Pinckney High Defeats Heavy Dexter Eleven

Last Monday afternoon the Pinckney High School foot-ball team defeated the heavy Dexter High School Eleven 12 to 7, in a close and intensely interesting game. Pinckney made their first touch-down during the last quarter in the first half, but failed to kick goal which made the game 6 to 0 at the end of the first half. During the first quarter of the second half Dexter's heavy back field plowed through the Pinckney line for a touch-down and kicked goal making the score 6 to 7 in favor of Dexter. This did not discourage the Pinckney boys however, and time after time Pinckney's full-back, Roche Shehan, went through Dexter's line for gains making another touch-down in the last quarter which made the score 12 to 7 in favor of Pinckney. Both touch-downs were made by Shehan. All of the boys played fine however considering that this was only the second game that the most of them had ever been in and the fact that they were playing against a much heavier and more experienced team. Pinckney will play Dexter here this week Friday and will play Howell at that place next week Wednesday.

"State-wide Prohibition For Kentucky," Slogan of State Convention

Extracts from the address of Mrs. Frances Beauchamp, W. C. T. U. president—

"To us; women to turn their dresses upside down and inside out and make them over time and time again, to save, and at the same time permit men to use the soil of God's green acres to produce tobacco with which to poison the blood of future generations, is, to put it mildly, but false economy. Cigars and cigarets will lower vitality and lessen power of resistance to disease, yet the government raises no protest and calls upon self-denying mothers to eat less for economy's sake.

"If, instead of asking our men, women and children to eat less, we simply refused to allow our grains and food-stuffs to be used for the production of liquor, we would not only avert the destruction which commonly results from its consumption, but we would save enough grain to supply continuously the bread rations for our own army and for the combined armies of our allies." About Food Conservation

The Women Are Glad to do Their Share

The canvassers for food conservation pledges have secured a large number of signers. The women are glad to do their share. One woman said that the dog would not get any more pieces of bread while human beings were in want. The dog will eat potatoes and other vegetables or go hungry.

Keep all small pieces of bread in the warming oven until thoroughly dry and crisp, put thru the food chopper or roll until fine. They are then ready for immediate use, or can be put away for an emergency. Many had never thought of using dog bread crumbs for anything but bread pudding.

One lady gave us a recipe for Apple Charlotte which is as follows: Put a layer of crumbs in the bottom of a buttered pudding dish, then a layer of apple sauce, then another layer of crumbs, alternating until the dish is full. Pour over the top half a cupfull of water, sprinkle a little cinnamon and a few dots of butter, bake half an hour, and serve with cream, bits of jelly or any pudding sauce.

Did you know that any scraps of cookies or stale cake could be made into fine crumbs and used in place of part of the flour in your fresh cookies. Try it.

We know of one lady that would be highly indignant if she was called anything but extremely economical, yet we have seen her throw away a 25 pound flour sack full of pieces of bread, crackers, toast, corn bread and the like. In her cooking she is economical, also very good, but she still has lots to learn about utilizing the left-overs, in spite of the fact that she has been cooking many years.

We used to have a cook who made a delicious Plum Pudding out of bread crumbs. She said she used no flour at all. Could any of the Dispatch readers furnish us this receipt? We would be very grateful if any could.

Card of Thanks

I wish to express my heartfelt thanks to the many friends and neighbors for their thoughtful kindness and sympathy during the illness and burial of my dear mother, Mrs. Frances Petteys. Also for the many beautiful flowers, the kind and comforting words of the minister and the sweet music. Viola Petteys.

Many Selects Rejected

4,400 Out of Draft of 13,000 Are Held Unfit

More than 4,400 of the 13,000 men sent to Camp Custer in the second September draft quota have been discharged for physical disability and must be replaced by alternates.

Mental shortcomings, deformities, tuberculosis, poor vision and bad teeth were reasons for many of these discharges. Military surgeons say local boards should never have sent men so obviously unfit for service.

C. A. staff. The paper is not a Y. M. C. A. organ; it is a CAMP PAPER edited by the Y. M. C. A. as a service to the soldiers.

NINETEEN DIE IN RESCUE HOME FIRE

FLAMES TRAP 85 INMATES OF SALVATION ARMY MISSION IN PATERSON, N. J.

MANY OTHERS BADLY INJURED

Most Inmates of Home Being Old and Infirm Fell Easy Prey—Fire Starts in Stack of Old Papers.

Paterson, N. J.—Nineteen men lost their lives Sunday at a fire which destroyed the Paterson Salvation Army Rescue mission here. Eighteen of the victims were dead before rescuers could reach them. The other one succumbed at the hospital of his injuries.

Many others were badly injured, either in the surging mass of humanity which, panic-stricken, stampeded from the building, or by leaping from windows.

More than a score sustained injuries of a minor character, and were treated by ambulance surgeons. Of those who leaped from the windows of the burning building, 13 were so badly hurt that their removal to the hospital was imperative. Some of these, it was said, may not recover.

The fire started among a large stock of newspapers and magazines stored in the rear of the building. It spread rapidly to a large pile of kindling wood in the yard nearby, and licked up the side of the building, which burned like tinder.

There were 85 men sleeping in the building when the fire started. Some were old and some were crippled. Few were in the full vigor of manhood as the rescue mission was conducted as a haven for unfortunates who possessed no home and but little means of livelihood.

MANY WACO SELECTS UNFIT

Strict Army Examination Will Cause Discharge of 15 Per Cent.

Camp MacArthur, Waco, Texas—With the arrival of the final allotment of the 3,000 selective soldiers from Camp Custer last Saturday, examination of the men is under way. It was unofficially announced that fully 15 per cent would be given surgeons' certificates of disability and discharged from the army.

Why some of the Battle Creek men ever were accepted for service by their local boards is a mystery to officers here.

Inasmuch as many of the misfits come from Detroit, particular criticism is directed against local boards there. One officer who has had much to do with the examination of the Custer men, expressed the opinion that if a man claimed exemption, the local boards took it for granted he was trying to dodge service, and accepted him regardless of his physical qualifications.

