The Community Entertainment

The entertainment given at the opera house last Thursday evening by the Federated Sunday School was a decided success and reflects great credit to those who took an active part on the program and to those who made the arrangements under the management of Superintendent E. G. Lambertson.

After the losers in the membership contest had fed the winners the Sunday School orchestra, composed of Claude Isham, Walter Snyder, Mrs. R. K. Elliot, Mrs. E. G. Lambertson and Miss Madeline Bowman, started the program with the overture. This was the first appearance and they were heartily applauded.

Good, old-fashioned—but never out of date—songs and medleys by a double quartet composed of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Kice, Mr. and Mrs. Fick, Mrs. E. E. Baughn, Miss Blanche Martin, Messrs. H. H. and Percy Swarthout, pleased everyone. Notice the names of the quartet.

The piano duet by Mrs. E. G. Lambertson and Miss Cordelia Dinkel was so well executed that the audience was disappointed at not succeeding in getting a response to the encore tendered the players.

The solo by Mrs. Baughn, with violin obligato by Miss Bowman and piano accompaniment by Miss Martin, was fully up to what was expected from a rare, big, contralto voice of congenial timbre, so artistically controlled by the singer as to strike a responsive chord on the heartstrings of the listeners.

The solo by Miss Rogers and the duet by Mrs. L. C. Rogers and Miss Rogers deserve special mention, it being the first public appearance of these singers in Pinckney. Miss Rogers' voice is a high contralto or a mezzo soprano. It has a sympathetic quality that is unusual in a female.

Herstod distinctly in the rear of the audience room. The fine blending of her voice with that of her mother, and the delicate shading of long sustained notes by Mrs. Rogers were the features of the duet. The Pinckney musical circle has indeed gained by including these ladies.

Rev. O. W. Behrens' address was somewhat disappointing as he did not touch upon the war, in which, it is stated, he took an active part.

The stage surroundings were beautifully decorated with autumn foliage and the committee showed enterprise by procuring a good piano, discarding the instrument at hand—thus encouraging the program personnel to its best efforts and furnishing harmony to the audience instead of the discords usually inflicted upon the diminishing patronage.

The musical numbers showed that Pinckney can produce a fine program without calling on outside help. It is hoped the management of the entertainment is so encouraged by the success that other entertainments will be given soon and often. With the Federated movement already well assured of success and the Sphynx Club actively started a social rejuvenation will be looked for in the community.

OBITUARY

T. Percival McClear was born in Gregory Oct. 14, 1884. After finishing in the Gregory school he spent two years at the Ferris Institute, graduating from there in 1907. He then studied civil engineering, graduating from the University of Michigan in 1912.

He was a victim of the Great White Plague for a long time before Death released him from earthly suffering Oct. 27, 1919 at the age of 35 years and thirteen days.

The funeral was from St. Marys church Thursday, Oct. 30, Rev. J. A. Crowe officiating.

Besides his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. T. P. McClear, two sisters and three brothers survive: Anna, Elaine and Bart of Detroit and Loy and Mark of Anderson.

William Amos Clinton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Clinton died Sunday afternoon, November 2.

He was born Sept. 18, 1888, and always lived near Pinckney except a short time when learning to be a watchmaker, and was one of the best known and most highly respected young men of the community. He was with the firm Murphy & Jackson several years and the township had honored him with the office of Township Clerk.

He had been sick a long time and confined to his bed since

The funeral was from St. Marys church Wednesday, Nov. 5 with a Solemn High Mass. Father Crowe was celebrant of the mass, Fathers Coyle and Griffin were deacon and sub-deacon respectively. Father Griffin delivered the funeral sermon.

With the death of Amos Clinton and his cousin, Percy McClear the community has lost two most promising young men.

Mrs. Victoria Watkins died at the home of her brother, John Docking at Anderson and was buried at the Sprout cemetery, Oct. 31, 1919.

She was born in England on the day of Queen Victoria's coronation and was named Victoria in honor of the event.

She had lived at the home of her brother for about a year and died at the age of 82.

A TRIBUTE

Ferris Institute he won a place in the hearts of his teachers and fellow students by his fairness and ability as a student. In the Engineering Department of the U. of M. he gained high honors because of his honesty, truthfulness and zeal to become a great construction engineer. His dreams were partially realized when, after graduation, he went to Toledo in the employ of the New York Central Railroad and was assistant engineer in the construction of the great New York Central subway, a work that will always remain as a monument to his ability and worth. He was broad in his views, just in his judgements and charitable and kind in all his meetings and dealing. If life may be measured by deeds rather than years, then, indeed, his has been a fruitful one. His memory will always remain an inspiration.

SPECIAL ELECTION IN UNADILLA TOWNSHIP

The petition calling for a special election to vote upon the centralized school question being signed by over 75 per cent of the qualified electors, the Township Board of Unadilla has set Monday the 17th of November as the day for holding the election.

In order that the voters may be more fully informed, we have secured Mr. J. R. McKenna, President of the State Normal College at Ypsilanti, to speak on this subject at the Maccabee Hall at Gregory, Monday evening November 10.

Let us get together on this date and hear Pres. McKenna in order that we may vote intelligently on November 17. All who desire to speak shall be given an opportunity to do so during the evening.

THE SPHYNX CLUB

The preliminary steps for the organization of a young men's social club have been taken and the following officers elected:

President.....I. W. McHenry
Vice-Pres. and Treas. E. L. McHenry
Secretary.....A. W. Vince

The floor under the Masonic Hall has been rented and decorating is now under way. A player piano has been bought and is now in the club room.

This is a purely social club and the main object is to provide a place of entertainment for desirable young men. The founders evidently believe there is considerable latitude in the word "young", as they state that young men from the ages of 17 to 100 years may become members when acceptable.

Strict rules as to conduct of members while enjoying the benefits of the club are to be rigidly enforced. Liquor, gambling, profanity and all vulgarity are strictly tabooed.

There has been a long-felt need in the community for a club where young men might meet during leisure hours, where wholesome entertainment is waiting and ready for those who appreciate a good time in a rational way and if the rules are enforced there is apparently no reason why the Sphynx Club may not only be a benefit to its members but a power in the community.

