PINCKNEY'S ANNUAL PICNIC

The annual picnic of St. Mary's church will be held this year on Wednesday, August 6 at the Jackson Grove. Now that most of the soldiers from this vicinity have returned from the war and with appetites brought to the sharpest possible condition by the plain army fare it looks as if the St. Mary's ladies would have their famous chicken dinner more fully appreciated than ever before.

WETS PLAN FIGHT BY REFERENDUM

MICHIGAN AMONG STATES IN WHICH PETITIONS HAVE BEEN FILED.

COURT DECISIONS CONFLICT

Anti-Prohibition Workers Say That If Ten States Vote Against Dry Law It Will Be Defeated.

New York.—Petitions for a referendum on the Prohibition Constitutional Amendment have been filed in Maine, Michigan, Missouri and Nevada within the last few days, says an announcement made by the Association Opposed to National Prohibition. The referendum fight, because of conflicting court decisions, is expected to be taken to the United States Supreme Court as well as the constitutionality of the amendment.

Opponents of prohibition declare that before they submit to enforcement of the dry amendment, they will fight through a maze of county, district and state Supreme Courts and eventually in the Supreme Court. They will fight by petition, by referendum by injunction and by mandamus proceedings.

Referendum proceedings have been invoked in 15 of the 45 states which ratified the Amendment, and if only 10 of these should prove successful the amendment will stand defeated, said a statement by Mr. Mayer, the wet's attorney.

Mr. Mayer pointed out that the wets only require 10 reversals to defeat the Amendment. The measure requires ratification by 36 states and, if the voters in 10 states should disapprove the action of their legislatures, the measure then would lack one state. In Oregon Utah and Idaho the state

Commission Forecasts That Phone Rates Will Be Revised.

Lansing—The Kelsner metered telephone service order covering the Detroit exchange, which has been in litigation since it was issued Jan. 30, 1918, has been set aside in an order of the new Michigan Public Utilities Commission.

The Utilities Commission is expected to revoke the Burleson rates Aug. 1, or shortly thereafter.

With the Kelsner order out of the way, it is considered improbable that any new rates established for any part of the state will be based on the contract under which the American Telephone & Telegraph Co., receives 4 1/2 per cent of the gross income of the Michigan State Company.

NEGRO KILLED IN CHICAGO RACE RIOT

BATHERS START TROUBLE THAT ENDS IN DROWNING OF COLORED MAN.

SCORES HURT BY STRAY SHOTS

Ill-feeling Between White and Black Race Has Existed for Period of Several Months.

Chicago.—A series of riots in the Negro district Sunday resulted in the drowning of one Negro, the reported drowning of another Negro, the probably mortal injury of another Negro, the shooting of a policeman in the shoulder, and injury to a score of white and black persons by bullets or missiles.

The trouble started at the Twenty-ninth street beach, where white and black people are segregated, and soon spread to State street, the main thoroughfare in the heart of the Negro district, which extends about five miles. Shooting started near the beach. There was also some shooting in the vicinity of State street.

Although ill-feeling between the two races of the South Side has extended over a period of months, emphasized by bomb explosions, some shooting and numerous fights, Sunday's riots seem to have had their start in petty quarrelling at the beach.

Reports that Negroes wandered across the dividing line to the white section of the beach, and that white bathers abused themselves by throwing small stones at the Negroes appeared the most plausible cause. Soon after the fighting started a Negro fled, pursued by a number of whites. He took shelter behind a building and began shooting at policemen who had joined the pursuit, and who returned the fire. The Negro finally surrendered.

FUR MEANS STYLE

Velvet Hats Also a Feature of the Paris Fashions.

French Women Are Not Setting a Pace For Millady of America by Wearing Warm Cloths.

From velvet Paris next turns her attention to furs, and it is said that anything with fur on it is considered up to the minute. Furs and even velvet hats in plenty have been seen on the torrid streets of American cities in summers past, so it is best not to feel too self-righteous or to make too much comment when Paris chooses to suffer in the cause of fashion.