"The result of this situation," continued this officer, "is that we are delayed in our training, when every day counts. We shall have to re-examine every one of these men, and it looks as if fully 15 per cent would be discharged."

"ELECTRICAL RAIDER" IS SUNK

Was Controlled From Shore—Fleet of 12 Teuton Ships Also Sunk.

London—An "electrically-controlled high-speed boat," which attacked British patrol vessels off the Belgian coast has been sunk, it is announced here.

While no official explanation of the term "electrically-controlled" is given, it is believed that the craft was of a new type without crew, and controlled from the shore by an electrical device.

Details have also been received of a naval action in which British warships sent down 12 German fighting vessels. Ten patrol boats, a small converted cruiser—the Marie Flensburg, or Flensburg—and the Crocodile, a commerce raider, were sunk.

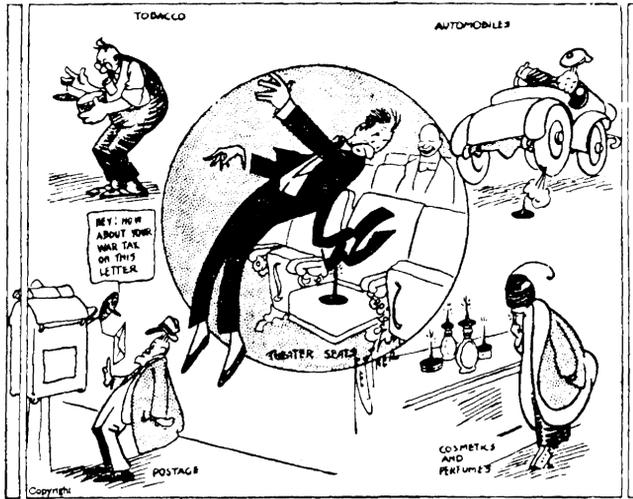

The brief official announcement said that there were no British losses. Sixty-four German sailors, some of them wounded, have been landed.

The converted cruiser carried six-inch guns. The admiralty statement did not name her, but dispatches from Copenhagen identified her as the Marie of Flensburg, or Flensburg. She was a vessel of 3,000 tons.

The cruiser, it is said, was sunk 12 miles north of Julian after 30 of the crew of 81 had been killed. A Spanish steamer took seven wounded Germans to a Danish port.

The Crocodile was a new, swift vessel of 1,000 tons and carried a crew of 100 men.

War Tacks

ALLIES MUST NOW BEAR WAR BURDEN

KERENSKY SAYS SLAV STRENGTH IS WORN OUT BY THREE YEARS OF STRAIN.

ALLY TROOPS GO TO ITALY'S AID

French and British Soldiers Sent to Stem German Onrush—Italy Has Lost 180,000 Men.

Petrograd.—In view of the reports reaching Petrograd, that the impression is spreading abroad that Russia virtually is out of the war, Premier Kerensky discussed the present condition of the country frankly last Friday with the Associated Press. He said Russia is worn out by the long strain, but that it is ridiculous to say the country is out of the war.

The premier referred to the years that Russia has fought her own campaigns alone, with no such assistance as has been extended to France by Great Britain and now by America. He said he felt help is needed urgently and that Russia asks it as her right. He urged that the United States give aid, in the form of money and supplies and appealed to the world not to lose faith in the Russian revolution.

Russia, M. Kerensky added, was taking an enormous part in the struggle, and those who said she was out of it must have short memories.

"Russia has fought consistently since the beginning," he said. "She saved France and England from disaster early in the war. She is now worn out by the strain and claims as her right that the allies now shoulder the burden."

ALLY SOLDIERS GO TO ITALY'S AID

Washington.—British and French reinforcements arrived on the Italian front on November 1. Cabled word to this effect was announced in official circles here.

It was stated positively that Italy's third army had successfully extricated itself from the Isonzo front and had retreated in good order to the Tagnamento line. This army is commanded by the Duke of Aosta and thus has saved itself from the Teutonic purpose of cutting it off from General Cadorna's main line.

Italian cavalry has come furiously to the aid of the retreating armies and, according to the messages received at the Italian embassy, have driven in the greatest cavalry maneuver since the battle of Charleroi. They are reported as holding back the enemy and harassing them so that their advance has been checked.

Large detachments are still in the mountains. They have been surrounded, it is reported, but have sent out their carrier pigeons, announcing that they can hold out for ten days or two weeks.

Trapped between the sector due west of Udine and the sea, 60,000 Italians laid down their arms, according to Berlin. This brought the total taken by Mackensen up to November 1, to more than 180,000, Berlin announced.

P. M. R. CUTS TRAIN SERVICE

Claim That Coal Shortage Compels Them to Revise Schedules.

Lansing.—Between 30 and 40 freight and passenger trains on the Pere Marquette system were discontinued temporarily on November 1, because of lack of coal. Officials distrust the action of the Pere Marquette. Ever since the reorganization of that road, state officials declare there have been attempts to get rid of profitless branches.

OTSEGO SOLDIER SHOTS SELF

Sent to Waco From Custer—Objected to Service in Army.

Camp MacArthur, Waco, Texas—After making several threats to take his own life rather than have anything to do with a business that involved the killing of fellow men, Private Walter Liniger, a selective soldier from Otsego, Mich., turned a rifle on himself in his tent Sunday night and blew his head off.

Displaying the strategy of a general mapping out a campaign, Liniger waited until all his comrades in Company B, One-hundred and Twenty-sixth infantry, had deserted the vicinity of his quarters. Hearing the report of his rifle, several soldiers rushed to his tent, but he was dead before their arrival.

Liniger has complained about serving in the United States army ever since he was selected, according to Private James Papis, who also comes from Otsego.

"Liniger tried to kill himself coming down on the train," said Papis. "He threatened that if he could find any ammunition along the way he never would reach Waco alive."

