Pinckney to Have a Public Library

Rev. Wm. L. B. Collins, state manager of the Howland Library Association of Cincinnati, was in town last week in the interest of a movement to establish a public library. The citizens of Pinckney were greatly interested in the proposition and a sufficient number of library members were secured to guarantee the success of the plan.

Miss Mabel E. Brown was appointed librarian. The books have been shipped to her and will be kept at her house until a more suitable place has been chosen. Mrs. Henry, Mrs. Camburn and Miss Kate Brown were appointed a committee to choose a place for the library exchange.

Persons wishing to join the Library Association can hand their names to Mabel E. Brown. The cost for a year's subscription, which includes one book, membership fee and the total expense of operating the library is $1.87 (one dollar and eighty-seven cents) per member per year.

These libraries are proving a great success wherever they have been tried. An extra fine one was put in at Stockbridge last week and Mr. Collins is now at work at South Lyons and Brighton.

Hours for exchanging books are from 3:30 to 4:00 every Wednesday afternoon.

School Notes

The freshmen of the P. H. S. are planning a party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer VanBeuren sometime in the near future.

Percy Mowers of Detroit visited school Monday.

The boys are planning a program to be given at the literary club next Friday. In two weeks the girls will give the program.

The Washington Birthday program given Feb. 23rd under the auspices of the Literary Club, was a great success. All the children took their parts well and a good crowd was in attendance, about $5.00 being taken in at the door. The Literary Club wish to thank all for their patronage.

The drawing class, under Mrs. J. P. Doyle, is exhibiting their drawings in the school building. All are invited to come and see them.

Everyone in the ninth and tenth grades are interested in writing regimes of books. Each pupil is required to write two before June.

The Honor List for February is as follows: Seniors—Pearl Hanes, Juniors—Ambrose Murphy, Sophomores—Gorman Kelley, Zita Harris, Francis McCluskey, Ferne Tupper, Roy Campbell, Helen Camburn, Madeleine Bowman, Nellie Fiske, Hszen Smith, Dorothy Shelan, Jennie Docking, Freshmen—Anne Wilcox, Madeleine Roche, Pauline Swarthout, Lucille Tupper, Lauretta Clinton, Helen Tiplady, Rose Flintoft.

Mr. Edmondson the High School inspector visited school one day last week and while here made the remark that the Sophomore Class was the most responsive and respectful he had visited he had visited this year. Some class to us!

Average of Wind.

Some builders of windmills estimate that a wind sixteen miles an hour may be expected for eight hours per day on the average for every day in the year. This does not mean that such a wind can be relied upon every day in the year, but that the average wind all the year round would equal sixteen miles an hour for eight hours every day. —London Standard.

Hampden Court Singers Here March 16

The Hampden Court Singers will be at the Pinckney Opera House, Friday evening of next week, March 16. This is the last number on the Lecture Course. This Company is well recommended and everyone who misses it will miss a rare treat, so don't fail to hear them.

President Signs Law, Which Means Michigan Will Be Dry as Sahara

Washington, March 3. President Wilson today signed the post office appropriation bill carrying the "bone dry" prohibition provision.

Signing of this bill by the president, means that Michigan and all other states where the manufacture and sale of liquor is prohibited by law, will be automatically "bone dry" regardless of local legislation.

All shipments of liquor into such states except for medical, mechanical and sacramental purposes, are prohibited by law, and anyone contracting for or assisting in any way in such a shipment lays himself liable to a heavy penalty.

States in which prohibition laws are now in effect will become "bone dry" July 1st, when the federal law takes effect.

In Michigan it will go into effect May 1, 1918, when the recently voted prohibition amendment becomes effective.

Twenty-six states are affected.

A Spring Shower

Last Thursday evening a Kitchenette Shower was given Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lee, by their friends in this vicinity, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Reason. About thirty-five were in attendance and games and music were played until a late hour, when refreshments were served. Mr. and Mrs. Lee received many useful presents, as well as, the best wishes of all present. A very pleasant evening was reported by all.

A Birthday Surprise

The neighbors gave a surprise party on Mrs. Bert VanBlaricum in honor of her birthday, last Wednesday evening. The evening was spent by games and a social visit. Light refreshments were served by the ladies. Mrs. VanBlaricum was presented with two beautiful towels as a token of the high esteem in which she is held.

They all departed in the wee small hours, wishing Mrs. VanBlaricum many more such birthdays.

An Enjoyable Evening

About thirty friends gathered at the home of Mrs. Will Dunbar, last Saturday evening, as a complete surprise in honor of her birthday, the evening was spent in playing games and a social chat. After supper Clyde Galloway in behalf of the company presented Mrs. Dunbar with a beautiful hand painted cake plate as a reminder of the evening. The guests departed at a late hour declaring that they had spent a very enjoyable evening.

Knew Local Trains.

A suburbanite who has a hearst near the railway was complaining to a friend about having some of his birds killed by passing trains.

"You should hang a time table up in the henhouse, and then they could look when the trains were booked to come past," said the friend.

"Time table be hanged!" said the owner. "They know well enough when the ordinary trains will pass. When I've had one killed it has always been by a special." —Chicago News.

His Own Fault.

The old miser in the story who dropped a five dollar gold piece in the plate at church, mistaking it for a nickel, could get no great satisfaction out of the deacon, as will be recalled, but he was not the man to give up easily.

Accordingly he sought legal advice with a view of instituting a suit at law.

But the lawyer whom he consulted was one of those rare and gifted souls who would much rather be witty than rich—or almost anything else for that matter.

"Sir," said he at once, "you have no case. You were guilty of contributory negligence." Exchange.

Japan has a civil service retirement law for government employees.

Annual School Officers Meeting at Howell, Friday, March 9th

Let me urge you to be present at this meeting. Important business will be transacted. You, being one who is vitally interested in your school, should spend this day with your fellow officers talking over matters of mutual interest. This is the ONLY meeting of the year, so be there. I am sending this notice to every board member.

A representative from the State Department of Public Instruction will be present. Very truly yours, HUGH G. ALDRICH.

Republican Caucus

Notice is hereby given, that the Republican Electors of the Township of Putnam will meet at the Town Hall in the Village of Pinckney, on Saturday, the 10th day of March at 3 o'clock in the afternoon of that day, for the purpose of nominating candidates for the various Township offices, to be filled at the Spring Election, and for the transaction of such other business as may come before the meeting.

By Order of Committee.

Democratic Caucus

Notice is hereby given, that the Democratic Electors of the Township of Putnam will meet at the Town Hall in the Village of Pinckney, on Saturday the 10th day of March, 1917, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon of that day, for the purpose of nominating candidates for the various township offices, to be filled at the Spring Election and for the transaction of such other business as may come before the meeting.

By Order of Committee.

Servants as Hosts.

A curious custom exists in the town of Port of Spain, in the island of Trinidad. Every year the servants, who are all black, give a grand ball for their masters and mistresses. The Princes building, a huge place where all public entertainments are held, is engaged, and everything is done in the best style. There are two halls for dancing, one for the servants and the other for their guests.

The best band in the island is engaged, and the guests are given a banquet. Etiquette is very strict and preceded once rigidly observed by the servants, the governor's butler and his lady going in before the chief justice's groom, and so on.

With Her Eyes.

They stood by the old well together. "How shall we drink?" he said. "There is no bucket here." She lowered her eyes. When she raised them again they were full of water.—Prince ton Tiger.

MADE $5,000 OUT OF HOGS

On His Western Canadian Farm.

