TO THE REPUBLICAN VOTERS:

We wonder if you have remembered in the press of other business, that Cassius L. Glasgow of Nashville, is seeking the nomination for Governor on the Republican ticket.

Now we are interested in him because we believe him to be an absolutely capable man and right on all questions. He was raised a farmer, has had twenty-five years experience in business, four years in the Legislature and twelve years as Railroad Commissioner, which gives him the experience needed for Governor.

We have never had a Governor in our family and would like one, especially when we honestly believe we are supporting the best-fitted all-round man that is running this year for Governor, and if you knew this cousin of ours as well as we know him, we are sure you would go to the voting place early, August 31st, rain or shine and vote for him. If you do not know him, just take our word for it that he is all right. We ask you as a special favor that you get your neighbors and friends to join with you and give C. L. Glasgow a big vote at the Primaries, August 31st.

Do not forget the date—

Tuesday, August 31st.

Yours truly,
GLASGOW BROS.

CAMP BIRKETT

The Livingston county Y. M. C. A. camp for boys at Camp Birkett, Silver Lake, Pinckney, has been very successfully operated for about a week with John Strick, County secretary, as director.

About thirty boys between the ages of twelve and sixteen are in attendance which makes it possible to carry out the complete program of physical, mental, and spiritual development without a defect. The many visitors of the camp testify to its cleanliness and general good spirit among the boys and leaders. Every influence points the way to high standards of Christian character and better citizenship, and the far reaching efforts of the camp may not be easily estimated.

Monday the Y. M. C. A. base ball team played the Pinckney Juniors and won the game by the score of 7 to 5.

HARRY CALKINS

Candidate for the Nomination of Sheriff
Republican Ticket

A Deputy under your present Sheriff. A graduate of the Fowlerville High School. Taught school several terms. A successful farmer and stock raiser. Have spent my life dealing with all classes of people. Done a great deal of studying, and have had an abundance of experience as an active Deputy Sheriff to fit myself for this important office.

Inasmuch as the western part of Livingston County has not had a candidate for Sheriff on the Republican ticket for a great many years, and has never had a Sheriff from this section, I would greatly appreciate your support at the Primaries August 31st.

SUGAR PRICE TAKES BIG DROP

Cost Declines Ten Cents Per Pound Within a Week.

Detroit—With a drop in the price of sugar from 27 to 30 cents a pound to 17 cents a pound within a week, Detroit wholesale dealers are said to have been unable to find a market for tons of the commodity which held up in price since the war. Detroit is said to be overloaded with sugar, many dealers being faced with the probability of a serious loss.

The consensus of opinion, as gleaned from statements made by both retailers and wholesalers, is that the speculator has been caught between the wheels and is climbing out from under with ungraceful and unusual rapidity.

Perhaps the factor most instrumental in bringing down the price of sugar is the recent check on the expansion of bank credits. This has checked speculation and the hoarding of the commodity for higher prices.

POLES AT WARSAW DRIVE REDS BACK

BOLSHEVIKI REPULSED AT GATES OF CAPITAL—THOUSANDS OF PRISONERS TAKEN.

FRENCH GENERALS AID POLES

Famous Commanders Lead in Counter-Attack—Colby Says U. S. Aid is Halted by Politics.

Warsaw—Polish successes on all fronts are reported in the official statement on fighting operations.

Soviet prisoners are pouring into Warsaw in such numbers that it is becoming a problem how to care for them.

Russian soviet forces are fleeing in a disorderly panic along the front between the Vistula and Bug rivers, where the Poles are advancing with extraordinary success, says the official statement.

The newspapers assert that the military crisis has been passed and assure the public that Warsaw is absolutely safe.

More than 10,000 prisoners, 30 cannon, 300 machine guns and thousands of supply carts have been captured from the Bolsheviks.

Soviet forces are evacuating Brest-Litovsk, the strongly fortified town on the Bug River, 120 miles east of Warsaw, according to advices here.

French Generals Help Poles.

Paris—Warsaw now seems to be saved from the Bolsheviks. President Pilsudski's armies no longer are obliged to fight a defensive battle.

The offensive on the left wing is being personally led by the French generals, Henry and Billotte, and already has yielded important results. It has once more put the Poles in possession of the key to the Warsaw defense, the fact between the Niemen

Colby Says Politics Hinder Aid.