Liniger was 22 years old. He has a mother and several brothers and sisters living in Otsego, and at their request the body has been sent there.

BIG FOOD DEALERS LICENSED

Government to Regulate Supply and Prevent Excessive Profits.

Washington—License restrictions were imposed on November 1, on the nation's manufacturers and distributors of staple food commodities in an effort by the food administration to regulate the wartime supply and eliminate profiteering abuses.

More than 100,000 dealers including producers, importers, middlemen and the larger retailers are now under federal regulation with drastic penalties provided for speculation, hoarding and excessive profits. Although retailers doing a business of less than $100,000 annually are not included in the licensed class, they will be required to conform with the directions of the food law.

Dealers charging more than a reasonable profit are liable to forfeiture of their licenses to do business.

Retailers charging more than the food administration considers just will find their supplies cut off in orders to wholesalers to cease furnishing them with goods.

The licensed foods include beef, pork, mutton, fish, poultry, eggs, milk, butter, cheese, flour, sugar, cereals, lard, beans, peas, fruits, vegetables, several lines of canned goods and other products.

NEEDLESS LIGHTING TO BE CUT

Sleeper Urges Discontinuance of All Electric Signs.

Lansing.—Discontinuance of all electric signs in the state, the elimination of street lighting as much as practical and other means for the conservation of coal are urged in a proclamation issued by Gov. Sleeper. The proclamation is based on the recommendations of W. K. Prudden, fuel administrator.

In view of the shortage of coal and the citizens are requested to do everything possible to conserve coal by indirect as well as direct means.

Municipal authorities in towns throughout the state are authorized to take action deemed advisable to conserve coal.

FIRST AMERICAN PRISONERS TAKEN

PARTY OF U. S. SOLDIERS DOING SCOUT DUTY, CAPTURED BY GERMANS.

NO DETAILS IN TEUTON REPORT

Dispatch Merely States That "North American Soldiers" Were Taken in Reconnoitering Thrust.

Washington—The Germans have captured the first American prisoners. Berlin's official statement says that on the Rhine-Marne canal, as a result of a reconnoitering thrust, "North American soldiers were brought in."

Thus the eagerness of the German command to capture Sammlies has met success. Special money rewards the other inducements have been offered to the German soldiers who captured the first Americans.

It is assumed, a small scouting party was surprised by a German patrol in No Man's land and captured. Details never may be fully told, since only captors and captives would know what happened under cover of darkness.

American Front Quiet.

The part of the front on which the Americans are undergoing their final training has been comparatively quiet for months. Raiding parties are out nightly in No Man's Land, however, and it is believed that it was on one of these exploits that the Sammlies were taken.

The men in No-Man's land go creeping across the shell-torn ground up to the enemy's entanglements, crawling and listening, dropping flat when a flare breaks in the air above them, sometimes lying absolutely still for hours.

The patrol covers and stalks its foe stealthily. A time comes when a surprise attack can be made. It is swift, silent, hand-to-hand work, and rarely is a shot fired. The victor carries off his prisoners and when morning comes a report goes back on to the other side that a patrol of so many men is missing.

Officers here believed that this was what happened on the French-American front.

Front Near German Border.

The Rhine-Marne canal where the capture of the first Yankees is reported, runs through a section of north-eastern France in which there has been little fighting since the early days of the war. It crosses the French front near the German border, 20 miles northeast of Luneville.

Recent dispatches from the American headquarters in France told of American shells landing in Germany territory. These statements and the announcement of the German war office give the first definite information on the location of the American forces at the front.

U. S. FIXES SHIP BUILDERS WAGES

Uniform Scale Set By Adjustment Board—Workers Not Satisfied.

San Francisco—Uniform minimum wage scales for the Pacific coast shipbuilding yards, a guide for all shipyards in the country, have been fixed by the United States shipbuilding labor adjustment board.

The decision provides an increase of from 10 to 30 per cent over the old scale here.

The decision, the first to be handed down by the board, declares that employees' "discrimination, interfering with the defense of the nation in time of war, against so-called 'unfair' materials, would be intolerable."

"There will not be many ships built under this scale," declared M. J. Maguire, a union conferee representing the metal trades craftsmen.

"I believe the entire shipbuilding crafts of the Pacific coast will appeal to Wilson against the decision. The representatives of labor will report to their unions which will vote on the new scale."

WILL PROBE STATE BEAN PRICE

Government Promises Investigation to Thwart Speculators.

Mt. Clemens.—Herbert C. Hoover's office sent Grant Slocum, head of the Gleaners' organization of Michigan, the following telegram:

"The bean situation in Michigan will be impartially investigated as requested. Speculation will be positively eliminated if in our power. All farmers will get an absolutely square deal. We want their hearty co-operation."

Mr. Slocum said bean growers are confident there has been an attempt on the part of speculators to force down the price to cover future selling earlier in the year.

Remunerative Bite.

The old soldier was showing how fields are won.

"The worst time I ever had," he said, "was when we were besieged. We only had one bite a day for a fortnight, and that was horse flesh."

The young soldier sitting at the other side of the tannin chipped in:

"I remember living for a month on one bite, and that was out of my own leg."

The old soldier flushed.

"I don't believe it!" he said, angrily.

"Believe it or not, it's true!" said the young man. "A dog took a mouthful out of my leg and the compensation kept me like a lord for four weeks."

Love Found the Way.

The spirited story of one of the most romantic weddings of the war was unfolded recently, writes a British correspondent. Lieutenant Wyndham was missed in France, and taken to Lady Inchepe's hospital. There he fell in love with Lord Inchepe's daughter, but the girl's father refused his consent to their marriage. The couple ran away to London, only to find Lord Inchepe in hot pursuit, and that Wyndham was wanted for being absent without leave. There followed a chase through London in the course of which the couple got into telephone booths and changed their clothes, and then walked out under the very noses of the detectives who were waiting for them. They then made their escape to Scotland, where they were married.

