FIRE IN PINCKNEY

About midnight Monday night Mrs. Maggie Bowers was awakened suddenly to find her house was burning. The fire was so far along that hardly any furniture could be saved and the house was burned to the ground. Mrs. Bowers does not know how the fire started. The house was insured but there was no insurance on the contents.

The fire had gained such headway before the alarm was given that nothing could be done to save the Bowers property. A. H. Flintoft was the first man to arrive at the fire and worked alone for about a quarter of an hour before others began to come.

By this time the home of Mrs. Rosina Mercer had begun to burn. Mr. H. J. Norton broke down a door in her house and with some difficulty awakened Mrs. Mercer who was in a deep sleep. Some of the furniture in the Mercer house was carried out by willing helpers, but the smoke was so dense that not a great deal could be saved.

The two buildings burning together caused such intense heat that the undertaking establishment owned by Percy Swarthout was in danger of going up in smoke—in fact, the cornice of the building started to burn and the building was only saved by prompt work carrying water to quench the flames when first started. If it had been a frame building instead of brick it would have burned to the ground.

OBITUARY

C. Ellen (LaRue) Richards was born in the township of Dexter, Washtenaw Co., Mich., on June 5th, 1838, and passed to her reward October 10, 1919, making her 81 years, four months and five days old. When about three years of age she moved with her parents to the "LaRue" farm one mile south of Pinckney on the Dexter road.

On October 3, 1862, she was married to Daniel Richards, with whom she lived for over 49 years, until his death in 1911. To them was born three sons, LaVerne E., with whom she lived during the last years of her life, LaMont W., deceased, and Glendon A. of Grand Rapids, a grandson, D. Glendon of Grand Rapids and a great-granddaughter, Mary Grace Richards. Mrs. Alice Teeple of this village is a sister.

The Congregational church was her choice for worship and membership and the Order of the Eastern Star her lodge affiliation, she being the first Worthy Matron of the local chapter.

A woman of high ideals, intense in all that goes to build up character and community life, she kept fully informed on all current events. A delightful companion, optimistic, helpful, she drew many to her by the very force of her originality and personality. The impress she leaves on her relatives and friends will long survive.

Funeral services were held from her late residence Sunday p. m., October 12. Interment was in the Pinckney cemetery, Rev. Hurlburt officiating, assisted by the local chapter Order Eastern Star.

the west end of the barn the fire was averted.

There was no wind at the time of the fire. If there had been even a slight west wind nothing could have saved all the other buildings in the block among which are the building owned by Geo. Reason and stored with wagons, buggys, etc., the meat market, owned by Floyd Reason, the hotel, the E. Lynch blacksmith shop, the W. B. Darrow shop and the Kearney residence.

Mrs. Mercer was only partially insured, having a small amount of insurance on both house and contents.

CHANGE IN OWNERSHIP

Negotiations for the sale of the drug store, which have been going on for several days, are now completed and the new owner is Mr. Floyd E. Weeks of Three Rivers, Mich. The Daily Commercial of that city comments as follows:

Mr. Weeks, who is well known in the city, has taken over the Pinckney drug store at Pinckney, this state, and will take possession October first.

After completing his work in the local high school, Mr. Weeks graduated in pharmacy at the Valparaiso College of Chemistry and Pharmacy at Valparaiso, Indiana, and then entered the employ of the Upjohn Company, a manufacturing chemical concern of Kalamazoo, where he continued until he entered the army service during the late war.

He was with the medical department in the army for two years—fifteen months of this period being spent with the A. E. F. in England and France, until discharged from service when he again resumed his connection with the Upjohn concern. He is a young man of more than ordinary ability and the Daily Commercial joins his large number of friends here in wishing him success in his new venture.

Mr. Ingersoll, who has been proprietor of the drug store for about three years, retires to take another store near his old home. Mr. and Mrs. Ingersoll have made many friends while here and will leave with the good wishes of all in this community. They expect to move to Sturgis, Mich., as soon as possible.

While their many friends regret the departure of Mr. and Mrs. Ingersoll there is no question but that Mr. Weeks will be gladly welcomed in our business and social circles. This paper predicts that he will have exceptionally good success here as a business man and that he will merit high esteem as a citizen.

We wish to thank all the friends and neighbors who so kindly assisted us during the sickness of our Mother and for the many expressions of sympathy offered. In her name we thank you.