The scarcer the fur the more in vogue it is bound to be, but one does not have to depend on the quantity of fur that is available, for the main point is that one's clothes be shaggy and the means that are employed are far less important. Earlier in the season fringe of any and all sorts was the concern, but besides the monkey fur and the dripping effects obtained by the use of feathers the novelties in wool materials are much in demand.

There is an inexhaustible variety of knitted novelties in Angora and other materials, anything that can be made to hang and dangle in the manner of a long-haired fur. Many of these are shown in bands, particularly when the texture is suitable for use as a trimming. Wool is often combined with silk and metal and interwoven in stripes. Following closely the ideas of the designers, plaids, checks and stripes are plentiful and colors are a shade or two more vivid than the materials of late. Stripes are produced by open mesh material alternating with bands of the wool, the mesh being of metal thread loosely woven.

Any of these knitted novelties provides the way for trimming either a frock or a coat without the aid of fur at somewhat less expense. For sports clothes this form of trimming is ideal, for the shades afford a dash of color usually associated with such clothes.

DRESS OF NAVY GEORGETTE

Paris designed this dress of navy georgette with lines of silk fringe and bright blue ribbons with a soft, lacy collar.

FABRIC FOR SUMMER FROCKS

Printed georgettes and silk voiles are being extensively used this summer, and as frocks made of these materials require no trimming they are a boon to the home dressmaker.

Sometimes the frocks have foundations of crepe meteor or lightweight satin or taffeta, but perhaps the most popular arrangement is to use the same material in a plain color as the foundation, skillfully draping the printed fabric over it. This makes a very lightweight frock that is charming for dressy wear for summer. Loosely tied sashes of self material or of satin are frequently used. These are tied either at the back or side. Wide, flowing sleeves, elbow or three-quarter length, are the favorite ones.

Organdie dresses are also great favorites this summer, the most popular style showing a plain skirt and bodice finished with a wide surplice bertha edged with tiny frills. The bertha or surplice is drawn around the figure and tied in a smart bow at the back. A dress of this type is, of course, not for the stout figure.

One of the smartest of the handkerchief linen waists has a collar which also encompasses the neck and shoulders. It is worn with colored coats and sweaters. Its tucked jabot and collar are embroidered with blue mercerized cotton in a long and short sampler stitch.

Among New Fall Shades.

Among the new fall shades, Indian red, Pompeian red and Cordovan brown (a warm yellow brown tone), are most prominent.

Gray furs are the preference of Paris, but brown furs are said to be decided upon by the majority of American women.

A dress of light-colored material with a wide, light-colored collar and cuffs, and a light-colored belt, standing next to a chair.

cans, as brown continues to be spoken of for suits, and the fur will be used in a color as near as possible matching. Here is another instance of the difference of opinion that is likely to result in making both brown and gray good and leaving the individual plenty of room for choice.

ROMPERS FOR THE KIDDIES

Suggestions of Suitable Materials and Decorations for Playtime and Dress Occasions.

The baby who is brought up without an intimate acquaintance with rompers is to be sympathized with. Never was there so comfortable a style, and now that decorative handwork has taken these wee garments under its wing, never has there been a more attractive style for the playtime of the littlest member of the family.

Materials for the rompers vary from dimity to wash-silk and include seersucker, chambray, cotton crepe, linen and unbleached muslin. All admit the decorative touch. It may be smocking, which in the case of soft materials, is always lovely. The smocking can be used to excellent advantage on the wash silks built on the regulation romper pattern. It gathers in the fullness at the front of the neck and at the bottom of the sleeves and is done, of course, in a contrasting color. Flesh color smocked in light blue is a fetching color scheme.

One model that is differently attractive large industrial plants. Their encroachment on white neighborhoods caused considerable trouble, and during the last year many clashes.

Negroes have charged that a number of bomb explosions in the district in recent months were directed against families of their race by white neighbors.

The black belt, as it is known in police circles, now comprises approximately 25 square miles and includes only a comparatively few small white settlements.

FOOD PRICES TO BE PROBED

Several States Start Inquiries to Determine Profiteers.

Columbus, Ohio.—Demand for a nation-wide investigation of exorbitant food prices, through concerted action everywhere of federal, state and county law enforcement officials, is manifesting itself throughout Ohio, according to reports received by state officials.

