Bee Colonies Suffer

East Lansing, Feb.—That a large number of bee colonies which were wintered out of doors have been killed by the unusually severe weather of recent weeks, is the claim made by B. F. Kindig, of the Entomology Department at M. A. C.

"There is danger that any diseases which have been present in dead colonies will be spread to those that are healthy now," says Mr. Kindig. "The live colonies rob from the dead ones, and in this way get the diseases. The dead colonies should be gotten away before they are robbed, and any combs which show signs of disease can then be destroyed."

A short course for beekeepers will open at M. A. C. on February 16, and continue for two weeks. Lectures and demonstrations covering the fundamentals of good beekeeping will be taken up. The course is designed primarily for beginners, but will be comprehensive enough to offer work for any beekeeper.

Information on the beekeepers course may be had by writing to Ashley M. Berridge, Director Short Courses, M. A. C., East Lansing.

Rural Topics

East Lansing.—Disclosing and emphasizing the fundamental issue of present day American agricultural life, leading speakers who appeared before the general session of Farmers Week at the Michigan Agricultural College last week went to the heart of farm big convention.

A remarkable similarity of views on the basis problems which face the rural workers of today was shown by all the prominent speakers. An analysis of the addresses of such men as Governor Frank O. Lowden, of Illinois; Dean Alfred Vivian, Ohio State University; President Kenyon L. Butterfield, of Massachusetts Agricultural College; President J. R. Howard of the American Farm Bureau; and Dean Earnest W. Grovers, of New Hampshire State College showed that three main points were brought out by all: first, the farmer must have a better financial return for his efforts; second, rural life must be made more satisfying in social and intellectual ways; and third, the farmer must have a greater voice in the public affairs of state and nation.

Extensive exhibits of farm crops, horticultural, poultry, live stock, dairy products, household conveniences and farm machinery were on display at the college during the week. Ten states participated in the annual meetings. The attendance at the meetings of the week was estimated at close to 5,000, in spite of the fact that the state wide epidemic of influenza kept thousands away from East Lansing.

Church Federation

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 6.—A plan for organic union of Protestant churches in America was adopted here yesterday by delegates representing approximately 90 denominations, after three days' discussion.

The new movement will be under the guidance of the American Council of Organic Union of the Churches of Christ, the name officially selected. The plan was drawn by Henry W. Jessup, New York, representing the Presbyterian Church in the United States.

Dr. Wm. H. Roberts, stated clerk of the Presbyterian General Assembly and chairman of the ad interim committee which considered the plan, was unanimously chosen president of the council.

The plan was adopted with one dissenting vote, Dr. William McKinnin, Cincinnati, Presbyterian, objecting to the substitution of the words "Christian church" for "evangelical churches" in the preamble. The plan holds "for a totality in purely denominational affairs" with each church returning its credal statements, form of worship and form of government.

Simply Worn Out

How Many Women Are Like This?

Can anything be more wearing for women than the ceaseless round of household duties? Oh! the monotony of it all—work and drudge; no time to be sick; tired, ailing, yet cannot stop. There comes a time when something "snaps" and they find themselves "simply worn out," and to make matters worse, have contracted serious feminine disorder which almost always follows the constant overtaxing of a woman's strength.

Then they should remember that there is no remedy like Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—the experience of these two women establishes that fact:

Cedar Rapids, Ia.—"After the birth of my last child I had such painful spells that would unfit me entirely for my household work. I suffered for months and the doctor said that my trouble was organic ulcers and I would have to have an operation. That was an awful thing to me, with a young baby and four other children, so one day I thought of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and how it had helped me years before and I decided to try it again. I took five bottles of Vegetable Compound and used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."

Sandusky, Ohio.—"After the birth of my baby I had organic trouble. My doctor said it was caused by too heavy lifting and I would have to have an operation. I would not consent to an operation and let it go for over a year, having my sister do my work for me as I was not able to walk. One day my aunt came to see me and told me about your medicine—said it cured her of the same thing. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sensitive Wash and they have cured me. Now I do my own household work, wash-

I am ready and thankful to swear by your medicine any time. I am forty-four years old and have had a lady's illness of any kind for three years."—Mrs. H. KOENIG, 617 Ellis Blvd., Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

Stock Raising in WESTERN CANADA is as profitable as grain growing. Successes as wonderful as those from growing wheat, oats, barley, and flax have been made in raising horses, cattle, sheep and hogs. Bright, sunny climate, nutritious grasses, good water, enormous fodder crops—these spell success to the farmer and stock raiser. And remember, you can buy on easy terms.