AUTO THIEVES FRUSTRATED

Last Friday night Dr. Morley Vaughn of Jackson, son of Mrs. Nettie of Pinckney was fortunate enough to be returning from a call when he discovered thieves in his garage. Surprised in the act and with the switch turned on and several robes in the back seat, the thieves pulled a revolver and shot once at Dr. Vaughn. The shot, however, did not land in his immediate vicinity, and the thieves made a hasty exit without their plunder.

A report in a Jackson paper saying the affair was an attempt on Dr. Vaughn's life by a convict who had threatened to "get him some time" is characterized by the doctor as being absolutely unfounded.

Statistics just made public by the Bureau of memorial buildings of War Camp Community service show that 254 communities in the United States have decided to erect buildings in memory of their men who served in the war. Of the memorial buildings to be raised, 152 will take the form of community-houses, each to function as a free recreation and social center. Six of the structures will be municipal office buildings. More than 700 American communities are now considering the put-

REPORT SHORTAGE OF SALMON

Catch in Alaskan Waters This Season Is Said to Be Disappointing—Canneries Closed Down.

Reports from Alaska are to the effect that the salmon catch is disappointing. Even these places on the Alaskan coast which have been most successful, comparatively speaking, have secured less than the usual pack, while some of the largest canneries have practically nothing to show as a result of the season's operations so far. While the season has not yet closed, several of the principal Alaskan canneries have ceased operations. One large canning concern with a capacity of 125,000 cases secured 3,800 and was then obliged to close down for lack of fish.

Packs are also said to be exceedingly light this year.

Naturally, this means that the canned salmon supply will be the smallest for many years.

old, got on the car. The attractive looking mother was given a seat and she took her son on her lap.
As the car went along, the boy conversed in a loud tone. He spoke of the condition of the road bed, of the length of his trousers, of how long it would be until they got there, and so on.
Finally so many men had given up their places that several of them were standing in the car aisle. The little boy seemed to think it was wrong for him to have a comfortable on his mother's lap while so many men were standing. Finally he sung out in a voice that could be heard throughout the car:

It is crusading throughout the United States for the community building type of memorial. Such an institution, the bureau head maintains, is a living influence in every community, and serves constantly as a reminder of the men the community gave to the national fighting forces.
Additional figures concerning the 254 memorial buildings already decided upon show that fourteen of them will serve as state memorials and that forty-four of them will be of the auditorium type. These will have social and recreational facilities in addition to large meeting halls, and for the most part will be in larger cities. Other memorials will take the form of hospitals, libraries, school buildings and church work centers.

Honest Advertising.

THIS is a topic we all hear now-a-days because so many people are inclined to exaggerate. Yet has any physician told you that we claimed unreasonable remedial properties for Fletcher's Castoria? Just ask them. We won't answer it ourselves, we know what the answer will be.

That it has all the virtues to-day that was claimed for it in its early days is to be found in its increased use, the recommendation by prominent physicians, and our assurance that its standard will be maintained.

Imitations are to be found in some stores and only because of the Castoria that Mr. Fletcher created. But it is not the genuine Castoria that Mr. Fletcher Honestly advertised, Honestly placed before the public and from which he Honestly expects to receive his reward.

Special Care of Baby.
That Baby should have a bed of its own all are agreed. Yet it is more reasonable for an infant to sleep with grown-ups than to use a man's medicine in an attempt to regulate the delicate organism of that same infant. Either practice is to be shunned. Neither would be tolerated by specialists in children's diseases.

Your Physician will tell you that Baby's medicine must be prepared with even greater care than Baby's food.

A Baby's stomach when in good health is too often disarranged by improper food. Could you for a moment, then, think of giving to your ailing child anything but a medicine especially prepared for Infants and Children? Don't be deceived.

Make a mental note of this:—It is important, Mothers, that you should remember that to function well, the digestive organs of your Baby must receive special care. No Baby is so abnormal that the desired results may be had from the use of medicines primarily prepared for grown-ups.

Farmers Question Value Of Oat Crop

East Lansing.—As a result of the unusually light Michigan oat crop this year, the lowest since 1907, according to U. S. Department of Agriculture estimates, many farmers are questioning the value of oats as a crop. The yield this year in Michigan is reported as 24.3 bushels per acre. During only two other years of the last fifty has the crop been reported this low in the state and the average is far above this year's yield.

