Vol. XXXVI

Pinckney, Livingston County, Michigan, Thursday May 29, 1919

No. 22

MEMORIAL DAY

County to observe the day at Howell.

All soldiers, sailors or marines and men belonging to any branch of the service are earnestly requested to participate in the Memorial Day Parade in Howell.

This parade will be headed by Brigadier General Edwin B. Winans, a Livingston County boy, of the Allied army, a veteran of three wars.

Memorial Day is in honor of the dead. No false modesty should keep any soldier out of this parade.

Our soldier dead are now buried upon the soil of many countries; "their graves are scattered far and wide, by mountain stream and sea." Let us consecrate one day to their memory.

The committee has made arrangements for a moving picture of this parade which will be shown in a short time in the local theatres of the county and will be preserved for the years to come.

We are justly proud of the part that Livingston County has taken in our great wars, and if it is to be reproduced in moving pictures we want the full benefit for all that our soldiers have done.

Come and help make this parade a success.

Parade Committee.

OBITUARY

Children of eleven she moved with her family to Nankin township, Wayne county, where she lived until she came to Pinckney in 1885. After coming here, she was engaged in the millinery business until 1903. Then after spending a few years in Ann Arbor and Ypsilanti she returned to Pinckney, where she made her home with her sister, Mrs. Thos. Road, until she passed away, on May 21, 1919.

Miss Martin has been in ill health for several years, but has been a patient and resigned sufferer. Her amiable disposition and kindly ways endeared her to all who knew her and her departure leaves a vacancy that cannot be filled. Her life has been a life of loving service to others, with no thought for herself. She leaves to mourn her loss three sisters, several nieces and nephews and a host of friends.

Louise Edwards was born at Ann Arbor, Washnaw county, Michigan, on the 25th day of July, 1851 and passed away at her home while sleeping, Sunday morning, May 18, 1919, at the age of 67 years.

Left motherless when only a few days old, she lived with her grandmother at Ann Arbor until eleven years of age then with her uncle, Christopher Taylor of Unadilla township until her marriage to John Brearley, on the 15th day of November, 1871. This companionship was severed by his death, June 10, 1881.

To this union was born one son, Adelbert J., who has always lived with his mother, and for the past twenty-five years at their present home in the village of Gregory, and is now left to mourn the loss of a devoted mother.

She was one of a family of ten children, of whom only four survive her. Soon after her marriage she united with the M. E. church at Williamsville. She lived a quiet and unassuming Christian life, possessing a great love for her home and son. She was a kind neighbor, fond of her friends and greatly prized the opportunity of helping them, will be greatly missed by all who knew her.

BASE BALL

The High School team will cross bats with the town team May 31. This promises to be a good game.

Pinckney and Howell play in Pinckney June 11 for the County Championship. This will be the big game of the year and everyone should see it.

PLAN TO PRESERVE WAR RECORDS

Book to be published containing achievements of our County in the war.

Do you think the splendid record that Livingston County boys made in the great war should be forgotten?

Do you think that the splendid record that Livingston County people at home made putting the various drives "over the top" so quickly and efficiently, should be forgotten?

Most emphatically no! you say. Unless some move is made to preserve them, these records will, in a few short years, be only a dim and misty memory.

The Brighton Argus, realizing this fact, has started a plan to preserve the records of our brave boys and the achievements of our home people who backed them so nobly.

This will be done in the "The Honor Roll of Livingston County"—a history of our county in the World War—what was done both at the front and at home. In this book we hope to have the picture of every man or boy in the county who served under the colors, all the principal home service workers. It will be a book that will commemorate the glorious work done by our county for all time to come.

We expect the co-operation of every patriotic citizen in the county to make this Honor Roll 100 per cent complete. Turn at once to the Honor Roll display ad on another page and see what

MEMORIAL DAY ITS ORIGIN

IN May, 1902, the Washington Post published an article on the origin of Memorial day, which contained this paragraph:

"Should the United States to the present or to the coming generations that we have forgotten as a people the cost of a free and undivided republic.

"If other eyes grow dull, other hands slack, and other hearts cold in the national Memorial day, the name-place on the granite shaft would bear the simple word 'Unknown.' Considerable controversy in recent years has appeared in relation to the author of the suggestion, and much of it has found lodgment in the library of the war department at Washington.

