Vol. XXXVI

Pinckney, Livingston County, Michigan, Thursday December 4, 1919

No. 48

AFTERMATH

The Chelsea Tribune and the Chelsea Standard in their last week's issues are emphatic in condemning Pinckney for the way the now notorious football game wound up. The Standard states:

"Chelsea has changed its opinion in regard to its feelings towards Pinckney, and has decided that instead of being a village with lofty ideals and peopled with gentlemen, it is really a nest of roughnecks and people who do not wish to see fair play."

The Standard and Tribune both assert positively that Pinckney is altogether to blame for the whole trouble. The evidence that the Dispatch has been able to collect lays the blame on those of the Chelsea visitors who came over looking for trouble instead of sport. In justice to the Chelsea team it is to be admitted that a few of the players acted throughout the whole affair as gentlemen and sportsmen and endeavored with poor success to quiet their more turbulent team mates, who lacked in moral courage but were well supplied with the "sand" necessary to undertake "cleaning up the whole town".

The Tribune in one paragraph—perhaps unwitting—opens up a raw sore on many of our best citizens who believe in law and order. The paragraph runs as follows:

"What puzzles us most is what the Pinckney officers were doing last Fri-

TERRIFIC WINDSTORM

Last Saturday about sundown a most severe windstorm did much damage in this vicinity.

The greatest loss fell to Floyd Reason whose large barn on the farm west of town was completely demolished. Nearly 100 sheep and many chickens and ducks were in the basement, from which those who survived the catastrophe were rescued on Sunday. Eighteen fine sheep were killed outright and many of the others were severely injured. Many chickens and ducks were also killed. The brick building on Uau-dilla St. owned by the Teeple Hardware Co. and used for storing cement etc. was greatly damaged. The walls were nearly all razed to the ground. Curiously enough part of the roof is still in its place with barely enough of the walls left to support it.

Many windmills were blown down or damaged, among which are those belonging to John M. Harris, Jesse Henry, James Wilcox and Eugene McIntyre.

The barn belonging to Bernard McCluskey was blown nearly off its foundation and as it now stands

The story of our soldiers and sailors in the last war must not be forgotten. It must be written and preserved in a permanent form. Livingston County must take care that the noble work which her sons did in the Great War does not fade into oblivion.

"The young men do not realize," said Judge Cole of Fowlerville, "the importance of recording the events of their military experiences. Such a record is going to be of inestimable value in later years to their friends and to themselves."

It is the duty of the parents and relatives of former service men to send in to the War History of the County the records of their boys together with fore it assumed such serious proportions."

No argument or recital of facts can offset or belittle the above statement. Pinckney should have stopped the affair in its incipient stage. The reason the Pinckney officers did not do so is that Pinckney has no officers. This town is now publicly advertised throughout the state as a nest of roughnecks and there is good excuse for Chelsea to lay the blame in this matter where it belongs.

When first elected, the sheriff was petitioned by many of the best citizens of the town to appoint a resident deputy. This has not been done and, as the chief peace officer of the county, must bear his share of the blame. Some time ago the council, in the absence of the president, appointed a marshal, but the appointee failed to qualify and nothing has since been done to fill the vacancy.

An officer with a badge of authority—and guts—could have without a fight and without bloodshed would have been Pinckney's savior.

Every once in a while that's about what we had no officer here. Since that time nothing has been done to remedy the deficiency. The Chelsea papers and the Chelsea town are justified in their attacks on the town.

RESOLUTIONS

At a special meeting of Livingston Lodge No. 76, F. and A. M. the following resolutions were passed:

Whereas—The Supreme Ruler in His infinite wisdom has removed from our midst brother Charles Henry, therefore be it

Resolved—That in the death of our brother the community has lost an upright citizen, the family a devoted husband and father and the lodge a true and loyal member.

Resolved—That in this hour of sorrow we extend to the bereaved family our sympathy.

Resolved—That these resolutions be entered in the records of the lodge; and that the family and the lodge be notified of the same.

contents. It would not be an exaggeration to state that hardly a farm in this vicinity has escaped without more or less loss.

SALE AND LUNCH

The ladies of the Federated society will hold a sale in their rooms Saturday afternoon and evening, Dec. 6. They will also serve coffee and sandwiches, ice cream and cake. The sale will begin promptly at 2:30 p. m. There will be booths with articles for old and young; a good time to buy your Christmas presents. Come and have an enjoyable time and help make this sale a success.

COAL BREACH IS WIDENED AGAIN

MINERS REFUSE TO ACCEPT OFFER OF FUEL ADMINISTRATOR GARFIELD.