"Many farmers who are keeping cost of production figures will undoubtedly figure this year's crop at a loss", says C. H. Graves, farm management specialist at the Michigan Agricultural College. "It is a mistake, however, for them to condemn oats as a crop for this reason. In making cost of production studies the farmer must either consider his entire rotation for a single year, or else any single crop in the light of yields for several years.

"Oats, when averaged over any ten year period of the last fifty years, are found to be a profitable crop in Michigan, and no farmer should condemn them on the strength of this year's showing. Farming, unlike other industries, cannot be figured on the basis of a single season. The presence of an uncontrolled factor, the weather, demands a period that will show averages."

CATARRHAL DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure catarrhal deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. Catarrhal deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a running sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition hearing will be destroyed forever. Many cases of deafness are caused by catarrh, which is an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Medicine acts thru the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system.
We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Catarrhal Deafness that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Medicine. Circulars free. All druggists, 75c.

KIDNAPPED

Several days in Livingston county deputy sheriff and A. Bunting, who were guarding the bank at Williamston last Wednesday night, were knocked unconscious, bound, gagged and kidnapped by men in an auto. The captured officers were taken to the Livermore school house between Anderson and Gregory and left there. They succeeded in freeing themselves and went to a neighboring farm house for assistance, but the owner, mistaking them for thieves ordered them away. The officers finally succeeded in convincing him who they actually were.
At one time the situation was very serious for the captured men, as one of the kidnapers, disappointed in not succeeding in breaking into the bank which the officers were guarding, suggested the two should be killed, but was restrained by his companion.

YOUNG VEAL IS GOOD FOOD

with suspicion and was not regularly salable. It was believed to be indigestible, lacking in nutrition and not generally wholesome. This seems to have been an American prejudice without any foundation, for it is a standard article of diet in Europe and no evil effects result there from eating young veal. The cases of meat poisoning resulting from eating of veal have been shown to be due to poison-producing bacteria which contaminated the meat.
Experiments conducted by the Bureau of Animal Industry, United States Department of Agriculture, show that for food purposes a pound of meat from a young calf is as good as a pound of the most mature beef. Following the conclusive experiments, the Federal meat inspection regulations were amended so as to permit passing carcasses of young calves which met with the amended requirements. There are more than 20,000,000 dairy cows in the United States and they produce fully 10,000,000 calves every year. About half these calves are heifers and the other half are bull calves. In the past the heifers have been raised by dairymen, but a large number of the 5,000,000 bull calves have been killed at birth because the milk they would consume in being brought to marketable weight as veal was worth more than they would bring on the market as veal calves. Under the present regulations it will pay the dairyman to dispose of his young, well-developed calves for

THREE AVIATORS CROSS COUNTRY

LIEUTENANT MAYNARD COMES IN FIRST WITH LIEUTENANT KIEL SECOND.

TIME LESS THAN 25 HOURS

Wrong Landing Made By Major Spatz Beats Him Out of Second Place By Three Minutes.

New York.—Lieut. B. W. Maynard, the "flying parson," Lieut. E. C. Kiel, a school teacher and Maj. Carl Spatz, a soldier, were hailed as the new air pioneers. They were the first three men to fly from coast to coast in the trans-continental air derby.

Lieut. Maynard was the first to complete the epoch-making flight. He left Roosevelt Field, Mineola, N. Y., at 9:24 a. m., (Eastern time), Oct. 8, and arrived at the Presidio San Francisco, at 1:13 p. m. (Coast time) Oct. 1. His actual flying time was 24 hours, 58 minutes 55 1/2 seconds for the 2,701 miles, and his elapsed time was 75 hours 47 minutes.

Lieut. Kiel completed the journey from San Francisco to Roosevelt Field only 20 seconds behind Spatz.

When Maj. Spatz and his passenger, Sergt. Emmett Tanner, stepped from their machine the spectators learned of a wrong landing made at Hazelhurst. Maj. Spatz had been leading Lieut. Kiel by eight minutes—and the wrong landing enabled Kiel to reach Roosevelt Field ahead of him.

While Lieut. Kiel touched the ground at Roosevelt Field 20 seconds before Maj. Carl Spatz in the dash from West to East, Maj. Spatz was credited with second honors, having left San Francisco three minutes behind Lieut. Kiel.

HOW TO AVOID BACKACHE AND NERVOUSNESS

Told by Mrs. Lynch From Own Experience.