It is getting to be a long drawn out story, the way that Western Canadian farmers have made money. Many of them a few years ago, came to the country with little more than their few household effects, probably a team of horses and a cow or two, and sufficient money to do them for a few months, until they got a start. Hundreds of such can be pointed out, who today have splendid homes, well equipped farms, the latest machinery and an automobile. Here is the case of A. E. Merriam, formerly of Devil's Lake, N. D. He didn't leave there because the land was poor, or farming not a success, for all who know that country are aware that it is an excellent country. He wanted to expand, to take advantage of the cheap land that Western Canada offers. And that same story has appealed to hundreds of others who have had like success with Mr. Merriam. But his story, and he signs it, too, is:

"I came to Alberta in the Spring of 1909 from Devil's Lake, North Dakota, locating on my farm near Dalroy.

"I arrived with six head of horses and two head of cattle and about $1,500. Since then, I have increased my live stock to seven head of horses, four head of cattle, and about one hundred head of hogs, a four-roomed house, good barn with all modern improvements, a feed grinder, elevator, chopper, fanning mill, etc. I have increased my original capital at least four times more since coming here.

"From the feeding of hogs during the last year, I had a gross return of $5,000.

"I first started grain farming, but during the past four years I have made hogs my specialty, and you may see by the foregoing statement for 1916 that I have not done so badly.

"Land has increased at least twenty per cent in value during the past few years, now selling for from $25 to $35 per acre, with nominal taxes of about $27 a quarter section yearly.

"The climate here is better than Dakota in that we do not have so much dry wind; the winters are similar to Dakota.

"As for farming in general, the growing and feeding of live stock is more sure than the grain farming, if continued year after year, and if every farmer follows this he will be ahead of the grain growers in the long run. Taking everything into consideration, I feel satisfied with my success in Alberta."

(Sgd.) A. E. MERRIAM.
Dalroy, Alberta, Jan. 12th, 1917.

There will be the greatest demand for farm labor in Western Canada during the early spring, and, in fact, all season until November, and the highest wages will be paid. There is an absolute guarantee by the Canadian Government that those who go to Canada for this purpose need have no fear of conscription.—Advertisement.

This is Palm Beach.

Nowhere is the sand more like a deep, warm dust of yellow gold; nowhere is there a margin of the earth so splashed with spots of brilliant color; sweaters, parasols, bathing suits, canvas shelters—blue, green, purple, pink, yellow, orange, scarlet—vibrating together in the sharp sunlight like brush marks on a high-keyed canvas by Sorolla; nowhere has flesh such living, glittering beauty as the flesh of long, white, lovely arms which flash out, cold and dripping, from the sea; nowhere does water appear less like water, more like a flowing waste of liquid emeralds and sapphires, held perpetually in cool solution and edged with a thousand gleaming, flouncing strings of pearls.—Collier's Weekly.

Had Him There.

"Now, madam," said the crotchety judge who had been annoyed by the digressions of previous witnesses, "we want no hearsay evidence. Tell us only what you positively know. Your name, please?"

"Margaret Jones," replied the witness.

"Your age?"

"Well—er—I have only hearsay evidence on that point, so I won't answer."—Boston Evening Transcript.

A Good Sign.

"Is the world really getting better?"

"Of course it is," replied the cheerful individual. "It's true that there is a terrible war raging in Europe, which we may soon be drawn into, and Mexico is still unsettled, and Cuba is trying to have a revolution, but the sale of comic valentines this year was smaller than ever known before."

Probably.

Are we a peace-loving people because we chew chewing gum, or do we chew it because we are peaceful?

TO EQUIP MILITIA IN EVENT OF WAR

LEGISLATURE WOULD GUARD
MEN AGAINST SHORTAGE OF NECESSITIES.

RESOLUTION IS ADOPTED

Federal Government should Provide Equipment but Soldiers Want Men to Have Every Comfort.

(From Our Special Correspondent.)
Lansing.

If there is danger of war and Michigan troops are to be called into service, the house of representatives wishes to save them from the consequences of equipment shortages and other lacks that have occurred on previous occasions when the federal government was supposed to have provided for the comfort and safety of the men.

The note took the form of a resolution, offered by Rep. Lemire, in which the adjutant general of the state troops, Major Bersey, is asked for information of the troops.

Major Bersey, however, is not in position to give much information because the Michigan brigade is split between the home stations and the border. The companies that have returned from the border have not yet completed their accounts, and the government has now on hand some supplies that would be distributed immediately if the troops were needed. Moreover the state, under the new militia act, has nothing to do with the personal equipment of the men. Everything is supposed to be furnished by the federal government. Representative Lemire's idea is that if such conditions as prevailed at Grayling part of the time, could be known in advance, the state could take steps to see that the men were saved from any suffering. Such work by the state, however, would be unofficial as far as the federal government is concerned.

The resolution was adopted unanimously and without a word of debate. Members declared freely that if Michigan's soldiers were to be called again, they should go with every comfort possible.

Pennsylvania Railroad Comes to State.

The definite right-of-way by which the Pennsylvania railroad will enter the city of Detroit was disclosed, when Attorney Henry E. Bodman, general counsel for the new railroad, filed with the Michigan railroad commission articles of association of the Pennsylvania Detroit Railroad Co., a $5,000,000 corporation, which will build a line between Toledo and Detroit over which the Pennsylvania will run its traffic.

From Toledo the new road will build its tracks to the Michigan state line, crossing it at a point just east of the Ann Arbor railroad's line into Ohio. From there the new road will run north through Monroe county to Carleton, Ash township, then through the townships of Huron, Brownstown, Taylor and Ecorse, through the village of Oakland and thence into Detroit.

On the question of the issuance of the $5,000,000 capital stock and its sale, the railroad commission alone is the sole judge and on this matter a hearing will be held before the commission March 15. At this time the entire plans of the new road will be laid before the commission.

Customary Adjournment Talk.

With the coming of the month of March the usual talk among the legislators at this stage of a legislative session in relation to determining on a date for adjournment of the session, has begun. A house resolution has been offered and laid on the table that seeks adjournment of regular business sessions on March 30. No one believes that this can be accomplished, but all are operating on the theory that the presence of such a resolution will help to speed up legislative work. In the senate Lieut. Gov. Dickinson has asked the senators to get busy with their committee work and so facilitate work on the floor of the senate.

New Bills Introduced.

Rep. Wood has introduced a bill to abolish the office of state oil inspector.

Rep. Lewis has introduced a bill to extend the time for the payment of state taxes to Feb. 20 of each year.

Bills have appeared in the house and senate for the creation of the position of Public Relief Officer, to work under the state board of charities and correction and keep tab on all public charities, getting annual reports on what each has done and is doing.

D. S. & A. Case Continued.

The attorney general's department is not going to rest content with the findings of Special Master Baker in the federal court district at Detroit that the Michigan 2 cent fare law is confiscatory as applying to the Duluth South Shore & Atlantic railroad. It has arranged to continue the taking of testimony and bring the case up to date. Special Master Baker's findings were based on testimony up to June, 1916. A. B. Eldredge, attorney for the South Shore, has agreed with the attorney general's force to continue the taking of testimony and it is expected that it can be completed within three months. The whole case then will be argued out before United States District Judge Sessions in Grand Rapids. Whatever the decision there it is expected that the case will go to the United States supreme court for final decision.

Amendments to Election Laws.