THE GIRL WHO HAD NO GOD

"He is sound asleep," she said smilingly. "He thinks I am someone named 'Ellnor,' and he calls me that. As my own name is Sarah, it's rather pleasant."

Ward had been shot on Sunday night. By the following Wednesday he was out of danger.

On that same Wednesday the rector of Saint Jude's brought himself and his rheumatism back to his parish.

For three days Ellnor had hardly slept or eaten. Never once had she been in Ward's room, but always, day and night, she was just outside. When on that Wednesday evening the doctor said Ward would live, she went down once more into her garden.

Many times during those three days had Ellnor tried to pray to Ward's God and found herself voiceless and inarticulate. But now, out of the depth of her great relief, came welling the first prayer of her life. She stood waist-deep among her phlox and larkspur.

"I thank thee," she said. "I thank thee."

Nothing had been heard of Huff. The assault on the assistant rector of Saint Jude's had been of a line with the other mysterious happenings around the village. The little town was hag-ridden with fear. Extra constables had been sworn in, and from the hall, during her long night vigils, Ellnor had seen many lighted windows, where there had been but the one.

The problem of her future began to obsess her. It was plainly impossible to stay on here—not that she feared exposure; she was quite past fear—but the thought of going on with her life was intolerable. To meet Ward, to see again the scorn and loathing in his eyes, more than all, to continue to deserve them—those were the things that to Ellnor seemed worse than death itself.

All the philosophy that old Hilary had taught her failed her now. The revolt of the individual against laws made for the masses—what had it brought her but isolation and grief? Of what use was revolt? All must go through the mills of the gods. She knew that now. There were no exceptions. And something else she had learned: that if one is to live through great crises one must have a higher power to turn to for help. She had felt it vaguely at the time of her father's death. Sitting outside Ward's door she had known it. Every breath had been a prayer to something, she knew not what, to save him.

"I thank thee," she said again. The phlox and larkspur quivered about her as if under the touch of a gentle hand.

Boroday had been free for three days, but beyond a telephone message announcing his release she had heard nothing of him. Over the wire he had advised extreme caution. She judged from that that things were not going well.

She knew that Huff's reckless crime would demand a scapegoat. There were bound to be arrests. All this Ellnor knew quite well. It was in such an atmosphere that she had drawn her earliest breaths—the play of cunning against cunning, wit against wit.

She did not send for Boroday. She dared not. But because the intimacy between her and the middle-aged Russian had always been very close, he seemed to feel her need. And so, on that Wednesday night, an hour or so after midnight, he came.

Old Henriette came down and tapped softly at Ellnor's door.

"Boroday," she whispered. "He's rung from the arbor."

That was one of old Hilary's devices: a hidden wire from the arbor to the house. It prevented collisions. Unless otherwise summoned, no member of his band ever came directly to the house.

Ellnor went out and found him there. He bent over her hand and kissed it, as was his custom, and then, realizing that she was crying, he held out his arms and she went into them. Very tender was the Russian with her that night, very fatherly. He put her into one of the arbor seats and sat down beside her.

"Now tell me," he commanded, "everything from the start. It was Walter, I know. But why?"

When she did not speak, the Russian nodded.

"Jealousy, of course, but what madness?"

There in the arbor, with her hand between two of his, Ellnor sobbed out the story of the pearl and her attempt to return it, Huff's threat against Ward, Ward's evening visit, and the scene between them; and last of all, the shot that had nearly ended everything in this world for Ward and for her. Boroday listened quietly; better than old Hilary ever could, he understood. He had been reared on an ancient faith.

"He is recovering?"

"Yes."

"And he cares for you, of course?"

"No. I think, perhaps, before he knew—"

"Bab!" said the Russian, and rose.

"What sort of love is that which changes? I have seen the man. If he cared at all, he still cares."

He stepped to the door of the arbor and drew a long breath. Over on the next hill, sleeping through all this turmoil, lay old Hilary. Under these same stars Huff fled the law, Ward tossed on his bed, Ellnor sat despairing and ashamed. What did it all mean? What was the answer?

Perhaps, had he known it, old Henriette could have told him—Henriette, who had begun to measure her days from the end and not from the beginning, and who now sat on the edge of her bed mumbling. Between her fingers she ran the beads of an old rosary which she had found beneath a carpet.

"I had thought," said Ellnor wistfully, "that if I could get away somewhere and start all over again, perhaps some day I might be good—like other women. I can never go back to things as they were before."

"No," said the Russian, "I can see that. But make no mistake. You are good as few are good."

"I could sell the house and—and I do not want the jewels. If only you and the others would divide them."

But Boroday would not hear of this. To a certain extent he was reconciled to her going away. Things were closing in on the band. Before long they would probably all have to separate. It were better that Ellnor be in safety.

So for a long time they discussed ways and means, available money, the question of a home for old Henriette.

"In some ways," Ellnor said, "I feel as though I am deserting him." She glanced toward the graveyard where old Hilary slept. "But all I can think of now is to get away, to forget everything."

"When will they be able to move Mr. Ward?"

"In a week, I should think."

"Then, in a week," said Boroday, "where do you think of going, Ellnor?"

"I had hardly got so far. Anywhere but here."

"We shall have to plan for you."

He picked up his soft hat and Ellnor rose.

"Good night, Ellnor."

"Good night. I am always happier for having seen you."

He watched her back to the house, then went down the steps into the road.

There had been a dinner at the country club that night. The chief had attended it, unknown to hostess and guests, to the extent of sitting in the grillroom during the evening and carefully watching the men who came and went. He had dined quite alone in the grill. From where he sat he could see the dinner-party guests on the veranda. There were noticeably few jewels to be seen. Over his chop and lager beer the chief smiled grimly.

After that he shook dice for a short time with a young Englishman named Talbot, an interesting fellow. From him the chief got the club view of the jewel robbery.

"It's been coming to us for a long time," said Talbot, shaking the dice.

