die, but he must give up the girl he loved, and had planned to marry. The first thing he meant to do was to write to her and explain and release her from her promise. The next thing...

He refused to let the idea of the next step form in his mind. But he knew very well what it would be. In the backwards of his understanding it lurked—a gray, grisly, shameful shadow.

The elevator kept him waiting a moment or two. Just round the corner from the grill-room door, whence came a sound of voices talking and laughing. Whitaker heard what was being said without, at first, comprehending—heard and afterwards remembered in vivid detail.

"Seems to be the open season for runaways," Hamilton was saying. "It's only a few days since Thurlow Ladislas' daughter—what's her name?—Mary—took the bit between her teeth and bolted with the old man's chauffeur."

Somebody asked: "How far did they get before old Ladislas caught up?"

"He didn't give chase. He's not that kind. If he was put to it, old Thurlow could play the unforgiving parent in a melodrama without any make-up whatever."

"He's just like that," said Hamilton. "Remember his other daughter, Grace, eloping with young Pettit a few years ago? Old Ladislas had a down on Pettit—who's a decent enough kid, notwithstanding—so Grace was promptly disowned, and they've no hope of ever touching a penny of the Ladislas coin."

"But what became of them—Mary and the stoker-person?"

"Nobody knows, except possibly themselves."

"What's she like, this Mary-quite-contrary?" inquired George Breton's voice.

"Oh, nothing but a kid," said Little Fiske.

"Not over eighteen."

The elevator was waiting by this time, but Whitaker paused an instant before taking it, chiefly because the sound of his own name, uttered by Hamilton, had roused him out of the abstraction in which he had overheard the preceding conversation.

"Anyhow, I'm sorry for Hugh Whitaker. He's going to take this hard, mighty hard."

George Breton asked, as if surprised: "What? I didn't know he was interested in that quarter."

"Well, How Long Will You Give Me?" His hand bowed in thought. "What a damned outrage," he observed thoughtfully. And suddenly he turned and fled out of the room.

Greyerson jumped to follow him, but paused as he heard the crash of the street door. He turned with a twitching, apologetic smile.

"Your devil!" he said, sitting down.

"You must be blind. Alice Carstairs has had him going for a year. Everybody thought she was only waiting for him to make some big money—he as much as anybody, I fancy."

Brenton added the last straw. "That's tough," he said soberly. "Whitaker's a white man, and Alice Carstairs didn't deserve him. But I wouldn't blame any man for feeling cut-up to be thrown over for an out-and-out rotter like Percy Grimshaw...."

Whitaker heard no more. At the first mention of the name of Alice Carstairs he had snatched her letter from his pocket and was reading. Nobody will ever know just what Alice Carstairs saw fit to write to Hugh Whitaker. The blood ebbed from his face and left it ghastly, and when he had torn the paper to shreds and let them flutter about his feet, he swayed perceptibly—so much so that one of the pages took alarm and jumped to his side.

"Be gosh, Mr. Whitaker—did you call me?"

Whitaker steadied himself and stared until he recognized the boy. "No," he said thickly, "but I want you. Give me a bar order."

The boy produced the printed form and Whitaker hastily scribbled his order on it. "Bring that up to the library," he said, "and be quick about it."

He stumbled into the elevator, and presently found himself in the library. There was no one else about, and Whitaker was as glad of that as it was in him to be glad of anything just then. He dropped heavily into a big armchair and waited, his brain whirling and seething, his nerves on edge and screaming. In this state Peter Stark found him.

Peter sauntered into the room with a manner elaborately careless. Beneath that mask he was anything but indifferent, just as his appearance was anything but tortuous. Moreover, Peter had already heard about Alice Carstairs and Percy Grimshaw.

"Hello" he said, contriving by mere accident to catch sight of Whitaker, who was almost invisible in the big chair with its back to the body of the room. "What you doing up here, Hugh? What's up?"

"It's all up," said Whitaker, trying to pull himself together. "Everything's up!"

"Don't believe it," said Stark, coolly. "My feet are on the ground; but you look as if you'd seen a ghost."

"I have—my own," said Whitaker. The page now stood beside him with a tray. "Open it," he told the boy, indicating a half-bottle of champagne; and then to Peter: "I'm having a bath. Won't you jump in?"

Peter whistled, watching the wine cream over the brandy in the long glass. "King's peg, eh?" he said, with lift of disapproving eyebrows. "Here, boy, bring me some Scotch and plain water for common people."

The boy disappeared as Whitaker lifted his glass.

"I'm not waiting," he said bluntly. "I need this now."

"I hope," Peter said thoughtfully, "that the man who started that lie about drink making a fellow forget died the death of a dog. He deserved to, anyway." He stopped at Whitaker's side and dropped a hand on his shoulder. "Hugh," he said, "you're one of the best. Don't..."

Whatever he had meant to say, he left unfinished because of the return of the page with his Scotch; but he had said enough to let Whitaker understand that he knew about the Carstairs affair.

"That's all right," said Whitaker. "I'm not going to make a fool of myself, but I am in a pretty bad way. Boy—"

"Hold on!" Peter interrupted. "You're not going to order another? What you've had is enough to galvanize a corpse."

"Barring the negligible difference of a few minutes or months, that's me," returned Whitaker.

"I'd like to know what you mean by that," Peter remarked, obviously worried. "What's the matter with you?"

"Ask Greyerson. I can't remember the name—it's too long—and I couldn't pronounce it if I did."

Peter's eyes narrowed. "What foolishness has Greyerson been putting into your head?" he demanded. "I've a good mind to go punch his—"

"It isn't his fault," Whitaker asserted. "It's my own—or rather, it's something in the nature of a posthumous gift from my progenitors; several of 'em died of it, and now it seems I must. Greyerson says so, at least, and when I didn't believe him he called in Hartt and Bushnell to hold my ante-mortem. They made it unanimous. If I'm unusually lucky I may live to see next Thanksgiving."