Requests for details of the Ohio investigation were made by Governor Cox and attorney general, have been furnished.

Maryland Starts Investigation.

Baltimore, Mr.—Governor Harrington, of Maryland, is planning to take action similar to that taken by Governor Cox, of Ohio, in dealing with food profiteers.

He proposes, first, to locate by investigating the responsibilities for the high cost of living, and, then with the desired information in hand to ascertain how far he can proceed with criminal prosecutions.

The investigation is not designed to be statistical or to ascertain the causes of high prices of foodstuffs or how the situation may be best relieved. The object in view is to find the names of the profiteers and to proceed against them in the same manner as procedure against other criminals.

The average time of passage for each warship from Colon to Balboa was 10 hours, eliminating anchorage time in Gutun lake.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

My thoughts come flying forth in flocks, Gay, eager ones of vivid hue, But oh, the little winged things That will not flutter through!

The little lovely wistful things That start and then draw back with fear: These are the ones of all That I hold vastly dear.

SANDWICH FILLING OF VARIOUS KINDS.

A sandwich may be filled with meat, chicken or fish, making a sandwich which is in itself a meal, or filled with sweets, a dessert or a dainty to serve with a cup of tea or a glass of cooling beverage.

Cold meat put through the meat chopper, with a sweet pickle or two and bound together with a salad dressing, makes a good sandwich and one in which leftovers may be used without remarks from the family.

Veal and Tongue Sandwiches.—Put the veal and tongue through the meat chopper and moisten with a small amount of soup stock; season with paprika and nutmeg. Spread on buttered bread after chilling the meat. Any kind of meat, minced or sliced, mixed with various seasonings such as capers, pickles, nuts or olives will make, with a little ingenuity of the cook, a countless number of good and appetizing sandwiches.

Thinly sliced radishes, cucumbers, onions, chopped green peppers and lettuce make most tasty sandwich fillings.

Olives, either stuffed, green or ripe, may be mixed with nuts and boiled dressing, or added to cream cheese or to cottage cheese.

Cottage cheese with chopped candied cherries (or cream cheese is richer),

A club sandwich is enjoyed by the men prepared as follows: Place a slice of tomato with salad dressing on a buttered slice of rye bread, add a layer of cream cheese mixed with chopped nuts, then top with a slice of rye bread.

Chopped hard-cooked egg mixed with butter, a pinch of mustard, salt and pepper makes a most appetizing sandwich.

Life is not so complex if we do not persist in making it so. We need faith; we need to be brave; we need chronically to keep the corners of the mouth turned up and not down. And after all it is only a step at a time.—Ralph Waldo Trine.

FOOD FOR HOT DAYS.

There is nothing that takes the place of good vegetables for hot weather dishes; they rank with fruit in importance. A healthy diet must include vegetables, for they not only build up the bones and teeth but supply bulk, which is an essential element in their mineral salts, which are needed to make good blood and produce changes in the body cells which are necessary to keep the body young and supple.

A rule which has no exceptions, is to cook vegetables in boiling water and most liquors should be saved for soups or to serve as a sauce with the vegetable; the liquor from beets is one to except.

String beans served with a bitter sauce or in a rich cream sauce are delicious, but for variety cook them two to three hours with a quarter of a pound of salt pork or a few slices of bacon if preferred. Cook down with the saucpan uncovered until the moisture is nearly all absorbed and evaporated, then add a tablespoonful or two of vinegar, salt if needed, and a dash of cayenne.

Creamed Onions and Tops.—Take finger-sized onions, cut, leaving a three-inch stem, cook until tender and serve in white sauce on toast as asparagus is served. Young beets, tops and all, are very good served as a vegetable. Cook them until tender, chop or cut up in coarse bits and serve with butter and vinegar. The secret of savoriness in vegetables is care in seasoning. Do not always serve the same dish with the same seasonings.

Salads of various kinds, using both vegetables and fruits, are most acceptable hot weather dishes.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure catarrhal deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. Catarrhal deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Many cases of deafness are caused by catarrh, which is an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Medicine acts thru the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system.

