Vol. XXXVII

Pinckney, Livingston County, Michigan, Thursday July 29, 1920

No. 31,

THE LIGHTING QUESTION

Placed Before the State Utilities Board

Expert will be sent to Pinckney to ascertain if the Clinton plant can furnish adequate 24-hour service for light and power as the owner, R. Clinton claims.

Councilmen Weeks, Carr and Kennedy and Mrs. Crofoot and a delegation of Pinckney citizens—twenty-one in all, and R. Clinton appeared before the Public Utilities Commission at the State Capitol Thursday in an effort to straighten out the electric light question. The Edison Company desires to furnish current for light and power here but the established policy of the company prevents its coming here while another lighting company is on the ground.

According to the sworn statement of Mr. Clinton, the valuation of the power plant and system is $6832. It is understood the Edison Company is willing to buy the property at a considerable advance of that figure, but Mr. Clinton, while willing to sell, places the value, we are informed, at nearly $15,000—the exact figures not having been given out.

The total income of the plant is $100, according to the sworn statement. The operating expenses, including a salary of $1,000 to R. Clinton and also 5 1/2 per cent depreciation, is $1732.16, leaving a loss of $133.96 for the year's business. Mr. Clinton admitted he paid no salary to the operator at the plant.

A letter from Mr. Clinton to the Commission was read, stating that he had given good service and placed the blame for the non-lighting of the streets squarely up to the village council, and that the service has been as good as can be furnished by any company.

G. W. Teeple, the star Pinckney witness, stated the service has been poor, as has been frequently claimed by consumers. However, Mr. Clinton denied this statement and claimed that a governor or apparatus made it impossible to give poor service. Messrs. Teeple and Clinton had a sharp verbal tilt on the question and Mr. Teeple stated that other witnesses were there who would substantiate his statement. The controversy took a slant on another angle at this time, however, and Mr. Teeple stated that the village was willing to patronize the Clinton system provided it would agree to furnish 24-hour adequate service for light and power at Edison prices.

Mr. Clinton stated he had plenty of water power at his command, as twenty-eight lakes supplied water for his plant. The Commission then stated it would send an expert engineer to Pinckney to determine whether or not Mr. Clinton can give the desired service.

Mr. Clinton had the privilege of cross-examining the witnesses and this was carried out in a characteristic "R. Clintonesque" manner. Mr. Teeple's statements were flatly denied, and a somewhat dramatic situation was attained when he asked Mr. Weeks—who was making a plea for Edison service—whether or not he was doing this service for

OFFICERS KILLED

Bandits raid Grass Lake bank in daylight. Kill deputy sheriffs. Are mostly captured—$10,000 in loot recovered.

Gunmen, supposed to be of the same gang who visited the Pinckney bank last fall, held up the bank at Grass Lake. They forced two bank officials and two patrons into an adjoining room while they looted the institution. They then escaped to Wolf Lake, where they were surrounded by a posse from Jackson. Deputy Sheriff Worden was shot and instantly killed and the robbers were captured while trying to get away.

The total amount stolen is thought to have been recovered.

Later reports say that Deputy Sheriff Kutt of Munith, well known here, was badly wounded, and one robber killed.

LIGHT AND POWER FOR FARMERS

The line now under construction between Dexter and Howell.

R. J. Wright of Marion, former county treasurer, has had some correspondence with the Edison and has been requested to furnish a list of farmers along the line who desire to use the Edison service. Mr. Wright was in Pinckney Wednesday, having canvassed the route, and reports that every farmer along the road and many on adjacent roads are anxious to avail themselves of this opportunity. Many of them have milking machines and the electric current would be very acceptable to all for power and illumination.

Mr. Wright suggests that it would be a good plan if the farmers between Pinckney and Dexter would express themselves on this matter and he would be glad to hear from them.

The line under way is intended for transmission purposes only and carries a very heavy voltage. If farmers wish to use the current it will be necessary to put up a line of smaller voltage for local consumers.

VILLAGE TAXES

the Edison Company "for a price". This insult was ignored by Mr. Weeks and the meeting came to a close after Mrs. Crofoot had reiterated statements made by Pinckney witnesses.

The question of Pinckney's future is now squarely before the Utilities Commission and those present believe the village will receive justice—long past due. The Utilities Commission as a body is anxious to do the just thing to all concerned and, now that the matter is officially presented, a speedy decision is hoped for by all.

"FISHING."
Synopsis—His star pitcher definitely out of the game, through illness, Tris Ford, manager of the famous baseball team, the Giant-Killers, secures Barney Larkin, brilliant twirler, but eccentric and dissipated. Barney makes good, but Tris finds it is a man's job to keep him straight. James Winton Shute, second baseman, is Tris' right hand man. On his advice Tris picks Steadman, a pitcher, for Barney's keeper, because they have a common bond—fishing.

PART I.—Continued.
But who, save a block of lignum-vitae, wouldn't have allowed his deep concern to be occasionally seen? From the middle of August, when the Western clubs made their last journey east, the Giant-killers were scheduled, week after week, to "blow"—that is, to drop back in the race. This disaster threatened many times. Once the team was two full games behind the Red Sox, then leaders; but lowly Washington surprised the president, the vice president, senators and congressmen by beating the "Speed Boys" four straight, and thus taking second place. Collaterally, the senators helped the Giant-killers back into first position.

Came the very last week of the season with more excitement than the previous ones.

to "repeat" and again participate in the world series, were to engage in a cut-throat struggle with the Phillies. If New York broke even, the championship banner would again float from the Giants' stadium. But if the Phillies won three out of four, then Father Penn would carry off the flag. This series opened on Tuesday.

In the American the Giant-killers had to keep ahead to win. A game and a half separated Tris Ford's charges from the Chicago White Sox. Here, however, there was no rival clash. The two clubs had met for the last time, and honors were even. Washington must beat the Giant-killers and Chicago must win from Detroit in order to bring one end of the world series into Lakeville. These two "deciding" combats began a day later.

The fan's diary had these entries: Tuesday night—Phillies and New York tied in the National.