ALL OPERATING AGAINST IT

No More Conferences Unless Government Takes Firmer Grip On Situation.

Washington.—An abrupt end has come to all attempts to settle the nation-wide coal strike by peaceful agreement.

Miners and operators spent a bleak afternoon in embittered debate over the government proposal for a 14 per cent wage increase, made by Fuel Administrator Garfield, rejected it and every other proposal that was forthcoming, and then dissolved, since die.

Participants went home and where the break left coal strike conditions no one of them, miner nor operator, would say. Likewise, in official quarters, there was silence.

Acting President John L. Lewis, of the mine workers, though refusing to say one word as to the strike itself, which theoretically was called off in obedience to federal court injunction holding it a violation of the Lever act, for war-time food and fuel control, scored the government roundly at the conclusion of the conference. So did William Green, secretary of the mine workers.

Operators, though accepting the government proposal definitely, in a letter of explanation to Dr. Garfield which they made public, intimated that the government refusal to allow price increases would bear reconsideration.

It was behind closed doors that the coal situation reached its climax, afternoon.

The pronouncement of Fuel Administrator Garfield, speaking for the government, was:

1. No increase will be permitted in the price of coal.

2. Miners are entitled to an average wage increase of 14 per cent to make wages conform with an increase of 79.8 per cent in the cost of living since 1913.

"The miners will not return to work on a 14 per cent basis," said Edward Stewart, president of the Indiana district, council of the United Mine Workers' union.

"This proposition, if carried out, will break, will completely ruin many operators who are too old to start anew," said P. H. Penna, of the operators' association. "Many mines will have to close down."

"If this 14 per cent increase is the offer of the government, we'll go home and fight it out a while," said President Howat of the Kansas district council of miners.

"I can see no hope of a settlement," said President Thomas T. Brewster of the operators' association of the central competitive field and chairman of the conference.

In explaining his pronouncement on the wage question, Garfield declared:

There are emphasized that the part of the proposal denying an increase in the selling price of coal is a mandate. Coal now is selling at prices fixed by the government in October, 1917.

ERROR OF DEPARTMENT QUIZ

Indiana to Learn Why Bodies Were Exchanged.

Indianapolis.—Investigation of erroneous burials of bodies of American soldiers killed in Russia has begun by the war department in Indiana and the middle west, following revelation of a sixth mistake in transportation. At Summitville, Ind., a body supposed to be that of Lieutenant E. R. Collins, son of a Itacone, Wis., physician, has been identified as that of Lloyd Connor, of Hillman, Mich., and the body of Frank E. Sapp, of Summitville, inadvertently buried at Carlisle, Ind., has been reburied at Summitville.

The body of Charles Otis Dial, of Carlisle, sent by mistake to Racine, has been laid to rest at Carlisle.

The identification tag on the body buried at Hillman contained the name of H. Pelto, residence unknown. Whereabouts of the body of Lieutenant Collins is unknown.

The Hoosier state mistaken burials follow two others in Michigan, a body sent to Grand Rapids as that of Private John Wasterhof, having been found to be that of Floyd A. Rose, of Grand Rapids. An exchange followed.

U. S. POTENTIAL ARMY.

Washington.—A final study of the selective draft records just made public fixes the military strength of the United States at 19,000,000 in potential military man power.

Registrations for the draft, between the ages of 18 and 45, totalled 23,908,576, almost 80 per cent of whom were listed as "physically fit for military service."

The medical reports indicated at the zone where men were found most healthy runs through the center of the country, from north to south. States in this belt showed the smallest percentage of physical disqualifications for active service.

DRASTIC LAWS ARE PROPOSED

State will Regulate Price of Food, Clothing and Rents.

Lansing.—Enactment of legislation to permit municipalities to engage in the retail sale of prime necessities, an anti-waste law, limiting of the profits on necessities with severe penalties for violations, state market and fair price commissions, establishment of state-owned warehouses by constitutional amendment and the curbing of profiteering in rents of city dwellers are some of the things included in the tentative legislative program decided upon to check living costs.

With this program determined it follows that Governor Sleeper will be asked by the prosecutors to call a special session of the legislature, probably early in January.

The issuance of bonds by the state to a limited amount to finance the warehouse plan would be provided for by constitutional amendment, to be passed at the special session of the legislature if held, and submitted to the voters at the general election in November, 1920, it is proposed at the tenant also was decided upon.

As finally outlined, this law will empower cities and villages to create commissions to hear and determine the fair value of rental properties, fix a fair rate of return, which action would be subject to appeal to the courts.