"You can't make me believe that," Peter insisted. "It just can't be so. A man like you, who's always lived clean... Why, look at your athletic record! I won't believe it!"

His big, red, generous fist described a large and inconclusive gesture of violence.

"Well," he growled finally, "grant all this—which I don't, not for one little minute—what do you mean to do?"

"I don't mind telling you," said

Whitaker: "I don't know. Wish I did. At the same time, I've got to do something—get away somewhere."

Abrupt inspiration sparked the imagination of Peter Stark, and he began to sputter with enthusiasm.

"I've got it!" he cried, jumping to his feet. "A sea trip's just the thing. Chances are, it'll turn the trick—bring you round all right-O, and prove what

Trains Can't Go Too Fast.

An eastern railroad which includes many steep grades along its lines has adopted a new scheme to overcome the danger from the momentum of a heavily loaded train sometimes gains in running down grade. A spur track has been built at the foot of such a grade and an automatic switch sends any train that is going too fast up this branch. If the approaching train comes along at a safe speed nothing will interfere with its progress. If it is going too fast when it passes a block a certain distance above the switch, it is automatically sent up the spur track, where it remains until pulled off.

The Penalty.

Senator Fall was talking in New York about the Mexican situation.

"The imbroglio," he said, disgustedly, alluding to an earlier phase, "was due to absentmindedness. Well, absentmindedness in affairs of state gets punished as sharply as in affairs of love."

"I once knew an absent-minded dry goods clerk who was in love with a spirited girl. He took her hand one night and droned:

"Dear, dear little hand! I wonder—I wonder—and then his absentmindedness got its work in, and he said:

"I wonder if it will wash?"

"The girl gave a sudden start.

"No, George," she hissed, "it won't wash, and I may as well tell you, too, that it won't cook, or sweep, or darn socks, either. Good evening!"

AFTER SIX YEARS OF SUFFERING

Woman Made Well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Columbus, Ohio.—"I had almost given up. I had been sick for six years with female troubles and nervousness. I had a pain in my right side and could not eat anything without hurting my stomach. I could not drink cold water at all nor eat any kind of raw fruit, nor fresh meat nor chicken. From 178 pounds I went to 118 and would get so weak at times that I fell over. I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and ten days later I could eat and it did not hurt my stomach. I have taken the medicine ever since and I feel like a new woman. I now weigh 127 pounds so you can see what it has done for me already. My husband says he knows your medicine has saved my life."—Mrs. J. S. BARLOW, 1624 South 4th St., Columbus, Ohio.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound contains just the virtues of roots and herbs needed to restore health and strength to the weakened organs of the body. That is why Mrs. Barlow, a chronic invalid, recovered so completely.

It pays for women suffering from any female ailments to insist upon having Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Season's Coats Show Novelty

Two Distinct Styles Have Been Featured by the Parisian "Big Houses."

SLEEVES MADE A FEATURE

Decree Is That They Must Be Tight From the Elbow Down—Directoire and First Empire Effects Copied—Embroidery Used in Profusion.

New York.—The coats of the season may be roughly summed up in two parts—the short, capelike shapes with sleeves that ripple over the top of a high-waisted, embroidered belt attached to the skirt—these are in the minority, but very smart—and the manish directoire coat featured by Chruit, Bernard, Douillet, Callot and most of the other big Paris houses.

This latter coat will probably be the shape seen on more than half the women this season. It has a slim top that fits the figure, a small belt that draws attention to itself through buttons or buckles in front, and an extra heaped with fur. Nutria is used, rabbit, brown, gray and white, but not many of the coarse, long-haired peltry. The fur this season must be flat and pliable, so that it can lend itself to all the soft curves of the material.

Bernard has turned out a black satin coat with brown fur that the American dressmakers think will have a long run of popularity. It follows the fashion of last year, in that it has wide, distended openings at the side, exactly below the waist, that are heavily corded at the edges. There is a black gown that goes with this, with a deep renaissance yoke of gold lace, but the majority of women will buy the coat, probably, without the gown.

Miles of Embroidery.

It would be terrifying to have a statistician measure in miles the embroidery used on the new gowns. It would make a new burden for our minds to carry, which are already feeling the burden of this departure in clothes.

If there is one thing that France knows how to do better than any other place in the world, it is needlework. She has called up all her resources in this line today. All her needleworkers are not under the colors, but they are under orders to cover every piece of material that goes out of Paris with the most complicated embroidery.

The designs are drawn from several sources of inspiration. China, Japan and Russia are the nations which are represented. The majority of the designs, however, are reminiscent of the moyen age—those sumptuous and exquisite patterns that were produced from the twelfth to the fifteenth century.

There are bits of embroidery on street suits that look as though they were copied from altar cloths. Entire coats have their surfaces plastered with soutache braiding, which incorporate hundreds of flat disks, wonderfully done.

All Colors Seemingly Used.

Oyster gray soutache is the color chosen for the largest amount of braiding done, and every color is used in the embroidery, as well as every stitch and design that the world has ever produced.

Jet and colored beads are profusely used. A black silk house gown is almost covered with a design in jet. Colored beads in ornamental motifs hang from belts, collars and cuffs.

Metal thread is lavishly employed and usually several metals are combined. One of the most effective eve-full skirt which convolutes around the figure and in which are exploited several of the newest features. They are difficult to describe in detail; the general idea is that the material is brought back and twisted over in many curious ways, as if the designer had been trying out an experiment with the cloth and had pinned it up into pockets, loose straps and revers and then left them all there.

Coat Has Novel Features.

The novelty in the top part of the coat consists in radiating lines from neck to waist by gussets of the same material inserted and corded or stitched at the edges. It is probable that this idea was evolved from what is known as the delta decollete, which was exploited by the Duchess de Vendome in Paris last winter, but which was never taken up in this country. These gussets inserted from neck to waist make a deep delta effect.

The sleeves are gathered at the top, sometimes made after the genuine leg-o-mutton shape which is not approved by American dressmakers and which has been altered by many of them into a more graceful shape which is buttoned tightly from the knuckles of the hand to just below the elbow, then flaring to the armhole, where its fullness is slight enough to be put into a few well-streaked gathers at the back.

