Vol. XXXVII

Pinckney, Livingston County, Michigan, Thursday September 9, 1920

OBITUARY

MRS. PETER HARRIS

Maria Dunn was born in County Longford, Ireland, June 1 1830 and died at her home in Pinckney Thursday September 2, 1920, aged 90 years, 4 months, and one day.

Her family arrived in the United States when she was a baby three months old and settled in Michigan when she was seven years old.

She married Peter Harris June 21 1849, and they immediately settled on the present home near Pinckney living in a log house while the new home was being built. In this home she has lived for the past seventy one years.

She was the mother of ten children, six of whom have preceded her to the Great Beyond; Ann Eliza, Sarah, Henry, Thomas, William, and Peter.

She was one of the oldest if not the very oldest of our citizens, and no doubt no one in this vicinity has lived on the same farm and in the same house for so long a period.

She was a genial, whole souled woman of fine personality, well beloved by her family, and most highly respected by the great number of friends she has made during her long lifetime. She was essentially a home woman and the good influence of her life may certainly be continued down through the generations.

The funeral services were held in St. Mary's Church Monday, Sept. 6; Rev. J. A. Crowe officiating; interment in St. Mary's cemetery.

MRS. JOSEPH W. PLACEWAY

Addie Jane King was born in Courtland Co., New York, March 2, 1854. When she was six months old her parents came to Michigan, and settled on a farm in Marion, where she grew to young womanhood. Previous to her marriage she was a successful teacher in the schools of the county.

Dec. 29, 1875 she was married to Joseph W. Placeway, who survives her. They spent nearly forty years on the farm east of Pinckney, then for a short time they resided in Pinckney, and later they moved to Howell. For a few months preceding her death they again lived in Pinckney, so that practically her entire life was spent in Livingston County.

Two children were born to Mr. Placeway; Firman J. died in early childhood, and Louise (Mrs. Guy Hall) who died away Feb. 10 1920.

Mrs. Placeway was a loyal neighbor and friend, helpful in sickness, ever ready with kindly words. During her last illness she remarked that she had always tried to be a "friend to humanity" and all will bear witness that in this she did not fail.

She died on the morning of Sept. 4 1920, at the age of 67 years, six months, and two days, leaving to mourn their loss, the husband J. W. Placeway; and sister, Mrs. George Wright; one brother, Chas. King, and seven grandchildren, seven nieces, and three nephews.

The funeral was held at the Federated Church, Monday, Sept. 6th, burial in the Placeway Cemetery. Rev. Cook of Pinckney officiating.

BYER--- VAN BUREN SWARTHOUT--- VEDDER

Miss Florence Byer and Mr. Glenn A. Van Buren were married in Detroit Saturday, Sept. 4.

Miss Byer was a well known Pinckney girl, a graduate of the Pinckney High School, and she was a teacher in the Pinckney school until she decided to take up a commercial course at Ypsilanti. After completing her studies she accepted a position last spring with the Frederick Stearns Co. and was with this company until her marriage.

This paper unites, with her many Pinckney friends in the best of wishes for happiness and prosperity.

THE LIVINGSTON COUNTY FAIR

Pinckney practically "closed up shop" Thursday and Friday in order to attend the County Fair at Howell last week.

Everybody went and everyone was well satisfied with the exhibits, sports, etc., and if Pinckney judgments is to be relied on, the Fair this year was one huge success.

The Howell ball team and fans was a surprised bunch when Howell was defeated by the Pinckney team. The game was a close one, but the Pinckney team won by a score of 10 to 9.

The Stockbridge team is taking a two week lay away from this county, having won repeatedly at the annual base ball tournament. Something ought to be done toward organizing a team that will win out even against the formidable Stockbridgeites.

One feature of the last game was the terrific hitting of Roche Sheban who played on the Fowlerville team. Not satisfied with pounding out singles he pounded out a three bagger and a home run—the homer winning him a fine new hat which was offered by a Howell concern to the first man to make a home run in the game and "Rube" was the man.

FLINTOFT FAMILY REUNION

The first reunion of the Flintoft family was held Labor day at the home of George Flintoft of Hamburg.

The following guests were present: Mrs. E.A. Taylor and daughter Miss Mary and son Will; Miss Rosa Flintoft and Mr. and Mrs. H.C. Bareis of Ann Arbor; Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo Flintoft and children of Pontiac; Clyde Flintoft and family and Stephen Flintoft and family of Jackson; Arthur Flintoft and family of Howell; Mr. and Mrs. John Schieferstein and daughter of Chelsea; Burt Taylor and family of Dexter, and Miss Carrie A. Taylor of Chelsea.

