THEY'RE OFF!

CLASS OF 1920
MAKES FAREWELL BOW

This is the week when the graduating class finishes its work in school and entertains and is being entertained. The Junior Reception, Baccalaureate Address, Class Picnic and Commencement Exercises were carried out successfully and all who present at the various functions were well pleased with the entertainment.

Junior Reception

Last Friday evening, June 18, the Juniors tendered a very pretty reception to the class of 1920, at the home of Harvey Johnson. The house was very tastefully decorated in old rose and silver, the senior class colors, with a profusion of fern leaves.

The evening's entertainment was cards, followed by an informal program which was very much enjoyed by all present. Mr. Weeks spoke of the great need of school spirit.

He said this could be developed only by the co-operation of the student body with the instructors. Following the program the guests were directed to choose which boat they preferred of those suspended from the decorations, wherein their fates (for the lunch hour) were revealed. After a very mirthful time spent in locating said "fates", dainty refreshments were served by the Juniors, assisted by two of the Sophomore girls.

On the Sunday evening, Sunday night the Federated Church was well filled with friends who came with the graduating class to hear the words of spiritual and moral advice given by Rev. J. E. Cook.

The altar was tastefully decorated with ferns and flowers. The music by the choir was excellent and the talk from the pulpit—not in any sense a sermon—was listened to attentively by all present.

Rev. Cook emphasized the growing need of education in these modern times and showed how one is handicapped in life's struggle without a good education. With out being at all prosaic the address was interesting to all.

Soph-Frosh Picnic

The picnic given by the Sophomores and Freshmen in honor of the Class of 1920 was held at the Bluffs. An unscheduled part of the day's doings was a visit to the freight wreck at Lakeland in the morning.

The Junior classes entertained the graduates in good style. A fine dinner was enjoyed and then came boating, swimming and more or less of promenading by happy young couples along the beach and through the woodland paths and byways. Some made the waterways trip in launches through the lakes and streams from Lakeland to the Bluffs. The return was made before evening after a delightful day.

Commencement Exercises

Wednesday evening, the 23rd, the Class as a whole met for the last time as high school students, some to continue their studies elsewhere, others to immediately take up the serious duties of life.

The stage decorations were done under the competent supervision of Mrs. Doyle and the result fairly surpassed all expectations. In order to make the dilapidated stages setting presentable it was necessary to hide every inch of exposed surface. This was accomplished after careful planning and much labor.

The files and sets were paneled with fabrics of the class colors, Old Rose and Silver, broken by intertwining Myrtle. The top was draped in a single festoon centering in a pendant of Myrtle, the lights partially obscured by the class colors. Above all the Class Motto, "We Finish to Begin" told of the high aspirations of the Class.

The stage proper appeared from the front to be a solid mass of ferns, broken only by clusters of the Class Flower—Ophelia Rose. Here were grouped the members of the class—seventeen in all—sweet girl-graduates and many young fellows, completing a picture indeed pleasing to the eye and long to be remembered.

From Salutatory to Valedictory, every number of the program was delivered successfully without a single hitch, each number being enthusiastically received by the large audience. The Class of 1920 has passed out and with its departure each member leaves a community regretful at the departure but with best wishes for the future of all.

A SOLITARY VOTE CAST AGAINST THE EDISON FRANCHISE

When the election board counted the ballots Monday night after the special election held for the purpose of either confirming or repudiating the Township Board's action in allowing the Edison Company to enter Putnam Township for the purpose of furnishing electricity, it was found that only one vote out of a total of 223 was cast against the proposition.

The overwhelming victory is indeed gratifying to all the citizens who have so anxiously awaited the time when adequate lighting facilities would be provided in Pinckney. And after the practically unanimous vote of Monday no possible doubt will be entertained as to the sentiment of the people in this community as to their desires in this respect.

WRECK AT LAKELAND

Tuesday morning about nine o'clock while the local Ann Arbor train was discharging freight at the Lakeland station a heavy freight train from the south crashed into the rear end and a regular smash-up was the result.

The engineer and fireman of the on-rushing train, seeing that a collision could not be averted, jumped from their engine and escaped with minor injuries.

The locomotive and the first four cars of the freight engine were jumbled together in a chaotic mass of damaged freight, twisted and bent iron and wooden splinters.