"Long ago I advised some of the women who had famous pearls to have copies made and keep the originals in their banks, but they disliked the idea of wearing imitations."

"I see."

"Then a woman isn't satisfied to have a string of pearls; she must have it announced in all the papers. Of course crooks all over the country read about them, and naturally their fingers itch."

"I understand," said the chief, "that the Bryant pearl has been recovered." "Yes, and good work on the part of the force," was Talbot's comment. If the chief smiled under his heavy mustache, if there was the faintest possible twinkle in Talbot's eyes, who was there to see?

Talbot took the chief down to the station in his gray machine. They had chatted very pleasantly. But just opposite the steps from Ellnor's garden they blew out a tire. The car swerved, suddenly throwing the light from the lamps along the bank. Standing in the shadows, and thus unexpectedly revealed, was Boroday.

Talbot brought the car to a stop and jumped out. The Russian had gone on down the hill.

"Awfully sorry," said Talbot. "Looks as if you'd have to walk down. Perhaps you will find another car to pick you up."

"I shall rather enjoy the walk," said the chief, eyes ahead in the darkness. "Whose place is this?"

Talbot glanced up and around.

"I'm afraid I don't know anything about the village." He opened the toolbox.

The chief took two or three steps along the road and turned. "About here, wasn't it, that the Episcopal clergyman was shot?"

"I cannot tell you that either. It was somewhere along this road."

"Good night," sang the chief cheerily, and started down the hill.

Boroday had come out of the Hilary Kingston place. He knew that. Right here, almost where he stopped, was where Ward had been found. Then, in spite of old Hilary's death, the band was still using his house. Things were closing up. Boroday tramped on down the road. About one hundred yards behind the chief followed.

Talbot, hammering at a recalcitrant tire, filled the air with the short, angry raps of his hammer on the rim.

The Russian had an almost uncanny sense of pursuit. More than once in his life it had saved him, and now he knew he was being followed. He made no attempt whatever to throw his pursuer off the track, but went directly to the station. There he got an evening paper at the closing news stand and glanced over it, standing under an arc light. For all his engrossment he saw quite distinctly the figure of the chief as he crossed the track and took up his station behind a pillar of the trainshed. Boroday was thinking hard. It had been that unlucky swerving of a machine on the hill that had betrayed him. He knew that now. And he had just come out of the Kingston place. It was bad, very bad.

Boroday rode all the way into the city with the chief a dozen seats behind him. The chief did not follow him home. He knew where he lived, and he could lay his hand on him when he wanted him. He was going to wait him now pretty soon. The Russian knew that, too.

When he had entered his apartment and turned on the light, he found Huff standing by a window. The boy ducked back as the light went up.

For a moment the two eyed one another. Huff was unshaven, sunken-eyed, dirty. The contrast between this wild-eyed boy and the tall Russian was strong.

"Well?" said Huff defiantly.

"Sit down," Boroday's tone was kind. He went to a closet and got out a bottle of vodka.

"When did you have anything to eat?"

"I am not hungry."

Nevertheless Boroday forced a bit of a little bread and meat.

"I didn't know you were out until tonight," Huff said at last, pushing his plate away.

"Where have you been?"

"Drinking my head off in a dive on Fortieth street," said Huff savagely.

"I'm all right now."

"What got into you, Walter? For you to turn on us like that—to expose everyone of us, as you have—"

"She was in love with him. I wish I'd killed him."

Very patiently, Boroday told him what had happened. Over the matter of the Bryant pearl he passed as lightly as he could. But Huff realized the significance of Ellnor's placing it in the almsbox. He went rather white.

"We would have got off with the country club matter well enough, but this murderous frenzy of yours has finished us all. We'll have to break up and get away. I want you to go out to Ellnor's tonight."

"She will not see me."

"I think she will," said Boroday. "I want her to get away the first thing in the morning. Let her empty the vault."

He hesitated. Ellnor's fortune in jewels was becoming a menace. Whoever took them in charge was possibly putting a halter around his neck.

"Bring the jewels to me. If you have a chance. If it seems better, perhaps you'd better bury them out there."

"Where?"

"You might," said the Russian thoughtfully, "bury them in old Hilary's grave."

AUSTRALIANS GREAT HUNTERS

Knowledge of the Habits of Animals Makes Up for Crude Weapons and Lack of Endurance.

In endurance and speed the Australian aborigine is not the equal of the American Indian, and his weapons of wood and poorly fashioned stones are effective only at short range, says the National Geographic Magazine. But as a hunter the native Australian is marvelously adapted to his environment. His success lies in an intimate knowledge of the habits of the animals on land, in the ground, in trees and under water, and his wonderfully developed power of observation.

He decoys pelicans by imitating their cry, catches ducks by diving below them, locates an opossum in a tree by marks on the bark or by the flight of mosquitoes, finds sharks by observing the action of birds and follows a bee to its store of honey.

Any animal which leaves a track however dim in sand, on rock or in grass falls an easy prey to the native. Children are taught to track lizards and snakes over bare rocks and to find their absent mothers by following tracks too indistinct to serve as a guide for any European. When a white man is lost in the desert or a child strays from home the final resort is to secure a "black tracker."

Rheumatism Superstitions.

It is when it comes to rheumatism that old superstitions come most definitely to the fore, and there are scores of cures and preventives which have come down through the centuries. One of these which the Belgians have introduced to the fighting men at the front is the wearing of a strip of cat-skin beneath the coat. According to the Belgians, this makes you immune from both rheumatism and gout, and with the trenches deep with mud and icy water, the average soldier, whether in France or England, is only too glad to "take a chance" on any sort of preventive, and it is said that scores of domestic pussy cats have been offered up as a sort of sacrifice to provide whole regiments with the coveted strip of fur. The fad has spread to England, where "cat-skin" bands are now sold; but so far America has been content with the theory that the wearing of a steel ring, or the carrying of a potato in the pocket, would keep off the dread aching of joints and muscles.