His uneasiness increased to consternation when he discovered that Sprouse had not yet put in an appearance. What had become of the man? He could not help feeling, however, that somehow the little agent would suddenly pop out of the chimney in his room, or sneak in through a crack under the door—and laugh at his fears.

Shortly before the noon hour, Peter Ames baited the old automobile from Green Fancy in front of the Tavern and out stepped O'Dowd, followed by no less a personage than the pseudo Mr. Loeb. There were a number of traveling bags in the tonneau of the car.

Catching sight of Barnes, the Irishman shouted a genial greeting.

"The top of the morning to ye. You remember Mr. Loeb, don't you? Mr. Curtis' secretary. Mr. Loeb is leaving us for a few days on business. Good morning, Mr. Boniface," he called out to Putnam Jones who approached at that juncture. "We are sadly in want of gasoline."

Barnes caught the look that the Irishman shot at him out of the corner of his eye.

"Perhaps you'd better see that the scoundrels don't give us short measure, Mr. Loeb," said O'Dowd. Loeb hesitated for a second, and then, evidently in obedience to a command from the speaker's eye, moved off to where Peter was opening the intake.

O'Dowd lowered them suspects that she came away with you. There is plenty of evidence that she let him in through her window—"

"All ready, O'Dowd," called Loeb. "Come along, please."

"Coming," said the Irishman. "Don't blame yourself, old man. See you later, Barnes. So long!"

CHAPTER XVI.

The First Wayfarer Visits a Shrine, Confesses, and Takes an Oath.

How was he to find the courage to impart the appalling news to her? He was now convinced beyond all doubt that the so-called Sprouse had made off with the priceless treasure and that only a miracle could bring about its recovery. He realized to what extent he had been shaped into a tool to be used by the master craftsman. He saw through the whole Machiavellian scheme, and he was also now morally certain that Sprouse would have sacrificed him without the slightest hesitation.

In the event that anything went wrong with their enterprise, the man would have shot him dead and earned the gratitude and commendation of his associates! He would have been glorified and not crucified by his friends.

With a heavy heart he mounted the stairs. At the top he paused to deliberate. Would it not be better to keep her in ignorance? What was to be gained by revealing to her the— But

A safe escort would be provided for us, and we would be on British soil within a few hours after our meeting. It is only necessary to add that when I arrived at Green Fancy I met Prince Ugo—and understood! I had carefully covered my tracks after leaving Boston. My real friends were, and still are, completely in the dark as to my movements, so skilfully was the trick managed.

"And now for Chester Naismith. It was he who, acting for the misguided loyalists and recommended by certain young aristocrats who by virtue of their own dissipations had come to know him as a man of infinite resourcefulness and daring, planned and carried out the pillaging of the palace vaults. Almost under the noses of the foreign guards he succeeded in obtaining the jewels. No doubt he could have made off with them at that time, but he shrewdly preferred to have them brought to America by some one else. It would have been impossible for him to dispose of them in Europe. You see how cunning he is?"

"He was no doubt thwarted in his design to waylay me on the road from Spanish Falls by a singular occurrence in this tavern. He was attacked in his room here, overpowered, bound and gagged by two men. He knew the men. They were thieves as clever and as merciless as himself. They too were watching for me. I do not know how these men learned of my intention to come to Green Fancy."

"They came to the Tavern four or

In the absence of Aladdin, however, she is almost as poor as the ancient church mouse. So there you are; me man. Half the royal progeny of Europe have been suitors for her hand, and the other half would be if they didn't happen to be of the same sex. Good-by. I must be on my way." He arose and held out his hand. "Good-by and good luck forever."

"You are a brick, O'Dowd. I want to see you again. You will always find me—"

"Thanks. Don't issue any rash invitations. I might take you up."

Barnes started upstairs as soon as O'Dowd was off, urged by an eagerness that put wings on his feet and a thrill of excitement in his blood. Halfway up he stopped short. A new condition confronted him. What was the proper way to approach a person of royal blood? He would have to think. Pausing at her door, he was at once aware of voices inside the room.