Wednesday night—Giant-killers still a game and a half ahead in the American; New York leading in the National.

Thursday before dinner—Teams tied again in the National; but a half game between Giant-killers and White Sox in the American.

Friday night—Phillies win the pennant!

On the same day the Giant-killers, with Barney Larkin on the rubber, defeated the Senators while the White Sox were whitewashing the Tigers. No change in their respective standing—two leading American league teams but half a game apart.

Immediately after the third game Tris Ford took Barney Larkin into his private office and talked to him as a father to his wild son. He rallied every ounce of manliness, of sentiment, of fighting blood there was in the eccentric left-hander. He told him he must face Washington again the next day—and bring home the bacon. The pennant was at stake!

"You will be a hero if you win," Ford, pointed out by everybody as the man who pitched the Giant-killers to another championship. But if you lose, why—you'll be nobody."

Meanwhile, James Winton Shute was giving orders to Ernest Steadman, just as the secretary of the treasury would have directed the chief of the secret service.

"You mustn't lose sight of Barney one instant! If he insists on drinking, start a row, and get locked up—the both of you. We'll bail you out, but only in time to get from City hall to the park in a taxi. See!"

Ernest Steadman slowly nodded his head. "I have been every place but in jail with Barney." The keeper was a man of few words.

That night Tris Ford slept badly. Being younger and having done a big man's work out of doors, Win Shute slept like a babe—the kind of kid you find about . . . Naturally, Tris awoke with a feeling of depression, as if the Giant-killers weren't going to get the day's breaks. But Shute jumped out of bed slinging: "Today we win the bunting!" Which goes to prove that premonitions are closely allied to the "morning after."

At two o'clock that fateful afternoon, when the last man left the locker-room for the field, Barney Larkin and Ernest Steadman had not reported at the park. For an hour, by order of Tris Ford, President Benn's limousine had been rushing about like a back on election day, searching everywhere for the missing pair. In the business office the club's secretary had the telephone directory before him, open at "Saloons and Cafes," and one after another the proprietors were called, beginning with Aiello, Michele, and ending with Zhytnieski, Julian. Neither Michele nor Julian, not to mention the rum purveyors occupying the more intermediate portions of the alphabetical directory, had seen the erratic Barney or his slow-going conveyer.

On another telephone, Win Shute, marring the oak furniture with his spikes, was calling the various police stations. He remembered his final instructions to Steadman, and was looking for results. But Larkin was not behind the bars—not yet. As a place of last resort, John Benn suggested that some one telephone the morgue. Some one did. "No one answering the description!"

"He's made his getaway," said Tris Ford. "there's nothing to that." The game was played with Cummins and Arrow in the points, Washington won.

Tris Ford left the grounds with a face as long as a rainy spell in April. But Win Shute was cheerful. An hour later he telephoned the manager: "White Sox lose! Pennant's ours. Hoo-ray!"

"I know it—but what d'you suppose has become of Barney?" were Ford's words. Already his quick mind was looking ahead—to the big battle for the world's emblem.

"He'll show up tomorrow—stop worrying and hug yourself tonight," counseled Shute.

"Well, I appreciate your grand work, Win—on and off the field," said Tris.

Next morning before ten o'clock, his eye bright, his complexion clear, his step elastic, Barney Larkin turned up at the park. He grinned as he remarked:

"We won the flag, sure enough; am I right?"

"Where you been?" growled John Benn, son of the club's president.

"Up state," answered Barney unconcernedly.

"What the devil you been doing?" "Fishing."

"Fishing—this time of year?"

"Didn't catch nothing."

"You'll catch something when Tris sets eyes on you."

"Mebbe."

Barney took the most comfortable chair in the room, bit off a generous chew of tobacco, then piewed up last night's pink extra, and began laboriously to spell out the "Flashes from the Diamond."

Elsewhere Ernest Steadman was explaining to his mentor, James Winton Shute. It appeared that Barney had developed a robust thirst, which would not be denied. Lacking confidence in the jail as a haven, the worried keeper, drawing heavily on his meager imagination, had faked the story of a marvelous trout pond up state. In the crisis he conjured up such a remarkable picture of the pond, which was "lousy with trout," as he expressed it, that Barney was seized with a sudden determination to go thither.

"I tried to make him wait until the pennant was cinched," explained Steadman, "but he said he always pitched better ball on a bellyful of trout. Thought I planned it to get back in time for yesterday's game."

"But I thought this was a phony pond?" said Shute.

"It was—the one I told Barney about. But I hunted up the nearest one in the summer tour book of the Penny."

"Why didn't you get back?" demanded Win.

"Because Barney wouldn't come until he had one bite—kept putting off starting until, he says, 'one speckled beauty rises to my fly. None rll.'"

"You must have picked a fine pond," said Shute.

"I did. They's an intake there from a cam-a-bear cheese factory and it's killed all the fish."

When Win Shute talked with Tris Ford over the telephone about the disappearance, reappearance and "fool explanation," Tris replied:

"Well, we've won the pennant, and they're here. What we got to figure on now is so's it won't happen again. Want to talk over the world series with you?"

There was an entirely new element in the approaching blue-ribbon event. Of course the Giant-killers to a man wanted to win. It meant perhaps fifteen hundred dollars more money in each player's jeans. It meant, also,

First and foremost for the glory of it. Then for the prestige it would give the Giant-killers all over the league circuit—rather, which they would continue to enjoy another season. There was a third reason, a very important reason.

Not once before in the thirty-five years of the club's existence had the Phillies won a pennant. Yet within ten years pennant winning had become something of a habit with the Giant-killers. Naturally, therefore, they had the call on the patronage of Father Penn's home town, having commanded popular favor for a number of seasons. This popularity was now in jeopardy. If the Phillies demonstrated that they were the better team, the fans would turn to the new kings of baseball the next season. For the fan dearly loves a winner.

On form—relying on the weak brother, Barney Larkin—the Giant-killers looked to have a shade the best of the argument. This being so, why were the Phillies the favorites in the betting? Even money was at first the rule. But over in New York the gamblers soon had the odds hammered down until the Nationals were favorites at 10 to 6.