Washington—A declaration that the American government would support Polish independence "to the full extent of the constitutional power confided in the executive" was made last week by Secretary Colby. Speaking to a delegation of American citizens of Polish extraction who called at both the White House and state department to present memorials adopted at recent mass meetings over the country, Colby said: "Every measure that can legally be taken will be adopted to render effectual the position of this country."

The secretary of state declared, however, that the question of material aid on any broad scale was a political one.

SUFFRAGE FOES CHARGE BRIBE

Tennessee Vote Fight Being Probed By Grand Jury.

Nashville, Tenn.—Developments resulting from the bitter suffrage fight in the Tennessee legislature came thick and fast immediately following the first vote of ratification by the lower house.

Judge Debow charged the grand jury in the Davidson County criminal court on the subject of efforts improperly to influence or corrupt the law-making body of the state. Two Nashville newspapers published affidavits charging that undue influence had been brought to bear on Rep. Burn, Republican, of McMinn County, to change his vote in favor of the federal amendment, and Mr. Burn, in a communication to the house, bitterly resented charges, declaring them utterly false.

MINE WAGE CONFERENCE FAILS

No Agreement Reached At Meeting of Operators and Workers.

Cleveland.—Miners attending a conference of the joint scale committee of the central competitive field—Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and Western Pennsylvania—held a policy meeting following failure of the joint conference to agree on the miners' demands for increased wages, adjourned sine die after voting unanimously that miners in each of the four states will seek to make a supplemental and separate agreement with operators in the field.

This practically disrupts the central field as a basing point. Inasmuch as the joint conference was called by President Wilson for the purpose of adjusting inequalities existing in the present wage scale agreement, operators and miners sent separate telegrams to the president advising him of the failure of the conference to reach an agreement.

The story did not get to Miss Riley in expurgated form. An uncomplimentary remark had been made about her—"Oh, nothing of any consequence—bless your heart, no!"—and "James" had thought himself called upon to defend her with his fists. "Idiotic boy!"

Win Shute, in his wholesome and innocent view of things, believed that the unfortunate affair in the smoking room would be hushed up. Having liberally rewarded the steward for the trouble that had been caused him, and thinking that "those present" would treat the episode from the standpoint of the least said the quickest forgotten, Win went about in high spirits, as if nothing had happened—headed straight for Miss Riley.

They were getting on famously. Together they had won many of the events in the sports, and at ship's tennis, which required agility and a sure, quick grip on the elusive open rings, they were in the finals to be played that morning. Miss Riley couldn't have avoided seeing him had she been so minded. They won, and were proclaimed champions of the sea—at least of that part of it dominated by the steamship Colonia.

It had been a hard-fought match, in which physical condition played not a small part. Miss Riley rather amused Win as they were resting in steamer chairs on the boat deck by saying:

"You seem to be pretty fit."

"Fit?" His tone had in it a shade of sarcasm. "I'm always fit—always ready to jump in and play—anything."

"Always?" She looked at him quizzically.

"You must have a splendid constitution."

"I have—but I don't abuse it. I want to last." This had a queer meaning, he saw too late, but he didn't try to explain.

To his surprise she said, quite impulsively: "I do believe that's true." And for emphasis she rested her hand for a moment on his sleeve. Her touch gave him an odd thrill.

Miss Riley got up to go to her stateroom, and then, as if under the spell of impulsiveness, added quite shyly:

"It was good of you to take my part in the smoking room."

"You didn't hear?" asked Shute, his face horror-stricken.

"Oh, I didn't hear verbatim what was said about me," she explained, her tone a little hard. "But I can imagine. Men are such brutes—most men. And I wanted you to know that I—I liked what you did, no matter what others say about it. I must go now."

She slipped away, leaving Win happy and angry, turnabout; happy at her unexpected tender of gratitude, angry at the man who had blabbed. But happiness soon took the ascendancy. In his limited experience he hadn't much to compare it with, except breaking into the majors the very summer he graduated from college. This, on second thought, seemed a most unhappy comparison, as Miss Riley didn't care for baseball.

Then she could never care for a professional ball player! He hadn't thought of it before, but now, for some imperative reason that he didn't try to analyze, the idea forced itself upon him. If she couldn't care, what then?

"We land at Gibraltar tomorrow," Win Shute heard a passing remark, and suddenly it dawned on him that the day he once had looked forward to most keenly, but which he had almost forgotten, was at hand. At last he could move against his enemies! Now he could establish his identity!