The McHenry brothers, president and vice-president, have been connected with the Pleasant Lake club were factors in making a strong and influential club. It would seem that they are particularly well adapted to be at the helm of affairs in the Pinckney club to guide it in its business career.

DISSOLUTION OF PARTNERSHIP

Owing to the sickness of L. E. Richards of this firm the partnership will be dissolved. Allowing accounts to the firm or to L. E. Richards please call and settle same at once.

THE COW PUNCHER

Here's an up-to-date story of the ranch country, the city and "over there." It's a love story—the story of the master passion that drives a man onward to success for the sake of the woman he loves. The hero is a maverick of the foothills. The heroine is a city girl born to the conventions.

As the boy was practicing shooting with his cayuse on the dead run along came the first automobile he had ever seen. It obligingly tipped over right behind the ranch house and broke the owner's leg. So there was time for Dave and Irene to get acquainted—which was to fall in love.

They parted with a kiss—she to go back to her city life, he to win his way up to her.

CHAPTER I.

The shadows of the spruce trees fell northward, pointing long, cool fingers across belts of undulating prairie or leaning lazily against the brown foothills. And among the trees it was cool and green, and clear blue water rippled over beds of shining gravel.

The house was of round, straight logs; the shingles of the squat roof were cupped and blistered with the be responsible for one. . . . Well, it's comin' to a finish—a lame finish, you know that. You know— But he had reloaded his revolver and set up two more bottles. This time he broke four and was better pleased with himself. As he rode back his soliloquy was broken by a strange sound from beyond the belt of trees. The horse pricked up his ears and the boy turned in the saddle to listen. "Jumpin' crickets! What's loose?" he ejaculated. He knew every sound of the foothill country, but this was strange to him. A kind of snort, a sort of hiss, mechanical in its regularity, startling in its strangeness, it came across the valley with the unbroken rhythm of a watch tick.

"Well, I guess it won't eat us," he ventured at last. "We'll just run it down and perhaps poke a hole in it." So saying, he centered along the road, crossed the little stream, and swung up the hill on the farther side.

He was half way up when a turn in the road brought him into sudden sight of the strange visitor. It was the first he had seen, but he knew it at once, for the fame of the automobile, then in its single-cylinder stage, had already spread into the farthest ranching country. The horse was less well informed. He bucked and kicked in rage and terror. But the boy was conscious not so much of the horse as of two bright eyes turned on him in frank and surprised admiration.

"What horsemanship!" she exclaimed. But the words had scarce left her lips when they were followed by a cry of alarm. For the car had "Very good, my boy," said the man. "That was a wonderful lift. The leg is broken—compound. Can you get some way of moving me to shelter? I will pay you well."

The last words were unfortunate. Hospitality in the ranching country is not bought and sold.

"You can't pay me nothin'," he said rudely. "But I can bring a light wagon, if you can ride in that, and put you up at the ranch. The old man's soused," he added, as an afterthought, "but it's better than sleepin' out. I won't be long."

He was back at his horse, and in a moment they heard the clatter of hoofs galloping down the hillside.

The girl rested her father's head in her lap. Tears made her bright eyes brighter still.

"Don't cry, Reenie," he said gently. "We are very lucky to be so close to help. Of course I'll be laid up for a while, but it will give you a chance to see ranch life as it really is." He winced with pain but continued: "I fancy we shall find it plain and unveneered. What a horseman! If I could run an automobile like he does a horse we should not be here." "He's strong," she said. "But he's ruda."

"The best fields for muscle are often poor schools for manners," he answered.

The boy was soon back with a wagon and a stretcher. He avoided the eyes of his guests, but quickly and gently enough he placed the injured man on the stretcher. "I guess you'll have to take the feet," he said.

into anything' in sight. And I hope your father's leg won't hurt very much."

"Oh, I'll stand it," said Doctor Hardy, with some cheerfulness. "We medical men become accustomed to suffering—in other people. You are very kind. My daughter may remain in this room, I suppose? There is no one else?"

"No one but the old man," he answered. "He's asleep in the next room, safe till mornin'. I'll be back by that time. That's my bed," indicating a corner. "Make yourselves at home." He lounged through the door, and they heard his spurs clanking across the hard earth.

The girl's first thought was for her father. She removed his boot and stocking, and, under his direction, all the leg of his trousers above the injury. It was bleeding a little. In the large room of the house she found a pail of water, and she bathed the wound, wiping it with her handkerchief and mingling a tear or two with the warm blood that dripped from it.

"You're good stuff," her father said, pressing the fingers of her unoccupied hand. "Now if you could find a clean cloth to bandage it—"

"Is that you, Dave?"
"Yes, Reenie, and the doctor, too."

QUEER CAUSES OF SNEEZING

Hard to Explain Why Simple Things Have Such a Peculiar Effect on Some Persons.

Some people sneeze for curious reasons. There is a clergyman who can never cross the road on a very hot day without carrying an umbrella. If he does, he is immediately taken with a violent fit of sneezing. Another man is similarly affected by exposure to bright gas-light.

Clergymen seem to be particularly sensitive in this direction. Another wearer of the cloth used to sneeze whenever he came near to a dead hare.

Peculiar odors have been known to cause sneezing. A druggist's wife always sneezed when ipecacuanha was being used in the shop, and another person always found sneezing necessary whenever he entered a room where there were violets. And there is an account of a well-known physician who was fond of chocolates, but could never eat one without suffering spasms of sneezing.

Perhaps the most remarkable case is that of a man who, whenever he sees a picture of a hayfield, immediately proceeds to sneeze his head nearly off.—London Tit-Bits.

Beautiful Marine Organisms.

A beautiful marine organism which floats in tropical seas is not a single creature, but a colony of many individuals, connected with each other like Siamese twins, and of several different kinds. The largest and most brilliantly colored is inflated with gas and floats on the water surface. All the other members of the colony hang from its under side. Some are small and trumpet-shaped and do the feeding for the entire community. Others are fingerlike and are "feelers." Still others resemble bunches of grapes. These long structures are used as "drag anchors." They are also armed with "sting coils" to slay young fishes, which they afterward draw up to the hungry mouths above.

