

PINCKNEY DISPATCH

Vol. XXXVII

Pinckney, Livingston County, Michigan, Thursday July 22, 1920

No. 30,4

WM. P. VANWINKLE Annual Meeting Dist. No. 2 Putnam

One of the most prominent citizens of Livingston, William P. VanWinkle, died at his late home in Howell Tuesday, July 20, after several weeks' suffering from the effects of an automobile accident in which Mr. and Mrs. VanWinkle narrowly escaped a similar death. He was born in Putnam township, August 2, 1855, and as a boy and youth worked on the farm and taught school.

After graduating from the University of Michigan Law School in 1884 he located in Pinckney where he was married to Miss Hattie M. Placeway of this village. He practiced law here for nearly two years and then moved to Howell where he soon attained prominence as a legal practitioner and maintained his high position throughout the balance of his life.

He was elected Prosecuting Attorney in 1886 and was re-elected in 1888.

In 1903 he was elected president of the First State and Savings Bank of Howell and has occupied that position since. The Brighton State Bank was organized in 1910 through his efforts and he was also president of that bank.

He was an active member of the Board of Trustees and also Chairman of the Building Committee, having charge of the erection of the new church edifice recently constructed.

He was a member of the School Board for 24 years.

An man of large ability and unceasing activity, he will be greatly missed by the people of Howell and Livingston county.

He is survived by the widow and four children, Mrs. L. E. Simerall of Morris, Ill., Don W., Charles D., and Harriet, all of Howell; also one brother, C. V. VanWinkle of Pinckney.

THE LIGHTING SITUATION

After a long period of waiting during which time the Dispatch has been compelled to answer the many inquiries received at this office that there were no new developments since the township ratified the Edison franchise by the almost unanimous majority, it is now possible to report some progress toward securing improved electric service for Pinckney.

At a meeting of the village council last Wednesday night the matter was discussed and Councilman Weeks was designated to confer with the Edison Company in reference to the matter.

Mr. Weeks met Vice-President Marshall in Detroit last Friday and as the result of the meeting he states that there is much encouragement for Pinckney. It is understood that a meeting between the Edison people and R. Clinton was arranged for Tuesday, July 20, the object of this meeting being the sale of the Clinton plant which the Edison company is now ready and willing to buy.

Correspondence with the State Commission, which has jurisdiction over the public lighting in the State, has resulted in an offer from the State authorities to meet an official delegation from Pinckney at Lansing July 29, at 10 a.

DOMINANT THIRD PARTY WRECKED

FUSION OF MINOR POLITICAL FACTIONS FAILS TO MATERIALIZE.

LABOR GROUP ONLY REMAINS

Radicals Get Into Control and Forge Through Pet Platform, Others Refuse to Join Move.

Chicago—The third party has split amidships on the launching ways. The movement, which was conceived in the formation of the committee of 48 a year ago and which had as its main objective the union of the liberal farmer and labor vote behind Senator Robert M. La Follette as candidate, has completely failed.

The convention created a "Farmer-Labor Party," and named Parley P. Christensen, of Utah, as its Presidential candidate, and Max S. Hayes for vice-president.

Before the platform was adopted and the nomination made the movement had been swallowed, body, boots and breeches, by the radical labor group, which had been expected to provide only a relatively inconsequential part of the vote which it had been hoped would go to Senator La Follette. And as the movement disappeared in the maw of labor it lost all of its real elements of vote-getting strength.

The committee of 48, after the split, decided not to form a fourth party.

Although many of the Forty-eighters were disappointed and chagrined over the outcome of the amalgamated convention in its failure to nominate Robert M. La Follette, the committee of 48, after repeated threats of an open breach with the farmer labor party, finally passed a resolution to continue its organization and suggesting its activities be confined to congressional, legislative and judicial campaigns with a provision for calling

Of all the groups which joined the new party convention last week, only one well-organized faction is left in the Farmer-Labor ranks. That is the former group in the amalgamation, members of the Non-Partisan League, stayed to the last, but their organization has repudiated the movement and refused to amalgamate, and has endorsed Senator Robert M. La Follette for President.

The fusion movement, Forty-eight speakers declared, was wrecked by what Gilbert E. Roe, La Follette's personal representative, characterized as the "intolerance" of the Labor Party leaders.

Mr. Christensen will make a campaign tour from coast to coast and from border to border, he announced.

CUT IN COAL PRICE PROMISED

Rail and Mine Officials Forecast Increased Supply.