GEN. JOHN A. LOGAN
COMMANDER-IN-CHIEF G.A.R. IN 1868

Memorial day, May 30, though widely observed as a national holiday, is such by virtue of state laws and general custom and not because of act of congress. Congress has practically passed no laws creating holidays for the whole country. It has designated the second Sunday in May as Mothers' day. President Wilson, by proclamation May 30, 1916, requested that June 14 be observed as Flag day. But national holidays like July Fourth and New Year's day have not been enacted by congress.

There is no controversy over the fact that Memorial day was first so designated in general orders to members of the Grand Army of the Republic in 1868 by Gen. John A. Logan, then its commander in chief. This order is as follows, as preserved in the G. A. R. headquarters in Philadelphia:

Repealed. 440 Fourteenth street, Washington, D. C., May 5, 1868.

"General Orders No. 11.
"1. The 30th day of May, 1868, is designated for the purpose of strewing with flowers or otherwise decorating the graves of comrades who died in defense of their country during the late rebellion and whose bodies now lie in almost every city, village and hamlet churchyard in the land. In this observance no form of ceremony is prescribed, but posts and comrades will in their own way arrange such fitting services and testimonials of respect as circumstances may permit.

"We are organized, comrades, as our regulations tell us, for the purpose, among other things, of preserving and strengthening those kind and fraternal feelings which have bound together the soldiers, sailors and marines who united to suppress the late rebellion. What can aid more to assure this result than cherishing tenderly the memory of our heroic dead, who made their breasts a barricade between our country and its foes? Their soldier lives were the revivification of freedom to a race in chains and their deaths the tattoo of rebellious tyranny in arms. We should guard their graves with sacred vigilance. All that the consecrated wealth and taste of the nation can add to the adornment and security is but a fitting tribute to the memory of her slain defenders. Let no wanton foot tread rudely on such hallowed grounds. Let pleasant paths invite the coming and going of reverent visitors and fond mourners. Let no vandalism of avarice or neglect, no ravages of time testify

"Let us, then, at the time appointed gather around their sacred remains and garland the passionless mounds above them with the choicest flowers of springtime; let us in this solemn presence renew our pledges to aid and assist those whom they have left among us a sacred charge upon a nation's gratitude, the soldier's and sailor's widow and orphan.

"2. It is the purpose of the commander in chief to inaugurate this observance with the hope that it will be kept up from year to year, while a survivor of the war remains to honor the memory of his departed comrades. He earnestly desires the public press to lend its friendly aid in bringing to the notice of comrades in all parts of the country in time for simultaneous compliance therewith.

"3. Department commanders will use efforts to make this order effective.

"By order of
"JOHN A. LOGAN,
"Commander in Chief.
"N. P. CHIPMAN,
"Adjutant General."

General Logan's "general order" was followed by the observation of the first Memorial day in seventeen states. Orders in 1874 made Memorial day a legal holiday. Many states followed. Now Memorial day (May 30) is a legal holiday in most of the northern states. Alabama, Georgia, Florida and Mississippi observe April 26 and North and South Carolina May 10.

So the origin of the observance of Memorial day on May 30 is settled beyond question.

But where did the idea that lies back of the observance of Memorial day originate? Here indeed is room for controversy.

In the first place there were decorations of Civil war graves previous to 1868 in various localities of the North and South. These were mostly informal. The earliest date back to the days of war itself and were merely local observances.

October 6, 1866, Col. Andrew H. H. Dawson, who had fought on the Confederate side, in the Academy of Music, Brooklyn, addressed 4,000 people and said in part:

"Let the North and the South meet as friends. Let them share common griefs, sacred sorrows. Let the daughters of the North and the daughters of the South meet with their floral offerings annually, on some great memorial day, on the fields where our heroes sleep their last sleep, and let their tears fall together upon the lowly pillows of their loved and lost. Let them kneel together there, and let their prayers for the welfare of our common country rise, as it were, on the wings of the same breath, and soar to heaven. Angels will be waiting at the portals of the skies to bear them to the footstool of the Great White Throne; and the God of our country will hear and answer them; fraternal feelings will revisit the riven land; man will recognize again in man his brother; sectional prejudices will pass away; sectionalism will receive the rebuke it deserves; and peace and prosperity, harmony and happiness will crown a national glory and grandeur without parallel in the annals of ages."

The following published statement is presumably true: "In the early spring of 1867 Mr. and Mrs. Henry S. Kimball, of West Philadelphia, Pa., were visiting several points in the South. Mrs. Kimball, upon returning to Philadelphia, wrote to General Logan, an old friend, stating that in her visit to the South 'she had particularly noticed the southern women decorating the graves of their dead, fallen in battle,' and suggesting to him that, 'as the commander in chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, he should have stopped. "Are you Americans?" he asked, using perfect English. "You bet we are," we replied. "Were you in the war?" he questioned further. "Didn't you meet us at Chateau-Thierry?" we grinned back."