Farm Land at $15 to $30 An Acre —land equal to that which through many years has yielded from 20 to 45 bushels of wheat to the acre—grazing land convenient to good grain farms at proportionately low prices. These lands have every rural convenience; good schools, churches, roads, telephones, etc., close to live towns and good markets.

If you want to get back to the farm, or to farm on a larger scale than is possible under your present conditions, investigate what Western Canada has to offer you.

Spices Used in Flavoring Not Generally Given Credit for Their Good Qualities.

Treasure Hidden in Mexico.

Vast treasures of silver and gold, stolen by bandits over a period of many years, are cached in the mountains of Chihuahua, Mexico, and in the remote and wild sections of the Mexican states of Durango, San Luis Potosi and Zacatecas, according to American mining men who have been investigating operation of foreign-owned mines in bandit-ridden sections of the southern re-ing bacteria.

Ginger, black, white and red pepper have little bactericidal effect, but the action of mustard is most marked. However, the best of all are cloves and cinnamon, which act through their essential oils (called eugenol and cinnamic aldehyde).
La Nature remarks that these researches are highly important, for they show that, even in the small quantities in which they are used these spices may be employed in preserving far better than chemical antiseptics, such as boric and salicylic acids, which are often added, though the French law prohibits their use.

New Philippine Industry.

A Philippine concern has recently bought in England a new tanker of 5,000 tons which is said to have been especially designed and built for the vegetable oil trade. It is understood that the vessel will be operated between Manila and European ports, transporting coconut oil consignments to Barcelona, Marseilles and possibly channel ports.

DEFENSE DOES NOT DENY TESTIMONY

NEWBERRY ATTORNEYS ADMIT TRUTH OF FIGURES AND FACTS AS SHOWN.

CONSPIRACY DENIED HOWEVER

Expenditure of Large Sums Admitted But Defense Contends Campaign Was Lawfully Conducted.

Grand Rapids.—Great masses of facts, largely uncontested, and columns of figures, also largely uncontested, have been laid before the jury in the trial of Senator Newberry and others in the United States district court here.

Never perhaps has there been so little contest for so much testimony as there has been during the first few days in the Newberry trial. On the facts, thus far, there has been comparatively little dispute, but on the interpretation of those facts the dispute has been great.

These facts have been brought in by the department of justice as part of its tremendous effort to prove a conspiracy to violate federal and state laws in the Newberry senatorial campaign.

The main body of the facts is accepted by the defense not as tending to show conspiracy, but as a part of the record and the chronicle of a regular campaign which, the Newberry forces contend, was carried on in obedience to the law.

This has become the most characteristic phase of this extraordinary trial. The government, which charges conspiracy, brings in witnesses, adduces facts, adduces figures. The defense, which denies conspiracy, has let witness after witness go without cross-examination. The cross-examinations which have been conducted are usually conducted so as to develop more testimony, not to impeach

LESS MEAT IF BACK AND KIDNEYS HURT

Take a Glass of Salts to Flush Kidneys if Bladder Bothers You.

Eating meat regularly eventually produces kidney trouble in some form or other, says a well-known authority, because the uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish; clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region; rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, com-for generations to flush clogged kidneys, to stimulate and activate urinary activity; also to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts cannot injure anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus avoiding serious kidney disease.—Adv.

You seldom love your enemies unless you find out they are not what you thought they were.

the government testimony, on the general grounds that no conspiracy had been shown to exist and that the acts alleged concerning some of the defendants were therefore not binding on the others. The objection came so often that it became a matter of routine, and he had only to offer "the usual objection" to draw Judge Sessions' terse "denied" in reply.

Mr. Littleton also moved to strike out the testimony concerning the Detroit bank accounts because it did not show that Truman H. Newberry had either deposited or checked out or caused to be deposited or checked any of the funds. This was also overruled.