But something held him back. Miss Riley wasn't fond of baseball! She had come to like "Mr. James," but would she, a "real swell," ever look with favor upon Win Shute, professional ball player? He shook his head gloomily.

Looking upon the much-advertised rock next day, he wasn't at all impatient to leave the ship.

"Going ashore?" inquired a voice at his side. It was Jed Mansel, the wireless operator.

"Spoke so," answered Shute without show of enthusiasm.

"Why not join me? I know the spot and the ways of the native holdup artists. I'll act as guide if you say so—glad to."

Never before had Jerrold Mansel offered to do him a favor. Their only contact after the first day's consultation over the wireless messages had come in rivalry over Miss Riley's time. Now the hero of the Regent was bent of friendliness. Win Shute's angles, already sufficiently aroused regarding Mansel, were considerably augmented by this urgent invitation. But he smiled as he might have done in facing a pitcher who had something "on" him.

"Thank you—I've no time for slight-seeing. I have some business to attend to here."

Win Shute was off the ship among the very first—before the wireless operator; he saw to that. He hired a conveyance and ordered the driver to make tracks for the cable office.

"If you get there before anybody from the ship I'll give you double fare!" promised Shute—and he had to.

He wrote out a long message to Tris Ford, explaining in detail what had happened to him and how he had done his best to communicate by wireless, and how he stood over the operator while he sent it. Then he asked how long it would take to get an answer.

"From two to six hours," was the reply.

"I'll wait," announced Shute.

"But don't you want to see the fortifications?" asked the operator.

"You will have ample time."

"I want to see nothing except the reply to that message," replied Shute, sitting down and making himself comfortable for a long wait.

After six hours of waiting, the operator handed him a cable dispatch. It read:

"Ford out of town. Report to American consul, Naples. Do you need money?"

It was signed by the club's secretary.

He cabled in answer to address him to the ship in no hilarious frame of mind. He read and read and read.

Wireless messages—he had seen Mansel hand her more than one—and Shute decided that the operator was taking this means to keep in touch with her. Whereas a steward would carry Marconigrams to other passengers, Jed Mansel invariably delivered Miss Riley's messages himself. Naturally this attention would be recognized by an appreciative person like Miss Riley.

That Jerrold Mansel was downright crooked, there wasn't much doubt. But Win had to admit that his proof was far from conclusive. Tris Ford's wireless was a fake—but there was the possibility of faking somewhere along the line of transmission. Mansel had bet heavily against the Giant-killers—but so had thousands of other persons. The operator's remark about the player who would be missed from the line-up was strong circumstantial evidence against him—and still it could have been a "second guess," he might have heard after the series that one of the best men had been out of the game. Certainly there wasn't enough solid proof to warrant Win Shute in denouncing the wireless operator.

And if he did—if he warned Miss Riley against Jerrold Mansel—it would involve a disclosure of the fact that he, James Winton Shute, was a professional baseball player. He wasn't ready to make that admission. The fact that the finest girl didn't care a hang for the national pastime constituted a mighty serious problem. It wasn't pleasant to continue to masquerade as "Mr. James," but it was an incognito enforced. So things were permitted to drift.

It was moonlight on the Mediterranean, the last night but one of Win Shute's long voyage to Naples from unconsciousness. He had started out to act the part of a "trusty"—to do nothing against the captain's authority, but secretly to work toward one end, namely, the circumvention of his enemies. After a fortnight at sea, although he was naturally interested in his own case, he had lost much of his violent anger against those who had forced him to become a passenger on the ship. For if they hadn't—if he had remained at home—he would not have met the finest girl! As Tris Ford would have said: "There ain't nothing to that."

It was early, scarcely dark, but with a full moon, and together they were on the lookout for the first sight of Genoa. They had arrived at that important stage of their acquaintance when the original discovery was to be made of front names.

"You've never told me your name," he urged.

"Mother always calls me 'Girle,'" she responded, half in fun.

"I know—but I never was strong for pet names—in public, I mean. Tell me your real name."

It was Miss Riley. "May I speak to you, please?"

Her Touch Gave Him an Odd Thrill. championship—the plot against him had been thoroughly successful! And he was no nearer spotting his enemies than he was before going ashore. And Miss Riley didn't care for baseball! This seemed to cap the climax. Strange how values change in a voyage across the Atlantic.