Tragedy and Mystery.

Synopsis.—Thomas K. Barnes, a wealthy young New Yorker, on a walking trip in New England near the Canadian border, is given a lift in an automobile by a mysterious and attractive girl bound for a house called Green Fancy. At Hart's tavern Barnes finds a stranded troupe of "barn-storming" actors, of which Lyndon Ruschroff is the star and "Miss Thackeray" the leading lady. They are doing hotel work for their board. He learns Green Fancy is a house of mystery. That night two mounted men leave the tavern under odd circumstances. A little later one of the two riders is brought back dying, the other having been killed. Both have been shot. The whole affair is most mysterious.

CHAPTER IV—Continued.

"They was hitched jest about a hundred yards below Mr. Curtis' property, on the off side o' the road. I hadn't any more'n got to our front gate when I heard some one running in the road up there behind me. 'Fore I knowed what was happenin', bang went a gun. I almost jumped out'n my boots. The runnin' had stopped. The horses was rarin' an' tearing 'so I thought I'd—"

"Where'd the shot come from?" demanded Barnes.

"I don't know anything about 'em." "What was their business?" "Mr. Roon was lookin' for a place to bring his daughter who has consumption. He didn't want to take her to a reg'lar consumptive community, he said, an' so he was lookin' for a quiet place where she wouldn't be associatin' with lungers all the time. That was his business, Mr. Barnes, an' I guess you'd call it respectable."

"Perfectly. But why should we have soon to discover, was also the coroner of the county. A very officious deputy sheriff was also in the group. Mr. Jones called out from the doorway: "Mr. Barnes, you're wanted in there."

"All right," he responded. "The doctor had been working over the prostrate form on the tables. As Barnes entered the room, he looked up and declared that the man was dead. "This is Mr. Barnes," said Putnam Jones, indicating the tall traveler with a short jerk of his thumb. "I am from the sheriff's office," said the man who stood beside the doctor. The rest of the crowd evidently had been ordered to stand back from the tables. "Did you ever see this man before?"

"Not until he was carried in here an hour ago." "What's your business up here, Mr. Barnes?" "I have no business up here. I just happened to stroll in this evening."

They were queer actin' men, I'll have to say that." His eyes met Barnes' and there was a queer light in them. "You don't happen to know anything about this, do you, Mr. Barnes?" he demanded, suddenly.

CHAPTER V.

The Farm-Boy Tells a Ghastly Story and an Irishman Enters.

Barnes stared. "What do you mean?" he demanded sharply. "I mean just what I said. What do you know about this business?"

"How should I know anything about it?" "Well, we don't know who you are, nor what you're doing up here, nor what your real profession is. That's why I ask the question."

"I see," said Barnes, after a moment. He grasped the situation and he admitted to himself that Jones had cause for his suspicions. "It has occurred to you that I may be a detective or a secret service man, isn't that the case? Well, I am neither. Did you know any more about these two men, Mr. Jones, than you know about me?"

"I don't know anything about 'em." "What was their business?" "Mr. Roon was lookin' for a place to bring his daughter who has consumption. He didn't want to take her to a reg'lar consumptive community, he said, an' so he was lookin' for a quiet place where she wouldn't be associatin' with lungers all the time. That was his business, Mr. Barnes, an' I guess you'd call it respectable."

"Not until he was carried in here an hour ago." "What's your business up here, Mr. Barnes?" "I have no business up here. I just happened to stroll in this evening."

"Well," said the sheriff darkly. "I guess I'll have to ask you to stick around here till we clear this business up. We don't know you an'— Well, we can't take any chances. You understand?"

"Well, I guess not. You got to stay here till we are satisfied that you don't know anything about this business. That's all."

"Am I to consider myself under arrest, sir?" "I wouldn't go so far as to say that. You just stick around here, that's all I got to say. If you're all right, we'll soon find it out. What's more, if you are all right you'll be willin' to stay. Do you get me?"

"I certainly do. And I can now assure you, Mr. Sheriff, that I'd like nothing better than to stick around here, as you put it. I'd like to help clear this matter up. In the meantime, you may readily find out who I am and why I am here by telegraphing to the mayor of New York city. This document, which experience has taught me to carry for just such an emergency as this, may have some weight with you." He opened his bill folder and drew forth a neatly creased sheet of paper. "Read it, please, and note the date, the signature, the official seal of the New York police department, and also the rather interesting silver print pasted in the lower left hand corner. I think you will agree that it is a good likeness of me. Each year I take the precaution of having myself certified by the police department at home before venturing into unknown and perhaps unfriendly communities."