The sums discussed in connection with the Commonwealth bank accounts reach a total of about $178,000. The Newberry committee in 1918 reported primary campaign expenditures of $176,000, and in his opinion addressed to the jury Judge Murfin conceded these figures to be incomplete.

The government, through the defendant-witness, Allan K. Moore, gave evidence for Truman H. Newberry during the trial.

How Charles H. Floyd suggested that Moore see Paul H. King; how King sent Moore to the late John D. Mangum; how Mangum sent Moore to the upper peninsula; how Roger Andrews of Menominee objected to Moore's working in that district; how Moore was sent to Benj. F. Reed of Bay City at Flint Sanitarium, and planned to go to some of the northern counties of the lower peninsula, were points brought out, and they showed how the Newberry headquarters directed the wide activities of its agents. Later Moore told the story of how he worked with Dr. William Smith, of Muskegon, and with the officers of the Railroad Men's Relief association, an organization of 10,000 to 14,000 members.

Allan K. Moore testified that he received $1,500 in salary in 20 weeks, and $1,298 for expenses, with between $800 and $900 to give to railroad men. However, in cross-examination Attorney Littleton brought out from the witness that the money paid to railroad men was paid for their work for distributing literature and circulating petitions, as compensation.

NEW FRONTIERS VERY REAL WOMEN EXERT QUEEN POWER

Nothing of an "Imaginary Line" About the Borders of the New European States.

Frontiers used to be "imaginary lines" or marks on a map. The miles and miles of new frontiers in Europe are not "imaginary" and not confined to maps. You can walk right up and touch them.

Out there in central and eastern Europe, frontiers are fine-tooth combs, that delay trains for hours at every crossing point. Some of the new frontiers are "flying walls" of soldiers with fixed bayonets. Others are guarded fences.

Travelers without exceptional credentials go through searching examinations, often bodily "friskings."

Soldiers armed to the teeth guard the trains and passengers during examinations and customs inspections, to see that nobody gets out or in without the official papers.

Roads at frontier points are also guarded by soldiers who preside over striped gates that go up and down like Sisters Dwelling on Mysterious Mount in Burma Undoubtedly Able to Charm Reptiles.

In the fastnesses of Mount Popa, a mysterious sacred mount in Burma, live two sisters who have achieved a wide reputation for their uncanny powers in charming deadly snakes. Ma Hpwa and her sister are the only living exponents of an art which has been handed down from generation to generation within the circle of their family. Their secret is most rigidly preserved, and at their death will be passed on to their next-of-kin, as it was handed on to them by their parents.

In a great number of cases so-called snake-charmers swindle the public by extracting the poison fangs of their pets, thereby rendering themselves safe from accident. There is tragic proof, however, to the genuine nature of the performance of Ma Hpwa and her family. In the death of a sister who disre-

A Hope.

"You see, Charley, dear," said young Mrs. Torkins, "the reason women are such a success in politics is that they reason directly and work immediately for the happiness of the home." "Good for them!" exclaimed the voice behind the newspaper. "Let's hope they'll go after this servant problem and get it out of the way first thing!"

The Seven Seas.

Did Kipling consult Hindu mythology when choosing the title for his well-known book, "The Seven Seas"? According to the Puranas, the earth is circular and flat, like the flower of a water lily. Its circumference is 1,000,000,000 miles. In the center is Mount Soomeroo.

MILLIONS Suffer from Acid-Stomach

Millions of people suffer year after year from ailments affecting practically every part of the body, never dreaming that their ill health can be traced directly to acid-stomach. Here is the reason: poor digestion means poor nourishment of the different organs and tissues of the body. The blood is impoverished—becomes weak, thin, sluggish. Ailments of many kinds spring from such conditions: Biliousness, rheumatism, lumbago, sciatica, general weakness, loss of power and energy, headache, insomnia, nervousness, mental depression—even more serious ailments such as catarrh and cancer of the stomach, intestinal ulcers, cirrhosis of the liver, heart trouble—all of these can often be traced directly to acid-stomach.