He rapped on the door, but so timidly that nothing came of it. His second effort was productive. He heard Miss Thackeray say "good gracious," and, after a moment, Miss Cameron's subdued: "What is it?" "May I come in?" he inquired, rather ashamed of his vigor. "It's only Barnes."

"Come in," she said.

there gets a fair start. A day's start and—"

"Are you in danger, too, O'Dowd?" she said, holding out her hand to him as he strode across the room.

"I would not deliberately put you in jeopardy, O'Dowd."

"See here, I am going back to that house up yonder. There is still work for me there. What I'm after now is to get him on the train at Hornville. I'll be here again at four o'clock, on my word of honor. Trust me, Barnes."

"Do you mean to say that you are coming back here to run the risk of being—"

"We've had word that the government has men on the way. Why, hang it all, Barnes, don't you know who it was that engineered that whole business last night?"

Barnes smiled. "I do. He is a secret agent from the embassy—"

"Secret granny!" almost shouted O'Dowd. "He is the slickest, cleverest crook that ever drew the breath of life. And he's got away with the jewels, for which you can whistle in vain, I'm thinking."

"For heaven's sake, O'Dowd—" began Barnes, his blood like ice in his veins.

"But don't take my word for it. Naismith. She'll tell ye, my bucko. He's been standing guard outside her window for the past three nights. He's—"

"Now I know you are mistaken," cried Barnes, a wave of relief surging over him. "He has been in this tavern every night—"

"Sure he has. But answer me, did ye ever see him here after eleven in the evening? You did not—not until last night, anyhow. In the struggle he had with Nicholas last night he was recognized. That's why poor old Nicholas is lying dead up there at the house now—and will have a decent burial unbeknownst to anybody but his friends."

"Good God, O'Dowd, you can't mean that he—he killed—"

"He stuck a knife in his neck. The dirty snake! And the chief trusted him as no crook ever was trusted before. In the name of God, Barnes, how did you happen to fall in with the villain?"

Barnes passed his hand over his brow, dazed. "He—he represented himself as a book agent," he mumbled, striving to collect himself. "Jones knew him. Said he had been around here for weeks. I—I—"

"That's the man," said O'Dowd, scowling. "He trotted all over the county, selling books. For the love of it, do ye think? Not much. He had other fish to fry, you may be sure. Barnes, if we ever lay hands on that friend of yours—well, he won't have to fry in hell. He'll be burnt alive. Thank God, my mind's at rest on one score. He didn't slip out with him. They all think he did. Not one of them with the cousin of kings and queens and princes.

"I feared you had deserted me," she said, holding out her hand to him as he strode across the room.

"I saw no occasion to disturb your rest," he mumbled.

"I have been peeping," she said, looking at him searchingly. "Where is Mr. Loeb going, Mr. Barnes?"

"O'Dowd says he is to be gone for a few days on business," he equivocated.

"He will not return," she said quietly. "He is a coward at heart. Oh, I know him well," she went on, scorn in her voice.

"Was I wrong in not trying to stop him?" he asked.

She pondered this for a moment. "No," she said, but he caught the dubious note in her voice. "It is just as well, perhaps, that he should disappear. His flight today spares—but we are more interested in the man Sprouse. Has he returned?"

"No, Miss Cameron," said he ruefully. And then, without a single reservation, he laid bare the story of Sprouse's defection. When he inquired if she had heard of the man known as Chester Naismith, she confirmed his worst fear by describing him as the guard who watched her in the tower.

"You were no match for Chester Naismith. Do not look so glum. The shrewdest police officers in Europe have never been able to cope with him. Why should you despair?"

He sprang to his feet. "By gad, he hasn't got away with it yet," he grated. "I will run this scoundrel down if I have to devote the remainder of my life to the task."

She sighed. "Alas, I fear that I shall have to tell you a little more about this wonderful man you know as Sprouse. Six months ago the friends and supporters of the legitimate successor to my country's throne consummated a plan whereby the crown jewels and certain documents of state were surreptitiously removed from the palace vaults. Instead of depositing the treasure in Paris, it was sent to this country in charge of a group of men whose fealty could not be questioned. The man you know as Loeb is in reality my cousin. I have known him all my life. He is the youngest brother of the pretender to the throne, and a cousin of the prince who is held prisoner by the Austrians. This prince has a brother also, and it was to him that I was supposed to deliver the jewels. I traveled from New York, but not alone as you may suspect. I was carefully protected from the time I left my hotel there until, well, until I arrived in Boston.