Gambling Tris Ford abhorred, regarding it as the ever-present menace to the integrity of the national game; and if he thought a man, however prominent, or important, was seeking a line on the Giant-killers as a guide in betting, Tris would shut up like a steel trap. It wasn't the betting itself, but the information behind the odds, that troubled him.

It did not surprise him—why, he did not know—when he received a letter, special delivery, from the sporting editor of one of the New York papers. The man who wrote it loved fair play and clean sport, and looked upon Tris Ford as the apostle of the one and the exponent of the other. The letter read:

"In this town the gamblers are plunging on the Phillies. Regardless of form, your club is being forced down steadily in the betting. Jake Stinger and other big gamblers don't look upon this betting proposition as a 'game of chance,' not they. Gambling to them on such a scale means a sure thing. It is no secret on the inside. They say you have only one pitcher who can stop the Phillies, now at the top of their batting, and that is Barney Larkin. They boast that they have got him.

"Take this for what it's worth. You doubtless know Larkin—but I know Stinger's crowd. They are betting on a sure thing, or else somebody is fooling them in a awfully. Anyhow, look out."

"Where's Win Shute?"

Bailed Up the Barber.

Judge Blank is fond of relating how he put one over on the barber who wished to make a sale. The man had just shaved him, and wanted to sell him a lotion to use on his face when he shaved himself.

"Is that what you use on your customers?" asked the judge.

"No," replied the barber, "it's so expensive I cannot afford it."

"If you can't afford it when you get 20 cents for shaving a man," returned the judge, "how do you expect me to afford it when I shave myself for nothing?"

The barber was nonplussed and gave up, trying to make the sale.—Boston Transcript.

HOT WEATHER Hits the Stomach Hardest

Chicago, Ill.—Hot weather upsets the strongest stomach and causes serious trouble for the weak ones, so word is now going out to thousands of eatonic users that they should, during this hot weather, be on the safe side and take one eatonic tablet well as after eating. Do this and you will find that eatonic tablets rid the system of excess gases from forming in stomach and bowels. Eatonic acts quickly; it will help the appetite and take away the hot-weather, feverish, thirsty feeling from mouth and stomach, because it takes up the excess acids, poisons and gases and carries them out of the body and, of course, when the cause of the trouble is removed, there can be no bad feeling. Eatonic is like a bit of candy, and is recommended to all as a safe, sure remedy these hot days for stomach and bodily troubles, caused from overeating and drinking cold things. Adv.

Multiplicities Too Fast.

At one of the army schools the perspiring aspirants for knowledge were going through the intricacies of arithmetic. One raw youth was having particular difficulty with fractions.

"It's very simple," encouraged the instructor. "See this rule, now. How many tenths are there in it? Ten, of course. Now, how many hundredths? One hundred. Now, how many thousandths?"

"D—n!" explained the sufferer. "There must be millions of 'em."—American Legion Weekly.

Chic Gowns for the Warm Days

The first warm days often find us quite unprepared in the matter of clothes. This is especially true after a cold, late spring such as the one just passed, which offered little incentive to buying thin frocks. So, if we have delayed in our shopping, writes a prominent fashion correspondent, it means that we confront a real problem—that of getting a suitable warm weather wardrobe together quickly.

We are realizing more and more the need of the practical combined with beauty in our clothes. The sensible woman, however, never sacrifices beauty to the purely practical. In the dark georgette crepe frocks we have this combination. No fabric has yet been able to supplant the good, substantial navy blue georgette crepe for wear on hot days, offering as it does the advantages of coolness and lightness.

There are those who, in their desire to help reduce the high cost of living, talk of the economy of gingham, but a gingham dress is never an economy—rather it is a luxury to be enjoyed in the country. In the first place, ghingams are anything but inexpensive, and, furthermore, frocks made from them require frequent and careful laundering, which under existing conditions means constant additional expense. Even with the best of care they never look quite the same after a visit to the laundry.

Real Organdie Flowers.

Although we have seen a great deal of taffeta during the last year, its glory has not yet been dimmed. We have had it combined with organdie in an infinite number of ways, but no lovelier union of these two has appeared than is seen in the models made entirely of silk and decked with huge white organdie flowers applied with long, loose stitches of dark thread. The flowers are not cut from flat pieces of the muslin, but are twisted deftly and shaped so that they are big and puffy. The pieces simulating leaves are veined with the dark thread.

It pours also in the bodice in the form of a cascade which rests over the skirt and is bound with the dark blue taffeta. A white organdie bow at the back of the neck also is bound with blue. The short sleeves have a tiny turned-back cuff of organdie worked with blue in a loose long and short stitch.

To wear in the late afternoon or as an informal summer evening dress nothing could be more suitable than the embroidered batiste robes which have again come into fashion. We have on these both solid and eyelet embroidery. The frocks themselves are just little straightline affairs which tend to show off the beauty of the needlework. A great deal of care is exercised in the selection of shades for such dresses. Wonderful ribbons are chosen.

The embroidered batiste robe is given further elaboration by the introduction of a lovely square mesh lace. A remarkable ribbon is used for the girdle. It is about an inch wide and of three shades of blue, one running into the other, giving the appearance of three separate ribbons stitched together.

Another method of introducing a bright-colored ribbon into an embroidered batiste robe is seen in a frock having cherry red satin ribbon with a rough surface starting at the neckline in the form of panels, slipping through medallions at the waistline and continuing down either side of the front until they are caught under the hem.

Another frock shows ribbon again featuring as the distinctive note. This is interesting as a simple adaptation of the Egyptian style, which many people have been inclined to think of as representing elaboration only. Here a beautiful brocaded ribbon—dull red and silver—is used to give an Egyptian effect to the simplest and most practical sort of chiffon frock.

Lace With Batiste or Organdie.

It is interesting to observe another way in which lace and batiste are combined. Brown lace is used for a chemise top cut just like a long smock reaching to a low hipline. A double piece of ecru batiste is attached to the bottom of the smock to make a straight skirt. Where the two are joined a garland of batiste flowers veined with brown is applied. A sash of narrow brown ribbon girdles the waistline.