Keep a sharp lookout for the first symptoms of acid-stomach—indigestion, heartburn, belching, food repeating, that awful painful bloating after eating, and sour, gassy stomach. EATONIC, the wonderful modern remedy for acid-stomach, is guaranteed to bring quick relief from these stomach miseries. Thousands say they never dreamed that anything could bring such speedy relief—and make them feel so much better in every way. Try EATONIC and you, too, will be just as enthusiastic in its praise. Make your life worth living—no aches or pains—no blues or melancholy—no more of that tired, listless feeling. Be well and strong. Get back your physical and mental

ONLY those who have suffered the misery and torture of kidney trouble and have found their way back to health can appreciate the feeling of gratitude and desire to help other sufferers that caused Mr. E. A. Shanholtzer, Konantz, Colo., to write the following letter to Foley & Co.:

"I am writing this that some one who needs it may see it. I was troubled with my kidneys and bladder till sometimes I could not walk or ride, and I had to get on as often as twenty times in one night. A man asked me if I ever tried Foley Kidney Pills. I persuaded me to try a 30c bottle and to my surprise I found they helped me wonderfully. I went back and got a dollar bottle and then another, and I do believe they will make me well and out of my misery."

If any reader of this paper is suffering at the writer was suffering, and would like to know the action, will be glad to answer to the best of my message.

Foley Kidney Pills

Help overworked, weak or deranged hearts and bladder by their tonic, invigorating, healing action. They have been used successfully for kidney trouble and bladder ailments by men and women for many years. They are made of the highest-grade medicinal ingredients and contain no habit-forming drugs. Kidney trouble manifests itself by various symptoms - backache, rheumatic pains, lumbago, pain or swelling joints, sore muscles, floating specks, itching of eyes, etc. - the result of impurities and poisons which matter remaining in the blood stream. The kidneys are not doing their proper work of eliminating the disease-causing elements in keeping the blood stream pure. If suffering from kidney trouble, why not try Foley Kidney Pills!

CO-OPERATION TO CURB THE RIOT OF UNWISE SPENDING

Savings Societies, Schools, Women's Clubs, Unions, Lodges and Churches Aid Savings Movement.

By Albert Boswell, Director Co-Operating Organizations, Government Savings Organization, 7th District.

Establishment of harmonious and reciprocal relations between the citizen and the government by giving the people an opportunity to acquire a share in the government is one of the aims of the savings organization. Co-operation is the keynote of this thrift movement - the Treasury Department and the people working together for the common good.

The business of the savings organization is to promote savings and the purchase from the Treasury of the market of U. S. Government securities of all kinds and the continued holding thereof. In this, co-operating organizations play a large part in furthering the teaching of saving, not merely as an end in itself, but as a means of safe investment, which means government securities. Co-operating organizations contributing toward the success of the thrift movement, and their varied activities, may be set down as follows:

- 1. GOVERNMENT SAVINGS SOCIETIES - These are formed in industrial, mercantile and other associations and are organized as a group of members who employ their own funds for the purchase of government securities. To be eligible for membership in a savings society, the member must be a citizen of the United States. The savings society is organized for the purpose of promoting the purchase and holding of government securities. The government provides the funds for the purchase of government securities. the regular sale of Thrift and War Savings Stamps.

3. WOMEN'S ORGANIZATIONS - Next to the schools, organized groups of women probably are the most important factors in advancing thrift education. They are expected to:

- Establish classes in thrift and household economy through the use of the budget system. Make appeals to women who, through inheritance or participation in industry, have money to invest and who may be convinced of the wisdom of investing in government securities. Aid in carrying out the selling work in the schools in order to lighten the burden of the already overworked teacher. LABOR, FRATERNAL ORGANIZATIONS, ETC. - Labor organizations, fraternal societies, commercial associations, agricultural bodies, churches and other fraternal organizations are expected to:

Investment in government securities is being urged by experts in rural economies for farmers, who do not need to put the money back into their farming, as the best disposition for the farmer's surplus. They point out that investment of this surplus in land that must be leased or farmed by tenants usually will not pay as much net income as government bonds; also that bonds are useful as collateral for notes in banks to obtain temporary capital. The holding of government securities is urged, therefore, as good policy for farmers.

THRIFT FUNDS WAY TO SEA.