"Yes," said the sheriff dubiously; "but how do I know it ain't a forgery?" "You don't know, of course. But in case it shouldn't be a forgery and I am subjected to the indignity of arrest or even detention, you would have a nasty time defending yourself in a civil suit for damages. I shall remain here, as you suggest, but only for the purpose of aiding you in getting to the bottom of this affair."

Standing on Jim Conley's front porch a little after sunrise, Barnes made the following declaration: "Everything goes to show that these men were up here for one of two reasons. They were either trying to prevent or to enact a crime. The latter is my belief. They were afraid of me. Why? Because they believed I was tralling them and likely to spoil their game. Gentlemen, those fellows were here for the purpose of robbing the place you call Green Fancy."

"What's that?" came a rich, mellow voice from the outskirts of the crowd. A man pushed his way through and confronted Barnes. He was a tall, good-looking fellow of thirty-five, and it was apparent that he had dressed in haste. "My name is O'Dowd, and I am a guest of Mr. Curtis at Green Fancy. Why do you think they meant to rob his place?"

"Well," began Barnes dryly. "It would seem that his place is the only one in the neighborhood that would bear robbing. My name is Barnes. Of course, Mr. O'Dowd, it is mere speculation on my part."

"But who shot the man?" demanded the Irishman. "He certainly wasn't winged by anyone from our place. Why, Lord love you, sir, there isn't a soul at Green Fancy who could shoot a thief if he saw one. This is Mr. De Soto, also a guest at Green Fancy. He

THAT CHANGE IN WOMAN'S LIFE

Mrs. Godden Tells How It May be Passed in Safety and Comfort.

Fremont, O.—"I was passing through the critical period of life, being forty-six years of age and had all the symptoms incident to that change—heat flashes, nervousness, and was in a general run down condition, so it was hard for me to do my work. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was recommended to me as the best remedy for my troubles, which it surely proved to be. I feel better and stronger in every way since taking it, and the annoying symptoms have disappeared."—Mrs. M. GODDEN, 925 Napoleon St., Fremont, Ohio.

Such annoying symptoms as heat flashes, nervousness, backache, headache, irritability and "the blues," may be speedily overcome and the system restored to normal conditions by this famous root and herb remedy Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. If any complications present themselves write the Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., for suggestions how to overcome them. The result of forty years experience is at your service and your letter held in strict confidence.

Last Thursday evening a reception was held at the home of Mrs. Anna Moore honoring Rev. and Mrs. J. J. Schuler who are to leave for their new field of labor this week. There were about 75 present. A very pleasant evening was spent. Delicious cake and ice-cream were served. The gift in money of $38 was greatly appreciated by Mr. and Mrs. Schuler. They are leaving Gregory after five years of service in which many friendships were formed which will still continue.

Dr. W. R. Howlett and family of Jackson called on Gregory friends Sunday afternoon.

I was there to make a sketch of her luncheon was just over, and she was talking to a little knot of women. The first words I heard, as I slid quietly into a nearby seat, were "National Biscuit," calling "my own" tasty "National Biscuit." I liked her, and I felt comfortably as she said, "in my pen and ears."

"Between the dark and day, she was quoting, 'there's always a bit of pause when the world seems waiting, listening for the children—once they've given that baby. First I had to be sure they were all right. Then, when they were all right, I tucked them in, and no one else was there. Children."

"I've always been a pure and simple term, and I've never been anything but a mother."

"I've always been a pure and simple term, and I've never been anything but a mother."

"I've always been a pure and simple term, and I've never been anything but a mother."

Children's Hour like a feast. For the tiny toddlers there is a varied menu, sometimes Uneda Biscuit and milk, sometimes Graham Crackers, Oatmeal Crackers or Lunch Biscuit. This is changed on special occasions to Old Time Sugar Cookies or Newtons and, rarest of all, are days when we had cream and Nabisco, and those were our party days.

"Don't think my hour is just a lunch hour. It started us happily, and it made us sure they were all right. Then, when they were all right, I tucked them in, and no one else was there. Children."

"I've always been a pure and simple term, and I've never been anything but a mother."

"I've always been a pure and simple term, and I've never been anything but a mother."