Election matters are getting much attention in the senate these days. One senate bill has been reported out of committee that provides for the direct election of delegates to national party conventions, instead of their selection in state conventions. It also provides that the delegates be paid $50 each for their services to their parties in attending the conventions. Another election amendment bill seeks to change the time of the state primaries, held every two years, from the last Tuesday in August to the first Tuesday in September. Campaigners who would like to have more time for the campaign than the present primary law allows them wanted the election held earlier in August, but farmer members of the senate objected that such a change would bring the election at harvest time and this objection appears to have killed the early primary date.

House Opposes Pensions.

The house has gone on record as opposed to pensions. It voted 83 to 3 for the Evans bill prohibiting pensions to retired state employees, while its committees have killed the proposed pensioning of circuit judges after 25 years' service, and other pension proposals. Efforts to obtain salary raises for numerous state employees also are having hard sledding. The department of labor bill sought increases all along the line for its force, starting with a $5,000 salary for the commissioner and grading down on the others. The senate committee has reduced the commissioner's proposed salary to $3,500 and his deputy's proposed salary to $2,500.

State Fuel Commissioner Proposed.

A bill to create a state fuel commissioner, who will with the coal situation in behalf of the whole state and be prepared to expedite shipments to all parts of Michigan, has been introduced by Rep. Andrew F. Toepel, of Detroit. The Soldier's Home at Grand Rapids is seeking an extra appropriation of $2,500 to build a coal house for the storage of fuel, so that it will not again be in danger of freezing up in the winter months. Joint resolutions have been introduced in the senate and in the house calling for a constitutional amendment to allow cities to own and operate municipal fuel yards.

Railroads Seek Fare Increase.

A bill from railroad sources seeking an increase in passenger fare rates from 2 cents a mile to 2 1/2 cents in the lower peninsula and 3 cents in the upper peninsula has been offered and is sure to start a battle royal, the same as it did two years ago. Now the roads state they are making an appeal to the people for justice; that they have nothing to sell except transportation and are held down to a low rate on that which is not subject to change, while everything they need to conduct their business has skyrocketed in price.

Change in Game Law.

The first battle over the game laws wound up in the passage by both the senate and the house of the zone bill for closed seasons at different times in various parts of the state. Under this bill, if one or more counties want certain game protected, the game department, on petition of the supervisors of the counties concerned, can hold a hearing and afterwards, if the situation warrants and the public domain commission approves, can order a closed season in the district desiring it.

Pure Booze Bill.

Rep. Culver, for the state food department, has introduced a bill to give the food commissioner power to see that no adulterated liquors are brought into the state for medicinal, sacramental, mechanical, scientific or chemical purposes after the state goes dry. This is the "pure booze" bill which former Food Commissioner "Jim" Helme says will be needed more in a dry state than in a wet state.

Michigan News Tersely Told

Mason.—Newton Hazelton, who disappeared mysteriously some days ago returned to his home last week. Hazelton lost his reason temporarily and had been wandering in a trance.

Ann Arbor.—Seventy-five of the prominent members of the University of Michigan faculty sent a message to President Wilson, urging that the merchant marine be armed at once.

Cheboygan.—The coast guard station at Waters Point, Bois Blanc Island, went into commission, a month and a half earlier than last year. The crew crossed to the island on the ice.

Port Huron.—With nearly 50 implement dealers of St. Clair and Sanilac counties in attendance, the St. Clair and Sanilac County Retail Implement Dealers' association was formed here.

Cadillac.—The shore of Lake Cadillac for a distance of five miles is to be converted into a great flower garden. The city commission has set aside funds for the purchase of flower seed which will be planted this spring.

Grand Rapids.—A resident of this city, 61 years, Mrs. Cornelia C. Dennison, 83 years old, died after a short illness. She was the mother of Judge Arthur C. Dennison, of the United States circuit court, who is her only living child.

Kalamazoo.—Seventy-five members of the Rotary club of this city have each volunteered to take in charge for one year a boy who is now without a source of proper counsel and advice. The idea was adopted at the behest of Judge Samuel H. Van Horn of the juvenile court.

Manistee.—Four firemen were overcome by gas and smoke while fighting fire in the basement of the Benjamin Rusky Clothing store. Mr. and Mrs. Swan Pierson and daughter, Alida, occupying apartments above were aroused by rescuers after smoke had partially overcome them.

Traverse City.—Sixteen hundred bushels of potatoes were destroyed when the warehouse here of L. Sark & Co., Chicago, was burned to the ground. About 1,000 bushels more were moved a few hours before the fire. Other warehouses near by filled with potatoes were saved by shoveling snow on them.

Flint.—The Bryant hotel fire caused the largest loss recorded here in several years, $65,000. One hundred and fifty hotel guests were twice routed from their beds. After it was thought the fire had been conquered the guests returned to their rooms, only to be driven out when the flames broke out again.

Grand Rapids.—Nearly $70,000 in inheritance taxes has been determined in Kent county during the year 1916, according to figures just compiled by Thomas B. White, state inheritance tax examiner. The largest tax determined in 1916 was in the Frank W. Squire estate which was appraised at $665,354.30. This tax amounted to $19,300.15.

Bay City.—Newell A. Eddy, one of Michigan's best-known lumbermen, died suddenly at his home on Grant Place of acute indigestion. Mr. Eddy was born in Banger, Me., May 20, 1856. While he held a foremost place in the business and financial world, his chief fame came from his hobby of Michigan birds. He was a nationally recognized authority on this subject. His collection embraces every species known to Michigan.

Flint.—George Humphrey of this city announced that he will give $1,000 for the first picture of the German submarine Deutschland chained in the harbor of Plymouth. Mr. Humphrey made the offer, he said, in order to determine the truth of reports that the British have captured several hundred enemy submarines, among them the Deutschland. It was said that photographs of the undersea merchantman are now in England.

Petoskey.—When a huge cake of ice broke off the shore of Lake Michigan, Perry Lawson and Herbert Truesdale, fishermen, were carried out into the lake. They placed their shanties together to protect them selves from the blinding snow storm while they waited for the wind to shift and blow them back. During the night they ran out of fuel and had to burn one of the shanties. At daybreak they reached the shore nearly exhausted from cold and hunger.

Corunna.—In connection with an old time exhibit given by the Ladies' guild, of St. Paul's Episcopal church, a chair used by John Hancock when he signed the declaration of independence, attracted much attention. The chair was given to Isaac Walker, founder of The Detroit Free Press. He presented it to his brother, William Walker, and when the old Biddle house in Detroit was destroyed by fire the chair was the only piece of furniture in Mr. Walker's room that was saved.

THE DESTROYING ANGEL

By LOUIS JOSEPH VANCE

She paused again, but still he was mute and immobile.

"So now you know me—what I am. No other man has ever known or ever will. But I had to tell you the truth. It seems that the only thing my career had left uncalled for was my fundamental sense of honesty. So I had to come and tell you."

And still he held silence, attentive, but with a set face that betrayed nothing of the tenor of his thoughts.

Almost timidly, with nervously fumbling fingers, she extracted from her pocketbook a small ticket envelope.

"Max was afraid you might upset the performance again, as you did on my last appearance, Hugh," she said; "but I assured him it was just the shock of recognizing you that bowled me over. So I've brought you a box for tomorrow night. I want you to use it—you and Mr. Ember."

He broke in with a curt monosyllable: "Why?"