A STRANGE STORY

Told by a Well Known Detroit Man

Detroit, Mich.—"When I was about twenty-three years of age I suffered from general break-down in health, due to worry and overwork. I was also troubled with catarrh of long standing. To make matters still worse, my lungs became affected and a persistent cough sapped what little vitality I had left. My appetite became erratic, indigestion resulted and constipation followed."

"All my savings, about $800.00, went for medicine, in payment for drugs and medical attention. I consulted some of the leading physicians in St. Louis and I have every reason to believe they tried to help me, but lacked the skill. After seven months of suffering when I had given up all hope of ever being well again, my wife asked me if I would try one more combination of remedies, if only to please her. Of course I complied with her wish, at the same time telling her not to expect too much from them. She had me use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets and Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, according to directions, and in spite of the physicians' predictions, in spite of my own doubts and misgivings, I gradually began to feel better. Hope revived—I took a new interest in life. In less than three months these remedies had affected a cure and I have never been troubled with catarrh since. "Whenever I don't feel just right I take a few days' treatment of the Golden Medical Discovery. If my bowels need regulating I take the Pleasant Pellets. The result is always the same—almost immediate relief. Can any sane person blame me for having faith in these remedies? And is it not just natural that I should recommend them to my friends? For thirty years I have used Dr. Pierce's remedies and they have never failed me yet. At the age of fifty-three I have the strength, the agility and the general physical efficiency of a man of thirty-five. If I am enthusiastic in the praise of these remedies it is due to the fact that there is a reason."—HARRY VANDERBURG, 313 Euclid Ave.

Their eyes met, and each of them knew what it meant. It meant announcement to her mother that she had met Dave downtown. It meant perhaps a supposition on her mother's part that she had gone downtown for that purpose. It was far-reaching. But she said simply, "I should enjoy driving home with you."

On the way they planned that the following Sunday they would drive into the foothills together. Of course they would ask Mrs. Hardy to accompany them. Of course. But it might happen that Mrs. Hardy would be indisposed. Irene was of the opinion that what her mother needed now was rest. As it happened Mrs. Hardy was at the gate. She greeted Dave cordially enough. Encouraged by her mood, Irene determined to settle the Sunday program at once.

"Dave was good enough to bring me up in his car," she said. "And just think! He invites us to drive into the foothills with him next Sunday. Will you come? It will be delightful. Or are you feeling—"

"Mr. Elden is very kind," said Mrs. Hardy, with dignity. "I have no doubt Mr. Conward will accompany us. He is to call this evening and I will ask him. . . . Yes, I think it very likely we will go."

The summer wore on, and autumn followed on its heels. The processes which had been discerned by Conward and other astute operators were now apparent to the mob which forever follows in the wake of the successful, but usually at such a distance as to

with the progress of events. He and Irene often motored together, frequently accompanied by Mrs. Hardy, sometimes by Conward as well, but occasionally alone. And Irene made no secret of the fact that she preferred the trips in which only she and Dave participated.

The gradual shrinkage of values to the vanishing point imposed upon Dave many business duties which he would very gladly have evaded. The office of Conward & Elden, which had once been besieged by customers eager to buy, was now a center of groups no less eager to sell; and when they could not sell they contrived to lay the blame upon the firm which had originally sold to them. Although, for the most part, these were men and women who had bought purely from the gambler's motive, they behaved toward the real-estate dealer as though he had done them an injustice when the finger of fortune turned up a loss instead of a profit. For such people Dave had little sympathy, and if they persisted in their murmurings he told them so with becoming frankness.

Then there was Merton, the widower with sick lungs and the motherless boy, who had brought his little savings to the West in the hope of husbanding out his life in the dry, clear atmosphere and saving his son from the white death that had already invaded their little family. With a cruelty almost unbelievable Conward had talked this man into the purchase of property so far removed from the city as to possess no value except as farm land; and the little savings which were to ward off sickness and death, or if that could not be, mis-did him little credit—"I had a plan, but it can't be worked out. I have been trying to raise a little money on my lots, but the mortgage people just look at me."

"What is your plan?" said Dave kindly. "Any plan, no matter how bad, is always better than no plan."

"I thought," said Merton timidly—"I thought if I could build a little shack on the lots I could live there with the boy and we could raise a very fine garden. The soil is very fertile and at least we should not starve. And the gardening would be good for me, and I could perhaps keep some chickens and work out at odd jobs as well. But it takes money to build even a very small shack."