It was stated that it was customary to have signalmen stationed at each end of unloading trains, but no signalmen were at these stations in this instance.

Railroad men are always reticent on occasions of wrecks and this time was no exception. No information could be had from them regarding orders or where the responsibility rests for the wreck.

If the collision had happened a few feet farther west the depot would have been demolished and a loss of life would have resulted, as a large number of people were waiting at the depot for the passenger train nearly due. Among those present was Will Curlett of Pinckney, an eye witness to the collision.

OBITUARY

George Younglove was born in the township of Gorham, Ontario County, New York, May 4, 1827 and died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Lyman C. Gardner, Iosco, Mich., June 18, 1920, aged 93 years, one month and fourteen days.

In 1830 he came to Michigan with his parents, and lived for six years near Dixboro, Washtenaw County. In 1836 located in Marion on the farm he managed till last fall.

He was married April 1, 1857, to Margaret A. Lawson of Genoa. Four children were born to them, of which two survive him, Lyle C. Younglove of Detroit and Mrs. Lynn C. Gardner of Iosco. One son died in childhood and Burt J. of Detroit 8 years ago, leaving a widow and three children. His death occurred two years prior to that of his mother, who died in Detroit in March, 1914.

In early life he became interested in Masonic affairs and had a member of the Pinckney lodge for 69 years.

He has acted well his part in life and, being a pioneer, endured many hardships and privations unknown to the people of the present generation, but he regarded them lightly and by his honesty, hard work and frugality made for himself a beautiful and comfortable home while at the same time he won for himself the respect of the community and leaves a large circle of friends to mourn his departure.

The funeral services were held at his late home last Sunday afternoon, Rev. C. D. Ellis officiating. Interment in the Gilks cemetery under Masonic auspices.

Cash Sales

For some time past we have been carefully considering a change to a Straight Cash Basis, owing to the fact that we ourselves are compelled to pay cash for at least 90 per cent of all the goods we buy. In fact, the balance of our goods have been paid for weeks in advance the past few months, owing to delayed traffic conditions.

To do this requires an extra amount of surplus money, which you will all agree has been very hard to obtain in the past.

We have seriously debated with the question, and as a result of our deliberation, on

THURSDAY, JULY 1, 1920

We will Begin to Operate on a Strictly Cash Basis

Our Credit Accounting System is practically worn out and to replace would mean an expenditure of no less than $200.00 to care for the credit accounts as of old. Hence you may readily see that we feel fully justified in making the change.

Remember, July 1, 1920, we cease all credit accounts, as we must discard our old account credit register. Please do not be afraid to carry over your accounts to your new books, as we would be compelled to inform you that the credit will be Sales Cash."

We thank you for all past patronage and trust you will bear with us and help us in our new move, which we feel will be far better for all concerned.

Yours,

MONKS BROS.

LOCUSTS MENACE UPPER MICHIGAN

DAMAGE TO CROPS IN TRAVERSE REGION ESTIMATED AT MILLION DOLLARS.

STATE APPEALED TO FOR HELP

Fields Leveled As Though Swept By Prairie Fires According to Latest Reports.

Cadillac, Mich.—Northern Michigan is still crying for aid from the grasshopper scourge. The insect menace is rapidly becoming more acute and already $1,000,000 worth of the 1920 crop has been destroyed. Fields are being completely leveled, hedges are being eaten as fast as the shoots show above the ground, and wheat, beans and corn are blighted as effectually as though swept by a forest fire.

Appeals are being made to the state to get poisons into the stricken territory soon or thousands of farmers will be driven from the farms.

Two tons of white arsenic ordered from Detroit, reported shipped were located a week later still in Detroit where the express office had held the consignment, because the packages were slightly overweight. It is this red tape that must be cut, say officials of the Michigan Potato Growers' exchange, which is handling the poison orders.

Wexford county supervisors last spring appropriated $1,000 to fight the hoppers. This amount is sufficient to buy 5,000 pounds of arsenic, or sufficient to treat 15,000 acres of land, or two-thirds of a township.

It will cost $24,500 to properly cover Wexford county with grasshopper poison and the farmers of this section cannot spend that much money without state aid. The crop is doomed.