Can't Dodge That. "Do man dat dodges work," said Uncle Eben, "generally gets hit by trouble."

"Bury Them in Old Hilary's Grave."

TEA PARTY IN A HOSPITAL

Laughter and Music Featured a Social Event Attended by American and English Officers.

As one of the contrasts of war I shall not soon forget the American tea party in one of the hospital tents, writes a New York correspondent. Not far away was a military cemetery which grows and grows with its forest of crosses, and in the tents near by American surgeons and American nurses were dealing with wounded men just down from the front. But in the other tent to which I went as a guest there was merry music played by English handsmen, and all the tent was filled with color from the intertwined flags of America and England among great bouquets of summer flowers of France. Above the music rose laughter and the voices of American and English officers and nurses.

It was a tea party given by the nurses of the American medical unit which had been working over here for a year to the newcomers of the United States Medical corps and to British officers from the neighboring tents. There were greetings between college girls who had come together as comrades again in this great adventure on French soil. Young doctors from the Southern states held out a glad hand to friends from New York and Chicago. Here were breezy salutations between Georgians and Virginians, between men of Cincinnati and girls of Boston and Atlantic City.

All Food—No Waste!

Why the Owl is a Night Bird.

Birds are often credited with bringing down a fire from heaven; in Polynesia it was a red pigeon, in French folk lore the wren. The tale runs that all the other birds, except the owl, contributed a single feather apiece to replace the scorched plumage of the wren, so as to keep it warm in the coming winter. For its ill-nature the owl was condemned to eternal seclusion during the warm day, and to perpetual suffering from cold during the night, and the other birds maintain the punishment by pestering it if it appears in sunshine.—Raymond Crawford, in the Lancet (London).

MAXWELL

F. O. B. DETROIT

There is inflexible logic in the fixing of that price for the Maxwell closed cars.

The purpose of the Maxwell builders was to strike the MIDDLE LINE of absolute value.

They have done so with scientific accuracy.

The Maxwell closed cars have grace, beauty, comfort, efficiency, durability, economy and standard equipment.

But, if built to sell for less than $1095, one or the other of these would be lacking.

On the other hand, for a higher price you could get only larger size or fancier furnishing—not any greater VALUE or finer "class."

That is what we mean by "the Middle Line."

The Maxwell closed car series includes the 5-passenger Sedan, 6-passenger Berlina and 3-passenger Coupe, all priced at $1095, f. o. b. Detroit.

Temperance Notes

(Conducted by the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union.)

LIKES PROHIBITION.

Mr. W. Innes Paterson of Red Cloud, Neb., writes that the change in that state since the dry law went into effect is marvelous. He says:

"On the 4th of July a celebration was held in this town, and I don't think I ever saw a quieter crowd in a place of its size and not a single intoxicated person. Almost every family has an automobile and everywhere remarks such as 'Not a drunken man,' 'What a difference from other years,' 'We will never go back to it,' 'There is nothing can be said in favor of it,' are heard. There was not a single auto accident; not an incident to mar the pleasure. The farmers' families were well-dressed, with money to spend. Even big cities that it was thought would be drastically affected by the sudden change, are vowing never again will they allow the curse to blight. There is absolutely no argument for its continued use in any civilized country after the demonstration in the United States."

AUTHORITATIVE TESTIMONY.

In a telegram to President Wilson, the mayor of Savannah, Ga., thus testified to the value of prohibition as an economic measure:

"Prohibition in Savannah has produced astonishing economic benefits. Following are the percentages of reduction of arrests for crime: Assault with intent to murder, 64; burglary, 47; drunk and disorderly, 72; larceny, 50; larceny after trust, 76; murder, 66 2-8; lunacy, 54; number of convicts reduced, 50 per cent. Approximately 3,000 less calls for patrol wagon and 10,000 less articles pledged with pawnbrokers than in previous years of open saloons. Farmers and other employers of labor agree efficiency and reliability of labor increased 50 per cent. Enormous quantity of grain required for production of alcoholic drinks is urgently needed for food. It will be a crime to allow continued waste in this manner. National prohibition during war is of vital importance."

DRINK AND WHITE SLAVERY.

Miss Kate J. Adams, social worker of Chicago, and author of the Kate Adams law, tells us that girls are disappearing in that city at the rate of three every two days—more than 500 a year. Most of these are without doubt victims of the white slave traffic. "The federal government," says Miss Adams, "maintains a special white slave officer in all cities of 25,000 or more inhabitants which have segregated vice districts, but"—note this statement particularly—"it is a significant fact that it is not necessary for the government to keep men in towns which are in dry territory, or in which there is no regular 'line,' a point which proves what I have always maintained, that no vice district can thrive or even exist for any length of time without whisky."

MAKE IT NATION-WIDE.

The action of the government in prohibiting the sale of liquor to soldiers proves that it recognizes the fact that prohibition is right in principle and expedient in policy. Then why not extend it? If in the interests of health and efficiency enlisted men are given federal protection from Demon Rum, why not also the men who are doing war work at home? Why not the boys who will later be summoned to military service? To be fit for war and for the work of reconstruction after the war, America must conserve and strengthen every bit of physical and mental power in her citizenship. Protect the home, the office, the shop, from the raids of rum! Give us nation-wide prohibition!

TWO OF A KIND.

The brewers used 68,400,000 bushels of grain in 1916. This grain would make annually cargoes for over a thousand vessels of 1,600 tons each. German submarines are sinking only about twenty vessels of all classes a week and but a small per cent of these are loaded with grain. Which is rendering the kaiser the better service, his submarines or the brewers of the United States?—The American Issue.

A GOOD MOVE.

"It wouldn't be a bad idea," recently said the Country Gentleman, "if more tobacco growers agreed with the Wisconsin farmer who wrote to his experiment station that he was going to put his tobacco lands into grain because he felt it his duty to grow crops for food. In an emergency like this it is worth while to seat John Barleycorn on the toboggan with My Lady Macintosh and give them a good swift push."