"How much money?" demanded Dave.

"If I had a hundred dollars—"

"Bring your title to me tomorrow; to me personally, you understand. I'll advance you five hundred dollars."

Merton sprang up, and there was more enthusiasm in his eyes than had seemed possible. "You will? But I don't need that much—"

"Then use the surplus to live on."

So the Merton affair was straightened away in a manner which left Dave more at peace with his conscience. But another event, much more dramatic and far-reaching in its effects upon his life, was already ripe for the enacting.

There were cases that could not be turned away with a sharp answer. Bert Morrison, for instance. Bert had never mentioned her "investment" since the occasion already recorded. She greeted Dave with the sociability due to their long-standing friendship; and her calm avoidance of the subject hurt him more than the abuse of all his irate patrons.

Business conditions had necessitated unwonted economy in the office affairs of Conward & Elden, as a result of which many old employees had been laid off and others had been replaced by cheaper and less experienced labor.

"I think you are absolutely innocent," he said, gravely, "but—it's the innocent thing that gets caught."

The girl had broken into violent tears. "Whatever shall I do? What can I do?" she moaned. "Oh, why didn't somebody tell me? What can I do?"

He let her passion run on for a few minutes, and then he sought, as gently as he could, to win her back to some composure. "Some one has told you," he said—"in time. You don't have to go. Don't be afraid of anything Conward may do. I will settle this score with him."

She controlled herself, but when she spoke again her voice had fear and shame in it. "I—I hate to tell you, Mr. Elden, but I must tell you—I took—I let him give me some money—to buy things. He said maybe I was short of money and I would want to buy some new clothes—and he would pay me extra, in advance—and he gave me fifty dollars—and—and—I've spent it!"

BALD HEADS AT PEACE TABLE

Many Diplomats Had Whiskers and Mustaches, but Lacked Hair on Their Craniums.

An amusing sidelight on the recent peace conference at Versailles is thrown by a correspondent, who not only reported the proceedings proper, but took notes regarding the hair, mustaches, beards and whiskers of the peacemakers.

Two-thirds of the delegates were more or less bald. Perhaps some of them made up for this by wearing mustaches. Out of 65 men who sat round the peace table, all had mustaches but 14.

Whiskers, on the other hand, were not popular. Only three people wore them, and by a curious coincidence the names of all these three people began with V. They were Venizelos of Greece, Vandervelde of Belgium and Vassitch of Serbia. The latter's whiskers were particularly prominent.

In regard to dress, there was less formal attire than one might have imagined. The English paid no special attention to dress. High hats and frock-

Says Dodd's Kidney Pills Wonderful Remedy

Mrs. Della Olson, of New London, Wis., like many others, knows after experiencing the use of Dodd's Kidney Pills that they are unexcelled. Here is what Mrs. Olson recently wrote us:

"I suffered with rheumatism for years. There was a gravel deposit in the urine and I had frequent headaches. I had dark circles around my eyes and was always tired. I bought a box of your Dodd's Kidney Pills and am glad I did, for I secured quick relief and think they are a wonderful remedy."

Mighty few people realize in time that kidney trouble is making its advances upon their health. They put off treatment—they say, "Oh, I'll be all right in a day or two." And the malady tightens its grip. Result: Bright's Disease, hospital treatment, doctors' bills—often death.

When you have backache, dizziness, pain in loins, stiffness in stooping or lifting, spots before the eyes, sediment in secretions, rheumatic pains, or swollen joints, immediately start toning the kidneys by the regular use of the remedy endorsed by hundreds of users—DODD'S kidney Pills.

If your druggist does not carry these, order direct, sending us 50c in stamps and mention your druggist's name.

gear, and the same mechanism that had built up was now tearing down. As the boom had fed upon itself, carrying prices to heights justifiable only to the most insane optimism, so did the subsequent depression bear down upon values until they reached depths justifiable only to the most abandoned despondency. The rosy bubble, inflated with the vapors of irresponsible speculation, had dissolved into thin air.