New York—A reduction in the price of bituminous coal was predicted by members of the sub-committee of railroad officials and coal operators meeting here to complete details of a plan to relieve the coal shortage in New York city, New England and the northwest.

By a scientific distribution of cars, the committee hopes to provide a steady stream of coal to the affected districts. Under this plan, the committee members believe the coal speculators will find it impossible to exact the high prices shortage has made possible.

The car question alone is the stumbling block. The shortage is estimated at 250,000 open top cars, only a fraction of which number, it was said, are now being built.

MILITIA RULES IN GALVESTON

Texas Governor Takes Steps to End Disorders Caused By Dockworkers.

Galveston, Texas—Galveston's municipal officialdom has been superseded by members of the Texas militia with the carrying into execution by Brig. Gen. J. F. Wolters of orders issued by Gov. W. P. Hobby, that city authorities should be suspended and restrained from interference with enforcement of the state's penal laws.

LIFE BELT FROM LUSITANIA, SILENT REMINDER OF SEA TRAGEDY, WASHED ASHORE

Philadelphia—A life jacket, silent remembrance of the tragic sinking of the Lusitania five years ago, and bearing a strand of faded blonde hair, was picked up last week in the Delaware river. The name of the ship the Germans torpedoed still remained, clear and distinct on the wave-beaten canvas, which has been adrift on the seas throughout three years of war and two of peace. The life-jacket which was found by two railroad detectives, was covered with slime and seaweed, with one arm-strap broken. On one side were the words "Life Belt," and on the other, in large black letters, the inscription, "Lusitania."

GERMANS WILL FURNISH COAL

Agree to Allied Demand That 2,000,000 Tons Be Delivered Monthly.

Spa, Belgium—The terms, regarding the delivery of coal by Germany to France, which the conference of allied premiers laid down on the Teutons were accepted by them with modifications.

The protocol provides that Germany must furnish 2,000,000 tons of coal monthly, and if by October 15, 1920, they have not furnished 6,000,000 tons the Allies will occupy the Ruhr. A treaty price will be paid for the coal, plus five marks gold per ton as a premium for screening into different grades, which premium will be applied to the purchase of foodstuffs.

Germany notified the Allies that her cabinet had agreed to the Allied demand for the delivery of 2,000,000 tons of coal monthly, under three essential conditions and other minor conditions.

First—The German government to have the distribution of the Silesian coal, as he allotted 1,500,000 tons

Second—A mixed commission to be sent to Essen to examine food and housing conditions.

Third—The Allies are asked to advance money or provide credit for importing additional food for the entire German population.

DETROIT-CANADA SPAN LIKELY

Capitalists Propose to Erect Bridge to Windsor At Cost of $28,000,000.

With assurance that $10,000,000 will be provided locally, steps were taken at a meeting in the Board of Commerce last week for the immediate construction of a $28,000,000 suspension bridge between Windsor and Detroit.

Representatives of the 25 Detroit, Windsor and Canadian capitalists attending the meeting decided that the structure would immediately pay all fixed charges and that construction is to be proceeded with as soon as all preliminary matters can be arranged.

The bridge, it has been decided will be located just above Twenty-fourth street, on the Detroit side, with the Canadian approach in Sandwich. The plans contemplate a suspension bridge of 1,770 feet span, carrying two 28-foot roadways, two 7-foot sidewalks, two tram-car tracks and four railway tracks.

The cost of a highway bridge only at the same location is found to be about $11,500,000, with the same roadways, sidewalks and space for tram-cars.

The Double Squeeze

By Henry Beach Needham

ILLUSTRATED BY IRWIN MYERS

Copyright, by Doubleday, Page and Co

JAMES WINTON SHUTE.

Synopsis.—His star pitcher definitely out of the game, through illness, Tris Ford, manager of the famous baseball team, the Giant-Killers, decides to secure Barney Larkin, brilliant twirler, but eccentric and dissipated. He locates Barney, pays his debts and puts him on the slab. Barney makes good in his first game. But Tris finds it's a man's job to keep him straight.

PART I.—Continued.

Barney got the second five and without delay it passed over the bar to the proprietor in exchange for more liquor. Then the wild performer wandered back to the grounds. Tris Ford heard that he was outside, and, as he thought he needed a rescue pitcher to save the game, he sent for Barney. Barney came without protest and entered the clubhouse to dress. But the tide of the battle turned in the Giant-killers' favor, and the left-hander was not called upon.