Beverage of Pine Balsam.

The threatened emptiness of "the cup that cheers, but not inebriates," reminds a correspondent that Cowper was less original than many readers suppose in framing that line.

Long before his time, Bishop Berkeley applied the same encomium to a drink made of pine balsam, in these terms: "The luminous spirit lodged and detained in the native balsam of pines and fir is of a nature so mild and benign, and proportioned to the human constitution as to warm without heating, to cheer but not inebriate, and to produce a calm and steady joy like the effect of good news, without that sinking of spirits which is a subsequent effect on all fermented cordials."

Biddy's Reasoning.

Mistress—I'm afraid my poor, darling, little Topsy will never recover. Do you know, Bridget, I think the kindest thing would be to have her chloroformed and put out of her misery.

Bridget—I wouldn't do that, mum. Sure, she might get better, after all, an' then ye'd be sorry ye had her killed.—Boston Evening Transcript.

Durable Male Beauty.

One reason why a man doesn't look into a mirror as often as a woman does is because he has more confidence in the durability of his beauty.—Galveston News.

A STRANGE STORY

Told by a Well Known Detroit Man

Detroit, Mich.—"When I was about twenty-three years of age I suffered from general break-down in health. Due to worry and overwork, I was also troubled with catarrh of long standing. To make matters still worse, my lungs became affected and a persistent cough sapped what little vitality I had left. My appetite became erratic, indigestion resulted and constipation followed."

"All my savings, about $800.00, went dribbling, dribbling, in payment for drugs and medical attendance. I consulted some of the leading physicians in St. Louis, and I have every reason to believe they tried to help me, but lacked the skill."

"After seven months of suffering when I had given up all hope of ever being well again, my wife asked me if I would try one more combination of remedies, if only to please her. Of course I complied with her wish, at the same time telling her not to expect too much from them. She had me use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets and Dr. Bag's Catarrh Remedy, according to directions, and in spite of my own doubts and misgivings, I gradually began to feel better. Hope revived—I took a new interest in life. In less than three months these remedies had effected a cure and I have never been troubled with catarrh since."

"Whenever I don't feel just right I take a few days' treatment of the 'Golden Medical Discovery.' If my bowels need regulating I take the 'Pleasant Pellets.' The result is always the same—almost immediate relief. Can any sane person blame me for having faith in these remedies? And is it not just natural that I should recommend them to my friends? For thirty years have I used Dr. Pierce's remedies and they have never failed me yet. At the age of fifty-three I have the strength, the agility and the general physical efficiency of a man of thirty-five. If I am enthusiastic in the praise of these remedies it is due to the fact that there is a reason. Write to HARRY VANDERBURG, 813 Euclid Ave.

HEALS RUNNING SORES

"I feel it my duty to write you a letter of thanks for your wonderful Peterson's Ointment. I had a running sore on my left leg for one year. I began to use Peterson's Ointment three weeks ago and now it is healed."—A. C. Gilbrath, 708 West St., Erie, Pa.

FRECKLES

He Knew. The new principal tried very hard to make herself popular with the children, large and small alike. And she thought the best way to do so was to know each, or at least to seem to do so. But one little third-grader found her out and upon her next visit to his room raised his hand. "Miss Principal, I know why you call all the little children 'honey' and 'dear' all the time," he said. "It's 'cause you can't remember their names and you don't want them to find you out."

ing hoops, boxes, harness, tangled bits of wire. Once there had been a fence, a sort of picket fence of little sapplings, but wild broncos had kicked it to pieces and range steers had straggled unscarred across its scattered remnants.

Forward, and to the left, was a small corral, mill slabs on end or fences of lodgepole pine; a corner somewhat covered in, offering vague protection from the weather. The upper poles were worn thin with the cribbing of many horses.

The desertion seemed absolute; the silence was the silence of the unspoken places. But suddenly it was broken by a stamping in the covered part of the corral, and a man's voice saying:

"Hip, there! Whoa, you cayuse! Get under your saddle! Sleepin' against a post all day, you Sloppy-eye. Hip! Come to it!"

Horse and rider dashed into the sunlight. The boy—for he was no more than a boy—sat the beast as though born to it, his lithe frame taking every motion of his mount as softly as a good boat rides the sea. With a yell at his horse he snatched the hat from his head, turning to the of dark hair, and slapped the horse across the flank with his crumpled headgear. The animal sprang into the air, then dashed at a gallop down the roadway, bearing the boy as unconcerned as a flower on its stem.

Suddenly he brought his horse to a stop, swung about, and rode back at a gentle canter. A few yards from the house he again spurred him to a gallop, and, leaning far down by the animal's side deftly picked a bottle from among the grass. Then he circled about, repeating this operation as often as his eye fell on a bottle, until he had half a dozen; then down the road again, carefully setting a bottle on each post of the fence that skirted it to the right.

Again he came back to the house, but when he turned his eye was on the row of posts and his right hand lay on the grip of his revolver. Again his sharp yell broke the silence and the horse dashed forward as though shot from a gun. Down the road they went until within a rod of the first bottle; then there was a flash in the sunlight and to the clatter of the horse's hoofs came the crack-crack of the revolver. Two bottles shivered to fragments, but four remained intact, and the boy rode back, muttering and disappointed. He reasoned with his horse as he rode:

"Tain't no use, you ol' Sloppy-eye; a fellow can't get the bead if he ain't got the fillin'—cooked meals an' decent chuck. I could plug 'em six out o' six—you know that, you ol' Sloppy-eye. Don't you argue about it, neither. When I'm right inside my belt I smash 'em six out o' six, but I ain't right, an' you know it. You don't know nothin' about it. You never had a father; leastways you never had to at half side, half plowed its way into a semi-vertical position among the young trees. The two occupants were thrown from their seat; the girl fell clear but her father was less fortunate.

In an instant the boy had flung himself from his horse, dropping the reins to the ground, and the animal, although snorting and shivering, had no thought of disgracing his training by breaking his parole. With quick, ungainly strides the boy brought himself to the upturned machine. It was curious that he should appear to such disadvantage on his feet. In the saddle he was grace personified.