Embroidered Batiste and Lace Robe to Wear in the Late Afternoon or as an Informal Summer Evening Dress.

The same idea might be carried out in lace and organdie. Brown lace with organdie of the same color but slightly lighter in shade is effective, or lace may be dyed any color and used with white organdie. With the wonderful choice of ribbons that we have now a very distinctive effect may be given by the sash.

Still another pleasing use of brown is seen in an evening frock. This is one of the dancing frocks, made with a somewhat high neck and cap sleeves, which are beginning to take the place of the extreme décolletage—another instance of the turning away from extravagance toward simpler things. The bodice and tunic of the skirt are composed of brown taffeta and the trimming is tiny bows of the silk. The taffeta petals have an inch-wide edging of lighter brown tulle. Beneath the tunic are three tulle skirts, also cut in the form of petals. The first is of a very dark shade of brown overlaid with dull orange. There is a narrow foundation skirt of silk, making in all four skirts, one above the other.

Black Taffeta and Black Tulle Used

Black taffeta and black tulle are used in a similar way, the only real difference being in the skirt, which consists of four tiers of black tulle petals, so that the idea of the four skirts is carried out, but entirely in the net. The bodice is plain almost to the point of severity. It is cut to fit the figure rather snugly and crumple at the waistline. As in the black lace dresses brought out earlier in the season and which still enjoy considerable prestige, a bit of bright color is introduced by veiling scarlet flowers with net. The bodice boasts of no trimming other than a quaint little corsage bouquet, also bright red.

Only the slender woman may aspire to the Cheruit evening frock, with its billowing skirts composed of irregular loops of pink taffeta. These loop draperies, brought out by Cheruit earlier in the season, were looked upon by many as being exceedingly impractical. This, however, has not proved true. They have been eminently successful in evening things. Wraps, as well as dresses, carry long loops of chiffon or silk. Like many new fashions they have been slow in gaining popular favor, and it is, after all, a credit to women's judgment that they do not accept a new feature until they have given it due consideration. These loop dresses, which, like the Egyptian things, were slow of acceptance, are likely to prove longtime favorites—that is, they will be seen among the autumn fashions, so that the woman who in the spring bought clothes featuring such draperies finds them quite as fashionable now as they were earlier in the season.

The Cheruit frock is developed in a wonderful shade of pliant pink taffeta. Here we see the Egyptian influence as well as the loop drapery. The very long bodice is girdled with a sash made by twisting two vividly contrasting shades of pink tulle and knotting them in a huge bow at the back, the ends being allowed to trail off to several inches below the hem of the skirt. A wispy bit of pink tulle edges the frill at the neck and a garland of flowers over one shoulder.

Important to all Women Readers of this Paper

Thousands upon thousands of women have kidney or bladder trouble and never suspect it.

Women's complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble, or the result of kidney or bladder disease.

If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition, they may cause the other organs to become diseased.

You may suffer pain in the back, headache and loss of ambition.

Poor health makes you nervous, irritable and may be despondent; it makes any one so.

But hundreds of women claim that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, by restoring health to the kidneys, proved to be just the remedy needed to overcome such conditions.

Many send for a sample bottle to see what Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder medicine, will do for them. By enclosing ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Oldtime Republicans Exchange Reminiscences of Conventions in Which They Were Prominent.

Chauncey M. Depew and Joseph G. Cannon got into an argument as to which had been attending national conventions the longer.

"Now, Joe," said Senator Depew to the former speaker, "you know you are only a comparatively young man in convention history and cannot figure in the same class with me. I was at the convention of 1864 and I know you did not come along until later." "You're both children," declared former Marshal Louis F. Payn of Chatham, who was doing his regular quadrennial turn as a member of the New York delegation. "I was here in 1860."

"I'd have been here, too," remarked "Uncle Joe" Cannon, "but Abe Lincoln beat me in a lawsuit the week before the convention and I didn't have money enough to pay the $2 a week board bill unless I walked here to save carfare."—New York Morning Telegraph's Chicago Story.

Cold Water Has Odd Use.

For years steam has been used for thawing the frozen soil of mining claims in Alaska, in spite of difficulties. Now it has been discovered that cold surface water, which of course is warmer than the ground, is a much better thawing medium than either steam or hot water, states Popular Mechanics Magazine. This seeming paradox is explained by the fact that the superabundant heat units of steam rise rapidly around the pipe, and are wasted, while the few heat units carried by the cold water remain in the ground and do their work slowly but thoroughly. In one test in the Nome district, a 2-inch pipe was inserted in a 6-inch drilled hole, and fed with 20 gallons of water a minute at a temperature of 32 degrees F., the ground being at 25 degrees. In 36 hours an 8-foot cylindrical thaw had been made.

BASE BALL

A Howell team composed mostly of veterans met and defeated Pinckney Sunday on the home grounds by a score of 4 to 3.

It was a close game at all times and after the fourth inning the score stood 3 and 3 until the ninth when Howell succeeded in getting two men on bases with no one out. These two were put out by a fast double play by Kennedy and A. Lavoy. Howell was not to be denied the game, however, and finally put the winning run across.

The game opened with Murphy pitching for Pinckney. Two bases on balls and three men hit by pitcher and a fielder's choice gave Howell two runs. Pinckney then received two gifts which, coupled with a hit and a long fly, netted a run.

After the first inning both pitchers steadied down and located the plate offener. In the third Pinckney took two runs and the lead by good hitting. Howell tied the score in the fourth by three safe swats.

It looked as if there might be something doing in Pinckney's half of the eighth. A Lavoy singled, stole second and negotiated third on a passed ball, but his efforts were unavailing.

Excepting the wildness which largely affected both pitchers it was a fine baseball game. Griffin of Howell fanning 12 men and Murphy 7, and the game was punctuated here and there by classy hitting and good baserunning on both sides.

Walter Cook, captain of the Howell team, played a fine game at third and was robbed of what probably would have been a three bagger if umpire Lohr had not checked the ball pass third inside the diamond.