Shortly before the game ended, Barney Larkin came upon the field, all excitement. He rushed up to the Giant-killers' bench, exclaiming that he had lost his gold watch fob. After noon he was down to pitch. Hawk, who didn't have the stuff, tried to fill the southpaw's shoes, and the Giant-killers were beaten—trounced three games out of four in the series.

Getting back from the grounds, the team found Barney in the hotel lobby, mixing it up with the hotel porter, a friendly soul, who had tried to lure

But it wasn't Barney's escapades that troubled the manager so much as the effect his raw behavior might have on the morale of the team. This, too, despite the acknowledged reputation enjoyed by the Giant-killers sans Larkin of being the cleanest and most gentlemanly bunch of ball players in the country.

The club was proud of such a reputation. This was what worried Tris Ford. He felt no anxiety lest Barney corrupt the team. What the manager expected was a call-down from his own men. Perhaps something like this:

"Look a-here, Tris! We care something for our good name if you don't. If one rotten apple will spoil the whole barrel, it's a sure thing one rouser like Barney Larkin will ruin our reputation for decency and gentlemanly conduct. Barney leaves a red trail all over the circuit, and we're getting tired of it. If you think there's nothing to our profession except winning ball games, why we'll try something else. And this goes!"

No, Tris Ford didn't want to have to answer back to unanswerable talk like that. Neither did he care to part company with Barney Larkin just yet—not while the temperamental twirler was holding the Giant-killers to the fore of the championship race and incidentally proving himself the best drawing card in the American league. If the team could be brought to look upon Barney as a weak brother—somebody without the pale of the Giant-killers' society—and would tolerate him for the worth of his pitching arm, the club might contrive to scale the heights and win another pennant. It was for the boys themselves to decide. Tris would have it out with them through their natural leader, Win Shute.

It has been intimated elsewhere that a good story hangs about the discovery and capture of James Winton Shute—"Win" to his team mates as to his college intimates. Suffice it that he was captain of the varsity nine at the big university, and so devoted was he to the national pastime that he was eager to cut short his collegiate training at the end of his junior year and join the Giant-killers. But Tris Ford wouldn't listen to it. He insisted that James Winton finish his education; and ever after, when Shute considered his bachelor of arts degree with pride and satisfaction, he never failed to thank Tris Ford for his part in the capture of it. Ford alone could have kept the budding ball player in college.

Two years after graduation Shute was a regular on the Giant-killers' team, playing second base. He was batting well over .300 and covering second as though he had invented the position and was continually improving his invention. He had earned the sobriquet of the "pepper-box" for the obvious reason that he infused life and go into the club. He was in the game every minute, playing always for the team, never for himself.

And—his lips had never known the taste of liquor, as Ira Landis oratorically said one time at a public banquet; neither did the great second-sacker smoke. No wonder Tris Ford looked upon him as a model ball player and sought his counsel. James Winton Shute sat at the manager's right at the meetings of the strategy board.

Events hastened Tris Ford's consultation with Win Shute about Barney. First of all, Shute was suffering the tortures of Job with a nasty boil on his groin—the one spot where such an affliction can most harass an active ball player. Tris Ford, sympathetic to a fault, had told Win to stay out of the game.

"With the team in a batting slump, the pitching staff wabbling, and a lead of less than two games? Not on your life, Tris! You may get the empire to order me off the field, but I'll not quit for anybody else—get that?"

mean the pitching arm from Barney Larkin—greatest left-hander of his generation."

Tris Ford flashed his smile of understanding. Then he asked:

"Why do you pick Steadman for the job of keeper?"

"Because he doesn't drink a drop, because in a scuffle he's heavy and strong enough to take care of Barney and put him to sleep, because Barney likes him, and because they have a great common bond."

"A common bond?" Tris looked incredulous.

"Sure—they're both disciples of Isaac Walton."

"You mean—"

"They'll fish all day, both of them, without getting a single bite, and go home happy at night."

"Say, I'll stock a trout pond near the ball park and build Barney a bungalow on the shore," said Tris.

Player and manager laughed with the fervor of a couple of kids.

"I'll revise my list and hold on to Steadman," promised Ford.

"If you say so," said Win, "I'll coach the youngster in his new position. Next to Barney, he likes me better, I think, than any man on the club."

"Next to Barney?" questioned Tris.

"Yes; I don't fish."