Providence, R. I.—"I was all run down in health, was nervous, had headaches, my back ached all the time. I was tired and had no ambition for anything. In a confidential little talk to a group of medical students an eminent physician took up the extremely important matter of correct diagnosis of the maximum fee.

"The best rewards," he said, "come, of course, to the established specialist. For instance, I charge $25 for a call at the residence, $10 for an office consultation, and $5 for a telephone consultation, and $5 for a telephone consultation."

There was an appreciative and envious silence, and then a voice from the back of the amphitheater, slightly thickened, spoke:

"Doc," it asked, "how much do you charge a fellow for passing you on the street?"

Sick headache, biliousness, coated tongue, or sour, gassy stomach—always trace this to torpid liver; delayed, fermenting food in the bowels.

Poisonous matter clogged in the intestines, instead of being cast out of the system is re-absorbed into the blood. When this poison reaches the delicate brain tissues it causes congestion and that dull, throbbing, sickening headache.

Cascarets immediately cleanse the stomach, remove the sour, undigested food and foul gases, take the excess bile from the liver and carry out all the constipated waste matter and poisons in the bowels.

A Cascaret tonight will surely straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep.—Adv.

Is the Second of Great Powers to Declare Peace.

Paris.—The French senate on October 11 ratified the peace treaty and also the Franco-American and Franco-British defense treaties.

The vote on the peace treaty with Germany was 217 for ratification, none against and one abstention—that of Senator Delahaye. The vote for the adoption of the ratification of the two defense treaties was unanimous, all of the 218 votes cast in its favor.

Only the formal act of the French executive is now required to bring into effect the second ratification of the three required ratifications by principal Allied and Associated powers, Great Britain having already completed its ratification.

gers were thrown into panic when the Colonial line steamer Lexington, bound for Providence, was rammed by the submarine O-7 in the turbulent waters of Hell Gate. One seaman was injured inside the submarine. A damaged steering apparatus on the submarine, which suddenly became unmanageable while half-submerged, is blamed for the collision.

Nation to Sleep An Hour Later.

Washington.—The nation will get up one hour later on October 26. At 2 o'clock on the morning of October 26, the last Sunday in October, the hands of the clocks of the United States will be set back one hour, marking the finale of the day-light saving law. The law will die by act of congress at the overwhelming demand of farmer and miner interests and with protests from cities and industrial centers.

004 vessels, amounted to 6,455,298. During the present year 891 vessels of 4,798,537 deadweight tonnage were delivered.

Army Nine-Tenths Demobilized.

Washington.—The United States army has been demobilized 90 per cent since the armistice, the war department announced. The decrease in numbers totals 3,292,385. The present strength of the army today was announced by the department as 378,503 officers and men. Of these, 23,068 are in Europe, 8,477 in Siberia and the remainder in the United States and scattered.

Wireless Restrictions Raised.

Washington.—Wartime restrictions governing the operation of radio stations and radio equipment by amateurs have been removed. The removal applies to technical and experimental stations at schools and colleges, and to all other stations except those transmitting or receiving commercial traffic. The restrictions forbidding commercial traffic stations to operate will remain in effect until the President proclaims peace.

Old Films Must Be Advertised As Such

Washington.—Extending its order forbidding the reproduction of old films by motion picture houses under new names, the Federal Trade Commission ordered parts of old films shown in new exhibitions, so marked and advertised. The case of one picture is cited where out a total of 5,000 feet of film, 2,300 feet had been used in another picture shown a few years before. The order was issued against three moving picture corporations.

It seemed to him that suddenly it had grown cold there in De la Guerra's bedroom.

He shivered, and, taking up his candle, went his way back through the drawing room, with no word to Torre, with no glance even, for he feared that now he could not let his eyes go to the handsome, evil face and keep his hand back, and at last to Pedro's bedside.

Pedro, waiting for him impatiently, tried to lift himself upon an elbow, and falling in that turned his bright black eyes upon the American.

"What did she say, Josefa?" he asked quickly. "It is the master's key?"

"Yes, Pedro," answered Stanway dispiritedly. "But what is the use? She does not know what door it opens."

"But I know!" said Pedro brightly. "You know!" Stanway laid his hand on the wounded man's arm. "Tell me, quick!"

"When the master was young he lived in Spain, where the old master, his father, sent him to go to school. In the home there, builded of stones like an old castle, senior, was a room where many times he was locked up by the master."