Whatever else sleeves are, they are tight from the elbow down. Cuffs of fur are frequent, but they fit the wrist and flare upward and outward to hold the fullness of the sleeve as it mounts toward the bend of the elbow.

Fur collars are made in this shape, often pointed in front, fitted tightly to the shoulders and flaring upward and outward to the ears. Satin, velour, jersey and velvet are the choice of materials for these suits.

Inclined to the Directoire.

The prophecies for directoire and first empire styles have come good. There are gowns of dull blue satin that have small jacket effects attached to the skirt, half covered with gray soutache embroidery, which are cut in a straight line just under the bust and then dipped to long points of braiding over the hips.

The street coats that have been described might have been worn in France under the directory. The three-quarter topcoats which are the strongest feature of the new fashions, are belted so high under the bust and have such narrow shoulders that they instantly suggest a costume worn by Tosca. The skirts of these coats are full, clinging to the figure and are covered with soutache or embroidery. There is a band of fur on the outside of the hem—this is a novelty borrowed from the Russians—and a deeper band on the inside.

Coats of Heavy Blue Satin.

Heavy satin is used as frequently for coats as velvet, and a bright dark blue seems to be the choice of the French designers. Both of them are ning gowns has its mass of embroidery done in gold, silver and blue metal threads.

The blouse illustrated is in biscuit color, with a double collar and cuffs of chiffon edged with narrow bands of brown rabbit. The sash is of brown chiffon, tied at the side and finished with gold fringe.

Exceedingly popular is the coat shown. It has been drawn from the eighteenth century and is made of bright, rose-colored satin trimmed with ermine and silver roses. The pockets are corded and topped with roses.

Widow's Bonnet.

While the majority of mourners are not making their mourning conspicuous by its very intensity, there are still widows who persist in wearing the long veil as a token of their bereavement. For such there are several picturesque new styles being shown. The veil draping is not very different from that employed by those out of mourning who are adopting the long veil for its smart style qualities. It is thrown over a small toque foundation, thrown back from the face and held perfectly plain in front by a band of white crepe around the face line.

A bridle of white crepe is passed under the chin and is quietly very chic to an attractive woman.

SIGNALS USED ON THE SEA

Vessels Have Their Own Methods of Imparting Information Which Is of Importance.

There are various ways in which ships signal at sea. The most general method in daylight is by code flags and pennants, these being arranged according to an international system of signals. But sometimes, owing to weather conditions or distance, it is not easy to distinguish the colors, patterns or shapes of the flags, and then other methods have to be adopted.

Chief among these is a system of exhibiting cones, balls and drums, various orders and positions representing different things, according to the recognized international code. Here are some examples: No. 1 means, Show your ensign; No. 2, Is war declared? No. 3, War is declared; No. 4, Beware of torpedoes, or, Channel is mined; No. 5, Enemy is in sight; No. 6, Keep a lookout; enemy's ships reported about, disengaged as merchantmen.

A GRATEFUL ACKNOWLEDGMENT.

Mr. F. C. Case of Welcome Lake, Pa., writes: "I suffered with Backache and Kidney Trouble. My head ached, my sleep was broken and unrefreshing. I felt heavy and sleepy after meals, was always nervous and tired, had a bitter taste in my mouth, was dizzy, had floating specks before my eyes, was always Mr. F. C. Case, thirsty, had a dragging sensation across my loins, difficulty in collecting my thoughts and was troubled with shortness of breath. Dodds Kidney Pills have cured me of these complaints. You are at liberty to publish this letter for the benefit of any sufferer who doubts the merit of Dodds Kidney Pills."

The Blanket Days

Your Opportunity to Save
Now the Time to Buy

This Blanket Sale Extraordinary

WILL TAKE PLACE

Saturday, Monday and Tues.,

October 7, 9 and 10th.

A great distributor of blankets realizing the conditions governing merchandise for 1916, both as to prices and deliveries, arranged with his manufacturers early last year, before prices had advanced, for very large quantities of high grade staple blankets. This distributor decided that these blankets should be offered by his customers to all the people of the country at the same time and at prices based on the low costs of last year—much less than the goods are worth to-day. This is the opportunity which is now offered you.

Remember, Prices on these Blankets are the Low Prices of Last Year.

Two Wonderful Values in Cotton Blankets

A cotton blanket of improved real German finish made from American cotton by eastern mills. Full double bed size, sixty-four inches wide by seventy-six inches long. Comes in grey, tan or white with handsome blue, pink, grey or tan borders.

$9.98 a Pair

An Extra Large and Heavy Special

A larger size cotton blanket in a very heavy weight. Very strong, soft, warm and fleecy. Colors, grey, tan and white with striking borders of blue, pink, tan or grey. Size, seventy inches wide by eighty inches long. An extra large double bed size. For warmth and real service you can't beat it.

$1.29 a Pair

Sterling Woolen Mills- Extra Quality

PLAINS AND PLAIDS

These are the guest room favorites. Full double bed size in fleecy two-tone effects, in two inch and four inch block plaids, and plain colors. Plaids are in two-tone effects of blue, pink, tan and grey. We also show this grade in plain silver grey, sanitary tan and snowy white, with handsome blue and grey, sanitary tan and snowy white, with handsome blue and grey borders.

$4.98 a Pair

The Famous Sleepy Hollow Blankets

The most exclusive feature of this great offering is the famous Sleepy Hollow Blankets. These goods are produced from cotton grown in a certain section of China, the Tsien-tien Valley, and only a limited amount has ever been marketed. The feature of this cotton is that it has a natural curl instead of being straight, as is all of our American cotton. This curled cotton when manufactured becomes to all intents and purposes so far as appearance and touch are concerned, like the finest wool. These blankets have splendid wearing qualities. They look like wool, they feel like wool, you can hardly tell them from wool. We sell them for what they are—SLEEPY HOLLOW Blankets.