The oldest member present was Mrs. E.A. Taylor of Ann Arbor. A chicken pie dinner was served at noon, after wards a social time was enjoyed by all.

The following officers were elected: President, Miss Carrie Taylor; Secretary and Treasurer, Mrs. Arthur Flintoft of Howell.

The day drawing to a close all departed to their homes, declaring they had spent a very pleasant day.

The next meeting will be held in Ann Arbor July 4th, 1921.

SWARTHOUT--- VEDDER

An early fall wedding amid charming appointments was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Swarthout Wednesday, when their daughter Pauline M. was united in marriage to Mr. Herman C. Vedder of Detroit.

Promptly at high noon as the sweet strains of the Bridal Chorus, rendered by Madeline Bowman, filled the air with solemnity, the bridal party took their places under a huge white wedding bell. White and green dotted with many pink rosebuds formed an effective background for the service and, judging from the many cupids in evidence, Fate kindly smiled on this union. Rev. Cook of the Federated Church officiated, using the impressive Ring service, the ring being carried to the altar by little Marjorie Smith.

The bride was charmingly dressed in a frock of pale blue silk and carried a bouquet of pink roses and white smilax. The bridesmaid, Miss Laura Burgess of Detroit was beautifully gowned in pale blue Georgette and carried pink asters. The groom was attended by Lester Swarthout of Detroit.

Immediately after the ceremony a bountiful three-course dinner was served, covers being laid for twenty-five.

The tables were attractively decorated with pink roses and myrtle, the bride's table being centered by a parasol completely covered with pink rose petals. The ceremony was a most happy one and the guests departed with the best of wishes.

The family wishes to this popular young couple.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our deep appreciation to the many friends and neighbors who by word and deed have lightened the way thru the loss of our mother, Mrs. Peter Harris; also to those who kindly furnished autos.

HAS NO PAIN NOW

What Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Did for Mrs. Warner.

Onalaska, Wis.—"Every month I had such pains in my back and lower part of stomach I could not lie in bed. I suffered so it seemed as though I would die, and I was not regular either. I suffered for a year and was unfit to do my housework, could only wash dishes once in a while. I read an advertisement of what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done for other women and decided to try it. It surely did wonders for me. I have no pains now and I can do my housework without any trouble at all. I will always praise your medicine as I do not believe there is a doctor that can do as much good in female weakness, and you may use these facts as a testimonial."—Mrs. LESTER E. WARNER, R. 1, Box 69, Onalaska, Wis.

The reason women write such letters to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. and tell their friends how they are helped is that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has brought health and happiness into their lives. Freed from their illness they want to pass the good news along to other suffering women that they also may be relieved.

SATINS FOR FALL

Shimmering Material Promises to Replace Popular Taffeta.

Designers Have Changed Favor in Fabric—Quantities of Ribbon Now Being Used.

In preparing their models for autumn designers have turned to satin. In fashions we are constantly witnessing the rise and fall of favorites. The reign of taffeta was a comparatively long one for any fabric. Now it must relinquish its place in the spotlight to soft, shimmering satin. Taffeta really ran too swift a pace. If so much of it had not been used we might have had it with us for a still longer time. Even its practicability could not save it. Very few taffetas are shown for early autumn.

Quantities of ribbon, especially moires, are used on the satin dresses. Dressmakers appear to have suddenly turned their attention to moire ribbon as a trimming. In most of these satin frocks the Egyptian influence seen in the more elaborate creations of early spring is apparent. Now it is modified, taking the form of loose hanging panels and ribbon sashes placed about the tips in perfectly straight lines; the sash is not crumpled at all.

Belts consisting of two lengths of moire ribbon finely plaited and joined to either side of a narrow ribbon belt frequently are placed about the waistline, as such a belt would be too bulky to tie about the hips. The preference, however, is for the hip swathing girdle. Many of the black satin dresses have girdles of the material lined with white.

Brocaded crepe de chines are much in evidence. Crepe de chine, which was so popular in Paris earlier in the season, is only now being taken up to any great extent by American women. There are some perfectly charming crepe de chine dresses, dark brown in color, with large floral patterns brocaded in a shade even darker than the background itself. These are made skirt gathered at the bottom in harem effects. Ribbon panels falling from the neckline and caught under at the waist frequently are used.

NAVY GEORGETTE FOR FALL

Among the fashions displayed at the recent Chicago style revue was this one of navy georgette elaborately beaded in crystal, with green, black and silver satin girdle.