Tests Gas on Dogs.

Stray dogs are being used by a professor in Yale medical school to test out a new gas, which he believes to be more deadly than the chlorine combination used by the Germans. He admits he is working on the poison gas problem, but says all further information must come from the war department, with which he is in daily communication. Because of the widespread epidemic of rabies in the state of Connecticut, notes an exchange, the commissioner on domestic animals has placed a quarantine in all the towns west of the Connecticut river and ordered that all stray dogs be impounded, and if no claim of ownership is made within 72 hours they are to be sent to the professor.

GREEN'S AUGUST FLOWER

has been a household panacea all over the civilized world for more than half a century for constipation, intestinal troubles, torpid liver and the generally depressed feeling that accompanies such disorders. It is a most valuable remedy for indigestion or nervous dyspepsia and liver trouble, bringing on headache, coming of up food, palpitation of heart and many other symptoms. A few doses of August Flower will immediately relieve you. It is a gentle laxative. Ask your druggist. Sold in all civilized countries.—Adv.

Saving the Bullets.

There are several kinds of airplanes adapted to different kinds of military service and their equipment varies according to whether they are intended chiefly for scouting, for bomb dropping or for gun fighting. On most of the machines of the last-named or battle-plane type, a writer in the Scientific American says, a machine gun is so fitted as to point along an axis of the machine. The pilot, who is alone, directs the nose of his airplane at the enemy and fires across the propeller. Two plans were tried for preventing the propeller from being broken by the bullets. The first consisted of stopping the machine gun whenever the propeller came within the field of fire, but experience showed that frequent stopping of the gun with the propellers making 1,200 revolutions a minute ends in putting the gun out of order. Designers then placed steel plates on those parts of the propeller likely to be struck, and these plates turn the bullets that strike the propeller. It is mathematically calculated that only one bullet in eighteen is wasted in this way.

Electric Furnaces.

The electric furnaces of Sheffield, England, alone can now produce 90,000 tons of steel per year, and it is anticipated that in 1918 the output from these furnaces alone will be 150,000 tons.

Royal Baking Powder saves eggs in baking

In many recipes only half as many eggs are required, in some none at all, if an additional quantity of Royal Baking Powder is used, about a teaspoon, in place of each egg omitted.

Try the following recipes which also conserve white flour as urged by the government.

Corn Meal Griddle Cakes

1 1/2 cups corn meal
1 1/2 cups boiling water
1/2 cup milk
1 tablespoon shortening
1 tablespoon molasses
1/2 cup flour
1 teaspoon salt
4 teaspoons Royal Baking Powder
NO EGGS

Soak corn meal in bowl with boiling water; add milk, melted shortening and molasses; add flour, salt and baking powder which have been sifted together; mix well. Bake on hot greased griddle until brown. (The Old Method called for 2 eggs)

Eggless, Milkless, Butterless Cake

1 cup brown sugar
1 1/2 cups water
1 cup seeded raisins
2 ounces citron, cut fine
1/2 cup shortening
4 teaspoons Royal Baking Powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon nutmeg
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 cup flour
1 cup rye flour
4 teaspoons Royal Baking Powder

Boil sugar, water, fruit, shortening, salt and spices together in saucepan 3 minutes. When cool, add flour and baking powder which have been sifted together. Mix well; bake in loaf pan in moderate oven about 45 minutes. (The Old Method [Fruit Cake] called for 2 eggs)

Murder Will Out.

A French woman with a sense of humor once told this story:

She was walking up a flight of stairs in one of those Paris apartment houses with a mirror at the head of each landing.

As she glanced up, panting, she thought she saw a woman descending. She said to herself: "Well, if I were that fat old woman I should know better than to dress in that ridiculous way."

When she reached the head of the stairs she confronted herself.

Verbal.

Robert's father received this communique from his son, absent in the halls of learning.

"Dear Father: I am sorry to say that I was mistaken when I wrote last week that the prof. had said that my abilities were mathematical. He said that they were problematical. Affectionately, ROBERT."

Looks That Way.

"You know these war rates?"
"Yes."
"Are they going to hurt matters?"
"I dunno. I fear that 3-cent postage is going to put a lot of poets out of business."

Everybody's Luck.

The bargain hunter is just as apt to find a gold brick as anyone else.

It takes a woman with sound judgment to generate silence.

Reads Like Fiction.

One of the most recent salvages yet recorded in these days of submarine warfare, says Popular Science Monthly, is that of the Norwegian steamship Kongslil, whose cargo of grain swelled to such an extent on the rush of water through the ragged hole torn in her side by a torpedo, that the hole was clogged up and the water prevented from flowing in and sinking her.

A party of fishermen, clambering aboard to discover the trouble, were amazed to find that the ragged hole on one side and hull plates torn loose on the other by the force of the explosion had been effectively plugged by the swollen grain. The fishermen were afraid to attempt to tow her because the rush of the water along her sides might have washed away the effective grain seal. Accordingly, they improvised bales made of cotton filled with grain and forced these into the holes. This made the stoppage secure enough to enable the vessel to be towed to a nearby port.

At the Post Office.

"What did she do when you told her it would cost 3 cents to send a letter hereafter instead of 2?"
"Umph—she got so angry she stamped her foot."

Lacks Appreciation.

Somehow or other a man never appreciates what he has acquired with little effort or cost.

Through and Through.

The two men in blue were exchanging confidences on the veranda of a big military hospital in France.

"Did you go to that big society party they gave for us crooked fellows yesterday?"

"Yes," said the other and shuddered.

"What did you think of it?"

"Believe me, old bloke, I'd rather have another ball go through me than go through another ball."

Ridiculed His Wife.

Mental cruelty was the ground upon which a woman obtained a divorce in Reno, Nev. The woman said her husband constantly ridiculed her, refused to be seen alone with her at public gatherings and frequently showed his friends a little book entitled "Foolish Things My Wife Has Said."