PRESIDENT IS REGAINING VIGOR

From League Committee issue.

New York—President Wilson's nine months of illness "have neither daunted his spirit nor impaired in the slightest degree his splendid intellect," according to the New York World, which last week published a copyrighted interview of its Washington correspondent with the President.

Within the last two months, the correspondent says, the President has gained more than 20 pounds and his ultimate complete recovery is assured.

The President told the correspondent, in discussing the political campaign, that the League of Nations was the dominant issue and he expects the Democrats at San Francisco to repeat his challenge for a referendum on the League. The issue is "too deep for political scullduggery," the President is quoted as saying.

President Wilson told the correspondent he had not aided any candidate for the nomination at San Francisco.

PALMER TO SEEK PROFITEERS

Orders Investigation of Bituminous Coal Prices.

Washington.—A drive on profiteers in bituminous coal has been ordered by Attorney General Palmer.

All federal district attorneys were ordered to give special attention to charges of such profiteering and to seek indictments where investigation warranted.

Threatened high prices for fall clothing are to be nipped in the bud by the department of justice. Howard Figg, special assistant to Attorney General Palmer announced, the beginning of a drive aimed at the high price of fall wearing apparel, which will be along the same lines as those which brought spring prices tumbling.

The plan is to organize public sentiment against heavy buying at the opening of the season, when the high prices will be at their peak if they are high at all.

MARINES GUARD MANZANILLO

Sent to Protect American Refugees From Bandit Raids.

San Francisco.—Threatened by Mexican bandits, who have twice raided the town of Manzanillo, on the Pacific coast of Mexico, the American consulate and 100 American refugees are being guarded by landing parties from the United States destroyer Thornton, according to passengers who arrived here from Mexico on board the steamship Senator.

Officers of the Senator said they found Manzanillo to be in a state of terror, as a result of a bandit raid during which the town was looted.

BERGDOLL, FUGITIVE SLACKER, BEING SOUGHT AT MICHIGAN RESORTS

Grand Rapids, Mich.—Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, millionaire Philadelphia draft evader, is being sought in the resort region of northern Michigan, where, according to new clues, he has taken refuge. Bergdoll was trailed to Jackson two weeks ago, but managed to make a getaway from that city. Colonel Robert J. Bates, chief of the department of justice in this city, has received word of the above facts. It is believed that Bergdoll despite wide publicity he has received, may be passing himself off as one of the many summer idlers at some fashionable resort in Emmet or Charlevoix county.

Colonel Bates could make no statement as to proceedings. Bergdoll is well known in racing circles in Michigan, as he and his brother frequently visited Grand Rapids, Kalamazoo and Detroit during special events.

DETROIT HITS MILLION MARK

U. S. Census Figures Give City Fourth Place in Country.

Detroit—Detroit is the fourth largest city in the United States, with a population of 993,739, seventeenth in the world, and the only city of 100,000 or more which has more than doubled in population in the last 10 years. Cleveland's population is 796,836.

Announcement to this effect last week by the census board at Washington loosed a flood of congratulatory telegrams from administrative heads and civic associations of Cleveland, Buffalo, St. Louis and Pittsburgh "in recognition of the numerous virtues out of which has grown this important result."

Because of Highland Park and Hamtramck, cities within the city, Detroit at the same time is in the unique position of having more than a million persons inside its boundaries and yet not having them. The combined pop-

PERKINS, BIG FINANCIER, DEAD

Was Former Morgan Partner and Founder of Progressive Party.

Stamford, Conn.—George W. Perkins, former partner of J. P. Morgan & Co., and one of the founders of the Progressive Party, died last week in Stamford Hall Sanitorium.

The affection to which Mr. Perkins succumbed is believed to have been the result of influenza and pneumonia contracted while serving with the Y. M. C. A. in France during the war.

Mr. Perkins was once described by Andrew Carnegie as "the man with the million-dollar smile." Whether or not this was the secret of his financial success, the fact remains that he played with millions in a score of different fields in the packed years of his activity in Wall Street.

He was born in Chicago Jan. 31, 1862, and he never had more than a common school education.

MURDER MYSTERY IN MACOMB

Body of Well Dressed Man Found Near Mt. Clemens.