"Why—why because—because I want you—I suppose it's simply my vanity—to see me act. Perhaps you'll feel a little less hardly toward me if you see that I am really a great actress, that I give you up for something bigger than just love—"

"What rot!" he said with an odd, short laugh. "Besides, I harbor no resentment."

She stared, losing a little color, eyes darkening with apprehension.

"I did hope you'd come," she murmured.

"Oh, I'll come," he said with spirit. "Wild horses couldn't keep me away."

"Really, Hugh? And you don't mind? Oh, I'm so glad!"

"I really don't mind," he assured her with a strange smile. "But would you mind excusing me one moment? I've forgotten something very important."

"Why, certainly . . ."

He was already at the telephone in the hallway, just beyond the living-room door. It was impossible to escape overhearing his words. The woman listened perforce with, in the beginning, a little visible wonder, then with astonishment, ultimately with a consternation that shook her with violent tremblings.

"Hello," said Whitaker; "get me Rector two-two-hundred."

"Hello? Rector two-two-hundred? North German Lloyd? . . . This is Mr. H. M. Whitaker. I telephoned you fifteen minutes ago about reservation on the George Washington, sailing Saturday . . . Yes . . . Yes. . . Yes. . . I promised to call for the ticket before noon, but I now find I shall be able to go. Will you be kind enough to cancel it, if you please. . . Thank you. . . Goodby."

But when he turned back into the living room he found awaiting him a quiet and collected woman.

"Why did you do that?" she asked evenly.

"Because," said Whitaker, "I've had my eyes opened. I've been watching the finest living actress play a carefully rehearsed role, one that she had given long study and all her heart to—but her interpretation didn't ring true. Mary, I admit, at first you got me; I believed you meant what you said. But only my mind believed it; my heart knew better, just as it has always known better, all through this wretched time of doubt and misery and separation you've subjected us both to. And that was why I couldn't trust myself to answer you; for if I had, I should have laughed for joy. O Mary, Mary!" he cried, his voice softening, "my dear, dear woman, you can't lie to love! You betray yourself in every dear word that would be heartless, in every adorable gesture that would seem final! And love knows better always. . . Of course I shall be in that box tomorrow night; of course I shall be there to witness your triumph! And after you've won it, dear, I shall carry you off with me . . ."

He opened his arms wide, but with a smothered cry she backed away, placing the table between them.

"No!" she protested; and the words were almost sob— "No!"

"Yes!" he exclaimed exultantly. "Yes! A thousand times yes! It must be so!"

With a swift movement she seized her muff and scarf from the chair and fled to the door. There, pausing, she turned, her face white and blazing.

"It is not true!" she cried. "You are mistaken. Do you hear me? You are utterly mistaken. I do not love you. You are mad to think it. I have just told you I don't love you. I am afraid of you; I daren't stay with you for fear of you. I—I despise you!"

"I don't believe it!" he cried, advancing.

But she was gone. The hall door slammed before he could reach it.

CHAPTER XIX.

One Way Out.

Toward eight in the evening, after a day-long search through all his accustomed haunts, Ember ran Whitaker to earth in the dining room of the Primordial. The young man, alone at table, was in the act of topping off an excellent dinner with a still more excellent cordial and a super-excellent cigar.

He wore rough tweeds, and they were damp and baggy; his boots were muddy; his hair was a trifle disorderly. The ensemble made a figure wildly incongruous to the soberly splendid and stately dining hall of the Primordial club, with its sparse patronage of members in evening dress.

Ember, himself as severely beautiful in black and white as the ceremonious livery of today permits a man to be, was wonder-struck at sight of Whitaker in such unconventional guise, at such a time, in such a place. With neither invitation nor salutation, he slipped into a chair on the other side of the table, and stared.

Whitaker smiled benignantly upon him, and called a waiter.

Ember, always abstemious, lifted his hand and smiled a negative smile.

Whitaker dismissed the waiter.

"Well . . . ?" he inquired cheerfully.

"What right have you got to look like that?" Ember demanded.

"The right of every free-born American citizen to make an ass of himself according to the dictates of his conscience. I've been exploring the dark backwards and abyss of the Bronx—afoot. Got caught in the rain on the way home. Was late getting back, and dropped in here to celebrate."

"I've been looking for you everywhere, since morning."

"I suspected you would be. That's why I went walking—to be lonesome and thoughtful for once in a way."

Ember stroked his chin with thoughtful fingers.

"You've heard the news, then?"

"In three ways," Whitaker returned, with calm.

"How's that—three ways?"

"Through the newspapers, the billboards, and from the lips of my wife."

Ember opened his eyes wide.

"You've been to see her?"

"She called this morning—"

But Ember interrupted, thrusting a ready and generous hand across the table:

"My dear man, I am glad!"

Whitaker took the proffered hand readily and firmly. "Thank you. . . . I was saying: she called this morning to inform me that, though wedded once, we must be strangers now—and evermore!"

"But you—of course—you argued that nonsense out of her head."

"To the contrary—again."

"But—my dear man!—you said you were celebrating; you permitted me to congratulate you just now—"

"The point is," said Whitaker, with a bland and confident grin; "I've succeeded in arguing that nonsense out of my head—not hers—mine."

Ember gave a helpless gesture. "I'm afraid this is one of my stupid nights . . ."

"I mean that, though Mary ran away from me, wouldn't listen to reason, I have, in the course of an afternoon's hard tramping, come to the conclusion that there is nothing under the sun which binds me to sit back and accept whatever treatment she purposes according to me by courtesy of Jules Max."

Whitaker bent forward, his countenance discovering a phase of seriousness hitherto masked by his twisted smile.

"I mean I'm tired of all this poppycock. Unless I'm an infatuated ass, Mary loves me with all her heart. She has made up her mind to renounce me partly because Max has worked upon her feelings by painting some lurid picture of his imminent artistic and financial damnation if she leaves him, partly because she believes, or has been led to believe, in this 'destroying angel' moonshine. Now she's got to listen to reason. So, likewise, Max."

"You're becoming more human word by word," commented Ember with open approval. "Continue; elucidate; I can understand how a fairly resolute lover with the gift of gab can talk a weak-minded, fond female into denying her pet superstition; but how you're going to get around Max passes my comprehension. The man unquestionably has her under contract—"

"But you forgot his god is Mammon," Whitaker put in. "Max will do anything in the world for money. Therein resides the kernel of my plan."

It's simplicity itself: I'm going to buy him."

"Buy Max!"

"Body—artistic soul—and breeches," Whitaker affirmed confidently.

"Impossible!"

"You forget how well fixed I am. What's the use of my owning half the gold in New Guinea if it won't buy me what I already own by every moral and legal right?"

"He won't listen to you; you don't know Max."

"I'm willing to lay you a small bet that there will be no first performance at the Theater Max tomorrow night."

"You'll never persuade him—"

"I'll buy the show outright and my wife's freedom to boot—or else Max will begin to accumulate the local color of a hospital ward."

Ember smiled grimly. "You're beginning to convince even me. When, may I ask, do you propose to pull off this sporting proposition?"

"Do you know where Max can be found tonight?"

"At the theater—"

"Then the matter will be arranged at the theater between this hour and midnight."

"I doubt if you succeed in getting the ear of the great man before midnight; however, I'm not disposed to quibble about a few hours."

"But why shouldn't I?"

"Because Max is going to be the busiest young person in town tonight. And that is why I've been looking for you . . ."