And thus, to the surprise of the catching force, was Ernest Steadman retained with the Giant-killers. Two men only, Tris Ford and Win Shute, shared Steadman's secret that he was officially the weakling's keeper. Steadman stuck to Barney Larkin closer than a brother.

"Damon and Piscatorius," Shute had dubbed the pair. And, kept fairly well in leash, Barney Larkin was a big factor in the winning of many a ball game.

Before the season was embalmed in the Official Baseball Guide, Tris Ford exhibited the first signs of age. Long, lean, and immobile, never batting an eye in the most trying situations, he had been wont to follow the game from the dugout. A fiction there was that he signaled with his score card; but otherwise he was as impassive as the copper head on a penny—until the homestretch of this nerve-breaking season. Then, as the scribes put it, he began to act like an ordinary, flesh-and-blood human being. He moved uneasily upon the bench, sometimes signaled brazenly to a player, and was occasionally known to give vent to disappointment or disgust by actually slapping his knee in public. He was not the same Tris Ford—not by an obstreperous nervous system.

"If Ford doesn't tie a can to you tomorrow the so-called hundred-thousand-dollar infield will look like a plugged nickel. Barney, you're not worth a damn to anybody but the undertaker—and he'd be taking a live chance, for I don't know who'd give up a dollar to bury you. You're nothing but an ordinary bum."

There was a split second when it appeared likely Barney would strike Shute. Tris Ford, who had crowded into the elevator unseen at the last moment, scolding trouble, contrived to worm his way in front of Barney. He gripped the pitcher's wrists and held them like a vise. The danger was averted. But that evening after dinner, when Shute was sitting in his room reading, the manager came to him and unbosomed himself. Together they discussed Barney's peculiar case from every possible viewpoint.

"You put him in his right class—a bum," began Tris.

"But I oughtn't to have said it," admitted Win.

"Never mind about that—you were justified in saying 'most anything—you playing for the club when you should be in bed.'"

"Cut that out, Tris! I want the pennant—want to get into the world series money again—you know it."

"So do we all of us," agreed Ford.

"And there'll be no pennant this season if we can Barney Larkin—that's a cinch." Tris Ford suppressed a sigh of pure relief. He now ventured to remark:

"If you boys want me to let Barney go, why—he goes! You won't have to say the word twice. It's up to you."

"We can't win without him—you appreciate that, Tris. He's a weakling, and we've got to get along with him somehow or other."

James Winton Shute exercised his gray matter for a brief space of time; then his face brightened and he proposed:

"Have a scheme—why not appoint a keeper for Barney?"

"A keeper?" Tris smiled, but shook his head.

"Some one to look after him—never leave him a minute, 'cept when he's snoring," elaborated Shute.

"Fraid he wouldn't stand for it," argued Tris; "and if he did, in a week he'd lead his keeper astray."

Win laughed. "But you don't quite get me. Barney mustn't be wise to this keeper, and the keeper must be firewater proof."

"I got you—but where'd you find the man?"

"Right in our squad—Steadman—young giant left-hander we have."

"But I'm going to send him to the minors, to keep the squad down to twenty-five men." This was the league's rule—from May 15 to August 15.

WITH THE FUNNY MEN

Uncertain.

"Well, Mr. Pedagogue, does my boy show any special aptitude for work?" asked the proud father.
 "I think so, Mr. Brouson," answered the schoolmaster. "I am not certain as yet whether John will make a sculptor or a baseball player. He is unerring in his aim with paper wads, but the condition of his desk top convinces me that he can carve with considerable facility."

No Facilities.

"Rather a husky looking individual."
 "Yes. That's Prof. Sampson Grapleigh. He gives physical culture lessons by mail."
 "I see, a correspondence school. But suppose one of his clients applied for instruction in person?"
 "The professor would be in a most embarrassing predicament. He might have to hire a gymnasium."

Competent at Last.

"How long has this reporter been on the staff?"
 "Oh, long enough to become really useful as a news gatherer."
 "What do you mean?"
 "He has passed through the period of aspiring to write the 'Great American Novel,' or the 'Great American Play' and is now able to concentrate his mind on a police court item."

Through With Honesty.

"I'm never going to return a lost article to any one again," said a Kansas City man the other day.
 "What do you mean?"
 "I have this fellow advertising a reward for the return of lost articles. He asks questions. And then when I took the dog and went up and rang the bell his wife answered the door."

How We Need One!

"I've an invention at last that will mean a fortune!"
 "What is it this time?"
 "Why, it's an extra key for a typewriter. When you don't know how to spell a word, you hit the key and it makes a blur that might be an e, an a, or most anything else."