These bills will be prepared at once by the attorney general's department and drafts of them sent to each of the ten members of the prosecutor's legislative committee. A week from that time there will be a meeting of the full body at which the proposed legislation will be taken up and then it will be submitted to a meeting of all the prosecutors of the state in Lansing. After final action by the prosecutors the matter of a special session to be held early in the next year will be taken up by them with Governor Sleeper.

MEXICO REFUSES TO YIELD

Says U. S. Consul Has No More Standing Than Ordinary Mexican.

Mexico City.—The Mexican foreign office handed to the American embassy a note declaring Mexico cannot William O. Jenkins, American consular agent imprisoned in Puebla for alleged conspiracy with the bandits who recently kidnaped him.

The note, which was in reply to a demand by the American state department, declared the case was in the hands of the local authorities and that the constitution forbids the president to interfere in the affairs of the various states.

Jenkins will be released as soon as he gives bail, which has been fixed at 1,000 pesos (about $500), the note said. The demands of the United States have no basis in international law, it was contended. It was pointed out that an American should expect no more rights in Mexico than a Mexican enjoys in the United States. Americans in Mexico receive the same privileges and protection as Mexicans, it was said.

Candy Not a Weapon.

Louisville, Ky.—In the case brought against Miss Elizabeth Young, a woolen mills striker, charged with assaulting William Patton, a foreman, with a sackful of chocolate drops, the court ruled that candy is not a deadly weapon. The case was dismissed.

Lost Her Cure.

Chicago.—Mrs. Emma Gnacinski, with a speck of radium around her ankle for a cure, took a bath at St. Mary's hospital. She forgot to take off the precious anklet, and when she pulled the plug down went the radium, worth $12,000.

UNUSUAL HAPPENINGS AND OTHER BRIEF NEWS

Shipyards Open.

San Francisco.—Shipyards of the San Francisco Bay region will be open after having been closed since October 1 by strike conditions.

Cigarettes Cause Fire.

Montreal.—Main buildings of the University of Montreal were destroyed by fire with $400,000 loss. Lighted cigarettes are thought to have been the cause.

Agitator Deported.

Nashville, Tenn.—John B. Lawson, labor organizer, was seized by a crowd as he was leaving the office of his attorney, put aboard a train bound for Indiana and ordered not to return.

Girl On Trial.

New York.—Frances Sulinsky, 13 years old, is on trial charged with killing Solomon Kramer, 14 months old. It is said that the girl gave poison to the baby to get revenge on the child's nurse.

Wants Damages.

Houston, Tex.—Claiming $8,612,057 as "consequential damages" because of the taking over of its vessels during the war, the Gulf Refining Co. has filed suit in the United States Court of Claims for that amount from the shipping board.

Legislator GUILTY.

Columbus, O.—Rep. Frank Delahanty, of Cleveland, pleaded guilty in the Franklin County criminal court to charges of alleged bribery at last winter's legislative session, in connection with the attempted passage of the Chiropractics bill.

Get Liberty Bonds.

Louisville, Ky.—Cracksmen broke cash valued at from $10,000 to $50,000. Efforts to reach the vault containing the safe with the bank's funds were fruitless.

Australia Suffers.

London.—Indications of losses to stockmen and farmers in Australia because of the drought are given by the Daily Mail. Of 27,000 sheep on one farm, only 5,000 have survived, while on another farm 6,000 sheep have dropped to 100 and elsewhere 80,000 head of beef cattle have dwindled to 15,000.

Quick Justice.

Le Mars, Ia.—Five men who escaped from the County Jail after fatally shooting William Maxwell and seriously wounding his father, Sheriff Hugh Maxwell, were the next day on their way to serve life sentence in the penitentiary at Ft. Madison. The men were recaptured and indicted on a charge of first degree murder.

Wants More Pay.

Ann Arbor.—Professors and instructors of the University of Michigan appealed to the board of regents for relief from the increased cost of made to the senate by the Newberry campaign committee.

The first indictment charged that both federal and state laws were violated in that sums far in excess of legitimate expenses were used in the campaign. The second indictment cited the affidavit which Senator Newberry made while serving at the Brooklyn navy yard in which he swore that no campaign money had been spent by him or with his knowledge.

There were six counts in the first indictment. The first four were devoted to charges of excess campaign expenditures. The fifth alleged conspiracy to violate the federal corrupt practices act of October, 1918, which penalizes payment of money to voters. The sixth count to which Frank C. Dailey, special assistant to the attorney general attached especial significance alleged that the mails were used "to defraud all the people of the state of Michigan."