Mrs. Hardy was among the last to admit that she had bought on an ebbing tide. She contended that her house was well worth the price she had paid; what if speculation had come to a stop? So much the better; her house was still worth its price. She would stand firm.

Mrs. Hardy consulted Conward. It had grown to be her habit to consult Conward on all matters in which she found an interest.

"How is it, Mr. Conward," Mrs. Hardy said to him one evening over her fancy work—for she practiced an indefatigable industry in matters of no importance—"how is it that there is no demand for property? You are a real-estate expert; you should be as good today as it was a year ago? Doesn't it occupy the same site? Are not the farms still producing?"

"That's just it, dear Mrs. Hardy. Why, indeed? Simply because the booster has given way to the calamity howler. Its psychological explanation is simple enough. The world lives by faith. Without faith there would be neither seedtime nor harvest. That is true of raising cities as well as of raising crops. But there are always those who ridicule faith; always were, always will be. And as soon as faith disappears things begin to sink."

"Ah!" said Mrs. Hardy gently. "So we owe all this—these empty houses and shops, unsalable property and everything to those who have lost faith—or never had it. To men like Mr. Elden, for instance. You remember how he tried to discourage me from the very first—tried to break down my faith—that was it, Mr. Conward—I see it all very plainly now—and he and others like him have brought things to their present pass. Well, they have a great responsibility."

As a result of this discussion Dave found himself rather less popular with Mrs. Hardy than before. Dave accepted her displeasure with a light-heartedness that was extremely trying to the good woman's temper. Had it not been for his desire to spare Irene any unhappiness he would have treated it with open flippancy. He was engaged in the serious business of capturing the heart of Irene Hardy—a task made none the easier by the self-imposed condition that he must conduct no offensive but must await with such patience as he could command the voluntary capitulation of the besieged. On the whole he told himself he had no reason to be dissatisfied the transaction, was valueless and unsalable.

Merton had called on Dave with respect to his investment. Dave had at first been disposed to tell him frankly that the property, for which he had paid twenty dollars a foot, was barely worth that much an acre. But a second look at the man changed his purpose.

"I know you were stung, Merton," he said, "shamelessly stung. You are one of those unsuspecting fellows who think everybody is going to play fair with them. You belong to the class who keep all kinds of rogues and scoundrels in easy circumstances. You might almost be charged with being accessories. Now, just to show how I feel about it—how much did you pay for those lots?"

"Three thousand dollars. It was all I had."

"Of course it was. If you had had more you would have paid more. I suppose Conward justified himself with the argument that if he didn't take your easy money someone else would, which is doubtless true. But just to show you how I feel about it—I'll give those lots from you for three

"I Think You Are Absolutely Innocent," He Said Gravely.

Stenographers who had been receiving a hundred dollars a month could not readily bring themselves to accept fifty, and some of them had to make way for new girls, fresh from the business colleges. Such a new girl was Gladys Wardin—pretty, likable, inexperienced. Her country home had offered no answer to her ambitions, and she had come to the city with the most dangerous equipment a young woman can carry—an attractive face and an unsophisticated confidence in the goodness of humanity. Conward had been responsible for her position thought to her except to note that she was a willing worker and of comely appearance.

Returning to the office one Saturday evening Dave found Miss Wardin making up a bundle of paper, pencils and carbon paper. She was evidently in high spirits, and he smilingly asked if she intended working at home over Sunday.

"Oh, didn't Mr. Conward tell you?" she answered, as though surprised that the good news had been kept a secret. "He is to spend a day or two at one of the mountain hotels, and I am to go along to do his correspondence. Isn't it just lovely? I have so wanted to go to the mountains, but never felt that I could afford it. And now I can combine business with pleasure."

The smile died out of Dave's eyes, and his face became more set and stern than she had ever seen it.

"Why, what's the matter, Mr. Elden?" she exclaimed. "Is anything wrong?"

He found it hard to meet her frank, unsuspecting eyes; hard to draw back the curtains of the world so much that those eyes would never again be quite so frank and unsuspecting. "Miss Wardin," he said, "did Conward tell you that?"

"What? About going to the mountains? Of course. He said he was taking some work with him, and he wondered if I would mind going along to do it, and he would pay the expenses, and—and—" There was a quick, hard catch in her voice, and she seized Elden's arm violently. Her eyes were big and round; her pretty face had gone suddenly white.