BRYAN REFUSES TO HEAD DRYS

AARON WATKINS, TEACHER, IS NOMINATED INSTEAD BY PROHIBITIONISTS.

COLVIN HIS RUNNING MATE

Nominee Is Professor of Literature in a Germantown Military Academy.

Lincoln, Neb.—With the national convention finished and a ticket placed in the field, Prohibition delegates home, the newly elected national committee was making plans for the fight with the Democrats and Republicans.

The convention adjourned after naming Aaron S. Watkins, Germantown, O., a school teacher, as its standard bearer, and D. Leigh Colvin, New York author, nominated as his running mate. The nominations came after William Jennings Bryan, Mont., that he could not accept because he wished to remain a Democrat, although he had "not decided how he would vote this fall."

Mr. Watkins is a professor of literature in a Germantown military academy. He was a professor in Ada College, Ohio, for several years, and was vice-presidential candidate on the Prohibition ticket in 1908 and 1912. He was born on a farm near Rushsylvania, O., and is 53 years old. He preached 17 years in the Methodist Church before starting teaching and was nominated for governor of Ohio on the Prohibition ticket in 1905 and 1908.

Active Campaign. In accepting Mr. Watkins said his campaign plans were up to the national committee, but he knew it "would be an active campaign."

In addition to planning for the campaign, the national committee expects to issue a statement in the next few days.

acceptance, but they wanted more time to study it.

Mr. Bryan's telegram was as follows:

"Having been away from the railroads and telegraphic facilities for the last 24 hours, I have not received your telegram notifying me of the nomination tendered me by the Prohibition Party convention. But, reading a copy of it in the Bozeman Chronicle, I hasten to reply.

Shares in Disappointment. "I profoundly appreciate the honor done me in tendering this nomination and I fully share in the convention's interest in prohibition as the permanent policy of our country and in the strict enforcement of the Volstead Act without any weakening of its provisions. I also share the convention's disappointment at the failure of the Democratic and Republican Parties to pledge their candidates to such a policy, but I can not, in justice to the Prohibition Party, nor to myself, accept the nomination.

"My connection with other reforms would make it impossible for me to focus my attention on the Prohibition question alone, and besides I am not willing to sever my connection with the Democratic Party, which has so signally honored me in years past.

ACCEPT AWARD UNDER PROTEST

15 of 16 Rail Chiefs in Harmony; One to Take Strike Vote.

Chicago.—Railway union executives left Chicago following a three day conference at the conclusion of which it was decided by all of the recognized 15 unions, except one, the Order of Railway Telegraphers, to accept under protest the railway labor board's wage award, seven voting for a referendum of the individual unions.

The telegraphers referred the award to their membership with a strike proposition. The other 15 unions expressed intention of renewing their cases before the board.

It was estimated by union leaders that the tabulated returns on the referendum vote would not be made before September 1, when the railroads revert to complete private ownership.

The acceptance under protest was only finally made in order to obtain for the men the back pay from May 1 on Aug. 1, the union officials said.

The Order of Railway Conductors said that it felt "that the public interest demands acceptance." The conductors met again to take up "a new petition asking further consideration in respect to certain rates."

Grand Rapids—Women of the Lincoln Republican club protested because the names of married women are not in the city directory.

HE WOULD HAVE BATHING SUIT LAW TO COVER KNEES

Atlanta, Ga.—"There ought to be a law against it," mused State Senator Wilkinson, viewing a dimpled knee as its owner poised for a graceful dive.

And Senator Wilkinson had two stringent "blue laws" before the Senate, one governing bathing costumes, the other on "character protection." The Senator's observations brought these recommendations:

"Women's bathing costumes should conceal the knees as well as the shoulders—and conceal both knees and shoulders."

"Bathing by men and women in the same pool should not be permitted—at least a rope barrier should be interposed."

"Watching and spying should be punished by fines of not less than $500 nor more than $5,000."

His "character protection" measure would forbid girls between 14 and 16 having "company" without written consent.

CHARGE SEWER RUINS TUNNEL

Auto Officials' Complaint Is Investigated By Council.

Detroit.—An investigation of a complaint filed by officers of the Hudson and Essex Motor Car companies that completion of the Connor's Creek sewer under present tentative plans will virtually ruin a new 1,500-foot tunnel, was under way by Public Works Commissioner Martin and City Engineer Hubbell. The tunnel connects the two plants and was constructed recently at a cost of $250,000.

To carry through present plans, council members say, the city will be forced to construct a new tunnel for the motor companies. Changing the course of the sewer to avoid collision with the tunnel would cost approximately $2,000,000.

The complaint was made before the council by ex-Judge William F. Connolly, attorney for the Hudson Motor Car Co., and Fred H. Currie, plant superintendent.

The council gave the Hudson company permission to build the tunnel almost a year ago.

DETECTIVES ON TRAIL OF BONDS

Two Brothers Are Being Held With Stolen Securities.

Detroit.—Pennsylvania detectives arrived to investigate the stories of Benjamin Davis, 26 years old, and his brother, David Davis, 25 years old, that the $37,100 in bonds which they attempted to sell last week were entrusted to them for sale by a former saloonkeeper of Toledo. The bonds were identified as part of the $100,000 loot obtained by five men who held up the First National Bank in Finleyville, Pa., May 24.

The Davis brothers were arrested after trying to dispose of the bonds to a Griswold street brokerage house, and the identification was made as the result of telegrams sent to Pittsburgh officers by Edward H. Fox, chief of detectives. Benjamin Davis conducts a real estate office in the Penobscot Building, and his brother, David, operated a dry cleaning establishment in Toledo.

Benjamin Davis, who lives at 143 Willis avenue west, was released on bonds.

HOW TO PREVENT BEES SWARMING

Advice and Suggestions on Subject Given by Professor Conradi of Clemson.

BROOD CHAMBER TOO SMALL

Emigration of Honey Gatherers Can Be Greatly Reduced by Proper Management—How Swarm May Be Hived to Best Advantage.