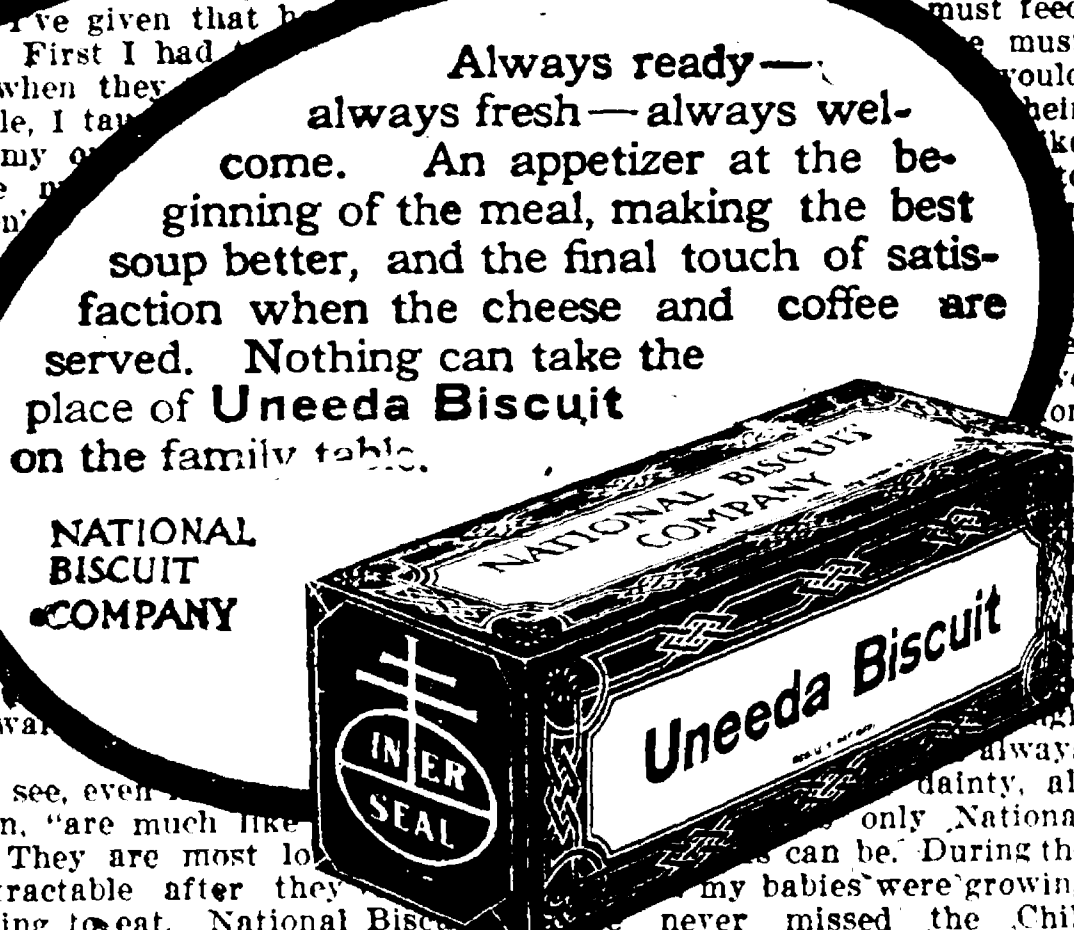

"I've always been a pure and simple term, and I've never been anything but a mother."

Always ready—always fresh—always welcome. An appetizer at the beginning of the meal, making the best soup better, and the final touch of satisfaction when the cheese and coffee are served. Nothing can take the place of Uneda Biscuit on the family table.

NATIONAL BISCUIT COMPANY

Yesterday a good Maxwell

THAT is the policy of the Maxwell Motor Company. It began five years ago on a single chassis plan and today 300,000 Maxwells have been built on this program. Not 300,000 Maxwells identically alike—for that would be admitting that the car has never been improved in five years' time. More than 1000 refinements have been made in the Maxwell. But the original chassis plan was not changed. It has simply grown better as the days went by. The logic of building one thing and thus building it well is too clear, too sound, too emphatic in results to argue against. Like any fine piece of machinery the Maxwell seems to improve with age. It runs on and on without end. We have never heard of a Maxwell salvaged. There is no car with a better road ability record. And it saves many a thrifty dollar by shying at the repair shop. This Maxwell you see today is not a new Maxwell; though many persons have thought so. It has been so much improved in appearance that our contemporaries in the trade refer to it as the new Maxwell. And the latter is the main thing, after all in a motor car.