"Oh, Mr. Elden, you don't think—you don't think—that I—that he— You wouldn't believe that—"

World is in its infancy.

We should not, I think, proceed far in this study without being convinced that civilization is still in its infancy. How distant is the human mind from the perfection to which it may attain—from the perfection for which it was created? How incapable are we of grasping the whole future destiny of man! Let any one even descend into his own mind—let him picture there the highest point of perfection to which man, to whom society may attain that he can achieve, that he can hope; let him then contrast this picture with the present state of the world, and he will feel assured that society and civilization are still in their childhood; that however great the distance they have advanced, that which they have before them is incomparably, is infinitely, greater.—Guizot's History of Civilization.

and Augustus was extremely nervous when invited to dine at the old boys' rooms. He determined, however, to be prepared to meet any situation tactfully. The sitting room was on the first floor, and, sure enough, when it came to carving the roast, a dull knife upset the colonel's equilibrium. He strode to the door and flung the knife downstairs after the servant Augustus, with great presence of mind, seized the roast and threw that down, too. "What the deuce do you mean by that?" spluttered the old boy as soon as he was able to speak. "I'm very sorry, sir," said Gussie, coolly. "I—er—I fancied you were going to dine downstairs."

"OVERTHROW WORLD ORDER!" CRY COMMUNISTS

Manifesto of Communist International, Seized in U. S. Department of Justice Raids, Tells "Reds" Own Story of Their Plans for World Wide Plunder.

jev, L. Trotsky and Fritz Platten.

Alongside the dethroned dynasties of the Romanoffs, Hohenzollerns and Hapsburgs, and the capitalistic cliques of these lands, the rulers of France, England, Italy and the United States stand revealed in the light of unfolding events and diplomatic disclosures in their immeasurable villainess.

Spurning the half-heartedness, hypocrisy and corruption of the decadent official socialist parties we, the Communists assembled in the Third International, feel ourselves to be the direct successors of the heroic efforts and martyrdom of a long series of revolutionary generations from Babeuf to Karl Liebknecht and Rosa Luxembourg. As the First International foresaw the future development and pointed the way; as the Second International gathered together and organized millions of the proletariats, so the Third International is the international of open mass action of the revolutionary realization, the international of deeds. Socialist criticism has sufficiently stigmatized the bourgeois world order. The task of the International Communist Party is now to overthrow this order and to erect in its place the structure of the socialist world order. We urge the working men and women of all countries to unite under the Communist banner, the emblem under which the first great victories have already been won.

Proletarians of all lands! In the war against imperialistic barbarity, against monarchy, against the privileged classes, against the bourgeois state and bourgeois property, against all forms and varieties of social and national oppression—UNITE!

Under the standard of the Workingmen's Councils, under the banner of the Third International, in the revolutionary struggle for power and the Dictatorship of the Proletariat, proletarians of all countries UNITE!

The revolutionary era compels the proletariat to make use of the means of battle which will concentrate its entire energies, namely, mass action, with its logical resultant, direct conflict with the governmental machinery in open combat. All other methods, such as revolutionary use of bourgeois parliamentarism, will be of only secondary significance.

from the direct enemies of Capitalism and enemies of the communist revolution, in which role the Social Democrats of the Right appear, but also from the Party of the Center (Kautskians), who desert the proletariat at the critical moment in order to come to terms with its open antagonists.

The growth of the revolutionary movement in all lands, the dangers of suppression of this revolution through the coalition of capitalistic States, the attempts of the Socialist betrayers to unite with one another (the formation of the Yellow "International" at Berne), and to give their services to the Wilsonian League; finally, the absolute necessity for co-ordination of proletarian actions—all these demand the formation of a real revolutionary and real proletarian Communist International. This International, which subordinates the so-called national interests to the interests of the international revolution, will personify the mutual help of the proletarians of the different countries, for without economic and other mutual helplessness the proletariat will not be able to organize the new society.

Inc calculable are the sacrifices of the working class. Their best—Liebknecht, Rosa Luxembourg—they have lost. Against this the proletariat must defend itself, defend at any price. The Communist International calls the entire world proletariat to this final struggle.