LIKE ROYAL BLUE AND BLACK

Color Combination Strongly in Evidence in Paris, According to Fashion Correspondent.

Royal blue and black together are much seen in Paris—black cloth, tailor-made, broadly stitched with royal blue, blue and black check made into cloak-coats, black satin and lace embroidered in blue with a thread of gold. Hats in black are trimmed with blue, or all-blue hats are worn with a black gown, notes a correspondent in the London Times. It is a rich and glowing combination.

Green is another favorite color this year. A jade green cloak over a black gown and worn with a black hat is a happy scheme; and green straw hats with black lace veils are successful with a black, or black and white costume. Green is amazingly popular for evening wear, although it is not widely becoming, and in most cases necessitates makeup. At the opera green dresses have been very frequent.

Strong colors have momentarily driven pale shades into hiding, and these Egyptian panels made of wide ribbon and ornamented at low waistlines with jet ornaments. Long jet necklaces are sold as part of the dress to complete the costume.

THINGS TO REMEMBER

(By United States Public Health Service.) Careless spitting spreads the disease. Sick persons should burn their spit.

Fresh air is as necessary to health as pure and nourishing food.

People should not sleep in overcrowded rooms, nor with closed windows.

Homes and workshops must be clean and thoroughly ventilated. Dirt and impure air are the allies of tuberculosis.

Always cover your mouth and nose with a handkerchief when you cough or sneeze and insist on others doing the same.

Though no one should ever sleep with a consumptive, a careful consumptive is not dangerous to those with whom he lives and works.

Persons with colds or coughs of long standing or persons who are losing in weight or strength should consult a doctor or go to a dispensary or clinic. It is dangerous to wait.

The large majority of people probably have had tuberculosis in their system, but they do not become sick with it because they take good care of their general health and strength.

Frock for Child.

An interesting frock for a child is shown in natural pongee, trimmed with henna raffia combined with wool embroidery. A bouffant hip line is obtained by means of pockets which reach the bottom of the skirt.

HAD USE FOR HIS MILLION MERELY MAKING IT WORSE

Zeb Would at Least Employ It to Good Advantage, as Far as It Would Go.

A party of baymen gathered round the stove in a little oyster shack on the Great South bay started the old, old question of what they would do if they suddenly came into possession of $1,000,000. Some bought great ocean-going yachts; others endowed schools, and one even offered to contribute his to help out the government.

The question finally came round to old Zeb Banks, noted as the ne'er-do-well of the fishing neighborhood.

"And now, Zeb, you've been keeping pretty quiet," one of them said. "Just what'd you do if you had a million dol-

A very junior officer was trying his first case. "Seven days confinement to camp," he snapped.

"Beg pardon, sir," whispered the company sergeant-major. "You mustn't give a sentence like that. You—"

"All right, then, fourteen days," retorted the sub.

"But, sir," pleaded the sergeant-major, "it's not—"

"Arf a mo', major," interposed the Tommy. "Don't check 'im again or e'll give me twenty-one. 'E ain't a horficer—'e's a hauctioneer!"—London Tit-Bits.

"What nice large strawberries!" said the lady in the market.

"Yes, ma'am; aren't they beauties?" replied the man with the near-white apron.

"How do you sell them?"

"Fifty cents a quart, ma'am."

"And are they just the same at the bottom of the basket as on the top?"

"Oh, yes, ma'am; fifty cents a quart, just the same."

Problem to Come.

Little Harry, the pride of a Brooklyn household, was one morning engaged in a wriggling and twisting series of maneuvers to get his arms through the sleeve of an undershirt and then get it over his head. After a number of vain attempts he called upon his mother for assistance, remarking: "Mother, when I get to be an angel and have wings how in the world am I ever to get my shirt on?"

change has bred a considerable contempt for foreign currency in the minds of certain Americans. The American father of one Yank who had stayed in France to "clean things up" had established a generous line of credit for him. Friend Son began to hit things up rather hard, and in consequence the father received a cablegram reading: "Your son's account already overdrawn 100,000."

To which he cabled back to the bankers:

"If you mean dollars, send him home; if you mean pounds tell him to be careful; if you mean those funny little things let him have all he wants."—American Legion Weekly.

Self-Centered.

"You have always been one of these skeptical people," remarked the reproachful friend.

"I must admit," replied Mr. Growcher.

"You even said the flying machine would not be a success."

MINERS AGREE TO PAY AWARD

SIGN AGREEMENT WITH OWNERS, BUT PROTEST; THINK FURTHER INCREASES DUE THEM.