Mt. Clemens, Mich.—The body of a well dressed man was found a short distance from the shore of Lake St. Clair by Deputy Coroner William Sperlich. The pockets of the trousers were turned inside out.

Identification of the body could not be made, two cards bearing different names and addresses having been found in the clothing. Police are convinced the man was robbed, slain and the body thrown into the water.

One card bore the name D. F. Mortimer, special representative of the Dominion Insurance company, Toronto, Canada, the other that of E. Ross of the Toronto Board of Trade.

The man was about 50 years old.

Riley, special assistant to Attorney-General Palmer, Marcus Blakemore, of Louisville, Ky., president of the national preservers and fruit products association, and representatives of two large sugar refineries.

Novelist Booth Tarkington was talking about the cowardly attack that a gang of Germans had made on a solitary French officer in the restaurant of the Hotel Adlon in Berlin.

"The Germans," he said, "were unspeakable in the beginning, and they will be unspeakable to the end."

He shook his head thoughtfully.

"People can't change," he said. "Henry Labouchere was born a fearless wit, and a fearless wit he died. A few hours before his death, you know, Labouchere's nephew upset a tiny spirit lamp that was burning by the bedside. The dying man awoke out of a fitful doze and saw the miniature conflagration.

"Flames?" he said. "Not yet, I think."

"And he laughed quizzically and dozed again."

Had Many Sleeping Places.

The average man probably sleeps in 100 beds or so during long lifetime. A veteran commercial traveler, whose home is in New York, can afford to smile at this record, for, he says, "I calculate that I have slept in at least 8,000 beds during my forty-odd years on the road, and I have slept well in them all."

LADY LARKSPUR

MEREDITH NICOLSON

ILLUSTRATION BY CHARLES SORRENTY JOHN

"Flynn has caught the spirit!" cried Alice exultingly. "Haven't you, Flynn?"

Flynn, turning to confirm this, caused the car to swerve and graze a truck piled high with household goods.

"We may elude the pursuing knights," I suggested, "but some village constable may take it into his head to pinch us."

"Oh, that would be lovely," cried Alice. "And we'll telegraph dear Mr. Torrence to come and bail us out."

We reached Barton at nine o'clock and after an informal supper I listened to Antoine's solemn reports as I walked to the garage. The prisoner had made no sign, he said, and nothing had occurred during the day.

"But there's this, Mr. Singleton, which you ought to know, sir. The old Tyringham people don't like the goings on here. You'll admit it's all mighty queer. I don't complain, sir, but some of the boys threaten to leave, sir. And I look at it this way, that nobody understanding what the spying and bribes offered and taking prisoners is all about, is most peculiar. We got to know where we stand, that's what it's come to, sir. And the widow being flightylike and Flynn coming home and saying nothing, but shaking his head when we ask him where he's been—You see the whole of it, thanks to me."

Expect of things was true, but I didn't hear the swish of shrubbery and the scraping of their feet on the rough slope.

"How will that do?" asked Alice. "Beautifully," replied Mrs. Farnsworth. "Now go ahead from the beginning of the scene."

Cautiously drawing back the branches, I espied Alice striking a pose on a mammoth rock. She bent forward, clasping her knees, and with an occasional glance at what appeared to be an open book beside her, she began:

"You ask me who I am, my lord? It matters not at all who or what I am; let it suffice that berries are my food and the brook that sings behind me gives me drink. To be one thing or another is weariness. Would you ask yonder oak for a name, or trouble the wind with like foolish questions? No; it is enough that a tree is strong and fine to look upon and that a wind has healing in its wings."

With her head to one side and an arresting gesture, and throwing into her voice all its charm and a new compelling innocence and sweetness, she continued:

"But you would have a name? Then, Oh foolish one, so much I will tell you: Yesterday I was Helen, who launched a thousand ships and shook the topless towers of Ilion. Today I am Rosalind in the forest of Arden, and tomorrow I may be Antigone, or Ariel or Viola, or what you will. I am what I make myself or choose to be. I pray you, let that suffice."

My face was wet with perspiration, and my heart thumped wildly. For either I was stark, staring mad, or these were lines from Seares' "Lady Larkspur," the manuscript of which was carefully locked in my trunk.