For a moment he looked somewhat stupidly upon the wreck. Had it been a horse or a steer he would have known the procedure, but this experience was new to his life. Besides there were strangers here. He had no fear of strangers when they wore chaps and colored handkerchiefs, but a girl in a brown sweater and an oldish man with a white collar were creatures to be approached with caution. The oldish man was lying on the ground, with a leg pinned under the car, and Brown Sweater raised his head against her knee and pressed and looked at the boy with bright gray eyes and said:

"Aren't you going to do anything?" That brought him back. "Sure," he said, springing to her side. "Whada ye want me to do?"

"I am afraid my leg is broken," said the man, speaking calmly notwithstanding his pain. "Can you get the jack out of the toolbox and raise the car?"

The girl pointed to the box, and in a moment he had the jack in his hand. But it was a new tool to him and he fumbled with it stupidly. The handle would not fit, and when it did fit it operated the wrong way.

"Oh, let me have it," she cried impatiently.

In a moment she had it set under the frame of the car and was plying the handle up and down with rapid strokes. The boy looked on, helpless and mortified. He was beginning to realize that there were more things in the world than riding a horse and shooting bottles. He felt a sudden desire to be of great service. And just now he could be of no service whatever.

But the foot of the jack began to sink in the soft earth, and the girl looked up helplessly.

"It won't lift it," she said. "What shall we do?"

It was his chance. He was eighteen, and his wild, open life had given him muscles of steel. "Here," he said roughly, "move his leg when I get it clear." He turned his back to the machine and crouched down until he could get his hands under the steel frame. Then he lifted. The car was in a somewhat poised position, and he was able to swing it up far enough to release the injured leg.

"im." But the injured man interrupted. "I beg your pardon," he said, "that I did not introduce my daughter. I am Doctor Hardy; this is my daughter Irene, Mr.—?"

"They don't call me mister," said the boy. "Misters is scarce in these woods. My name is Elden—Dave Elden."

The girl came up with extended hand. He took it shyly, but it made him curiously bold.

"I'm glad to meet you, Mr. Elden," she said.

"I'm glad to meet you, too," he answered. "Misses is scarcer than misters in this neck o' the woods."

Carefully they lifted the injured man into the wagon, and Dave drove to the ranch building with an unwonted caution that must have caused strange misgivings in the hearts of his team.

"It ain't much of a place," he said, as they pulled up at the door. "I guess you can see that for yourself," he added, with a grin. "You see there's just dad and me, and he's soused most of the time, and I handle a lasso better'n a scrubbin' brush." He was already losing his shyness. "Now you take the feet again. Steady! Look out for that barrel hoop. This way now."

He led into the old ranch house, kicking the door wider open with his heel as he passed. A partition from east to west divided the house, and another partition from north to south divided the northern half. In the northeast room they set the stretcher on the floor.

"Now," said the boy, "I'm goin' for the doctor. It's forty miles to town, and it'll likely be mornin' before I'm back, but I'll sure burn the trail. There's grub in the house, and you won't starve—that is if you can cook." (This was evidently for Irene. There was a note in it that suggested the girl might have her limitations.) "Dig

WOMAN'S NERVES MADE STRONG

By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Winona, Minn.—"I suffered for more than a year from nervousness, and was so bad I could not rest at night—would lie awake and get so nervous I would have to get up and walk around and in the morning would be all tired out. I read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and thought I would try it. My nervousness soon left me. I sleep well and feel fine in the morning and able to do my work. I gladly recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to make weak nerves strong."—Mrs. ALBERT SULTZ, 603 Olmstead St., Winona, Minn.

How often do we hear the expression among women, "I am so nervous, I cannot sleep," or "it seems as though I should fly." Such women should profit by Mrs. Sultz's experience and give this famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a trial. For forty years it has been overcoming such serious conditions as displacements, inflammation, ulceration, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, dizziness, and nervous prostration of women, and is now considered the standard remedy for such ailments.

U. S. WATCHING FOR REDS IN COAL WAR

FEDERAL OFFICIALS ORDERED TO REPORT ALL RADICALISM TO GOVERNMENT.

435,820 MINERS QUIT WORK

Rail Brotherhoods Threaten Walk-Out If Government Pushes Present Anti-Strike Activities.

Washington—Instructions have been issued by Attorney General Palmer to all United States attorneys to keep closely in touch with the situation in their districts and promptly advise of any concerted action "by any two or more persons to limit facilities for transporting, producing, supplying, storing or dealing in coal, or to exact excessive prices."

While no official explanation of the order was available, one purpose aimed at was understood to be to prevent radical agitators among the idle coal miners obtaining a leadership. The strike of the miners went into effect on November 1, in direct defiance of an injunction issued by Judge Anderson at Indianapolis, ordering the union leaders to withdraw the order calling the strike. The governments contention in procuring the injunction, was that the United Mine Workers are bound by an agreement which is in effect until the Peace Treaty has been signed. Reports from mining fields, stretching from Pennsylvania to Washington state, showed that the strike order was generally obeyed by union men, while non-union mines remained in operation. In the central competitive fields, the union stronghold, mines were all closed. Figures, based chiefly on union leader's claims, showed that 435,820 men obeyed the strike call.

hood of Railroad workers would stand behind the miners in the strike. Davison said that ballots had been sent out for a strike among the members of the railroad unions affiliated with the A. F. of L. He gave the intimation that the members of these organizations plan to strike in the event that the government uses its war powers "to handicap" the local coal miners or other labor units, or pushes the present anti-strike activities. Within 12 hours after the coal strike began, its effects were felt in New York City. The Lackawanna Railroad announced the discontinuance of 18 trains, and officials of the Erie called a meeting to consider similar action.

REDS IN U. S. WELL ORGANIZED

Senator Lusk Says Overthrow of Government is Sought.

New York—America today is facing the grave menace of organized treason financed from abroad and drastic measures should be taken immediately if the country is to be saved, according to a statement made by Senator Lusk. New York legislative committee investigating bolshevism. "The published and unpublished investigations of the committee prove conclusively that there is at the present time in this country a movement to overthrow the established government by violence and revolution."