Conforming to his custom, he's been giving an advance glimpse of the production to the critics and a few friends in the form of a final grand dress rehearsal tonight. Again, in conformance with his custom, he has honored me with a bid. I've been chasing you all day to find out if you cared to go—"

"Eight o'clock and a bit after," Whitaker interrupted briskly, consulting his watch. "Here, boy," he hailed a passage page; "call a taxicab for me." And then, rising alertly: "Come along; I've got to hustle home; and make myself look respectable enough for the occasion; but at that, with luck, I fancy we'll be there before the first curtain."

This mood of faith, of self-reliance and assured optimism held unflinched throughout the dash homeward, his hurried change of clothing and the ride to the theater. Nothing that Ember, purposely pessimistic, could say or do availed to diminish the high buoyancy of his humor. He maintained a serene faith in his star, a spirited temper that refused to recognize obstacles in the way of his desire.

In the taxicab, en route to the Theater Max, he contrived even to distill a good omen from the driving autumnal downpour itself.

"On such a day as this," he told his doubting friend, "I won her first; on such a day I shall win her anew, finally and for all time!"

From Broadway to Sixth avenue, Forty-sixth street was bright with the yellow glare of the huge sign in front of the Theater Max. But this night, unlike that other night when he had approached the stage of his wife's triumphs, there was no crawling rank of cabs, no eager and curious press of people in the street; but few vehicles disputed their way; otherwise the rain and the hurrying, rain-coated wayfarers had the thoroughfare to themselves. . . . And even this he chose to consider a favorable omen; for he was not now a public to come between him and his love—only Max and her frightened fancies.

The man at the door recognized Ember with a cheerful nod; Whitaker he did not know.

"Just in time, Mr. Ember; curtains've been up about ten minutes."

CHAPTER XX.

Black Out.

The auditorium was in almost total darkness. A single voice was audible from the stage that confronted it like some tremendous, moonlight canvas in a huge frame of tarnished gold. They stole silently round the orchestra seats to the stage-box—the same box that Whitaker had on the former occasion occupied in company with Max.

They succeeded in taking possession without attracting attention, either from the owners of that scanty scattering of shirt bosoms in the orchestra—the critical fraternity and those intimates bidden by the manager to the first glimpse of his new revelation in stagecraft—or from those occupying the stage.

The latter were but two. Evidently, though the curtain had been up for some minutes the action of the piece had not yet been permitted to begin to unfold. Whitaker inferred that Max had been dissatisfied with something about the lighting of the scene. The manager was standing in mid-stage, staring up at the borders—a stout and pompous figure, tenacious to every detail of that public self which he had striven so successfully to make unforgettably individual; a figure quaintly incongruous in his impeccable morning coat and striped trousers and hat-trimmed silk hat, perched well back on his head, with his malacca stick and lemon-colored gloves and small and excessively glossy patent-leather shoes, posed against the counterfeited of a moonlit formal garden.

MR. SMOOTH'S NEAT GETAWAY

Insurance Agent With Keen Eye to Business Came Near "Putting His Foot in It"

Slipping on an untenanted banana skin, the homely young woman sat on the pavement with an unmusical splash. With efficient presence of mind, Eustace Smooth, agent for the General and Particular Insurance company, slipped on another peel and sat down beside her, with two muttered curses.

"Accidents will happen on the best regulated pavements, won't they?" he observed with a snarl. "Oh, well, luckily I happen to be an insurance agent, and I can insure you against slipping on banana peelings or even on a cake of ice for the small sum of $14 a week, and the first time you slip after being insured, one of our automobiles, with absolutely no advertising matter on the outside, will take you home for $7.23, or, if you prefer, to any old hospital."

"The idea!" scoffed the enraged woman, "it's too much!"

"But think of the risk we run," pursued Smooth. "Now, other kinds of insurance, such as insurance against being bitten by wild beasts, come as low as $15 a month."

"I'll take one of them," she said promptly. "I always was a great one for bargains." And she handed him her card, which read: "Mlle. Kutie, Wild Animal Trainer, Lions, Tiger and Leopards a Specialty."

"Excuse me a moment, I gotta see a man," stammered Eustace Smooth.

Listen to the Uplifter.

We think rural people are pretty good-natured, especially when the chautauqua comes to town. There's always a man there who comes on the platform and scolds the audience. He usually calls himself a community expert, or a "town doctor," or something of the kind. He is almost as bad as an editor about giving advice, and isn't half as polite about it. If we scolded you as frankly as a recent town doctor, that we happened to hear, scolded his audience, you would probably say "Stop my paper." Yet the audience was paying the town doctor for telling them what misguided mutts they were. Probably he told them the truth, in the main—or what seemed to be the truth—and maybe it was good for their souls, as he declared. It seems almost pathetic to us, sometimes, this eagerness with which we benighted country folk will sit at the feet of the uplifter, who comes from afar to point out our faults and tell us how to remedy them. Yet we could probably get the uplifter on a bench and stand up on the platform and roast him just as delightedly, and truthfully as he has been roasting us. Only we never do it. The game isn't played that way.—Fama 1-46.

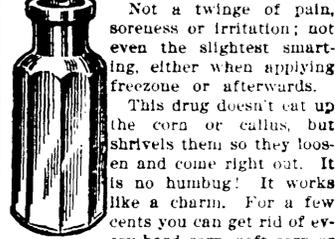

"I Am Afraid of You."

PAIN? NOT A BIT!
LIFT YOUR CORNS
OR CALLUSES OFF

No humbug! Apply few drops then just lift them away with fingers.

This new drug is an ether compound discovered by a Cincinnati chemist. It is called freezone, and can now be obtained in tiny bottles as here shown at very little cost from any drug store. Just ask for freezone. Apply a drop or two directly upon a tender corn or callus and instantly the soreness disappears. Shortly you will find the corn or callus so loose that you can lift it off, root and all, with the fingers.

Not a twinge of pain, soreness or irritation; not even the slightest smarting, either when applying freezone or afterwards. This drug doesn't eat up the corn or callus, but shrivels them so they loosen and come right out. It is no humbug! It works like a charm. For a few cents you can get rid of every hard corn, soft corn or corn between the toes, as well as painful calluses on bottom of your feet. It never disappoints and never burns, bites or inflames. If your druggist hasn't any freezone yet, tell him to get a little bottle for you from his wholesale house.—adv.

What the Doctor Knows
KIDNEYS MUST BE RIGHT TO INSURE HEALTH.

Few people realize to what extent their health depends upon the condition of the kidneys.

The physician in nearly all cases of serious illness, makes a chemical analysis of the patient's urine. He knows that unless the kidneys are doing their work properly, the other organs cannot readily be brought back to health and strength.

When the kidneys are neglected or abused in any way, serious results are sure to follow. According to health statistics, Bright's Disease, which is really an advanced form of kidney trouble, caused nearly ten thousand deaths in one year, in the State of New York alone. Therefore, it is particularly necessary to pay more attention to the health of these important organs.

An ideal herbal compound that has had remarkable success as a kidney remedy is Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy.

The mild and healing influence of this preparation, in most cases, is soon realized, according to sworn statements and verified testimony of those who have used the remedy.

When your kidneys require attention, get Swamp-Root at once from any pharmacy. It is sold by every druggist in bottles of two sizes—50c and $1.00.

However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper. Adv.

Gregory

Mrs. C. J. Williams returned Friday night from Pontiac where she underwent an operation for appendicitis. The operation was successful and she was feeling quite well when she returned.

Cleve Van Buren and family moved into Wilmer Crossman's house in the East part of Gregory last week.

Milton Waters who has been having a seige with the chicken pox is able to be out again.