"That should be spoken a trifle more slowly, and with the best air of unpremeditatedness you can put into it," Mrs. Farnsworth was saying. "You can work it out better when you've memorized the lines. It's immensely effective having the last scene come back to the big boulder on the mountainside. Let me look at that a minute."

She took up the manuscript—there was no question of the blue cover of my copy of "Lady Larkspur"—and turned to the passage she sought.

"Let me read this over," Mrs. Farnsworth continued: "I have played, my lord, at hide-and-seek with the stars, and I have run races with the brooks. You alone of all that have sought me are equally fleet of foot and heart! If you but touch my hand, I am lost forever. And this hand—I beg you look at it—is as brown as a berry and as rough as hickory bark. A wild little hand and not lightly to be yielded at any man's behest. Look at me carefully, my lord. She rises to full height quickly. Let me see you do that, Alice."

Alice's golden head became more distinctively visible as she stood erect upon the boulder.

"Oh, no! You can improve on that; it must be done lightly and quickly, just touching the tips of your fingers to the rock. Ah, splendid! Now stand with one hand dropped upon the hip—let me see how that looks. Very good; now repeat these lines after me. This other world, of which you speak? Shake your head slowly, frowning; every hint of sincere doubt and questioning you can throw into look and gesture. Is it a kind world, a place of honest hearts? You have spoken of cities, and crowded avenues, of music and theaters and many things I have read of but never seen. You promise me much, but what should I do in so vast a company? I am very happy here. Spring and summer fill my hands with flowers and in winter I lay my face to the wind that carries sleet and snow. All this is mine. Arms stretched out. You mustn't make that stiff—very good. Earth and sky and forest belong to me. The morning comes down the sky in silence around me, and the trees say, 'This is our secret, we will not tell it to any mortal ear.' We will change roles for ours! You turn your body and catch your skirt in your hands, looking down. Yes; you are barefoot in this scene. You'll have to practice that turn. Now—And yet I should lose my dominion; in that world you boast of I should no more be, 'Lady Larkspur'."

Alice had repeated these lines, testing and trying different modulations. Sometimes a dozen repetitions hardly sufficed to satisfy Mrs. Farnsworth, who herself recited them and postured for Alice's instruction.

"Please read the whole of the second act again," said Alice, seating herself on the shoulder. I waited for a few minutes, enjoying the beautiful flow of Mrs. Farnsworth's voice, then mystified and awed. I crept down the ladder and stole away. "It's Dick Seares' play," I kept whispering to myself. It was the "Lady Larkspur" that he was holding back until he could find the girl that had so enchanted him in London and for whom he had written this very comedy with its setting in the Virginia hills.

Hurrying to the garage, I snarled at Flynn, who said Torrence had been calling me all morning and had finally left word that he would motor to Barton at eight the next evening to see me on urgent business. I unlocked my trunk and dug out my copy of "Lady Larkspur." Not even the wizardry of Alice and her friend could have extracted the script. The two women had in some way possessed themselves of another copy, an exact duplicate, even to its blue paper cover; and I sat down and began recalling everything Seares had told me about his efforts to find the actress.

The telephone on the table at my elbow rang until Flynn came in timidly to quiet it.

"If it's Mr. Torrence—" I began. "It's the Barton station, sir. There's a telegram." I snatched the receiver spitefully, thinking it only the methodical Torrence confirming the appointment made by telephone. But the operator began reading:

Springfield, Ohio, September 30, 1917. "Carle from London agent says last forwarding address for Violet Dewing was hotel in Seattle. Please ask Harkaway & Stein and anybody else on Broadway who might know what companies are on coast or headed that way. I find no clew in theatrical papers and don't want to mess things by making inquiries direct. If party can be located, will start West immediately. Seares."

The thought of Seares was comforting, and I reproached myself for not having summoned him at the beginning of my perplexities. I immediately dictated this reply:

"Take first train east and come to me at Barton as quickly as possible. Hope to have news for you."

DADDY'S EVENING FAIRY TALE

By Mary Graham Denner © 1922

THE DANCE.

"Come to the dance, come to the dance," said the Queen of the Fairies.

"I've not had a dance in ever so long, and I want to have one this very evening. Come all, come all; let us enjoy the dance."