GAME WARDEN SHOTS HUNTER

Detroit—In a battle between game warden and friends of Peter Gonyeau, accused of violation of the game laws, Saturday night in Gonyeau's saloon at Rockwood, Harry Brandegee of Bay City was fatally shot in the abdomen by County Game Warden Charles Daniels. Daniels had been severely beaten before he used his gun. The fight was precipitated by the attempt of Warden Daniels and Deputy State Game Warden Chris Millerbacher to arrest Gonyeau after he had been caught in the act of selling wild ducks to Detective Roy Canner of the Michigan Central detective force.

LESSON FOR NOVEMBER 9

PETER'S GREAT CONFESSION.

LESSON TEXT—Matt. 16:13-24. GOLDEN TEXT—Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God.—Matt. 16:16. ADDITIONAL MATERIAL—Mark 8:27-33; Luke 9:18-22; John 6:68-69. PRIMARY AND JUNIOR TOPIC—What Peter confessed. INTERMEDIATE TOPIC—What it means to confess Christ. SENIOR AND ADULT TOPIC—The Messiahship of Jesus.

The time has now come for the King to take account of his ministry. This confession in some sense marks the turning point in Christ's ministry. Hereafter it is more restricted to his disciples. Two reasons are sufficient why this should be (vv. 1-12): (1) The Pharisees and Sadducees show their attitude towards him in their demand for a sign. His answer is that none shall be given save that of his death and resurrection, as symbolized in the experiences of the Prophet Jonah. (2) The disciples show their inability to understand the spiritual nature of his teaching. When he warned them of the leaven of the Pharisees and Sadducees they understood him to refer to bread, when he meant their doctrine. It was at this crisis when Christ turned from the nation which had rejected him, that Peter made this great confession. It was made in the borders of Caesarea-Philippi, practically Gentile territory. 1. Peter's Confession (vv. 13-16). Two questions of Christ provoked this confession: 1. The question as to the opinion of the people concerning him. They recognized him as a teacher or a prophet of more than human authority and power. Today, as then, there is a diversity of opinion among the great teacher, but nothing more. He been content with this he would not have been molested in Jerusalem, for the Jews willingly acknowledged him as more than a human teacher. It was his persistent claim to be the God-man, the Son of God, that sent him to the cross. 2. The second question involved the personal opinion of the disciples concerning him. To be able to tell what others think of Jesus is not enough; there must be definite, correct, and personal belief in him. 11. The New Body, the Church, Announced (vv. 17-20). Peter had made a noble confession of Christ, so now Christ confesses him. If we confess Christ he will confess us (Matt. 10:32, 33). Christ declared his intention of bringing into existence a new body to the members of which he will give eternal life, and to whose hands he will entrust the keys of the Kingdom. Peter was to have a distinguished place in this body. The keys entrusted to him were used on the day of Pentecost, and again in the case of Cornelius. Association in this new body cannot be broken by death, for the gates of hades shall not prevail against it. This body, the church, is of a heavenly origin, a heavenly calling,

11. The Cross the Way to the Throne (vv. 21-33). This was, no doubt, startling to the disciples. They did not realize that redemption was to be accomplished through the passion of the cross. So unwelcome was this announcement that Peter cried, "This shall not be unto thee." Peter later saw through this darkness to the glory on the hill-top beyond. A new hope then filled his breast (1 Peter 1:3, 4). Victory through death is yet the stumbling block of many. Many are stumbling over the doctrine of salvation and redemption through the suffering of the cross. All such are under the control of the devil (v. 23). Salvation by blood, the devil hates. 11. The Cost of Discipleship (vv. 24-27). To follow Christ means suffering. To follow him is to turn one's back upon the world. Life can only be saved by losing it. If we are going to be Christians we must share Christ's suffering. We cannot go to heaven on flowery beds of ease. 1. There must be denial of self (v. 24). There is a wide difference between self-denial and denial of self. Self-denial is practiced everywhere by all people, but only the disciples of Christ or Christian people deny self. Christ takes the place of self. 2. "Take up his cross." This cross is the suffering and shame which lie in the path of loyalty to God. To do our duty will mean suffering (2 Tim. 3:12). 3. Follow Christ. This means to have the mind of Christ, to do like Christ. All such shall be rewarded when Christ comes in glory.

Fish Made Newfoundland Famous. Newfoundland is the place where cod liver oil comes from and transatlantic planes go from. But, in the recent excitement over transoceanic flights, the cod liver oil and the codfish that furnish it have been nearly forgotten by most of us. Newfoundland has the greatest codfisheries in the world. The annual catch is estimated at 2,500,000 quintals—a quintal being one-twentieth of a ton.

One-half of this catch is exported, and its value is about $8,000,000. Most of the cod is dried before it is exported. Nearly all people in Newfoundland live by working for some branch of the great codfish business.—Popular Science Monthly.

Refused Insurance

Mr. Dunning Left Service in Bad Shape, But Doan's Soon Corrected His Trouble.

Geo. Dunning, ex-Chief Boatwain Mate of the U. S. Navy, 470 Medford St., Somerville, Mass., says: "Every bit of trouble I suffered from my kidneys was a result of exposure at sea. I was retired practically an invalid. My kidneys became more irregular all the time and some nights I was forced to get up every half hour. The kidney secretions burned like fire and were filled with brick-dust-like sediment. My joints swelled and were inflamed. I couldn't bend over to lace my shoes and had to be helped up and down. Right after my retirement from service I tried to get insured, but was turned down because of kidney trouble. I began taking Doan's Kidney Pills and used sixteen boxes. By that time every sign of kidney trouble left me and my back was like iron; not an ache or pain left. I tried for insurance again and was declared a good risk. I give Doan's Kidney Pills credit for putting me in perfect health." Subscribed and sworn to before me. GEORGE L. DOHERTY, Notary Public. Get Doan's at Any Store, 60c a Box. DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS FOSTER-MILBURN CO., BUFFALO, N. Y.