One of the problems of the beekeeper, says Prof. A. F. Conradi, entomologist, is how to prevent bees from swarming. The following questions and answers taken from information card No. 9 published recently by the extension service of Clemson college, give in brief form expert advice and suggestions on this subject:

1. Why do bees swarm?
The bee colony is divided into workers, drones (or male bees), and a queen. Normally the queen alone lays eggs, and to perpetuate their race new colonies are necessary. This is their natural way of increase.

2. What are conditions that induce swarming?

(a) The brood chamber may be too small, allowing too little egg-laying space. (b) There may be too little storage space. (c) There may be lack of ventilation. (d) There may be too many drones.

3. At what season is swarming most frequent?

Mostly in early spring, but it may occur at any time during honey flow if conditions named in No. 2 are not corrected.

4. Can swarming be entirely prevented?

No; but it can be greatly reduced by proper management.

5. Why should swarming be prevented as far as possible?

To keep the working force together. One hive full of bees is worth more than any number of weak colonies.

6. Are there two queens in the hive at swarming time?

Generally not. The young queen has not yet come out of the queen cell. The old queen leaves with the first swarm.

7. How may swarming be reduced or possibly prevented?

(a) If the brood chamber becomes crowded, add another brood chamber. (b) If bees cluster out, it may be due to a crowded condition, or lack of ventilation. Ventilate the hive and add supers when necessary. If possible

PRODUCE BEST CAULIFLOWER

Tie Leaves Over Head to Protect It From Sun or Weather—Three Cuttings of Crop.

When the cauliflower head is about the size of a dollar, the leaves should be tied or twisted over the head to protect it from sun and weather. This method should produce a perfectly white product. The leaves should be so tied that snow or rain that enters may find a ready exit at the bottom, as an accumulation of moisture on the head or curd will cause dark spots and eventually ruin the product. There are usually three cuttings of the crop. If the earliest heads are tied with string, the second with raffia and the last have the leaves broken over, the grower will be aided at cutting time and will not have to examine all the plants.

Rape.

Rape as a forage crop for hogs has not been so popular in the South as in the North.

remove drone comb and also queen cells.

8. How may a swarm be hived to best advantage?

(a) When the swarm has settled, shake or brush it into the new hive. (b) Remove the old hive from which the swarm came and place it where you want it to remain in the future. (c) Place the hive containing the new swarm on the old stand. The first bees returning home will enter the new hive on the old stand; by night the majority of bees are again in the new hive on the old stand, making a strong colony.

USE AX IF DISEASE DEVELOPS IN FLOCK

Chicks Will Not Grow Properly if Not Healthy.

Far Better Plan to Prevent Ailments Than to Attempt to Cure an Ailing Fowl—Give Good Attention to Their Houses.

Disease is one of the handicaps to successful poultry keeping and should be guarded against at all times. Unless kept in a healthy condition, chicks will not grow properly and mature fowls will lose their vigor and vitality and become unproductive and unprofitable.

It is far better to prevent disease by proper care and attention than to attempt to cure a bird after it is sick. Therefore it is important to watch the flock closely at all times for any signs of disease, so in case an outbreak occurs it may be checked at once. Prevention is always better than cure, and all those who wish to succeed with poultry should give their birds such good care and keep their houses so well cleaned and disinfected that both fowls and chicks will keep hardy and vigorous.

Some diseases may be treated successfully, while others of a more serious nature usually prove fatal. If only one or two birds of a flock become sick it is usually advisable to kill them immediately (unless they are agriculture. If the birds are kept and an attempt is made to doctor or cure them the disease may prove contagious and spread throughout the entire flock.

AXLE USEFUL AS GATE HINGE

Illustration Shows How Discarded Part of Wagon or Other Implement May Be Utilized.

On almost every farm can be found an old wagon or implement wheel with its axle. The illustration shows how it can be made to form one side and a very effective hinge for the farm gate.

An Old Axle, With Parts of the Two Wheels Remaining Upon It Forms an Essential Part of This Easy-Working Farm Gate.

The axle is set upright with the slats of the gate bolted to it. The lower end of the axle should be fitted with an old hub to serve as a bearing. The hub on the upper end should have at least one spoke remaining in it, so that the latter can be thrust through a hole bored in the gate post. Some stout wire, or iron strips, will be necessary to hold the hub up against the post.

POISONING GOPHERS IS EASY

Put Strychnine Sulphate on Pieces of Vegetable of Some Kind and Shove in Holes.

The easiest way to poison gophers is to put pieces of strychnine sulphate, about the size of half a wheat grain, on pieces of potato, carrots or turnips. Then take a sharp stick and push it down into the soft earth around the mound. Put the pieces of poisoned material down into these places and the gophers will get it. This way also keeps stock and children from picking it up. It has been proven to be very efficient in ridding the field.

Valuable Supplemental Crop. Sudan grass is a valuable supplemental pasture crop in that it comes on during the heat of the summer and early fall when the native grasses are often suffering from drought.

Excellent Building Material. Hollow tile makes an excellent material for almost any kind of building construction.

CITY IS LIABLE FOR M. O. BONDS

J. C. THOMSON, EXPERT, HOLDS ISSUE BINDING OBLIGATION OF DETROIT.

AMOUNT ISSUED IS $15,000,000

Opinion, Withheld, Recalls Pre-Election Promise of Mayor to Taxpayers.

Detroit.—All of the $15,000,000 street railway bonds, when sold, will constitute a valid and binding obligation of the city of Detroit, according to an opinion given by John C. Thomson, New York attorney and municipal bond expert. In this connection it will be recalled that previous to the municipal street railway election Mayor Couzens announced that the plan would not impose any additional burden on the tax payers, who are liable for the debts of the city.

Held Binding Obligations. Following the passage of the bond issue by the people the city engaged Mr. Thomson to "examine into the validity and regularity of the proceedings to authorize $15,000,000 public utility bonds for the city of Detroit." His opinion is that the "bonds will constitute valid and binding obligations of the city of Detroit," and also that the proceedings will be regular and complete when the bonds have been sold "for the price of not less than par and accrued interest to the date of delivery."