Plain Colors

Standard Solid colors—silver grey, sanitary tan and snowy white—with tasteful border effects in blue and pink. Finished with two-inch binding. Full double bed size, 64 inches wide and 76 inches long.

$1.79 a pair

Dainty Fleece Plaids

The beauty of design and splendid harmony of colors in these plaid blankets are a delight to the eye and will be a source of satisfaction to you. Beauty and service at a low price. Double bed size, thick, heavy, warm and comfy.

$1.98 a Pair

Popular Priced Plaids

Women who appreciate unusual values cannot resist the temptation to buy some of these. A splendid range of harmonious colorings and blending of dainty soft shades, just the color you wish to harmonize with your room. Full double bed size, soft and serviceable. High quality at a popular price.

$2.48 a Pair

Soft Fluffy Plaids

The height of perfection in the Sleepy Hollow line. Exquisite colorings in blue, pink, grey and tan, two-tone assorted block plaids. Strong and durable yet soft as eiderdown. Warmth equal to all wool at one-third the cost. Extra large double bed size.

$2.98 a Pair

MR. VOTER!

How are you going to vote this fall?

Do you realize that when you cast your ballot, you exercise the highest privilege of an American citizen?

Do you realize that by that act you help to shape the destiny of your country?

Will you act intelligently or carelessly?

Do you know what the Democrat party has accomplished during the last four years?

Here is the Record

1. Kept the Country Out Of War.

There are no vacant chairs or empty sleeves. The boys have all been saved.

2. Provided A Tariff Commission

So long as this law stands no incompetent or mere politician will ever write another schedule.

3. Provided for an Income Tax.

So long as this stands the rich will bear their proper burden of the government expense.

4. Provided a Staple and Elastic Banking System.

While this stands there will be no more money panics.

5. Provided for a Rural Credit System

Under this law, farmers may borrow money for a long time at reasonable rate of interest.

6. Provided for election of U. S. Senators by Popular Vote.

Senators will now be selected from reference to the size of their heads instead of their pocket books.

7. Enacted Laws for Good Roads; Merchant Marine; Compensation to Injured Employees, Etc.

Take your histories off the shelves and read their pages. You will not find so much progressive legislation enacted in any twenty year period since the civil war.

Are You Opposed to these Laws?

Then vote for Chas. E. Hughes.

If they meet your approval show your appreciation and vote for

NUMBER OF AUTOS SETS NEW RECORD

Total of 143,550 Registered in State on September 1.

EXCEEDS ALL EXPECTATIONS

Secretary of State Vaughn Believes That 160,000 Motor Car Owners Will Have Paid the License Fee by January 1.

Lansing.—There is every indication now that the year 1916 will set a big record for the state registration of autos. When the licenses were first ordered a year ago the state officials figured that 150,000 would cover all that would be needed.

Up to September 1, according to figures compiled by Secretary of State Vaughn, there were 143,550 machines licensed, and he expects that the total will reach 160,000 by January 1. The September registration will be heavy owing to the fact that licenses are now given for one-half the original price.

Of the 143,550 cars registered 10,196 are commercial cars or trucks and 133,354 pleasure cars. Of this number 309 licenses were issued to nonresidents. There were also registered 652 manufacturers and dealers; 8,185 motorcycles and 9,787 chauffeurs.

The largest registrations are shown in the following counties: Wayne, 4,671 commercial cars; 38,704 pleasure; Kent, 843 commercial; 7,328 pleasure; Berrien, 220 commercial; 2,400 pleasure; Genesee, 339 commercial; 4,168 pleasure; Ingham, 358 commercial; 4,863 pleasure; Kalamazoo, 250 commercial; 3,118 pleasure; Lenawee, 98 commercial; 3,709 pleasure; Oakland, 279 commercial; 8,933 pleasure; Saginaw, 325 commercial; 3,526 pleasure; Shiawassee, 52 commercial; 2,197 pleasure; St. Joseph, 52 commercial; 2,183 pleasure; Washtenaw, 226 commercial; 8,363 pleasure.

The average price of a license runs about $12, although in some of the counties this average is high, while in others the average price per car runs in the neighborhood of $15 and $18.

State Fire Prevention Day.

"State Fire Prevention day" will be held Monday, October 9, the anniversary of the great Chicago fire, according to a proclamation by Governor Ferris.

In his proclamation the governor urgently recommends that residents of Michigan observe the day by cleaning up and removing all rubbish, trash and inflammable waste and material from their premises, and asks all newspapers, public officials, school teachers and fire departments and all civic societies and property owners to take an interest in the observation of the day.

He says that the result will be the removal of fire hazards and that there will be a corresponding promotion of the beauty and sanitation of the state and a pronounced influence in lowering the fire losses and excessive insurance rates that have afflicted the state in the past.

"An ounce of prevention is worth a ton of fire-fighting apparatus," the governor remarks. He mentions that 75 per cent of the fires and accidents are due to preventable causes and could easily be avoided by the exercise of reasonable care and precaution.

He also quotes statistics showing that 141 persons lost their lives and 183 were seriously injured from fire accidents in the year 1915. The fire losses for the first eight months of 1915 were $159,535,220, which is nearly $50,000 larger than for the same period of the previous year.

Good Roads Workers Meet.

Fifty road commissioners in the lower peninsula and several good road promoters who hold no official position met here with State Highway Commissioner Frank Rogers. The state official explained his plans regarding the federal appropriation passed by the last congress.

Rogers' plan is to finish the legislative trunk lines if possible with federal money. Many gaps in these roads are caused because the county authorities did not have sufficient funds to complete them. Upper peninsula road builders met with Rogers at Marquette recently and heard his plans. He proposes that the government pay one-half, the state one-quarter and the local communities one-quarter.

Child Paralysis Kills 28.

Infantile paralysis caused 28 deaths in Michigan in August, according to the mortality report issued by Secretary of State Vaughan.