If You Need a Medicine You Should Have the Best

Have you ever stopped to reason why it is that so many products that are extensively advertised, all at once drop out of sight and are soon forgotten? The reason is plain—the article did not fulfill the promises of the manufacturer. This applies more particularly to a medicine. A medicinal preparation that has real curative value almost sells itself, as like an endless chain system the remedy is recommended by those who have been benefited, to those who are in need of it. A prominent druggist says: "Take for example Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a preparation I have sold for many years and never hesitate to recommend, for in almost every case it shows excellent results, as many of my customers testify. No other kidney remedy has so large a sale."

According to sworn statements and verified testimony of thousands who have used the preparation, the success of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is due to the fact, so many people claim, that it fulfills almost every wish in overcoming kidney, liver and bladder ailments, corrects urinary troubles and neutralizes the uric acid which causes rheumatism. You may receive a sample bottle of Swamp-Root by enclosing a postcard addressed to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., and enclose ten cents; also mention this paper. Large and medium size bottles for sale at all drug stores.—Adv.

FRECKLES

Now is the Time to Get Rid of These Ugly Spots. There's no longer the slightest need of feeling ashamed of your freckles, as Othine—double strength—is guaranteed to remove these homely spots. Simply get an ounce of Othine—double strength—from your druggist and apply a little of it night and morning and you should soon see that even the worst freckles have begun to disappear, while the lighter ones have vanished entirely. It is seldom that more than one ounce is needed to completely clear the skin and gain a beautiful clear complexion. Be sure to ask for the double strength Othine, as this is sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove freckles.—Adv.

Workers of Livingston County
Made a Record that We Are All Proud Of

Few Counties the Size of Livingston, Accomplished
So Much in the World's War

Should the loyal work of these courageous lads from Livingston County fade away into dim memory?

Is it right that their children should be deprived of that thrill of pride of seeing their dad's picture in a historical volume from their home county in the Great War in years to come?

And think of the tireless devotion to the Red Cross work! Imagine the country devoted to the war effort!

Should their record be forgotten? It took keen ability, hard work to make the Liberty Loan, War Chest, Red Cross, War Stamps and other activities a success. Are not those individuals, who took an active part, entitled to be remembered in picture and text for their splendid work?

Every one of these groups from this county, who helped Uncle Sam win the war and crush the enemy are entitled to have their records treasured for generations to come. That is why the Brighton Argus is putting forth an Honor Roll which will contain the picture of those who have loyally done their part in the service and in home activities.

We must have these pictures immediately, also the data regarding each individual. We are relying on you to make the Honor Roll a success.

Many countries are going ahead with this splendid work and we do not want to be laggards in this undertaking which has been sponsored by the following prominent people in your home county: E. H. Lane and W. C. Miller of the County War Board.

E. J. Shields, Chairman of County War Work Committee.
Mrs. W. P. VanWinkle, Chairman County Red Cross, and others.

This book will be beautifully contributed to the workers of Livingston County. Your picture should be in this book, or if you have been actively engaged in Home service work you should be in it. It won't cost you anything for the space or the printing of this record.

A copy of this book will be in every public school library and high school in the county, and also in the archives of the State Historical Society. Please send photograph and data at once.

It Don't Cost You Anything

It is only natural that you would say: "What does the printing of the record and the plates of each individual cost?" There is no charge for this work. We are going to the expense of preparing the book and you are not obligated in any way whatsoever.

We want this book to be authentic work of who is who in Livingston Co. in the Great War, and in order to get one hundred per cent record, we must have every picture that shall right fully go into this book.

You are delaying the book if you hold pictures back, so rush them to us with the data blank without an instant delay.

We guarantee that picture will be returned in good condition.

Remember Their Deeds

We know the War of Independence and heroism of Spartan or Roman magnitude.

The World War called forth our young men and they responded nobly. They were eager and willing to do their part and fit themselves for this great struggle. The lads who went "over" made a wonderful record as fighters, they aroused the admiration of the veteran British, Italian and French armies. At Chateau Tallery they turned rout into victory by holding the enemy back.

We cheered their deeds in 1918—will we remember them in 1919 or five or ten years from now?

The only permanent remembrance is in book form, such as we are now preparing and these publications will be placed in every library and high school of each county. That is why we urge you to rush the picture and data of every one of these men to us, so we can put them in this authentic War Record of our county.

Ludwig's Studio of Howell, has generously offered to aid in this patriotic work by making a photograph, free of charge of any person whose picture is entitled to enter this book.

Get your pictures ready. They will be called for next week.