Aboard ship he ran upon the ship's doctor and the wireless operator in close confab. Win Shute was not curious until he caught the doctor's words:

"The Giant-killers lost. I see by the Dispatch, and you won. I'll pay you when we get paid off."

"My tip was pretty good," admitted Jed Mansel. "I made quite a killing. Cleaned up two thousand dollars."

"Two thousand?" repeated the doctor. "You were lucky."

"Not lucky—wise," corrected Mansel, winking slyly. "I knew that one of the Giant-killers' best men couldn't play."

Win Shute was certain. The wireless operator was a crook. He was a party to the devilish conspiracy that had drugged and put him away on the ship!

Rage such as he had never felt in all his life consumed him. He could not curb his desire to hurl himself upon Mansel and beat him to insensibility. But as he was on his toes to spring, a restraining hand was laid upon his arm.

It was Miss Riley. "May I speak to you, please?"

Reluctantly Win Shute turned from his enemy. He and Miss Riley walked along the deck until they were out of hearing of everybody.

"I looked for you before the passengers went ashore," she said. "You see," she went on, then faltered—"you see—I wanted to ask a favor of you." She stopped.

The ship's mystery unaccountably flashed across Win's mind! But he didn't pause a second in replying: "Sure! Ask something hard. Wish I could do a real big favor for you."

"You can. I gave a queer feeling that something is going to happen. It's perfectly silly, of course, but—if something should, will you look after mother? She is so devoted to me and so dependent on me that I don't know what she —" Again she faltered.

"I sure will—and look after you, too," answered Win.

"That's so good of you. But don't trouble about me. It's mother I'm worried about." Then with a look of unconcealed admiration she concluded: "But I feel better now. It seemed to me that you were the only one on the ship that I could go to—the only one I wanted to trust mother to."

Notwithstanding the bitter disappointment of the day, Win Shute went into dinner that night with a heart as buoyant as a toy balloon. He was planning a walk and a talk by southern moonlight with Miss Riley.

But all evening she paced the deck in earnest conversation with Jerrold Mansel.

Win Shute figured out to his own

DADDY'S EVENING FAIRY TALE

SUN'S MOVING PICTURES

"I'm going to have an all day moving picture show today," Mr. Sun, "and I have engaged so many actors and actresses to take part. We're going to have our show along the side of a lake and over the lake and some scenes will be upon the shore of the lake."

So all the Sun Fairies came to the moving picture show. Mr. Sun likes to be very up-to-date though he is such an old, old fellow, so he has a moving picture show, pictures in which old Mother Nature and all her family help take part, and in which the Sun Fairies and many other little creatures take part too.

"I will announce the pictures," said Mr. Sun, "as I haven't a screen in readiness upon which to show what the pictures are going to be."

"The first picture will show a tower known as Kingfisher Tower, a beautiful tower on the lake. This is a picture like a travel picture one would see in the real moving pictures."

"I've heard they show pictures of different places and of interesting buildings and so forth, and therefore I am showing this picture."

And Mr. Sun shone upon the tower and all the little Sun Fairies looked at it and clapped their hands.

"Now you will see different stones, of all kinds of shapes and how they have been changing throughout throughout the season.

"And you will see a picture of children wading and of how the stones try not to be too slippery so the children will not fall. It is hard for some of the stones to take these parts for they have moss upon them and water weeds which make them slippery."

"Next you will see a row of beautiful forget-me-not flowers growing along by the side of the lake, and up on the side of the little bank from which a stream is running down."

"And you will see the children next gathering a basket full of these forget-me-nots and taking some of them home, dug up by the roots, so they can plant them in the gardens and care for them there."

"Next you will see bugs hopping out in the sunshine and you will see too that a very dark picture following shows the bugs hidden back of the rocks where it is cool for them and where they can rest. I do not throw my sunlight spot-light upon them as they wouldn't like it. So it is a very dark picture as you see."

Mr. Sun paused and then went on again.

"We will see what is known as the clearing—a lot of brushwood and trees which have been cleared away from the side of this hill overlooking the lake."

"It is growing up fast now and soon there will be no clearing! Behind the clearing you will see rocks—there is a fine quarry there from which builders can get rocks."

"There are thimble berry bushes along the lake-shore, with their berries which look like thimbles!"

"And the next picture shows a Children Wading, burning bush. It is not really burning but that is its name for it looks so feathery and like a fire when the glow is over and when it is still somewhat bright but rather smoldering."