Timely Evidence.

"Have you a recommendation from your last place?"

"Yes, mum. Here it is."

"Why, that's a wrist watch."

"Yes, mum. The master of the house—a poor gentleman who's dead now—gave me that for cooking his eggs the way he wanted 'em."

Better Still.

"My ancestors came over in the Mayflower, sir."

"Indeed? My two sons have just gone over in a transport."

Madras in 1916 exported $440,000 worth of sandalwood.

POSTUM

Why does Mrs. Smith use Instant Postum

Sometimes, because it agrees with Mr. Smith better than coffee.

Sometimes, because she herself likes its constant rich, coffee-like flavor better than some coffees she has used.

Sometimes, because the children are so fond of it, and she can give it to them freely when she would hesitate to give them coffee.

There's a variety of reasons—all good ones—why so many consistent housewives are using

INSTANT POSTUM

And another reason, not to be overlooked these times, is its reasonable cost.

You can buy it at the same old price. (Made in America.)

"There's a Reason"

"Blue" and Worried?

"Blue" worried, half-sick people should find out the cause of their troubles. Often it is merely faulty kidney action, which allows the blood to get loaded up with poisons that irritate the nerves. Backache, headaches, dizziness and annoying bladder troubles are added proofs that the kidneys need help. Use Doan's Kidney Pills. Thousands thank them for relief from just such troubles.

A Michigan Case

Mrs. Selma Lundberg, 4339 Grand Blvd., Menominee, Mich., says: "My back ached constantly and I had such pains across my kidneys I could hardly bend over or lift anything. My kidneys were weak and the way they acted bothered me very much. I sometimes was so dizzy I couldn't walk and I was awfully nervous. I became bloated. I used Doan's Kidney Pills and soon I was entirely well. I give Doan's Kidney Pills the credit for my cure."

WRINKLES

Wrinkles disfigure, and a dry, sallow, rough skin spoils any woman's good looks. To those whose skin has reached this condition we suggest the application of Usit, a pure nut-oil, daintily perfumed liquid preparation (not a cream or paste). It is the only thing that will feed the hungry, dry skin back to youthful smoothness, freshness, and plumpness, and drive away disfiguring wrinkles that come so quickly when the skin is not properly nourished.

Usit is fine for the treatment of skin blemishes such as freckles, blackheads and many forms of Eczema. A few applications of Usit proves its worth and in a reasonable time brings wonderful results. For further distribution a bargain. Once only. Try Usit Face Powder de Luxe, which is no ordinary face powder, but a preparation appealing to people of discriminating and refined taste. Four tints—flesh, white, pink and brunette. Delicately perfumed. One 50c bottle Usit and one 50c box Usit Face Powder de Luxe for 75c. Address Usit Mfg Co., 895 Main street, Buffalo, N. Y.

Fasten Helmets at Back.

Soup-plate helmets worn by British troops in France are to be adopted by the United States troops in preference to the French pattern of protective headgear. The wearing of these tin hats, by the way, though it has proved of great value against certain species of attacks, shrapnel, for instance, is not entirely without its dangers, writes a war correspondent. When they were first introduced the men naturally put the strap under the chin, but so many were killed by having their necks broken by bits of shell hitting the helmet in front that the order was made to fasten it at the back of the head.

Housekeepers Can Save $200,000,000 on Food

In these days when the high cost of living pinches nearly every home, no waste should be overlooked. One of the most flagrant and the most easily prevented, is the destruction of food by rats. One rat will often do a hundred dollars' damage of food and property in a single night, and a careful estimate gives over $200,000,000 as the value of foodstuffs destroyed annually by these pests. Exterminate them with Stearns' Paste and save this enormous loss of food. A small box of Stearns' Paste costs only 35 cents and is usually enough to completely rid the house of rats and mice; also effective against cockroaches and waterbugs. Adv.

THE LAST EXAMINATION OF WAR'S DRAFT

Many a man has fallen down because a test of his water showed unmistakably that he had kidney disease.

The kidneys are the scavengers and they work day and night in separating the poisons from the blood. Their signals of distress are easily recognized and include such symptoms as backache, depression, drowsiness, irritability, headaches, dizziness, rheumatic twinges, dropsy, gout.

"The very best way to restore the kidneys to their normal state of health and cure such symptoms," says Dr. Pierce of Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., "is to drink plenty of water and obtain from your favorite pharmacy a 80-cent bottle of An-u-ric, double strength, which is dispensed by almost every druggist." You will find Anuric more potent than lithia, dissolves uric acid as water does sugar.

Raise High Priced Wheat on Fertile Canadian Soil

Canada extends to you a hearty invitation to settle on her FREE Homestead lands of 160 acres each or secure some of the low priced lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta. This year wheat is higher but Canadian land just as cheap, so the opportunity is more attractive than ever. Canada wants you to help feed the world by tilling some of her fertile soil—land similar to that which during many years has averaged 20 to 45 bushels of wheat to the acre. Think of the money you can make with wheat around $2 a bushel and land so easy to get. Wonderful yields also of Oats, Barley and Flax. Mixed farming in Western Canada is as profitable an industry as grain growing.

The Government this year is asking farmers to put increased acreage into grain. There is a great demand for farm labor to replace the many young men who have volunteered for service. The climate is healthful and agreeable, railway facilities excellent, good schools and churches convenient. The Evening Line-Up

Both children and grown-ups, with coughs and colds, are all the better for a dose of Foley's Honey and Tar at bed time. It wards off croup, stops tickling throat, and hacking coughs, and makes an otherwise feverish, sleepless night of coughing and distress, a quiet and restful one.

BROWNSVILLE, TEXAS. Mr. Chas. Baker writes: "My wife would not think of using any other cough medicine, as Foley's Honey and Tar is certain to bring quick relief. It is especially effective in cases of bad coughs, and we give it to our children and recommend it always as a safe remedy, for it contains no opiates."