100,000 DECLARE "VACATION"

Walkout in Defiance of President Wilson and Officers of The Mine Workers Union.

Scranton, Pa.—Anthracite operators and miners signed a two-year contract embodying the terms of the award made by the anthracite coal commission and approved by President Wilson.

The agreement was signed under protest by the representatives of the miners, whose scale committee will meet for the purpose of asking that the wage agreement be reopened and the mine workers be given such further increase as was done in the case of the bituminous coal diggers.

The scale committee went on record in a statement to the operator: that the award of the commission was "far from being satisfactory" and that it was economically unsound, disturbed the differentials, straddled the real issues, would cause confusion and react against harmony and co-operation.

While the negotiations were going on it was estimated that 100,000 of the 170,000 mine workers of all classes in the anthracite regions had quit work as a protest against the award.

The United Mine Workers organization has called on strike and the suspension which has been termed a "vacation" by the men has not been authorized, union leaders declared. One of the union chiefs said it was a "voluntary uprising" by the coal diggers as a protest against the award.

Under the award accepted contract miners will receive an increase in pay of 17 per cent; men employed by the...

Children Cry For

Special Care of Baby.

That Baby should have a bed of its own all are agreed. Yet it is more reasonable for an infant to sleep with grown-ups than to use a man's medicine in an attempt to regulate the delicate organism of that same infant. Either practice is to be shunned. Neither would be tolerated by specialists in children's diseases.

Your Physician will tell you that Baby's medicine must be prepared with even greater care than Baby's food.

A Baby's stomach when in good health is too often disarranged by improper food. Could you for a moment, then, think of giving to your ailing child anything but a medicine especially prepared for Infants and Children? Don't be deceived.

Make a mental note of this:—It is important, Mothers, that you should remember that to function well, the digestive organs of your Baby must receive special care. No Baby is so abnormal that the desired results may be had from the use of medicines primarily prepared for grown-ups.

STATE FAIR IN FULL SWING

Record Crowds Attend Seventy-First Annual Exhibit.

Detroit.—The seventy-first annual Michigan State Fair, which opened last Friday is, in point of attendance, the largest fair in the United States, according to G. W. Dickinson, secretary-manager.

A big program of entertainment was arranged for the entire ten days of the fair. There are horse races, auto polo and athletic contests, vaudeville acts and many other features besides aerial acrobatics.

The stock show this year is said to be the biggest ever held in the middle west. Entries in virtually every department are double those of last year. The premiums for this year's fair total $150,000, and this sum has attracted exhibitors from all over the country.

So many babies were entered in this year's baby show that the judging space has had to be doubled. Tents had to be placed in many other departments of the fair to take care of overflow exhibits.

Evidence obtained by postoffice inspectors, Mr. Burleson said, showed that the Chicago Postoffice Clerks' union attempted to solicit contributions of $100 each from a number of business men "who were patrons of the Chicago postoffice."

"S'all right so far, cap'n," replied the negro, "but Ah don' know how I'm goin' to like it when dem Germans shoots at me."

"Don't worry about that," replied the officer. "All you have to do is zig-zag." And he demonstrated.

The Latest Style.

"William Dean Howells," said an editor, "often joked about the latest styles."

"The minister made a witty reference to the latest style in his sermon, didn't he?" Mr. Howells said on Sunday morning to a young lady of New York.

"Did he? How?" asked the young lady.

"Why, didn't you notice?" said Mr. Howells. "He chose his text from Revelations."

Icelandic Trading Routes.
 Compared with the methods of Icelandic trading, North Sea routes are always in a haven. From October to March blizzards of snow and ice sweep the Icelandic coasts, and from December to the end of January there is only an hour or two of daylight. Icelandic vessels are much larger than North sea trawlers, and so marked is the difference between the two operations that an Icelandic skipper rarely works the North sea, and vice versa.

May Explain Egyptian Plague.
 When all the waters of Egypt turned to blood it must have been rather appalling. But Greece, in Calabria, beheld a similar phenomenon in 1831, when a fiery red cloud approached from the sea, presently covering all the heavens, and a rain of blood followed. When the rain dried, however, the matter that gave it its crimson hue was found to be volcanic dust which had been carried in the clouds and deposited by the rain drops.

WEALTH IN WEST

Canadian Farmers Confident of Record Grain Crop.

Boston Banker, Returning From Trip Through the Country, Tells of Rich Yields of Great Northwestern Wheat Fields.