Attorney Thomson's Opinion. "At the request of the city of Detroit, Mich., I have examined into the validity and regularity of the proceedings to authorize $15,000,000 public utility bonds of the city of Detroit, Mich., to be issued for the purpose of acquiring and owning a street railway system. I have examined certified copies of the proceedings of the common council and the officers of the city of Detroit for the submission including all proceedings down to and including the canvass and certification of the vote at the election on said question on April 5, 1920. I have also examined the constitution and statutes of the state of Michigan and the charter of the city of Detroit.

"It is my opinion that the said proceedings have been regularly taken and that they show good authority for the issuance of public utility bonds of the city of Detroit to the amount of $15,000,000, and that when said bonds have been finally authorized, offered and sold, in proper form, and for the price of not less than par and accrued interest to date of delivery and have been signed and executed in conformity with the charter of the city and the statutes of Michigan, said bonds will constitute valid and binding obligations of the city of Detroit, Mich.

EVERYBODY GETS THEIR SHARE

Canadian Car Marked "Shingles Contained Rum.

A box car ostensibly carrying shingles rolled into the Essex Terminal Railroad yards early last Saturday. Evidently some persons knew the car was coming for they were ready to relieve it of its load. They opened the car and carried away as much as they could until daybreak.

Men on their way to work investigated and found the shingles to be Old Crow whisky. They went right home with all they could carry. Their wives returned with them and helped to carry bottles in their aprons. Express carts and the children were pressed into service until the surrounding district was well supplied.

The car was bonded for 500 cases. What the bootleggers got who first opened the car can not be determined. When the neighbors got through there were 117 cases left.

MOB HANGS WIFE MURDERER

West Virginia Lifer Taken From Fayetteville Jail.

Fayetteville, W. Va.—William Bennett, Jr., of Fayetteville, serving a life sentence here for the murder of his wife and unborn child, was taken from jail by a mob and lynched.

The jailer had previously been summoned to the sheriff's office by telephone and when he arrived he was confronted by the mob who demanded his keys. He was then kept under close guard while the jail was stormed and Bennett taken out. The captors, occupying 20 automobiles, rode to the old country poor farm where they hanged him from a beam stretched between the forks of white oak trees.

The KITCHEN CABINET

If we trod the deeps of ocean, if we struck the stars in rising. If we wrapped the globe intensely with one hot electric breath, 'Twere but power within our tether, no new spirit power comprising. And in life we were not greater men, nor bolder men in death.

SEASONABLE GOOD THINGS.

Soup is seasonable the year round in any climate. The following will be found one quite worth while:

Royal Soup.—Soak one cupful of bread crumbs in one-half cupful of milk. Add the yolks of three hard-cooked eggs rubbed through a sieve and the breast of a stewed chicken, also rubbed through a sieve; add three and one-half cupfuls of stock, highly seasoned, one and one-half cupfuls of scalded milk, and two and one-half tablespoonfuls each of flour and butter cooked together. Season with salt and pepper.

Pressed Beef Flank.—Wipe, remove superfluous fat and roll a flank of beef. Put into a kettle cover with boiling water and add one tablespoonful of salt, one-half teaspoonful of peppercorns, a small piece of bay leaf and the bone of a shank of veal. Cook slowly until the meat is very tender. There should be very little liquor in the kettle when the meat is done. Arrange the meat in a deep pan, pour over the liquor, cover and press with a heavy weight. Serve cold.

Chicken a la Stanley.—Melt one-fourth of a cupful of butter, add one large onion thinly sliced and two broilers cut in pieces for serving. Cover and cook slowly for ten minutes, then add one cupful of chicken stock and cook until the meat is tender. Remove the chickens, rub the stock and onions through a sieve and add one and one-half tablespoonfuls each of butter and flour cooked together. Add to a serving dish, pour around the sauce, and garnish the dish with sliced bananas dipped in flour and sautéed in butter.

Boiled Dressing.—To one cupful of beaten eggs, a mixture of white and yolk, add an equal quantity of mild vinegar. Cook over hot water till thick. Season when ready to use. Will keep for weeks in a jar well sealed and placed in a cool place.

If we have whispered truth, Whisper no longer. Speak as the tempest does. Sternly and stronger.

SUMMER MEATS.

Chicken, veal, sweetbreads and lamb are the summer meats most commonly liked and served.

Broiled Chicken.—Clean a tender chicken and split it down the back. Break the joints, take out the breast bone, wipe clean, sprinkle with salt and pepper and rub with soft butter. Broil and serve with melted butter.

Breaded Veal Cutlet.—Have the cutlets less than an inch thick; parboil and drain, then cool. Season with salt and pepper, dip in beaten egg and crumbs and fry until brown. Serve with tomato sauce or with a border of green peas.

Chicken Gallosch.—Cut into dice two medium sized raw potatoes. Put into a fryingpan two tablespoonfuls of olive oil and when hot add the potato dice. Stir to keep from burning and cook five minutes. Then add a dash of paprika, a cupful of boiling water, a crushed bean of garlic, a cupful of cooked chicken chopped fine or a can of boned chicken; salt to taste. Cover and cook until the potatoes are done, stirring frequently.

Mayonnaise dressing, using olive oil, is the salad par excellence, but a tasty substitute can be prepared from corn oil, using the same method of mixing.

The secret of a good mayonnaise is freshness of the egg and well-chilled ingredients and utensils. Drop a fresh egg yolk into a well-chilled bowl placed in a pan of ice water; add a half teaspoonful of salt, a teaspoonful of powdered sugar, a pinch of mustard, a dash of cayenne and a tablespoonful of lemon juice. Beat well before adding any oil, then but a few drops at a time, beating well between each addition. Thin the mixture with vinegar or lemon juice, adding more oil until three-quarters of a cupful has been used. Mayonnaise to be good should be thick and creamy. When serving it in the salad it may be thinned with cream.

FARM NOTES

East Lansing—The Livingston County Holstein breeders are planning a tour of inspection of the herds of the county on Thursday, August 5. The committee in charge of local arrangements consists of J. B. Tooley, Howell, President; J. G. Hays, Howell, Secretary of Livingston County Holstein-Friesian Association; and County Agricultural Agent P. S. Drake. They have planning to visit a number of the leading herds of the county during the day.