BELCHING

Caused by Acid-Stomach

Let EATONIC, the wonderful modern stomach remedy give you quick relief from disgusting belching, food-repugnance, indigestion, bloated, gassy stomach, dyspepsia, heartburn and other stomach nuisances. They are all caused by Acid-Stomach from which about nine people out of ten suffer in one way or another. One writes as follows: "Before I used EATONIC, I could not eat a bite without belching it right up, sour and bitter. I have not had a bit of trouble since the first tablet." Millions are victims of Acid-Stomach without knowing it. They are weak and ailing, have poor digestion, bodies improperly nourished although they may eat heartily. Grave disorders are likely to follow if an acid stomach is neglected. Cirrhosis of the liver, intestinal congestion, gastritis, etc., of the stomach—these are only a few of the ailments that may result from of the stomach for 11 long years—just found anything to do me any good—just temporary relief—until I used EATONIC. It is a wonderful remedy and I do not want to be without it." If you are not feeling quite right—lack energy and enthusiasm and don't know just where to locate the trouble—try EATONIC and see how much better you will feel in every way. At all drug stores—a big box for 50c and your money back if you are not satisfied.

Ford

THE UNIVERSAL CAR

The Ford Sedan, with electric self-starting and lighting system and demountable rims with 3 1/2-inch tires front and rear, for every day in the year has no equal as a family car. Just as popular on the farm as it is in the city. In fact, it fits the family demands in every vocation of life. Large, roomy seats, finely upholstered, plate glass windows make it an open car in pleasant weather, while in rainy and inclement weather it becomes a closed car, dust-proof and rain-proof. It is not only comfortable, but really cozy, and above all, economical in operation and maintenance, and has all the Ford merits of strength and durability.

SCHOOL NOTES

The record of attendance for last week was as follows: Seniors 98, Juniors 98, Sophomores 97 and Freshmen

Gertrude Clinton, Joe Hess, Margaret Driver, Merlin Shehan, Leo McCloskey, Marantha Docking, Bessie Swarhout Harlow Shehan.

The advanced drawing class have making advertising posters during the past week.

Part of Pinckney's football team reached Byron last week while part were stranded on the road. The part that reached Byron lost the game. The part that was stranded lost their temper and had to be brought back to town by Mr. Dunning. Of course, Pinckney's defeat can be directly laid to the loss of Brown, whose absence caused a demoralization of the back field. We tackle the heavy Chelsea team Friday and with Brown and Shehan both in the game we hope to show them a snappy brand of football.

Leo McCloskey is said to be the lady's man and poet of the senior class. One morning as he watched the fingers of a senior girl glide gracefully over a typewriter he silently gazed off into space, dropped into his chair and clicked off the following lines:

"Twinkle, twinkle, little stone,
On a finger all your own,
I see you shining from afar."

The teachers report a very profitable and instructive state institute this year. Over 15,000 teachers were in attendance practically every village and city school in the state being closed. The chief speakers at the convention were Dr. Kilpatrick and Dr. Strayer of Columbia University, New York City, Dr. Burton of the University of Minnesota, besides many Congressmen and men of less importance. The great educators from Columbia brought out very clearly the new needs of education and urged all who belong to the profession to apply the new theories in their schools.

The chemistry class offers a large reward to a person inventing a new and simple way of forming chemical equations.

The English Lit class admit that they find the life and works of Shakespeare rather interesting.

Oh yes, the French class has been organized for some time. We did it so quietly and cleverly the rules of the school so well that you may not have heard of us. How about it, Mr. Upper-classman?

Would You Write This?

ONLY those who have suffered the misery and torture of kidney trouble and have found their way back to health can appreciate the feeling of gratitude and desire to help other sufferers that caused Mr. E. A. Shanholzer, Konantz, Colo., to write the following letter to Foley & Co.:

"I am writing this that some one who needs it may see it. I was troubled with my kidneys and bladder till sometimes I could not walk or sit down."

"I was worried till I overheard a lady say she had cured herself with Foley's Kidney Pills. He persuaded me to try a 50c bottle and to my surprise I found they helped me wonderfully; so I went back and got a dollar bottle, and then another, and I do believe they will make a well man out of me. Sincerely yours, E. A. Shanholzer."

If any reader of the above letter is suffering as the writer was suffering, and profits by Mr. Shanholzer's action, will he not feel it his duty to pass the helpful message along?

Foley Kidney Pills

Help overworked, weak or deranged kidneys and bladder by their tonic, invigorating, healing action. They have been used successfully for kidney trouble and bladder ailments by men and women for many years. They are made of the highest-grade medicinal ingredients and contain no habit-forming drugs. Kidney trouble manifests itself by various symptoms—backache, rheumatic pains, lumbago, stiff or swollen joints, sore muscles, floating specks before the eyes, etc.—the result of impurities and poisonous waste matter remaining in the blood stream because the kidneys are not doing their proper work of eliminating the disease-causing elements in the blood stream pure. If suffering from kidney trouble, why not try Foley Kidney Pills?

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure catarrhal deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. Catarrhal deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Many cases of deafness are caused by catarrh, which is an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Medicine acts thru the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system.

COAL STRIKE TIES UP STATE MINES

GOVERNMENT SEIZES ALL CARS

Railroads, Acting On Orders From U. S. Coal Administrator, Confiscate All Fuel Shipments Enroute.

Lansing.—Michigan's 15 soft coal mines were tied up simultaneously with those in other parts of this country by the strike of the United Mine Workers of America, Nov. 1.

William Stevenson, president of the Michigan miners, said Monday: "Every mine in the state is closed. The district is 100 per cent union. Necessary employees for the protection of mine property are at the mines in accordance with the provisions of the scale agreement. The miners will stick until they have won the strike."

All coal enroute to municipalities throughout the state was seized, immediately after the strike went into effect, by the railroads acting on orders received from the United States Coal administration. The coal was held at the disposal of the government for distribution to industries and institutions which are on the priorities list.

Michigan's 2,400 soft coal miners are not in the central competitive field made up of Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and western Pennsylvania but are in what is known as the outlying district. Miners of this state do not play any part in the deliberations of the central competitive field, but they are bound by its decisions and agreements and will participate in any benefits this field may secure.