So everyone went to the woodland glen, where the Fairy Queen had quickly arranged a special place for the dancing.

There was a beautiful mossy ground in the center, and on a platform at one end sat the Fairies' orchestra, which was led by Fairy Yabu.

Princess Twilight Bell was singing, and so was Fairy Princess Joy. Everything was in readiness as the guests came trooping along.

"I'm going to have a new kind of dance," said the Fairy Queen.

"A new kind of dance?" everyone shouted.

"Yes," said the Fairy Queen. "And everyone take their partners now for the dance."

So everyone took their partners, and then the Fairy Queen told them all how the dance was to continue. She wore a little whistle around her neck, and every time she blew the whistle, the music would stop, and they would all stop, and she would shriek out the directions for what was to come next.

"The dance is called the Paul Jones dance," she said, "and they dance it in the world of grown-ups, and yet it would be just as much fun for fairies.

"Now the music commences! Every one has a partner? Very well, good. Now for the dance."

So the music played gaily, and everyone danced with their partners. Then the whistle blew, and the Fairy Queen shouted: "All do the grand chain now."

So all did the grand chain, walking about the room in a great circle, while all met each other and smiled as they did this part of the dance.

Then the whistle blew, and the Fairy Queen told them all to take the partner nearest them.

Again the whistle blew, and the Fairy Queen called out: "Ladies in the center."

The brownies and gnomes danced about them, and then they entwined hands, and all went dancing and prancing about the great circle.

The whistle blew again, and the Fairy Queen told everyone to join hands, so that they followed her all about the Woodland Glen. Again they went back, all wound up in a tight circle now, which the Fairy Queen unwound by going under the arms of some and starting out for an open space in the woods. Once more she blew her whistle, and said: "All ladies at one end of the glen." As they all got there and as the Brownies and Gnomes got at the other end, the Fairy Queen said: "Now a great rush for partners!" So across the woodland glen everyone rushed.

The whistle blew once more, and the Fairy Queen shouted: "All dance in a great circle."

And after they had, she blew her whistle for the last time, and said: "Now, I'll lead the way for supper, and all follow."

And all did! The Fairy Queen had prepared a most delicious supper, and they all thoroughly enjoyed it. As they were eating, Mr. Moon peeped through the trees and said: "Well, Peeped Through the Trees.

But what some of you would fly to the moon. I've often heard folks say they might fly to the moon or they could just as easily do a certain thing as they would be willing to fly to the moon—meaning they wouldn't be willing to try flying to the moon, as it would be too hard."

"But when I saw all that dancing, I thought something like that might happen."

"No," said the Fairy Queen. "But we're glad to have you talk to us, even if we don't fly to you!"

Color to Show Denominations.
The treasury department at Washington is now working on a proposition to mark bills of various denominations with a standardized colored seal, so that anyone can recognize notes of different denominations at a glance. The plan, suggested by a Philadelphia druggist, is to have a colored seal in one corner of the bill, for instance, a green seal for a one, a pink seal for a two, a blue seal for a five, and so on. Treasury officials, however, dislike the idea of using different colors.

Why I Love America

Now ask me why I love America! Such homes as mine are to be found all over the country and they are what make it a great country. Every boy scout has these loved ones that he prizes above all others. For these we would gladly give our lives, for all boy scouts are brave and unselfish. Being unselfish we are not only interested in the happiness of our loved ones, but we are determined to see that every other family is just as happy as our own. —Lieut Belvin W. BACK GIVING OUT?

That "bad back" is probably due to weak kidneys. It shows in constant dull, throbbing backache, or sharp twinges when stooping or lifting. You have headaches, too, dizzy spells, a tired feeling and irregular kidney action. It is usually easy to correct these early troubles, and avoid the more serious ailments by giving prompt help. Use Doan's Kidney Pills. They have helped thousands the world over. Ask your neighbor!