The Holstein "fans" will gather at the farm of Secretary "Jim" Hays, four miles east of Howell on the Gram River road, at ten o'clock in the morning, and after inspecting the herd will drive to the McPherson Village, thence to C. S. Heeg's farm north of Howell on the Byron road, where the basket picnic and program will be held.

Among the speakers will be D. D. Aiken, President of the Holstein-Friesian Association of America; H. C. Pollock, Extension Service Representative; and M. S. Prescott, Editor of the Holstein-Friesian World.

From the Heeg farm the caravan will proceed to S. H. Munsell's, and finish at Robin Carr's at Fowlerville.

On account of the wide reputation of Livingston County as a Holstein center it is expected that many breeders from adjoining counties will avail themselves of the opportunity of visiting these herds.

All who are interested in Holstein cattle or dairying are invited to pack their lunch baskets and join the caravan.

HILLS MOLDED BY GLACIERS

Peculiar Formation of "Drumlins" Makes Them Appear as Though Intelligently Designed.

Between Syracuse and Rochester, N. Y., lies a country of hills, known as drumlins, which is one of the most beautiful bits of scenery in the eastern United States. The term drumlin is an Irish one, and is applied to low, rolling hills of glacial origin which exist in that country, and also in parts of New York and New England. This section between Syracuse and Rochester is the very heart of the American drumlins.

Most American mountains and hills were formed by violent disturbances of the earth's surface, and their rugged and craggy peaks are the result of the forces which have shaped the mountains of North America. The materials of which they are made were pushed together slowly by the crawling glaciers, molded and tamped and smoothed by the great ice fingers as a child makes mud pies.

The drumlins look as though they had been designed by some great intelligence with a sense of beauty, for they rise in smooth, gentle curves. They are remarkably uniform in height, usually a little less than 200 feet, and so smooth and level on their slopes that many of them are cultivated to their summits. Some of them are as round as half an apple, and others are long warts or rolls.

Scattered among the hills are a number of small lakes and ponds, clear and pretty, and there is good fishing in many of them. The drumlins are a favorite playground of the people in Syracuse, Rochester and other nearby towns, but they are little known beyond the counties in which they lie.

The Earth's Crust.

The most important scientific investigation of the last year in any country has probably been the attempt to measure the earth's crust. We know very little about the shell on which we live. Scientists have been studying the problem in Hawaii, Tuscany and in Salvador, where the opportunities for investigation are especially favorable. Much data now to science has been collected concerning the shell, its composition and probable age. Still other tests have been made in New South Wales, where a great reservoir concentrates an immense weight of water on a limited area, and instruments have been devised to measure the movement of the earth's crust under this weight. New light has thus been thrown on the action of volcanoes.—Hay's Life.

The New Order.

"Were you there when the rich factory owner was trying to get enough hands to run his works?"

"Yes, and it was a painful sight to see that poor, down-trodden millionaire obliged to submit to the insulting sneers and harsh domination of the haughty workman."

Running True to Form.

Debs—He's got a wonderful collection of old curios. It's worth while to see them.

Gebbs—Yes, I know it is. I met his wife at the dance the other night and I think she must be about the oldest curio he has.

At a Disadvantage.

"I fear that lady candidate is going to beat me."

"Why so?"

"She's giving me the beauty hints to win an election. What chance have I got with my plain talk on her raising and selling?"

LATER VARIATION.

He—Sentimental people used to study the language of flowers.

She—Yes, but you can't blame us, under the circumstances if we study the language of cabbages and tomatoes.

Dividing Line.

It's hard, as men their efforts bend To join the crowd that will not end To tell where statesmanship must end And politics begin.

Explaining It.

"It is hard to teach women by experience."

"Very likely it is because women object to getting wrinkles."

The Reason.

"Mrs. Glim says she does all her cooking by electricity."

"That accounts for it. I hear she is a shocking cook."

TOO MUCH COLOR.

"Your narrative is too highly colored," remarked the editor, returning the bulky manuscript.

"In what way?" inquired the disappointed author.

"Why," replied the editor, "in the very first chapter you make the old man turn purple with rage, the villain turn green with envy, the hero turn white with anger, the heroine turn red with confusion, and the coachman turn blue with the cold."—Lord & Tit-Bits.

Still Helpful.

"My boys," said the Grammarian, "I'm going to give you some good advice, but this is just a little bit of it."

"I'm glad to hear that," said the Grammarian, "but I'm afraid you're not going to give me any more."

"No," said the Grammarian, "I have a full page of advice left to give to you."

"What's that?" asked the Grammarian.

"I don't know," said the Grammarian, "but I'll bet it's some body important," whispered Heloise of the rainbow rest.

"What makes you think so?" returned Claudine of the same establishment. "He never says a word about it, does he?"

"No; but my gosh, he can actually look dignified while eating spaghetti!"

ONWARD AND UPWARDS.

"What has become of the man who used to rock the boat?"

"He has progressed with the times. He is not satisfied now unless he is messing up the equilibrium of an aeroplane."

Eating or Sleeping.

A man is often like a horse. We've heard some people say: "But horses both are happy when it's time to hit the hay."

Considerations Considered.

"Have I not been a considerate wife?" she asked, reproachfully.

"No, considerate!" he exclaimed bitterly. "No, indeed!"

"Has there ever been a night when you were out late that I haven't left the light burning for you?"

"And you don't think I'm considerate? You're right—but you burn the bills!"

Case Association.

"What's your cousin has decided to divorce his first husband?"

"On what grounds?"

"She says he insists on sitting in the same box every night when she sings. As a result they have been thrown together so much that he has gotten on her nerves."

Flying High.

"You know we promised a golden apple to the most beautiful girl at the ball."

"Well?"

"The jeweler hasn't finished it. What shall we do?"

"What do we care for expense? Award her a real apple."

Painful Topic.

"I'm afraid Miss Sereleaf did not enjoy the party."

"Indeed?"

"An old friend of hers was among the guests, a lady who has three grown children. She kept referring to the time when she and Miss Sereleaf were girls together."