"And you will see a row of blue bells. They are singing to help along this picture and their song, if you will listen to it, is this:

"We're singing for Mr. Sun,
We're the blue bells having great fun.
For we love to sing our songs of gladness,
Our songs of happiness, not of sadness.
We hope you like singing with your picture show,
Sing like ours so soft and low."

"You see," said Mr. Sun, "my picture show today has been one of scenery—like many a picture show is. I have all kinds, yes, Mr. Sun has all kinds of moving pictures. And you see one right after the other at my show just as you do at all shows!"

Father and Daughter Get Relief by Eatonic

R. J. Powell, Sweetwater, Texas, says, "Eatonic helped me at once, but it was my daughter who got the marvelous benefits. She could not even take a drink of water without awful misery, but it relieved her; she is feeling much better. All this from one box, so send me four more at once."

Hundreds of people now take eatonic; one or two tablets after each meal keeps them in good health, feeling fine, full of pep. Eatonic simply takes up the excess acidity and poisons and carries them right out of the system. Of course, when the cause of the misery is removed, the sufferer cannot help but get well.

You will find it a quick, sure relief for heartburn, indigestion, sour, acid, gassy, bloated stomach. It costs but a trifle and your druggist will supply you. If you don't feel well, you give eatonic a test. Adv.

Grandfather was telling the group of men he was a self-made man. "It has been a struggle," he boasted. "Just see how much property I have now, and when I came into this state I carried all my earthly possessions on my back."

His grandson in the crowd grinned. "Well now, granddad," he chuckled. "That wasn't so bad. You see I could right now leave this state in exactly the same condition you entered it."

WOMEN NEED SWAMP-ROOT

Thousands of women have kidney and bladder trouble and never suspect it. Women's complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble, or the result of kidney or bladder disease.

If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition, they may cause the other organs to become diseased.

Pain in the back, headache, loss of ambition, nervousness, are often times symptoms of kidney trouble.

Don't delay starting treatment. Dr. Kilmor's Swamp-Root, a physician's prescription, obtained at any drug store, may be just the remedy needed to overcome such conditions.

Meaning of the Name Ida. Ida and Ada are practically synonyms. In early times, however, Ada was believed to be derived from Adah, meaning ornament, and the name Adah was given to the wife of Lamech in the Old Testament. But later etymological authorities believe that Ada is merely a Latinized form of Adah, meaning happy or rich, and the same as the German Ida. Ida's gem is the turquoise.

"VOTES FOR WOMEN IN 1920" WINS

Washington and Tennessee Legislatures Ratify the Susan B. Anthony Amendment, Thus Giving the Necessary Thirty-Six States Out of Forty-Eight.

Victory Crowns Seventy Years of Persistent Struggle by Devoted Champions—Some Notable Features of the Long Fight for Equal Suffrage Through Amendment of National and State Constitutions—Some Names Made Immortal by the Contest.

Washington.—"Votes for women in 1920" wins. Washington and Tennessee have ratified the Susan B. Anthony amendment. This gives the 36 necessary states.

March 22 the legislatures of the states of Washington and Delaware met in special session, having been convened to pass upon the ratification of the Susan B. Anthony amendment to the Constitution—so called because it is the same form in which she drafted it in 1875, as follows: "The right of citizens of the United States to vote shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any state on account of sex."

Woman suffragists expected prompt ratification by Washington, and hoped to win in Delaware after a fight.

When these two legislatures met the facts of the ratification situation were as follows:

Ratification necessary by the legislatures of three-fourths of the 48 states of the Union.

Amendment ratified by 34 states, beginning with Wisconsin, June 10, 1919, and ending with West Virginia, March 10, 1920. Ohio ratification before the Supreme court.

Amendment defeated by six states between September 2, 1919, and February 17, 1920, as follows, in the order named: Alabama, Georgia, Mississippi, South Carolina, Virginia, Maryland.

Connecticut and Vermont have no regular session until 1921. Govs. Marcus H. Holcomb of Connecticut and Percival W. Clement of Vermont had refused to call special sessions.

When Miss Anthony began talking in public of "woman's rights" she was derided and hissed by the men in her audiences as a "freak of nature." Undismayed, she carried the campaign to congress and to the states. During the Civil war she demanded that women be given equal rights with the newly enfranchised negroes. The answer she got was: "This is the negro's hour." For several years after the Civil war Miss Anthony endeavored to secure an interpretation of the fourteenth and fifteenth amendments which would allow women to vote. Finally, in 1872 at Rochester, N. Y., she tried to force an interpretation by voting at the polls. She was arrested and fined. She refused to pay the fine, but was not sent to jail.