This sixth count charged that not only were all voters of the state defrauded but that honest campaign contributors were also victims in that they were misled into believing that the legal limits of expenditures had not been exceeded.

Political in its inception, and designed for political effect in the coming campaigns," is the characterization of the grand jury action given by Paul H. King, manager, of the Newberry campaign committee. Furthermore, Mr. King, who was among the first named in the indictment, declares that he is proud of his involvement in aiding the senator to a seat and that he isn't at bit worried over the developments at Grand Rapids.

"The return of indictments against myself and others does not disturb me in the least," said Mr. King. "They are not well founded and therefore cannot be sustained.

"Subsequent developments in the courts will show that the agents of the department of justice employed outrageous methods in their efforts to bring about the desired results, which, as all indictments are, are only one-sided. The whole thing is political in inception and designed for political effect and campaign purposes.

"I am proud of the fact that I helped Truman H. Newberry to get a seat in the senate of the United States, and helped keep Henry Ford out of it. I believe I rendered a service to the state and to the United States by so doing."

Unlawful Expenditures, Conspiracy, Fraudulent Reports Among 38 Specified "Overt Acts" Listed.

Grand Rapids.—The Federal Grand Jury has named 135 men in blanket indictment returned Saturday.

United States Senator Truman H. Newberry, his brother, John S. Newberry, both of Detroit, and 133 others were named.

Aside from the names of Senator Newberry and John S. Newberry, only 12 names have been announced, these being as follows: Allan A. Templeton, Paul H. King, Harry O. Turner, Marc T. McKee, Milton Oakman, Frederick P. Smith, Charles A. Floyd, all of Detroit; Frank McKay, Grand Rapids; Judd Yelland, Escanaba; Dr. James B. Bradley, Eaton Rapids; Gladstone Beattie, of Paw Paw; H. A. Hopkins, St. Clair.

The names of others are withheld pending serving of warrants.

In addressing the jury, District Judge Clarence W. Sessions, declared that the evidence indicated that from $500,000 to $1,000,000 had been expended in the Newberry campaign, when the commodore was returned a victor over Henry Ford.

Special Prosecutor Dailey, who has directed the investigation, said that all defendants would be permitted to post bonds wherever warrants are served. Date for arraignment in federal court here will be set later.

One of the indictments involves six counts, charging unlawful expendi-of diseased kidneys. Statistics show that deaths from Bright's Disease and other kidney troubles have increased over 50% in last few years. 900 FLU CASES REPORTED TO HEALTH SERVICE

Washington dispatches state that there were over 900 flu cases reported to the public health service last week.

This is an increase over the previous week, and as cold weather draws near authorities are worried.

A recent public health report says: "City officials, state and city boards of health should be prepared in event of an recurrence of the flu."

Even if one recovers from the flu, the after effects are terrible. The only sane thing to do is to prevent the flu. Influenza can be prevented; last year's results prove that. It is important that a good germicide should be used frequently. Turpo is an effective germicide, combining the old-fashioned remedies of turpentine (which has for years been known as the best home germicide), camphor-menthol and pure mineral base. As a preventive for flu, Turpo has been a pronounced success.

Snuff a little Turpo up the nostrils several times a day, and the Flu germs will have little chance of getting a lodging and breeding place. Many physicians and hospitals use and recommend Turpo.

The fact that more than nine hundred cases of influenza have been reported to the United States Health Service makes it important that you prepare now. Buy a thirty cent jar of Turpo of your druggist now while he has a supply on hand, and use as directed.

If in spite of all precautions influenza develops, go to bed and summon a physician. Influenza is a serious malady, and requires the best medical attention.—Adv.

"MY NAME IS CONWARD."

Synopsis.—David Elden, son of a drunken, shiftless ranchman, almost a maverick of the foothills, breaking bottles with his pistol from his running cayuse when the first automobile he has ever seen arrives and tips over, breaking the leg of Doctor Hardy but not injuring his beautiful daughter Irene. Dave rescues the injured man and brings a doctor from 40 miles away. Irene takes charge of the housekeeping. Dave and Irene take many rides together and during her father's enforced stay they get well acquainted. They part with a kiss and an implied promise.

CHAPTER III.

Dave's opportunity came sooner than he had expected. After the departure of the Hardys things at the old ranch were, as both father and son had predicted, very different. They found themselves on a sort of good behavior—a behavior which, unhappily, excited in each other grave suspicions as to purpose. The tension steadily increased, and both looked forward to the moment when something must give way.