"While there I received a secret message from friends in Canada directing me to go to Spanish Falls, where I would be met and conducted by Prince Sebastian himself to the place called Green Fancy, which was near the Canadian border.

he was working with them. My theory is this, and I think it is justified by events: The men were really secret agents, sent here to watch the movements of the gang up there. They came upon Sprouse and recognized him. On the day mentioned they overpowered him and forced him to reveal certain facts connected with affairs at Green Fancy. Possibly he led them to believe that you were one of the conspirators. They waited for your arrival and then risked the hazardous trip to Green Fancy. They were discovered and shot."

"I believe you are right," she cried. "Then we have accounted for Mr. Sprouse, and I am no longer interested in the unraveling of the mystery surrounding the deaths of Roon and Paul," said Barnes. "There is nothing to keep me here any longer, Miss Cameron. I suggest that you allow me to escort you at once to your friends, wherever they—"

She was opposed to this plan. While there was still a chance that Sprouse might be apprehended in the neighborhood, or the possibility of his being caught by the relentless pursuers, she declined to leave.

"Then, I shall also stay," said he.

"I shall also stay," said he.

"I shall also stay," said he.

CHAPTER XVII.

The Second Wayfarer is Transformed.

O'Dowd returned late in the afternoon. He was in a hurry to get back to Green Fancy; there was no mistaking his uneasiness.

"For the love of heaven, Barnes, get her away from here as soon as possible, and do it as secretly as you can," he said. "I may as well tell you that she is in more danger from the government secret service than from anyone up yonder."

"She may prefer to face the music, O'Dowd. If I know her at all, she will refuse to run away."

"Then ye'll have to kidnap her," said the Irishman earnestly. "There will be men swarming here from both sides of the border by tomorrow night or next day. It's the gospel truth, and—it's going to be bad for all of us if we're here when they come."

"Who is she, O'Dowd? Man to man, tell me the truth. I want to know just where I stand."

O'Dowd hesitated, looked around the taproom, and then leaned across the table.

"Miss Cameron is in reality the Countess Theresa Mara-Dafanda—familiarily and lovingly known in her own land as the Countess Ted. She was visiting in this country when the war broke out. If it is of any use to you, I'll add that she would be rich if Aladdin could only come to life and

"Thanks," said Miss Thackeray dryly. "I'll come in again and let you hear me in the third act." She went out, mumbling her lines as she passed Barnes without seeing him.

"I hope you will feel able to leave this place tomorrow, countess. We must get away almost immediately."

"Ah, you have been listening to O'Dowd, I see."

"Yes. He tells me it will be dangerous to—"

"He is right. It would be difficult for me to clear myself. No one would believe that I did not deliberately make off with the jewels. They would say that I—oh, it is too dreadful!"

"Don't worry about that," he exclaimed. "You have me to testify that—"

"How little you know of intrigue," she cried. "They would laugh at you and say that you were merely another fool who had lost his head over a woman. They would say that I duped you—"

"No!" he cried vehemently. "Your people know better than you think. You are disheartened, discouraged. Things will look brighter tomorrow."

"I don't know what I should do without you," she said.

HORSE POWER NOT ALWAYS UTILIZED OR DISTRIBUTED TO GREATEST ADVANTAGE

The Use of Large Teams Saves Man Power.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

More efficient utilization of horse power on the average farm will assist in a large measure in saving labor. The necessary horse power is usually available for the efficient operation of the average American farm, but this power is not always utilized or distributed to greatest advantage.

The practice of plowing as much land as possible in the late fall rather than in the spring, when work is pressing, will result in labor saving, as this method utilizes both horse power and labor at a season when it would otherwise be practically idle.

In practically the entire cotton belt the one-horse breaking plow is in general use. This requires the use of one man per horse in the operation of the farm. By the use of the two-horse breaking plow the same labor could break more land and at the same time make a better seedbed.