Harry Singleton has been quite sick with the grippe the past week but is somewhat improved at this writing.

James Stackable returned from Jackson Saturday morning, where he went to see his wife at the Mercy Hospital. He reports her as slowly getting better, which is good news to her friends here.

Miss Vancje Arnold left last week Wednesday for a two weeks visit with relatives in Williamston.

Miss Nina Whitney of Stockbridge visited Miss Dorothy Budd Saturday and Sunday.

Harold Hewlett who is attending school in Stockbridge while his parents are away spent the week end in Gregory.

WOMEN OF MIDDLE AGE

Mrs. Quinn's Experience Ought to Help You Over the Critical Period.

Lowell, Mass.—“For the last three years I have been troubled with the Change of Life and the bad feelings common at that time. I was in a very nervous condition, with headaches and pain a good deal of the time so I was unfit to do my work. A friend asked me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which I did, and it has helped me in every way. I am not nearly so nervous, no headache or pain. I must say that Lydia E. Half of the population of Japan is from twenty to sixty-five years of age, and one-third of the entire population is married. ### Novel Egg-Boiler.

Every American household likes its boiled eggs at breakfast, but nobody enjoys cooking them. However, some self-sacrificing member of the family must always jump up and leave his own food to cool while, watch in hand he concentrates over the boiling process. Now a device has been invented which will change all this. It is an egg-shaped hot water bottle, suspended over an alcohol lamp, one section of which contains just enough alcohol to boil an egg hard and the other just enough to boil it soft. The eggs are placed in an egg rack, which fits into the kettle of hot water and the lamp is lighted. That is all that is necessary. The alcohol does the rest, according to which section of the lamp is burning. When the eggs are done the flame goes out.

BERLIN URGED JAPS AND MEXICO TO WAR ON UNITED STATES

Proposed by the Kaiser's Minister of Foreign Affairs.

PRESIDENT HAS COPY OF THE INSTRUCTIONS

Carranza Was Offered Financial Support in Attempt to Reconquer Texas, New Mexico and Arizona — Von Bernstorff and Others Involved — High Official at Japanese Embassy at Washington Denies Receipt of Kaiser's Proposal.

Washington, March 3.—The Western Newspaper Union is enabled to reveal that Germany, in planning unrestricted submarine warfare and counting its consequences, proposed an alliance with Mexico and Japan to make war on the United States if this country should not remain neutral.

Japan, through Mexican mediation, was to be urged to abandon her allies and join in the attack on the United States.

Mexico, for her reward, was to receive general financial support from Germany, reconquer Texas, New Mexico and Arizona—lost provinces—and share in the victorious peace terms Germany contemplated.

Details of the Plot.

Details were left to German Minister von Eckhardt in Mexico City, who by instructions signed by German Foreign Minister Zimmermann at Berlin January 19, 1917, was directed to propose the alliance with Mexico to General Carranza and suggest that Mexico seek to bring Japan into the plot.

These instructions were transmitted to Von Eckhardt through Count von Bernstorff, former German ambassador here, now on his way home to Germany under a safe-conduct obtained from his enemies by the country against which he was plotting war.

Pictures World Dominion.

Germany pictured to Mexico by broad intimation England and the entente allies defeated; Germany and her allies triumphant and in world domination by the instrument of unrestricted warfare.

A copy of Secretary Zimmermann's instructions to Von Eckhardt, sent through Von Bernstorff, is in possession of the United States government.

It is as follows: “Berlin, Jan. 19, 1917.—On the 1st of February we intend to begin submarine warfare unrestricted. In spite of this, it is our intention to endeavor to keep neutral the United States of America.

“If this attempt is not successful we propose an alliance on the following basis with Mexico: That we shall make war together and together make peace. We shall give general financial support and it is understood that Mexico is to reconquer the lost territory in New Mexico, Texas and Arizona. The details are left to you for settlement.

“You are instructed to inform the president of Mexico of the above in the greatest confidence as soon as it is certain that there will be an outbreak of war with the United States and suggest that the president of Mexico, on his own initiative, should communicate with Japan, suggesting adherence at once to this plan; at the same time, offer to mediate between Germany and Japan.

“Please call to the attention of the president of Mexico that the employment of ruthless submarine warfare now promises to compel England to make peace in a few months.”

(Signed) “ZIMMERMANN.”

Duplicity Exposed.

This document has been in the hands of the government since President Wilson broke off diplomatic relations with Germany. It has been kept secret while the president has been asking congress for full authority to deal with Germany, and while congress has been hesitating. It was in the president's hands while Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg was declaring that the United States had placed an interpretation on the submarine declaration “never intended by Germany” and that Germany had promoted and honored friendly relations with the United States “as an heirloom from Frederick the Great.”

Of itself, if there were no other, it is considered a sufficient answer to the German chancellor's plaint that the United States “brusquely” broke off relations without giving “authentic” reasons for its action.

Supplies Missing Link.

The document supplies the missing link to many separate chains of circumstances, which until now have seemed to lead to no definite point. It sheds new light upon the frequently reported but indefinable movements of the Mexican government to couple its situation with the friction between the United States and Japan.

It adds another chapter to the celebrated report of Jules Cambon, French ambassador in Berlin before the war, of Germany's world-wide plans for stirring strife on every continent where they might aid her in the struggle for world domination which she dreamed was close at hand.

It adds a climax to the operations of Count von Bernstorff and the German embassy in this country, which have been colored with passport frauds, charges of dynamite plots and intrigue, the full extent of which never has been published.

Emphasizes Our Perils.

It gives new credence to persistent reports of submarine bases on Mexican territory in the Gulf of Mexico; it takes cognizance of a fact long recognized by American army chiefs, that if Japan ever undertook to invade the United States it probably would be through Mexico, over the border and into the Mississippi valley to split the country in two.

It recalls that Count von Bernstorff when handed his passports was very reluctant to return to Germany, but expressed a preference for asylum in Cuba.

It gives a new explanation to the repeated arrests on the border of men charged by American military authorities with being German intelligence agents.

Last of all, it seems to show a connection with General Carranza's recent proposal to neutrals that exports of food and munitions to the entente allies be cut off, and an intimation that he might stop the supply of oil, so vital to the British navy, which is exported from the Tampico fields.

What Will Congress Do?

What congress will do, and how members of congress who openly have sympathized with Germany in their opposition to clothing the president with full authority to protect American rights will regard the revelation of Germany's machinations to attack the United States is the subject of the keenest interest.

Such a proposal as Germany instructed her minister to make to Mexico borders on an act of war, if, actually, it is not one. No doubt exists here now that the persistent reports during the last two years of the operations of German agents not alone in Mexico but all through Central America and the West Indies are based on fact.

There is now no doubt whatever that the proposed alliance with Mexico was known to high Mexican officials who are distinguished for their anti-Americanism. Among them are Rafael Zubaran, Carranza's minister to Germany, and Luis Cabrera, Carranza's minister of finance.

The Hand of Mexico.

It is apparent that the proposal had taken definite form when Zubaran returned to Mexico City from Berlin recently. His return from his foreign post was covered by the fact that Carranza had called in many of his diplomats for “conferences.”

Denied at Japanese Embassy.

It was declared by a high Japanese authority on Wednesday night that if the German proposal of an alliance ever reached Tokyo it was regarded as merely a new ebullition of German “kultur” and that it was thrown in the wastebasket where it belonged.

He asserted no such proposal had been made to the embassy here and that if it had been no attention would have been paid to it.