A Boston banker, desiring to recuperate from a season of strenuous work, did what most bankers do, or should do, took a holiday, away from the confines of the city life. Canada was in his mind. He would make the trip, learn something of the country, breathe of its ozone and return exhilarated both in mind and body. On his return a few days ago, he told the reporter of the Wall Street Journal of the richness of the vast fields of golden grain that he saw on his trip through the Canadian West. Doubtless he broke his journey into the Canadian Rockies long enough to make an inspection of them. Who could help it, as from the car window were to be seen miles and miles of golden streaks, ranged row upon row away back to the lines of the horizon? He must have done so, for when he got back to the Hub, he was filled with enthusiasm over his trip and what he saw in Canada, and he had to get it off his mind. It was revealed in this way:

"Canada is getting strong, recovering by leaps and bounds from the depression caused by war. While unrest and lack of co-operation seem to be holding things back on this side of the border the Dominion to the north faces an era of unprecedented activity and prosperity. One of the basic reasons for this brilliant comeback is the rich yield of the great northwestern wheat fields."

That the crops in Canada, both east and west, are meeting the expectations of the farmers is a satisfying fact, which gives a positive assurance of a yield that will mean millions of dollars to the wealth of the country. There will probably be as much as two hundred million bushels of wheat to export, giving an added wealth to the country. In all parts the crop yields promises to be abundant, and with favorable weather from now on there may be expected a harvest that will equal if not surpass that of 1915. It will doubtless be pleasing to the many readers of this paper to know that the friends they have developing their farms in this region of big crops and good prices will participate in this wealth, and what will be more pleasing, is the knowledge of the fact that the wealth in which they will participate comes from big prices for a product produced from land purchased at a cheap price.

Western Canada has never known a failure in crops. There are districts where partial failures have been, but consideration should be given to the fact that the country, that portion of it in which the present grain growing lies, is from seven to eight hundred miles in length by half that distance in breadth.

Because one speaks of the wonderful success of grain growing there, there should not be lost sight of the fact that this is only one item in the wealth-producing possibilities. There is cattle raising, with all the advantages in every way that it possesses anywhere; the dairying industry is assuming remarkable proportions, and a great deal of attention is given to the development of this industry, which is so adaptable to the country, by both federal and provincial governments.—Advertisement.

Getting His Bearings.
One day as I was driving along I heard a crack in the vicinity of the rear wheel. Upon investigation I discovered all the bearings gone.

Not being able to continue, I sat down on the running board waiting for help. Before long a seedy-looking man came along in a car making so much noise that he had difficulty in bearing me.

I called out: "Hey, mister, do you know any place near here where I can get some bearings?"

The man looked around quickly, gave me a sly wink and said: "Sure, if you know enough to keep your mouth shut."—Exchange.

Not as She Expected.
A home town society matron of thirty-five underwent an operation this spring. On her recovery she was assured by her friends that the operation had taken ten years away from her looks. Laughingly one day she complained to the doctor: "If three hours on the operating table made me look ten years younger, why didn't you keep me there five hours and make me into a girl again?"

"Five hours there, my dear madam," soberly retorted the surgeon, "would have made you into an angel."—Indianapolis News.

The Double Squeeze

By HENRY BEACH NEEDHAM

PART III.—Continued.

"There was a doctor in the touring car—we got him, too; he's a sure-enough crook," continued Ford. "The doctor watched Shute every second of the ride to New York, keeping his hypodermic handy. But the lad didn't rouse before they got him to the Colonia's pier. Then they woke him up a little by slapping his face, so they could carry him aboard as if he was drunk—lots of young bloods are carried aboard steamers that way, I understand. They spilled liquor on his clothes and face, then called the ship's doctor—you know the ability of the average ship's doctor! Told him that Shute—who was booked as S. W. Jones—had been celebrating before sailing! The doctor looked him over and said: 'He's all seas over, all right.'"

"But weren't they afraid he might come to before the ship sailed?"

"They took care of that. After the ship's doctor had gone, the doctor crook gave him a hypodermic—enough morphine to keep him asleep till noon the next day, when the ship would be away out to sea. A liberal tip to the room steward, who didn't suspect anything wrong, and the greatest second baseman in baseball was shanghaied!"

"All for the purpose of making a killing?" asked the ambassador.

"The biggest killing the gamblers have made in years," said Ford. "Jake Stinger and his crowd are supposed to have cleaned up several hundred thousand dollars."

"But you've got him now—Jake Stinger!"

gambling—and I want to hit the gamblers a crack that they won't forget. Say—putting Jake Stinger in stripes means as much to me as putting a trust magnate in jail means to the president! Understand, he's got his heart set on it."