A Michigan Case

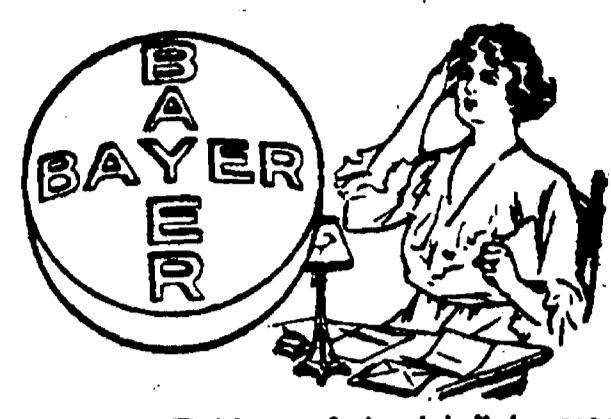

Mrs. J. L. Johnson, 518 S. Milburn St., Jackson, Mich., says: "My kidneys were in bad shape. My back would give out on me and I would be dizzy on arising of a morning. My kidneys were not acting right, and I felt tired and nervous. I got three boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills and used them until the trouble left me entirely."

School Notes

The reports of the inspection of the High School coming from the State Department and the University are now in the hands of Supt. Doyle. The reports place the school on the accredited list for a period of two years. This affects the class of 1920 and the class of 1921. However, this does not mean that every student who graduates may enter the University, but only those whose character, ability, school spirit and scholarship are so clearly superior to the average graduate that the school is willing to stand sponsor for their success at the University.

Taking into consideration the size of the town the report shows that the Pinckney school stands among the first in the state in sending students to higher educational institutions. The report for the past year shows that we have ten graduated doing college work, besides several who are taking business courses.

The summer begins at Ypsilanti Monday morning, June 28. The Commissioner will be there to assist students in classifying. Students should be there early. Applications for tuition to high school must be in the hands of the school boards on or before the fourth Monday of June.

Everybody should plan to attend the annual school meeting July 12.

One hundred fifty-nine boys and girls graduated from the eighth grade and received their diplomas at Howell June 10. Benjamin Young captured the free trip to the State Fair. He comes from District No. 7, Hamburg. Harold Lawson, Dist. No. 2 Genna, received the highest standing, having an average of 93.9. Norma Bentley of Dist. No. 9 Green Oak, and Zelma Nash, Dist. No. 9 Hamburg each had an average of 91. Boys and girls of the sixth and seventh grade should set their stakes high next year. Good thinking in school always shows up at the County Examination.

Marketing Plan ForMarketing Beef

East Lansing, May.—That Michigan cattle feeders are losing thousands of dollars because of extra freight and shrinkage on cattle necessarily shipped to markets outside the state, is the opinion expressed by George B. Smith of Addison, Secretary of the Tri-State Beef Growers Association, in a recent conference with live stock men at the Michigan Agricultural College.

In an effort to meet this difficulty the Association is now taking steps to organize a Detroit market for Michigan grown beef.

"Lack of organization has placed the beef industry of Michigan in a bad situation," says Mr. Smith. "In fact it is not a question of greater profits this year, but rather how to hedge against losses. Farmers are getting 12 cents a pound for corn fed steers that should bring them 20 cents—and the city consumer is paying 60 cents. It is my opinion that, when the cost of maintaining the cow for one year is considered, the finished, yearling steer cannot be produced for less than 20 cents a pound. In spite of these facts, people who are uninformed are urging a lower price for beef."

Organization of adequate packing facilities in Detroit, which is now under way, will make possible a great saving for Michigan beef producers. Long freight charges will be avoided; there will be less shrinkage; and growers will be able to secure a higher market price for their stock".

East Lansing, June.—That Michigan land which has not been planted because of the brief planting season and general labor difficulties can in many instances be seeded to alfalfa or sweet clover with reasonable safety as late as August 1 in lower Michigan and the middle of July in other sections, is the information given out by Prof. J. F. Cox, head of the Farm Crops Department at M. A. C.

"Because of conditions this year," says Prof. Cox, "instances have occurred where land which has been fitted for a crop has not been planted. Such land could readily be put into condition to receive alfalfa or sweet clover during June or early July.

The seed bed should be harrowed at intervals if possible, and firmly compacted with roller before either of these crops is seeded. Northern grown alfalfa seed and the white blossom variety of sweet clover are recommended.

"Culture for inoculation can be secured from the Department of Bacteriology at the Michigan Agricultural College, at a cost of twenty-five cents a bottle. Further information regarding these crops may be secured from the Farm Crops Department, M. A. C., East Lansing, Michigan.