THE PHILATHEAS

The Philatheas met last Wednesday at the pleasant suburban home of Mrs. W. H. Hendee.
 Good wives—a jolly crowd,
 Gathered, fourteen in number,
 And the fun was long and loud.
 Some guests from away were welcomed
 And each Sabbath, too, we would greet,
 New faces in our small classroom,
 And be glad each friend to meet.
 On the second Wednesday in August,
 We're invited to wend our way,
 To the Darwin home in the country
 And for potluck supper stay.
 Then next to the Gregory hamlet
 Mrs. Heminger bids us go,
 So Thursday, the first in September,
 No other direction we'll know.
 Then join the "Philatheas", ladies!
 Linger not, but soon get in line;
 Mrs. Fick is our splendid teacher,
 Come join and you'll think it fine.

Ground Hogs.
In the American Boy Enos A. Mills says: "Two summers while I was guiding on Long's peak, a ground hog summered on the summit. A few minutes after I arrived on top with a party of climbers he showed himself and waited for lunch scraps. After he was better acquainted he did not wait but expected to have helpings from the first table. His winter den was 2,000 feet below the top. Ground hogs, especially in spring, wander in search of the first green plants; usually, from their tracks, they know just where these are most likely to be found."

Rare, However.
"Are they happily married?"
"How can they be? Why, his wife won't let him smoke in the house."
"That isn't always fatal to domestic bliss. There are cases on record where a man was so taken up with a woman that he actually put her ahead of pipe, cigar or cigarette."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

FAVOR PROJECTS FOR GOOD ROADS

Remarkable Increase Shown in Statement Issued by Bureau of Public Roads.

MANY AGREEMENTS EXECUTED

Great Reduction Made in Time for Preliminary Work Before Actual Construction Is Begun—Few Projects Completed.

The remarkable rate at which the number of federal-aid road-building projects has increased since the war is shown in a summary relating to all such work from September 30, 1918, to April 30, 1920, which has been prepared by the bureau of public roads, United States department of agriculture. On the later date the states had filed with the bureau 2,885 project statements of which 2,790 had been approved, representing 27,796 miles of highway.

Work in Progress. Up to May 1 of this year 1,874 projects had proceeded to the stage at which plans, specifications, and estimates had been delivered to the bureau of public roads. The plans, specifications and estimates of 1,827 of these had been recommended for approval, representing 13,845 miles. Project agreements had actually been executed and construction work was in progress on 1,569 projects, totalling 11,987 miles. In addition, work had been begun on about 100 projects for which agreements had not actually been signed, thus expediting the progress of the work and bringing the total mileage under construction up to 13,540. The summary shows that a great reduction has been made in the time required for preliminary work before actual construction is begun.

ONE DIP NOT ENOUGH TO CURE SHEEP SCAB

One Reason Is That All Eggs Have Not Been Killed.

Important That Second Treatment Be Made Before Mites Which May Hatch Out Have Had Chance to Deposit More Eggs.

A single dipping usually fails to rid a flock of sheep from scab, according to findings of specialists of the United States department of agriculture reported in Farmers' Bulletin 713.

The apparent reason is either that all the females in the course of depositing eggs, at which time they appear especially tenacious of life, or all the eggs already deposited have not been destroyed by the dipping; consequently, after the eggs which may have escaped the first dipping have had an opportunity to complete their incubation, it is essential to dip the sheep again.

It is also essential that the second dipping take place before any mites which may hatch out after the first

TRULY AN AWFUL THOUGHT

Small Girl Feared She Had Somewhat Overdone Matter of Praying for Baby Brother.

Mamma was much disturbed because little Marie, her youngest, had a baby brother to play with, while she, herself, was very lonely. Her mother comforted her and told her to ask God to send her a little brother, too. So the child began to pray for a little brother, and occasionally got impatient but her mother told her to keep on praying and perhaps her prayer would be answered some day.

One day she was called into the mother's room, and her delight knew no bounds when the nurse took a wee thing up from the mother's side and laid it in her arms. But a moment later, when the nurse picked up another bit of humanity, the child almost dropped the one she was holding, and a startled expression came into her face as she said:

"Oh, mama! Is God going to answer all those prayers that I prayed?"

A Protest.

"Backward, turn backward, oh, time in thy flight," warbled Hortense Magee.

"Stop it!" cried her father "What are you trying to wish on us? Don't you remember it's only a year ago that the seventeen-year locust was with us?"