Labor is Plentiful.

with the same labor. In the harvesting of crops horse power may be utilized more efficiently in many sections by the use of more horse power per man.

Co-operative use of machinery in harvesting the wheat and corn crop would utilize horse power and labor to advantage by the exchange of labor among small farmers.

Use of Manure Spreader.

Hauling out manure on the average farm as it is produced, instead of allowing it to accumulate around the buildings and hauling it out when convenient, would be an economical practice. Where the expenditure is justifiable the use of a manure spreader would distribute the manure to better advantage and effect considerable saving in labor over the old method of hauling out and spreading by hand.

HOW RHEUMATISM BEGINS

The excruciating agonies of rheumatism are usually the result of failure of the kidneys to expel poisons from the system. If the irritation of these uric acid crystals is allowed to continue, incurable bladder or kidney disease may result. Attend to it at once. Don't resort to temporary relief. The sick kidneys must be restored to health by the use of some sterling remedy which will prevent a return of the disease. Get some GOLD MEDAL Haarem.

Locusts Harmful to Chickens.

The department of agriculture has recently issued a warning stating that serious losses may result from chickens eating too many locusts. The wings and legs of the locusts are quite indigestible, and are likely to obstruct the outlet of the crop in such a way as to cause the chickens to become crop-bound.

Couldn't Work

S. W. Bishop Was Laid Up By Kidney Trouble. Now Owes Good Health to Doan's.

“I owe my present good health, largely to Doan's Kidney Pills,” says S. W. Bishop, 5182 Kensington Ave., St. Louis, Mo. “I wasn't able to work. Sharp pains would catch me when I stooped or tried to lift anything, and at night the kidney secretions passed frequently and were scanty and painful. Sleeps seemed to be before my eyes and I would get dizzy. There was a puffiness under my eyes. I could see myself falling from day to day and I finally was laid up from June until September. I got Doan's Kidney Pills and used them. I received relief with the first box and became stronger every day. I could sleep well at night and the kidney secretions were now of natural color. The dizziness and other troubles disappeared and I gained in weight. After I had used a cure seemed a miracle and I firmly believe that my life was saved by this remedy.”

same manner. This custom has prevailed no doubt because the labor has been plentiful. But the use of horse planters, grain drills, fertilizer distributors, and manure spreaders, where the amount of land under cultivation would justify the expenditure of labor could be effected.

In the cultivation of crops in many parts of the South the use of the one-horse plow and sweep prevails, and because of the inefficiency of these implements the crops must be hoed almost continually in order to keep the crop clean. This method could be improved upon by using the light harrow or weeder when the crop is young and later the two-horse single-row cultivator. This would result in greatly increasing the amount of work performed with the same labor, and at the same time doing the work more efficiently.

Use Two-Row Cultivator.
In many sections of the country the use of the two-row cultivator has been demonstrated as practicable, thereby utilizing more horse power and performing more work with the same labor. The use of this implement should be extended where conditions warrant. On the average corn-ment of Agriculture.)

With the biggest crop of wheat on record about to be harvested, it is probable that in many neighborhoods thrashers will not be able to make their rounds in the usual time. Considerable quantities of wheat will have to wait beyond the usual thrashing time. If left in the shock, it will be damaged by every rain, even to some extent by the dew. The stacking of wheat has fallen into disuse in latter years, but it would be well, the department of agriculture says, for the farmer who is not certain of prompt thrashing to consider it this year.

LICE POWDER IS ESSENTIAL

Sodium Fluorid is Effective in Ridding Fowls of Vermin—Where to Make Application.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The free use of an effective lice powder is always advisable. A dust bath, consisting of road dust and wood ashes, is essential in ridding fowls of lice. Sodium fluorid, a white powder which can be obtained from druggists, is also effective. Apply a pinch of the powder at the base of the feathers on the vent, base of tail, both thighs, and on the underside of each wing.

Keep Cabbage Worms Down.