Stanway broke off, his eyes ran from Pedro's face to sweep the room, a sudden light came into them, and the blood ran into his face.

"My God," he cried, "I see it!"

"You are wiser than I, senior," Pedro smiled contentedly and closed his eyes, looking very pale and weak.

"You will let me have news when there is anything, senior? I could get well quickly with good news."

Stanway promised, took Pedro's hand quickly, turned and hurried out of the room. His step was quick, his eyes very bright.

"I understand now Torre's signal on the window," he muttered as he went. "And—by heaven, how blind I was! I know what he meant when he said he was taunting a man whom he did not like! It's the boldest game a man ever played!"

CHAPTER XI.

"You Have Overplayed Your Hand."

"I am afraid that I have been indiscreet, Senior Stanway," Torre, with his old smile charged now with something of mockery and much of triumph, held out a little piece of white paper to Stanway, who, key in hand, had just come from Pedro on his way to the master's room. "But I think that I can plead an altogether unusual po-from beyond the closed door, "I want you to come to the master's room. Bring some men with you—six, ten—I don't know how many we shall need. Let two of them bring axes. Let all carry side arms. Bring the picked men, Gaucho; the hardest men on the rancho. I think that there is going to be fighting this time."

"The master?" cried Gaucho. "The senorita? You know—"

"I know nothing. But I think—that they have never for a second left the house! Hurry, Gaucho!"

And Gaucho hurried, his own face as mystified as Torre's. Stanway went quickly to the bedroom.

"Somewhere in these great thick walls there is a passageway," he whispered to himself. "It runs from this room throughout the house and to the east wing where Teresa's rooms are."

"Somewhere, down below perhaps, there is a room, a dungeon. I think that it is just under the drawing room; I think that that is where De la Guerra is; that many of the things which Torre said were meant to be heard by the old man that they might taunt and mock him; I think that Torre's men down there heard the crashing glass, the words which went with it. I think that we are going to find De la Guerra and Teresa there."

He studied the walls.

There was nothing to hint at a secret door.

He moved out the bed, found the spot which Teresa's note told of, set his thumb to it, and saw a panel drop down, shelfwise, showing a great iron safe set in the wall. The safe was locked, the key missing. But he knew that he had found De la Guerra's bank. He closed the panel swiftly as Gaucho and his men came to the door.

"Que es, senior?" Gaucho asked quickly. And the black eyes of the dark-faced man thronging behind him—eager, expectant—told as well as words that Gaucho had whispered to his men that the American had a plan, that hope lay behind it.

"Come in, Gaucho. Shut the door. How many men?"

They entered as he spoke. He counted as the last man closed the door behind him.

"Ten, senior. Five more are coming."

room, began a silent search for some sign of a passageway in the thick walls.

And now at last fate and the quick eyes of a vaquero aided him. There was a little scratch on the redwood of the wall just opposite the door through which they had entered, a fresh white scratch. It was Mendoz, a young Mexican, who saw it; it was Mendoz who found a mark of a greasy thumb upon the same panel, some four feet from the floor.

"Aqui, esta!" he muttered. "Senior, look!"

Stanway's heart beat wildly when he saw what Mendoz had found.

"The door of the passageway!" he whispered. "Sh! Be still! Even take off your boots, companeros. We are going to give them no warning. But first, Mendoz, bring Dempton here, quick! I think he is going to talk now."

Mendez hurried, and presently came back, he and the immense Vidal, walking at Dempton's right and left.

"Dempton," whispered Stanway, meeting him, "make no sound. If he cries out—to Vidal and Mendoz—if he makes a sound choke the life out of him. Do you understand, Dempton?"

Stanley's Subterfuge.

Possessing an ample purse of his own, also a Puritan conscience, Stanley's mother discourages the acceptance by him of gratuities from adult friends. How he evaded the spirit if not the letter of the law is told by William H. Dimock.

"Sure, I knew the kid's ma doesn't like folks to slip money to him, but I also know—thanks to a good memory—the sweet sense of peace and prosperity a nickel yields to a boy," he says.

"I almost stepped on the youngster while steering for a 10 a. m. breakfast and shot him to the little place on the corner for the latest peace congress headlines. When he returned with the paper I noticed his little hand looked awfully empty; also it had not been withdrawn. So I slipped a coin into it."