In 1875 Miss Anthony drafted the amendment to the Constitution which has now been ratified. In 1878 the amendment was introduced in the senate by Senator Sargent of California. It was defeated in 1887 and thereafter was not even debated in congress until 1914.

During the years the constitutional amendment campaign was making no progress the women won many victories in the states. They secured full suffrage in Wyoming (1890), Colorado, Utah and Idaho (1894), Washington (1910), California (1911), Kansas, Arizona and Oregon (1912), Montana and Nevada (1914), New York (1917), Oklahoma, South Dakota and Michigan (1918). They won presidential suffrage in Illinois (1913), Nebraska, Rhode Island and North Dakota (1917), Iowa, Wisconsin, Indiana,

Facts for Sick Women

Reliable Information

All American women know of the great success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in restoring to health women who suffered from ailments peculiar to their sex, yet there are some who are skeptical and do not realize that all that is claimed for it is absolutely true—if they did, our laboratory would not be half large enough to supply the demand, though today it is the largest in the country used for the manufacture of one particular medicine.

The Facts contained in the following two letters should prove of benefit to many women:

Buffalo, N. Y.—"I suffered with organic inflammation and displacement. When lifting I had such pain and bearing down that I was not able to stand up, and it hurt me to walk or go up or down stairs. I was going to a doctor without any result and he said the safest thing would be to have an operation. I met a lady who told me she had three operations and was not well until she took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I felt relief after taking two bottles."

Sacramento, Calif.—"I had organic trouble and had such terrible pain and swelling in the lower part of my side that I could not stand on my feet or even let the bed clothes touch my side. I gave up my work thinking I would not be able to go back for months. My mother advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as it had saved her life at one time, and it put me in a wonderful condition in a couple of weeks, so I can keep on working. I work in a department store and use the same for my mother's liver trouble and they see into. Everything used to turn sour on my stomach and the Liver Pills relieved that."—Mrs. A. Rogers, 503 Fargo Avenue, Buffalo, N. Y.

Compare your own symptoms with those of the women who have used this compound to cure their ailments and you may use these facts as a testimonial."—BETTY J. PARKER, 3320 M St. Sacramento, Calif.

AND THAT WOULD BE ENOUGH!

Surgeon Knew Just Exactly How Much Talkative Convalescing Patient Would Suffer.

She is a talkative young school teacher and he a surgeon, who is not much given to speech. Recently when he operated on her, her chattering preceding the operation almost drove him mad. After the operation, though, he forgot all about that and did all he could to alleviate her suffering.

The fourth day he dressed her wounds and made her comfortable in every way he could. Then she began to chatter and asked him question after question, the last one being, "Doctor, how am I really now?"

He remembered his experience with her talkative little tongue before her operation. "Oh, you're getting along splendidly," he retorted. "In fact all the suffering you will now have to endure is just to keep quiet."

Is Knowledge Power Here?

A high school girl wrote to her uncle a description of one of her new teachers. Among other things she said: "Her age lurks in the vicinity of fifty."

Back came his answer: "In thirty years from now my dear you will discover that age doesn't lurk in the vicinity of fifty. It doesn't lurk; it travels in high-powered autos and airplanes. Being forty-seven myself, I know. This is an example of knowledge being power—even in phrasing correctly."

FRECKLES

W. N. U. DETROIT, NO. 36-1920.

Susan B. Anthony.

W. Bickett had declared his intention of asking for ratification.

Washington ratified as expected. Delaware and Louisiana voted "no." Governors of Connecticut, Florida and Vermont refused to call special sessions. The Ohio ratification was upheld by the United States Supreme court. Under this decision Tennessee called a special session.

It is 70 years since the organized movement for woman suffrage was begun in the United States.

In 1848 Lucretia Mott and Elizabeth Cady Stanton called a woman suffrage convention at Seneca Falls, N. Y., which launched a "Declaration of Sentiments" and passed a resolution demanding equal suffrage.

These are two immortal names in American history. Lucretia Coffin Mott (1793-1880) was born in Nantucket, Mass., of Quaker parents. After teaching, she became "an acknowledged minister" of the Friends. She married James Mott, who worked with his wife against slavery.