Other important cases of deaths were: Tuberculosis 212, cancer 230, violence 264, diarrhea enteritis among children under two years of age, 402. The total number of deaths reported last month was 3,522, a decrease of 126 as compared with July.

The total number of births reported last month was 7,219, a decrease of 64 as compared with July.

Would Avenge Soldier's Death.

El Paso, Tex.—Maj. Sam D. Pepper of Port Huron, Mich., judge advocate general of the Eleventh division stationed here, has taken charge of the work of gathering evidence from soldiers in the trial of William Sands, Texas ranger, who killed Sergt. Wm. Bierne, Twenty-third United States infantry, in a saloon.

Major Pepper has taken the statements of a dozen soldiers who were witnesses. Hundreds of soldiers surrounded the police station after the killing and demanded that the ranger be turned over to them. He was hurried secretly through a back door and lodged in the county jail.

Sergeant Bierne, member of the provost guard, charged with maintaining order among soldiers in the downtown district, was one of the most popular enlisted men on the border. For five months he had been winning local fame by the samaritan-like manner in which he took care of men who had fallen in with evil company. It was on such a mission as this in a reputable saloon that he lost his life.

Although armed with an automatic at the time Sands drew, Bierne made no attempt to use his gun. The flap of his holster was still fastened when his body was picked up.

Families Suffer From Delay.

A pathetic letter from Mrs. Harry A. Alrlie to the war department has come all the way down the line of commanding officers to Capt. David E. Cleary of the machine gun company of Detroit. Mr. Alrlie and Horace C. Freer are the men whose approved petitions for release lay forgotten in the trunk of a regimental staff officer for more than a month. In the meantime the department order permitting the release of the men with dependents was revoked and these men lost out. New petitions with explanations were sent, but the slow-moving machinery of the government hasn't developed action either in the affirmative or negative yet.

In the meantime the families of the men are the ones who suffer most.

Sam's Luck Is Against Him.

Sam Acker's luck seems to be against him. He is the man who has been traveling since June 10 in an effort to join his unit, Company I, of Ann Arbor. Acker was in Kansas City at the time of the president's call, and when the state of Michigan refused to pay his fare to the mobilization camp Acker started hoboing southward. After three months he learned where his company was stationed and wired Capt. A. C. Wilson from Amarillo. Captain Wilson's men raised the money to bring Sam to El Paso. Sam got here the other day and reported to regimental headquarters.

"I want to report to Company I for duty," said Acker.
"Your company isn't here," he was told.

"Lord!" exclaimed Acker with bulging eyes. "Where is it?"
He sighed with relief when he learned that Clint was but 20 miles from town and that his company was an outpost there for a few days.

Killing Time at Grayling.

Camp Ferris, Grayling.—To the Guardsmen here, who have taken long hikes, solved all kinds of war problems and indulged in maneuvers of most intricate natures, since the president's call, the delay in sending them to the border has taken an appearance of "killing time."

Although the troops are consistently drilled daily, they are acquiring nothing now which could not be attained better at the border, and there are signs of restlessness at the wait, especially when there is no apparent reason for it.

Thinks Pay Must Be Raised.

Increased monetary inducements in the National Guard and regular United States army is predicted by Gen. John P. Kirk, who said that a higher rate of pay for the army will be necessary if the country remains even fairly prosperous.

"I wish we might do what Canada has done," he said. "There enlisted men are paid $1.10 a day. Unless active service is assured, there is little chance for enlistment as long as men are receiving from $2.75 to $4 for common labor, as they are now."

Placing the clothing allowance at 81 cents a day General Kirk pointed out that the enlisted man is better off than appears at first glance, as board and medical attendance are also included. The soldiers here will receive a large part of their clothing allowance in cash. Men on the border get 10 per cent additional, making their total for clothing allowance and pay 81 cents a day, approximately $25 per month.

PERE MARQUETTE EARNINGS INCREASE

COMPANY SHOWS SURPLUS FOR TWO MONTHS FROM VOLUME OF BUSINESS HANDLED.

REPORT MADE TO U. S. COURT

The Operating Expenses and Revenue Show That A Big Deficit Has Been Changed To Profit.

Detroit.—Continued increase in volume of business and earnings are reflected in the income statement of the Pere Marquette railroad for August and the two months ending August 31, which Paul H. King and Dudley E. Waters, receivers, have submitted to Judge A. J. Tuttle, of the United States court.

Total operating revenues of the company in August were $1,551,947.48, a gain of $522,529, compared with August 1915. Total operating expenses were $1,255,795.17 or $180,508.96 greater than a year ago. Net operating revenue of $696,152.31 was an increase of $162,020.44. Surplus remaining from gross income after allowance for charges including taxes and interest accruals amounted to $140,056.06, a gain of $120,522.86 over August last year.

For the two months ending August 31, the company's total operating revenues was $3,758,233.96, an increase of $574,214.01; total operating expenses were $2,430,687.26, an increase of $378,009.95 and surplus after allowing for charges including taxes and interest was $177,435.75, compared with a deficit of $41,741.25 for the similar two months of 1915, the increase for the 1916 period amounting to $219,177.20.

The company's freight earnings in August were $1,280,921.12, a gain of $285,529.33, and for the two months $2,421,199.73, an increase of $483,608.69. Passenger revenue in August was $482,519.84, and for the two months $49,045.14, a gain of $8,007.27 for the former and of $32,619.83 for the latter period.

The ratio of expense to revenues was .634 per cent in August and .671 per cent for the two months, this being a reduction of 2.88 per cent for August and a decrease of 5.12 per cent for the two months internal.

SEPT. LOSSES 3,800 A DAY

The Casualties for Month on All British Fronts Are 5,439 Officers and 114,110 Men.

London.—British losses in September were at the rate of more than 3,800 a day. The casualties on all fronts reported in this month were: Officers, 5,439; men, 114,110.