Acid Stomach Makes the Body Sour

Nine Out of Ten People Suffer From It

It sends its harmful acids and gases all over the body, instead of health and strength. Day and night this ceaseless damage goes on. No matter how strong, its victim cannot long withstand the health-destroying effects of an acid stomach.

Good news for millions of sufferers. Chemists have found a sure remedy—one that takes the acid up and carries it out of the body; of course, when the cause is removed, the sufferer gets well.

Bloating, indigestion, sour, acid, gassy stomach miseries all removed. This is proven by over half a million ailing folks who have taken EATONIC with wonderful benefits. It can be obtained from any druggist, who will cheerfully refund its trifling cost if not entirely satisfactory. Everyone should enjoy its benefits. Fre- quently the first tablet gives relief.

SIMPLY COULDN'T LOCATE IT

At That, Marine Showed Praiseworthy Willingness to Obey Orders Captain Had Given Him.

Wilkins, about the same age, saw an egg under the same egg basket, in size. The number of gallons which each car can contain is, therefore, stenciled on the top of it.

The captain of a marine supply company in France was inventorying his carts and totaling the figures. "Wilkins," he called to an idle private who hadn't had the sense to get out of the way, "get me the capacity of this cart."

The captain ran his pencil down the column of figures for several seconds, keeping one ear open for the result of Wilkins' research.

But no reply came from Wilkins. The captain glanced up to find all of Wilkins except the head protruding from the hole in top of the water cart. A desperate struggle with some unseen monster seemed to be going on inside the cart. Finally Wilkins' baffled head emerged.

"I felt all around the blamed thing, captain," he explained, "and I'll be hanged if I can locate that capacity anywhere."—Home Sector.

GETTING RID OF QUACK GRASS

Three-Year Crop Rotation, Including Grain, Clover and Corn, Is Excellent Plan.

A three-year crop rotation—small grain, clover and corn—and a two-year-crop rotation—corn and rye or early potatoes and rye—also afford an excellent opportunity for getting rid of quack grass. Extra expense required by extra tillage will in most cases be largely made up by increased yields.

IN MAKING BEET-TOP SILAGE

Same Fundamental Factors Involved as With Corn—Thorough Packing Is Required.

The fundamental factors that are involved in making good corn silage also apply in making beet-top silage. Pack the mass thoroughly to exclude the free air and then seal tight. Good silage requires thorough packing.

PROTECTION FOR WATER PAN

Slatted Cage Attached to Wall Is High Enough to Keep Out Fowls' Scratchings.

To protect the water pan in the poultry house or outdoors, make a cage with a hinged top, as shown.

Water Pan Protected.

The fowls can readily reach inside and get a drink, and as the cage is fastened to the wall, several inches from the floor, there is little danger of having dirt scratched into the pan, writes B. Frank Boyer in Farm Journal. When placed outdoors, the top of the cage protects the water from the rays of the sun.

INVESTING IN FOREST CROP

Less Actual Cash Called for Than in Any Other Form of Enterprise on Many Farms.

A forest crop calls for less actual outlay of cash in proportion to the final income than any other form of enterprise. An investment of $10 to $15 an acre, with a small annual carrying charge, in 40 to 50 years will produce a return equivalent to from 4 to 6 per cent compound interest for the period involved.

Can Without Sugar.

Sugar is short; canned vegetables do not require sugar. Therefore, says R. S. Mackintosh, agricultural extensionist at University farm, can all the vegetables possible and begin now.

Cultivation is always of more value than irrigation in the garden. When it is necessary to apply water, see that enough is put on to moisten the roots to the tips.

COLORADO BEETLE BAD PEST

Insects May Be Killed by Spraying With Strong Solution of Bordeaux Mixture.

The Colorado potato beetle is the worst pest which potato growers have to fight. They may be killed by spraying with a strong arsenic such as paris green, using at the rate of half pound to 50 gallons of bordeaux mixture.

Pasture for Young Hogs.

Alfalfa or clover makes the best pasture for young hogs, but of course when those are not available then one must provide something else.

WILSON, DEMOCRAT NOMINEES CONFER

PRESIDENT, OHIOAN AND ROOSEVELT WITHHOLD DETAILS, BUT AGREE ON LEAGUE.

MUM ON PROHIBITION QUESTION

"Draw Your Own Conclusions," Newspapermen Are Told After Conference.