The ambassador smiled—but gave no sign. After a diplomatic pause he continued the conversation: "We ought to be able to bring Jerrold Mansel to time, somehow. He could be detained on the landing of the Colonia tomorrow and paroled in the custody of the British ambassador. Then it could all be fixed up diplomatically—quietly. I'll see Sir George Claughton at once."

Tris Ford looked puzzled.

"The British ambassador to Italy," explained John Bismar. "Great cricketer in his day—he'll take a keen interest in this case."

"Tell him if he'll help us out with Mansel I'll acknowledge that American baseball came from English cricket!"

"You're a born diplomat," was the ambassador's compliment.

"That's strange—for I happen to be an Irishman."

Tris Ford thought it a good joke.

If Win Shute marveled at sight of Tris Ford waiting on the quay at Naples, the manager of the Giant-killers returned the compliment and opened his mouth in astonishment. For James Winton Shute, quite evidently in the best of health, did not disembark alone!

On his arm, glancing up at him in perfect trust, was a timid, sweet-faced woman of middle age, whose wistful eyes confessed that she had been eyes gleamed. Then catching the look of understanding on Tris Ford's face, half humorous, half glad, he blushed—blushed as a bush leaguer sometimes does when returning to the bench after his first safe hit.

"You haven't been signed, have you?" asked the manager.

"Not yet," confessed Win, suppressing the inevitable sigh. "But I'd sign in a minute if she'd offer me a contract—contract with a reserve clause for life," he announced boldly.

Then he told all about it, ending with the why and the wherefore of his incognito of "S. W. James."

"She'll never care for me a second when she knows I'm a professional ball player. She's a dead swell." Win exuded gloom with every syllable.

"If she won't have you," said Tris Ford, "you wouldn't have her." This was not an Irishism.

"Tris—the unclad lad with the bow and arrow has winged me—might as well confess it."

"You don't have to tell me that," laughed Ford.

"Why not?" Win was startled. Had the world begun to guess?

"Because you haven't so much as referred to your own case—how you got aboard that ship, and how you were treated."

"Oh, I cabled that from Gibraltar. I'm all right—so what's the use both ering over it now?"

"Well, I'm—" Tris Ford didn't finish. His expression was enough.

"I know—you think I ought to be fighting mad at the crooks that put me aboard that boat drugged," said Win. "One way I am—another I'm not. If I hadn't been sent off on the crooks caught so far with about Stinger had anything to do with it. They're being paid big money, no doubt, to protect him."

"Then how do you know that he's mixed up in it?"

"We know that the fellow calling himself Walter Noble has done dirty work for Stinger before. He would probably go to the penitentiary for Stinger—for money."

"Then you're up against it?"

"Yes—unless we're right in the way we size up the case. You see," continued Ford, "the crooks had to do more than put Shute aboard that ship and keep him unconscious until she was out at sea. When he came to and realized where he was he'd naturally send a wireless to me. If it went through, why—I'd try to rescue him. Say—I'd have gotten from the navy yard a torpedo boat destroyer and overtaken him! The crooks guessed that. So what would they naturally do?"

"Try to hny the wireless operator!" answered the wily diplomat.

"They did better'n that, we figure. They made sure of their man and then put him on the boat—got him installed as the Matconi operator for the voyage."

"You don't tell me! Who'd they get?"

"You'd never guess. He's popularly regarded as a hero—the hero of the Regent."

"Wireless operator who saved the steamship Regent?" The ambassador was astonished.

Tris Ford nodded. "Jerrold Mansel."

"British subject, isn't he?"

"Believe he is. Does that complicate matters?"

"Somewhat. But we'll try to manage it," the ambassador assured Tris Ford.

"If you don't mind I'll give you our position in regard to Jerrold Mansel."

"Certainly—go ahead," said the ambassador.

"We have no desire to prosecute Mansel—provided we can get from him proof which will convict the 'man higher up.' We aren't bothering with the tools."

"Anyhow, that man Mansel saved many lives—protected women and children—when the Regent was sinking. That deed shouldn't be forgotten—and we ain't going to forget it. We look upon Mansel as the victim of other men's greed. First, a greedy theatrical manager tempted him to commercialize his heroism—then cast him adrift when he was no longer a box-office attraction. Mansel was broke, got to drinking, and had no job. He was just ripe for Jake Stinger to pluck."

The ambassador nodded vigorously. "So if Mansel will confess—and name the man higher up—"

"We're satisfied," finished Ford. "We're after Jake Stinger. And it ain't just for revenge. The only menace to the integrity of baseball is the mother of a particularly attractive daughter.