Diplomats say the decree, if carried out, simply would abolish the English bank and the French bank. It is said the French and English governments protested vigorously against Carranza's decree, and when no satisfaction could be had H. K. Hobler, the British charge in Mexico City, left for Washington to lay the matter before the state department and the British embassy. Carranza, it is said, promptly suspended his decree as affecting these two banks, but members of the diplomatic corps believe the suspension is only temporary.

Increasing Agitation Is Growing In Germany for the Resumption of Submarine Warfare.

Washington.—Increasing agitation in Germany for complete resumption of submarine warfare, Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg's declaration before the Reichstag that any statesman failing to use Germany's every weapon to shorten the war "deserves to be hanged," and the recent apparently inspired simultaneous publication in German newspapers of Attacks on American neutrality, brought forth an authoritative, though informal, statement from the state department of the American government's attitude. Any action which endangers American lives through the sinking of ships without warning or by failing to provide proper safeguards, it was asserted, will immediately reopen the submarine question with all its possibilities. But so far, despite what is going on in Germany, there has been absolutely no indication in official advice that Germany has violated the agreement arrived at in the Sussex case.

ITEMS OF STATE INTEREST

Nearly a score of cases are being considered by the federal grand jury which convened last week in district court, Grand Rapids.

With a ten pound iron plate wired about his stomach, the body of Julius Schroeder, 60, of Grand Rapids, was found by a Perryburg schoolboy in Grand River, near Grand Haven. The man apparently had killed himself. He disappeared from Grand Rapids September 19. His wife identified the body.

DOINGS AT CAMP FERRIS

Soldiers March Eighteen Miles in Snow, Rain and Hail.—Heavy Fines for Five Guards.

Camp Ferris, Grayling.—The weather was the topic of most absorbing interest at Camp Ferris. It snowed, it rained, it hailed. A chilly north wind blew so violently that at times it appeared that the tents would be leveled to the ground. Through it all, members of the Thirty-third Michigan Infantry hiked 18 miles and cooked their own mess at the dinner hour. A heavy frost followed two days of steady downpour. Despite the fires in the tents, chilly blasts caused considerable discomfort.

Captain E. W. Thompson, Troop A, South Haven, summary court officer, has imposed heavy fines on five members of Troop B, cavalry, Detroit, for disobedience of orders. One of the men, a sergeant, was reduced to private. Captain Pickert, provost officer, arrested several infantrymen who changed the time of passes.

The labor of the mother of Elmer Tippler, of Houghton, a member of Co. G, has been rewarded. Since June 23 she has been endeavoring to get her son out of the army. She has been successful. The discharge was for fraudulent enlistment, as he had given his age as 18 years.

Fourteen members of Battery A, First Field artillery, Lansing, which has been ordered south, have asked for forms on which to make application to join the regular army, according to Capt. Chester B. McCormick. Soldiers in other organizations also have announced intention of joining the regulars.

Mess Sergeant Fred Merkle, of Troop A, South Haven, was badly burned about the face and arms by a can of syrup which he had placed on a stove to heat and which exploded.

GEN. CARRANZA TO RUN BANK

Will Start Bank in Mexico City;—Also Will Suppress Other Banks Which Affect His Enterprise.

Washington.—News was received through diplomatic channels that General Carranza proposes to run a bank of his own in Mexico City and to suppress or obstruct banking institutions which affect his enterprise. Carranza recently issued a decree the exact terms of which are not known. It was regarded by British and French governments as an attack on banks conducted by citizens of those countries in Mexico City. One of these is the Bank of London and Mexico and the other the French bank or Banco Nacional.

Diplomats say the decree, if carried out, simply would abolish the English bank and the French bank. It is said the French and English governments protested vigorously against Carranza's decree, and when no satisfaction could be had H. K. Hobler, the British charge in Mexico City, left for Washington to lay the matter before the state department and the British embassy. Farmer Is Acquited.

Ann Arbor.—It took a jury in Justice Doty's court just five minutes to acquit Harry Schwab of selling milk when there was a contagious and infectious disease in his home. The recent epidemic of typhoid had been blamed on the milk Schwab sold to George Curry to deliver to customers in this city, when Schwab's daughter was ill in her father's house with typhoid fever. Schwab contended that he never sold milk after he was notified that his daughter was suffering with a contagious disease. At least five deaths from typhoid have been traced to infected milk. There were nearly 75 cases of the disease.

Girl Attacks Family on Farm.

Ann Arbor.—While on a visit to relatives in Webster township, Rose Hannschlager, twenty-eight years old, of Chicago, went on a sudden rampage, hurled soup at the members of the family at dinner, chopped doors and furniture and whipped two of her sisters and mother. The girl, who was formerly a domestic in Chicago, was recently committed to the home for feeble minded at Elgin, Ill. A sister, residing in Chicago and about to come here for a visit, had secured permission to bring the girl along. Rose will be sent back to Elgin.

New Tutors at U. of M.

Ann Arbor.—Five new instructors, all with extensive practice in electrical engineering, have been obtained for the electrical section of the engineering college of the University of Michigan. They are P. H. Evans, Frank Zumbro and Fred Davidson, all graduates from the Michigan Engineering college, and all coming here from responsible association with the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing company, and G. A. Moore, a graduate of the Carnegie Institute of Technology, and George Pomeroy, a graduate from the University of California.

Author of Fatal Joke Exonerated.

Pontiac.—A coroner's jury in the case of Frank Miller, victim of a compressed air joke in the Wilson Foundry and Machine company's plant last week, exonerated Adam Solomon of criminal intent in the prank which he played on Miller. Witnesses said that it was common for the workmen in the molding room to nudge each other with the nozzle of the compressed air hose and that there had never before been any serious results.

Autoist Convicted of Manslaughter.

Pontiac.—Virgil Elliott of Detroit was convicted of manslaughter in the circuit court, after a jury had deliberated all night, in the case growing out of the death of J. P. Leukau, in an auto accident, July 2, on the Royal Oak road. The jury had returned when court opened and declared it could not agree, but was sent back by Judge Smith.