Washington — Complete agreement on the League of Nations question and united in their party's cause was declared by President Wilson and Governor Cox, of Ohio, Democratic presidential candidate, after a conference at the White House.

Meeting for the first time since the San Francisco convention, the president and the governor, together with Franklin D. Roosevelt, the vice-presidential nominee, spent an hour on the south portico of the executive mansion discussing the League and other campaign issues. All three afterward issued formal statements voicing solidarity of purpose. None made any reference to recently published reports that the chief executive and the presidential candidate were "far apart on the league issue."

They Are One, Wilson Says.

The president declared he and Governor Cox "were absolutely at one with regard to the great issue of the League of Nations" and that the nominee "is ready to be the champion of the honor of the nation and the secure peace of the world."

Governor Cox declared in his statement that he and Mr. Wilson were "agreed as to the meaning and sufficiency of the party platform and the duty of the party in the face of threatened bad faith to the world in the name of America." He declared he would give all his strength to the promises made by President Wilson to those who sacrificed in the great war.

Roosevelt's statement spoke of the agreement of the president and Governor Cox, and expressed the wish that every American could have witnessed their conference.

The conference on the White House portico, was said by Governor Cox to be devoted principally to the discussion of the League of Nations. The statement issued by the president follows:

"The interview in every respect was most satisfactory and gratifying. I found what I indeed already knew and what Governor Cox has let the whole world know in his speeches, that he and I were absolutely at one with regard to the great issue of the League of Nations, and that is ready to be the champion in every respect of the honor of the nation and the secure peace of the world. Governor Cox will have the vigorous support of an absolutely united party, and I am confident, also of an absolutely united nation."

EX-KAISER'S SON KILLS SELF

Joachim Fires Bullet in Fit of Tense Dementia; Dies in Hospital.

Berlin.—Prince Joachim of Hohenzollern, youngest son of former Emperor William committed suicide last Saturday in Potsdam.

Joachim is believed to have been in financial straits. He recently was divorced.

The prince is reported to have shot himself while in his residence, the Villa Leignitz, Potsdam. He was removed to St. Joseph's hospital where he died a few hours later.

Prince Joachim was born December 17, 1890, in Berlin. He served in the late war on both the western and eastern fronts. In the first year of the war, it was reported that he was wounded in the fighting in France, and that for a long time it was feared that he would not recover. He was transferred to the Russian front where he had several narrow escapes from capture and afterward suffered a serious illness, according to Berlin reports during the war.

BORDER PATROL REINFORCED

Mexican Fighting Near Line May Lead to Another Invasion.

San Antonio, Texas.—The United States Army garrison is being reinforced following receipt of information of hostilities across the border.

In announcing the dispatch of additional troops to the border, Col. A. E. Saxton, department adjutant, said the action was merely precautionary. He declined to say what special orders have been given. He explained standing orders authorize border commanders, in an emergency, to send punitive expeditions across the line.

Children Cry For Fletcher's CASTORIA

Special Care of Baby.

That Baby should have a bed of its own all are agreed. Yet it is more reasonable for an infant to sleep with grown-ups than to use a man's medicine in an attempt to regulate the delicate organism of that same infant. Either practice is to be shunned. Neither would be tolerated by specialists in children's diseases.

Your Physician will tell you that Baby's medicine must be prepared with even greater care than Baby's food.

A Baby's stomach when in good health is too often disarranged by improper food. Could you for a moment, then, think of giving to your ailing child anything but a medicine especially prepared for Infants and Children? Don't be deceived.

Make a mental note of this:—It is important, Mothers, that you should remember that to function well, the digestive organs of your Baby must receive special care. No Baby is so abnormal that the desired results may be had from the use of medicines primarily prepared for grown-ups.

NOT MUCH VARIATION THERE

Old Resident Entirely Truthful When He Called the Town's Death Rate "Wonderful Steady."

Wearry after 12 months' hard work, the pretty typist sought solitude among the healthy hills of Haleheartly.

Her name was described as an epitome of the town's health.

"Tell me," she said on her first day, when she met a staunch old relic of the district, "what is the death rate in Haleheartly?"

The local walking advertisement nodded his head reassuringly.

"Wonderful steady, marum—wonderful steady," he replied. "One death to each person."—London Tit-Bits.

Things Apart.

My little niece was studying her geography and asked me to bound the state of Nevada. Her grandmother looked up and said: "I am surprised that a little girl that has traveled as much as you have must ask any one to help them with their lessons." Caroline said: "Grandma, when I travel, I travel for joy and not Jography."—Exchange.