For several weeks the old man remained entirely sober, but the call of the appetite in him grew more and more insistent as the days went by, and at last came the morning when Dave awoke to find him gone. He needed no second guess; the craving had become irresistible and his father had ridden to town for the means to satisfy it. The passing days did not bring his return, but this occasioned get a job for him, too, pullin' a light wagon or somethin'."

The resolution to "play fair" with Slop-eye gradually restored his cheerfulness and he walked slowly back to the hotel.

The men's sitting room now presented a much more animated picture than when he had registered earlier in the evening. It was filled with ranchers, cowboys and cattlemen of all degrees—breeders, buyers, traders, owners and wage earners, with a sprinkling of townspeople and others not directly engaged in some phase of the cattle business. Soon he was in a group watching a gaudily dressed individual doing a sort of sleight of hand trick with three cards on a table.

"Smooth guy, that," said someone at his side. The remark was evidently intended for Dave, and he turned toward the speaker. He was a man somewhat smaller than Dave, two or three years older, well dressed in town clothes, with a rather puffy face and a gold-filled tooth from which a corner had been broken as though to accommodate the cigarette which hung there.

"Yes," said Dave. Then, as it was apparent the stranger was inclined to be friendly, he continued, "What's the idea?"

The stranger nudged him gently. "Come out of the bunch," he said in a low voice. When they had moved a little apart he went on, in a confidential tone: "He has a little trick with three cards that brings him in the easy coin. He's smooth as grease, but the thing's simple. Oh, it's awful simple! Now you watch him for a dealer, "but you got it on me. Turn 'er up."

The card was red. Dave looked at it stupidly. It was a moment or two before he realized that his money was gone. Then, regardless of those about, he rushed through the crowd, flinging bystanders right and left, and plunged into the night.

He walked down a street until it lost itself on the prairie; then he followed a prairie trail far into the country. The air was cold and a few drops of rain were falling in it, but he was unconscious of the weather. He was in a rage through and through. Slop-eye was now a dream, a memory, gone—gone. Everything was gone; only his revolver and a few cents remained. He gripped the revolver again. With that he was supreme. No man in all that town of men schooled in the ways of the West was more than his equal while that grip lay in his palm. At the point of that muzzle he could demand his money back—and get it.

Then he laughed. Hollow and empty it sounded in the night air, but it was a laugh, and it saved his spirit. "Why, you fool," he chuckled, "you came to town for to learn somethin', didn't you? Well, you're learnin'. Sixty dollars a throw. Education comes high, don't it? But you shouldn't kick. He didn't coax you in, an' gave you every chance to back away. You butted in and got stung. Perhaps you've learned somethin' worth sixty dollars."

In his innocence of the ways of the game it never occurred to him that the friendly stranger who had showed him hands. Conward offered his cigarette box, and the two smoked for a few moments in silence.

"What kind of a job do you want?" Conward asked at length.

"Any kind that pays a wage," said Dave.

"I know the fellow that runs an employment agency down here," Conward answered. "Let's go down. Perhaps I can put you in line."

Conward spoke to the manager of the employment agency and introduced Dave.

"Nothing very choice on tap today," said the employment man. "You can handle horses, I suppose?"

"I guess I can," said Dave, "some."

"I can place you delivering coal. Thirty dollars a month, and you board with the boss."

"I'll take it," said Dave.

The boss proved to be one Thomas Metford. He owned half a dozen teams and was engaged in the cartage business, specializing on coal. He was a man of big frame, big head, and a vocabulary appropriate to the purposes to which he applied it. Among his other possessions were a wife, numerous children and a house and barn, in which he boarded his beasts of burden, including in the term his horses, his men and his wife, in the order of their valuation. The children were a by-product, valueless until such time as they also would be able to work.

WORDS TOO OFTEN CONFUSED

Excellent Point Made in Emphasis of Difference Between "Training" and "Education."

The difference between training and education was well expressed by Dr. C. Stuart Gager in his address to the graduating class of the school of horticulture for women, when he said:

"Cloth would be spun on hand looms today had no other factor been introduced into spinning than the instruction of daughters by mothers. This happened away for weeks at a stretch. He moped around the ranch buildings, sat moodily by the little stream, casting pebbles in the water, or rode over the old trails on which she had so often been his companion.