Win Shute bowed Tris Ford over with his effusiveness. "How are you, old boy? Ticked pink to see you! Let me introduce you to Mrs. Leonard—Mrs. Leonard, Mr. Carlingford—Isn't this sky some blue!"—all before Tris Ford could get in a word. Incidentally, Win Shute had never said "Carlingford" on any other occasion. Pulling the manager aside, while Mrs. Leonard obediently examined the sky once again, Win whispered: "My name's James—S. W. James—remember! Explain later."

Getting the sign, Tris Ford nodded. "When's the next train to Rome?" asked Win, smiling significantly upon Mrs. Leonard.

"I don't know exactly," answered Ford.

"Must start at once," announced Win.

"W-h-a-t for?" Tris Ford could not suppress his curiosity entirely.

"To see the American ambassador."

The manager's face brightened. "He's here—on the dock—waiting for—"

Win scowled.

"—for an American he has to meet," completed Ford.

"After he sees his friend—whoever he is—have the ambassador look us up at the Excelsior—that's the top-notch hotel, isn't it?"

"Mebbe it is," acknowledged Ford. "I'm stopping there."

"On our way," ordered Win, rather arbitrarily. But he winked at Tris Ford.

"I'll join you there in—half an hour," said the manager, "after I've arranged with the ambassador. Say—John Bismar's all right. Why—he's a real fan."

But Win Shute was hurrying away—out of range of the human ear. With Mrs. Leonard he rattled off in a one-horse victoria fortified by a taxi-fare register. That's why he didn't see the wireless operator of the Colonia taken from the ship and paroled in the custody of the British ambassador.

At the time agreed Tris Ford knocked at the door of S. W. James—for so James Winton Shute was registered at the hotel in Naples. "Shall we talk here?" Ford asked, "or go to my room?"

"Here—Mrs. Leonard is across the hall."

"Say—who's this Mrs. Leonard and what's the game?" demanded Tris Ford. "You didn't wise up to it, but the American ambassador was down on that dock looking for you."

"Honest? Are you next to the ambassador?" Win Shute asked eagerly.

"Sure I am. The president of the United States has 'released' him to me." There was a matchless smile.

"Fine business! Now you can help me get Miss Leonard out of trouble."

"Miss Leonard?—daughter—"

"Only daughter—only girl!" Win's side to side, looking the while like a fair reproduction of Resignation. He asked the king of second basemen if he had any objection to further activities on the manager's part to land the chief crook in prison. Win Shute had none, provided he was not dragged into it until he had made his "play for the girl." But when Tris Ford sought information about Jerrold Mansel, there was a protest.

"See here, Tris," argued Win, "what Mansel did to me—suppressing my messages and faking a wireless from you to the captain—was rotten bad, I know. But let me tell you something: at the same time he was protecting Miss Leonard!"

"How?"

"The captain of the Colonia was getting messages asking him if a person answering her description was aboard the boat—she traveled under the name of Riley, remember I told you. Same time she was getting wireless messages from some friend ashore warning her. As I understand it, her wirelesses were in code—but she didn't have the right code with her; so couldn't read 'em, and had to ask for translations in plain English. Of course then the wireless operator spotted her. But Jerrold Mansel didn't give her away to a soul on the ship—not even to the captain!"

"What's more—he didn't take advantage of his inside information; he didn't try to work on her sympathies because he was shielding her. There's some good in that chap yet."

Tris Ford gave assurances of fair dealing in regard to the wireless operator—for Miss Leonard's sake! Abruptly he asked the young lady where she was. He was told that Imogen Leonard was detained in the best hotel at Genoa, which was surrounded by guards, and that Win Shute wouldn't have left her there alone if she hadn't insisted that he take her mother to Rome to see the American ambassador. This mission had made it possible for Win to obey the cablegram directing him not to leave the ship until arrival at Naples.

The ambassador of the United States of America accredited to Italy welcomed Tris Ford with a broad, somewhat-a-big-boy-am-I grin. Ford could guess—'twas the symbol of accomplishment.

"Job's done!" exclaimed John Bismar. "Jerrold Mansel has confessed and incriminated that scoundrel Stinger! Seems it took a lot of work and pull to get Mansel reinstated as an operator and assigned to the Colonia. The wireless company had kept tabs on him—knew he was drinking and slipping down grade—and they weren't keen to have him back at the key Jake Stinger had to give that part of the plot his personal attention. He dealt directly with Mansel. So you'll set your man higher up, all right."