It is best not to permit the cabbage worms to become very numerous. There are various ways of controlling them. Perhaps the simplest is to spray the plants, when worms are known to be present, with arsenate of lead. Dust sprays are also effective and many growers prefer them.

can be utilized in many instances. The use of four or five horses on the double gang plow would accomplish a much greater amount of work than is now performed per man on a majority of farms where the two-horse walking plow is used. In the preparation of the seedbed one man can readily handle four or six horses hitched to the section harrow to which additional sections have been added, thereby increasing the amount of land harrowed

RAISING HEALTHY CHICKENS

Lack of Vigor in Newly Hatched Chicks Often Traceable to Weak Parents—Give Best Care.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

To be successful in raising chickens it is necessary to have healthy and vigorous breeding stock, for the lack of vigor in the newly hatched chicks is often traceable to weak parents. Only the most vigorous and the best grown birds should be put in the breeding yards. Each bird should be full of life and energy and free from any serious deformity. Yearling hens are usually better than pullets for breeders, for the reason that the hens are more mature and do not lay so many eggs during the early winter, and consequently do not reduce their vitality so much before the breeding season. Vigorous hens two to four years old can often be advantageously retained in the breeding yard. The male bird chosen should be young and active. An early hatched well-developed cockerel is usually satisfactory, or a good vigorous yearling or two-year-old cock may be chosen. The hens used for breeding purposes should be given the best care possible; they should be provided with large runs, and should not be forced for heavy egg production during the early winter.

Satisfactory Pasture Plant.

Alsike clover makes a very satisfactory pasture plant; really superior to red for pasture, and is a much more certain crop. It probably improves land just as well as red clover.

Difficult to Eradicate.

Sorrel is difficult to eradicate except by cultivation of the land. It probably will show up again if the field is sown to grass or clover.

Sumac is Useful Plant.

Sumac makes a pretty and useful plant to put on a steep bank to hold the soil.

THIN NERVOUS PEOPLE

THE “BLUES” Caused by Acid-Stomach

Millions of people who worry, are despondent, have spells of mental depression, feel blue and are often melancholy, believe that these conditions are due to outside influences over which they have little or no control. Nearly always, however, they can be traced to an internal source—acid-stomach. Nor is it to be wondered at. Acid-stomach, beginning with such well defined symptoms as indigestion, belching, heartburn, bloating, etc., will if not checked in time affect to some degree or other all the vital organs. The nervous system becomes deranged. Digestion suffers. The blood is impoverished. Health and strength are undermined. The victim of acid-stomach, although he may not know the cause of his ailments, feels his hope, courage, ambition and energy slipping. And truly life is dark—not worth much to the man or woman who has acid-stomach! Get rid of it! Don't let acid-stomach hold you back, wreck your health, make your days miserable, make you a victim of the “blues” and gloomy thoughts! There is a marvelous modern remedy called EATONIC that brings on such quick relief from your stomach misery—sets your stomach to rights—makes it strong, cool, sweet and comfortable. Helps you get back your strength, vigor, and feel the same way if you will just give it a trial. Get a big 50 cent box of EATONIC—the good tasting tablets that you eat like a bit of candy—from your druggist today. He will return your money if results are not even more than you expect.

More miles per gallon.
More miles on tires.

Maxwell first caught on in those sections of America where grades are long and severe, where roads are none too good, where distances are great, and where few cars before had made good.

Today if you could visit those places, those zones—some of them hundreds and hundreds of miles in area—you would see the Maxwell the prevailing car there nation wide—even world-wide—areas, for like all things good, news travels fast.

Today there's no spot of consequence where Maxwell cannot be found in ever-increasing numbers

Because Maxwell expresses to a marked degree that one quality that everyone seeks in a motor car—everlasting reliability.

This dominating trait of the Maxwell was built to be its dominating trait.

Instead of a brand new model every year with frequent, expensive changes in design (changes costly to the purchaser) a very simple Maxwell was designed five years ago.

And since that time no radical changes have been made, no new models built, but instead a constant, almost daily improving process has gone on until today the 300,000th Maxwell tells the same story as No. 1.

It's a better car, to be sure, more refined, better looking—even more reliable, but it would not be half the car it is today if it were merely a 1919 model with but one year behind it.