Elizabeth Cady Stanton (1815-1902) was born in Johnstown, N. Y. Her father was a justice of the state supreme court. She married in 1840 Henry B. Stanton, a journalist and antislavery speaker.

Susan B. Anthony (1820-1906) joined with Lucretia Mott and Elizabeth Cady Stanton in organizing the woman suffrage movement. She became in time the real leader of the movement; certainly she was its militant suffragist. Born in Adams, Mass., she came of Quaker stock and early devoted herself to "temperance" (the prohibition of the day) and to the abolition of slavery.

SMALL STREAMS FURNISH POWER

Electricity Can Be Generated for Farm and Home Use at Very Little Expense.

CHEAP SUPPLY OF CURRENT

Great Shortage of Labor Makes It Desirable for Farmer to Take Advantage of Every Opportunity to Cut Expenses.

Many farmers unknowingly have on their farms a source of power that could be put to work at very little expense and could be made to fill many farm and domestic needs. This is the stream, large or small, that now runs away in wasted energy. Particularly at this time, when there is a great shortage of labor on the farms, it is desirable that the farmers take advantage of every possible means of utilizing power. Electricity, too, for farm and domestic uses benefits the farmer's wife as much as it does the farmer himself, for it relieves her of much of the drudgery of housework and adds greatly to the comfort of farm life.

The farmer's needs go hand in hand with those of the wife, so, in considering the size of the power plant to be made 10 feet instead of 5, the horsepower could be doubled. Or if the stream were twice as wide or twice as deep with but a 5-foot head the result would be the same.

The minimum conditions under which an installation should be considered are, roughly, a flow of 100 gallons per minute and a head of 10 feet, or the equivalent. Under these conditions the amount of electricity generated continuously is small, but by permitting the plant to run continuously and storing the current generated in storage batteries, a supply may be always at hand for the lighting and small power requirements of the farm.

Small and Large Plants.

A plant capable of furnishing current for as many as 50 to 100 lights for the house, barn, outbuildings, yard and drives; providing ample current for washing, ironing, vacuum cleaning, electric fans, toasters, percolators, hot plates, sewing machine, etc., for all cooking, heating of water and the house in the coldest weather, as well as for operating motors for all the various farming operations even during threshing time, necessarily must be considered the exception. On the other hand, the smallest plant which is worthy of consideration is one having a capacity of but eight to ten lights.

Between these two extremes, there exist today on our farms the means of developing thousands of plants large enough to supply between five and ten horsepower during all seasons of the year. It will be found that these plants will fill the needs of the average farm and provide an excess for emergencies. The cost may be considered well within the reach of thousands of owners today.

Where conditions offer the opportunity for development, the first step is to determine the quantity of water which is available. This may be done preferably by either the weir or cross-section velocity methods. Unless the stream is of such width as to entail too large an outlay for the construction of a weir dam, the former method should be used as more accurate results are obtained with it. Neither method requires any special technical skill if one will follow directions carefully. Both methods are described fully in Yearbook Separate 770, "Elec-

KEEP DUAL-PURPOSE BREEDS

Plymouth Rocks, Wyandottes, Rhode Island Reds and Orpingtons Are Most Favored.

On the average farm the poultry flock is expected to furnish eggs and poultry for the farmer's table as well as to produce a surplus for sale. For that reason it usually is found that the so-called general-purpose breeds, such as the Plymouth Rock, Wyandotte, Rhode Island Red and Orpington, which are good layers and at the same time makes suitable carcasses for the table, are best suited to the farm needs. A further advantage of good stock is the fact that the owner will take a pride in such a flock which he will not feel in a flock of mongrels, and as a result, he will give the hens better care.

INCREASE ALFALFA ACREAGE

Advantages of Fall Seeding Are Such That No Farmer Should Fail to Consider Matter.

Every farmer who contemplates an increase in his alfalfa acreage—and there should be a large number—can well afford to consider the possibility of getting some of it started next fall. Much, of course, depends on the soil, the location in the state, and the season, but the advantages of fall seeding are such that no one should fail to consider it carefully wherever there is a fair chance of success.

Combined With Another of Equal Size, This Stream Furnished Power for Lighting and Performing Many Farm and Household Tasks.

Installed, he should include her requirements as well as his own. The desirability of a dependable, convenient and cheap supply of electric current for use for light and power purposes on country places is so manifest that one is justified usually in going to some lengths to secure it. It is advisable to put in a plant somewhat larger than the needs of the moment require. An additional horsepower or two will not greatly change the first cost, while use will always be found for any original excess.