SAY "DIAMOND DYES"

Don't streak or ruin your material in a poor dye. Insist on "Diamond Dyes." Easy directions in package.

"FREEZONE"

Lift Off Corns! No Pain!

Doesn't hurt a bit! Drop a little "Freezone" on an aching corn, instantly that corn stops hurting, then shortly you lift it right off with fingers. Truly! Your druggist sells a tiny bottle of "Freezone" for a few cents, sufficient to remove every hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and the calluses, without soreness or irritation.

Pretense Called For.

Edward had come to spend the time with Betty while his mother went to the club. She stayed so long they were tired of playthings and of each other. So finally in despair Betty said, "Well, Edward, let's just play we are having a good time."

A laugh costs too much if it is bought at the expense of propriety.—Quintillina.

Hard to Believe

A workman in a factory on the west side received a bad cut on the face. Before they could get him to the doctor's office he fainted. The first thing the doctor did was to pour a large drink of bottled-in-bond down him. The doctor then dressed his wound and the man went his way. But he came to be said:

"Won't believe what?" exclaimed the doctor.

With that the wife cried out: "I've lived with this man too long not to know when he's drunk and been tight-in!"—Indianapolis News.

Not Enough Room.

"Don't take your troubles to bed with you," said the doctor.

"I don't, doc. I sleep on a cot."

Opportunity

If you are going to train to be a nurse you will gain prestige by training in a large hospital like the Cleveland City Hospital, where you can have a good experience in all departments and where you can live in a comfortable apartment. Send your name and address to the Cleveland City Hospital, Cleveland, Ohio.

To Get up in the morning tired and unrefreshed, with a dull, heavy head, often amounting to headache, to feel low-spirited and "blue"—are symptoms of self-poisoning by food poisons, not neutralized or eliminated by bowels, liver and kidneys acting in harmony.

Beecham's Pills

help to remove the cause of this trouble. They act gently and safely, but also very efficiently.

Sold by druggists throughout the world. In boxes, 10c., 25c.

ECZEMA!

THIS isn't one of those fake free treatment offers you have seen so many times. We don't offer to give you something for nothing—but we do guarantee that you can try this wonderful treatment, entirely at our risk, and this guarantee is backed by your local druggist.

This makes the offer one which you can absolutely depend upon, because the druggist with whom you have been trading would not stand behind the guarantee if he did not know it to be an honest and legitimate one.

Hunt's Salve, formerly called Hunt's Cure, has been sold under absolute money back guarantee for more than thirty years. It is especially compounded for the treatment of Eczema, Itch, Ring Worm, Tetter, and other itching skin diseases.

Thousands of letters testify to its curative properties. M. Tinerlin, a reputable dry goods dealer in Durant, Oklahoma, says: "I suffered with Eczema for ten years, and spent $1,000.00 for doctors' treatments, without result. One box of Hunt's Cure entirely cured me."

Don't fail to give Hunt's Salve a trial—price 75 cents, from your local druggist, or direct by mail if he does not handle it.

 Tonsorial Repartee.
"Have you seen Prof. Diggs lately?"
"Met him yesterday."
"Blundering along as usual, I suppose?"
"Yes. He had just mistaken a barber shop for a meat market, which was next door. 'Dear me!' he exclaimed. 'This is no place for mutton chops.' 'Not unless you want to get 'em trimmed, sir,' replied the head barber."

An Independent Wife.
Flatbush—And your wife writes to you on postal cards?
Bensonhurst—Oh, yes.
Flatbush—I shouldn't think you'd allow her to do so.
Bensonhurst—Oh, she's very independent. She doesn't seem to care who knows what she says.

Quite a Job.
"Senator Twobble says he labored long and hard over that speech he delivered today."
"He means comparatively long and hard. He took the manuscript right out of his secretary's hands and insisted on writing the last two paragraphs practically without any assistance whatsoever, except in the matter of punctuation and a singular verb that should have been plural."

Sorely Stricken.
"The chairman of the reception committee seems to be upset about something."
"He has cause to be."
"What's gone wrong?"
"Somebody sat on his silk hat and there's not another one to be had in town. He simply can't do himself justice in welcoming the distinguished visitor without the proper headgear."

That Explains It.
Miss Peachblow—I must confess I was quite astonished when I heard of your engagement. What business is your fiance in?
Miss Leftover—He's a collector of antiques.
Miss Peachblow—Oh! I see.