"Stanley's mother later reminded

Chauncey M. Depew is a great admirer of King Lardner and delights to relate an anecdote concerning the well-known sport writer and humorist. It was at a club in Philadelphia and a certain gentleman whom the crowd were trying to entice into spending the evening there declared he could not remain because he had promised his wife he would come home.

"I'll fix it for you," said Lardner, and darted into the phone booth. Presently he emerged shouting:

"It's all right, old chap, your wife says you can stay!"

"How in the world did you manage to bring her around?" asked the amazed man.

"Easy," replied Lardner. "I told her

It to the padre from La Panza. When he came away he brought the key to that prison room with him. That is the key you have, senior!"

Stanway looked at the man with swift suspicion. Pedro seemed excited over the key; a look of great shrewdness was in his eyes, and the key unlocked a door in Spain! If he was becoming delirious—

"I am not in a fever, senior," said Pedro quickly, seeing the thought in the American's eyes. "But that key tells me something. Every night before going to my bed I go to the master's room to see if he wishes anything, to take any commands for the next day. I went last night after it was late, just before I went to the senorita's door. It was habit, senior. I could not have gone to sleep unless I went there."

"Well?" sharply.

"I heard a little sound. It was the scratching of a window shade. I went, closed the window, and locked it tightly. And while looking for the sound I saw the key in its place. It was there at eleven o'clock last night, senior."

what it was, and read it swiftly:

Mi Querido Senior Billy:
To save papa grande, to save me from all that is horrible, there is no way but to do what Torre asks. In grandfather's room, behind the great mahogany bed, there is a painting on the wall.

There is a spot in the woodwork, three feet from the floor, ten from the northwest corner, where you must press with your finger. It will disclose the banco. Give him the money—for the sake of Your Teresa.

"You will pardon my having read it?" again smilingly from Torre.

"Where did you get this thing?" cried Stanway.

Torre pointed to the window, whose panes he had broken just before three o'clock.

"There. On the floor. Some one threw it in on the floor while you were running so giddily across the border. You see this is very well planned, senior. Is it not? Even my lieutenants—"

"If I do not do as she asks?" cut in Stanway, his low-lidded eyes sharp upon Torre's.

Torre shrugged.

"Who knows? Perhaps they will take the trouble to find a priest to give every man to the uttermost, Gaucho?"

"To the uttermost, senior," as sternly. "To the death in the service of the master and"—his voice breaking a little—"the senorita."

"And the other five?"

"The same."

"Good! This is my plan. Come close, all of you."

He addressed them in Spanish, speaking swiftly, his voice lowered so that the men must crane their necks and lean forward to hear. He told them of his hope that those they sought had never been taken out of the hacienda.

"Now," he ended, "there is no doubt a passageway running from here to the senorita's rooms. If we find this end of it and attack they may escape at the other end. So we must be ready."

"Gaucho, send two men into the senorita's rooms. Let them be ready, armed and watchful. Send two more to the stairway. Let Torre and Juarez be bound and watched over by one man only, a man whom you can trust and who will blow their brains out before he lets them escape."

"Let every other man in the house be armed and ready. Then—"

"Then"—with quiet determination—"we shall find where the passage is if we have to tear down the walls. Hurry, Gaucho!"

Gaucho ran upon his errand, calling by name the men he wished to go with him. Stanway, bidding those with him to be very silent, not knowing what means the men he sought might have of overhearing what happened in the

To Temper China.

Many a lover of fine china is heart-broken to discover her choice dinner or tea set lined with hair-like cracks. Hot tea or chocolate poured into dainty cups cracks them instantly.

A Chinese merchant gave this bit of information when a rare tea set was purchased from him: "Before using delicate China place it in a pan of cold water. Let it come gradually to a boil and allow the china to remain in the water till cold." This tempers the china and it is capable of withstanding the sudden expansion caused by the heat. There is no need of repeating the treatment for a long time.

External Substitute.

Here is a famous Chinese humorous story. A traveler stopped at a house and asked for a cup of tea. Having none on hand, the host sent his son out to procure some. Meanwhile the hostess put a pot of water on the fire to boil. The son did not return and at eleven o'clock?"

"Very certain, senior."

"Then—But it is impossible, Pedro! You say that you locked the windows? Ah of them?"

"All, senior."

"And the door as you came out?"

"I locked, senior. The key was under my bed. I gave it to you just now. And there is only one key upon the rancho—only one in the world which will unlock it!"

"But then it is impossible!"