Then the old man's horse came home. Dave saw it coming up the trail, not running wildly but with nervous gallop and many sidelong turnings of the head. As the boy watched he found a strange emptiness possess him; his body seemed a phantom on which his head hung over-heavy. He spoke to the horse, which pulled up, snorting, before him; noted the wet neck and flanks, and at last the broken stirrup. Then, slowly and methodically, and still with that strange sensation of emptiness, he saddled his own horse and set out on the search.

After the last rites had been paid to the dead, Dave set about at once to settle up his affairs, and it was then that he discovered how much his father had been involved. The selling of the cattle and the various effects realized only enough to discharge the liabilities, and when this had been done Dave found himself with a considerable area of unmarketable land, a considerable table. The player held three cards—two red ones and a black. He passed them about rapidly over the table, occasionally turning his hand sideways so that the onlookers could see the position of the cards. Then he suddenly threw them face down on the table, each card by itself.

"The trick is to locate the black card," Dave's companion explained. "It's easy enough if you keep your eye on the card, but the trouble with these rubes is they name the card and then start to get out their money, and while they're fumbling for it he makes a change so quick they never see it. There's just one way to beat him. Get up close, but don't say you're getting interested. Then when you're dead sure of a card crack your fist down on it. Glue yourself right to it and get out your money with the other hand. When he sees you do that he'll try to bluff you, say you ain't in on it; but you just tell him that don't go, this is an open game, and he's got to come through, and the crowd'll back you up. I stuck him once—a whole hundred first crack—and then he barred me. Watch him."

Dave watched. Saw the black card go down at one corner of the board; saw a bystander fumbling for a fivesharper, and probably at this moment they were dividing his sixty dollars—the price of old Slop-eye—between them.

Early next morning he was awake and astir. The recollection of his loss sent a sudden pang through his morning spirits, but he tried to close his mind to it.

into a profession. The spinning jenny was not invented by a spinner, nor the wireless telegraph by a telegraph operator, nor the science of agronomy by practical farmers.

"Progress depends upon a fullness of preparation exceeding the limits of anticipated requirement in practice. That is why I have never liked the phrase 'teachers' training class. Horses may be trained, and a well-trained horse may be depended on to do accurately and promptly the tricks that are taught him. But place him in a new situation or confront him with a new problem or an old one somewhat altered—and you may then learn clearly and easily the difference between training and education."—Montreal Herald.

Japanese "Maru."

The word "maru" attached to the name of every merchant ship and commonly accepted as meaning "ship" in reality has no known meaning. According to a Japanese authority the word is the survival of a custom centuries old. There are two opinions as to how the custom started. The story, the more likely to be the true one, is that in ancient times the Japanese attached "maru" to the name of anything precious or highly prized, as a horse to town, carrying a few articles of wear with him. It was only after a stiff fight that he could bring himself to part with his one companion. The last miles into town were ridden very slowly, with the boy frequently leaning forward and stroking the horse's neck and ears.

He sold horse and saddle for sixty dollars and took a room at a cheap hotel, where he found work and was walking through the streets of the little cow town. It snubbed him with its indifference. He became aware that he was very lonely. He realized that he had but one friend in the world; but one, and of her he knew not so much as her address.

He began to wonder whether he really had a friend at all; whether the girl would not discard him when he was of no further use, just as he had discarded his faithful old horse. Tears of loneliness and remorse gathered in his eyes, and a mist not of the twilight blurred the street lamps now glimmering from their poles. He felt that he had treated the horse very shabbily indeed. He wanted old Slop-eye back again. He suddenly wanted him with a terrific longing; wanted him more than anything else in the world. For the moment he forgot the girl and all his home-sickness centered about the beast which had been so long his companion and servant and friend.

"I'll buy him back in the mornin'; I will, sure as h—l," he said, in a sudden gust of emotion. "We got to stick together. I ain't playin' fair with him, but I'll buy him back. Perhaps I can red.

"That is smooth," he said. "I'd a sworn that was the black card."

"So it was—when you saw it," his companion explained. "But you were just like the sucker that played him. You couldn't help glancing at the jay getting out his money, and it was in that instant the trick was done. He's too quick for the eye, but that's how he does it."

Dave became interested. He saw two or three others lose five and ten. It was plain his companion's tip was straight. There was just one way to beat this game, but it was simple enough when you knew how. He sidled close to the table, making great pretense of indifference, but watching the cards closely with his keen black eyes. The dealer showed his hand, made a few quick passes, and the black card flew out to the right. This was Dave's chance. He pounced on it with his left hand, while his other plunged into his pocket.

"Sixty dollars on this one," he cried, and there was the triumphant note in his voice of the man who knows he has beaten the other at his own game.

"You ain't playin'," said the dealer. "You ain't in on this."