Supplies Over Ten Horsepower. A stream 10 feet wide with an average depth of 2 feet and flowing at the rate of 2 feet a second under a head of 5 feet is capable of supplying over 10 horsepower, according to estimates made by engineers of the division of rural engineering, bureau of public roads, of the United States department of agriculture, that have been investigating the utilization of farm streams as sources of energy for generating electricity. Ten horsepower is equivalent to about 7½ kilowatts, which is sufficient electricity for all lighting on the average farmstead and for operating motors for many of the usual needs for power, such as the washing machine, milking machine, separator, churn, feed grinder, fanning mill, etc. If the head could be of the court is lined with modern office buildings. But in 1820 it was considered a very genteel part of town.

Oliver Wendell Holmes lived in the old Province house for 18 years.

At the farther end of the court stands an iron-wrought archway, decorative in design, which was used in the early part of the nineteenth century as an entrance to the governor's garden, a part of the Province house grounds. This has been carefully preserved, as have the stone steps which lead to the lower level. The Province house was immortalized by Hawthorne in his "Twice-Told Tales."

The historic staircase now is gone, and only a portion of the exterior of the house is left. It was built in 1697 by Peter Sargent, a wealthy London merchant, and was considered one of the handsomest residences in town. During the days of its popularity the governor gave many balls there.

Not a Bit Curious. Mrs. Smith was all dressed up, and that plucked Mrs. Rogers' curiosity as she met her on the road.

"Going to town, I suppose?" asked Mrs. Rogers.

"No," answered Mrs. Smith. "Oh to see your sister at Glasgenville."

"No," was the sententious answer. "Going to see Cy's sister at the Corners, perhaps?"

"No, I'm not," came the positive answer.

"Well, my gracious!" exclaimed Mrs. Rogers impatiently. "Do you think I care a rap where you are going?"

The gentle stillness was suddenly broken by eerie sounds, apparently coming from the next house—a weird moaning, developing into heart-rending wails and howling shrieks.

Mr. Brown jumped up.

"It's Mrs. Wood's confounded gramophone playing Tost's 'Good-by,'" he cried. "Lizzle"—to his oldest daughter—"go and implore her to stop it! Tell her I'm ill—tell her we're all ill, anything you like, only make her leave off!"

The child obediently hurried out, and two minutes later came rushing back.

"It's not Mrs. Wood's gramophone, dad," she said. "It's the Murphys down the street opening a tin of corned beef!"

After Using.

The woman was the author of a cookery book that had been published at her request with wide margins and occasional blank pages for notes and additional recipes.

Often she had expressed a wish to see an old copy of the book and find to what use the blank pages had been put. One day in a second-hand book store her husband unearthed an old volume. Noticing that it had been annotated freely, he bought it. After a day or two he said:

"How about the notes in that cookery book? Were they interesting?"

"No," she said curtly; "they didn't amount to anything."

When he got a chance he looked through the book himself. Every note the book contained was a remedy for dyspepsia and kindred ailments!—Dallas News.

TRADE MARK

Great is the value of Service.

Though the product that a man sells has a wonderful reputation behind it for inherent worth, though it has the enduring qualities of the eternal hills and its appearance is a delight to the eye, if the seller thereof is not able to give you along with it that part of his own self and interest we call Service, it profiteth little.

A tractor may have the power to pull twenty plows through black gumbo without a slip, it may be able to run your largest grain separator and it may be a beautiful piece of machinery—when it runs—but unless it is backed up by the Service of the dealer and the manufacturer it is a poor investment.

Ten thousand dealers from Canada to the Gulf, from Maine to the Golden Gate, are ready to serve the Fordson purchaser. We use the word Serve in the fullness of its meaning for they are the same men who have Served the owners of the Ford automobile for years. The name of Ford has made good service commonplace in the light car field, and the same set of men who have performed this miracle are now doing the same in the tractor field.

Much more important is it that your tractor should be ready and working at all times, when seed is to be put into the ground before spring rains, or harvest must be hurried, than that your auto should be ready for a pleasure trip.

That's what Fordson Service means—keeping your tractor running. No long waits for repairs are in store for the Fordson owner. Every one of the ten thousand Fordson dealers carries a complete stock of repair parts in his own store.