Stanway, restless, upon his feet, strode back and forth, frowning. If the key had been there last night, if door and windows had been locked, if they had been locked when he went to the room—then how could one of the men who attacked Pedro have had it in his hand at three o'clock in the morning?

"You mean," he said slowly, coming back to the bedside, "that the attack upon you and Celestino was made by men who are among the house servants or the De la Guerra vaqueros?"

"No, senior." There was no hesitation—the voice was confident. "The men wore handkerchiefs about their faces, but I know that they were not of our men. They were strangers to me."

"But," cried Stanway, "how could such a thing be? How could they have gotten into the master's room? Then how could they have gotten to the senorita's room without some one of our men seeing them? And why should they have brought the key?"

"The key is heavy, good to strike a hard blow," replied Pedro. "If a man had lost his knife and needed a weapon he might take it. No, senior."

"But how—"

In sudden fuge Stanway, his nerves jangling, his rage reddening his face, leaped at the man, and as he leaped struck, struck hard—his hand, clenched fist smashing into the evil smile, cutting the lips so that the blood ran from them, sending Torre reeling backward across the room.

"Shut up!" he cried hoarsely. "You mention the senorita once more and—"

His teeth closed with a little ominous click. Torre, wiping the blood from his lips, glared at him with a boundless, almost speechless, rage.

"Coward!" he sneered. "Since I am a prisoner, with a half dozen men ready to spring upon me, you attack me—"

"Gaucho!" called Stanway.

"Si, senior!" Gaucho's brown face brightening, his eyes looking happier than they had looked for two days.

"Do not interfere. Do not let your men take hand, no matter what happens." Then he swung about upon Torre. "Do you want to finish it now?" he said curtly.

But Torre was once more himself, smiling, at ease, only a fierce hatred in his eyes.

"Gracias, senior!" he returned. "I shall merely make you pay for that blow in my own way. And now I ask another ten thousand dollars as ransom for the old man and the girl. Ten thousand dollars for a blow, senior! Do you care to strike again?"

Stanway shrugged.

"You have overplayed your hand, Torre," he said quietly. "This note from the senorita makes me sure of what I was beginning to suspect. Gaucho, come with me."

With no further word, leaving Torre's mystified face looking after him, he went out, Gaucho at his heels.

"Gaucho," he said, speaking swiftly

"I drove the queerest lot you ever saw. They chattered like monkeys. They wouldn't keep still. They jumped the fences, tore about the fields, and came back with their hats covered with bugs. I asked their keeper what ailed them; he said they were naturals, and judgin' from the way they acted, I should say they was 'Youths' Companion.

Aboriginal Superstition.

The Australian blacks weave the bushy tails of their "dingo" dogs into their beads to make them longer. Indians of the Puget Sound region make blankets of dogs' hair. Natives of Borneo believe that black dogs are the chosen familiars of sorcerers, and he who laughs when a dog crosses the path will be turned to stone.

Plumbago Mines in Ceylon.

Ceylon's most important mineral product, plumbago, is known all over the world for its luster, lubricating, polishing and binding qualities. In appearance it is a strong black crystalline. There are now about 1,000 plumbago mines in Ceylon.

San Francisco hotels now employ Chinese bellhops.

When the bewildered driver could stand it no longer he elicited from Felton information that led him to

Why Not Drive

Foley's Kidney Pills

DO you realize that the kidneys never have a moment's rest? They work all the time, day and night, year in and year out, filtering poisonous waste products from the blood. Is it any wonder the kidneys get out of order, weak, or too tired to keep the blood stream clear of impurities?

When the kidneys falter, trouble begins. The waste matter accumulates in different parts of the system, and backache, swollen joints, aching muscles, pains inside, biliousness, blurred vision, puffy pouches under eyes, or rheumatic pains result.

Foley Kidney Pills

Help weak, tired, disordered kidneys to do their work. They strengthen and heal the kidneys, soothe and regulate the bladder and have a splendid tonic action on the liver.

Mr. Louis Flint, 152 S. Jefferson, Ave. Barrie Creek, Mich., writes: "For years I suffered intense pain. The doctors told me it was my kidneys and gave me medicine which did me little good. A friend induced me to give Foley Kidney Pills a trial. In a few weeks I was feeling much better, inside of a year I found out I had a permanent cure. I am now 76 years old, a veteran of the Civil War, on my feet ten hours a day, six days a week.

You can help your kidneys keep your system clear of poisons by taking Foley Kidney Pills.