"That don't go," said Dave very quietly. "You're playin' a public game here, an' I chose to play with you this once. Sixty dollars on this card." He was fumbling his money on the table.

"You ain't playin'," repeated the dealer. "You're a butt-in. You ain't in this game at all."

"Sure he's in," said the crowd. "That ain't right," whined the

CARBON!

Rid System of Clogged-up Waste and Poisons with "Cascarets."

Like carbon clogs and chokes a motor, so the excess bile in liver, and the constipated waste in the bowels, produce foggy brains, headache, sour, acid stomach, indigestion, sallow skin, sleepless nights, and bad colds. Let gentle, harmless "Cascarets" rid the system of the toxins, acids, gases, and poisons which are keeping you upset.

Take Cascarets and enjoy the nicest, gentlest laxative-cathartic you ever experienced. Cascarets never gripe, sicken, or cause inconvenience. They work while you sleep. A box of Cascarets costs so little too.—Adv.

A Feeling of Security

You naturally feel secure when you know that the medicine you are about to take is absolutely pure and contains no harmful or habit producing drugs.

Such a medicine is Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, kidney, liver and bladder remedy. The same standard of purity, strength and excellence is maintained in every bottle of Swamp-Root.

It is scientifically compounded from vegetable herbs. It is not a stimulant and is taken in teaspoonful doses.

It is not recommended for everything. It is nature's great helper in relieving and overcoming kidney, liver and bladder troubles.

A sworn statement of purity is with every bottle of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root.

If you need a medicine, you should have the best. On sale at all drug stores in bottles of two sizes, medium and large. However, if you wish first to try this great preparation send ten cents to Dr.

Rest is the sweet sauce that is dished up in connection with hard labor.

BOSCHEE'S SYRUP.

A cold is probably the most common of all disorders and when neglected is apt to be most dangerous. Statistics show that more than three times as many people died from influenza last year, as were killed in the greatest war the world has ever known. For the last fifty-three years Boschee's Syrup has been used for coughs, bronchitis, colds, throat irritation and especially lung troubles. It gives the patient a good night's rest, free from coughing, with easy expectoration in the morning. Made in America and used in the homes of thousands of families all over the civilized world. Sold everywhere.—Adv.

THE BANE of old age is constipation. The bowels become weak and unable to perform their functions without aid. For this purpose only the mildest and gentlest laxative should be used. # THE JOY OF MOTHERHOOD

Came to this Woman after Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to Restore Her Health

Ellensburg, Wash.—"After I was married I was not well for a long time and a good deal of the time was not able to go about. Our greatest desire was to have a child in our home and one day my husband came back from town with a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and wanted me to try it. It brought relief from my troubles. I improved in health so I could do my housework; we now have a little one, all of which I owe to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. O. S. JOHNSON, R. No. 3, Ellensburg, Wash.

There are women everywhere who long for children in their homes yet are denied this happiness on account of some functional disorder which in most cases would readily yield to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Such women should not give up hope until they have given this wonderful medicine a trial, and for special advice write Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass. The result of 40 years experience is at your service.

MILLIONS Suffer from Acid-Stomach

Millions of people suffer year after year from ailments which really every part of the body, never dreaming that their ill health can be traced directly to acid-stomach. Here is the reason: poor digestion means poor nourishment of the different organs and tissues of the body. The blood is impoverished—becomes weak, thin, sluggish. Ailments of many kinds spring from such conditions. Biliousness, rheumatism, lumbago, sciatica, general weakness, loss of power and energy, headache, insomnia, nervousness, mental depression—even more serious ailments such as catarrh and cancer of the stomach, intestinal ulcers, cirrhosis of the liver, heart trouble—all of these can be traced directly to acid-stomach. Keep a sharp lookout for the first symptoms of acid-stomach—indigestion, heartburn, belching, food repeating, that awful painful bloating after eating, and sour, gassy stomach. EATONIC, the wonderful modern remedy for acid-stomach, is guaranteed to bring quick relief from these stomach troubles. Thousands say they never dreamed that anything could bring such speedy relief and make them feel so much better in any way. Try EATONIC and you, too, will be just as enthusiastic in its praise. Take your life worth living—no aches or pains, no blues or melancholy—no more of that tired, listless feeling. Be well and strong. Get back your physical and mental punch; your vim, vigor and vitality. You will always be well and as long as you have acid-stomach. So get rid of it now. Take EATONIC Tablets—they taste good—you eat them like a bit of candy. Your favorite heart EATONIC cents for a big box. Pays the Farmer Big Interest on Its Cost.