The HOME BEAUTIFUL

Flowers and Shrubs—
Their Care and Cultivation

Francis Scott Key Rose—the Flowers Are Unusually Large.

FAVORITE ROSES

By ELIZABETH VAN BENTHUYSEN.

There is absolutely nothing in the realm of esthetic culture that is so thoroughly dominated by personal favor as the selection of a pet rose. Every lover of the garden and of the home beautiful selects a favorite rose almost as soon as the interest of flower culture is born.

I have been much interested in the season's favorites and the reasons given by rose enthusiasts for their likes and dislikes. They offer to the student and the culturist valuable hints in the care and selection of any favorite, because what one may find as an argument for his pet blossom may be equally true in any number of cases and many of my readers may be able readily to meet the claims advanced by others and find equal merit for their own selections.

The delicate formation, coloring and perfume of the rose all combine to make its study especially worth while. Intelligent choice of a favorite often marks the flower-lover as gifted—and a selection that does not follow popular fancy always reveals an amateur who is not superficial. For instance, the enthusiasts are now experimenting with the Gruss aus Tepitz, a lovely hybrid tea, to find out how well it will stand the winter in northern climates. Personally, I think that the rose is sufficiently hardy to stand anything save an unusually cold zone. It has the advantage, too, of being a prolific producer of bloom. From May until November the raiser of the pretty tea rose is rarely without some sweet evidence of the possession.

It can be planted in the sunshine or in the shade, under hanging trees or in the open, and a little severe pruning in the early spring is about all that the delicate rose demands. There is something in the rose that binds the present to the past, and one feels like the owner of a rare old bit of period furniture when it forms part of the garden.

Those who do not believe the adage that every rose must have thorns are showing much partiality this year for the Paul Neyron. Every month it produces its flowers, with the blossoms on long stems and leaves of

SOMETHING ABOUT DAHLIAS

By G. T. GEOFFRY.

If you want dahlia roots for next year, plant them in small pots and let them remain all summer. Keep them over winter like old roots; and start them again in the spring. I do not say this is absolute, but it is one of the best ways I know to raise dahlias successfully.

It is the claim of dahlia growers that in dividing the roots almost all the varieties will degenerate. This is the reason we have so few good flowers.

A good dahlia should bloom from July until frost; and if it does not it is not worth keeping. There are dahlias that will.

Dahlias can be grown from seeds. They grow stronger than from cuttings and roots, but it is difficult to find good seeds.

Many believe that a cutting will not flower and make roots and keep over winter, but that is not true. That is the way they are raised all over the continent.

The mode of planting has much to do with the final results of the beauty of dahlias.

SOME GARDEN HINTS

Has your greenhouse been repaired and cleaned?

If it has not there isn't much time left for attending to this very essential task. Look over the heater and see that any bars which were burned out have been replaced. Watch the pipe connections carefully.

The use of electric lights will hasten the blooming of plants, but it is a costly scheme that does not promise any commercial profit.

UNITED STATES
WAREHOUSE ACT

Synopsis of Measure Passed by Congress as Prepared by United States Department of Agriculture.

The central purpose of the United States warehouse act, which became a law on August 11, 1916, is to establish a form of warehouse receipt for cotton, grain, wool, tobacco and flaxseed, which will make these receipts easily and widely negotiable as delivery orders or as collateral for loans and, therefore, of definite assistance in financing crops. This purpose the act aims to attain by licensing and bonding warehouses under conditions which will insure the integrity of their receipts and make these receipts reliable to the bearer, to a specified person, or to a specified person or his order, (e) quantity, and ownership of the products named which may be stored with them.

The secretary of agriculture is given general authority to investigate the storage, warehousing, classification, weighing, and certifying of cotton, wool, grains, tobacco and flaxseed, and to classify warehouses for which licenses are applied for or issued.

Permissive Statute.

He may issue to warehousemen licenses for the conduct of warehouses in which such products may be stored for interstate or foreign commerce, and also of warehouses located in places under the exclusive jurisdiction of the United States in which such products may be stored. Persons who are not warehousemen may also be licensed, subject to the same requirements as licensed warehousemen, to accept such products for storage in warehouses owned, operated or leased by any state. Licenses may be issued for periods not exceeding one year, and are renewable upon showing satisfactory to the secretary of agriculture. A fee not exceeding $2 may be charged for each license or renewal, and, in addition, a reasonable fee for each examination or inspection of a warehouse made upon application of the warehouseman. It is not, however, compulsory that any warehouseman be licensed by the secretary of agriculture. The system is wholly permissive.

Every applicant for a license as a warehouseman must agree to comply with the act and the rules and regulations prescribed under it. He must give a bond, with other than personal surety, to secure the performance of his obligations as a warehouseman under the laws of the place in which the warehouse is conducted, under his contracts with his depositors, and under the United States warehouse act. The right is given to any person injured through its breach to sue in his own name on the bond for any damages sustained by him. When such bond has been given, the warehouse may be designated as bonded under the United States warehouse act.

Inspection of Warehouses.

The secretary of agriculture is authorized to inspect warehouse licenses, or for which licenses are applied for; to determine whether they are suitable for the proper storage of agricultural products; to prescribe the duties of licensed warehousemen with respect to their care of, and responsibility for, agricultural products; and to examine agricultural products stored in licensed warehouses. Deposits of agricultural products in such warehouses are made subject to the act and the rules and regulations under it.

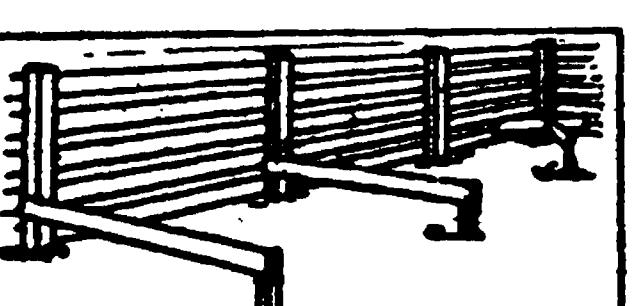

Duties of Warehousemen.