He said: “The whole idea was absolutely preposterous.”

In order to make an alliance with Germany, he added, it would be necessary for Japan to break with the allies and negotiate a separate peace with the Teutonic powers. But above all that, he said, the Japanese sincerely desired friendly relations with the United States.

President Confirms Note.

Washington, March 3.—Senator Swanson of Virginia announced in the senate today that he had been authorized by the president to state the Zimmermann note of January 19, 1917, inviting Mexico to join Germany in war against the United States as published this morning was textually correct.

Knew Nothing of It.

At the Japanese embassy in this city it was declared that if the German proposal of an alliance ever reached Tokyo it was regarded as merely a new ebullition of German “kultur” and that it was thrown in the wastebasket, where it belonged.

He asserted no such proposal had been made to the embassy here and that if it had been no attention would have been paid to it.

He said: “The whole idea was absolutely preposterous.”

In order to make an alliance with Germany, he added, it would be necessary for Japan to break with the allies and negotiate a separate peace with the Teutonic powers. But above all that, he said, the Japanese sincerely desired friendly relations with the United States.

WOODROW WILSON INAUGURATED AS PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES

Thomas R. Marshall Also Takes Oath as Vice President—Great Ceremony Tinged With Patriotism and Unusual Seriousness—Chief Executive Reviews Parade That Is Largely Military—Washington Brilliantly Illuminated.

By EDWARD B. CLARK.

Washington, March 5.—In the presence of many thousands of his fellow citizens, Woodrow Wilson today, for the second time, was inducted into the office of president of the United States. Just before that ceremony Thomas R. Marshall took the oath as vice president, also for the second time.

For several nights prior to the inauguration, Washington was a flood of light. Thousands of American citizens came to the capital of their nation from all over the United States to witness the ceremonies attending the inauguration. The situation of the country in reference to its foreign relations added more than a touch of seriousness and a distinct flavor of patriotism to the entire proceedings. Washington is a city of flags at all times, but it became ten times a city of flags one day before the ceremonies of inauguration.

President Wilson drove from the White House to the capitol with his wife at his side. In the carriage with him were two members of the congressional committee which had general charge of the ceremonies, and of which Senator Overman of North Carolina is chairman.

Vice President Marshall, with Mrs. Marshall in the carriage with him, was escorted in like manner to the capitol.

Big Crowds, Many Flags. From an early hour the sidewalks were crowded with persons waiting to see the president and "the first lady of the land" pass along the avenue to the place of the oath-taking.

All the windows commanding a view of Pennsylvania avenue also were crowded with onlookers. The red, white and blue was everywhere in evidence. The only foreign flags to be seen in Washington were those flying from the flagpoles of the foreign embassies and legations which, even though they are located in the city of Washington, are recognized as being foreign territory.

About the capitol there was an enormous crowd of people, who had begun to assemble shortly after daybreak. A dozen bands stationed on the streets approaching the legislative building played through the morning hours. The organizations which were to take part in the parade which started immediately after the taking of the oath by the president assembled on the streets leading to the capitol in order to be ready instantly to fall into their places in line.

Vice President Takes the Oath. Vice President Marshall "as resworn into office before the inauguration of the president. The exercises took place in the senate chamber. The legislative day of March 3, so far as the senate was concerned, had been continued by recesses until the hour of 12 noon of the calendar day March 5.

The president pro tempore of the senate presided at the ceremonies preceding the administering of the oath to the vice president-elect. The president of the United States, the members of the cabinet, the foreign ambassadors and other notable guests occupied seats in the senate chamber. At twelve o'clock the president pro tempore administered the oath of office prescribed by law to the vice president-elect.

Immediately following the taking of the oath of office by Mr. Marshall, the newly elected senators of the United States were sworn into office. Then the vice president made this announcement: "The sergeant-at-arms of the senate will carry out the order of the senate for the inauguration of the president of the United States."

The president-elect, accompanied by the chief justice of the United States, the joint committee on arrangements, the associate justices of the Supreme Court, the foreign ambassadors and ministers plenipotentiary, the members of the senate, preceded by the vice president and secretary of the senate, the holdover members of the house of representatives, preceded by the officers of the house who have just relinquished office by virtue of the expiration of their terms, and other distinguished guests made their way to the inaugural stand.

Inauguration of the President. The procession, headed by the president-elect, wound through the east senate door, the main corridors of the senate and through the rotunda of the capitol to the place set for the oath-taking. On reaching the inaugural stand, Woodrow Wilson took a place directly in front of Edward D. White, the chief justice of the United States, and the chief clerk of the Supreme court, James D. Maher. The sergeant-at-arms of the senate and the congressional committee on arrangements were immediately on the left of the president. The vice president, the associate justices of the Supreme Court and the members of the senate sat upon his right.

When all were assembled Chief Justice White, having in his right hand the open Bible upon which the hands of many former presidents have rested, advanced to Woodrow Wilson and administered to him this oath, which is imposed by the Constitution of the United States:

"You do solemnly swear that you will faithfully execute the office of president of the United States and will to the best of your ability, preserve, protect and defend the Constitution of the United States."

Woodrow Wilson said in a firm voice, "I do," and he became for the second time president of the United States of America.

Then the president delivered his inaugural address and on its conclusion he made his way with Mrs. Wilson to his carriage and was driven slowly to the White House at the head of the procession formed in honor of the inaugural ceremonies.

Luncheon Deferred for Parade. In years past the presidential party always has entered the White House for luncheon prior to the review of the parade from the stand in front of the executive mansion. This invariably in the past caused such a delay that it was decided this year to do away with the luncheon feature.

President Wilson with Mrs. Wilson, the Vice President and Mrs. Marshall, and two members of his cabinet went immediately to the little inclosed structure, much like a sentry box, which had been built in the middle of the great grandstand in front of the White House and from which the chief executive viewed the paraders.

It was the gravity of the situation in connection with our foreign affairs which gave to the inaugural ceremonies their serious tone and patriotic features. The parade of the day was largely military in its nature, although there were in the procession many bodies which in a sense might be said to represent the spirit of industrial preparedness of the United States for any eventuality which might come.

Make-up of the Procession. At the forefront of the parade as it left the capitol were, of course, the president and the vice president of the United States with their guards of honor. Major General Hugh L. Scott, U. S. army, was the grand marshal of the occasion. George R. Linkins was the marshal of the civic organizations which took part in the marching ceremonies.

Immediately preceding the carriages of the presidential and vice presidential parties and of Col. Robert N. Harper, inaugural chairman, was the famous United States Marine band. The president had as his guard of honor the squadron of the Second United States cavalry.

The Vice President and Mrs. Marshall were escorted by the Black Horse troop of the Culver Military academy, Indiana, the state of which the vice president and his wife are natives and residents.

The West Point cadets and the Annapolis cadets took part in the procession. In addition to these young soldier and sailor organizations there was as large a representation of the forces of the United States as properly could be spared from post and garrison duty. In addition there were troops from Delaware, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Maryland, Virginia, and some other states of the Union representing the National Guard.

Remnants of the Grand Army. A patriotic and picturesque feature of the ceremonies attending the inauguration was supplied by the rapidly thinning ranks of the Grand Army of the Republic. In years past the soldiers of the war between the states have made the entire length of the line of march, but this year the distance which they tramped was shortened. They added to the picture of the parade as they moved by the presidential reviewing stand with their old flags above them.