ALEX. J. GROESBECK.

WOODBRIDGE N. FERRIS.
Democratic Nominee for Governor

Alex. J. Groesbeck, of Detroit, received a plurality of about 25,000 votes in the nine-cornered contest for the Republican nomination for governor. Milo D. Campbell of Coldwater ran second. Early in the race, the latter led by a slight plurality but Groesbeck took the lead as soon as returns were made from Wayne county and other districts where heavy votes, comparatively, were cast.

Milo D. Campbell, led by 13,000 over the third contestant, Charles S. Mott, of Flint, while Mott men more than 25,000 ahead of the fourth aspirant, Frank B. Leland, of Detroit. Fred C. Martindale, of Detroit; Luren D. Dickinson, of Charlotte; James Hamilton, of Detroit; Cassius L. Glasgow, of Nashville; Horatio S. Earle, of Detroit, follow in order.

In Wayne county Groesbeck bested Campbell about 4 to 1, his total plurality in Wayne county being about equal to his total plurality in the state. Both Mott and Leland ran considerably ahead of the Coldwater candidate in the city.

Speaker Thomas Read, of the last house of representatives, was an easy winner over Scully, having accumulated a lead of approximately 75,000.

Popularity of the Shelby man was manifested in almost every county, his pluralities being general throughout the state.

The uncontested Democratic nominations, with Woodbridge N. Ferris, of Big Rapids, as the candidate for governor, and Guy M. Wilson, of Flint, for lieutenant governor, paved the way for a large number of Democratic voters to participate in the Republican primary.

In Wayne county especially is this situation believed to have helped Groesbeck, for the Democratic vote in Wayne county was especially light.

PLANTING TIME FOR WHEAT

East Lansing, — That wheat growers of the state must be careful to plant at a "fly free" date, in order to avoid loss from Hessian Fly, is the statement of Prof. J.F. Cox, head of the M.A.C. farm crops department. These safe planting dates vary greatly for different parts of the state, local conditions governing the time.

Hessian Fly has caused great damage in Michigan wheat growing sections, says Prof. Cox, "particularly in the southern part of the state. For this reason it is highly advisable for wheat growers to plant at a fly free date—late enough to insure protection from the fly; and early enough to give time for sufficient top growth in the fall to carry through the winter.

In Ingham County, at East Lansing wheat should be planted from Sept. 20 to 25. The college entomology department is keeping close watch on the fly conditions and can furnish on request information regarding best planting dates for individual counties, based on fly situation. In general, wheat should be planted in the lower two tiers of Michigan Counties between Sept. 20 and 25; in the two central tiers Sept. 15 to 25; in north central Michigan, Sept. 10 to 15; and in northern Michigan August 25 to Sept. 5. It is difficult to generalize accurately, since the planting date is a local question.

When the fly is very plentiful in the later days of these periods, it is advisable to plant before the date, so that if wheat is planted too late in Michigan a decrease in the possible yield can surely be expected, but it is equally important to control the fly infestation.

PEARL MOSQUE WELL NAMED

Structure at Agra, India, Admittedly One of the Most Beautiful in the World.

Among the most beautiful of Shah Jahan's sculptured monuments is the Pearl mosque at Agra. The entrance gateway of red sandstone contrasts effectively with the interior of white and blue-veined marble. An inscription in letters of black marble states that this mosque may be likened to a precious pearl, for no other mosque is similarly lined with marble.

The Indian influence upon Mahometan architecture of this period is evidenced in the lotus petal cap decorating the domes and in the purely Hindu finials, legitimate Mahometan mosques bearing instead the simple spire, with the star and crescent. The foliated arches come from a Buddhist source, symbolizing the lotus-leaf shaped aura around the body of Gautama. The pointed upper foliation is derived from the shape of the leaf of the bodhi, or pipul tree, under which Gautama attained to enlightenment and Buddhahood, and is commonly used in Buddhist idolatry to indicate the nimbus around the head.

The master builders of Mogul days were chiefly Indians from Bengal, and since they were artists and artisans rather than mechanical workers much of the inspiration of the architecture of this period must be accredited to them.

GREAT WORK OF TEACHERS

Theodore Roosevelt's Tribute to Their Services to the Country Surely Well Deserved.

Moreover, as an incident to your teachers' avowed work, you render some well-nigh unbelievable services to the country. For instance, you render to this republic the prime, the vital service of amalgamating into one homogeneous body the children of those who are born here and of those who come here from so many different lands abroad. You furnish a common training and common ideals for the children of all the mixed peoples who are here being fused into one nation.