Licensed warehousemen are not permitted to discriminate between persons desiring to store agricultural products in their warehouses. All agricultural products, except fungible one if the latter are allowed to run in the pen. The illustration gives the idea, says a writer in an exchange.

First begin with a short board eight inches from the ground and then a board six feet long and the same dis-products (such as grain and the like), or the same kind and grade, for which separate receipts are issued, must be so kept that they may be separately identified and redelivered to the depositor. Warehousemen may mix grain and other fungible products, ordinarily mixed in storage, when they are of the same kind and grade, and are delivered from the same mass, but may not mix such products when they are of different grades.

Warehouse Receipts.

Original receipts must be issued for licensed warehouses, but only when such products are actually stored at the time of the issuance of the receipts. Additional or further receipts for the same products may only be issued in place of lost or destroyed receipts, and then only under specified conditions.

The act enumerates certain facts which must be stated in all receipts issued by licensed warehousemen. They must show (a) the location of the warehouse, (b) the date of issuance, (c) the consecutive number, (d) whether the products will be delivered to the bearer, to a specified person, or to a specified person or his order, (e) the rate of storage charges, (f) a description of the product stored, including the quantity of weight, (g) the grade or other class, according to the official standards of the United States for such products, unless there be no such standard, in which event it must be stated according to some recognized standard or according to rules and regulations prescribed by the secretary of agriculture, (h) that they are issued subject to the United States warehouse act and the rules and regulations under it, (i) ownership, if any, of the products by the warehouseman, (j) any lien claimed by the warehouseman for advance made or liabilities incurred, (k) any other facts required by the secretary of agriculture, (l) the signature of the warehouseman, which may be made by his authorized agent. Unless otherwise required by the law of the state in which the warehouse is located, the grade may be omitted at the request of depositors, except in case of fungible agricultural products, if the receipts clearly show that they are not negotiable.

The secretary of agriculture may license competent persons to classify and weigh agricultural products stored in licensed warehouses, and to certify the classification or weight of the products. Such licenses may be suspended or revoked at any time if the licensee fails to perform his duties properly. All grain, flaxseed and other fungible products stored for interstate or foreign commerce in licensed warehouses must be inspected and graded by persons licensed for the purpose. Authority is given to establish official standards for the agricultural products named in the act, and standards established under any other act of congress are adopted for the purpose of the warehouse act.

Delivery of Products.

Upon demand of depositors or holders of receipts, licensed warehousemen, in the absence of some lawful excuse, must deliver products stored without unnecessary delay. The demand for delivery must be accompanied with an offer to satisfy the warehouseman's lien, to surrender the receipt, if negotiable, properly indorsed, and, when requested by the warehouseman, to sign an acknowledgment of the receipt of the products redelivered. Upon the redelivery of the products for which given, all receipts returned must be canceled.

Records and Reports.

Licensed warehousemen are required to keep in safe places complete and correct records of all agricultural products stored and withdrawn, and of receipts issued, returned, and canceled. They must also make detailed reports to the secretary of agriculture as often as required. Their books, records, papers and accounts are subject to examination by the department of agriculture.

tance from the ground, and so on around the pen. As the hog goes after the chicken she will slip under the board and then when the hog starts for the other side of the board she slips under another or under the same boards. Then the hog will stand and look disgusted and finally go over to the corner and lie down.

What the Doctor Knows

KIDNEYS MUST BE RIGHT TO INSURE HEALTH.

Few people realize to what extent their health depends upon the condition of their kidneys.

The physician in nearly all cases of serious illness, makes a chemical analysis of the patient's urine. He knows that unless the kidneys are doing their work properly, the other organs cannot readily be brought back to health and strength.

When the kidneys are neglected or abused in any way, serious results are sure to follow. According to health statistics, Bright's Disease, which is really an advanced form of kidney trouble, caused nearly ten thousand deaths in one year, in the State of New York alone. Therefore, it is particularly necessary to pay more attention to the health of these important organs.

An ideal herbal compound that has had remarkable success as a kidney remedy is Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy.

The mild and healing influence of this preparation, in most cases, is soon realized, according to sworn statements and verified testimony of those who have used the remedy.

When your kidneys require attention, get Swamp-Root at once from any pharmacy. It is sold by every druggist in bottles of two sizes—50c and $1.00.

However, if you wish first to test this great preparation, send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper. Adv.

New Telephone-Telegraph.

A new telegraph instrument has been invented by means of which any telegraph operator may send messages in the Morse code over an ordinary telephone. This new instrument can be attached to any telephone and the connection between it is purely mechanical. It does not require any additional electric circuits. The telephone key has a pivot at the end. It produces a sharp distinct sound and is connected with the metal case of the telephone by two clamps. It is claimed that Morse signals sent by this instrument carry longer distances than the human voice over long distance telephones, so the telephone-telegraph can be of great value in both supplementary and in verifying telephonic conversation.

Wet Leader Flops

To Dry Side

Munising, Mich., Sept. 21.—W. S. Burns, ex-mayor of Munising, and for two sessions one or the wet leaders in the state legislature, has divorced himself from his former allegiance with the liquor interests and is out for state wide prohibition. The former state legislator's about-face is due, he says, to the observations he has made in the past several years of conditions in Alabama, which is dry.

"Henceforth, I have always been a 'wet' and honestly so," he said, "but during my several winters' residence in Alabama, I have been thoroughly converted. I want to be classed now as a 'prohibition fanatic'."

"As a member of the legislature from the Alger-Schoolcraft district, my vote and my influence were always with the wet interests, but I have since discovered that I made a great error in judgement in supporting the liquor cause."

"From observations which I have made in the south, I have become convinced that prohibition has brought the southern states great economic and moral benefits. In the light of what I have learned I think I would be an unworthy citizen if I failed to acknowledge my past error in my view of the question."

Mrs. C. M. Carpenter took an auto trip through the northern part of the state last week with friends. Her daughter, Mrs. Bert Benham kept house for her during her absence.