At night Washington was aglow with fireworks and with the combined effects of gas and electric light illuminations. In addition searchlights showed the heavens here and there, and one great shaft of light illuminated the apex of the Washington monument while another lighted up and brought into bold relief the dome of the capitol.

MOTHER! LOOK AT CHILD'S TONGUE

If cross, feverish, constipated, give "California Syrup of Figs."

A laxative tonic saves a sick child tomorrow. Children simply will not take the time from play to empty their bowels, which become clogged up with waste, liver gets sluggish; stomach sour.

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, or your child is listless, cross, feverish, breath bad, restless, doesn't eat heartily, full of cold or has sore throat or any other children's ailment, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," then don't worry, because it is perfectly harmless, and in a few hours all this constipation poison, sour bile and fermenting waste will gently move out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. A thorough "inside cleansing" is oftentimes all that is necessary. It should be the first treatment given in any sickness.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask at the store for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the bottle. Adv.

Diet, Exercise or Death!

An eminent medical authority writes that most of our city folks die of a thickening of the arteries or of kidney disease. The kidneys become clogged and do not filter the poisons from the blood, and one trouble follows another, high blood pressure damages the heart, arteries and kidneys. Usually its danger signals are backache, pain here or there, swollen feet or ankles, rheumatic twinges or spots appearing before the eyes. "The very best remedy is this: Eat meat but once a day, or not at all. Plenty of outdoor exercise, and drink pure water frequently. Before meals take a little Anoric, the great uric acid neutralizer that is easily obtained at the drug store. When you have dizziness, chills or sweating, worry, or dragging pains in back, try this wonderful remedy to uric acid, which Dr. Pierce of Buffalo, N. Y., discovered and named Anoric. Anoric, more potent than lithia, dissolves uric acid as hot water does sugar."

HEALTHY CHILDREN come from healthy mothers. And mothers will certainly be healthy if they'll take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Nothing is so equal in building up a woman's strength, in regulating and assisting all her natural functions, and in putting in perfect order every part of the female system. It lessens the pains and burdens, supports and strengthens weak, nursing mothers.

It's an invigorating, restorative tonic, a soothing and bracing nerve. Castor oil is good for children or adults, and especially good for aged people. A pleasant form of a vegetable laxative that is to be had at any drug store, was invented by Dr. Pierce, who put together "May-apple (podophyllum) alone, jalap, and any drug store for "Pierce's Favorite Prescription," and they can be had for little money. They contain no calomel and are of vegetable constituents, therefore harmless.

A Mother's Burden

A mother who suffers kidney trouble, finds it hard to keep up her daily work. Lame ness, backache, sharp pains when stooping and "blue", nervous or dizzy spells, make home life dreary. Active kidneys bring back vigor, health and a pleasure in family duties. If the kidneys are weak try a box of Doan's Kidney Pills.

A Michigan Case

Mrs. L. Ter Meer, 315 Third St., N. W., Grand Rapids, Mich., says: "My back pained terribly, especially when I was doing my housework. I had a tired, languid feeling and was very nervous. I also suffered from dizzy spells and pains in the back of my head. Doan's Kidney Pills fixed me up in a good shape. Whenever I have used them since, they have brought fine results."

UNCLE SAM'S MARINES GUARD HUGE WIRELESS

At Various Times There Were Reports of Attempts to Cripple Tuckerton (N. J.) Plant.

Philadelphia.—When the diplomatic break with Germany came a squad of eight marines, acting under government orders, left the navy yard here to protect the huge wireless station at Tuckerton, N. J.
 The receiving spire for wireless messages at Tuckerton is the largest in the world. It is almost 800 feet high and strong enough to "kill" any message from a hostile source. It is in plain sight in many parts of New Jersey and can be seen plainly from Great Egg Harbor bay and points along the Jersey coast.
 The station was built and operated by Germany until after the outbreak of the war. Many messages were received through it from Germany and sent from here to Germany. At the present time it is this country's sole means of communicating with Germany. The station at Sayville, N. Y. is capable of receiving wireless messages from Germany, but it is unable to send them.
 Government army officers are in charge of the station, which is now controlled by this country. At various times there were reports of attempts to cripple the station, and the detailing of marines to keep watch over it was another step in Uncle Sam's protection program.

THREE OYSTER RECIPES.

BROWN FRICASSEE OF OYSTERS.—Heat a pint of oysters in their own liquor until the edges curl and the shellfish grow plump; then drain off the liquor, skim and set aside to use later in the sauce. Brown a quarter of a cupful of butter, add a quarter of a cupful (scant) of browned flour and stir until smooth. Next add very gradually the oyster liquor, pepper and salt to taste, half a cupful of cream, a teaspoonful of anchovy essence and a tablespoonful of Worcestershire sauce. Stir constantly until the sauce boils. Last of all, put in the oysters, add a tablespoonful of minced parsley and serve on rounds of hot toast as soon as the oysters are heated.
Baked Oyster Pie.—For the crust sift together two cupfuls of flour, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder and half a teaspoonful of salt; then rub in with the finger tips a heaping tablespoonful of shortening and moisten with enough cold, sweet milk to form a dough. Divide into two parts. Roll out into two thin sheets and use one for lining a deep buttered baking dish. Past the bottom of the dough with a tablespoonful of flour, lay in about fifteen or sixteen oysters that have been drained, cover with a layer of sliced boiled potatoes, sprinkle with pepper and salt, dot with bits of butter, cover over with the same number of oysters used in the bottom of the dish and finish with a tablespoonful of minced bacon that has been slightly fried. Pour over half a cupful of cream, lay the remainder of the crust over the top, crimp the edges together with that of the undercrust, make several incisions for the steam to escape, and after brushing over with a little cold milk bake in a moderately hot oven for thirty minutes. Serve in the baking dish.
New England Oyster Roast.—Drain the liquor from a pint of oysters and heat in a saucepan. Skim well and season with a quarter of a teaspoonful of salt, a pinch of paprika and two teaspoonfuls of butter. Toast eight square soda crackers and lay in a large enameled baking dish, moistening them with the hot seasoned oyster juice. Lay three drained oysters upon each cracker, dot with bits of butter, sprinkle with a very little pepper and add three or four drops of lemon juice for each three of the shellfish. Set in a hot oven for about eight minutes, or until the oysters are steaming hot and the edges slightly curled. Remove from the fire, sprinkle with a little chopped parsley and serve with slices of lemon.

CONSERVATION TRUTHS.

Now while you are young and you'll reap when you are old. This applies to grains of industry as well as to wild oats.
 Never be fearful of doing more than is required of you. If you wait for more pay before you do more work the millennium will probably find you on the same old job.
 Remember that an agitator never yet filled a pay envelope, although he has helped to keep many a one unfilled.
 It takes three forces to run a business or factory—labor, capital and executive management.
 Men who betray their country are not the only traitors. There are also men who betray their employers, their families and their friends.
 Safety first—Industrial patriotism always.
 Industry is of the people, by the people, for the people. Let us all get together.
 The average reformer is only opposed to capital so long as the other fellow has it. Let him get a slice of the melon he condemned and his radicalism will be cured for all times.
 Success in Industry: Of 200,000 corporations in the United States engaged in manufacturing and mercantile business over 100,000, according to the Federal Trade Commission, are more or less existing. They do not earn a penny of profit. The 22,000 failures annually in the United States show that businesses cannot run along at a loss indefinitely.
 Business success depends on good management; efficient loyal workers, from the head of the firm down to the messengers; and freedom from outside interference.