PLAN FOR COMBINATION BARN

Equipped So That Labor of Caring for Cows Can Be Done Easily and Quickly—Keeps the Cows Warm in Winter.

By WILLIAM A. RADFORD. Mr. William A. Radford will answer questions and give advice FREE OF COST on all subjects pertaining to the subject of building work on the farm, for the readers of this paper. On account of his wide experience as Editor, Author and Manufacturer, he is, without doubt, the highest authority on all these subjects. Address all inquiries to William A. Radford, No. 1827 Prairie avenue, Chicago, Ill., and only inclose two-cent stamp for reply.

It would seem to be a stretch of the imagination to compare a barn to a Liberty bond as an income producing investment. But when it is considered that a modern barn, equipped with labor-saving features will not only cut down the cost of operating a dairy farm, or any other farm, and will make the live stock more productive, it can easily be seen that a barn pays dividends just as a bond.

Cost of operation is an expense that very manufacturer watches with zeal-

At the end on one side is the bull pen, while on the other side is a feed room.

It will be noted by the floor plan that there are carrier tracks through the center of the barn, over the feed alley and on either side over the litter alleys. The carrier tracks provide an easy mode of carrying the feed to the mangers and to carry out the litter. No piece of barn equipment saves more steps, physical energy and time than feed and litter carriers that travel on overhead tracks.

The cow stable floor of this barn, as with practically every other modern barn, is of concrete. Set into the floor at the rear of the rows of stalls is a gutter, which catches the litter and enables the farmer to gather it, place it in the carrier and transport it to the manure piles. The carrier in the center of the barn conveys the hay and other feed directly to the stall heads. No more walking the length of the barn with a forkful of hay, where the carrier system is used.

While they are not shown on this plan, every farmer who has a water pressure system on his farm has individual drinking cups at each manure building they will erect next spring. It is worth any farmer's time and the small expense required to investigate this subject of health-producing barns and labor-saving barn equipment. Better barns will save the farmer a great deal of money, a fact he can learn to his own satisfaction if he will take the trouble to investigate.

How "Foolscap" Originated. Several explanations have been given of the meaning of the word "foolscap" as applied to a certain kind of paper. One of the explanations is that ous care. For the lower the cost of producing an article, the more the manufacturer will make, especially when he makes an article the price of which is fixed by the law of supply and demand. Lower costs make larger profits on the farm just as much as in any other manufacturing establishment. The farmer manufactures food. Whether or not he is getting all the profit possible depends on how much of the amount he gets for it is spent in producing it.

The modern barn is equipped so that the labor of caring for the cows that produce milk and butter can be done easily and quickly. Also the modern barn is so constructed that the cows will be warm in winter, and a comfortable cow is a better producer than an uncomfortable cow. Fresh air, sunshine and water, three of nature's gifts, are the things that increase the flow of milk some eight or ten per cent. From this brief description it will be seen that a modern barn is worth while on every farm. The barn itself and its equipment represent a fair-sized investment, but it is an investment that will pay good, big dividends in actual cash through saving of labor and increased production. Also there is the advantage of lightening the work around the barn, work that is done in the early morning and in the evening, which will enable the farmer to get better help.

This is the season of the year when farmers have the opportunity to plan that allows these elements to reach the cows is a barn that will increase the dairyman's profits.

Such a barn is shown in the accompanying illustration. It is designed to accommodate 25 cows, their calves and a bull, together with their winter's supply of hay.

In exterior appearance this barn is one that any farmer would be proud to own. Its gambled roof gives it a graceful appearance, and it looks what it is—a modern barn for an up-to-date farm.

The dimensions of this barn are 36 by 72 feet. It is wide enough to provide space for two rows of stalls, a feeding alley through the center and litter alleys along each side.

On one side are two sets of stalls, one having places for nine cows and the other seven. On the other side is a row of nine stalls and two calf pens, the larger one having seven mangers.

when Charles of England found his revenue short he granted certain privileges amounting to monopolies, and among these was the manufacture of paper, the exclusive right of which was sold to certain persons, who grew rich and enriched the government at the expense of those who were obliged to use the paper. At this time all English paper bore in watermarks, the royal arms. The parliament under Cromwell made a jest of this law and, among other indignities to the memory of Charles, it was ordered that the royal arms be removed from the paper and a fool's cap and bells be substituted. These were in their turn removed when the rump parliament was dismissed, but paper for the size of the parliament's journal still bears the name of "foolscap."

Many are called, but few choose to get up till they're called down.