RAILROAD RATES AID PACKERS

Investigation Shows "Big Five" Can Ship Cheaper Than Competitors.

Lansing.—Big reductions to Chicago packers in freight rates through use of their own refrigerator cars thereby discriminating against the wholesale grocers in Michigan and other states, and prompt scheduled service in the delivery of grocers commodities, while competing wholesale grocers obtain no such service by ordinary railroad facilities, which advantages have contributed in part to the unprecedented growth of the packers' business in unrelated lines, are the principal features in the evidence which Assistant Attorney General Thomas G. Baillie brought back with him from the interstate commerce committee hearing held in Chicago.

There are certain commodities known as "packing house products," which may be shipped in refrigerator cars of the company with fresh meats at the fifth class freight rate. The packers now mix with such consignments other "unrelated products," such as canned goods of all kinds and other staple grocery lines which may as well be shipped in ordinary box cars. But by using the refrigerator cars they take advantage of the rate.

DETROIT RAISES CHARITY FUND

Subscriptions Totalling $5,250,000 Are Sought For Relief of Needy.

Detroit.—"Five Million in Five Days" was the slogan of the 4,000 Detroit men and women volunteer workers, who set out Monday morning on the second annual campaign of the Detroit Patriotic Fund.

Mayor Couzens issued a proclamation calling on every citizen to do his part toward making Detroit a better city by subscribing his full share to the fund. The community, he said, should be willing to provide for its helpless and unfortunate as it was to care for its soldiers and others during the war.

The total amount of the Patriotic Fund budget this year is $5,250,000, apportioned as follows:

Detroit Community union, to complete 1919, $486,000; Detroit Community union, for 1920, $1,500,000; American Red Cross membership roll call, $200,000; Salvation Army peacetime fund, $135,000; foreign relief, $684,000; capital expenditures for building program, $1,989,500; reserve fund, $275,500.

Housewives Warned to Avoid Liability of Poisoning.

Detroit.—Marian H. Rogers, home demonstration agent of the department of agriculture and home economics of Michigan, has issued a statement to educate housewives regarding the danger of poisoning through cold pack canning. He says:

"The poison formed by bacillus botulinus is destroyed by ten minutes boiling, according to extensive tests. "All danger of this poisoning from products canned by cold pack method may be easily averted in this way. You need not feel uneasy about using any of your vegetables or fruits which you have canned this summer by the cold pack process if you take this simple precaution."

The danger of the use of cold packed preserves was shown in the recent death of 5 persons who ate ripe olives at a banquet given at the home of Murray W. Sales, Grosse Pointe millionaire.

VIRGINIA GETS FIRST TROOPS

Louisville, Ky.—A provisional battalion, 800 strong, composed of veterans of the first division, were sent last Friday to the coal fields of West Virginia in anticipation of possible disorder attending the strike of miners there. Other troops were held in readiness to be sent whenever needed.

Infantry and machine gunners make up the riot battalion, along with the necessary medical detachment and staff officers.

Ammunition was taken for extended service, said Maj. Gen. Charles P. Sumnerall, commander of the First division.

INJURY BY SCAB IN MANY STATES

Investigations in Progress to Learn More About Serious Disease of Wheat.

NO SATISFACTORY CONTROL

Best Obtainable Seed Should Be Used and Thoroughly Cleaned and Treated by Formaldehyde Method—Clean Up Waste Places.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Investigations are in progress by the United States department of agriculture, in co-operation with a number of state experiment stations and individual farmers, to learn more about wheat scab and methods of controlling it.

No entirely satisfactory control of this disease has been developed, because the scab fungi develop on so many different kinds of grains and grasses and on cornstalks, stubble, straw and other trash. Two things, however, are regarded as important. First, the best wheat obtainable should be used for seed. This should be thoroughly cleaned and treated by the formaldehyde method recommended for the prevention of smut. Second, this wheat should be sown on thoroughly plowed land—land where the old cornstalks, wheat stubble and grass straw have been entirely plowed under. This can be accomplished by use of a drag chain. All grass and straw should be burned or otherwise removed from hedges, fence rows, fence corners and nearby waste places. These waste places should be either plowed or burned off.

Wheat Scab Takes Heavy Toll.

Winter wheat everywhere east of the Great Plains was heavily infected with scab this year. Spring wheat also suffered greatly and many spring wheat fields were left uncut, due chiefly to the ravages of scab. The states suffering the greatest losses of both spring and winter wheat include Missouri, Iowa, South Dakota, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Michigan, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, North Carolina, Kentucky and Tennessee.

This disease of wheat is caused by several different fungi which attack the crop at various stages of development. The seedlings are blighted, the ter-killed. The heads are blighted, the diseased parts die and prevent the formation of well-filled kernels. The head blight is the most evident and in most cases causes the most damage. Wheat from fields with only a moderate scab infection is light in weight and, therefore, grades as No. 3 or lower. The farmer, then, not only loses from a re-

PLANT HARDWOOD TREE SEED

Mulch Around Young Trees Will Furnish Ample Protection From Severe Winter Weather.

In raising hardwoods from seeds, species having soft, unprotected seeds, such as elms and soft maples, should be planted as soon as the seeds fall. The hard, nutlike seeds from such trees as oaks, hickories, walnuts, butternuts, should be gathered in the fall, buried either in sand in the cellar or in a well-drained sandy soil outside, and planted in the spring just as soon as they are taken out of the sand.

The seeds can be planted in garden rows, spacing the seeds about six inches apart, or with a dibble the nuts can be planted in specially prepared pots where the trees are to remain. Soft, delicate seeds, like the elm, however, should be planted in the garden and transplanted after they are two years old.

Young trees should be trimmed from the start, in order to give the best growth and shape.

duction in yield, but from a lowering of the grade as well.

Scab Fungus Attacks Corn.

Of those fungi known to cause scab in wheat the most important one also attacks corn. One of the ways it lives over winter is on the decaying cornstalks left on the ground in the fields. Wheat is often sown on the corn land with these cornstalks left on the surface. The following season the fungus spreads from the infected cornstalks to the wheat heads and causes blighting.

In addition to wheat and corn, the disease attacks rye, oats, barley and many grasses. The scab fungi also live over winter on the infected stubble and decaying straw left on top of the ground, and on infected grass stems left around the edges of the field. These fungi spread from this material to the next season's crop.

Prevent Winter Killing.

It is a common practice in some sections of the winter wheat belt to spread straw on the winter wheat after the ground is frozen, in order to hold the snow. Clean straw from winter wheat spread on the fields late in the winter, after the ground is frozen, is not dangerous in spreading scab to the next year's crop. This straw holds the snow and moisture and prevents the plants from being broken by the wind. When plowed under the next summer it adds humus to the soil. Turn the stock into the straw piles from the badly diseased wheat and spread the manure on the ground the following year. Such straw should never be spread on the fields, for it is sure to carry scab into next year's crop.

GIVE CLOVER YIELD GOOD CARE IN FALL

Desirable That Stands Have Every Chance to Come Through.

In Many Sections Application of Lime Will Benefit Crop—Farmers Will Find It Profitable to Make Best Preparation.

harvested and largely threshed early in October. The fields seeded this spring are the ones from which clover hay and clover seed will be taken next year, and in view of the fact that clover seed is scarce and high priced it is desirable that the stands this fall be given every possible chance to come through the winter in good shape, say specialists in the states relations service. A light top dressing with manure, where this can be done, will be helpful, and will be best applied after freezing weather sets in. The young plants should not be pastured too close, nor should they be allowed to bloom and make seed. If the plants come into bloom, they should be clipped early. A height of four to six inches, just before going into the winter, is the most favorable condition.

The preparation of the land on which red clover is to be seeded next spring should be considered this fall. In most parts of Iowa and Illinois, the application of lime will benefit red clover. On some lands it is absolutely essential for a good stand. Lime is best applied when the land is being prepared for wheat. An application of two tons of fine-ground limestone is commonly enough, although on badly run-down land or on land known to be very sour, three tons per acre may Few Bales of Inferior Quality Will Spoil Appearance of Carload of Superior Article.

In selling alfalfa hay it is absolutely necessary that a high standard of grading be maintained, for a few bales of an inferior quality will spoil the appearance of a carload of choice hay. Soft, ill-shaped bales, even if the quality is all right, should be put aside, for they will probably come apart in unloading, causing loss and trouble for your customer.

er's morning of the last election in Muncie the head of the house made the announcement that he was off that day and was going to haul voters to the polls. Immediately mother rose in revolt: "Half of that machine is mine!" she stormed, "and you are now going to use it to haul Democrats to the polls!"

Father was rather warm under the collar then. "Indeed I am," he retorted. "Tomorrow is my day to use it and I intend to use it to haul Democrats to the polls. The next day is yours and you can use my half of it as well as your own to haul Republicans to Hall-fax for all I care!"—Indianapolis News.

Demonstration Essential. "Why was it necessary for you to add anything to the voluminous and enlightening remarks already offered on this subject?"

"It wasn't positively necessary," answered Senator Sorghum, "except on my own account. I had to say something to keep the folks out home from thinking I was losing my influence."

for Special Elect
November 25, A.D. 1919

To the Qualified Electors of Livingston County:

Notice is hereby given that all legally qualified electors of the County of Livingston and State of Michigan, who are not legally registered in their respective voting precincts, may do so by applying to their respective township or City Clerks, on any date up to and including the 15th day of November, A. D. 1919, either in person or by affidavit for the purpose of voting at the Special Election to be held in the several precincts of said County of Livingston on Tuesday November 25, A. D. 1919.

Dated Oct. 24, A. D. 1919.
John A. Hagman,
Clerk of said County of Livingston

State of Michigan, the Circuit Court for the County of Livingston, in Chancery.

Francis M. Nichols, Plaintiff vs Arvilla M. Nichols, Defendant.

At a session of said court held at the court room in the City of Howell in said county on the 23rd day of October, A. D. 1919.

Present: Hon. Joseph H. Collins, Circuit Judge.

In this cause it appearing by the affidavit on file that after diligent search and inquiry, it cannot be learned in what state or county the said defendant Arvilla Nichols resides.

On motion of G. C. Yelland it is ordered that the defendant enter her appearance within three months from the date of this order: That within 40 days the plaintiff cause a copy of this order to be published in the Pinckney Dispatch, a newspaper printed and circulating in Livingston County, once in each week for six weeks in succession, or that the plaintiff cause a copy of

HUNTERS NOTICE!

The State Game Department having placed on the Birkett farm at Portage Lake, eight pairs of ring necked pheasants which are protected under state laws, all hunting on said farm is strictly forbidden under severe penalty.

In addition to the above, I will pay $25.00 reward for information leading to the arrest of any person hunting on said farm.

No Lazy Man's Place.

If you saw the bird of paradise, and then listened to some folk talk you may be under the impression Hawaii is a land where Americans go and just naturally forget to work, lie down beneath a shady, spready tree and listen to the thum of the Hawaiian guitars until they're lulled into a sleep from which they seldom are aroused. "That stuff," said S. S. Pavson of Honolulu, "is all right, but it's for story books and comic operas. I went to Honolulu 13 years ago from Philadelphia, became president of the Rotary club, a member of the legislature and head of the largest automobile concern in Honolulu. When I came back to the United States I don't find any of my old companions are staying up any later at night than I do or travel any faster than I do. Don't let any one put that "go-to-sleep-and-never-wake-up" idea into your head. Hawaii is not a lazy man's country, by any means."

this order to be personally served upon the defendant at least twenty days before the time prescribed for her appearance.

which comes of wearing a perfect fitting winter undersuit—is always experienced by wearers of STEPHENSON union suits and two-piece garments.

They are made to fit and do not get out of shape—the fabrics meet the requirements of the most particular man.

Stephenson garments are made in wool spun marine and worsted. Wear longer, wash better, retain their warmth better.

The fabric is knit from yarn made from the raw material right in the STEPHENSON mills—the same good quality wool which STEPHENSON used thirty years ago—made under the most modern methods of manufacture.
